Christoval superintendent shares gun policy

BY MELISSA PERNER
THE OZONA STOCKMAN

When a massive shooting hit Sandy Hook Elementary School in 2012, Dr. David Walker was told by his school board to look into something to protect Christoval students. In 2013, Christoval ISD became the second school district in Texas to implement the Guardian Plan, which allows district staff to conceal carry guns on campuses.

Walker, the superintendent at Christoval ISD, presented his district's plan to the Crockett County CCS School Board at their June 20 meeting. The CCCCS School Board has been discussing implementing the Guardian Plan, or some similar-type conceal carry policy, for Ozona Schools.

While no decision was

'You don't know how many. You don't know where they are. That adds to the deterrent. Since it's anonymous, that keeps the bad guys guessing.'

Dr. David Walker
Christoval ISD Superintendent

made by the CCCCS School Board, the board members listened intently and asked questions as Walker went over as many details as possible about the plan he has pieced together over the years.

"Across the state, there's a lag on how much we are drilling for an active shooter incident," Walker said.

Walker said he believes the Guardian Plan works well for small, rural, schools in four ways - it acts as a deterrent in keeping possible shooters away, there is no wait time for law enforcement since there are already people in the building, there are multiple individuals throughout the building to help with response time and the Guardians are anonymous.

In the plan, the school board, the superintendent and local law enforcement know who the Guardians are, but the public doesn't know, Walker said.

"You don't know how many. You don't know where they are. That adds to the deterrent. Since it's anonymous, that keeps the bad guys guessing," Walker said.

In late February this year there were 172 Texas school districts allowing staff and/or board members to carry firearms on school property, according to the Texas Association of School Boards.

A similar review on June 13 showed that number had jumped to more than 200, since the Feb. 14 Parkland, Fla. High School shooting and the May 18 Santa Fe, Texas High School shooting.

Teachers, students deserve support when falsely accused

Dear Editor,

I need to speak out. Never in my wildest dreams did I think I would be putting our personal life in an open letter, but our life has been really impacted by the false allegations made by some very vindictive school girls against my daughter and one of her players.

After a month of investigations by the school and the local authorities, there was nothing found because there was never anything to be found. My daughter and the student in question have gone through so much from stress, anxiety, embarrassment, their reputation being smeared through the mud, their names coming out of the mouths of people that have no morals or respect or dignity and are spreading more rumors.

The parents of these girls who started the false allegations should be held accountable for their girls, but what do you expect when they themselves encourage this kind of behavior.

Now about my daughter, she is a teacher here in Ozona. Ever since this happened to my daughter I have been reading articles on teachers being falsely accused. As I read article after article there is really no protection for teachers.

By no means am I saying not to protect the children or investigate the allegations, but they should be streamlined or a process to spot those cases that clearly hold no merit. Children should be protected, but not at the expense of a teacher's career or reputation.

False allegations being made against teachers could infect the atmosphere in school and leave the staff afraid to assert their authority to discipline students.

Will a teacher be falsely accused because a student doesn't get the grade they want, or a coach because they do not like their playing time, or an underclassman playing before them? When will it end? When students are punished for making false accusations, like these that were made against my daughter and the young lady.

At some point the school district needs to support and protect their teachers. Especially, when there is no evidence. I think the students that started these accusations are being protected more than the student that was falsely accused.

Thank you, teachers, for putting your lives literally on the line every time you step into your classroom.

I have a lot more respect for teachers after going through this with my daughter and the

Providing certainty and stability for farmers and ranchers

Did you eat today? Did you put on clothes? If you answered yes to one or both of these questions, you have a farmer or a rancher to thank.

We often forget that the everyday goods we rely on to survive exist because of the hours of hard work put in each day by the men and women of our nation's agriculture industry.

Norman Borlaug, an American agronomist and Noble Peace Prize winner, said it best: "there are no miracles in agricultural production."

Through rain or shine, the cold and the heat, our farmers and ranchers have important jobs to do.

As you might imagine, years of natural disasters and economic recession have crippled our nation's agriculture production.

Additionally, in today's increasingly interconnected world, distorted global markets and trade uncertainty have been hurting farmers.

Food security is national security and depends on strong agricultural policy that provides certainty and stability for the 3.7 million Texans employed by the agriculture sector.

The good news is that the Agriculture and Nutrition Act of 2018, commonly known as the Farm Bill, which was passed in the House last week, does just that.

The Farm Bill, which is reauthorized every five years, provides this needed stability for the more than 9,000 working farms and ranches in the 23rd District of Texas.

The bill gives farms a safety net by reauthorizing Agriculture Risk Coverage and Price Loss

HURD ON THE HILL
WILL HURD

Coverage options, protects crop insurance and the livestock sector, invests in rural broadband, and promotes the conservation of America's working lands.

The Farm Bill also ensures that Americans have access to nutritious meals.

The bill maintains the existing SNAP funding authorization to ensure our nation's neediest do not lose access to nutritional assistance, while providing them with more than just a hand out, but a hand up.

The bill further provides for folks by increasing the annual funding for food banks by $45 million, and nearly half of this is devoted to the creation and maintenance of Farm-to-Food Bank programs, commonly known as ag surplus programs.

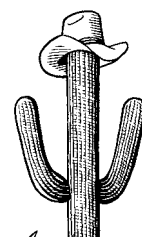

Thomas Jefferson said that "cultivators of the earth are the most vigorous, the most independent, the most virtuous, and they are tied to their country and its liberty by the most lasting bands."

None of us would be here today without the hard work of the men and women of our agriculture industry, plain and simple.

I am proud to support the 2018 Farm Bill, and I will continue to be an advocate for the 3.75 million Texans who work day in and day out to put clothes on our backs and food on our tables.

You May Be A Dude If...

IT'S THE PITTS

LEE PITTS

In the sorting alley it's easy to separate the dudes from the real cowboys. You may be a dude if...

There are sheets on your bed in the bunkhouse.

The camp cookie is a three star Michelin chef.

When you set out for the day's work you are provided a sack lunch and a wine cooler.

The ratio of riders to cows exceeds two to one and the "trail boss" sends you and three others to go retrieve one old wayward arthritic cow.

You have to pay for the privilege of getting baked past well done by the sun, bucked off, gored, or losing your finger in a dally or a squeeze chute.

Your horse has one speed: slow. And there's a seatbelt on your saddle.

Instead of waking up the rooster, the rooster wakes you up.

You must sign a stack of waivers before working cattle absolving the owner of all responsibility in case of your death.

In the evening you sit around a campfire and roast your wienies, burn your marshmallows, toast your buns and sing old cowboy songs like "Happy trails to you, until we meet again."

There's more than one course for supper and one of the courses is pheasant under glass; you're given a full setting of silverware to work with; and the chef lights your dessert on fire.

The ranch where you "hired on" has a gift shop.

After a long day of riding you "get your kinks worked out" by a gorgeous Scandanavian massage-babe who doesn't speak English.

Instead of playing poker for matchsticks in the evening you sip wine while playing chess or backgammon.

You and your fellow hands are all wearing matching "scarves."

There is heat in the bunkhouse that doesn't originate from someone chopping wood.

One of the afternoon activities includes a seminar titled "Living with the wonderful wolf."

You spend all day pushing the same pathetic, trail broke set of reject misfit cattle right back to where you started that morning.

The resident cow dog is a Hairless Chihuahua, miniature toy Poodle or Bichon frise.

There is a bidet in the bunkhouse.

There is a bookshelf in the bunkhouse with titles by Danielle Steele or Nora Roberts and at least one copy of "The Seven Habits of Highly Effective People."

You don't have to shoe your own horse or roll your own smokes.

Your remuda consists of one or more of the following: A Paso Fino, Miniature horse or BLM reject.

There is no place to hang your twine on your saddle which is okay because there's no horn either where you could take a dally. If you knew how.

Before you arrive you are reminded to bring lip gloss, swimsuit and sunscreen with an SPF of at least 30.

There is time during your day set aside for either a nap, meditation or an hour in the kitchen learning how to cook French pastry.

There is no one in the bunkhouse named One Thumb, Stinky Pete, Lupe Rellano, Bowlegs, Skeeter, Lippy, Horse Face, Post Hole, Coyote, Booger, Eat-tumup, Tex, Lying Jim, Thunder Butt, Gloomy, or Dirty Shirt Smith.

You are invited to eat up at the Big House on more than one occasion.

There doesn't appear to be a hay-stack anywhere on the ranch.

You look around and everyone is wearing gloves and it's not even below zero.

On your last night everyone goes around the fire and says how their stay has affected "their inner cowperson."

Parents, children separated at border gain widespread attention

AUSTIN — Although border-crossing issues are largely federal matters, the Lone Star State has been a center of news reports about authorities separating children from their parents at detention centers along the Rio Grande.

President Trump on June 20 ordered a cease in the forced separation of family members who are in detention, but the fate of more than 2,000 minors who were taken away from their parents remained unresolved.

On June 21, a contingency of the non-partisan United States Conference of Mayors, including Austin Mayor Steve Adler, gathered at a border detention center in Tornillo, near El Paso. The mayors were not allowed to enter the facility where children reportedly were being held.

"Using children in order to deter or dissuade folks from coming to our border and seeking asylum is unjust. It is wrong. It is immoral and it is un-American. We are better than that," Adler said at the beginning of a longer, widely disseminated video statement.

Meanwhile, many Republican and Democratic members of Congress are seeking solutions that would keep more asylum-seeking families together and reunite families that have been separated.

Court rules against ban
The Texas Supreme Court on June 22 upheld a ruling by the Texas 4th Court of Appeals that the city of Laredo's ban on single-use plastic bags is illegal.

The ruling effectively invalidates bag bans across the state, said Texas Attorney General Ken Paxton.

"Municipalities violate the law when they unlawfully pass the burden of solid waste management to citizens and retailers through illegal bag bans. I hope that Laredo, Austin and any other jurisdictions that have enacted illegal bag bans will take note and voluntarily bring their ordinances into compliance with state law. Should they decline to do so, I expect the ruling will be used to invalidate any other illegal bag bans statewide," Paxton said.

Operation gets results
Attorney General Paxton on June 18 announced the Consumer Protection Division of his office had taken legal action against three companies, including a Houston-based labor poster operation, as a part of the Federal Trade Commission's sweep targeting scam artists who attempt to defraud small businesses.

"Operation Main Street" resulted in 24 actions nationwide against individuals or companies accused of ripping off small businesses. The collaborative effort included participation by the offices of seven other state attorneys general, the Better Business Bureau and two U.S. attorneys' offices, among others.

Paxton said his office obtained a temporary restraining order and asset freeze

ASU planning Ozona 'War Stories' History Harvest

BY TOM NURRE JR.
ANGELO STATE UNIVERSITY

The Department of History at Angelo State University is planning a History Harvest event in Ozona sometime this fall for the grant-funded project, "War Stories: West Texans from World War I to the Present."

The "War Stories" project is an effort to collect and preserve the stories and experiences of current and former armed forces personnel and their families who have a past or present West Texas connection.

It is supported by a three-year grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Any Ozona and area residents interested in contributing to the project are asked to contact the ASU Department of History at (325) 942-2324 or warstories@angelo.edu to aid the project directors in planning when and where to conduct the Ozona History Harvest event this fall.

Previous successful History Harvest events have been held in Abilene, Big Spring, Brownwood, Fort Stockton, San Angelo and Uvalde.

Dr. Christine Lamberon and Dr. Kanisorn Wongrichanalai of ASU's history faculty are the directors of the project.

They are planning the Ozona History Harvest event to make it easier for individuals to participate in interviews and to bring materials, such as family photos, letters, journals, home movies and videos, and other documents, for assessment. Items will be scanned on site, and originals will be returned to the owner, along with a digitized copy.

The scanned images and recorded interviews will be downloaded into a digital archive housed in ASU's Dr. Ralph R. Chase West Texas Collection to serve as a research resource for future generations and as a memorial to those Americans who helped shape the course of the 20th and early 21st centuries.

To view the current digital archive, go to www.angelo.edu/warstories.

For more information, call the ASU Department of History at (325) 942-2324 or warstories@angelo.edu.

Wheat: a major contributor to chronic conditions

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

JIM FISH

Gluten is found in wheat, barley, rye, triticale, malt, and brewer's yeast; or flour, its most consumed form, composed of two different proteins: gliadin (a prolamin protein) and glutenin (a glutelin protein).

Gliadin is the real culprit plaguing people with celiac disease, which triggers an immune response that damages their intestines and prevents them from absorbing vital nutrients. People affected by celiac disease could be as low as 1 percent and as high as 3 percent of the world population. However, gliadin is a protein capable of many varying biologic effects in humans and the number of those experiencing less severe or less known sensitivities could be as high as 75 percent of the population.

Among the things we know about gliadin: it is the most abundant protein in wheat, contained in gluten polymers the gliadin of 2018 is different from the gliadin of 1960 by several amino acids that are part of the genetic transformation of wheat introduced to increase yield-per-acre, and people who consume gliadin consume 400 calories more per day; people who remove gliadin reduce calorie intake by 400 calories per day.

That notwithstanding, gliadin is degraded to a collection of polypeptides called exorphins in the digestive tract. Exorphins are opioid peptides that cross the blood-brain barrier and bind to opiate-receptors to induce appetite and are processed in much the same fashion as opiates and other pleasure-producing substances.

As well as behavioral changes, such as outbursts and inattention in children with ADHD and autism, gliadin has been linked to the hearing of voices and social detachment in schizophrenics and the mania of bipolar illness.

The antibodies to gliadin are also capable of binding to nervous system tissue and may contribute to immune-mediate inflammatory diseases and neurological impairment, such as cerebellar ataxia and gluten encephalopathy.

It is also responsible for allergic responses, including Bakers' asthma and the odd Wheat-Dependent, Exercise-Induced Anaphylaxis (WDEIA).

"The high-yield, semi-dwarf strains of wheat, invented in the 1960s and 1970s, was introduced to North American farmers in the late 1970s, who adopted it over the next decade. By 1985, virtually all wheat farmers were growing this high-yield strain. (Can you blame them? Per-acre yield increased about 10-fold, provided sufficient nitrate fertilizer was applied.)" says Dr. William C. Davis - PHD - cardiologist, author of "Wheat Belly" and health crusader.

Because of the problems with modern wheat, Dr. Davis argues that wheat is a major contributor to many chronic conditions such as obesity, diabetes, ulcerative colitis, celiac disease, high cholesterol, heart disease, osteoporosis, most skin conditions, rheumatoid arthritis, hypothyroidism, dementia, and fatigue. He recommends that a wheat-free diet in combination with healing the digestive tract with probiotics and prebiotics results in significant benefits to each of these systemic conditions.

Dr. Nicholas Anhorn, a naturopathic doctor at the Moncton Naturopathic Medical Clinic agrees that probiotics can be a key part of digestive healing and overall health in many people. However, with his patients, he finds that it is only one piece of the puzzle and uses a more comprehensive and tailored approach that removes food sensitivities, and dysbiotic microbes (bacteria, parasites, dysbiotic yeast, and other bad "bugs" in the digestive tract).

About half the population are deficient in digestive enzymes, and many are on acid blocking medications for heartburn. Dr. Anhorn reinoculates his patients with probiotics and prebiotics (food for the healthy probiotics), repairs their leaky gut and replenishes it with nutrients to make up for any nutrient deficiencies caused by improper digestion or absorption of foods.

For all the reasons above, it is imperative that we take note of all the foods we eat, be aware of or body's reactions to them, as well as any substance we consume, and work with your caregiver toward optimum health. You are the one who benefits or suffers from the outcome.

FROM THE PULPIT...

A Skeptical Believer

1 John 4:16 "And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him."

Why does Jesus scandalize our theology? Because we don't know what God thinks. And we don't know what God thinks because we haven't listened to Jesus.

Theology is good, but the above verse does not say that God is theology, it says that God is love. Neither does it say that we have believed theology, it says that we have believed the love of God. If you have known and believed the love of God, then you have learned sufficient theology because God is love.

If it confuses or condemns me, I am skeptical. If it exalts religion or religious leaders, I am skeptical. If it says that I have to be good to gain God's favor, I am skeptical. If it does not exalt the Lord Jesus and His finished work on the cross, I am skeptical.

I am not skeptical as to what God says, but I am skeptical about what man says that God says. I am skeptical because man says one thing about my sin, but God says another. I am skeptical because no man possesses the ability to reveal Christ as God has revealed Him.

In religion, I hear much

PASTOR TOM SLOAN and wife MONA

talk about theology, condemnation and traditions of men, but I do not hear them speak as Christ spoke. Today, theology is what man thinks about God, but it is scarcely what God says about Himself.

If you want to know what God thinks, listen to Jesus.

Hebrews 1:1-2 "God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets, Hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son..."

TOM SLOAN is the pastor of Friendship Baptist Church in Ozona, Texas. Mona and Tom have been missionaries in Mexico since 1994. She was raised in a preacher's home in Austin, and Tom was raised in a missionary's home in Chiapas, Mexico. Mona and Tom have been married for 24 years and they have five children with the oldest being 22 and the youngest being 10.

KEEP THOSE PLANTS WATERED

My wife has some beautiful plants in the house and outside in her flower beds. Sometimes if she is gone for a few days she asks me to keep them watered. I try to faithfully water them but one time I forgot several and when I found them they looked dead. I started to throw them away but I decided to put some water on them anyway. The next morning to my surprise most they were standing up again. That experience reminded me of a Christian's relationship to the Holy Spirit. When we accept Christ, the Spirit of the living God comes to live in us, (John 3:3-7, Ephesians 5:18). We are then called the temple of God and the Holy Spirit dwells in us, (1 Corinthians 3:16 and 6:19). But we can become like those little plants in need of water if we drift away from God or leave Him out of our lives or we allow sin to continue in our lives, (Galatians 5:16, Ephesians 4:30, 1 Thessalonians 5:19). We can become dry and almost lifeless spiritually on the inside. On the other hand how beautiful and full of life are the little plants that are getting all the water they need. It is the same spiritually when we are doing what God wants us to and we are being filled and abiding in, and walking with the Holy Spirit, (Galatians 5:16-25). See you in Church next Sunday. OZONA SENIOR HAPPENINGS

Senior Bingo Social July 9

BY BRENDA NEWTON
SENIOR CENTER DIRECTOR

Can you believe another month is almost over? Three more days and we will be in July. July is a good month because we will be celebrating our country's birthday, but it means that summer is half over. Time is passing way too fast for me to keep up. I always heard that the older you get the faster time goes by, but this is ridiculous. Guess it means we had better work at enjoying these days, huh?

Please use the new exit on the south side of the center. It is a little hard to see, but it is the crossing that is across from Avenue D. The exit in from of the center is dangerous because of truck traffic. There will be signs put up on this new entrance shortly. Please pay closer attention to traffic when leaving from town. Remember there is a curve there that blocks vision until it is too late.

It was good to have Niki back for exercise. She starts out getting her blood pressure at 10:30 a.m. on Tuesday and she records this information then asks about your meds and how you are feeling. Then she starts the tapes and we do our exercises that are recommended by the Wesley Nurse Program to strengthen our muscles and are really good for our age group. You should all come try this plan to make you feel better and stronger.

We will have bingo at 6:30 p.m. Monday, July 9. Our board decided it would be easier for everyone to keep up with the date for the bingo social if it was on the second Monday of each month. We will be serving hamburgers and chips with green Jell-O for dessert.

We will have afternoon bingo each Thursday. Bring your nickels and play as many cards as you can handle at a nickel a card per game. If you bingo for that game, you get all the nickels. We serve cokes and popcorn and have a good time. Then we have blackout bingo for a little prize for the lucky winner.

The center will open at 8:30 a.m. and close at 4:30 p.m.

Exercise at 9 a.m. on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. Mexican Train at 1:30 p.m. on Wednesday. Prayer Group at 3 p.m. on Wednesday. Quilting at 9:30 a.m. on Thursday. Balance exercise at 9:30 a.m. on Thursday. Bingo from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Thursday. Come on out, the coffee is on.

Commissioners discuss raise, paid holidays for county employees

BY MELISSA PERNER
THE OZONA STOCKMAN

During their second budget workshop, the Crockett County Commissioners' Court are moving forward at looking at a raise for employees.

County Judge Fred Deaton said in the second draft of the 2019 County Budget, revenues in the general budget are estimated at $10.5 million and expenditures are currently at $8.4 million.

Deaton said the county should have enough money for raises if the commissioners' wish to do that. He also said final revenue numbers should be ready by the July 9 regular commissioners' meeting.

The commissioners asked County Auditor Delores Ramirez to figure a budget with raises for county employees.

Commissioner Frank Tambunga said he wanted to look at the county's PTO (personal time off) structure and not charge county employees PTO time for holidays.

"We're not giving them holidays when they have to take their PTO to take off," Tambunga said.

Deaton said they would have to figure out what the increase to the budget would be to have paid holidays.

"What you're giving them is 10 more holidays. You're giving them a raise and a benefit like that," Deaton said.

"We've talked about it before and we said we would bring it up. It doesn't hurt to look at it," Tambunga added.

WIND FARMS

The commissioners approved the Reinvestment Zones and Tax Abatements for the Rancho Wind Farm and the High Lonesome Wind Farm. Commissioner Plea Childress abstained from voting on the High Lonesome agreements, and Commissioner Wesley Bean abstained from voting on the Rancho Wind Farm agreements.

The High Lonesome Wind Farm will cost $95 million. It will have 72 wind turbines totaling 120 megawatts up to 142 megawatts in the northern part of the county. The project is being run through Swift Current Energy.

The Rancho Wind Farm will cost $240 million. It will have 100 GE wind turbines totaling 250 megawatts in the northern part of the county. The project is being run through Scout Clean Energy out of Boulder, Colo.

The tax abatement for both projects will be 75 percent for the first three years, 60 percent for years four, five and six and 50 percent for years seven-10 starting Jan. 1, 2019.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NEWS

Online protection

BY MELISSA PERNER
THE OZONA STOCKMAN

Anyone that uses the internet on a desktop computer, a mobile phone, a tablet or uses a debit card is vulnerable to identify theft.

At a June 13 Lunch & Learn presented by the Ozona Chamber of Commerce, Alejandro Castanon, a business advisor with the Angelo State University Small Business Development Center, talked about tips and ways consumers can protect themselves online, especially when it comes to small businesses.

Castanon said if a person's identity is stolen then they can lose money, their credit can be damaged, benefits can be lost and they can face legal problems.

If a website is hacked, such as a business, it's can be due to out-of-date software, customer account data can be stolen and site visitors can be tricked into downloading malicious software, or malware.

"No system is 100 percent safe," he said. "The department of defense has had problems. Big banks have had problems. It can also be on your phone."

Castanon broke down a scam email showing what to look for when they are received. One thing that stands out is misuse of punctuation and capitalization in sentences, misspellings and the email address it was sent from is incorrect or incomplete.

MELISSA PERNER | THE OZONA STOCKMAN

ALEJANDRO CASTANON with the ASU-SBDC talks about online security at a June 13 luncheon.

Castanon said if the email claims to be from a company, such as Amazon, it's best to go directly to that company's website or call that company. Also, he said it's best to just delete the email without opening any attachments if the person is not sure if it's real or not.

If the attachment is open then there is a medium risk that something might have happened to the device, or computer.

If the person opens the attachment, or clicks on the link, plus gives information, or downloads the file, then they need to contact their system administrator and "go to church and pray."

"They can get real clever on how they want you to open the attachments. They use things that are recognizable, like a favorite store, your name, your family member's names," he said.

To keep safe online, Castanon said to use strong passwords of at least eight characters long and have a unique one for every online account.

He also said to keep them in a safe place and set up safe guards for password recovery. Keeping software up-to-date, only downloading software from a trusted source, and protecting mobile devices by putting a passcode lock on the phone is also advised, Castanon said.

He also mentioned various tips by using Google and gmail that can also help protect online information, such as using a two-step verification for online email.

Other resources such as the Better Business Bureau, the Federal Trade Commission, eCommerce.gov and the ASU-SBDC are all good sources for further information.

For more information, call Castanon, at the ASU-SBDC, at (325) 942-2098 or email alejandro.castanon@angelo.edu.

Special election to replace state Sen. Carlos Uresti draws 8 candidates, including his brother

BY PATRICK SVITEK
TEXAS TRIBUNEN

Eight candidates have filed for the July 31 special election to replace former state Sen. Carlos Uresti, D-San Antonio, — including his brother, outgoing state Rep. Tomas Uresti, according to the secretary of state's office. The deadline was 5 p.m. Monday, and among the eight candidates who filed, there are four Democrats, three Republicans and one Libertarian. The candidates had a short window to file — Gov. Greg Abbott announced the special election five days ago. The contest will determine who will fill the seat of Carlos Uresti, who resigned Thursday after being found guilty earlier this year of 11 felonies related to fraud and money laundering. Uresti was scheduled to be sentenced Tuesday. Tomas Uresti, who lost a re-election bid during the March primaries, had said over the weekend he was "contemplating" a run for Senate District 19, a massive district that stretches from San Antonio's East Side to far West Texas and includes parts of the U.S. border with Mexico. The list of candidates includes two prominent Democrats who were already running for Carlos Uresti's seat before he resigned: state Rep. Roland Gutierrez of San Antonio and former U.S. Rep. Pete Gallego of Alpine. The fourth Democrat who filed is Charlie Urbina Jones, a Poteet attorney who unsuccessfully ran for Texas' 23rd Congressional District in the 1990s. The three Republicans who filed are Pete Flores, who unsuccessfully challenged Carlos Uresti in 2016; Jesse "Jay" Alaniz, the former president of the Harlandale ISD board; and Carlos Antonio Raymond, who unsuccessfully sought the Republican nomination for House District 117 in March. The Libertarian candidate is Tony Valdivia, a senior reporting analyst at USAA Bank. The winner of the special election will finish Carlos Uresti's term, which ends January 2021. Early voting begins July 16.

- Buy fireworks only from licensed retail outlets.
- Follow directions carefully - with close adult supervision.
- Never experiment with homemade or altered fireworks.
- Use fireworks outdoors, in a safe area away from dry grass and buildings.
- Before you enjoy fireworks, get permission from the property owner.
- Keep a bucket of water, wet towels and a garden hose nearby.
- Light one firework at a time - then move back quickly!
- Never shoot fireworks from metal or glass containers.
- Never carry fireworks in your pocket.
- Never point or throw fireworks at people or animals.
- Alcohol and fireworks do not mix; avoid drinking while using fireworks.
- If a firework fails to ignite, submerge it in a bucket of water, and then discard.
- The Texas Occupations Code Sec. 2154.251 prevents fireworks explosions within 600 feet of a school, church, hospital, or child care facility.
- Violation of fireworks rules is a Class C Misdemeanor and may result in a fine of up to $500 per occurrence.
- If the fire is found to be started intentionally, and damages the property of another, you may be subject to an Arson charge with a possible penalty of 2-20 years in prison and fine not to exceed $10,000.

PET TIPS:

- Keep your pets indoors.
- Close the curtains or blinds and turn on the TV or radio to provide some distraction.
- Treat toys such as kongs filled with their favorite food may help keep their minds busy and distract them from the fireworks.
- A quiet place, such as a carrier or crate may provide your pet with a sense of security and comfort.
- Use a leash or carrier if you must go outside with your pet to keep them from running off which is a common response to stress and fear.
- Practice fire safety! Keep pets away from matches, open fires, and fireworks. Pets may try to sniff (or eat) fireworks and pet hair can easily catch fire if they get too close.
- Take pets for a walk before the fireworks begin. Some pets are too frightened to go out once the fireworks are popping, and this may lead to an "accident" later on.
- Make sure your pet's ID is current. Your pets should always have proper identification tags, with current information, in case they get lost. Micro-chipping is strongly recommended.

Seventh Grade - 66 percent reading; 78 percent math; 69 percent writing.

Eighth Grade - 71 percent reading; 96 percent math; 73 percent science; 50 percent social studies.

OHS end-of-course results:

English I - 66 percent.
English II - 75 percent.
Algebra I - 71 percent.

Biology - 89 percent.
U.S. History - 89 percent.

In fourth grade, the district had 77 percent of their economically disadvantaged students pass compared to 66 percent in the region.

In fifth grade science, 81 percent of the economically disadvantaged students passed compared to 64 in the region and 79 percent of the at-risk students passed compared to 54.

In middle school, eighth grade math "knocked it out of the park," Poindexter said with 96 percent, including 100 percent Limited English Proficiency students, ESL and Special Education.

Eighth Grade reading hit 21 percent mastering the test, which was a goal for the district, Poindexter said.

Poindexter pointed out while the eighth grade social studies score was 50 percent, the Region 15 average was 54 percent.

Eighth Grade and Fifth Grade students must pass the test to move on to the next grade.

"One student got within four questions of passing the test and that was celebratory because he's never gotten that close before," said Dana Criswell, eighth grade teacher. "Sometimes it's hard to shoot for passing. Sometimes it's easier to aim for getting 10 more questions right."

OHS Seventh Grade Teacher Katrece Hale said the seventh and eighth grade classes, which have typically been the lowest, showed tremendous growth and improvement in their scores.

"We've targeted them. We had a really strong team in seventh grade. We had small classes this year. I'm so excited because our eighth-graders made such gains," Hale said. Superintendent Raul Chavarria said the state is focusing a lot on students showing growth each year.

"The growth aspect was hammered into our kids. The important thing is they are showing that growth," he said.

Poindexter said in comparison to the 2016-2017 scores, Ozona showed improvement.

"All of our numbers look really good this year. If we can get growth, the student is able to get confidence back and it will pay off," she said.

CHAMBER PROGRAM

Members of the Ozona Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors presented the school board, at their June 20 meeting, with the results of the career day that was held at OHS in November and said the community members wanted to continue it.

They also presented two programs to help the district with teaching students skills for the workforce, including how to make a resume, dressing for an interview, finances and more.

One program comes from the Better Business Bureau called "Ethics in Action" and the other is one created by Ballinger ISD that implements a lesson 20 minutes each day.

Chamber President Shannon Biggerstaff said local businesses reached out to the chamber due to workforce issues they are seeing.

"The workforce issues are not just unique to Ozona. The world has changes and kids have changed. The youth have no social skills, communication skills. We're not trying to point fingers, we're trying to be a resource to you all," Biggerstaff said.

Chamber Board Chairman Laurie Hale said the chamber wants to help both students and businesses.

"These are things we are going to have to address. We will try to work it in, and contact these people and talk to them," said Board President Dwight Childress.

WIND FARMS

Chavarria said the Crockett County Commissioners' Court approved the High Lonesome and Rancho Wind Farm projects at a meeting on June 19.

Chavarria said the district's attorneys were working on a package to create an athletic foundation with the funds the district will receive through the High Lonesome project.

The money could be used for fields and athletic facilities, and it won't cost the taxpayers anything, Chavarria said. The money is also not subject to recapture.

At the June 25 meeting, the board approve a resolution to ratify the extension of time for action granted to review the application for an Appraised Value Limitation on Qualified Property from Rancho Wind Farm LLC.

THE BOARD ALSO:

Approved calling for CCCSD School Board Election in November. First day to file is July 12.

Heard a budget presentation from the Region 15 Education Service Center Members.

Board member Justin Morris was absent from the June 20 meeting. Board members Amy Newton and Ryan Bean were absent from the June 25 meeting.

Reagan County ISD and Sonora ISD are two districts that recently implemented Guardian Plan policies.

The Christoval plan was also the first one to implement the use of long-arm rifles, along with handguns or pistols. Also, all staff receive emergency and trauma training, including a kit to help stop blood loss.

"Typically in 2.5 minutes someone will bleed out. EMS and fire will not enter the building until law enforcement has secured that crime scene. At Sandy Hook it was nine minutes before EMS and fire entered the building," Walker said.

The difference between the Guardian Plan and the State's Marshall Plan is that with the Guardian Plan school districts have more control of how the plan is implemented, including the type of ammunition, whereas the Marshall Plan only allows one school marshal for every 400 students.

For Christoval, whose enrollment is around 526 students, that means they can only have one, Walker said.

Also, with the Guardian Plan the school district doesn't have to hire additional personnel. Walker did say his staff members who are Guardians do receive a stipend. He said a State Attorney General's opinion keeps the names of those who receive the stipend, since it's public tax dollars, from being released.

Staff members must also sign a confidentiality agreement in case someone is seen armed, stating that they will not reveal the person.

"You want as many Guardians as you can get," Walker said.

Guardians must have their Texas Concealed Handgun License Permit. Some school boards also require the Guardian undergo psychological evaluations.

Walker said training is a must, emphasizing that all staff members go through specialized active shooter training.

Walker also said his district works together with local law enforcement and social services when a possible incident, or troubled student, is reported.

Crockett County Sheriff Robert Rodriguez also talked to the board about the policy. He said he is in favor of the board adopting a policy for Ozona Schools, especially with Ozona located on a major state highway and interstate highway.

"I wish I had the manpower to put a deputy on every floor of every building at every intersection," Rodriguez said.

"If we can have armed faculty they can initiate the program and attach the situation until we can get there. I'm not trying to back off and put everything to the school faculty, but even if we are just down the street we still have to get here. A lot can happen in two minutes."

Rodriguez also suggested the program include proper training and psychological evaluation similar to what is required for peace officers.

"I want to be able to look at every parent and say we honestly did everything we could do," Rodriguez said.

Specifics of the plan can be set by the school board in closed session under Texas Government Code Section 551.076 Deliberation Regarding Security Devices or Security Audits. Waker said that way the public doesn't know all the ends and outs of the district's plan for security reasons.

Board President Dwight Childress asked Walker about metal detectors.

Walker said his district does not have them right now.

"Your community will have really changed if you do that. Plus, do you have an idea where you have a single entry point. You all have old buildings. We have old buildings. Our schools weren't designed that way. You also already have people wearing multiple hats. That's one more duty," he said.

Board Vice President Orlando DeHoyos asked Walker if a person is a Guardian, is he confident they will respond when an incident happens?

"With the training you go through, you get a certain skill set in confidence that you are ready to go," Walker said. "In all my research, gun control does not work. Areas with more strict gun laws, there's usually more violence. Teachers are now counselors. While they (students) are with us, we are their parent, and the one thing a good parent will do with their child is protect them. The primary goal is to protect the students."

against Corporate Compliance Solutions, a company that solicited small businesses with warnings of their need to comply with federal labor laws. The company tricked business owners into thinking they needed to buy an $84 labor law compliance poster or face fines and possible imprisonment, Paxton said.

Paxton's office also obtained a permanent injunction and restitution order against American Advertising Concepts, a company that sold advertising space on dry erase boards to small business owners nationwide by falsely claiming affiliations with schools and apartment complexes.

Additionally, Paxton's office filed a lawsuit against Solvera, a company that Paxton said "duped individuals into paying thousands of dollars by falsely leading them to believe it could improve a business' reputation in internet search results."

EMERGENCY ELECTION IS SET
Gov. Greg Abbott issued a proclamation ordering a July 31 emergency special election to fill the Senate District 19 seat formerly occupied by Sen. Carlos Uresti, D-San Antonio.

Uresti resigned from office effective June 21. He was convicted of fraud and money laundering by a San Antonio federal district court on June 18.

Senate District 19 includes Brewster, Crockett, Dimmit, Edwards, Frio, Kinney, Maverick, Medina, Pecos, Real, Reeves, Terrell, Uvalde, Val Verde and Zavala counties and parts of Atascosa and Bexar counties.

SBOE OKS ETHNIC COURSE
The State Board of Education on June 15 announced preliminary approval a new social studies course titled "Ethnic Studies: Mexican American Studies."

A second and final vote on curriculum standards for the course will take place at the board's Sept. 11-14 meeting. If approved, the one-credit elective course would then become the first SBOE-approved ethnic studies course in Texas.

Once fully adopted, the course will be available for use in Texas public schools in the 2019-2020 school year. The course is based on a course created by the Houston Independent School District.

family of the young lady in question.

I hope this letter in some way will get people talking about this serious matter. I find myself asking these questions there are punishments for being tardy for being on the phone for too many missed days, but nothing for more serious matter like false accusations and then being told more evidence is needed.

What more evidence do you need when those girls, the minute they stepped into the principal's office, knowing what they were going to say was false and no truth to the accusations. That's all the evidence you need!

My daughter and the other victim have been very strong not showing any emotions in public because they have a lot of family and friend support. Can you imagine if one them didn't have the support? We see it in the news all the time of suicide or worse. It's in the administration's hands to do something. It would be great if you showed some kind of support for your teachers and student victims. I pray that nobody in Ozona has to go through this horrible experience.

Warning to all teachers and school employees, you are alone if you are falsely accused.

An angry mom and a concerned citizen.
