Commissioners approve wind farm reinvestment zone

BY MELISSA PERNER
THE OZONA STOCKMAN

Crockett County is one step closer to a proposed wind farm. After a public hearing Monday, the commissioners approved an order designating part of 30,000 to 35,000 acres of Crockett County as a reinvestment zone for the Rancho Wind Farm LLC. Project. Commissioner Wesley Bean abstained from voting due to a conflict of interest.

The reinvestment zone set the boundaries of a tax abatement.

The commissioners also unanimously approved a resolution declaring the county eligible to participate in tax abatements as authorized by Chapter 312 of the Texas Tax Code.

While these two motions were approved, this does not mean a tax abatement has been granted.

The county will now enter into negotiations with representatives of the project on the terms of the tax abatement.

Rancho Wind Farm LLC is proposing to construct, operate and maintain a wind electric generating facility, which will have an operating capacity of around 250 megawatts located in northwest Crockett County. The project was first presented at the Oct. 9 commissioners' court meeting.

Rancho Wind is currently designed with around 100 of the 2.5 megawatts GE turbines.

Construction is expected to begin late 2018 and be completed in late 2019. During peak construction, the project estimates there will be 250 temporary construction workers on site. Once the project is operational there will be seven permanent employees.

The project is being run through Scout Clean Energy out of Boulder, Colo.

Hurricane Harvey donations greatly appreciated

Dear Editor,

When I read in The Ozona Stockman that people in Ozona were making contributions to the victims of Hurricane Harvey, and that some of you even came here to Houston to rescue people from the flood waters, I was touched and grateful. The need was huge. My own neighborhood is near the Brazos River but thankfully the levees held. Many, many others were not so fortunate and they will be a long time recovering. I am sure those who grew up in Ozona and now live here in the Houston area join me in thanking you for your prayers and for your help.

Being the best in class, even as one

My daughter is in a high school marching band and every year they compete in UIL competition. They also compete in smaller festivals and contests in preparation for the UIL contests. They will compete against other schools in their same class (6A) for recognition and awards. These smaller events are important because they offer the opportunity to perform their routine in a contest environment before they do it for the UIL contest. The problem is that for some of these smaller non-UIL contests, we may be the only 6A band that shows and participates. So, it's a given on winning the Best in Class award when there is no competition. It can make it hard to know how good you are with nothing else to compare to and can lead to a false sense of security.

I have teased my daughter about the tough competition at these events and we laugh about it. I also tease her about being my favorite daughter. She gives the funny look and reminds me that she is my only daughter, only for me to say, "Best in Class!" When you are a small business in a small community, you may or may not have any or much local competition. On one hand, that is a great place to be. It offers you the chance to maximize your profitability, especially if it is a product or service that is highly in demand, or highly desirable.

The problem is how do you protect that position? First, you don't get slack about maximizing profits. This doesn't mean just to charge as much as you can. It means to make sure that you are keeping expenses as low as possible and avoid wasteful spending. Second, how often do you look at your financials? When was the last

The gun debate lets government off the hook after every mass shooting

It has to be frustrating to high public officials to witness recurrent and urgent public health crises and have little more than condolence to offer the victims. Over and again, they scramble to crime scenes where deranged people with guns have proven far too nimble for the law enforcement and mental health systems.

It's a problem government hasn't been able to solve.

"I wish some law would fix all this," Texas Attorney General Ken Paxton told Fox News this week, after 26 people were killed in a church in Sutherland Springs on Sunday morning. "The reality is, if somebody is willing to kill someone, changing gun laws probably doesn't affect that person. What you have to do is you have to allow citizens to protect themselves."

You heard him. You're on your own out there, folks.

Given their intractable positions over gun laws, government officials are as powerless in the face of mass shootings as they are in the aftermaths of tornados and hurricanes and other disasters — the vast array of unstoppable forces insurance companies refer to as Acts of God. Unable to prevent those events, they can only react in horror and sorrow.

Mass shootings are even less predictable than the weather. But through the National Weather Service and other outfits, the government has harnessed enough observational science to predict when and where storms are likely to hit. Even when they're wrong about the specifics, they still often save lives.

Mass shootings are more like the storms of 100 years ago — unpredictable, surprising, deadly and heart-breaking. Like the storms, they fade away quickly, leaving death and destruction and fear of the next one.

But the government isn't yet in a position to do anything about it, given the political stalemate over gun laws. Consider this for a moment without judging it, without cranking up the familiar arguments about guns: That debate doesn't matter as much as the problem of the shootings themselves. If these events were storms, we'd be trying to predict them — to limit the effects and risks of events we cannot figure out how to stop.

In the latest instance, one government agency — the U.S. Air Force — failed to tell other government agencies what they needed to know to keep the shooter from buying the guns he took to the First Baptist Church on Sunday morning. This case was on the radar and nobody noticed; perhaps it could have been prevented if they had done their jobs.

STATE ANALYSIS

Instead, we're right where we usually are: Police agencies are left with the clean-up and the duty of explaining, as best they can, what happened. Maybe they'll find something there that will help them put together a forecasting system like the one we have constructed around weather. A 15-minute warning would be everything in a shooting, just as it is when a tornado whirls in.

The regular arguments about weapons mask the uselessness of government officials who descend on these scenes with thoughts and prayers and sympathy. Emergency crews do their grim and vital work, saving lives that would otherwise be lost. Investigators sort out the details in a process that almost always — if slowly — makes law enforcement people smarter and improves their ability to stop some of the shooters still in our future.

Policymakers, however, are stumped. The gun stalemate is tiresome to all sides and seems safely quarantined from meaningful discussion or debate. Mental illness is clearly part of this, but it's an expensive part of this — difficult to address without serious and prolonged financial commitment.

Elected officials can do little more than what they do now. Show up. Offer solace and empathy. Promise investigative resources. Speak for the emergency crews and medical teams and law enforcement officers and investigators who are saving people and cleaning up and piecing together the latest volume in our growing history of terrible mass violence.

And then go home and wait for the next one — frustrated that they haven't been able to find a way to contain or control the stupefying plague of mass murder in America.

Maybe we should think and pray about that.

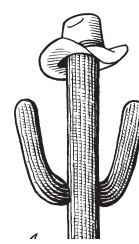

ROSS RAMSEY is executive editor and co-founder of The Texas Tribune. E-mail him at rramsey@texastribune.org.

He walked into the dump of a diner the regulars called "Aphids Place" and quickly surveyed the landscape. There were only six tables with six more seats at a dirty counter. He was there because an anonymous snitch said a major drug deal would be going down. The undercover cop quickly saw the suspected perps sitting in a booth tucked away in the back near the kitchen door.

It was a seedy hole in California's San Joaquin Valley, the milk and meth capital of the world. The cop had been in hundreds of such places, the kind frequented in early mornings by truck drivers, farmers, ranchers, and heavy equipment operators. He must admit, the druggies fit right in. Sitting on one side of the table was a man in his twenties, wearing a dirty, sweat-stained straw hat, cheap jeans he probably bought off the clearance rack at Target and a tee shirt that was frayed at the collar and on the front showed a funny car at the Famoso Drag strip with flames roaring from its fenders. Colorful tattoos peaked from beneath his shirt.

On the opposite side of the table sat a man and a woman who appeared to be married. Maybe, or maybe not, to each other. He wore a ball cap, long sleeve shirt and boots that had never felt a shoeshine. She was a fairly attractive woman who wore sunglasses rimmed in rhinestones with gaudy turquoise surrounding her wrists. Admittedly, not your typical looking crackhead but the deadly addiction attracts all kinds. Now they were all three trapped in the tight grasp of a worldwide cartel that sold premedicated murder.

The narco cop took a seat at the far end of the counter with his back to the drug buyers. It was as close as he could get without sitting in their laps. He placed an innocent looking pen on the greasy counter, clicked the directional microphone on and aimed it in their direction.

They spoke in hushed tones but he knew he'd hit pay dirt when the talk turned to "how good the grass was" and how they "sure had to have a lot more of it."

"So when will the guy be here with the drugs?" asked the nervous young man.

"Hopefully any minute," said the older man. "He's been acting really strange lately and won't answer my calls ever since the feds got something called a VFD to clamp down on all the drug dealers."

"But he's got the stuff, right? Cause I gotta have it," said the young dude.

"Yeah, he's trying to put the arm on me and says this will be the last of the really good stuff because the feds are breathing down the lab's neck."

"Right" said the young man, "I bet it was made in some Mexican lab."

"Or in China," chimed in the lady buyer, "Isn't it just like them to get you hooked (inaudible static when the waitress filled their coffee cups...) when you really need it all of a sudden they don't have it?"

"This is getting too complicated," the husband said. "I liked it better before the fed's started shutting down the small town dealers and the drugs were easier to get."

Just then the drug dealer walked in, saw his customers and collapsed into a chair. He fit the profile, being about 40, wearing dirty overalls with one sleeve cut off and smelling like decaying flesh. He wore a ball cap with some kind of weird snake and V design on it, probably the insignia of some new gang, thought the undercover cop.

"Got the stuff," asked the older man. "Yeah it's out in the truck," murmured the dealer.

That's all the cop needed. He swung on his stool, flashed his gun and his badge at the speechless perps, read them their rights, tied them up with plastic ties that cash strapped police forces are using for handcuffs these days, patted them down, called for backup and started the druggies on the perp walk out to his unmarked unit.

Despite their cries of innocence they were booked into the crossbar hotel and allowed one phone call each. The married man called a bail bondsman, his wife called a lawyer and the young dude called his wife and said, "Honey, you aren't going to believe where I am." The drug dealer called a customer to reschedule a drop-off for 100 doses of something known on the street as LA 200.

Hurricane Harvey debris removal funding gains approval

AUSTIN — Gov. Greg Abbott and leaders of the Texas Legislature on Nov. 9 announced the approval of $90 million in emergency state funding to help Hurricane Harvey disaster-declared counties pay for the removal of debris.

Cities and counties in impacted areas are responsible for 10 percent of costs associated with debris removal. The funding, to be administered by the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality, is intended to help alleviate that burden as the rebuilding process continues, the Governor's Office said.

"Today's action is just one more step in a long process to help our cities and counties recover and I want to thank all the members of both the Texas House and Senate for their effort to secure this much-needed funding," Abbott said.

Lt. Gov. Dan Patrick said: "Acting on this priority is essential so we can move forward with rebuilding and recovery efforts."

House Speaker Joe Straus said: "The Texas House remains committed to helping all areas of our state that were impacted by Hurricane Harvey."

Senate Finance Chair Jane Nelson, R-Flower Mound, said: "All Texas leaders — local, state and federal — need to work hand in hand to ensure that Texas rebuilds and comes out stronger."

House Appropriations Chair John Zervas, R-Richmond, said the testimony his committee is receiving from local officials "is extremely compelling and while I know our local leaders are resilient, the State must support their efforts."

DAY OF PRAYER OBSERVED
Gov. Abbott on Nov. 8 proclaimed a statewide day of prayer following the mass shooting by a lone gunman at First Baptist Church in Sutherland Springs on Nov. 5.

The proclamation encouraged Texans to join in a moment of silence at 11:30 a.m. on Nov. 12 to honor and remember those who lost their lives in the shooting. Abbott signed the proclamation at a community prayer gathering at Floresville High School, 13 miles from Sutherland Springs. Vice President Mike Pence joined Abbott at the gathering and also spoke.

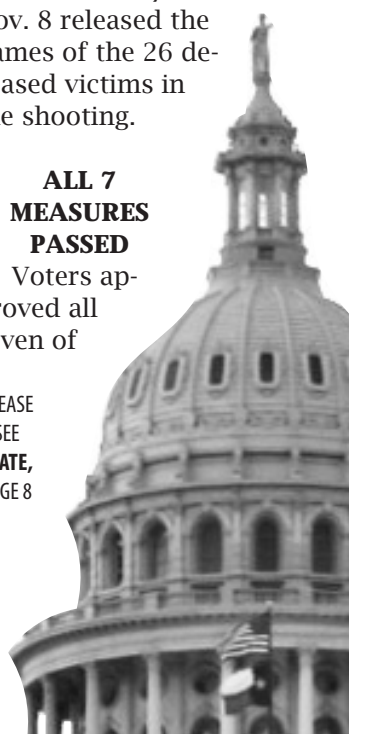

"The act of craven cowardice and evil inflicted on the Sutherland Springs community has deeply touched the core of who we are as faithful people. In times of tragedy, we often see the very best of Texas," Abbott said. "We must remain strong and resilient, and lean on the support and care of our helping communities in this dark time," Abbott added.

The Texas Department of Public Safety on Nov. 8 released the names of the 26 deceased victims in the shooting.

CCCCSD Public Announcement for G/T Referral

The Crockett County Consolidated Common School District is beginning the referral process for Gifted/Talented (G/T) services for the remainder 2017-2018 school year.

The district is committed to providing challenging learning experiences for students with exceptional intellectual and creative thinking abilities.

According to the Texas Education Agency, a gifted/talented student is a child or youth who performs at or shows the potential for performing at a remarkably high level of accomplishment when compared to others of the same age, experience, or environment and who exhibits high performance capability in an intellectual, creative, or artistic area, possesses an unusual capacity for leadership, or excels in a specific academic field.

CCCCSD is transitioning to a fall referral window as recommended by the Region XV GT specialist in order to avoid an overload of testing days for students during the spring STAAR preparation and testing season.

The norm-referenced tests that are used to identify GT students are designed to show growth over a one year period.

Therefore, if a child was tested in the spring of 2017, it is not advisable to retest this fall as enough time has not elapsed to show significant growth since the last evaluation.

Anyone wishing to refer a student who was not tested in the spring and is attending Ozona schools in kindergarten through 12th grade can pick up or request a copy of the referral form at their school office beginning Nov. 15. This form must be returned to the school by Nov. 29, 2017. Those unable to go by the school office should call and request a form to be sent to them.

time you really looked at and analyzed your Income Statement (also referred to as the Profit & Loss Sheet)? In the lack of competition, we can develop a false sense of security.

Keep up with what is happening in your industry. What are competitors in other towns doing? Are they expanding or positioning themselves to expand? Are they looking at your town? This was a lesson learned from my father. He owned a small floor covering business in a small town about 40 miles from a large city. He was well respected and successful. But, every once in a while he would see installers at a local residence and know that he didn't sell those people the flooring. They had gone out of town for it. He would be insulted by that, not because they went elsewhere, but because they didn't give him a chance to offer his best.

To truly be best in class, know and understand your financials and your financial position, know your competitors and what they are doing, and maximize your profits and profit potential.

Moving Forward By Giving Back

James B. & Lois R. Archer Charitable Foundation and Sonora Bank

James and Lois Archer will be the first to tell you that they consider themselves to be among the very fortunate. And, in typical West Texan style, you will never hear them talk about the hard work or the sacrifices it took to get there. They understand that in order for individuals and communities to move forward, we must all give back.

Sonora Bank has also harnessed that same culture of giving back by promoting and supporting volunteerism across West Texas. The bank and our employees are there helping non-profit organizations through donations and time. It's a big part of the foundation we were built on.

OZONA SENIOR HAPPENINGS

Next Bingo Social set for Monday

BY BRENDA NEWTON
SENIOR CENTER DIRECTOR

What a beautiful weekend it was. Stayed home and did very little, which sounds boring, but it a treat when we get older. We do not need to stay home all the time, even if we can. It is nice every once in a while if we have a busy schedule. Hope your Veteran's holiday was a good one and the Thanksgiving holiday coming up will be a great one as well. Niki should be here next week. If you have forgotten the time, it is 10:30 a.m. Tuesday. We are looking forward to having her back on a regular basis. Her exercises are so helpful for people our age and she will be keeping your vital signs on record for you. Come on, give it a try.

We still have Bingo on Thursday afternoons at 2 p.m. Bring your nickels and play as many cards as you can handle at a nickel a card per game. We serve Cokes and popcorn and laugh and hope we get a bingo. We have a sweet person that gives us prizes for the blackout bingo. She has made our bingo a lot more fun. Thanks.

I still have copies of the Senior Sourcebook for 2017 that lists all the services available for us older folks.

The next Bingo Social will be 6:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 20. We will be serving Hobo Stew with cornbread made by JoAnn Babbitt, Linda Rodriguez and Belinda Wilkins. For dessert we will have peach cobbler.

Just for info. Cauliflower, broccoli, brussels sprouts, cabbage and kale contain large amounts of several possible cancer-fighting substances.

The center will open at 8:30 a.m. and close at 4:30 p.m.

Monday - 9:30 a.m. Balance Exercise
Tuesday - 10:30 a.m. Exercise with Niki Bishop (skip next week)

Wednesday - 1:30 p.m. Mexican Train; 3 p.m. Prayer Group

Thursday - 9 a.m. Balance Exercise; 9:30 a.m. Quilting; 2 p.m. Bingo

Friday - Open
Come on out, the coffee is on.

OBITUARIES

Ollie 'Marvine' Byrnes

Ollie "Marvine" Byrnes, age 76, passed away peacefully, Thursday, November 9, 2017 in Ozona, Texas. She was born in Rankin, Texas on October 11, 1941 to Bert and Ollie Belle (Wall) Potts.

Marvine was a faithful member of Southside Baptist Church in Monahans for over 40 years. She took great joy in delivering the taped sermons to shut-in members each week. She was a very gifted and talented crocheter and those who knew her very seldom ever left without one of her special crocheted pot holders or hot pads.

Marvine worked many years for Mitchell Food and then as a sitter for the elderly. She loved each and every one of the individuals she sat with.

Marvine is preceded in death by her parents, her brother: Buddy Potts; sister: Barbara West; and grandson: Casey Brewer.

She is survived by her daughter: Rita Diane Brewer; grandsons: Daniel Bigham and Colin Brewer; and great-grandchildren: Anastasia Bigham and Daniel Bigham Jr.; sister: LaDonna Truelock and husband James; brother-in-law: Sherman West; special lifelong friends: Larry and Gloria Sprouse. Many nieces, a nephew, cousins, and friends are left to cherish her memory.

JUST ONE DAY CAN MAKE A DIFFERENCE

Years ago I was on the way to the hospital to visit my dad who was in the emergency room, I started talking to the cab driver. I told him that my father was in very serious condition and might not live. But I also told him I had some peace of mind if God called him home because my dad had accepted Jesus Christ as his personal Lord and Savior years ago, (1 John 2:25). I saw a change in my dad's life after he accepted Christ, (1 John 2:28 & 29) because he stopped the getting drunk and drinking, (1 John 1:5-7). He was a kind loving father before accepting Christ but I noticed that he seemed to love us even more and was especially more loving toward my mother, (1 John 4:7&8). When we had family get-togethers, there was a different atmosphere, better fellowship, more love, sweeter talk and no alcohol. He had very little interest in going to church before but afterwards he would put on his suit and take my mother to church almost every Sunday. I know my grandmother prayed for us many years that we would accept Christ as our Savior and I would encourage anyone who has a loved one who does not have any interest in God or spiritual things, to pray for them, (James 5:16). It takes the work of God to change a person's heart.

See you in Church next Sunday.

I'M FREE

Don't grieve for me, for now I'm free; I took His hand when I heard Him call; I turned my back and left it all. If my parting has left a void; Then fill it with remembered joy. My life's been full, I savored much, good friends, good times, a loved one's touch. Perhaps my time seemed all too brief. Don't lengthen it now with undue grief. God wanted me now, He set me free.

"Sebastian had a big night as did Kobe Rodriguez who returned to play this week after an injury," Freeman said.

For his final game at Lion Stadium, Rodriguez carried the ball nine times for 82 yards and scored twice.

"It's good to back with my family and friends. It's a great feeling," Rodriguez said.

Zachary Talamantez also scored a touchdown for the Lions and Freshman Jose Dominguez scored his first touchdown as a varsity player.

Quarterback Alec Lara was 4-7 for 70 yards and one 24-yard touchdown pass to Dario Rodriguez.

Ozona had a total of 426 yards of offense.

"We had a short field most of the night," Freeman said.

Defensively, the Lions held the Wildcats to 280 yards total.

Lazaro Rodriguez led Ozona on defense with one forced fumble, an interception for a touchdown and seven tackles.

"Every kid we had got some playing time right down to our JV kids. It was a fun and successful night,"

JOSE DOMINGUEZ scored his first touchdown in a varsity game Friday in Ozona's 63-12 win over Anthony at Lion Stadium.

Freeman said.

The Antelopes are 7-3 overall and finished 2-2 in District 4-2A. Post's district losses came against Hawley (28-0) and Stamford (49-24).

"We're going to come together even more and work even harder," Rodriguez said of starting the playoff round.

Post is coming off a 63-3 win over Anson, where they had three players, Senior Octavius Jackson, Junior Jose Esparza and Sophomore Quarterback Taytem Thetford, each rush for over 100 yards.

The Antelopes also are loaded with senior leadership. Last year they finished 10-3 losing to Abernathy in the regional round of the playoffs.

In the project's application, it also states that the company would have to attempt to fill the job with Crockett County residents, and that they would have a requirement obligation to spend dollars locally in purchasing goods and services, said Alan Carmichael, with Westel, Carmichael & Allen LLP, the firm representing Crockett County.

"These projects do not get constructed without the county and school district offering some kind of tax abatement," Carmichael said. "The reinvestment zone would contribute to the redevelopment of the county, and it will provide a significant impact on the tax value of the county."

Ranchero Wind is asking the county for 100 percent tax abatement for 10 years. Carmichael said he typically recommends a 60/40 split with the company receiving a 60 percent abatement for the first five years and a 40 percent abatement for the second five years.

"It certainly won't be a 100 percent abatement," Carmichael said.

Commissioner Pleas Childress asked about the longevity of the wind turbines. Carmichael said once they are installed they have to be in place for 20 years. The tax abatement is for 10 years and then they are taxed in full for at least 10 years. Most wind turbines have a life expectancy of 25-30 years. Carmichael also said the company has to come before the commissioners' court annual to certify to the court that they are within compliance of the agreement.

"Once the project is fully constructed, the company will also breakdown the expenses and separate out local expenses," said Brandon Westlake, of Cummings Westlake LLC, the firm representing the project.

Unlike the county, CCCSD benefits differently. Superintendent Raul Chavarria and School Board Trustee Ryan Bean attended Monday's public hearing.

On tonight's (Nov. 15) agenda, the school board has a budget amendment to accept and approve the funds from Ranchero Wind Farm for legal fees associated with the wind farm project. The public meeting starts at 6:30 p.m. at the Administration Building.

Some of the benefits the school district could face is that a majority of the tax funds from the project will not be subject to recapture. "That means that any funds generated due to an increase in evaluations brought on by the project would stay in our school district and not have to be shared with the state," Chavarria said. Unlike the county, the school district's application must be reviewed and approved by the state comptroller's office due to state funding dollars and recapture dollars being in the picture, Westlake said.

Carmichael said once the terms of the tax abatement are negotiated, they will be presented to the commissioners' court.

"This is one of the early steps of getting the agreement and incentives put in place," Westlake said.

SPEED BUMPS
The commissioners approved to call for a public hearing on the speed bumps at Quail Run at 9 a.m. Monday, Dec. 11, during their regular meeting at the courthouse annex. A notice will also be published in The Ozona Stockman two weeks prior to the hearing.

Commissioner Eligio Martinez said a letter was received from the Texas Department of Transportation stating that the state agency does not have any authority over any county road.

At the Oct. 9 commissioners' court meeting, the speed bumps were discussed in that Martinez, who represents Precinct 4 that includes Quail Run, placed them in the residential area without bringing the issue to commissioners' court first.

Also at the Oct. 9 meeting, County Attorney Jody Upham said in her research the county needed permission from TxDOT.

While Martinez said he received the letter from TxDOT stating their permission was not needed for the speed bumps, County Judge Fred Deaton said TxDOT does need to set a speed recommendation for the speed bumps.

THE COMMISSIONERS ALSO:

- Approved a letter of support for a Mental Health Deputy with MHMR. The deputy will be trained through a grant with MHMR and be employed with the Crockett County Sheriff's Office.
- Canvassed the 2017 School Bond Election and Constitutional Amendments Election.
- Took no action on the countywide burn ban as one is not recommended at this time.
- Approved the 2018 Holidays - New Year's Day Jan. 1, President's Day Feb. 19, Good Friday March 30, Memorial Day May 28, Independence Day July 4, Labor Day Sept. 3, Veterans Day Nov. 13, Thanksgiving Nov. 22-23 and Christmas Dec. 24-25.
- Approved contract with Wildlife Services.
- Approved contract with DBT Transportation Services for the contract for the AWOS (Automated Weather Observation Systems).
- Approved a bid of $6,235.25 from TC Lawn and Landscape for a sprinkler system for the new clinic. It will be paid for out of the bond funds.
- Tabled the J. Cleo Thompson Wellness Center Bylaws, Job Description: Center Director/General Employee/Assistants and Membership Handbook to be reviewed by County Attorney Jody Upham.
- Tabled any action on requirements for utility companies that require breaking pavement in county streets.

FUTURE MEETINGS

The commissioners will hold a special called meeting at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 21, to open bids for the County Employee Appreciation Dinner. The next regular meeting will be 9 a.m. Dec. 11.

Both meetings will be at the courthouse annex and are open to the public.

Game Warden Field Notes

SUBMITTED BY CROCKETT COUNTY GAME WARDEN DAN WADDELL

Crockett County Game Wardens Chris Amthor and Dan Waddell were checking deer camps last Saturday evening when they drove into a camp with several vehicles, but no one present. The wardens found two fresh deer carcasses killed by the same individual a day apart. However, one of the two deer was tagged incorrectly, which seemed odd. The wardens, knowing the occupants of the camp were likely out hunting, decided to return later and ask the hunters about the tagging violation. However, the wardens got busy and were not able to return at a reasonable hour.

The next morning, Warden Waddell returned to the camp and encountered a hunter at the gate leaving the property. The hunter said he had to go get ice and a hunting license, but claimed he had not yet been hunting, even though he had been in camp for three days. Waddell let him continue on to town for the license. When Waddell drove into the camp, there were two men cleaning a freshly killed, but untagged, white-tailed deer. After inspecting all wildlife resources, Waddell began questioning the hunters about the two deer that were tagged differently, one correctly and the other incorrectly. The hunter whose license tags were on both deer, unable to provide a reasonable answer, began making excuses and telling contradictory stories. Waddell, not buying the equivocations, began to investigate further, suspicious that the hunter who left to buy a license had killed the second the Texas Legislature's proposed amendments to the state constitution on the Nov. 7 ballot.

Early voting and Election Day voting combined revealed a statewide average turnout of 5.77 percent of citizens registered to vote. In contrast, some 11.35 percent of registered voters participated in the previous constitutional amendment election, in November 2015.

The amendments are:

- Prop. 1 broadens the scope of the homestead ad valorem tax exemption for a disabled veteran or spouse;
- Prop. 2 prescribes conditions, fees, refinancing options and eligibility for home equity loans;
- Prop. 3 limits the service of certain gubernatorial appointees after expiration of term;

Prop. 4 relates to notice requirements to the attorney general regarding challenge to constitutionality;

- Prop. 5 permits professional sports team charitable foundations to conduct raffles;
- Prop. 6 provides a homestead exemption for a deceased-in-the-line-of-duty first responder's surviving spouse; and
- Prop. 7 permits financial institutions to award random prizes to customers to encourage saving.

SB 4 APPEAL IS HEARD
A panel of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 5th Circuit on Nov. 7 heard arguments in the ongoing lawsuit challenging the constitutionality of Senate Bill 4, the state law passed by the Texas Legislature last May that bans "sanctuary cities."

In its appeal, the State of Texas is asking the court to uphold the law.

A U.S. District Court in San Antonio on Aug. 30 granted a preliminary injunction preventing the law from taking effect. A three-judge panel of the 5th Circuit on Sept. 25 ruled that the state could enforce some provisions of law with the current appeal pending.

The case is styled as City of El Cenizo, TX, Et Al.; City of Austin, Et Al. vs. State of Texas, Et Al., Appellants (and related cases).

Public Notice

Are internet-only public notices sufficient?

No. The internet is a valuable resource, but it's not a viable stand-alone source for public notices.

Newspapers have been printing public notices in Texas since 1836. Generations of Texans have come to expect their notices in print. And now Texas papers provide this crucial service in print AND online...at no extra charge.

With newspapers, more people NOTICE their public notices.

And that, after all, is what notice is about in the first place.
