October is Principals Month

Texas Governor Greg Abbott has proclaimed October 2015 as "Principals Month" in Texas.

In his proclamation, Abbott states "as school leaders, principals are entrusted with our most valuable resource - our next generation of leaders. These students are our promise for the future, and it is critical that they receive a rigorous and well-rounded education."

New health clinic may break ground in January

BY MELISSA PERNER
THE OZONA STOCKMAN

The new clinic is almost ready to break ground.

During a special meeting on Oct. 21, the Crockett County Care Center, Health and Emergency Services Board of Directors met with Rick Burnight, architect of O'Connell Robertson out of Austin, about finalized exterior and interior plans of the new Family Health Center of Ozona.

Burnight said his firm is 90 percent done with the engineering and architecture on the clinic. If the commissioners approve to advertise for bids next month, and bids are approved by the end of the year, construction could start in January.

The board is aiming to have a joint meeting with the Crockett County Commissioners' Court next month, as well as officials from Shannon Medical Center, to discuss the final plans and approve to advertise for bids.

Estimated cost for the 9,800 square-foot building is $3.15 million with Shannon Medical Center providing

Networking opportunities good for small businesses

One of the things that small business owners have told us they like is networking with each other in order to learn about and implement new and better ways of running their business. At the ASU Small Business Development Center, we are good sounding boards for our small business clients. Besides helping them with various technical business issues, we share ideas we have learned from our business ownership and management experience, as well as things we have learned over the years. Networking events are important and lead to valuable resources, connections, and opportunities. We know networking happens in various ways. Small business owners meet at events or other places to discuss their common problems and seek advice from each other, either one on one or in a small group. Even though their businesses are different, they can focus on the commonalities of their problems and learn what others have done to solve them. This need was driven home when we hosted the FastTrac Growth Venture 10 week training for growth minded small business owners in spring 2014 and also this past spring. We noticed the value small business owners received when they would openly discuss the business topic of the evening. Often, they would come back the next week and state that because of the discussion the previous week, they solved their problem or took advantage of an opportunity. A few even changed the way they did business. To help in this effort, the SBDC is embarking on a program to help small business owners come together on a quarterly basis. They will hear an owner talk about a specific topic, which may be a problem or an opportunity, and then have an exchange of ideas with other owners. We want to have specific things owners can take away from these meetings. If nothing else to make new connections. We also want this to be a small business owner driven series of quarterly events. So if anyone has an interest in helping get this off the ground, please contact me at the email listed below. Also please share with me any thoughts you have on this topic.

I can think of various small business owners who would make great speakers and could get the discussion going at quarterly events just described. The learning that will take place should benefit many in the small business community and be a fun, interesting way to gain knowledge, solve problems and take advantage of opportunities.

The world has changed, so should our energy policy

Editor's note: This column was first published on "The Hill" website at thehill.com.

U.S. energy policy is about far more than jobs and the economy. It is a critical component of our foreign policy. Secretary of State John Kerry has repeatedly claimed that our European allies are poised to abandon us if we do not approve the administration's short-sighted and ultimately dangerous nuclear deal with Iran.

It is because Germany and France want to buy energy from Iran.

Instead of continuing to be the only country that has a self-imposed ban on exporting crude oil and enabling Iran to generate additional income to support their largest export - terrorism, I have a much better idea. We sell American energy to Europe instead.

The ban that keeps the United States from selling crude oil on the world market may have made sense four decades ago. It no longer does, the outdated policy does not reflect our 21st century production capabilities resulting from innovation in the American energy industry. It is well documented that selling our crude on the global market will create American jobs and galvanize our economy. Exporting American crude has the additional benefit of pressuring two resurgence adversaries - Russia and Iran.

Though President Obama has come out against Congressional efforts to lift this ban and allow American companies to sell on the world market, he seems to have no problem with Iran's ability to sell energy to our allies. If Europe is buying from America instead of Iran that is less money going to the state-sponsored terror we know Iran will continue to support.

Russia's economy is dependent on selling oil to Europe. Since the global slump of oil prices, coupled with economic sanctions resulting from their invasion of Crimea, their economy has been struggling. Russia's faltering economy opens the door to diplomatic solutions to these conflicts, and leveraging our energy abundance will force them to reevaluate their behavior in places like Syria.

Arab leaders know that the brutal dictator Bashar al-Asad must go. The United Nations believes that resolving the problems in Syria will only happen when Assad is gone, yet Russia is using their Air Force to destroy Syrian targets proposed by Assad. Many of those targets are rebel groups in opposition to Assad and that have been trained by the U.S. The Russians are demonstrating they are willing to support their allies even in the face of international opposition. Our partners are learning that America doesn't have their back. ISIS is a product of the conflict in Syria and the only way we are going to solve this threat is through cooperation with local forces on the ground. The model we should be pursuing in Syria is the Afghanistan model perfected by Ambassador Hank Crumpton when he was the head of the CIA's Counterterrorism Center Special Operations Division (CTC/SO). In late December 2001, following the terrorist attacks of 9/11, the southern Afghanistan city of Qandahar fell. It was the capital city of the Taliban and when it fell we had killed two-thirds of al-Qa'ida leadership and pushed the Taliban out of Afghanistan. These objectives were achieved with four hundred Americans on the ground - three hundred Special Forces and one hundred CIA officers. We were able to do this because of the greatest Air Force the world had ever seen and cooperation with local forces like the Northern Alliance and Pashtun tribal militias.

A very similar formula of success can work in Syria, but our allies need to know they have our support. That means severely limiting Russian activity in the region.

The historic vote by the U.S. House of Representatives to lift this obsolete ban could be the turning point in a disappointing economic recovery and a faltering foreign policy that continues to degrade. Let's use our economic power to restore our standing in the world.

The Rule of Threes

IT'S THE PITTS
LEE PITTS

I am not a superstitious person. I don't possess a lucky penny, four leaf clover or blessed horseshoe and I don't go out of my way to avoid ladders, broken mirrors or cracks in the concrete. I don't believe a black cat can do me any more harm than a white cat can, nor do I avoid traveling on Friday the 13th. There is no pot of gold waiting for me at the end of any rainbow. I don't think wearing garlic protects you from vampires. Which I also don't believe in.

Knock on wood. You will not find a rabbit's foot in my pocket either. Years ago I had a sizable rabbit FFA project and I usually had on hand more than 300 rabbits. This is really no great accomplishment. Start with two and inside a couple years you'll easily have that many. Owing 300 rabbits meant I had 1,200 rabbit's feet, if my math is correct, and I don't remember those years as being particularly lucky. I still got the short end of every wishbone.

I don't believe that witch doctors are any better or worse than my doctor, although I'm sure mine charges more. And I learned the hard way that washing your car or truck will NOT bring rain. I endured two seven year droughts in the cow business and I washed our truck until bare metal showed and it still wouldn't rain. All I got was dishpan hands and the experience necessary to get a job at the car wash. In washing my rig I was foolish to think that anything man can do might change the climate. (There's a moral there for global warming fanatics who think cow flatulence will rein down Armageddon.) While I don't believe in superstitions I do believe in luck, which is something altogether different. I believe that some people are just luckier than others, like a billionaire married to a Sports Illustrated supermodel. I also believe that frogs cause warts and in the rule of threes, which says that good or bad events always happen in groups of threes.

My friend Chuck Irwin is one of the best bit and spur makers in America and the 91 year old cowman has enriched my life in many ways. Just last week he was in my shop and even though he works with silver, the subject somehow got around to gold. He told me that years ago he had a friend who had dozens of gold coins that he kept in coin collection books. Chuck explained to his friend that he'd always wanted a gold coin and much to his surprise Chuck's friend sold him one for seven dollars. WAY below its value. Chuck wondered at the time why his friend sold the coin so cheap but he was about to find out why.

Fast forward several years and Chuck showed the coin to a really good customer who went crazy over the coin and clearly coveted it. So Chuck gave it to him. Chuck couldn't explain why he'd given away the coin he'd wanted so badly. It reminded me of the Mark Twain short story in which a man traded all his possessions for a dog and then shot the dog.

Within a short time the man who Chuck gave the coin to died for no apparent reason and Chuck was bequeathed the coin in his will. Next, Chuck made a beautiful bezel for the coin and gave it to his wife. Sadly, soon after she died. At this point Chuck got spooked and began to think the coin had special powers and that was how he was able to buy the coin so reasonably to begin with. Everyone he'd given it to had died soon thereafter. So naturally, Chuck next gave the coin to an ex-girlfriend.

As we speak, Chuck's ex-girlfriend is alive and well and that seven dollar coin dangling around her neck is now worth many thousands of dollars. Needless to say, Chuck wished he still owned the coin. But the third time's a charm and Chuck figures if that's what it took to break the spell of the unlucky coin, then so be it. But he harbors no suspicion that he'll ever get it back

State says funding to Planned Parenthood will be cut

AUSTIN — The state Health and Human Services Commission notified Planned Parenthood affiliates in Texas on Oct. 19 that state funding they have been receiving through the Medicaid program would be cut.

The letter from the HHSC's inspector general's office said the termination of all Planned Parenthood affiliates would not affect access to care "because there are thousands of alternate providers in Texas including federally qualified health centers, Medicaid-certified rural health clinics and other health care providers across the state that participate in the Texas Women's Health Program and Medicaid."

According to the governor's office, the action is based on evidence of Medicaid program violations. Citing widely publicized videos reportedly exposing the harvesting and sale of fetal body parts by abortion providers, Gov.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS By Ed Sterling | Texas Press Association

Greg Abbott said, "Texas has stepped forward and shown its unyielding commitment to both protecting life and providing women's health services."

Abbott said the action is consistent with his LIFE initiative that calls for changing laws to stiffen penalties against abortion providers, improve availability of adoption services, eliminate funding to abortion providers and eliminate and criminalize any sale or transaction involving fetal tissue by an abortion clinic.

On Oct. 22, HHSC's inspector general agents, acting on subpoenas, seized records at Planned Parenthood-affiliated clinics in Dallas and other cities. Planned Parenthood national headquarters posted the following statement on social media: "We will not be bullied by Texas extremists (and) we won't stop fighting. Take note: Planned Parenthood is not going anywhere." Planned Parenthood has one month to deliver a legal response.

EMERGENCY FORCES LINED UP

Just before Hurricane Patricia hit the west coast of Mexico and headed north toward Texas, Gov. Abbott on Oct. 23 announced the activation of the Texas State Operations Center.

Abbott also approved the use of state resources for rapid deployment as needed to assist local officials "during this significant weather event."

"The State of Texas stands ready to provide support to communities as needed," he said.

The State Operations Center coordinates emergency responses with the Texas Department of Transportation, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, Texas A&M Forest Service, Texas A&M Engineering Extension Service/Texas Task Force 1 and Texas Military Forces.

Business of the Month: Oglesby Ranch

BY SHANON BIGGERSTAFF
OZONA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

"I would like to thank the Ozona Chamber of Commerce for recognizing Oglesby Ranch as the Business of the Month. It is truly an honor and having served on the board and with several projects, I know it is not an easy task with all the great members that the chamber serves," said Sally Oglesby.

"Bailey Headquarters was homesteaded in 1895 by John R. and Roberta Bailey. The original land deed is signed in 1901 by both of my great-great-grandfathers, John R. Bailey, landowner and Charles E. Davidson, the County Judge, upon purchase of the land in full. To my knowledge the young Bailey couple rolled the little house that I also grew up in, using mules and timber to the present site. It is located on the Edwards Plateau of Crockett County with Schleicher County being the eastern border. My great-great-grandparents raised cattle, goats and sheep, along with four wonderful children. The ranch has sustained five generations and grows continually. No matter the situation, good or bad, the land remains steadfast," Oglesby said.

"Presently the Oglesby Ranch, established 1987, is running hair sheep, Spanish goats, and cattle and pursuing ecotourism interests. I am the sole proprietor at this time, but look forward to having my children take the reins when I can no longer manage. Our ranch heritage is very important and being the original environmentalists is always at the forefront of thought. I am currently teaching high school government, economics and world geography. I have been very blessed over the years to have participated in the TALL (Texas Agricultural Lifetime Leadership), a two-year program that taught me so much about all aspects of agriculture in our state, nation, as well as internationally. From the land to the political arena, we learned why leadership is vital to survivorship. The Ozona Chamber of Commerce has been instrumental in keeping our community alive and thriving, just like the ranch even in time of struggle."

Oglesby served on the Chamber of Commerce board from 2004-2006, and as Chairman of the Board in 2007. She returned to the board to assist the Chamber in serving out a one year board of director term in 2011.

Every other year since 2007, the chamber hosts a golf open as part of the Bi-Annual Oil & Gas Trade Show. Oglesby plays an integral part in the planning of this event.

She has also served as chair to the Chamber Crockett County Interpretive Trail Committee and given countless hours to the development of the project.

Oglesby has been a positive and supportive partner to the chamber and her community.

The Chamber of Commerce would like to recognize and thank Oglesby for her personal contributions, and Oglesby Ranch as a business asset to the county.

$275,000 worth of new equipment.

The Crockett County Commissioners' Court is looking at issuing a tax note for the clinic, instead of a bond election. A tax note can be issued by the county for projects to be financed for seven years or less. The clinic project has been estimated to be paid back within five years. A $3 million tax note would raise county taxes around $.03.

Care Center Board President John L. Henderson said he wants to stay at $3 million.

"We want the best of the best as long as we don't jump our budget. We want to use $3 million the best way we possibly can," Henderson said. "I feel good that $3 million is still feasible. If that means me over there doing the site work for nothing I will."

The politics of bacon and eggs

Can you remember when bacon and eggs was replaced by a bowl of cereal, low-fat milk, dry toast and a glass of orange juice in the Standard American Diet (SAD) as the classic version of a "healthy breakfast?"

I do. It was a "sad" day, indeed (pun intended). That was the day our way of eating became fodder for a political agenda. The Standard American Diet advised we eat less fat and more "healthy" carbohydrates to curb a mis-conceived pandemic of heart disease in the mid 1980s.

Gary Taubes wrote in his New York Times article entitled, "What If It's All Been a Big Fat Lie," on July 7, 2002: "...a Senate committee led by George McGovern published its 'Dietary Goals for the United States,' advising that Americans significantly curb their fat intake to abate an epidemic of 'killer diseases' supposedly sweeping the country. It peaked in late 1984, when the National Institutes of Health officially recommended that all Americans over the age of 2 eat less fat.

By that time, fat had become 'this greasy killer' in the memorable words of the Center for Science in the Public Interest, and the model American breakfast of eggs and bacon was well on its way to becoming a bowl of Special K with low-fat never mind that we have been agrarian for only about 10,000 years, learning to cultivate and genetically alter our fruits, grains and vegetables for taste and greater sugar content.

Never mind that our bodies are carbon-copies of our ancestors' 25,000 years ago, and we have yet to develop the nutritional processes for beneficially assimilating these very new nutrients in our way of eating.

Now, the rate of people around the world dying of heart disease increases and accelerates annually. One in three people in the United States alone is, at best, pre-diabetic. This generation is not milk, a glass of orange juice and toast, hold the butter -- a dubious feast of refined carbohydrates."

Never mind that the human organism evolving into us survived some 2.5 million years, during some very tenuous times, without heart disease and Type-2 diabetes; on high fat, nutrient rich animal products, and low glycemic expected to survive us. Many scientists are echoing that we are experiencing the next mass extinction, right now.

Trillions of dollars are spent annually on our disease management and on the cures for the conditions and syndromes that plague us. We are more valuable to the institutions we set up to heal and protect us by being sick than we are by being healthy and productive.

The solutions are more than likely simple, 'in-your-face' remedies, that carried us for so long during our evolution. Cholesterol is no longer considered a viable factor linked to heart disease and some scientists warn it is probably more harmful if it's too low. I know from personal experience that heart disease, chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD), type-2 diabetes, obesity and hypertension are curable and preventable. Bacon and eggs are not on my political agenda, they are back in my plate, on my table of nutritional elements and permanent fodder in my way of eating.

It's your life, your body, your health; and your responsibility. You are the one who profits or pays.

Here's to our health.

LEVIS AND LACE SQUARE DANCE

On Sunday, Levis and Lace Square Dance Club had weekly lessons at the Crockett County Senior Citizens Center.

Exhilaration filled the air as the music started and lessons began.

Toes were tapping and feet were gliding to the beat of the music as the dancers twirled and whirled across the floor.

The dancers were performing calls like ferris wheel, trade by, ladies back track, touch 1/4, and star thru from the calling instruction of Carol Adcock, student instructor.

New calls that the students learned were: circulates, dive thru and wheel around.

The students and angel dancers performed a singing call "Rub It In" from the calling instruction of Tracye Young, student caller.

Students attending were: Robert Pena and Mary Williamson. Angel dancers attending were: JoAnn Babbitt, Nell Wester Frank Fred, Carol Adcock, Melvyn Mejia, Sydney Knaack, Karan Heffelfinger, and Tracye Young.

TEN THOUSAND A MONTH

Many people come from all over the world just to go by and see him. You have to pay and may have to stand in line for hours. It may be rainy or cold and yet they visit by the thousands. It is rumored that they pay a couple of people over ten thousand dollars a month to make him or should I say his body look good. I am talking about Vladimir Lenin (1870-1924) and the tomb (Red Square in Moscow) where he is buried. He was a founder of Communism and the Soviet Republic (USSR). It is also rumored that it is getting harder and harder to keep him looking good. There was the body of a person who died centuries earlier that is not available for us to see. Shortly after His death you could see it but within three days, (1 Corinthians 15:4) it was, by the power of God, changed (resurrected). He appeared to over 500 people after His resurrection, (1 Corinthians 15:5, 6). Hundreds of years earlier predictions were made about His body, (Psalms 16:10 & 49:15). Many promises are made to us in the Bible concerning the resurrection of Jesus. In John 11:25 Jesus said He was the resurrection and He promised life (with Him for those who believe) after physical death. In John 14:19 He promised because He lives, we will live after death with him in Heaven forever. See you in Church next Sunday. Brother J

School project discussed at board meeting

BY MELISSA PERNER
THE OZONA STOCKMAN

Superintendent Raul Chavarria spoke to the CCCSD School Board about several projects in the district during the Oct. 21 regular meeting.

In his report, Chavarria said the elementary school roof is leaking and that he has called Garland Roofing Company to come and a fix the problem.

"This is a minor repair that requires the caps on the metal roof to be refastened," Chavarria said.

However, there is a second OES roof issue involving a flat roof above the office area of the building.

"The air conditioning units sit on top of the roof and area holding water that should be draining, and it's not," Chavarria said. "This issue will require us to secure the services of an engineer to study how to correct."

Chavarria said there was a recent incident of vandalism at the OHS Baseball Field. He said the people involved have been identified and charges have been filed with the Crockett County Sheriff's Office.

Damage was done to the dugout and to a tree with a baseball bat, Chavarria said.

Chavarria also contacted County Judge Fred Deaton and County Attorney Jody Upham about filing an eviction notice to the individual that has used school property adjacent to OES as a "personal junkyard."

"This has been an issue that has been addressed in the past. It is time for this individual to respect property that is not his and clean up the area," Chavarria said.

The district has also been working on having utility poles relocated and a transformer removed at the property next to the OMS Gymnasium, so that the property can be cleared to be made into a parking lot.

"We are currently waiting for the poles to be removed so that demolition can be done," Chavarria said.

ENROLLMENT and ATTENDANCE

The district currently has 832 students. OES has 444, OMS 179 and OHS 209.

Attendance rate overall is 97.15 percent. The district's goal is 97.5 percent attendance.

FIRST SIX WEEKS

In his report, OHS Principal Ronny Clayton said they had 90 students with perfect attendance and only 12 students with failures. This number is down from years past. In 2013-2014, OHS had 39 students fail the first six weeks and in 2014-2015 the school had 20.

Clayton said the school has Pride Time, or tutorials, in the afternoon. All students attend with the exception of seniors who have passed their end-of-course exams, and are passing their classes.

Monday through Thursday students attend Pride Time working on homework, getting tutoring, working on UIL events and preparing for tests such as the ACT, SAT, ASVAB, PSAT and TSI.

Athletic Director Edward Perez stated in his report that the varsity, JV and OMS football teams all had a 100 percent passing rate, as well as the cross-country teams.

STAAR STANDARDS

The Texas Education Agency announced earlier this month that they will increase the level that students have to master to pass the STAAR test for elementary and middle school.

Last year it was 60 percent. OMS and OES Principal Tammy McWilliams said they expect it to be around 65 percent this year.

Also, the math scores will count this year, McWilliams said.

"In order to be certain that we meet requirements, we will have to track student performance very closely," McWilliams said.

Some of the plans McWilliams said will be implemented include tutors for grades first through fifth, a Count Down to STAAR program during STAAR Blast and having math and reading tutorials.

She also said they will be tracking student's understanding of instruction in both OMS and OES.

"Our hope is that we can six months to a year of growth in our students by the end of the first semester," McWilliams said.

SCHOOL HEALTH ADVISORY COUNCIL

CCCSD Nurse Karen Huffman presented her annual report for the School Health Advisory Council.

The council is comprised of school administrators, teachers, parents and community members.

In her report, Huffman said the council met four times in the 2014-2015 school year, and that the main focus was improving nutrition for students.

The council researched nutrition guidelines and presented OES administration and teachers with ideas for healthier alternatives for reward activities and parties.

The council also provided input for the annual school safety survey and reviewed the survey results.

Looking ahead for the 2015-2016 year, the main focus of the council will be updating the district wellness policy.

NHS DINNER

Members of the OHS National Honor Society cooked the meal for the school board meeting.

NHS Member Estefania Torralba spoke to the board about NHS and thanked the board for their service.

OTHER AGENDA ITEMS APPROVED:

- Intent to dispose or recycle out of adoption instructional materials with the S.A.F.E. Recycling Center in San Angelo.

- Bid from Cavendar Motor GMC for a new maintenance truck.

- To rescind the adoption of the 2015-2016 OES, OMS and OHS Student Handbooks, Band Handbook, Athletic Handbook and Cheer Constitution, and restore to the superintendent the authority for these administrative materials. Chavarria said by doing this the board will be allowed to hear grievances from the public. The board will review the handbooks and constitution each year, but the only approval will be by the superintendent.

- Interlocal agreement with the Region 15 Education Service Center for internet access for a term beginning July 1, 2016 through July 30, 2021.

- The board met in a short executive/closed session to discuss personnel matters and real property. No action was taken when the board reopened the meeting.

The next regular meeting will be 6:30 p.m. Nov. 18 at the Administration Building. The meeting is open to the public.

Firefighter Fire Ball Benefit Dinner and Dance

BY FRANK TAMBUNGA
CROCKETT COUNTY COMMISSIONER

We are having a special event and we hope you can help us get the word out to people. Here is a little write up I put together to explain our event.

We have a great group of men and women who give much of their time, to ensure our community is protected from all different types of fires, they respond to accidents, assist in ambulance runs, stay trained by attending firefighter training, and participate in the community such in parades and other activities throughout the year. These men and women are our firemen and they do all this voluntarily.

Our firemen operate out of the Crockett County Fire Department and although the county provides them with the equipment they need to do their jobs. The budget they have is only enough to cover their equipment. Our volunteer firemen have a special account that is used to help them purchase items that they use that is not provided by the county. The funds are from donations they receive. Sometimes they use this fund to purchase food and drinks during fire calls. With so many wildfires this account can deplete very quickly.

We want to recognize our firemen and our fire department by providing an event that not only allows us to do some recognition but also allows us to raise some funds for their special account.

Please mark your calendars. The Firefighter's Fire Ball Benefit Dinner and Dance will be held from 6 p.m.-midnight Saturday, Nov. 7, at the Crockett County Fair Park Convention Center.

Cost is $50 per couple; $25 per person; $10 ages 7-18 and 6 under free.

The event semi-formal. Jacket is required.

Farmers receiving USDA Services documentation

BY MELISSA PERNER
THE OZONA STOCKMAN

U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Farm Service Agency (FSA) State Executive Director Judith A. Canales reminds agricultural producers that FSA provides a receipt to customers who request or receive assistance or information on FSA programs.

"If you visit our office, you'll receive documentation of services requested and provided," said Canales. "It's part of our mission to provide enhanced customer service for producers. From December through June, FSA issued more than 327,000 electronic receipts."

The 2014 Farm Bill requires a receipt to be issued for any agricultural program assistance requested from FSA, the National Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) and Rural Development (RD). Receipts include the date, summary of the visit and any agricultural information, program and/or loan assistance provided to an individual or entity.

In some cases, a form or document - such as a completed and signed program enrollment form - serve as the customer receipt instead of a printed or electronic receipt.

Chavarria recognized Ozona Principals last week at the Oct. 21 regular school board meeting.

"I would like to recognize our principals for all of their hard work and dedication. Being a principal is one of the most difficult jobs one can have. The principals of Crockett County Schools are to be commended for their positive leadership, care for kids, and working with parents in our community," Chavarria said. "Our principals have worked extremely hard to meet the rigorous standards set forth by our state and have met all challenges involved. I would like to thank our principals as being the best in their field."

Ronny Clayton is the Ozona High School Principal.

"He has one of the most difficult positions in the district. He is visible at all of the school events and supports all of our programs with pride," Chavarria said.

Tammy McWilliams is the principal at Ozona Middle School and Ozona Elementary School. She was recently named Principal of the Year by the Texas Association of School Administrators.

"Our schools have flourished under her guidance," Chavarria said.

Vicky Munoz is the OES Assistant Principal.

"She has done a fantastic job for our kids. She performs her job with a smile and always does a great job for our students," Chavarria said.

Erica Cruz is in her first year as OMS Assistant Principal.

"She has unlimited energy and enthusiasm for CCCC-SD," Chavarria said.

Janina Savala is currently our director of federal programs.

"Through her guidance and leadership Ozona Elementary met all of the state's standards this past year and is leading our title programs," Chavarria said.

Abbott's proclamation also stated that "principals are more than just caretakers of their schools. Principals are expected to be educational leaders, disciplinarians, community builders, spokesmen, budget analysts and guardians of policy mandates and initiatives. Principals set the academic tone for their schools and work collaboratively with teachers to set performance objectives and maintain high curriculum standards."

TEXAS JOINS SUIT TO STOP EPA

A U.S. Environmental Protection Agency rule to reduce carbon emissions from electric-generating plants by 32 percent below 2005 levels by 2030 is the target of a lawsuit filed in the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit by 24 states, including Texas.

Under the rule, Section 111(d) of the Clean Air Act, the EPA establishes guidelines and states design programs that fit in those guidelines to reduce air pollution.

Texas Attorney General Ken Paxton on Oct. 23 said "to achieve these reductions, EPA will require states to shut down coal plants prematurely and invest billions of dollars in new renewable generation."

Paxton maintains that the EPA doesn't have authority to enforce the rule, and said the goal of the lawsuit is "to prevent massive increases in electric bills that would hurt

HIGHER ED GETS NEW CHIEF

Gov. Abbott on Oct. 21 appointed Bobby Jenkins as chairman of the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board.

Jenkins, president of ABC Home and Commercial Services, has served as vice chairman of the coordinating board since September 2013. He succeeds Chairman Raymond A. Paredes of El Paso as chairman. Paredes was appointed by then-governor Rick Perry in 2004.

The agency's mission is "to promote access, affordability, quality, success, and cost efficiency in the state's institutions of higher education."

WEEK'S FOCUS: STUDENT SAFETY

Safe Schools Week was observed in Texas, Oct. 18-24.

Under state law, each school district is required to adopt a multi-hazard emergency operations plan.

"Every student in Texas should be confident that they are being provided an education in a safe environment," Texas Education Commissioner Michael Williams said on Oct. 19. "Safe Schools Week is an annual reminder to everyone in education of our need to plan and prepare for whatever potential situation might arise on school campuses," he added.
