

Area Farmer Proves Recharge Principle on 10-Inch Well

Corral Drive-In Opens in New Location Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dyer are announcing the formal opening of their new Corral Drive-In, located 6 blocks west of the old Corral on north side of the highway, for Saturday, May 19.

They will have a large parking area outside car service, and plenty of space and counter stools for those who prefer to be served inside. The building is painted turquoise with bright yellow trim and doors.

The inside has natural wood panel walls, with yellow ceiling and turquoise plastic covered stools. The building is modern throughout and the Dyers stated they would be prepared to give better and more complete menus.

For their formal opening Saturday, they will serve coffee and doughnuts to all grownups, and ice cream cones for the youngsters.

They told him it couldn't be done, but he went ahead and "done" it anyway.

The "he" in this case is H. M. Gable, of the Y-L, Pleasant Valley community, and what he did in spite of all the warnings it wouldn't work, makes one of the most interesting stories in this area of what farmers are doing to make more efficient use of their underground water.

Mr. Gable has nine sections of land that adjoin, and one quarter section of the land is a lake. He has put a 10 inch well in the center of the lake, and briefly that is the crux of the story.

But the unusual feature is that by running underground concrete pipe to all the high points in the quarter, he can water the entire area and have no worry about waste water or tail water, because all the water that is not absorbed around the plants drains back down to the well and into the ground at the well site.

Mr. Gable located the center of a natural basin on the quarter section and sunk a 10 inch well there. He then pumped sand for about 25 or 30 days until the well cleared up. More than 50 loads of gravel were put into the well before perforated casing was sunk to a depth of 232 feet. The perforations extend the entire length of the casing from the bottom to nine feet above the ground level where the pump and motor are located.

Only one rain of any consequence has fallen since the well was installed two years ago, and no actual results as to recharge from rainfall have been determined, but Mr. Gable thinks when it does rain, the well can absorb the water fast enough to prevent damage to the alfalfa planted on the quarter.

He has the area in alfalfa for two good reasons. First, the alfalfa requires less attention and care than row crops, due to the sloping terrain, and second, the hay can be put to profitable use just across the road where the Gable feed lots presently take care of 50 head. More pens were being built last week when the accompanying photo was made.

"I think every farm that has a lake on it should have some means of making use of the recharge principle", Mr. Gable said. "I realize that not every farmer would be willing or able to invest $30,000 in such a rig, but this plan could be undertaken on a pro-rata basis, or else by county appropriations."

A lot of experimenting went into the well. When it was first beginning, Gable noticed that large bubbles appeared around the well site when waste water was being absorbed. He sank a vent pipe alongside the casing, and by allowing the air under ground to escape, speeded up his recharge time.

"I don't know where the water goes after it is absorbed into the ground around the well. I think it goes back into the water bearing sands, but I have no proof. I have been running the well for over two years now and have not had to lower it an inch", Gable remarked.

When he first started planning the recharge well, Mr. Gable received many assurances that the idea was not practical and would not work. But he was determined to try alone, and his determination has paid off.

He cannot state positively that the well has cut down on the amount or frequency of watering but he does know that by absorbing the tail water into the ground at the well site, he is conserving a lot more water than if it was allowed to stand on the surface and evaporate.

Many farmers in this area would do well to study the recharge experiment on the Gable farm, with the view to adapting the principle to their own farm and water problems.

County May Hire Full Time Social Worker

The Bailey County Commissioners Court met here Monday, and among other items discussed, spent considerable time talking of ways and means of handling the increased amount of requests for relief from needy and indigent families and individuals in the county.

Appearing before the court Monday afternoon was Frank Ford, principal of the Muleshoe elementary school, and Dr. B. O. McDaniel, county health officer.

Ford told some of the problems of the three local schools experienced in taking care of the food, clothing and medical needs of approximately 50 students in the three schools.

At the time of the meeting, Ford said that 53 children are being given free lunches in the school cafeterias. How many of these children are of needy indigent families, and how many more there are that need to be given lunches is not known by school authorities. Oftentimes, Ford said, children will not ask for aid because of pride.

The need for a full time social worker within the county was discussed by the Commissioners. Most of them expressed the opinion that a social worker would have a full time job investigat-

Only one other bid was received last Wednesday, that being from the Thomason Construction Co., of Lovington, N. M., for $235,589.

Work on the paving project is expected to begin in approximately six weeks, and estimated cost per front foot to property owners has been set at $4.50 per front streets and $3.50 for side streets, the difference being in the width of the streets.

Miraclon New Name of Cotton

You hear a lot of talk these days about blends of fibers in textiles—70 per cent "miraclon" and 30 per cent cotton. The only reason for blending is to overcome the shortcomings one fiber possesses by mixing it with another with compensating properties. Blends are offered more frequently today because certain fibers have serious shortcomings, and thus, for the most part, have not been successful in their own in apparel and household articles. Synthetic fibers fall into two general classes: the non-absorbent types, and the absorbent types. Orlon, Dacron, Acrilan, and Arnel are examples of non-absorbent types. Nylon is poorly absorbent. Rayon and Vicara represent absorbent types.

Cotton, in blends, helps overcome the following shortcomings of non-absorbent synthetics: pilling, hole-burning, static, seam slippage, melting and sticking during ironing, glazing, hot and sticky feel, cold and clammy, non-absorbency, stretching, high price, limpness.

While cotton may minimize the disadvantages and shortcomings of some other fiber, even cotton can't entirely overcome all of the faults listed above. Moreover, the full value of cotton's properties is diluted when it is blended.

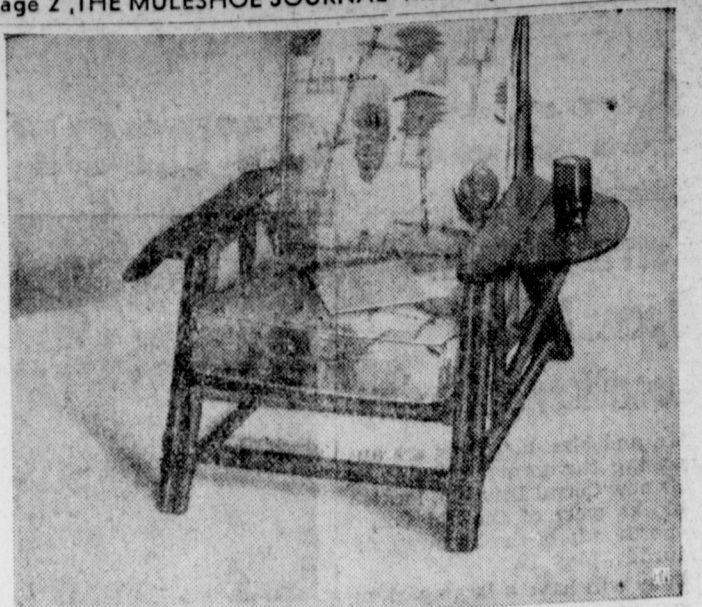

To get the benefit of cotton's appearance, dependability, and economy, chooses only articles made 100 per cent of cotton. The only real cotton is 100 per cent cotton.

This comfortable chair will provide a delightful porch setting for the summer months and can move into the living room, den, or playroom in the fall. An important feature of the malacca chair is the arm extensions which give you an end table at both sides. They fold out of the way when not in use. The arm extensions are protected by a laminate finish which is scratch and dent resistant, and is unaffected by boiling water, alcohol, and fruit juices. It is also ring-free and cigarette resistant and can be cleaned easily with warm water and soap. (Heywood-Wakefield Co.)

Care of Cottons Calls For Plenty Of Home Laundry

Cotton washes easily, so wash cottons frequently and as soon as possible after use. Wash by hand or machine, dry on the line or in a dryer, and, for those cottons which need pressing, use a fairly hot iron.

In general, heavy duty laundry soaps and detergents are intended for the more rugged cotton fabrics. Mild soaps or detergents are all that are needed for light, delicate cottons.

It pays to wash bright or dark colors separately, at least for the first time, using warm soapsuds. Flush away any excess dye with several rinses. After that, extra care won't be necessary.

Bleach is fine for whitening cottons when needed but don't over bleach. Chlorine bleaches form strong acids, and should always be rinsed from the fabric. Always dilute bleaches according to instructions on the bottle.

bility; (4) ability to be bleached, plus acceptance of the fastest dyes; (5) resistance to heat; and (6) refusal to melt.

In addition, seams hold better in cotton. It resists fraying and raveling, comes from the wash truly fresh because it can take thorough laundering.

Some fibers lose half their strength when wet. They have to be babied. Others can't be tumble dried. Some glaze and melt under the iron. Still others will

Cotton Chintz On Comeback Trail, Say Fashion Wise

Cotton chintz is making a comeback in home furnishings, the National Cotton Council notes.

Modern chintz, its glazed surface permanently wedded to the fabric with new resin finishes, is a far cry from old-fashioned chintzes which often lost their finish at the first washing.

Housewives who have discovered the new chintzes in bright flowery patterns, are using the material for curtains, draperies, and boudoir chairs, especially in rooms furnished in a revival of the Early American style. It is also being used to an increasing extent for slipcovers.

Retailers have reported a recent surge of interest in chintz as a year-round fabric in floral, Provincial, and other designs. Popular color combinations include gray and pink; gold, pink, and blue; green and white. Many stores which had not stocked chintz in recent years are now offering it in a variety of patterns to meet the new demand. While chintz for some time has been considered a novelty fabric for kitchen, den, or bathroom, some patterns with special decorative appeal are now listed as luxury fabrics designed for use in the living room.

Chintz, named from a Hindu word which means "spotted", is now made by impregnating cotton print cloth with chemicals which create a permanent glazed surface; it is roller printed with gay figures or floral designs. Chintz is one of many fabrics which give cotton the overwhelming leadership in home furnishings; some 87 per cent of all household textiles are made of cotton.

Robt G. Holt To Leave US In June For Overseas Job

Pvt. Robert G. Holt, whose wife, Sally, lives in Muleshoe, is scheduled to leave the U. S. for Germany next month as part of Operation Gyroscope, the Army's unit rotation plan.

Holt's unit, the 3rd Armored Division, now stationed at Fort Knox, Ky., will replace the 4th Infantry Division in Europe.

Holt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Holt, Amherst, is a finance clerk in the division's Headquarters Company. He entered the Army in July, 1955 and completed basic training at Fort Knox.

A member of Kappa Kappa Psi sorority, Holt was graduated from Texas Tech in 1954. He is a former public accountant for Clyde Kilpatrick and Co., Tulsa.

New Uses Found For Terry Cloth Other Than Towels

Terry cloth is now being used to make a lot of things besides towels.

The National Cotton Council reports this traditional bathroom utility fabric is fast gaining favor in such uses as automobile seat covers, shorts, chaise lounge covers, curtains, pot holders, couch covers and aprons.

The growing trend toward casual living is putting terry cloth into many leisure wear items where the accent is on comfort and style—men's, women's, and children's shorts, jackets, and shirts. At the same time, there are now special terry constructions, designs for women's dresses, coats, and jackets that provide a new concept in the combination of appearance, style, ease of care, and economy, the Council reports.

Of even greater interest is the broad application of terry cloth in household and industrial uses. For the home: terry curtains and draperies, upholstery, play pen covers, pot holders, kitchen aprons, and waste basket covers for bathrooms. In the industrial field, terry cloth is used for filters, for window and background displays, and in spe-

They're Using Cotton Material In Wallpaper Now

Cotton makes wonderful wallpaper!

According to the National Cotton Council, coated cotton makes a tough and durable wall covering that can be kept clean and

High quality muslin — light, strong, and resilient — is scientifically coated with special paints. These are baked on so they will not fade. The result is a wall surface of fine texture and unusual durability. It is said that the fabric wall covering will last 10 to 15 years.

On occasional washing restores the original beauty and freshness of cotton wall covering. In addition, the fabric helps support plaster and prevents small "hair-line" cracks.

PROGRESS NEWS

The old alamo school building in Progress purchased and remodelled by the Methodist church, is nearing a renewed life of service. Approximately eight thousand dollars has been spent for material and labor. Improvements include a hardwood floor, and entirely new roof, windows replaced, and inside walls either built of sheet-rock or replaced. The kitchen contains roomy cabinets, a double sink, hot water heater, and stove.

Estimate of the cost does not include material and many man hours of labor donated by members and friends of the church. Jobs yet unfinished are floor sanding, crack filling, painting the walls, and furnishing the chairs and some other furniture.

The Progress Methodist church, which bought and remodelled the building, will of course have first priority in using it. However, it is the desire of the church to let the building serve the entire community. Any groups, especially such organizations as home demonstration and 4-H clubs, is welcome to use the facilities of the building by securing permission and by paying a standard minimum expenses of utilities, breakage, janitor work etc. The official board of the church recently elected a committee of three of its members to compile rules and set rental fees for use of the building.

Coach Morrison To Mentor West All Star Lineup

By Marion J. McDaniel

E. A. Works, executive secretary of the Texas Six-Man Football Coaches Association from Patton Springs, has notified Coach Claude Morrison of Bula that he will coach the West All stars at the Six-Man Coaching School in Kerrville July 30 through August 3. The game will climax activities on Friday night, August 3.

Coach Morrison, who holds a master's degree from McMurry College, is in his fourth year at Bula as head mentor of the Bulldogs. Although Morrison is a science major, he entered the coaching field "as offering the best opportunity for advancement." He, his wife, and two children moved to Bula in the fall of 1952 to accept his first teaching and coaching position. Mrs. Morrison has taught home-making the past two years. They are sponsors of the senior class. Because of his football record and his knack for mixing with the people, he has become well known in the area.

Following in the wake of Coach "Dub" Dukes, Morrison inherited a fine football team and racked up a 6-2 record in his first year. In the succeeding years his record has been amazing. During his second year his Bulldogs swept clean the district and trailed breath-takingly in a bidistrict encounter with Mobeetie; regional champions to be.

Modern ponderosa pine pane doors are available in a variety of modern and traditional designs to blend with the styling of any home. Colonial door is pictured.

A weatherproof receptacle (arrow) near the front entrance makes it easy to use your electric lawnmower in addition to providing a safe means of lighting your Christmas decorations.

Modern lines of remodeled house (top) contrast with the typical outmoded farmhouse shown in the "before" photo. Change in roof line and new asphalt shingle roof are responsible for much of the improvement in appearance. Floor plans are evidence of the increased livability of the house. Expansion of the living room and the utility room and addition of a porch and two-car garage increase space available. The room arrangement also improves circulation—the routes people in the house normally walk.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE!

By DOROTHY GILES

Well, I guess I will get to keep my job for a few more weeks now, thanks to you who read my little column last week, and sent your news in. It is sure a big disappointment to the boys in the back shop here because they thought last week when I didn't have anything to do, they were finally, at last going to get rid of me.

We sure fooled them, though. I have been so busy this week that my boss told me I was worth more money—course I know he is just saying that to make me work harder, because he says the same thing to the rest of the people who make like they are working here. I shouldn't talk about him that way, he might read this. All kidding aside, he is the best boss we have here at The Journal.

From the looks of all the engagement announcements and weddings that have come to my desk this week, Ole Cupid, the Society Editor's best friend, has really been at work. If it weren't for him, I don't know what us society editors would do.

All the clubs and societies met this week, too, "thank goodness," and there were even a few parties and showers.

One lady, who is a good friend of mine, wrote me a cute letter, which I enjoyed very much, and believe you will:

Dear Dorothy:

I read your article last week, where you said you wished someone would get engaged, married, dog bitten, or something, so that you would have something to put in your paper.

I decided after reading it, that I would tell you about our son. He graduated with the senior class of '53 from Muleshoe high school is a sergeant in the National Guard, and is single, but in love. She is "plane," but the way he talks about her you'd just know she had wings, and the way she carries on, you'd think she was cute as a "Pilot."

Most of the time when we see her, she has her nose in the air, and when he goes out with her he feels above everyone else. She is fast and loud, and people stare at her, but still our son brags about her features, her figure, curves and make-up.

Frankly, she scares me, as she looks like a "Cub", but is bigger than a bear. I worry a little every time he takes her out. I am afraid he is going to get a crush on her.

He has all confidence in her and told us that she was safe to be out with. When they are together they practically float on the clouds.

I know he is serious, because he already has his license. I also know of his desire to rise to higher levels in life, and here's hoping him "happy landings". Though I don't want to get in his path on the run-way of life. I hope he jumps to a conclusion and leaves her before she breaks him.

Sincerely,
His Mother,

Well, anyway, now I know how people feel when they get fan mail. I want to thank all of you again, who helped me out this week by sending in your articles and calling me. I didn't have to make even half as many phone calls as I made last week.

The serving table, covered with a white cut-work cloth, was centered with a clear crystal stork standing amid yellow gladioli, flanked by yellow candles in crystal holders.

Golden punch was served to guests with white iced individual cakes decorated with yellow booties. Plate favors were pacifiers, made of jelly beans and lifesavers.

Rosemary Agee, sister of the honoree, presided at the guest register.

Hostesses were: Mmes. Jo Adeline Mayhugh, Bobby Harrison,

Neighbors Plant Crop Wednesday For Wuerflein

More than 20 neighbors of George Wuerflein, Pleasant Valley farmer, gathered Wednesday morning to plant his grain cotton crop while Wuerflein is recovering from surgery in Baylor Hospital at Dallas.

George underwent lung surgery Monday morning, and was reported recovering nicely. But he has been in poor health for some time, and unable to get his crops planted.

Planting grain and cotton were 13 neighbors, including Leroy Hicks, J. H. Angeley, E. K. Angeley, Elmo Stevens, J. D. Lynn, Charles Martin, Kenneth Briscoe, Visal Glascock, Shorty Bickel, Doyle Turner, Roy Taylor, Curt Pitts, John Inman, and Alton Taylor.

Keeping the planter boxes full were Gerald Allison, Raymond Roubinek and several other neighboring farmers.

The men had hoped to keep busy at least until noon, when the women folks were to bring their dinner to them, but with the number of machines volunteered, they were skeptical that the work would last that long.

The dreaded pink bollworm is moving into cotton fields in all areas of Texas. When the cotton plants first start blooming, fields should be checked between 9:00 A.M. and Noon, daily, for about ten days for rosetted blooms. Rosetted cotton blooms indicate the presence of pink bollworm. The worm can be found by tearing open a rosetted bloom. Farmers should be on the lookout for pink bollworms, and are urged to contact their County Agent for control recommendations.

rived from the sale goes to maintain the Liquor Control board the other half goes to augment the state old age pension fund. Sheriff Freeman said he was glad to get rid of this much of the liquor, as his storage space was a bit crowded.

FOR A DRAMATIC ENTRANCE TRY "PLANTERS"

How to dress up a humdrum housefront? Here's an idea from an office building that is readily adaptable to homes. First, a "planter" to one side of the doorway, in this case built of natural-color concrete brick. Second, strong, neat-looking concrete steps. Finally, an unusual touch in the form of a concrete plant box actually set into the steps during construction.

Cotton Offer Host of Values

Lasting appearance, comfort, dependability and economy — four major qualities — are met better by cotton than by any other fiber.

In appearance cotton has better colors, keeps its fit, takes beautiful finishes, and holds its good looks after repeated laundering.

For comfort it absorbs moisture easily and is not clammy like some other fabrics. It can be adapted to loose weaves for maximum coolness in summer or can be woven tight and sturdy enough to turn an arctic blast. It is soft and gentle and non-irritating to the skin. Freshness is one of cotton's most engaging qualities. Cotton clothing looks fresh and clean, wholesome and healthy.

The fact that the Army chose cotton for its standard field service clothing attests to its strength and durability. It launders better than any other fabric and it resists shrinking and stretching. Many cotton fabrics are guaranteed to shrink or stretch, in use, less than one per cent.

While some other fabrics may cost more than cotton, they cannot compare with it in quality. The two synthetic fibers which sometimes are lower in price than cotton have low abrasion resistance, low wet strength, and poor laundering qualities. The one or two man-made fibers with good wear resistance sell at high prices, are uncomfortable, tend to melt and pill, and are susceptible to static electric charges.

Dependability Is Cotton Factor

The name "cotton" denotes dependability. Its qualities are known, its reliability proven, and performance demonstrated by generations of use.

Modern promotion places great emphasis on what is new and different. New fibers, new blends, new finishes appear every season. Today's consumers often can't tell whether the newest name means a fiber, a fabric, a finish, or a failure.

Science and technology have meant new glamor for cotton, too. New dyes and prints, new styles, and special new finishes make cotton more than ever the most wanted fabric. But in each new fabric, beneath every elegant new finish, the sturdy and dependable cotton fiber backs up consumer appeal with its solid, reliable performance.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Browning and three daughters, Danna Kay, 3; Janet, 2; and Debbie 1, have moved to Muleshoe from Lubbock, and he is employed by the Texico Company. They are members of the First Methodist Church.

Cotton Increase Seen in US Polls

Government polls reveal that cotton is increasing in popularity as the favorite fabric of the American woman.

A recent analysis of the Department of Agriculture shows cotton to be the strong favorite in 9 different clothing items — house-dresses (preferred by 94 per cent), summer street dresses (88 per cent), summer skirts (77 per cent), short sleeved blouses (50 per cent), sleeveless blouses (82 per cent), shorts (89 per cent), summer slacks (73 per cent), anklets (73 per cent), and aprons (81 per cent). Over all, women choose cotton as their favorite fabric by ratios up to 94 to 1 over other fabrics, the survey shows.

Cotton's natural strength permits thin or open constructions for coolness with no loss in washability or versatility. Cotton's soft, tapered fiber lets the fabric lie comfortably against the skin to carry away moisture. Yet in tight and sturdy weaves, cotton turns an arctic blast so efficiently that the military services use it for their polar gear.

Bailey County ASC NEWS

By LONNIE BASS
ASC Office Manager

1957 New Growers Wheat

Any farmer in Bailey County who did not have a wheat history for the years 1954, 1955 or 1956 and wants a wheat allotment for 1957, must make application for a new growers allotment by July 1, 1956. To be eligible, the operator of the farm must not have an interest in another wheat farm in the County, State or any other State. Application blanks must be filed at the ASC Office in Muleshoe before the above date to be eligible.

Excess Wheat Acreage

Producers having excess wheat acreage are reminded that May 15 is the last date to destroy excess wheat and get within their allotment. If the excess is not destroyed by this date, you will be over planted and a penalty of 45% of parity for your excess acreage will have to be paid.

If you intend to destroy your wheat and have failed to notify this office, please do so immediately.

Cotton Release

Producers are reminded that if they do not want to plant their cotton, and still retain their history, may do so by releasing the acreage to the ASC County Committee by May 29, 1956. To get credit for planting the cotton, the farm must have had cotton seeded in one of the three bas years which are 1954, 1955 or 1956. If no cotton was planted in 1954 or 1955, then no credit will be given for releasing the 1956 cotton acreage.

Anyone desiring further information on this matter are urged to contact the ASC Office in Muleshoe.

1956 Cotton Price Support

The U. S. Department of Agriculture April 17 announced the minimum level of price support for 1956 crop upland cotton. The minimum level of support for upland cotton, basis middling 7/8 inch, will be 28.85 cents per pound, gross weight at average location.

These levels reflect 82 1/2 percent of the current parity prices of 34.97 cents per pound. In the event that 82 1/2 percent of the parity price for upland cotton on August 1, 1956 (the beginning of the 1956 market year) is higher than the level announced April 17, the level of price support for upland cotton will be increased accordingly.

The Department stated that

dieldrin seed treatment

NEWLY SEEDED FIELDS make good feeding grounds for true and false wireworms and other soil insects. If there is not enough moisture in the soil to permit quick sprouting, seeds are vulnerable to insect attack for several days. But the threat of wireworm damage should be recognized at all times.

A dieldrin preventive seed treatment is a sure way to protect small grain seeds until they sprout.

LOW-COST PROTECTION

It costs just pennies per acre to treat seed with dieldrin, but dollars per acre to feed the wireworms untreated seed! A dieldrin seed treatment prevents "spotty" stands... eliminates the expense of time and money for re-planting or sowing extra seed for the wireworms to feed on... assures you of a longer grazing period. And dieldrin does not harm plant development.

COMPATIBLE WITH FUNGICIDES

Dieldrin is compatible with fungicides... can be applied at the same time to save the expense and work of a double treatment. You can buy dieldrin-treated seed from your seed dealer, or treat the seed yourself. Dieldrin can be applied as a slurry, dry, or in a grain drill. A convenient method is to apply dieldrin to the seed in the grain drill as you plant. Follow directions on the label for the particular formulation you buy.

LESS WORK AT PLANTING TIME

Seed can be treated now and stored until planting time. Dieldrin eliminates the rush of treating seed and planting within a few days. Dieldrin formulations are available throughout the small grain growing area. See your local supplier.

Buick ROADMASTER 6-Door Riviera

Right this way!

EVERY YEAR, more and more new cars are equipped with Power Steering. Many a man has bought it "for the wife"—then wondered how he ever got along without it.

And if you have in mind a new car with Power Steering consider this fact:

Since the beginning of last year, Buick has sold far more new cars equipped with Power Steering* than any other car—over 20,000 more in 1955 alone.

That's the record—and the reasons for it are just as impressive. Buick brings you In-Line Safety Power Steering. In addition to the one-finger ease of turning common to all such systems in varying degree, it has several distinct advantages.

It gives you surer, steadier, safer control at highway speeds—because it retains that good natural "feel" of the road.

On the other hand, it gives you more power assist when you need it most—at crawl speeds and at full stop. Here, Buick's Power Steering makes wheel turning nearly twice as easy as other types of systems.

Add another plus: this Buick feature works through the new Buick front end—where a unique new geometry and steering linkage bring a sweet new response and a wonderfully easy handling and a surer "sense of direction" even to new Buicks not equipped with the power system.

So there you are—and here we are, waiting to prove it all to you.

Waiting, also, to let you try the new thrills to be had in Buick's advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflo—where getaway response and gas mileage both step up even before you switch the pitch. And waiting to show you how the highest power yet, the sweetest ride yet and the boldest styling yet—all help to make this bright new beauty the Best Buick Yet.

Today is fine with us. How about you?

*Buick's In-Line Safety Power Steering is standard on Roadmaster and Super, optional at moderate extra cost on other Series. (New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

BABSON DISCUSSES RAILROADS

Babson Park, Mass., May 17—Railroads are still considered as a rather undesirable stepchild in this country. Abused, browbeaten, discriminated against—they seem to be on the receiving end of whatever ill fortune can be thrown their way. Does this mean that railroads will ultimately disappear from the American scene?

RAILS STILL NECESSARY
Despite the heavy taxation of the rails to finance highways for competing truck and bus lines; despite the failure time and time again to increase fares and freight rates so that the roads' expanding operating expenses could be covered; despite union restrictions which encourage "make work" jobs, the rails have managed to survive. No longer a transportation monopoly, its roadbeds are paralleled by fast-moving buses and autos. Huge trucks race beside freight cars, mile after mile. In the air, passengers and freight move over tremendous distances at five times the best rail speed.

But two world wars showed the necessity for a strong rail network. In World War I, the Government found it necessary to take over the job of placing the rail system in a sound condition. By World War II, managements had completed several years of building up the physical property of the rails. They were in a good position to handle the sudden sharp expansion in passenger and freight traffic which followed our entry into the war.

COST-CUTTING PROGRESS
Young blood is currently lacking in most rail managements. In several cases, however, virile managements have succeeded in cutting costs, through mechanization and automatic controls. New diesels, piggy back freight cars, use of electronics in freight classification yards and signaling equipment have helped earnings. Efforts are now being made to put new life into the passenger business by developing ultra-modern high-speed trains. I forecast, however, that these efforts will fail to recapture more than a relatively small percentage of the business lost to other forms of transportation. In the matter of finances, also, aggressive managements have succeeded in cutting down unwieldy high-interest bond capitalizations. Corporate reorganizations, reduced inventories, and the dropping of small, money-losing branch lines also have boosted income. Finally, the ICC has lifted the rails out of the poor stepchild class by authorizing more reasonable rate increases during the past few years.

CERTAIN RAILS SOUND
The "bread and butter" activity of the rails continues to be in the heavy commodity-type freight. Efforts to promote passenger and other income with gadgets and door-prize promotions will not prove permanently profitable. Those roads which stick to doing what they can do best, and with the greatest profit, will win out in the long run. Management success will best be demonstrated by how well it controls total labor and material costs.

The faster growth of the Southern area of the United States has been the principal factor in the impressive gain shown by the roads operating in that region. There is nothing in sight too indicate an end to this superior growth factor. The Eastern "gravity" coal roads also have had an impressive year. I forecast that in the light of world conditions, the outstanding rail group will be the transcontinental roads, especially those with major operations in the South, Southwest, West, and Northwest. Their freight traffic is heavy and well diversified. Their finances are strong, their prior liens will be protected. Management, in most cases, is improving. I forecast that some transcontinental rails, especially those with substantial holdings of land, mineral rights, and securities, will prove to be sound investments. They are in a position to benefit from any sharp expansion in business activity. At the same time, good management should enable them to ride out any temporary interruption in the longer-term growth trends.

Today's Meditation

Read John 14:12-17.
I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever. (John 14:16.)

Jim was twelve years old. One evening he told his father that he could not believe in the Holy Spirit because he could not see Him.

Next day his father, an electrician, took him to the plant. Showing Jim the generators, he said, "This is where the power comes from to heat our stove and give us light. We cannot see the power, but it is in that machine and in the power lines."

"Oh, I believe in electricity," Jim cut in. "I know you do," his father agreed, "but you do not believe in it because you can see it, but because you can see what it can do. Likewise, you can believe in the Holy Spirit as the result of seeing what He does in people's lives when they are surrendered to Christ and possess His Power."

Many thousands today do not recognize the working of the Holy Spirit despite Jesus' promise that He would come to dwell with us, to teach and direct us, and to reveal to us the things of God.

PRAYER

Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the gift of the Holy Spirit. Help us so to love Thee that He may become the motivating power in our lives. Grant to us the comfort of His presence. In our Saviour's name we pray. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

"In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths."

Sand Hills Philosopher Explains A New Law of Economics On Thrift, Which He Probably Invented Himself

Editor's note: The Sand Hills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm discusses economics this week, which he's as good as as he is anything else, if you follow us.

Dear editor:
Everybody is worried about the farmer these days, but that's because they don't understand the long-range situation.

I got to thinking about this after I read in a magazine which I picked up for a few minutes in the drug store in town the other day. I know druggists object to people reading their magazines without buying em but I've seen druggists out driving around looking at my cows without offering to buy any. I figure it's even, at any rate, what I read was an article saying that farmers are whipping the situation they're in by taking jobs in town.

A neighbor of mine says farming has come to a sorry state when a farmer has to work in town to stay on the farm in the country, but I don't look at it that way. That is, while personally I'm not interested in working in town, I'm not even very interested in working in the country. It's all right with me if others want to.

Actually, they're only following one of the laws of economics, which apparently a lot of people don't understand.

The law is that during a depression city people go to the farm to work to stay alive, and during prosperity, farmers go to town to work to stay alive.

There's nothing wrong with this law, but you've got to understand it to get along.

You've got to remember that prosperity for everybody is fine,

Texas Methodists Set Conference At Big Spring May 23

BIG SPRING—Northwest Texas Conference Methodist will hold their annual session in First Methodist church here Wednesday, May 23, through Sunday, May 27. Bishop H. Bascom Watts of the Nebraska Area, will be the conference preacher. Watts entered the ministry in the Northwest Texas Conference.

Business will include the presentation to the conference of the continuation of the campaign for funds to build a dormitory and a classroom building at McMurry college, Abilene, and to add to the $500,000 authorized to be raised by the last annual conference the amount of $310,000.

Recommendation from the conference board of missions will be the continuation of Advance Specials for Latin American work, educational work in Japan and Alaska; and a building program for the West Texas State College Wesley Foundation at Canyon, which will be the conference Advance Special. Advance Specials are projects covered by over and above conference or local budget giving. The Canyon Wesley Foundation is expected to cost $40,000, $20,000 for a parsonage and $20,000 for remodeling and enlarging the present student center. Methodist enter a new quadrennium June 1 and emphases adopted for the new period are to be completed June 1, 1960. Total program of the church is based on four year periods.

Also expected is a report from a special commission on study and action in the annual conference. This commission was established at the last conference. It will report its study and suggest plans to the conference. Commission on town and country work members have requested time on the conference program.

THIS WEEK -In Washington

With Clinton Davidson

The Soil Bank proposal has had such speedy and enthusiastic acceptance in Washington that there has been little time to figure out how it would affect the average farmer.

To get a reliable estimate on the practical application of the program we have talked with Agriculture Department officials, congressmen and farm leaders. Not all of them agree on details.

Some call it a scheme for paying farmers not to produce. Others describe it as an investment in storing soil fertility against the time when our growing population will need the full productivity of all of our land.

The plan has two objectives: To reduce surpluses now and to store soil fertility for future use. It includes an appropriation of $1.2 billion a year as the Federal share of the cost of operation. Administrative details are left to the Secretary of Agriculture.

The Bank has two main parts. One is an Acreage Reserve, the other a Conservation Reserve. In both cases farmers would get government payments for taking land out of cultivation. Acreage Reserve: Objective is to take 15,000,000 additional acres out of crops now in surplus, including cotton, wheat, corn, rice and tobacco. Farmers who agree to uproot their allotments would receive government certificates that could be cashed or exchanged for commodities owned by CCC.

gram in order that they may present rural pastor awards. Dr. J. Chess Lovera of First Methodist church, Lubbock, will preach the memorial service Wednesday morning.

ATTENDED 50TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Cline were in Portales, Sunday to attend the 50th Wedding Anniversary celebration for Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Haynie. Some one hundred relatives and a host of friends attended the occasion.

The Haynies saw their marriage license for the first time Sunday. When they were married fifty years ago, they never did go back to the courthouse after them.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Ham and Mrs. J. L. Withrow left Monday for a two weeks tour of Texas and Arkansas. They plan to visit relatives in several places on the trip.

The value of the certificates would be set by the Secretary and based on a percentage of the normal crop yields of the land put into the Acreage Reserve. The Secretary also would set the minimum and maximum percentages by which each crop allotment could be reduced in order to qualify for payments.

Farmers would have to agree not to plant the land in other crops, to cut hay from it or to graze it. Growers would be encouraged to sign up for more than one year. Congress has estimated the maximum cost of the Acreage Reserve program at $750 million a year.

Conservation Reserve: Provides for cash payments to farmers for taking land out of non-allotment crops and converting it to grasses, legumes, timber or other conservation practices. This land could not be grazed, or hay cut from it.

To qualify each farmer would have to sign a contract extending at least through January 1, 1959 not to graze or grow crops on the land taken out. The government would pay most of the cost of putting in conservation work.

In addition to initial cost payments, farmers would receive annual rental payments based on a percentage of the normal income from the land over a previous number of years. This probably would average about $15 an acre per year.

At the start of each year the Secretary would announce a national Conservation Reserve acreage goal and the minimum and maximum percentages of crop land that could be put into the program. Cost of the Conservation Reserve program is estimated at $450 million a year.

Dairy Products Top Plentiful Foods In June

Milk and other products top the U. S. Department of Agriculture's plentiful food list for June.

Beef is the only red meat on the list in contrast to recent months when meats dominated the plentiful listings. High protein-content foods in heavy supply for June include canned tuna in oil, peanuts, peanut butter, and dry beans. With stock more than double a year ago, canned red cherries are still in heavy supply. Also, frozen cherry stocks are large. Fresh grapefruit of excellent quality remains plentiful, since movement in recent months was less than expected. Latest survey shows that 10.6 million boxes are still to be sold about 2 million boxes in excess of last year. More rice is available than expected because exports ran lower than estimated.

Good Managing of Pastures Can Pay In Productivity

Once a cultivated pasture is established, management largely determines its productivity, says E. M. Trew, extension pasture specialist.

Good grazing management on cultivated pastures requires rotation grazing. Up to half of the forage produced can be wasted if livestock are permitted to graze continuously on a pasture. Cut the pasture into small blocks, advises Trew, and graze the forage off in a hurry. Then shift the livestock to another block. Electric fences can be used for dividing the pastures. This method of grazing keeps the plants vigorous and the rest periods permit them to build their root systems.

If forage production gets ahead of the animals, use the surplus for hay or silage. Few Texas beef or dairy operators ever get excessive feed reserves on hand, says Trew but many failures result from inadequate reserves.

Mowing is an important part of pasture management for it will control weeds and small brush and keep the plants growing and producing nutritious forage. When forage plants approach maturity, their protein and mineral content drops, fiber content increases and they become less palatable.

Without adequate fertility to produce good growth, other management practices are wasted, says Trew. A ton of grass hay contains about 30 pounds of nitrogen, 10 pounds of phosphoric acid and 30 pounds of potash. A ton of legume hay contains about 30 percent more of these nutrients, points out the specialist. A soil test will show how much and what kind of fertilizers are needed.

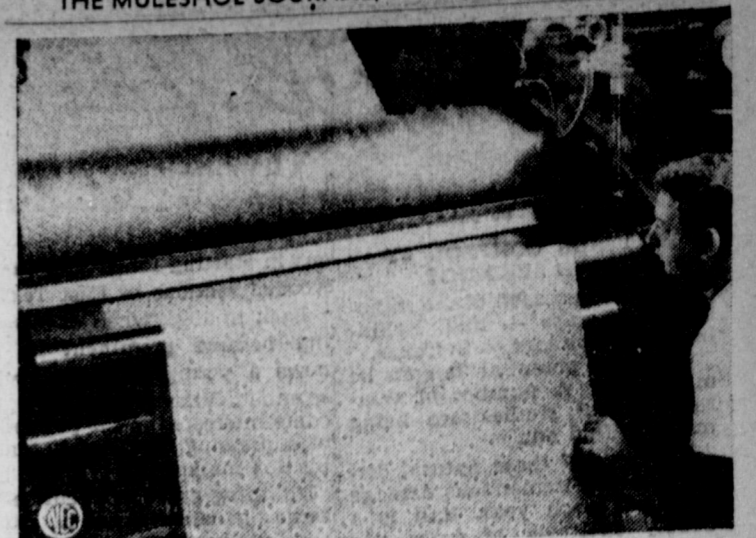

Finally, Trew points out that cattle grazing on lush, fast growing pasture need some dry hay. Such hay should be available either in hay racks or strips can be mowed in the pasture and left for the cattle to pick up as they need it.

WEATHER CONTROL BY CLOUD SEEDING?

This is the season of the triple-threat to crops — hail, lightning and tornadoes — in Texas. Can their potential dangers be minimized? A number of weather control studies are being made to find out.

All three of these natural disasters cause tremendous damage in Texas each year. Hail is a deadly destroyer of crops and can churn the year's work and income of a thousand farm families into mush in a half-hour. Lightning is particularly dangerous in starting forest fires in the wooded sections of East Texas. Back in 1946, when cloudseeding became prominent in the news a young General Electric scientist, Vincent Schaefer, became interested in the possibility of suppressing hail and lightning by this method.

Lightning and hail occur in the same general type of storm which may grow into a tornado. These storms come from the immense blue-black thunderclouds that tower far above the freezing line into the atmosphere for as much as nine miles or even more.

When water-vapor condenses into a cloud, it gives back to the atmosphere the heat-energy that turned it into vapor in the first place. Such energy is enormous. Even a small thunderstorm represents the energy of several atomic bombs. This energy is discharged in lightning, or in rain.

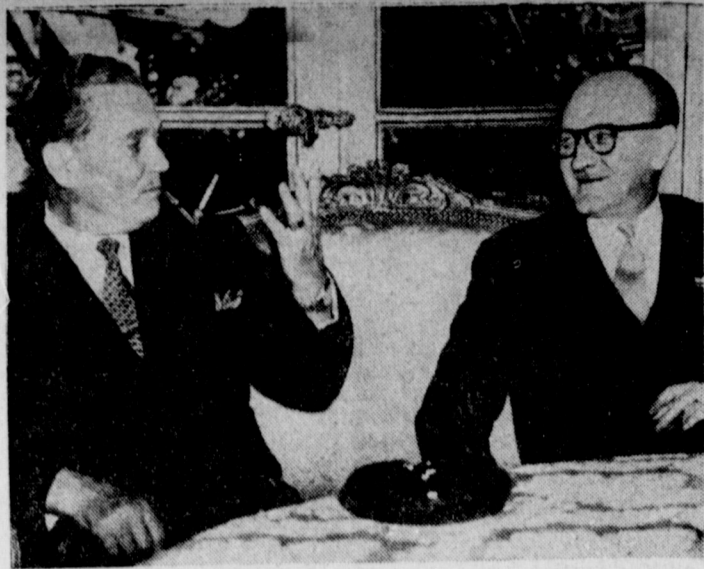

If such a cloud "cannot rain," but builds up in bellowing anguish to great heights, it may result in destructive hail or lightning, tornadoes — or all three.

Experiments have shown that cloud seeding induces rain or snow more quickly than under natural conditions. Thus seeding may cut down cloud growth, and the menace of the bellowing clouds.

This, and other possibilities are being studied by the U. S. Committee on Weather Control. We are still a long way from "ready-made weather," but the reduction of natural disasters may not be too far in the future.

Crop Suffer More From Drouth On Fields of High Fertility-Low Moisture

Crops suffer more from lack of moisture on fields of low fertility and normal rainfall than on fields of high fertility and low rainfall.

C. H. Bates, extension farm management specialist says, "With most prices down from a year ago and with acreage allotments on a more restrictive basis the need for getting the most for the least cost per unit is more urgent. On many farms and ranches fertilizers may provide a part of the answer to maintaining output without raising costs."

The old saying that soil is drier now than it was 15 to 20 years ago, has a real basis for truth according to research agronomist this is due to fertility depletion and reduction of organic matter.

On sandy upland soils around College Station, research is being done with fertilizers. In one area, soil was limed, given a broadcast fertilizer treatment and sprigged to Coastal Bermuda in June of 1953. In 1954 measurements of hay yield were made. Where no extra nitrogen was applied it required almost 18 inches of water to produce a ton of hay. Where 800 pounds of nitrogen was applied, less than 5 inches of water was required to produce a ton of hay.

These results make it quite evident, says Bates, a lower productivity level requires a much higher amount of water to produce a unit of hay. Returns on the investment are $200 for each $1.00 spent up to 400 pounds of nitrogen. Up to 650 pounds returns in extra hay gave $1.23 for each $1.00 spent.

In more recent years use of fertilizers has moved west under dry land conditions says Bates. Under conditions and with quickly available forms of nitrogen, fertilizers may pay good dividends in areas of relatively low rainfall. Liquid or anhydrous forms of nitrogen are considerably cheaper than the solid form and in many cases will yield more profitable returns for a given amount of plant food. Soils should first be checked by having a complete analysis made, then determining the most economical source of nutrients required for crops to be grown. Additional information on the research being done with fertilizers may be obtained by writing for P. R. 1837 or P. R. 1777, Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

FARMER COUNTY Farm Bureau News

By RAYMOND E. JELER

Parmer County's Farm Bureau weed committee is planning a program of bindweed eradication this season, according to Bruce Parr, Chairman, Raynond Schueler, committeeman from Rhea community, displayed bindweed plants and seeds in the hall at the cotton meeting in Friona last Thursday night. This was part of the effort to acquaint farmers with the appearance of the plant, so they will not overlook them on their farms and allow them to grow out of economical control.

Parr has contacted state seed inspector Metcalf, of Lubbock to make arrangements for field inspection in August or September, for the purpose of determining the origin of infected seed. Parr pointed out the importance of farmers retaining their seed tags for identification when inspection time comes up.

Parmer County ASC committee has set up a fund for assisting farmers in bindweed eradication again this year, according to James Whitfield, ASC office manager.

County Commissioners are also continuing to cooperate, and have said that if farmers will plainly mark bindweed patches in right of way adjoining their farms, grader operators will not disturb these plots, so that they can be thoroughly treated for eradication.

Some of the committee men met with Mr. Rodgers and Killough Monday afternoon in Bovina, to map plans for control on State Highway right of ways in the county.

At their last meeting, the committee agreed on a plan to divide each precinct into two parts and have committee men select a 4-H club boy, an FFA boy and two other persons to help promote bindweed control more aggressively.

The committee urges any farmer wishing information relative to bindweed control to contact any member, the county agent, or ASC office. Committee members are: Bruce Parr, Ovid Lawless, Clarence Johnson, Gene Snodgrass, Roy Grace, Franklin Bauer, Raymond Schueler, L. F. Bruns and A. M. Bradley.

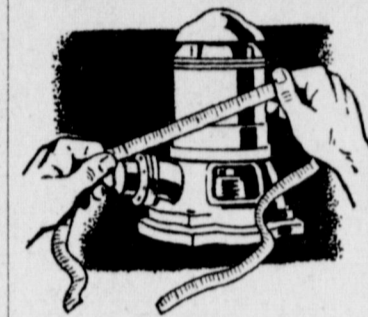

Glenda Richard, our office secretary will be gone most of next week, in company with other Plains Farm Bureau office secretaries, attending a training school in Waco. We think we have one of the best in the county, and appreciate her interest in opportunities to improve service to you by attending these schools.

Through the Water Committee Office in Bovina now, we have had more farmers approach us this season regarding procedure for getting District or Court assistance in restraining neighboring farmers from continually letting their water run over the property of others. We believe this indicates more interest in irrigation and soil conservation than was known in the past. For the benefit of others thinking of coming to us, we suggest you contact Mr. Aubrey Brock at the Water District Office in Bovina. He is secretary for the county committee, and can properly inform you.

We again want to express our appreciation to the great majority of you who send or bring in your renewal dues when you receive your first statement. This saves money that can be used for more economical administration.

Bovina Farm Chemical has announced that they have sodium chlorate at the low price of $12.25 per can for people in that trade area. Members of the Farm Bureau Weed Committee appreciate this new cooperation in the expansion of Bindweed and other noxious weed eradication activity.

It even includes the public type meetings like the cotton farmers' meeting last week, which was an inter-organizational planned meeting at which no news reporter was present from the county. Bill Smith, Cotton John's partner from KFNC was present to record some of the highlights, and his presence and interest are greatly appreciated.
