Lions battle rain, injuries against Braves

BY MELISSA PERNER THE OZONA STOCKMAN

LION STADIUM - The Ozona Lions faced two opponents Friday night: the rain and the Iraan Braves.

With a wet field and blowing rain the Lions had a hard time keeping up with the Braves, falling 35-15.

Sebastian De La Cruz started of the game off on a positive note for the Lions, with an 80-yard touchdown run. Putting the Lions up on the board 7-0. De La Cruz and 75 yards receiving.

However, that would be one of the few bright moments for the Lions as the rain continued to pour.

Iraan quickly answered back scoring 27 points in the

"The game started as well as we could hope with a good stand on defense and an opening play touchdown on offense. That is about where things went bad for us," said Head Coach Kyle Freeman. "We had too many turnovers to be able to come away with the win."

As the game continued, injuries began to pile up for the Lions. Freeman said the team lost five starters to various injuries.

"It was an extremely wet and sloppy game. We are going to have to adjust to our

Commissioners adopt budget, tax rate

BY MELISSA PERNER THE OZONA STOCKMAN

The Crockett County Commissioners' Court adopted the 2019 official budgets and 2018 tax rates during their regular meeting Monday.

The commissioners unanimously approved and adopted the county budget and tax rates and the Crockett County Consolidated Common School District Budget and Tax Rate. The commissioners must also approve the school district budget, due to the school district being a common school life and Livestock Protecdistrict.

All commissioners were present at the meeting.

The $20 million county budget includes a $2,400 across the board yearly raise for all full-time county employees and elected officials. The Court Administrator and Court Reporter under the district court and district judge budgets will receive one-fifth of the raise, as done in the past, due to the judicial district budget being split between five counties.

A new budget for Wild-tion Specialist was also created by taking $136,800 out of the agriculture budget, which was originally budgeted for predator control, and adding $10,000.

Also budgeted is $452,222 for equipment replacement, $181,947 for the new wellness center and $958,697 for the sheriff's office and $728,288 for the jail. The jail budget includes anticipated expenses and salaries for the new Crockett County Jail.

Fighting for healthcare in rural communities

Do you ever need to make a phone call, but can't get cell service? Or need to see a doctor, but the closest physician who can provide the care you need is over a hundred miles away? Unfortunately, these are real burdens that hundreds of thousands of folks I represent in rural South and West Texas experience each day and the reason why I continue to fight for increased access to vital services for all constituents, no matter where they live.

In today's increasingly connected world, we can have the power to access information at our fingertips. However, today's innovative technologies aren't useful if you can't get cell service, WiFi or reliable electricity. That's why it's been a top priority of mine in Congress

HURD ON THE HILL WILL HURD

access to rural broadband and dependable utility services across Texas. In fact, this year Congress has provided $625 million to increase and expedite rural broadband projects. I am proud to have supported this funding, as well as, to support legislation that would improve the delivery of telecommunication services to long distance and rural consumers. Additionally, since my election to Congress, I have consistently called on appropriators to fund the Rural Utility Service Loan program, ensuring rural areas have dependable and up to date electricity. This year, we provided $6.9 billion for rural electric and telephone infrastructure loans and $3 billion for rural water and waste management program loans.

Across our district's 29 counties and two time zones, access to quality, affordable healthcare can be problematic for many. This is why I serve as a strong voice in Congress for the 39 community health clinics in TX23 which serve roughly 220,000 constituents in rural and underserved communities, more than any other Congressional District in Texas. In fact, I have helped community health centers in our district receive more than $30 million in federal grants so they can continue their work, and am proud to have received the 2018 Community Health Center Defender Award, the 2017 Distinguished Health Advocate Award and the 2016 Rising Community Health Center Leader Award for my continued support in Congress.

Expanding access to healthcare, broadband and reliable utility services are just some of the ways I am committed to fighting for rural Texans. I have a dedicated team that works hard from San Antonio, Fort Stockton, Eagle Pass, Del Rio, Socorro and everywhere between to serve you.

As always, please do not hesitate to reach out to my office if there's anything we can assist with at (210) 921-3130 or at hurd.house.gov.

Show us the money, let us see how tax dollars are spent

FREEDOM OF

t's quite simple, really.

We Texans have a right to know how our taxpayer dollars are spent.

It's our money. We, the people, choose our government. Our elected public officials represent us. They manage and spend our tax money. But we, the people, get to decide whether they are doing it well.

To do that, we need light shining on the workings of our government. But that essential element of our democracy is in jeopardy in Texas.

Taxpayers are being denied information about government contracts with private companies and about tax dollars flowing into large non-profit organizations.

Why? Two Texas Supreme Court rulings in 2015 weakened the Texas Public Information Act and allowed this blocking of information. It's conceivable that the court's justices did not envision how wide the swath of secrecy would grow in the wake of their decisions.

Now, in response, more than a dozen diverse organizations have come together to form the non-partisan Texas Sunshine Coalition to ensure our government doesn't operate in the dark.

"The Texas Sunshine Coalition is dedicated to restoring the Texas Public Information Act to serve its intended purpose," the coalition explains on its website at www. txsunshine.org. The Freedom of Information Foundation of Texas is a coalition member.

Today, not only are the guts of public contracts with private firms often kept secret, but sometimes the final contract amount is, too, because companies argue it could put them in a disadvantage in a future bidding situation.

Contracts for a public power plant, police body camera equipment, college sports marketing deals, a holiday parade entertainer and many more spending agreements are off limits to the public. Sometimes there are attempts to hide licensing and regulatory data or information about hiring decisions.

In Austin, city officials argued they should be allowed to hide the identities of finalists in their city manager search because it would put them at a competitive disadvantage with other cities. Thankfully, that argument to the Texas Attorney General's Office failed.

But some 2,600 attempts to block information using the court's recent secrecy rulings have been permitted by the Attorney General's Office because of how broadly the court's decisions were written.

That's where we, the people, and our elected state representatives come in. Legislators created the Texas Public Information

Act. It's time for them to take charge and ensure that the law once again benefits the people of our state by rewriting some language in the law to address the court's actions.

To be fair, not all private businesses, which now have far more ability to keep government records private, come down on the side of secrecy.

Many recognize that if they are paid by taxpayer money, a certain level of transparency is warranted. Openness in government bidding also helps small and mid-sized businesses compete with big business for public contracts because the smaller companies can view the past winning bids.

Let's also be clear on this: There's no effort afoot to force a private company to reveal the formula for its secret sauce. There has always been a trade secrets exemption in the Public Information Act to keep that kind of information private, and that should remain.

Common ground for solving this secrecy struggle is surely achievable.

This and other government transparency issues are on the agenda at the FOI Foundation of Texas state conference Sept. 21 in Austin.

The conference will also focus on whether dates of birth should be available on certain public records, such as candidate applications for public office and criminal justice records; how governments can go about obtaining public records stored on private electronic devices; and whether there should be limits to free speech on college campuses.

Opinions vary on many of these questions, but working together we can figure out how to balance competing interests. We can do this.

Perhaps along the way we will remember the wise words of the Texas Public Information Act declaring that the people insist on remaining informed and "that government is the servant and not the master of the people."

Slow Moving Traffic

If all the cars in the world were placed end to end... they'd probably be behind a slow moving cattle truck.

Everyone is in such a hurry these days they don't have time to waste behind a Gooseneck filled with cattle. So they pass with no visibility or lay on their horns, as if that's going to speed things up. They'll risk their lives hurrying themselves to death so that they can get to their final destination earlier. And when I say "final" I mean final!

I prefer a less hurried pace. I hate life in the fast lane with everyone crowding, shoving, pushing and running over each other. We live in a fast paced world where we brag about the speed of our Internet service and agonize over which would be faster, the escalator or the elevator? Everyone is so stressed out and in such a hurry that I heard of one housewife who quickly loaded her dirty plates and dishes in the microwave before rushing out the door only to discover upon her return that a microwave is not a dishwasher. We have a frenetic friend who loaded her three month old baby in the baby carrier and then went off and left it and the baby sitting on the kitchen table.

I'll never forget my first ranch job out of college when the owner wanted me to take the bobtail cattle truck and bring back a load of feed from the mill. No problem, I'm the son of a long-haul trucker and I know my way around a set of gears. But I was surprised he trusted me that much and that he didn't want to tag along, but I quickly discovered the reason when I tried to navigate the two lane road around windy curves with steep grades and descents. I was soon being followed by a long line of cars and everyone had one hand on their horn.

The average driver will honk a horn 15,250 times in their life and many of the drivers behind me that day were using up half their quota. I'd have given anything for a bumper sticker that said, "Keep honking. I'm reloading."

I subscribe to the theory that you should never drive faster than your age and If I recall correctly I was about 21 at the time. The speed limit in 1905 was 20 miles per hour and I think that was the year the truck I was driving was made. I considered driving in reverse up the steep grades because the reverse was geared lower and would probably have been faster. I was going so slow algae had time to grown on the tire treads.

I pulled over every chance I got but still every sports car or SUV that whizzed by me had a one finger salute thrust out the window. I was embarrassed and couldn't say I blamed them because I had no right to slow them down. But what was I to do, disobey orders from the boss and get fired from my job that paid a whopping $600 a month? There was simply no other way to get to my destination.

Anyone who has driven a tractor on the asphalt or stopped traffic to drive sheep or cattle across a road has experienced the same hatred as I did that day. We ought to form our own victim's group, get ourselves a high priced lawyer and sue someone.

One wonders why all those irritated folks were all in such a big hurry anyway. If it was work, a doctor's appointment or an IRS audit, what was the rush? I remember theorizing that perhaps they were all in such a hurry because they had to use the restroom facilities ten miles distant, but I came to the conclusion that all of their bladders couldn't have been that bad. I think it's all just part of the human condition that says anyone who is going slower than you is a hayseed moron and anyone driving faster is a reckless maniac who is, "Going to get us all killed!"

It must have been especially humiliating and galling that day for all the high-speed drivers who flipped me off when I passed them in the slow lane when we all ended up at the same signal light together.

Governor points out actions taken to make schools safer

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS By Ed Sterling | Texas Press Association

AUSTIN — Just before Labor Day weekend, Gov. Greg Abbott released a School Safety Action Plan Summary that lists actions taken by school districts to harden campuses in the wake of the deadly Santa Fe Independent School District shooting in May.

"Elected leaders, community members, students, teachers, parents and everyday Texans all share the common goal of making schools a safe place for our children," Abbott said. "Our goal is being realized as school districts across the state continue to put immediate and long term plans aimed at prevention and protection in place. While progress is being made, there is still much work to be done and I encourage everyone in Texas to continue the discussion surrounding school safety to ensure that we put in place measures that will benefit the safety and well-being of our state's greatest resource — our children."

Highlights from the summary include developments such as:

- 1,705 public school employees attended Mental Health First Aid training courses during June and July;

- The Texas Department of Public Safety expanded its"iWatchTexas" program to include school incidents as reported via mobile app, Internet or phone by students, teachers, parents and others in the statewide centralized system designed to provide law enforcement the opportunity to detect and prevent an attack;

attack;
- The Texas School Safety Center has worked with the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement to provide introductory school-based law enforcement, behavioral threat assessment and emergency operations plan development courses to more than 500 people;

- An additional 92 school marshals had been appointed, with 73 prospective marshals in the training process as of Aug. 17, tripling the number of trained and licensed school marshals; and

- The Advanced Law Enforcement Rapid Response Training program at Texas State University has provided direct training to nearly 1,300 police officers, firefighters, dispatchers, EMS personnel and others since May 18.

Congressman Will Hurd stopping in Ozona Monday

BY CONNER PFEIFFER WILL HURD FOR CONGRESS

U.S. Rep. Will Hurd, R-San Antonio, will visit Ozona as part of his 2018 DC2DQ town hall tour on Monday, Sept. 17, from 5:15-6:15 p.m. at the Ozona Dairy Queen.

From Sept. 15 to 21, Hurd will make 38 stops, including 32 town halls, in each of the district's 29 counties.

Many of these town halls will take place at Dairy Queen's in the district's small towns. Special guests joining Hurd during the tour will be announced subsequently.

"Every year I have been in Congress, DC2DQ has given me the opportunity to hear directly from my bosses, the 800,000 people in TX-23, about the issues important to them," said Hurd. "I am really looking forward to this year's tour and the opportunity to discuss with voters the work I've been doing for them in Washington."

Hurd, 40, is facing Democratic challenger, Gina Ortiz Jones in the Nov. 6 General Election.

Jones, 37, is a former Air Force intelligence officer from San Antonio. She points to her work on security and trade issues in the Obama administration and says she would bring urgency to health care and other matters vital to Texans.

Hurd is a former undercover CIA officer in his second term who cites his bipartisan dealings as a strong reason for his re-election.

WILL HURD

He made news last month by accusing Trump of "getting played" by the KGB at the summit with Vladimir Putin. He was among the first in his party to decry the separation of migrant families at the border, labeling it "bad policy" after touring a detention center in Tornillo.

Recently, Hurd traveled to Honduras, , El Salvador and Guatemala with the House Intelligence Committee to discuss issues including mass migration, border security, human trafficking, violence and transnational crime, as well as, identify areas for collaboration.

While in country, Rep. Hurd met with Honduran President Juan Orlando Hernández and the Honduran Migration Task Force, with Guatemalan President Jimmy Morales, and with the Transnational Crime Investigative Unit and Transnational Anti-Gang Unit in El Salvador, in addition to other meetings. He also visited repatriation centers in Honduras and Guatemala, and met with various humanitarian organizations in the three

"In recent years, immigration from Honduras, El Salvador and Guatemala rose by 25 percent due to rampant crime, violence and poverty. Without the help of our partners in Central America, we will not solve our current challenges along the border which impact the daily lives of thousands of constituents in my district," said Hurd. "I went to the Northern Triangle to identify root causes and areas we can collaborate to combat transnational gangs, human trafficking and illegal immigration. My fight to secure our borders with smart solutions is far from over."

The 23rd Congressional District in which they're running is massive, stretching from west San Antonio to the outskirts of El Paso, including Crockett County, and taking in over 820 miles of border with Mexico. Hurd likes to say it takes ten and a half hours driving 80 mph to traverse its most distant points.

Prior to coming to Ozona, Hurd will stop in Big Lake on Sept. 17 from 3:15-4:15 p.m. at the Big Lake Dairy Queen.

On Sept. 18, he will stop in Eldorado from 12:15-1:15 p.m. at the Schleicher County Library and Sonora from 1:45 p.m.-2:45 p.m. at La Mexicana Restaurant.

Jewelry fixing on Fridays

BY BRENDA NEWTON SENIOR CENTER DIRECTOR

Last week was like a whirlwind. First, we were in Mason, at a campground and resting, when we got the message about Jean Odom. That lady was very special to us both. The next day was the board meeting and trying to get it all together with the changing of the decorations for fall and football. Wednesday was game day and Prayer Group day. Thursday was the funeral, which was beautiful, except for me sniffing and snorting. Not good at funerals. Then Friday, catching up with what I had not done. The rain was heaven sent. Here I am putting up fall colors and everything is turning green.

I talked to a few of the ladies that use to play Bridge on Mondays a while back, and they expressed a desire to start playing again. We tried it out on Monday at 1:30 p.m.

We did try the jewelry fixing on Friday at 10 a.m. If you have broken jewelry or something that you don't like anymore, bring it with you and we can all work together to get it fixed.

I have some tools to work with and a piece of material to spread it out on and the thread to string it on and you can have a new piece of jewelry to wear. Come join in!

Please use the new exit on the south side of the center. It is a little hard to see, but it is the crossing that is across from Avenue D. It has been paved so it is really smooth. The exit in from of the center is dangerous because of truck traffic. We do not want any of you to be in an accident leaving this facility. Please pay closer attention to traffic when leaving from Remember there is a curve there that blocks vision until it is too late.

We had a visit from the Concho Valley Community Action Agency which is the agency that helps you with Utilities. Let me know if you need information.

We will have afternoon bingo each Thursday. Bring your nickels and play as many cards as you can handle at a nickel a card per game. If you bingo for that game, you get all the nickels. We serve cokes and popcorn and have a good time. Then we have blackout bingo for a little prize for the lucky winner.

The center will open at 8:30 a.m. and close at 4:30 p.m.

Homecoming Week activities coming up

BY MARY WILLIAMSON ASSISTANT ACTIVITIES DIRECTOR

Our lobby and bulletin board was decorated with a Hawaiian theme for our party this month.

As usual, Marta outdid herself decorating and preparing food with the theme in mind. She also made papaya salsa, it was delicious.

With football season around the corner, we have decorated the bulletin boards with purple and gold and a football field design behind the wall calendar.

We will be participating in Homecoming Week (Sept. 24-28) activities with Pajamas on Monday, Crazy Outfits Tuesday, Super Hero Wednesday, Crazy Hats Thursday and Purple and Gold Friday. We will have our tailgate party at 3 p.m. Friday.

We will be accepting donations for bottled water to hand out to Homecoming Parade participants through noon Sept. 28.

Candy donations for Halloween will also be accepted starting in September, all the way to Halloween Day.

We will accept donations of prizes to give to the residents when they win games.

To make arrangements for volunteering, call Marta De La Garza at (325) 392-3096 ext. 31.

Samuel (Chamé) Vargas July 24, 1934 - September 9, 2018

Sam Gonzales Vargas, of Ozona, Texas passed away on Sunday, September 8, 2018 at the age of 84. Visitation with the family will be Monday - Wednesday in Ozona at Kerbow Funeral Home.

The funeral mass will be celebrated on Wednesday, September 12, 2018 at 2 p.m. at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church. Burial to follow at Lima Cemetery.

Survivors include his daughters Imelda Robledo (Armando), Melissa De La Garza (Paul), Marisa Salazar (Gonzalo) Irma Vargas (Mark) and like his own daughter, that he loved very much, Hilda Martinez (John Fierro); his sons Santiago Vargas, Larry Martinez (Mary) and Ray Vargas; his brother, Pedro Vargas Jr. (Phyllis), and Pancho Vargas (Manuela); his sisters, Rafela Perez, Alma Longoria (Gabriel Sr.) Mickey Arredondo (Raul) and Alda De Hoyos (Thomas).

Samuel Vargas was preceded in death by his parents Pedro and Romanita Vargas, his wife, Maria De Hoyos Vargas, his son, Sammy Vargas Jr. and his twin granddaughters, Allissa and Annissa Robledo.

Samuel was a very loving and caring person; anyone that needed help in Ozona he was there to assist. Sam worked at a very young age. Always bringing gifts to his younger sisters. He married Maria De Hoyos and together they had six children. He would be the man of the house, he never allowed his wife to work. He played baseball (pitcher) with the Red Birds and Los Indios. He was a cowboy in his younger years and worked in many ranches in Ozona. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus and Los Cursillistas. He was always willing to help with fund raisers, benefits, etc.

. . He was also a member of the Lions Club. He worked at the Ozona Fina Station for many years and then worked for Lilly Construction until he retired.

The Vargas family would like to thank Dr. Coates, Interim Hospice, especially Ronnie Fierro, Jana, Aunt Alda and Channa De Hoyos and everyone who stopped by to visit dad.

Heaven has truly gained an angel.

Chief Of Sinners

1 Timothy 1:15 "This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Iesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am Someone asked me what I would consider myself to be - a missionary, a conference speaker, a pastor? Yes, I do partake in these religious activities and obligations, but I don't find my identity in them.

Broken, distressed, indebted and discontented - these are the words that would best describe me. I say these things about myself because purity, faithfulness and obedience are not my forte. I say these things because my identity is God's scandalous, all-encompassing grace.

I readily identify with what one pastor says - I'm so fake, I can hardly stand myself. I know, ministers are not supposed to confess intimate stuff about their personal lives.

But let me tell you why I do it. I do it because I am a beggar telling other beggars where I found bread. I am an intense sinner telling other sinners where I find forgiveness, rest, mercy, grace and peace. I cannot teach you how to be a good spouse to your mate, or a good parent to your child. Neither can I teach you how to stop sinning, be more faithful or loving. What I can tell you is this - Christ receiveth sinful men, even me with all my sin.

And if He has received me with all my sin, He can, will and has received you because He said - all those that come to me, I will in no wise cast out.

So yes, while I may occasionally wear the religious robes of missionary, pastor or conference speaker, the truth of the matter is that I am chief of sinners. But He loves me and gave Himself for me.

TOM SLOAN is the pastor of Friendship Baptist Church in Ozona, Texas. Mona and Tom have been missionaries in Mexico since 1994. She was raised in a preacher's home in Austin, and Tom was raised in a missionary's home in Chianas, Mexico, Mona and Tom have been married for 24 years and they have five children with the oldest being 22 and the youngest being 10.

WAITING BY THE PHONE I called and they said come by and spend the night (his wife is a real good cook). I arrived just in time for dinner. After dinner we sat around and visited but as the evening wore on I realized something was wrong. I thought maybe they had a little disagreement or something. I tried to excuse myself and go to bed but they said no, sit and talk to us. Around 11:30, (I could hardly keep my eyes open) his wife told me what was going on. She told me that today was her birthday and their son always called on that day and wished her happy birthday unless he was real sick or was in jail. She finally said with tears in her eyes, "Something is wrong because he would have called by now". There was such sadness at breakfast the next morning and I will never forget the sadness in their faces as I left. I think it must be the same way in heaven when God does not hear from us because in Proverbs 15:8 it says he delights in our prayers. In Psalms 91:15 we are told to call upon God. In Isaiah 55:6 we are told to seek. In Psalms 105:3&4 we are told that our hearts will be made glad if we seek (pray to) him. God has given us the privilege of prayer, let us use it. ## Can you be healthy... and obese?

Worldwide, obesity seems to be a drain on our health and wallet, but does it apply to every obese person? Can someone be obese... and healthy?

Few experts agree on what criteria define metabolic health... while some heavy people are considered to have "metabolically healthy obesity" (MHO), these people would commonly be obese but not have insulin resistance, elevated blood lipids, or high levels of visceral fat.

"Obesity is one of the biggest (puns intended) economic burdens in the world, estimated to be about $2 trillion or 2.8 percent of the global gross domestic product in 2014. The prevalence of obesity has doubled in 73 countries since 1980 and has shown a continuous increase in most others." - Is healthy obesity a thing? Alex Leaf, MS, CISSN, researcher for Examine.com

"In the U.S., annual healthcare costs are $147-210 billion, with another $4.3 billion due to job absenteeism, and another $506 per obese worker for reduced productivity. Obese adults spend 42 percent more on direct healthcare costs than normal-weight adults."

Alex believes the cost of obesity to the individual and our society is massive and that "'Metabolically Healthy Obesity' is a slippery slope. You may be 'blessed' with an elevated Personal Fat Threshold (PFT), but it may not last forever!"

Obesity accounts for about 5 percent of all causes of death, worldwide... and individually, it is associated with as many as 18 other co-morbid diseases to include Type 2 Diabetes Meletus, cardiovascular disease, hypertension, and cancer. The condition of "metabolically healthy obese" (MHO) is temporary at best... it is a grace period for you to 'get it together before things go

50% of people with MHO will develop at least one metabolic abnormality within 3-10 years, compared to about 25 percent of healthy

Leaf advises, "roughly normal-weight folk. Moreover, the risk of developing metabolic syndrome increases with both the severity and HERE'S TO duration of YOUR HEALTH obesity. "For those JIM FISH individuals who maintain their MHO classification, there isn't much protection from developing the diseases that afflict their unhealthy obese counterparts. Having MHO is associated with an increased risk for adverse cardiovascular events (e.g., heart attacks), subclinical atherosclerosis (i.e., plaque buildup that is not severe enough to present with symptoms), nonalcoholic fatty liver disease, kidney function decline, and type II diabetes."

Sure, the risk is less than that of unhealthy obesity, but it is still there compared to being healthy and of normal

I believe the MHO phenotype represents a transient state where people have yet to cross their personal fat threshold, which is different for everyone based on genetics, lifestyle, and environmental factors.

The concept of the "personal fat threshold" was put forth by Roy Taylor and Rury Holman, from Newcastle University, in their 2015 publication, Normal weight individuals who develop type 2 diabetes: the personal fat threshold...

"Essentially, fat gain is a protective mechanism resulting from a chronic energy surplus. Having too much energy in the blood stream (e.g., glucose and fat) is harmful, and fat cells beneath the skin (subcutaneous fat) suck this stuff up to protect us. As the fat cells take in more energy, they expand in size, like a

"But balloons can hold only so much before they pop, and a dead fat cell is of no help to anyone. So, once the fat cell reaches its threshold, it shuts itself off from the energy supply to preserve its own life. Thankfully, we have many fat cells that can pick up the slack of those that are no longer filling up with en-

How many fat cells (adipocytes) depends on your genetics. The more you have, the more obese you can become before metabolic disorders occur. Therefore, some obese people are metabolically healthy, while others are not. This also explains the unlucky few who develop Type 2 diabetes at a normal body weight. Their body weight may be "normal", but they are carrying too much fat for their PFT.

When most of our fat cells are full, the development of insulin resistance and the accumulation of glucose (diabetes) and excessive fat (triglycerides) in the blood. We also see emergency backup systems come into play, whereby the body inappropriately stores visceral fat in the organs, especially the liver and pancreas.

In essence, there is no such thing as "healthy" obesity. Sure, you can be obese and free of metabolic conditions, but you still have an increased risk of developing obesity-related diseases in comparison with normal weight individuals.

Not only are your everexpanding fat cells giving out more and more stress signals as they fill up and cause chronic inflammation, if things don't change, you're going to pass your PFT at some point, and develop diabetes, fatty liver, and heart

Kayaking in the front yard

THE SLATE WILLIAMS FAMILY had fun Saturday kayaking on their property north of Ozona after receiving close to six inches of rain last week. Rain totals around Crockett County varied last week from 2.5 inches to six inches from Sept. 2-9 after a seven-day rainfall. Flooding was reported in the area, with Eldorado receiving 7.86 inches. A couple whose care was swept off the road into the San Saba River near Fort McKavett was rescued thanks to efforts from Schleicher, Sutton, Menard and Kimble County emergency responders, according to The Eldorado Success.

HERITAGE PARK in San Angelo is scheduled to open Oct. 20. The "pocket park" will commemorate and celebrate the people of West Texas, their history and their rich agricultural heritage.

Unique 'Pocket Park' commemorates West Texas' proud heritage

SAN ANGELO - Workers are transforming a small corner lot in downtown San Angelo into a unique oasis intended to celebrate the people of West Texas, their history and their rich agricultural heritage.

The space the park occupies is only about a half-city-block at the corner of East Twohig and South Oakes, just catty-cornered from the Cactus Hotel, but what it has to offer will bring visitors from throughout the Concho Valley.

Not only will the park afford a respite for visitors and shoppers, offering seating under a unique shade structure; the park's design features include interactive elements that will show and tell the stories of the area's ranching heritage and encourage conservation of natural resources.

Heritage Park's grand opening is scheduled for Oct. 20.

Once completed, Heritage Park will be a field trip destination for school children offering see-it, hear-it, connect-it history lessons.

A statue of the fabled Hank, the Cow Dog, has been commissioned. The statue honoring Hank, the canine star of the book series begun in 1982 by John R. Erickson, will be the only one of its kind in all of Texas.

Special features include a rainwater capture structure, which, with its cypress siding, replicates a water well of the early 20th century. An educational looping video will be housed in the rainwater capture structure, allowing visitors access to information about the importance of conserving natural resources – water, in particular.

The personal stories of area ranching families and West Texas history will also feed into the loop.

A life-size statue of a rancher, Stetson hat in hand, standing behind his saddled horse will stand as a reminder of the integral role agriculture and livestock have played in the land's development.

The park's design is intended to meld the proud history of the Concho Valley and West Texas with its modern and progressive present, with a look westward toward a promising future, explains a brochure.

At the east end of the park, native limestone is incorporated into the design. At the west end, more modern brick was selected for the landscaping.

Giant leaf-like structures made from canvas stretched over 20-foot football-shaped metal frames will provide a unique canopy of shade toward the park's center by day, and with special lighting features will stand as a source of light by night.

A 1992 urban development study of downtown San Angelo strongly suggested incorporating a "pocket park" in the downtown area.

Then, J. Willis Johnson, donated the land, and commissioned the horse and rancher sculpture. Johnson, who died in January 2018, served on the park development committee and attended the Heritage Park groundbreaking in late 2017.

He very much wanted the land to become a park with elements that would teach visitors about the land and the people of West Texas.

Heritage Park is 100 percent privately funded and brick pavers are being sold to finance the project and ongoing educational programs.

To make a contribution, contact the San Angelo Area Foundation at (325) 947-7322 or send the donation to Heritage Park Fund; 221 S. Irving; San Angelo, Texas 76903-6421.

ITC nixes newsprint tariffs

The International Trade Commission's rejection of newsprint tariffs on imports of uncoated groundwood paper from Canada is good news for newspapers struggling with the added costs.

The ITC's Aug. 29 ruling that U.S. newsprint producers were not materially harmed by imports from Canada effectively puts an end to protective tariffs that the Commerce Department imposed earlier this year and revised in August.

The ruling is a victory for the U.S. newspaper industry, which complained that the rising cost of newsprint made it harder to operate and required them to trim the size of papers or lay off employees.

Dozens of lawmakers from both parties had urged the ITC to reject a complaint from a hedge fund-owned paper producer in Washington state that alleged dumping and subsidies had harmed U.S paper mills.

"We are delighted at the outcome," said TPA Executive Director Mike Hodges. "The International Trade Commission clearly saw what our industry has been saying all along - that the case for a tariff was groundless and that American newspapers would be in grave danger if a tariff were made permanent. Our members' involvement with the Texas Congressional delegation was crucial in our efforts to defeat the tariff and we deeply appreciate their hard work.'

TPA has been lobbying against the tariff for almost one year. The association joined a coalition led by News Media Alliance and National Newspaper Associa-

"We applaud the International Trade Commission (ITC) for reaching a final, unanimous negative determination that Canadian imports of uncoated groundwood paper, which includes newsprint used by newspapers, do not cause material harm to the U.S. paper industry," said David Chavern, president and CEO, News Media Alliance.

"The paper markets serving community newspapers can soon begin to move back to market pricing without the heavy hand of government imposing taxes upon the primary suppliers of newsprint," said National Newspaper Association President Susan Rowell, publisher of the Lancaster (SC) News.

In March, the Commerce Department imposed preliminary tariffs as high as 30 percent during its investigation in response to a complaint from North Pacific Paper Corporation (NORPAC), based in Longview, Washington, which argued that its Canadian competitors took advantage of government subsidies to sell their product at unfairly low prices.

Newspaper industry officials were joined by 19 members of Congress in testifying against the tariffs at a Commerce Department hearing in July.

U.S. Rep. Will Hurd, R-San Antonio, was one of the members of the Texas Congressional delegation that spoke out against the tariffs.

"Thousands of my constituents who are still without adequate internet access, especially in rural counties, rely on local papers as a daily source of news. Several of these papers that have been family owned and operated for multiple generations have seen costs rise as much as 20 percent and had to cut production for residents as a result. Tariffs that hurt locallyowned businesses and limit access to information have no place in Texas and I am pleased with the USITC's decision to put an end to this," said Hurd. "I am particularly grateful for the local papers in my district who resoundingly brought this issue to my attention so I could advocate on their behalf. My office is here, we are listening and we won't stop fighting for you."

The Ozona Stockman's Editor and Publisher Melissa Perner was one of Hurd's constituents that reached out to him about the issue.

Earlier this year, the Stockman had a hard time locating newsprint for its locallyowned press.

"We thank Congressman Hurd and all those in our industry that spoke out against the tariff. With the ITC's ruling, we are hoping that it will make it easier to find newsprint in the future," Perner said. "We are grateful to our friends in the industry, and to our readers that have helped us out during this time."

In an Aug. 2 ruling, the DOC upheld the tariffs but revised them to slightly lower levels - still as high as 20 percent. The tariffs would have been unsustainable for newspapers, other printers and publishers and printers, according to industry offi-

"Fortunately, our voice was heard at the hearing, and the ITC made the right call in reversing these harmful tariffs," Chavern said. "We hope the reversal of these newsprint tariffs will restore stability to the market and that publishers will see a full and quick recovery. Our democracy depends on it."

"We will not know until mid-September the commission's rationale for its vote of 5-0 against continuing newsprint tariffs," Rowell said. "We understand it will take a couple of months for the preliminary tariffs to be unwound and credits to be issued back to those companies who had paid duties at the border since last January. But it is an enormous relief to know that the ITC does not find a basis for continuing sanctions.'

said he is working on training his staff for the new jail and should be close to being fully staffed by the time the jail opens later this fall.

The commissioners asked Care Center Administrator Dewayne Atwood to come up with a budget if the care center should continue to provide the meals for the new jail.

The new jail will include a kitchen, but the commissioners want to find the most economical way to furnish the meals. The care center is currently providing the meals to the jail.

It also includes $2.5 million payment for the clinic, jail and wellness center bonds.

The total county tax rate is $.95000 per $100 valuation. This is a few cents lower than 2017, which was $.95231.

WIND FARM

The commissioners approved the White Mesa Reinvestment Zone for a 500 megawatt windfarm project in the northeast part of the county. Commissioners Pleas Childress and Wesley Bean abstained from voting due to conflict of interest.

The commissioners tabled the tax abatement agreement for White Mesa at the recommendation of Alan Carmichael, attorney representing the county.

The commissioners then approved the road use agreement and tax abatement agreement for the Ranchero Wind Farm, another windfarm project in the northern part of the county, and also authorized County Judge Fred Deaton to execute the agreements on behalf of the county. Bean abstained due to conflict of interest.

THE COMMISSIONERS ALSO:

for Animal Control Officer Joe Jurado. Approved credit cards for Crockett County Wildlife

Hegar also said state sales tax revenue totaled a record $2.87 billion in August, an amount 15.8 percent greater than the amount reported in August 2017. The amount eclipsed the previous monthly record amount of state sales tax revenue, which was $2.78 billion in November 2017, he added.

COALITION SEEKS TO END ACA

Texas Attorney General Ken Paxton and 19 other states on Sept. 5 asked a Fort Worth U.S. District Court to issue a nationwide injunction to halt the Affordable Care Act while a lawsuit attempting to repeal the 2010 federal law proceeds.

One of the coalition's main arguments before the court was that Obamacare's key "individual mandate" was rendered meaningless when Congress passed the Trump administration's Tax Cuts and Jobs Act of 2017.

The court had not ruled on the motion for an injunction as of Sept. 9.
