Foul ups prompt state to scrap school test scores

Fifth and eighth grade retests canceled, but CCCSD will continue to offer summer school

Fifth and eighth graders who failed STAAR exams this year won't be held back a grade or be required to retest later this month, Education Commissioner Mike Morath announced late Friday, citing "ongoing reporting issues" with the state's new testing vendor.

"I apologize for the continuing problems our students and staff are being forced to deal with because of ongoing reporting issues with our testing vendor," Morath said in a statement. "Kids in the classroom should never suffer from mistakes made by adults. We intend to hold the vendor, Educational Testing Service, accountable."

CCCSD Superintendent Raul Chavarria issued the following statement in regards to summer school:

"On Friday TEA Commissioner Mike Morath released a statement saying that the Spring STAAR results would not keep the students in grades 5 and 8 from advancing to the next grade level.

CCCSD will continue to offer summer school to our students that need remediation. We want to focus on learning this summer without the pressure of retaking the STAAR Test.

If you do not wish to bring your child, please let us know and we will honor your decision. All we ask is that students who wish to continue in summer school maintain good attendance as our teachers have planned well for their instruction."

Summer school will still continue for OHS.

OHS Principal Ronny Clayton said it will run June 20-July 7. No summer school will be held on Fridays or on the Fourth of July Holiday.

Clayton said it will run 8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. depending on the number of end-of-course tests students need to take.

EOC testing is scheduled for July 11-15.

County budget discussions continue

BY MELISSA PERNER

County budget discussions and cuts continued during Monday's regular commissioners' court meeting.

County Auditor Janie Chandler presented the commissioners with a 2017 budget of $1.5 million less than 2016.

The 2017 proposed budget showed cuts in every department.

With the drop in oil and gas production, Crockett County is facing a 40 percent drop in revenue.

One item that County Judge Fred Deaton said the county needs to address is creating a budget for a new wellness center. While the building may not be completed until 2018, Deaton said the county needs to have something in place in case it is operational in 2017.

Deaton said he is estimating $130,000 to $150,000 to operate the center.

"This is just a best guess because that's all you can do right now," Deaton said.

On the new jail, Deaton said the current budget should suffice by taking the $160,000 for outside county inmate housing and using that Rob Holladay presented local children and adults with a wide variety of balloon animals and shapes Thursday during the Crockett County Public Library's Summer Reading Program.

Holladay, known as the Magical Balloon Guy, gave two performances at the library, one at the Ozona Community Center and one at the Crockett County Civic Center.

His program, called "Ready 2 Read," teaches children to work as a team by lending a helping hand, using their heart, seeing the best in others and always listening.

Holladay has been performing for 20 years, and has been voted the number one children's entertainer and balloon artist.

"I want to encourage children to read and use their imaginations using stories told with, or by, balloons," Holladay said.

The library will host Clint Pustejovsky and his Texas Snakes, for their program Monday from Local man pulls knife on Reagan County Deputy

BY J.L. MANKIN
THE BIG LAKE WILDCAT

Two Ozona men were arrested two weeks ago following a traffic stop west of Big Lake on US 67.

The brothers, Timothy Beseril and Manuel Beseril, were charged with possession of a dangerous substance, a third degree felony, for a 29.4 gram bag of pills identified as Xanax.

Sheriff Jeff Garner said his department will also pursue charges against Timothy Beseril for an open pocket knife he had in his hand when he was removed from the vehicle.

"Deputy Tommy Hain pulled the Nissan Frontier over for driving into oncoming traffic," Garner said of the May 31 incident. "He received consent to search the vehicle from the driver, and that is when he ran into issues with the passenger."

Garner said that Timothy Beseril was reluctant to get out of the vehicle when Deputy Hain told him to.

TIMOTHY BESERIL

"It was clear something wasn't right," Garner said. "When Deputy Hain touched the subject's right hand he noticed that he had an open pocket knife clenched in his hand with the blade along his forearm."

Garner said a struggle ensued, and Deputy Hain was able to push the subject away and draw his gun.

"You never know what is going through someone's mind," Garner said. "I'm not sure if he was just trying to hide the weapon, or if he was planning on using it. I do know that people who know how to effectively use a knife hold it that way."

Garner said Timothy Beseril dropped the knife and obeyed commands after Deputy Hain drew his weapon.

Garner said his department will pursue a charge of resisting arrest with a deadly weapon, a third degree felony, during the next grand jury.

"We had to all take a step back before we charged him," Garner said. "We looked at assault of a peace officer with a deadly weapon, but feel no actual assault occurred. I believe firmly that one was about to happen, but Deputy Should small business owners take a vacation? Yes!

Could you, would you, should you take a vacation? Most small business owners would answer this with an emphatic "no way." The answer should really be, "Yes, way!"

Be intentional about taking time off, get it on the calendar as far in advance as possible. Anticipation of taking a vacation will help you prioritize your to-do list. Take that list and assign tasks to yourself and your employees then promptly complete the tasks. You will find that having these chores finished will make a difference in how relaxed you'll feel on vacation.

In order to enjoy your vacation time, assign one person on your staff to be the "designated dialer" while you're gone. First, all employees know that they have to go through the designated dialer to contact you. Secondly, "That way, if something bad happens or if something goes in a ditch, you'll have the peace of mind knowing you'll get a call," states John Felkins, EntreLeadership Coach.

Taking a vacation would be a great idea if you can get past the culturally embedded idea that taking too much vacation (2-3 weeks) might be frowned upon. Vacation days are not a statutory requirement in the United States. In a report from the Center for Economic and Policy Research dated May 2013, the United States was the only country in the comparison of "21 rich countries" which did not require employers to provide paid vacation time. Austria had the most days with 13 paid holidays and 25 paid vacation days.

Yes, you should take a vacation for your physical health and sense of well-being.

Tony Schwartz, founder of The Energy Project, realized how vital vacation time can be. When in the establishment of his business, Schwartz noticed that "intensity of demand had begun to wear down [my employees] and it showed up in a collective tendency to be more emotionally reactive - shorter and sharper - and more willing to settle for an easy solution rather than do the hard work necessary to get the best result." Schwartz suggests that people use every vacation day they have.

Vacations help manage stress now, but more importantly, it helps you manage stress in the future. Psychologist Debra Mulhern suggests, "Not taking time off can make it harder for our minds and bodies to relax not - and from now on! The neural connections that produce feelings of calm and peacefulness become weaker, making it actually more difficult to shift into less-stressed modes. With the amount of stress we carry, we must cultivate resiliency." As a business owner, you would, could, and should take a vacation. Dave Ramsey gets right to the point, "You can either change the oil in your car today or replace the engine tomorrow. So you need to take a vacation now, or [you will] burn-out and quit your business in 10 years. It's up to you."

Computer science must be top education priority

Editor's note: The following article was originally published in the San Antonio Express-News.

In Texas, an estimated 42,000 computing jobs are waiting to be filled. In 2015, 2,000 computer scientists graduated in Texas. You do not have to be a math major to see this is a problem.

As a computer science graduate of Texas A&M University, I wish more kids were going into my field of study. As a congressman who represents San Antonio — which has the most cybersecurity professionals outside the national capital region — I see the growing need for a workforce with strong coding and analytical skills. And as the elected representative of an economically disadvantaged region, I want parents and students to be aware of the benefits that computing jobs provide. The average salary of a computer science professional is more than $85,000 — almost twice the average salary in Texas.

science education a priority. Superintendents, principals and teachers are in a unique position to shape the future of computer science education by working together to give students access to top-notch curricula and extracurricular activities. Superintendents must work with principals to get computer science in the classroom, and principals must ensure there are enough qualified teachers. The quality of our workforce will directly correlate to the preparation of our educators.

School districts cannot do this alone. Community leadership plays a vital role in the multifaceted approach we need for a well-rounded computer science education. Universities, colleges and computer science associations must contribute to the training of students who will work in their industries and drive them into the next decade. Through partnerships with high schools, institutions of higher education can help design and offer meaningful curriculum that will allow students to gain college credit early and stay on track to fill one of the ever-increasing positions in the computer science field. Private sector involvement is not only beneficial to students — it is absolutely necessary.

Too few Texas high schools offer Advanced Placement computer science. In the 2014-15 school year, only 298 schools offered the class (only 17 percent of the Texas schools that offer AP programs). At the middle-school level, only a handful of schools offer coding classes. Coding for this generation will be as important as typing classes were for my generation. If you are not proficient, you will be left behind.

As chairman of the Information Technology Subcommittee, I've learned that technological change follows a pattern of exponential growth. The change and innovation during the last 20 years is going to be minor compared to the change we will witness the next 20 years. That is why we must prepare our kids for jobs that don't exist yet.

This year, Congress passed and the president signed into law the Every Student Succeeds Act, or ESSA, which replaced No Child Left Behind and puts our nation on track to improve K-12 education. ESSA allows states to provide computer science teacher training, professional development for the use of technology, and enhance the overall quality of computer science and STEM curriculum. This bill increases flexibility for funding so schools can work on programs that best align with local priorities — and now is the time to make computer

Conflict of Interest

IT'S THE PITTS
LEE PITTS

Ever since I caught my sister's Hampshire show pig flirting with one of my Suffolk ewes I have collected photographic evidence that animals don't always confine their love interests to members of their own specie. I have made a lifelong study of trans-specie entanglements and knowing this, friends and readers have sent me pictures of cows nursing goats, goats nursing calves, and hogs breeding heifers. Or at least trying to.

In Chicago there was once a very brave and famous dog that was foster mother to a boy of lion cubs and in the October 16, 2006 issue of the Fence Post magazine there was a picture of a goat nursing a kitten and a Hereford calf sucking a mare. I've always wondered when the mare looked back and saw a calf tugging at her flank if she thought, "Rats, another year I won't be the mother of a Triple Crown winner."

I must admit that there have been instances where deranged individuals have used computers to create photos of suck-ups that were fake. For example, a newspaper once ran a questionable portrait of an elephant letting a baby mule nurse, but I think this cartoon was more of a symbolic political statement about Democrats and Republicans than it was about real animals.

Sadly, animals aren't the only ones who get conflicted and confused. There have been photos of a woman in Venezuela suckling a dog and a woman in this country nursing a bear cub. Although I applaud her bravery, I do wonder if she has mental health issues.

I think you'll agree, as stockman we should not be encouraging such disturbing animal behavior. It's our responsibility to keep species separate, but NO, we graft a Longhorn calf on an Angus cow or a baby Suffolk on to a Southdown ewe. Or we'll use a Holstein cow as a recipient mother for an Angus embryo. You just know that the haughty Holstein on giving birth to a beef animal will say to herself, "I must have been drunk out of my mind on that blind date nine months ago." And I feel for the calf when it figures out it was adopted.

I think it behooves all of us, humans and animals, to know our place in life, but sadly, we don't. For example, a sicko friend of mine in Gardnerville, Nevada, once sent me a photo of a Hampshire boar trying to breed a young, innocent crossbred bovine. I know pigs are optimistic creatures by nature but he wasn't getting that job done without a stepladder. It would be like a Texan shacking up with someone from Massachusetts. You just know Mother Nature is not going to let something like that happen.

I find such animal behavior appalling and I can unequivocally say that when it comes to pigs, they are simply swine. There are 1,800,000 named species on earth and I think every one of them has been approached by a roguish boar. Hogs seem to have a special fondness for sheep and there is even a breed of hogs called Herefords. I don't even want to know how they got their name.

It's not just domesticated animals that are trying to suck the wrong mothers or engage in disgusting behavior with Yaks and Buffalo. I'm quite sure coyotes have considered mating with sheep in order to raise their own food source and zoos are veritable sin castles for bored wild creatures with too much time on their hands. Or should I say paws and hooves? Years ago at the Institute of Greatly Endangered and Rare Species in Miami, Florida, a lion and a tiger showed what can happen when two species live in close proximity and have a fatal attraction for one another. I'm a little confused about all the details but it seems a Tigon or Liger was born. You just have to wonder about the intelligence of a zookeeper who would create a thousand pound animal that can run 50 miles per hour and can eat 100 pounds of meat in one sitting. Run for your life!

You think we have problems with predators now, it will be the end of the cattle and sheep industries as we know them if endangered wolves ever figure out how to mate with endangered grizzlies

Governors confer about containing spread of Zika

AUSTIN — Gov. Greg Abbott on June 9 participated in a White House-hosted conference call for governors to discuss the Zika virus threat and what to do about it.

U.S. Secretary of Health and Human Services Sylvia Burwell and Centers for Disease Control and Prevention Director Dr. Tom Frieden led the call.

Frieden said no vaccine exists to prevent the Zika virus disease, and the way for individuals to prevent contracting the disease is to avoid getting bitten by mosquitoes.

"With the recent floods, and as we enter the height of mosquito season, I encourage Texans to take precautions to protect themselves from mosquito exposure and heed all warnings and recommendations from health officials," Abbott said after the conference call.

While the Texas Task Force on Infectious Disease Preparedness and Response

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS By Ed Sterling | Texas Press Association

and the Department of State Health Services finalize a plan to combat the spread of the virus, the most important thing Texans can do is to remain vigilant, including when traveling abroad to countries experiencing Zika outbreaks and eliminating standing water, Abbott added.

On May 13, the CDC gave states and territories until June 13 to apply for funds to fight Zika.

The CDC acknowledged the $85 million in available funding is not enough to support a comprehensive Zika response and can only temporarily address what is needed.

DSHS REPORTS ON ZIKA

The Texas Department of State Health Services on June 10 said Texas has had 41 reported cases of Zika virus disease.

Of those cases, 40 were in travelers who were infected abroad and diagnosed after they returned home; one of those travelers was a pregnant woman. One case involved a Dallas County resident who had sexual contact with someone who acquired the Zika infection while traveling abroad.

The DSHS posted this list of Zika cases by county: Bexar, 6; Collin, 1; Dallas, 6; Denton, 2; Ellis, 1; Fort Bend, 2; Grayson, 1; Harris, 13; Tarrant, 4; Travis, 2; Val Verde, 1; Williamson, 1; and Wise, 1, for a total of 41 cases.

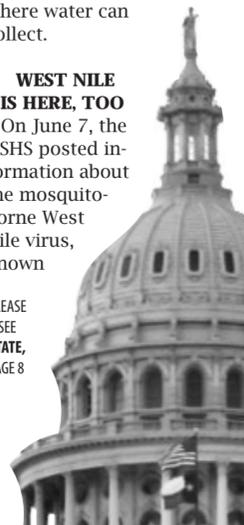

The DSHS is advising Texans to protect themselves against Zika by applying EPA-registered insect repellents; wearing pants and long-sleeved shirts that cover exposed skin; using screens or closing windows and doors to keep mosquitoes out; removing standing water in and around the home; and covering trash cans or containers where water can collect.

What can we say about tooth decay

Most of us are aware of the relationship between sugar and dental cavities but it is much more involved. The causation of dental caries (tooth decay) is directly related to the consumption of all refined carbohydrates; table sugar, high fructose corn syrup, wheat and other refined grains.

Dr. Weston A. Price describes the harm done by the incorporation of the "western diet" by transitioning aboriginal societies during the early 20th century in his renowned book, "Nutrition and Physical Degeneration". Price believed dental caries occurred as a result of the lack of micronutrients, extracted from sugar and grains in the refining process.

An article in an old copy of the Journal of Dental Research: "A Comparison of Crude and Refined Sugar and Cereals in Their Ability to Produce in vitro Decalcification of Teeth" was published in 1937 by Dr. T. W. B. Osborn et al. The authors observed that the South African Bantu had a low prevalence of tooth decay when eating their native diet, high in unrefined carbohydrate foods. However, their decay rate increased rapidly as they changed to the modern foods of the western diet, such as cereals, white flour and refined sugar.

Testing whether refined carbohydrates have a unique ability to cause tooth decay, the investigators used pieces of teeth incubated for 2-8 weeks at 98.6 degrees with a mixture of saliva and different carbohydrates. They were crude cane juice, refined cane sugar, whole wheat flour, white wheat flour, whole corn meal and refined corn meal. Trained dentists assessed the teeth for signs of decalcification (the loss of minerals in teeth, in the process of decay).

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

solution each tooth came from. This is a method of reducing bias. Here are some of their results:

"Unrefined cane juice was not very effective at causing decalcification, compared to refined sugar... the result for wheat... and particularly refined wheat, is very good at decalcifying teeth in vitro... refined corn is much more effective at decalcifying teeth than whole meal corn. Refined wheat is worse than refined corn, is worse than refined sugar. This is really at odds with conventional wisdom."

The authors of the study tested the acidity of the different solutions, and found no real differences between them, all were at a pH of 4.5 within 24 hours, so acid production by bacteria didn't account for the results. "It was suspected that the phytic acid content of the grains, which binds the minerals and makes them partially unavailable to diffusion into the teeth. Cane juice contains minerals, but no phytic acid, so it may have a higher mineral availability."

In another paper, Dr. Osborn and his group showed they could retard the decalcification process by adding organic calcium and phosphorus salts to the solution. The amounts of calcium and phosphorus similar to the amounts found in unrefined cane sugar, wheat and corn are required to inhibit calcification. This suggests that refined sugar and grains cause decay because most of the minerals are removed during the refining process.

The results suggest that refined carbohydrates are chiefly responsible for promoting plaque and cavities, due to a direct demineralizing effect on teeth after bacterial acid production. It also supports Dr. Price's contention that a food's micronutrient content is the primary determining effect on dental health.

In January 2015, the American Dental Association declared, "Tooth decay occurs when foods containing carbohydrates (sugars and starches), such as breads, cereals, milk, soda, fruits, cakes, or candy are left on the teeth. Bacteria that live in the mouth digest these foods, turning them into acids. The bacteria, acid, food debris, and saliva combine to form plaque, which clings to the teeth. The acids in plaque dissolve the enamel surface of the teeth, creating holes in the teeth called cavities."

I eliminated all sugar and sweeteners, grains and starchy vegetables from the way I eat almost two years ago and can only reiterate all the above. Similarly, the elimination of these particular carbohydrates had many, many other benefits to my overall health and wellness.

My recommendation is not to do as I did, but to educate yourself about the issues relative to your health, consider the advice of your general practitioner, take responsibility for your wellness and be proactive in your strategy for a quality lifestyle.

Here's to your health.

OBITUARIES

Martha Bailey Henderson

Martha Bailey Henderson was received into the arms of our Lord Jesus on Sunday, June 12, 2016 after a long illness. She was 78 years old. Martha was born March 13, 1938 in Abilene, Texas to Thomas Jefferson (T.J.) and Jewel Roach Bailey. Martha married John Lee Henderson, Jr. in 1956. They raised two children in Ozona, Texas, also living a short time in San Angelo, Texas.

Martha was a charter member of the Ozona Women's League and a member of the Ozona United Methodist Church. She led the Methodist Youth Fellowship program for several years there.

In 1970 Martha accepted a position as an eighth grade home economics teacher in a two year pilot program for the Crockett County School District. Even though she did not hold a college degree, her natural born talents in all aspects of homemaking proved sufficient for the job. This effort ultimately led to an established HE middle school program in Crockett County.

As a wife and mother, Martha devoted herself to homemaking. She spoiled her family daily with delicious home cooking and special treats, which included "lion-wiches" for her daughter's band trips. And there was usually at least one orphaned animal in the backyard that she was nursing to maturity. Martha's greatest joy in these years was participating in the extracurricular activities of her son and daughter.

Over the years Martha also spent many enjoyable hours at the bridge table with family and friends. Martha was associated with Frost Brothers Department Store in San Antonio, Texas for over 10 years, most of those as a bridal consultant. She had a good eye for fashion and enjoyed helping young women plan their trousseaus, but her gift of gab was the key to her success in clothing sales.

In later years Martha discovered Seabourn Cruise Lines. For many years taking cruises was her passion. If she wasn't on a cruise, she was planning her next. She made many wonderful friends from around the world and always came home with a plethora of stories. So many have described her as "one of a kind." She was truly authentic. She got great joy from giving.

Whether a homemade gift or an eBay treasure, if you were on the receiving end, it was sure to be a "surprise." She was a great storyteller and delivered her monologues with perfect pauses and unique expressions. Her quick wit always guaranteed a laugh. "Honey" adored her six grandchildren and spent many hours creating outrageous gifts and activities for their entertainment.

Martha's great-grandfather, Ambrose Roach was an Irish immigrant. He and his wife, Mattie, settled in Schleicher County in the late 1800s. Martha was very proud of her Irish heritage and stayed connected to relatives in Ireland her entire life. Martha returned to her family's roots in the 1990s and enjoyed many years in the sweet community of Eldorado, Texas. Although a world traveler, she loved the small town life and the simplicity associated with it. She knew no stranger and connected easily to all ages.

Martha was preceded in death by her parents.

She is survived by her daughter, Virginia Howell and husband, John, of Eldorado, Texas and her son, John L. Henderson, III and wife, Jeannine of Ozona, Texas; a brother, Joe Bailey and Debbie Hartgrove of San Angelo; granddaughters, Jenna Penner and husband, Mark and Julia Schwartz and husband, Jake; grandsons, Drew, Ross, Stuart and Will Howell. Martha was blessed to become a great-grandmother in the past year to Chase Penner and Jadon Schwartz. She is also survived by nephew, Kevin Bailey and wife, Vera, and their daughter, Bianca; cousins Marinell Swope and Tom Roach.

The family would like to express their heartfelt thanks to Martha's special friends and caregivers, Hortencia Garza, Daniel Martinez and Lenore Garza who tirelessly gave much time and energy to her comfort. Also to Drs. Pajestka and Burt and Monica Kessler, PA and all their medical staff.

Graveside services will be 10 a.m. Thursday, June 16, 2016, in Cedar Hill Cemetery in Ozona followed by a Memorial Service at 2:30 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church in Eldorado.

Pallbearers are Drew Howell, Ross Howell, Stuart Howell, Will Howell, Mark Penner, Jake Schwartz and Daniel Martinez. Honorary Pallbearers are David Doran, Bob Johnson, Rico Forlano, Edward Lent, Bernay Sheffield, Jerry Perry, George Bunker and Fred Van Shou-brouek.

In lieu of flowers, memorials can be made to the Eldorado Woolen Mills or Concho Valley PAWS.

BOY, MAN, DAD

Next Sunday the 19th will be Father's Day and it started on July 5, 1908 to honor 250 fathers killed in a mining and was later changed to the third Sunday of June. As I remember my dad and observe other dads it is amazing to watch the transition from man to father or dad. One dad I know has a big fancy motorcycle and a hot rod pickup and now a family. He is having a struggle but he is going to sell his motorcycle and pickup. You see they need a four door sedan for the family. Yes, there are sacrifices that should be made for the family. Thinking about sacrifices I am reminded of someone in the Bible that made a great sacrifice for us, (Romans 6:23). It was Jesus Christ who proved His love by giving everything He had for us, (Romans 5:8, 1 Peter 3:18). His sinless life and ultimate sacrifice provided a way that our sins could be forgiven and we could have a new life or relationship to God, (Titus 3:5, John 5:24). Many times children have no idea the sacrifices parents and fathers make for their well-being. I think they will never understand fully until they have children. I saw a large list of ideas for father's day gifts and that may be good. But sometimes a simple thank you daddy or I love you may mean a lot more. See you in Church next Sunday.

Funds raised to honor fallen officer

A portion of U.S. 67 between McCamey and Rankin will be renamed in memory of slain Department of Public Safety Trooper Sammy Long.

Long, a 17-year DPS veteran, was shot and killed in the line of duty Nov. 21, 1976, about 5 miles east of Rankin on U.S. 67.

After witnessing the attack from a nearby roadside park, a deer hunter from San Angelo, who asked to remain anonymous, shot and killed the assailant.

Forty years after the incident, a group of McCamey High School graduates petitioned the Texas Department of Transportation to erect two signs and name the section of U.S. 67 in his memory.

A bank account is set up at Wells Fargo Bank, 3806 Loop 306 in San Angelo, to raise funds for the signs. Deposits can be made and checks can also be sent to: The Sammy Long Memorial Sign, c/o Bruce Fletcher, 102 Churchill Blvd., San Angelo, Texas 76904.

The committee also sponsoring the Trooper Sammy Long Memorial Golf Tournament on June 20 at Bentwood Country Club. The four-person scramble has a per-player donation of $125, which includes lunch, greens fee and cart rental as well as mulligans and entry into various contests.

Individuals and businesses can sponsor a hole for $100.

Any extra money raised will be donated to the Upton County Fallen Officers Memorial Scholarship Fund in McCamey.

For more information about the tournament, call the Bentwood Pro Shop at (325) 944-8575. To sign up for the tournament or sponsor a hole, call (325) 450-7366.

OHS Lady Lions Spring League Basketball

The OHS Lady Lions Basketball Team have been competing in Spring Leagues in Mertzon and Iraan.

"The Ozona Lady Pride Girl's Basketball Team finished its most successful spring leagues in Mertzon and Iraan that I have witnessed," said Coach Lee Abbey.

With both teams undefeated, Ozona and Fort Stockton met in their final game with Ozona winning 38-35.

The Lady Lions were the only undefeated team in the league defeating Iraan, Rankin, Big Lake and Fort Stockton.

Thanks goes out to those who have helped coach teams at different times: Laurissa Lozano, Eddie Lozano, Pricila Aguirre and Jaclyn Abbey.

Morath's announcement marks a departure in opinion for the state education chief, who previously said there wasn't enough evidence to warrant scrapping all state-wide exams for the purposes of holding students accountable. Friday's announcement did not address whether exam scores, including those of fifth and eighth graders, would be used to rate schools under the state's accountability system.

But Morath did make it clear that districts still may hold fifth and eighth graders back — or make them go to summer school — if they deem it appropriate.

"Even though state requirements have been waived, districts are still encouraged to use local discretion to determine on an individual basis whether accelerated instruction should be offered to support students," the news release said.

The problems also have affected high school STAAR tests, but state law doesn't allow the education commissioner to waive graduation requirements.

This past school year was the first that the New Jersey-based company known as ETS developed and administered the State of Texas Assessment of Academic Readiness exams, which fifth and eighth graders and high schoolers are supposed to pass before they can move on to the next grade or graduate. State law allows Morath to waive the requirement whenever necessary, the Texas Education Agency noted in a news release.

School districts have reported dozens of logistical and technical issues during the various spring administrations of the state-required exams.

Problems first surfaced in March, when school districts reported problems with online tests that caused students to lose answers. The computer glitch impacted more than 14,000 exams.

CCCSO had nine students affected by the computer glitch, but their tests were able to be recovered.

Several other issues have surfaced since, including — most recently — claims from a high-performing West Austin school district that ETS had lost all exams taken by third through eighth graders that it shipped to the company.

ETS denied it had lost the tests. A spokesman did not immediately respond to an emailed request for comment late Friday.

The issues, which are not entirely unprecedented, have fueled an existing backlash against the state's testing and accountability system, the stakes of which many parents and educators believe are too high.

The announcement is a victory for parents and educators who had urged Morath to discount STAAR scores.

Last month, a group of parents sued the state in an attempt to block it from using STAAR scores results to make grade promotion decisions for younger students, including grades other than fifth and eighth, or to decide whether they should attend summer school.

Further review of the announcement is needed before they can decide whether to drop the lawsuit, said the parents' lawyer Scott Placek. It seems that the exam scores still will appear in students' records regardless of whether they are used to decide whether to promote them, he noted. "They could completely toss the scores out, which in a way I think they're trying to do without doing it," he said, describing an ideal scenario.

Hain's quick action prevented it."

Garner said a back up call was sent out once Deputy Hain discovered the knife, and that several Reagan County officers descended on the scene.

"I will commend Deputy Hain for the job he did of protecting himself, but also for how he restrained himself," Garner said. "It is easy for a young officer to react with force in that situation, and I am proud that he was able to keep a level head and get things under control."

Two Reagan County deputies transported Timothy Beseiril to the Upton County Jail where he fought with jail personnel as they were booking him in.

"Our deputies ended up escorting him to the hospital over there for injuries he sustained during the booking process," Garner said. "He ended up being transferred to Midland because of the injuries."

Garner said his brother, Manuel Beseiril, was also transported to Upton County with no incident.

"It turned into a long night for all of us," Garner said. "I am proud of how Deputy Hain and the rest of our department handled it though. It turned into a good traffic stop for us."

Garner said pocket knife Timothy Beseiril had in his hand had a four inch blade on it.

"I believe he had a plan on how he was going to use the blade," Garner said. "But Deputy Hains quick action put a kink in those plans."

Garner said the Beseiril brothers were traveling to Ozona from Odessa where they had purchased the pills.

to be active in Texas.

The agency said the state's first case of the nervous system-attacking disease was diagnosed in a person from El Paso County.

In 2015, some 275 human cases of West Nile illness were reported in Texas, reportedly causing 16 deaths.

HURRICANE DRILL IS HELD

The Texas Department of Public Safety on June 8 posted information about a multi-agency exercise in which a mock "Hurricane Tejas" led to the evacuation of a sample group of 300 people.

The agency's Texas Division of Emergency Management coordinated the exercise with local, state, federal and private sector partners, moving volunteer "general and medical evacuees" from the lower Rio Grande Valley to the sheltering jurisdictions of San Antonio, Austin, Fort Worth and Irving.

DPS Director Steven McCraw said, "Protecting Texans from natural disasters demands vigorous preparation, and exercises like this keep our emergency management system honed and ready to assist our local partners should a significant storm threaten Texas."

TAX ALLOCATIONS ARE LOWER

Texas Comptroller Glenn Hegar on June 8 announced his office will send cities, counties, transit systems and special purpose taxing districts $618 million in local sales tax allocations for June, 1.8 percent less than in June 2015.

These allocations are based on sales made in April by businesses that report tax monthly. "Energy-centric cities such as Midland, Odessa and Corpus Christi continued to see decreases in sales tax allocations," Hegar said. "Meanwhile, other areas of the state helped offset those losses as Austin, El Paso and Irving saw moderate increases in allocations."

WATERWAY GAINS STATUS

The U.S. Department of Transportation has granted the Texas Department of Transportation's application to designate the Gulf Intracoastal Waterway from Brownsville to Port Arthur as Marine Highway 69, TxDOT announced June 8.

According to TxDOT, the designation clears the way for federal grants to ports for projects along the waterway that would help relieve roadway congestion.

Texas Transportation Commissioner Jeff Moseley said, "We are now better-positioned to shift freight from our congested roads to Marine Highway 69's waterborne freight system, where it can be more efficiently transported."

toward hiring new jailers.

The new jail will require a full-time dispatcher and a full-time jailer on the floor at all times, creating an additional position.

Sheriff Robert Rodriguez said another budget item to consider is meals for the new jail.

Currently, the Crockett County Care Center provides meals for inmates. With the new jail, Administrator Robert Stecher said the Care Center will have to have additional staff since the new jail can hold up to 24 inmates.

Rodriguez said there are several options the jail can choose besides the Care Center, including hiring a person at the jail to oversee the meals using trustees.

Crockett County Voters approved a $6 million bond for the new jail and a $4 million bond for the wellness center in November.

The commissioners will continue budget discussions at future meetings.

RURAL TRANSPORTATION

The commissioners heard a presentation from Vince Huerta from the Concho Valley Council of Governments regarding the Thunderbird Transportation.

Huerta said the transportation division and the Area Agency on Aging are working together to be more compliant with the AAA's 60-plus program that provides free Thunderbird transportation.

Huerta said AAA only has enough funding to cover 200 trips in the entire Concho Valley area, but have been conducting 2,300 trips under the program.

Miscommunication between the transportation office and the AAA was one of the causes, Huerta said.

"The issue snowballed," Huerta said. "All we are really addressing is to fix that program."

Deaton said the county pays 50 percent of the complete cost of the van, and that a large part of Crockett County are over the age of 60.

"I agree some of the system maybe overusing the system to some degree, and I think we need to try to correct some of the abuse of the system," Deaton said. "However, some of the people I think really can't afford to ride it in the first place."

Commissioner Frank Tambunga said a lot of elderly constituents in his precinct have complained about the fees, especially those on fixed incomes. Cost is $.75 for one-way and $1.50 for round-trip in county and $2 for one-way and $4 for round-trip out of county, according to the Concho Valley Transit District's website.

"When this program was first started, I understood it was to help the elderly. Every time we want to use this service, the bus is out of town serving others. Compliance is different because we are in a rural area. You try to fall into compliance with the San Angelo area, but what you are trying to do in San Angelo does not fit in the rural area," Tambunga said.

Huerta said he was open to suggestions on the fares. He also said his office is hoping to receive some federal funding at the end of the month to help with the fares.

"We are working with our drivers to cushion this as much as possible. I know there are challenges," Huerta said.

The commissioners took no action on the issue.

IN OTHER BUSINESS, THE COMMISSIONERS:

- Approved renewal of a $34,000 contract with CopSync for the Crockett County Sheriff's Department.
- Approved Crockett County Care Center is a dba for Crockett County.
- Approved paying bills for the Crockett County Care Center roof project.
- Appointed Steve Kenley as Crockett County Fire Marshal.
- Approved Fourth of July Fireworks Show, street dance and tiki inflatable water park by the Knights of Columbus.
- Approved allocation of $1,500 to the Alcohol & Drug Abuse Council for the Concho Valley.

Public Notice

Q&A

What makes newspapers the best source for public notice?

Newspapers are independent, credible, and can guarantee readership. Newspaper readers pay attention to what's going on in the community.

Newspapers are read both in print and online. So are the public notices we publish. And after they're published, we archive them. Forever.

Since 1836, Texans have relied on their newspapers to provide public notices. They still do...for lots of good reasons.
