PIONEER MAN PASSES AWAY

W. C. Cowan, 83, Lynn Resident Since 1902, Buried Monday From First Illness

Following an illness of nearly three weeks, the only serious illness he ever suffered in his life, W. C. Cowan, 83, native Texan and pioneer citizen of Lynn county, died at his home here about 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Death came as the result of Bright's disease, which developed a few months ago, and an attack of heart trouble which set up a little more than two weeks before his death. Almost from the beginning of the heart attack, physicians, members of the family, and friends became convinced that the aged man could not recover. It was amazing, however, how he continued to cling to life for days and days after death appeared to be at the door. Remarkable too was the fact that although he had been virtually unable to talk for several days, he retained perfect consciousness and on Saturday morning his power of speech returned and for thirty minutes or more he talked, or "preached a wonderful sermon" as they expressed it, to the members of the family gathered around his bed. At mid-afternoon, his breathing became easier, and peacefully he went to sleep.

Funeral services were conducted at the Baptist Church at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon by his pastor, Rev. George A. Dale. Harris & Applewhite, funeral directors, had charge of the burial arrangements, interment being in the Tahoka Cemetery.

William Cass Cowan was born in Titus county, Texas, June 16, 1852, during the administration of P. Hansborough Bell as governor, a little more than six years after Texas was admitted to the Union as a state and nearly nine years before.

Assignments Stop On WPA Projects

There will be no more assignments to any WPA job until further orders, according to W. B. Bishop of the local NRS office, acting on orders from headquarters of the set-up. "This means that all men who were not on the WPA payroll on February 18, cannot secure such work unless further orders are received."

The only WPA project now under way is the Highway 84 job. A total of 87 men had been assigned to that project, though that many were not at work, and only those who had actually reported for duty can secure this work unless further orders are received.

This order does not affect the new Tahoka school building job, to start March 2, which is a PWA project.

"There are still some who do not understand what the WPA means," Mrs. Bishop said. "A WPA project is a project operated by the Works Progress Administration, to provide jobs for persons certified by the relief office."

TOWNSEND CLUB NOTES

Owing to extreme cold, the meeting for Magnolia last Friday night was postponed—next date not yet named. For the same reason, the secretary states, the meeting for tonight is also temporarily canceled. Regular club meeting will be Saturday at 2 p. m. to which young people are especially invited.

PETTY H. D. CLUB

Mrs. Preston Reagan was hostess to the Petty H. D. Club on Feb. 13. Plans for the Lubbock Meat Show were made at this meeting and the programs in the year book made out for the next few months.

Miss Robb gave a lecture on kitchens, the walls, background and woodwork, stressing the value of making our kitchens attractive, comfortable for work, and easily cleaned.

Mrs. R. B. Nowlin is kitchen demonstrator for the club and she has been busy the past few weeks bringing her kitchen up to standard. The next meeting will be with Mrs. J. W. Lowry on February 27, with Mrs. Lee Cromer as leader.

Mary Bland Wells is sick with the flu.

Crowd Attends Tractor School

Several hundred farmers were here Tuesday attending the Short Course in Modern Agriculture presented by the John Deere implement people at the English Theatre and the D. W. Gagnat Hardware and Implement store.

John Deere tractor representatives here from Dallas are quoted as stating that they had here the best attendance and keenest interest of any place visited since leaving Dallas.

Lectures and moving pictures were given showing how agricultural implements and tractors are built and how tractors are operated to the best advantage.

Among the interested visitors were Mr. Bill Stubbs, teacher of vocational agriculture in the high school and his agriculture class.

Refreshments were served at the Gagnat Hardware Store at the noon hour.

History Is Told At Lunch Club

Tahoka Luncheon Club had as guests last Tuesday eleven of the members of the grand jury now in session here, and so they talked mostly about things that happened thirty-odd years ago.

W. E. "Happy" Smith had charge of the program. Frank Hill had with him a copy of the first issue of The Lynn County News, which was published October 9, 1903, from which he read interesting news items and advertisements. Those were the "horse and buggy days," and the paper contained advertisements of livery stables, with the best of rigs, etc., and hotels, one of them declaring to be the largest and best between Canyon City and Big Springs. Beds were 25c. An account of the first wedding in Lynn county was also read in part.

Then "Happy" followed up with a bunch of information about the organization and early history of the county. He told about the first election, the first court house, the first commissioners court, etc. He quoted from the minutes of a term of the court held in those pioneer days, in which it was recorded by the clerk that the court was duly convened and after spending two or three days in "loud talking, cursing, and wrangling without doing anything," it adjourned.

J. K. Applewhite called attention to the fact that the County Inter-scholastic League meet would be held here again this year and suggested that the president appoint a committee to raise funds to take care of the expenses. President Geo. A. Dale appointed J. K. Applewhite, W. S. Anglin, and Happy Smith as the committee.

The program of music consisted of a violin number by Jo Jo Lehman with Mrs. J. K. Applewhite as piano accompanist, and a piano solo by George Hogan III. There was also a vocal number by Bill Sewell and G. H. Nelson.

Rev. C. C. Armstrong was selected to have charge of the program next Tuesday.

SPECIAL FOUNDERS DAY PROGRAM FOR P. T. A.

The regular P. T. A. meeting was postponed this week on account of a special program that had been planned for Friday, February 28th, at the high school auditorium, beginning at 8 o'clock.

History of the P. T. A. organization and a pageant on Founders' Day will be carried out very effectively. Some very able speakers will appear on the program. You are invited to attend this meeting.

MIDWAY 4-H CLUB

"Aprons that have candle-wick tufting on them must be soaked three hours in warm water," said Miss Robb at the meeting of the Midway 4-H Club February 11.

We were to have our aprons finished by this meeting. They were judged and were ready for the tufting to be put on them.

Officers were elected as follows: Maggie Russell, chairman; Omega Murphy, vice chairman; Icapahne Stephens, secretary; and Ruth Anderson, reporter.

SCHOOL WORK ORDER ISSUED

Work Scheduled To Begin March 2 On New $72,000 Grade School Building Here

On Wednesday of this week, Alvin Hicks, president of the Tahoka School Board, received a copy of a work order which had been sent to Virgil Shell of Lubbock, the contractor, for construction on the new grade school building here beginning on Monday, March 2. This is a PWA project.

Mr. Shell has the contract for the construction of the basement. It is expected that contract for the brick work will be let within the next few weeks.

The plans for this building as drawn by S. B. Haynes of Lubbock, architect, and accepted by the school board call for a most commodious and attractive school building, one which together with the splendid high school building, should meet the needs of the Tahoka Independent School District for many years.

No announcement has been made as to what disposition, if any, will be made of the present Central Ward structure, but it will not be demolished until after the present school term closes, possibly not then.

May Register Now For Driver's License

To all who operate a motor vehicle: The responsibility of issuing operators license has been placed on all Assessors and Collectors of each County of Texas. I have just received all necessary material to issue same, and have placed applications over the county for operator's license. This application should be made out either with pen and ink or typewritten, signed before a notary public, then presented at this office at your earliest convenience for license.

License can not be issued to any person under 14 years of age. Any person applying for license between the ages of 14 and 18 must be joined by one parent or legal guardian in application for same. There will be no charges for operator's license, unless one is lost; in this case a fee of 25 cents will be charged for duplicate receipt. Your cooperation and early application will be greatly appreciated as it is necessary that you have these licenses at an early date. The above is in compliance with Senate Bill No. 15, enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas.

Also, automobile license plates are available at this time and may be displayed March 1st, 1936. To secure same, present your last year's license receipt or transfer if you have traded for a different vehicle. In registering a truck, weigh your truck empty and present weight slip together with last registration receipt. To comply with above will assist me in serving you better.

A. M. CADE, Assessor and Collector of Taxes, Lynn County.

Frank Hill Will Speak At Tech

"The South Plains and Our Indian History" will be the subject of a talk by Frank P. Hill at the annual meeting of the Tech Museum Society, which meets in Lubbock on the afternoon and night of Friday, February 28. Invitation to appear on this program came from Dr. W. C. Holden, chairman of the program committee.

The O'Donnell Centennial club heard a talk on the history of Lynn county by the local man Monday night.

WILSON GIRL MAKES HONOR ROLL AT JOHN TARLETON

Stephenville, Feb. 20—Mary Higgs Brandon of Wilson, student in John Tarleton College, is listed on the third six-week preliminary period honor roll, according to announcement made this week by Charlie S. Wilkins, registrar.

W. A. Strickland and family left Sunday to make their home at Monday. They formerly resided there, but have been here several years. Their many friends here are hoping and predicting that they will come back in due time.

FERTILIZER IS SHIPPED NORTH

Connecticut Man In Tahoka Buying Gin Refuse To Enrich Lands Of Northern Farmers

There is one by-product of the cotton industry that Southern farmers seem to have entirely overlooked, but it has not escaped the keen business eye of the New England Yankee.

One of them was here a couple of weeks ago buying up all the ashes resulting from the burning of cotton burrs at the various incinerators at our gins. He bought about 150 tons here, according to our information, paying the gins $2.00 per ton for it.

That is an insignificant sum, but he paid a truck operator $1.00 per ton additional to haul the ashes and load them on the cars. They were shipped to far-away Connecticut, and we are told that the freight was $15.00 per ton. These ashes therefore cost the purchaser $18.00 per ton delivered in Connecticut.

We understand that these ashes are being bought up all over the South by these Northerners, and that this has been done each year for many years now.

These ashes are said to have a strong potash content. They are taken north, ground, mixed with other materials, and sold as fertilizer to the farmers and truck gardeners of the North. Doubtless much of this fertilizer is sold to the people of the South themselves, particularly in the older states of the South.

Now, while we are beginning to become interested in soil conservation, we wonder why we are not making use of the material that comes from our own fields to fertilize our poorer lands and especially those particular soils that need the very elements contained in these ashes.

We are permitting these ingenious Yankees to utilize and profit from the waste products of our farms that we regard as worthless.

Income Tax Man Coming March 3rd

Deputy Collector L. B. Barkley will be at the First National Bank in Tahoka on March 3rd for the purpose of assisting income tax payers with the preparation of their income tax returns.

M. E. YOUNG PEOPLE HOLD RECORD MEETING

The Fidelity Union of Methodist Young People held a delightful session at the local church last Friday night. Pastors M. M. Beavers of Lamesa and M. R. Pike of O'Donnell accompanied their groups, and about sixty were in attendance.

Miss Eva Douthit, local president, was in charge of the devotional program and Union president, Will Norris of Lamesa, presided during the business hour.

Representatives from Lamesa, Mt. Olive, O'Donnell and Tahoka were rated for the banner award, which it was Tahoka's good fortunes to win.

An entertainment program following the business was announced by Mrs. Pete Hegl, counselor, and consisted of the following numbers: Cornet solo, "The Green Cathedral" played by C. C. Armstrong Jr., and a vocal solo, Adams' "Holy City" by Bill Sewell. Betty Suddarth read a humorous poem, Eva Douthit sang "A Perfect Day" and Mary Jane Weathers played a violin number.

"The Rosary." Mrs. Rubie D. Suddarth accompanied the musical numbers and closed the program with a solo.

Bill Sewell, assisted by Mrs. Hegl, directed a hilarious hour of games and stunts, after which everyone enjoyed refreshments of pop corn balls.

The next meeting is scheduled at the Draw church Friday, March 13.—Reporter.

Last week in reporting the death of Mrs. R. C. Wood, we erroneously stated two of her surviving sisters were Mrs. Tom Friddy and Mrs. Sam Friddy. The former should have been Mrs. Tmo Eaton, Kerens. Other relatives surviving include three grandchildren, Morgan and Welton Noble of Tahoka, and Eva Jane Wood, South Gate, Calif.

Sunday School Revival Planned

A Sunday School Revival is to be conducted at the Baptist Church next week, beginning Monday night and closing Friday night. There will be a special program each night. Inspirational addresses will be given by visiting speakers as follows: Rev. A. Loper of O'Donnell Monday night, Rev. R. A. Springer of Lubbock Tuesday night, Rev. C. G. Sewell of Slaton Thursday night, and Rev. E. F. Cole of Lamesa Friday night.

All members of the Church and Sunday School are urged to attend; all others are cordially invited. Rev. George A. Dale, the pastor, thinks these meetings will be wonderfully inspiring and helpful.

Mrs. Ida Hicks Is Buried At Abilene

Mrs. Ida Hicks, whose home was Abilene, died at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, February 13, at the home here of her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Bartlett. She had been in ill health more than a year and in a serious condition for about a month preceding her death.

The remains were taken to Abilene Thursday night, and funeral services were conducted from the home of another daughter there, Mrs. Percy Mayfield, at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Elder J. W. West, pastor of the Primitive Baptist Church of Abilene, officiated, assisted by Dr. Millard A. Jenkins, pastor of the First Baptist Church of that city. The body was buried in an Abilene cemetery beside the grave of her husband, who preceded her in death more than thirteen years.

Born on June 16, 1859, Mrs. Hicks was more than 76 years of age. She was married to I. L. Hicks in 1877, and they reared a large family. Twelve children and thirty-four grandchildren survive. The sons are Dr. I. W. Hicks, Floydada; Urban J. Hicks, Seagraves; E. P. Hicks, Tulsa, Oklahoma; J. Hugh Hicks, Houston; Joe N. Hicks, Monument, N. M.; and O. Clyde Hicks, Denton. The daughters are Mrs. J. A. Bartlett, Tahoka; Mrs. T. B. Francis and Miss Esther Hicks, Houston; Mrs. John C. Dunnagan, Midland; Mrs. Percy Mayfield and Mrs. A. John, Abilene.

Mrs. Hicks had spent the last six months here with her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Bartlett, and had made many warm friends here. She had long been a devoted member of the Primitive Baptist Church and lived a faithful Christian life.

The bereaved ones have the sympathy of her many friends here.

Joe Lane Plays At Teachers' Meeting

Lynn county was efficiently represented in the music program of the West Texas State Teachers' meeting at Lubbock last Friday by Joe Lane and Mrs. A. B. Griffith. Joe is a third grade pupil in the Midway school and Mrs. Griffith is his teacher.

They were the only musicians on Friday's program to be favored with a hearty encore from the large audience of school teachers and officials. They played three numbers.

Later in the day they played over the radio from the studio of the Lubbock broadcasting station.

Joe is considered by many as the best child violinist and vocalist in the state. He has played and sung over most of the large broadcasting stations of Texas, and has a large following of radio fans.

He takes a violin and music lesson every day at school, missing one-half the noon play period to do so.

Mr. and Mrs. Griffith plan to take him to a college this summer where he will pursue his study of the violin. He may accompany them to the Centennial Celebration at Dallas, also, where he will meet many of the best musicians of the South.

Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Singleton of this city and Mr. and Mrs. Hal Singleton and family of O'Donnell returned the first of the week from Fort Worth, where they attended a reunion of the Singletons.

CHARGE TWO OF CATTLE THEFT

Oscar Sumner And Henry Reed Are Indicted Here; Others Indicted At Brownfield

The Grand Jury which was empaneled here Monday morning when district court convened has already returned into court nine felony indictments.

For the first time in several years indictments for cattle theft in this county have been returned. Two indictments were filed Tuesday charging Oscar Sumners, pioneer ranchman, with the theft of two head of cattle from the T-Bar, it being alleged that the offenses were committed December 18. Sumners was indicted in Terry county last week and a like charge and is now in jail at Brownfield.

Henry Reed, who has been previously indicted in a number of cases and who was pardoned out of the penitentiary less than two years ago by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, was likewise indicted at Brownfield last week, and two indictments for cattle theft were returned against him here Tuesday. He is also alleged to have stolen two head of cattle from the T-Bar on December 18.

Buck Brewer, another citizen of Lynn county, was also indicted at Brownfield last week for cattle theft. He was arrested and placed in jail.

It is believed that the grand jury here is making further investigation of cow-theft charges, and it is possible that other indictments will be returned. It is said that the investigations of cattle stealing were instituted and conducted by the Texas Cattle Raisers Association, and it is expected that Dayton Moses, the attorney for that organization, will assist in the prosecution of the cases.

On Wednesday J. D. Davidson and J. B. Castleman were jointly indicted for chicken theft, that offense now being a felony. They are alleged to have stolen a bunch of chickens from George Bovell six miles north of Tahoka on November 25.

Willie Banks, colored, is accused by indictment with burglarizing the residence of Dave Watkins, another negro, residing on the F. E. Weaver farm near Southland, on November 6. He is said to have stolen some groceries and clothing.

J. F. Millman Jr., a youth 18 or 19 years of age and a long-time resident of Tahoka, was indicted for the alleged burglary of the Henry D. Evans store here on December 29. He is charged with having purloined some clothing.

Two Mexicans, Frank and Louis Contreras, are accused of having stolen a trailer from Ellis Tredway at O'Donnell on December 29. The Mexicans were later located at Taylor in Williamson county in possession of the trailer, it is said. They had been picking cotton in this county.

The grand jury is composed of the following gentlemen: John Heck of Wilson, foreman, Lynn West of Wilson, Howland Haire of Gordon, J. M. Payne of O'Donnell, W. M. Smith of Wells, J. E. Sherrill of Draw, Chester Connolly of Tahoka, C. T. Tankersley of West Point, J. H. Newman of Lakeview, W. S. Anglin of Tahoka, B. J. Emanuel of Magnolia, H. W. Edwards of Grassland.

Judge Gordon B. McGuire called the appearance docket Tuesday. Not much is being done this week further than the setting of the docket and taking orders, but a jury will be here next week for the trial of civil cases.

TOWNSEND RALLY

The Lubbock Townsend club will sponsor a mass meeting to be held at Lubbock on Monday night, March 2nd, at 7:30 p. m. The Honorable Jas. O. Rail of San Antonio, will deliver the principal address. All are cordially invited to attend and bear the plan correctly explained.

Bill Newton and family moved to Mineral Wells Monday, where he will continue his trade as a barber. Bill has been with the Woodworth barber shop here the past few years. They have probably been here too long to remain away permanently.

Mrs. Mary Holcomb living south of the business part of town is sick of pneumonia.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Norris Urges Congress to Curb Supreme Court—Oratory on Lincoln Day—Death of Charles Curtis—Long Newspaper Tax Invalid.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

SPEAKING in advocacy of the administration's substitute farm bill, Senator Norris, the independent Republican from Nebraska, seathingly attacked the Supreme court's AAA decision and urged congress to use its right to curb the court's power. He argued that the 6 to 3 decision itself was unconstitutional by the court's own reasoning and shouted "It cannot stand."

Senator Norris

The regulation of agricultural production, they say, is unconstitutional because Norris asserted, "Nowhere in that great document is there a syllable, a word, or a sentence giving to any court the right to declare an act of congress unconstitutional. Hence, when the court indulges in that pastime it is itself violating the Constitution according to its own words."

Norris quoted from the majority opinion of the Supreme court holding that the regulation and control of agricultural production was a local affair reserved to the states and beyond the power of congress. Under that decision, he declared, not only the pending bill but "a large portion of the laws which congress has passed during the last hundred years are absolutely unconstitutional."

Of the later decision ordering return of processing taxes to the processors, the senator said Secretary Wallace perhaps was too severe in calling it the greatest legalized steal in history, and added: "But it is a gift, the greatest gift since God made salvation free."

Norris urged that congress pass a law requiring unanimous decisions by the Supreme court to overrule the acts of the legislative branch of the government.

LINCOLN day was the occasion for a flood of oratory, largely by Republican opponents of the New Deal. Herbert Hoover spoke at Portland, Ore., on the "State of the Union," which he said was a state of confusion in thought, government, economic life and the ideals of liberty. "The New Deal," said the former President, "has been a veritable fountain of fear. The day after the New Deal was given life at the election of 1932 began the great fear which created the bank panic of March 4. The stock boom today is not from confidence in the future; it is partly from fear of inflation."

In Greensboro, N. C., Senator Dickinson of Iowa warmly defended the Supreme court as "the only remaining guardian of the liberty of the people," and inveighed against what he said was the New Deal's "planned economy" and its "attempted bribery of the states" through the invalidated AAA and its proposed substitute, the soil conservation measure.

Senator Vandenberg of Michigan was a speaker in New York city, and like his fellow Republicans he fiercely assailed the administration, terming it the "third party now in power." Among the few leading Democrats heard was Secretary Wallace, who, in Indianapolis, defended the administration. Referring to the Constitution, he declared that "most of us" thought the agriculture adjustment act was valid, and "some of us, including three justices of the Supreme court, think so still."

CHARLES CURTIS, former Vice President of the United States and before that representative and senator from Kansas, died suddenly of heart disease at the Washington home of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Gann. He was seventy-six years old, and was the first man of Indian blood ever to preside over the senate. He was one-quarter Kaw Indian, his grandmother having been Princess Julie of that tribe who married a French voyageur. In his boyhood Curtis was a Jockey, and later a reporter. Having studied law, he became a prosecutor at the age of twenty-four in Shawnee county, Kansas, and was elected to congress in 1892. He was made senator in 1907, was defeated in 1912 and two years later was again elected senator. He was elected Vice President on the ticket headed by Herbert Hoover, and was re-nominated for that position in 1932.

Charles Curtis

Mr. Curtis was greatly liked by his associates in Washington and his death caused genuine grief. President Roosevelt said: "I am deeply distressed to learn of the sudden passing of my old friend, Charles Curtis. Whether they knew him as a senator, as the Vice President of the United States, or as the man he was in his own right, his legion of friends will remember him, always affectionately, and will mourn his passing."

Vice President Garner said: "I was always fond of him. I was associated with him in the house and senate. He was a fine man and a good friend."

Funeral services for Mr. Curtis and the interment were in Topeka, Kan.

ONCE again the Supreme court of the United States comes to the rescue of a free press. Unanimously the nine justices ruled that the Louisiana law imposing a punitive tax on the advertising of the principal newspapers of that state is unconstitutional. The law was passed by a legislature controlled by the late Senator Huey Long. The court said of it: "It is bad because, in the light of its history and of its present setting, it is seen to be a deliberate and calculated device in the guise of a tax to limit the circulation of information to which the public is entitled in virtue of the constitutional guarantee."

"A free press stands as one of the great interpreters between the government and the people. To allow it to be fettered is to fetter ourselves. In view of the persistent search for new subjects of taxation, it is not without significance that, with the single exception of the Louisiana statute, so far as we can discover, no state during the 150 years of our national existence has undertaken to impose a tax like that now in question."

"The form in which the tax is imposed is in itself suspicious. It is not measured or limited by the volume of advertisement. It is measured alone by the extent of the circulation of the publication in which the advertisements are carried, with the plain purpose of penalizing the publishers and curtailing the circulation of a selected group of newspapers."

LETTERS have been sent by President Roosevelt to the heads of the Latin-American governments inviting them to participate in a Pan-American conference, probably in Washington, the purpose of which will be to organize the peace machinery of the western hemisphere. Our State department says the meeting will endeavor to provide means for adjusting international disputes by peaceful means. The conference may bring up the Monroe Doctrine for a new definition through multilateral endorsement.

PRESIDENT WILLIAM L. RANSOM of the American Bar association, with headquarters in Chicago, announced that Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, has accepted the chairmanship of the association's special committee on co-operation between the press, radio and bar against publicity interfering with fair trial of judicial and quasi-judicial proceedings.

The creation of this special committee to define standards to be recommended to lawyers, newspapers and radio broadcasters in the matter of publicity as to court trials, said the announcement, is an outcome of the incidents arising in the course of the Bruno Hauptmann trial and various proceedings before governmental boards and bodies, and it is hoped that such standards can be made effective through rules of court or through legislation.

ACCORDING to the London Daily Herald, a secret decree providing for expulsion of all Jews from Germany as rapidly as possible has been prepared by Nazi leaders and laid before Chancellor Hitler for his signature. The paper said the decree provided for the confiscation of all property of expelled Jews.

This story may not be true, but there is no doubt that Hitler and his associates are determined to extirpate all the organizations and groups which they consider in opposition to the Nazi regime, and Hitler himself has declared the Jews are to blame for all the troubles of the reich. In recent years, scores of Catholic youth leaders have been arrested, charged with co-operation with illegal Communist groups, and it is predicted their organizations will be dissolved. The campaign is carried on with great secrecy. It was announced in Berlin that district governors henceforth would take orders from the Gestapo, the secret state police. This was interpreted as an indication of an immediate carrying out of promises by Nazi leaders for more ruthless, more determined action against enemies within the reich.

AMERICAN Olympic athletes appearing on the field in Germany met with gloomy silence, contrasting with applause for European and Oriental Olympic squads. The Americans, who defeated Germany at hockey, score 1 to 0, will survive the silence. Had they been wiser, they would have stayed at home. A German-Jewish player, Rudi Ball, by the way, was the star hockey player for the Germans.

PRESIDENT LAZARO CARDENAS of Mexico went to Monterrey to investigate a stoppage of business and industry in protest against labor troubles attributed to Communists. He issued this ultimatum: "Employers who are fatigued by Mexico's social and economic struggle can turn over their industries to the workers or the government—that would be patriotic. But stoppage of activities cannot be countenanced."

BRISBANE THIS WEEK

Newspapers Are Useful A Leisure Class, Also A Real American Offense and Defense

The Supreme court says: "The free press stands as one of the great interpreters between the government and the people. To let it be fettered is to fetter ourselves."

Arthur Brisbane

Arthur Brisbane

Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, repeating what Aristotle said before him, said civilization needs a leisure class, and defined as the "leisure class" those that keep a hired girl.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, thoughtful and wise, improves that definition; a leisure class for her is made up of individuals that "have sufficient economic security and sufficient leisure to find opportunity for a variety of satisfactions in life."

Charles Fourier, French philosopher, said it long ago, and elaborately. Henry Ford said it well, advocating a short work week, with two days off, that men might have time to spend pleasantly the earnings of five days.

All that will come, and more. In the past men worked too hard, while paid and fed too little, and never dreamed of Mrs. Roosevelt's "varied satisfactions," while the prosperous, as a rule, concentrated too much on foolish satisfactions.

All that knew him learn with sorrow of the sudden death of Charles Curtis, former Vice President of the United States. He was an American, a real one, proud of the red Indian blood in his veins. As a boy he rode horse races well and honestly; as a man, he rode the political race fairly. As Vice President he was content with the position that the American people and Constitution gave him. He would have made a good and loyal President had destiny so willed it.

The newspaper heading, "Britain is redoubting her defense plans to offset Germany," should interest somebody in America. This country is not planning to "offset Germany," but it has all Europe, including Russia and all Asia, to think about in these flying days. We should perfect our "defense plans" and particularly our attack plans. Then we should ask the world to look over our equipment and realize that it would be foolish to attack.

Senator Pittman of Nevada sees Japan shutting us out of China, "even at the risk of war," says our business men "have been run out of Manchuria already." Japan might reply that her workmen have been run out of the United States.

The map will comfort Senator Pittman. Gigantic Manchukuo, bigger than all of old Japan, leans up against Outer Mongolia and Soviet Russia. Japan will not invite trouble with those countries, and war with the United States would invite it.

If you wonder "where all the tax money goes," read this: "In six months the state of New York paid $801,612 for official automobile expense."

And that does not include automobiles for the department of mental hygiene. One official discharged his chauffeur, paid by taxpayers, accusing him of cheating the state out of $2,000 in one year through dishonest gasoline and repair vouchers. That is almost "a business."

"Charlie" Schwab may be seventy years old, but he still "knows his way around." The government tried to get $19,654,856 from Schwab's Bethlehem Steel company, alleging profiteering. Instead of giving the government $19,000,000, the "special master," hearing evidence, says the government must pay $5,696,154 to Schwab and Bethlehem Steel. No wonder Carnegie, who was Scotch, thought a good deal of Schwab.

Dr. G. A. Stevenson, "fellow" in the University college of Oxford, suggests to the London Times that the pax Romana ("Roman peace") of ancient times, when Rome ruled the world and would allow no fighting, should be followed now by a pax Britannica ("British peace"). England ruling the world, telling everybody what to do.

American Olympic athletes appearing on the field in Germany met with gloomy silence, contrasting with applause for European and Oriental Olympic squads. The Americans, who defeated Germany at hockey, score 1 to 0, will survive the silence. Had they been wiser, they would have stayed at home. A German-Jewish player, Rudi Ball, by the way, was the star hockey player for the Germans.

Real Struggle of the Campaign

It's Age-Old Fight Between Progress and Reaction; All Mourn for Curtis

By EARL GODWIN

WASHINGTON.—The noise of the politicians clamoring for election of parties and individuals conceals the fact that there is a great sub-surface movement leading to an upheaval. It is not alone an administration to be chosen in November; the election is merely a preliminary skirmish. The real struggle is between those two old enemies Reaction and Progress, which have been working against each other since the dawn of time.

I look to an eventual liberalization of legal, social and economic thought which will make it possible in this country to use the whole power of the nation to solve the problems which today apparently are insoluble because of legal technicalities and so called "state rights." That's Progress.

I think Roosevelt will make this clear sometime during the coming political campaign; after he is renominated at Philadelphia in the latter days of June. Parenthetically, also, I look for the sudden development of crises here and abroad which may change the aspect of affairs to an extent that may project new and unsuspected issues into the campaign. For instance, in event of a European war; or a widespread labor strike here, there would be instant need of new policies.

NEW DEAL ACHIEVEMENTS

Let us reason out this social movement which will soon sharply define itself against the skyline of current events.

First came the New Deal with its fresh, clear breeze; its helpful suggestions as to the rights of the employed class, the help for farmers, the aid to home owners, the public work with its program of employment, the great mobilization of credit for business, and its warm heart for the hungry. Then, as the New Deal took hold on the affections of the nation, there came the counter move of the Reaction, the attacks of the Liberty league, and the power trust. The attitude of the majority of the Supreme court upholds the social and economic views of the Liberty league and power trust, while millions of other Americans seem to feel that the court's action means there is no room for a fresh idea in American government.

New Dealers believe that the court's limitations on New Deal programs will bind the old order tighter, like staves on a barrel strained to the bursting point. The Old Order thinks the staves will prevent the explosion; the New Deal knows that the tighter the staves the sharper the eventual explosion. Roosevelt would, if given opportunity, loosen up the barrel and throw out a little of its content, to prevent too violent a crisis.

The way these things shape up in politics makes it appear that the New Deal is on the defensive. There is no more NRA, no more AAA and the President asks for repeal of all other agricultural control acts. There is slow speed in the administration's housing program and the Public Works schedule is not what it ought to be.

The boys who like to ride the band wagon are trying to climb on the Republican vehicle; and the G. O. P. despite the fact that it has no party and no program for the unparalleled difficulties of government, seems to think it is all over but the shouting.

NEW DEAL MUCH ALIVE

But the New Deal is not dead; not by a long shot. Roosevelt is merely playing possum. He is sending out his scouts to find out what the mass of people are thinking. You can't get the truth from city paper headlines. For instance, let us say that two hundred mine owners hail with delight the death of NRA; that gets into the headlines from one to three inches deep and dominates the newspaper first page. But the resentment of 500,000 soft coal mine workers, which is much more valuable politically, does not get the attention of the Washington correspondents until the United Mine Workers convene here and go on a rampage for Roosevelt, the New Deal and all that NRA and its brother, the Guffey act, has granted to workers, (Labor will probably support Roosevelt, but will eventually turn on him when he tries to regulate their wages in a forthcoming program).

WILL SIT TIGHT

Roosevelt will sit tight; run the government, and if re-elected will go down the line with an improved New Deal administration to accomplish the objectives he has outlined many times, summed up in the one line "To make America a better place to live in."

He will not scrap the betterments to industry, to labor, to the banks, to business, to agriculture simply because of the irritating delays by courts and politicians. Instead, he is now engaged in getting the sand out of the carburetor and is going to show a burst of streamlined speed in his second administration that will give the laugh to the Horse-and-Buggy crowd. Incidentally, he will have with him a great company of business-men who know that he has saved business through the loans of the RFC; millions of people whose homes were saved through the Home Owners' Loan corporation; millions who would have had no money had it not been for the relief program. Watch out for a nationwide house-building program which will clean up the city slums and come close to settling the unemployment problem. We have been stalled in our housing program so far because of pin pricks in the courts. But England drove a house-building program through the courts and everything else; England's recovery is due 50 per cent to house building. I understand Roosevelt is about ready to spring one like it on us.

ALL MOURN CURTIS

Washington sincerely mourned the death of former Vice President Charles Curtis. Here we all called him "Charlie" Curtis and recognized in him a great quality of manly virtue. His passing suddenly, and the widespread note of genuine regret reminds me that if we could only wipe out the bitterness and fury of politics we could pay more attention to the human element in public life.

Now, for instance, if Charlie Curtis had been running for office, instead of living in a house by the side of the road and being a friend of all men, we would have been in the midst of a daily clamor over Charlie that would leave us unsatisfied as to whether or not he was all there. His political friends would have put a halo around him; his opponents would have dressed him up in prison garb. . . . but Charlie Curtis was out of politics long enough to have every one realize that he was a great American and a great human being. He typified, in a way, the fact that America is slowly paying the white man's debt to the Indians. Charlie Curtis was legally an Indian, being one-eighth Kaw; and his grandmother had been a real redskin. He was the one Indian to get up to the heights of the Vice Presidency; there had been one or two in the national legislature but Curtis was in a spot from which he could have stepped to the White House.

BORAH STARTS BALL

Borah, by formally entering the Ohio primaries as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the Presidency, starts the ball rolling. Borah is the first Republican to take the legal steps necessary to become an aspirant for the Presidency; and thus is the first Republican formally to get into the race against Roosevelt. Up to the time Borah chucked his hat in the ring in Ohio, Republican politics was all hot air. Now Borah sneers up the Buckeye state's hope to hand the Ohio influence to Chester Bolton, Ohio Republican congressman and a favorite son of that state.

Borah is no favorite with eastern Republican managers; and he is out to skin them alive if he can. Borah would like to break up the eastern and Wall Street control of his own party; and they are so afraid of him in the East that I feel Charlie Hilles and his New York crowd would rather lose the election than see Borah dominate it, because the eastern financiers would be as much out of the picture with Borah in the White House as they are with Roosevelt.

LITERARY DIGEST POLL

When you analyze the famous Literary Digest poll which apparently shows that more than half the country is opposed to the New Deal, you will find that the wording of the questionnaire sent out had much to do with an unfavorable showing. It would be impossible to find many persons with a hundred per cent O. K. on the Roosevelt administration; in fact, I doubt that Roosevelt himself approves of every last detail of it the way it has worked out in the face of human frailties and reactionary judges.

But the Digest figures were reported in such a way that it appeared there was a continuing drift away from Roosevelt. The poll seemed to show that Roosevelt fell further and further behind as the poll progressed. This was accomplished by first presenting the West and South with Roosevelt strong, and later to publish the vote from large industrial or eastern states, where the New Deal is weak. The effect was to distort the poll, by giving it the effect of a moving retreat. Actually the state figures show very little change as the poll proceeded.

Other polls conducted by other experts range from a 70 per cent endorsement of Roosevelt to a 52 per cent endorsement. Of course, an election campaign between two individuals is the only way to gauge strength; you can't elect a Republican not yet nominated by finding out that a sample poll gives a black eye to certain Roosevelt policies.

LIBERTY LEAGUE

The Liberty league is now engaged in a national solicitation for funds and members, and gives folks the idea it is fighting Socialism and Communism when it opposes the New Deal.

In my opinion the Liberty league, should it be successful in its program, would precipitate a revolution here worse than the French uprising, because the league's aims are purely for business. Their demand for budget balancing, for instance, means that they would cut off the emergency spending by which twenty million Americans are now on relief. The budget is out of balance because of the emergency; just as it was out of balance in the World war by reason of war expenditures. The Liberty league leaders were, during the World war, largely engaged in selling munitions of war—and never in all that era did they worry over an unbalanced budget. They started advocating a balance when it became necessary for the federal treasury to be opened for the benefit of individuals in the bread lines.

"Is Ruth bitter about it, Larry?"

"On the contrary, she doesn't see, or she won't admit, anything to be bitter about. She's very happy and very affectionate, and grateful to me for going along, and sure I'll love it all!"

"She's taken that position," Tony said, in a hard voice.

"She's—yes. She's taken that position."

The girl's voice was gentler, her blue eyes shadowed, when she spoke again.

"But she knows we love each other?"

"She never had said so. She talks of what the best thing is for all of us. For me, and for you—for all of us."

"Poor Ruth," Tony said; "what other attitude can she take, unless she wants to let you go?"

"Caroline and Mrs. Patterson help her to keep it up."

"Keep up—?"

"The—well, the little fiction that the whole thing is—just something to be hushed up and forgiven and forgotten."

"Forgiven and forgotten?" Tony said, with the proud color in her face.

"They seem to feel that there is no question that I like you too much and you like me too much," Larry said.

"But since it's Larry and Tony, they must be protected and excused. Larry's like that, and poor little Tony didn't know what she was letting herself in for, what gossiping tongues would make of it!"

"I suppose so," Tony said dryly.

"Does Ruth believe it?"

"Ruth always believes what she wants to believe. Yes, she believes it. As far as she's concerned it's true. Much the best thing for all concerned is for us to hush it up, and go away."

Tony made no comment. She had taken off her white hat; her dark uncovered hair lay in loose rings and sprays against the man's shoulder. He could look down and see the smooth clear tan of her cheek, where the fine down of a peach showed against the white light of the strange muffled day, and the lowered thick dark eyelashes, and the curve of her fine white mouth. Tony again was in his world today; but her loose soft coat was brown, and the small square pumps braced against the foot rest were brown, too. Larry tightened his arm about her shoulders.

"It won't be forever, Tony."

"No. Somehow—somehow—the roads will come together again."

"And meanwhile we'll think of each other—and of today."

"Ah, that's what they always say," the girl said with a break in her voice.

"And then they forget!"

"I'll not forget. Ah, you're so sweet!" he said, with his lips against her forehead. And then, "Tony, we couldn't just run away from it all!"

"Not from Betsy and Bruce and Cliff and Aunt Meg, no. They've all hoped too much for me, done too much for me. It wouldn't be fair."

"It's like a terrible dream that we're together now—that you're safe in my arms here, Tony—and that tomorrow that ache for you—that ache for you, will begin—and there won't be any cure!"

"No matter where we are, no matter what happens, we'll always belong to each other, Larry, won't we?"

"You'll always be what you are now, Tony—the only person in all the world for me."

"And you for me," she said, in a voice she tried to hold steady. "I'll always be glad we had this much, Larry. This is something—this is more than I ever thought I'd have."

"It doesn't seem possible to say good-by," Larry presently said very simply. Tony stirred herself against his arm, drew away.

"Let me look at you, Larry."

They looked gravely at each other: the tall, lean brown-skinned man, with the high-bridged nose and the deep-set eyes, and the girl in her white frock and brown coat, with her dark hair disheveled and her blue eyes set in delicate circles of amber, and fringed with dark lashes that were frankly wet.

"It's good-by, my dear," said Tony. He put his arms about her, and for a long minute she lay against him, and felt his kisses on her lips.

"You'll forgive me, Tony, for ever letting this happen?"

"Ah, if you'll forgive me! I let it happen. You didn't."

"My wife!" Larry whispered. And straightening herself in her seat beside him again, the girl repeated it with her wet eyes shining.

"Yes—nothing will ever make me anything but that, Larry. The woman that was meant for you."

He touched the starter, turned the car on the short brown grass. They drove back into the city, and at the door of the newspaper office Tony said only another half-audible "good-by."

She heard no answer as Larry guided the car into the traffic again and drove away.

She went up to her desk, stopping to hang up her hat and coat, straighten her hair. Her face looked odd to her; it was white. Or perhaps it was only the effect of the foggy light that came in through the high dirty office windows and mingled so oddly with the glow of the lamps.

The newspaper office was very quiet at twelve o'clock. Larry was meeting Caroline and Ruth for lunch and to do some last shopping. A truck would call for the trunks at five o'clock; they would put their nightgown and their books and hairbrushes into their handbags tomorrow morning, and the apartment they were abandoning would be full of cheerful conversation. Caroline, have you room for a pair of slippers? Don't put your coat on, Mother darling, you'll be too warm. Ah, here's Joe now!

And so down to the big white ship, and through the pleasant flurry of passports and of finding their state-rooms with the clutter and confusion of the waterfront all about them; with the bay steamers pouring soft whistles into the noon air, and the salt water slapping idly against the pier—

She seemed to be hearing his voice again, feeling the tightening of that big arm about her shoulders; she seemed again to see the brown face and the high-bridged nose, and the movement of his brown hand when he took off his glasses to look at her—

Tony crossed her arms on her desk and put her head down upon them. Waves of bitterness and longing broke over her, and receded, and strengthened to break over her again.

Yawning, a call boy came in to arch himself like a snake over a telephone. No, the managing editor wasn't there yet—the city editor wasn't there yet. Ring back, please.

"It looks like Donny was going to get the works, don't it, Miss Taft?" said the boy, loitering.

"It begins to."

"Gee, I'll bet it was a kick—you being a witness?"

"It was horrible."

"You bet I'd take a chance!"

He dawdled away, and Tony flattened the curiously assorted notes on her desk; brought her heavy eyes to them. She picked up a pen.

"Mrs. Bainbridge Foster's announcement of the engagement of her daughter, Mary Barbara, was one of the surprises of an unusually gay season. Miss Foster, a debutante of last winter—"

CHAPTER XXIII

"It was a nice thing for them to ask us, and I don't see how we could have gotten out of it," said Aunt Meg in an undertone.

"But, gosh, it's more fun at home, Christmas Eve," Bruce observed.

"Sh-h-h!" Brenda muttered in horror. "Your voice is absolutely penetrating!" They were all in the Bly library, guests at the great Christmas party that Cliff's parents-in-law had been planning for weeks.

For the moment only the Tafts were in the room; Aunt Meg rustling in silk; Bruce handsome and sulky; Brenda in rapt attendance upon little Anthony; Cliff nervously proud of them all. Alvin had just arrived; Tony had had to do the Christmas tree at the Orphanage, but of course she was coming later.

The Bly house was enormous; it stood majestically on a Pacific Avenue corner that commanded the sweep of the cold winter bay, and the Presidio slopes, and the Golden Gate. The sea was all whitecaps on this singing, wind-blown Christmas Eve, and Tamalpais stood out as if carved in granite against a pale sky.

"Oh, gloriouss!" said all the guests as they arrived to find the big back drawing room deliciously warm, and a great wood fire roaring and snapping in the enormous fireplace. Like all the houses along Pacific Avenue on the north, the living rooms, with their windows for commanding the wide panorama, were at the back; the entrance hall was a jumble of wraps and of attentive maids today, but there was plenty of holly and mistletoe there, too. Christmas trees stood in all the corners and up on the great angle of the staircase, and scented the air with pine.

There were relatives asked in for Christmas; faded gentle elderly men and women basking in the family glory; there were nice boy cousins, all penniless, evidently, and rather variously dressed, but hashfully amusing and talkative, and being very much encouraged by Uncle Rick and Aunt Tina. There was one spectacled niece girl cousin with her young man, and there were meaningless young men for Geraldine and Pauline, and of course Martin Gossing for Heloise. For Heloise was going to be married too, only two years after Mary Rose, and Mamma positively said this time that she didn't want to hear another word of engagements for years!

Over this heterogeneous party Dr. and Mrs. Bly reigned in happy excitement. The doctor told Aunt Meg at every opportunity that that was what the house was for: to give the young people a good time. He reiterated in great satisfaction the statement that it was his idea to have Clifford's people—have everyone. Cliff's aunt, and his sisters and brothers—why not? It was Christmas.

Evidently the big table—forty-one would sit down at it—had been in the process of getting set and decorated for the better part of the day; as for the tree, concealed downstairs in the billiard room, its completion had occupied the family for weeks. The atmosphere of the big house was one of innocent laughter and cheer; the Blys, the Tafts, the cousins might all have been children again, gathering at the piano to sing the carols Pauline played so nicely, bending over the great jig-saw puzzle that was spread on the library table, running up and down stairs.

Brenda and Alvin, with the precious woolly armful that was Anthony, had arrived at the Taft apartment that morning before Tony was out of bed, and Brenda and Aunt Meg had spent a happy day managing the good, sweet, contented baby. Tony had rushed off to work, Bruce had come home, and in the old way had kept the place in an uproar while he managed a bath; Cliff had come at about three o'clock to gather up presents for the Bly tree.

"Gosh, the Bly library looks like the Emporium packing room now!" Cliff had exulted, as they had filled his arms with the very creditable Taft collection. Everyone had been dressing then, for it was to be an early dinner; Aunt Meg, crimped and rustling; Brenda, quite undisturbedly changed in figure again, matronly in spreading silk; the baby in his fur-trimmed cap and caped coat.

Just as they started Bruce had come in to escort them, and a moment later Tony, who had to change, and to rush off to cover one more Christmas tree before joining them at the Blys. It was this circumstance that gave them a chance, Cliff and Brenda and Aunt Meg, to discuss her, when they found themselves for a moment quiet, out of the noisy current, in the big leather chairs of the Bly library.

"Tony ought to be here."

"She'll be here any minute now."

"Doesn't she look well, Betsy?"

"Beautiful. She looked badly for a while; just at first," Brenda said, lowering her voice. "But lately—oh, well, there's no one like Tony."

"Mary Rose is crazy about her," Cliff said. "You know how Tony can get people when she goes after them."

"I believe she's over it," Aunt Meg said decidedly. She looked hopefully at Brenda and then at Cliff.

"She'll never be over it," Brenda said, shaking her head. She brushed her lips across the soft fluff of Anthony's hair.

"Think not, hey?" Cliff asked, with a shrewd look. Brenda shook her head again.

"Ha!" Aunt Meg ejaculated, discomfited.

"No, but I think this of Tony," Brenda began slowly. "I think she was horribly ashamed of herself."

"I don't see exactly why she should have been ashamed of herself," Cliff protested.

"Because Larry was married."

"She couldn't help that."

"Just the same, a girl does feel ashamed when she falls in love with a married man. Alvin thinks she was too," Brenda said, clinching the matter with the unanswerable argument.

"It seems to me it's more bad luck than anything to be ashamed of," Cliff persisted.

"A girl doesn't feel so. And Tony was bitterly ashamed. She knew that if Ruth hadn't stood by her when that horrible Donny thing happened—"

"Don't speak of it," pleaded Aunt Meg faintly, her little chin gripped in her hand, her eyes anxiously looking from one to the other.

"And I think," Brenda pursued, after a sympathetic nod and glance in her aunt's direction, "I think that Tony just—just woke up. I think she grew three years in three weeks after the Bellamys went away. It was as if a part of her; the hot old impatient selfish part—"

"She was never selfish," said Aunt Meg, ready to weep.

"No, she never was. But she was quick-tempered and stubborn—yes, she was, Aunt Meg."

"As a mule!" said Cliff, and both women laughed.

"She changed," said Brenda. "It was as if she thought: 'I'll die—Tony Taft, I'll live for all the rest of them, Brenda and the baby, and Cliff and Mary Rose, and Aunt Meg and Aunt Sally—I'll be gentler, I'll read and I'll study—I'll make myself the wisest woman; the finest, the most cultured—I'll not be wild, gay, reckless Tony Taft any more—'"

"It was something like that," Cliff said, as Brenda paused, with tears in her eyes.

"I think it was," Brenda said.

"But then what's the child going to get out of it herself?" Aunt Meg asked. "She's nearly twenty-eight—she doesn't want to marry—"

"I wish she'd marry Joe Vanderwall!" Brenda exclaimed, in the pause.

"He doesn't click," Cliff said, shaking his head. "He's a prince; she's devoted to him. She goes down to his place, and they cook and they tramp around; she adores him. But somehow it doesn't click."

"Where are the Bellamys now, Betsy?"

"In Nice. Larry came back to New York once; now I believe he's gone over again. The old mother had a stroke, you know, and they've just been hanging on, waiting. They've taken a place there, and Larry's writing a book."

"They went away—when?"

"A year and a half ago. It was just before Mary Rose and I were married."

"What do you suppose Larry does with himself all day?"

"Oh, writes. And swims. And plays bridge. The cousin is with them, Mrs. Polhemus."

"Does Tony hear from him?"

"Only through Joe. No, she doesn't write. And I must say I think," Brenda said loyally, "she's behaved magnificently!"

"She's been a good sport," Cliff said. "Ah, here she is; that's Tony in the next room now!" said Aunt Meg, and Bruce added, "Now it'll be a party!"

Here was Tony indeed, coming in fresh and rosy from the cold air. She had left her outer wraps downstairs; her freshly brushed hair fell in waves over her low forehead; her gown was dark green velvet, with deep Vandyke cuffs and a collar of lace; she was joyous, eager, lovely; she seemed to bring with her to the somewhat halting party a breath of new life.

"White violets!" she said, coming up to her elderly little hostess. "They gave them to me at the Orphanage; aren't they delicious? Here, they're for you. Are we all kissing you today, Doctor, because it's Christmas? You don't know how wonderful it is to get into this warmth and find you all! Hello, my Anthony, are you a good boy? Hello, Mary Rose." And then in an undertone, "How goes it?"

"The horrid feeling in the morning has stopped," Mary Rose confided to her sister-in-law.

"Ah, what a relief that is!" Brenda said.

"If it should be a girl, I believe my father'd drown it," Cliff's wife murmured.

"I want a girl," Brenda said. Tony burst into an animated description of the Orphanage party; the spilled milk and crumbled sponge cakes, the little arms held out for dolls, the many ornaments, moulty and broken and old, little dirty wax angels with their wings bent, and gilded walnut shells with holes in them!

"Pencil boxes and Lotto; those aren't very thrilling," Tony went on. "I thought of Anthony's Christmas. His grandfather sent him a coaster, wasn't it, Betsy?"

"He adores him," Brenda said solemnly.

"Next year, I'm going to take an orphan and send him something swell!" Tony said.

"Papa!" said Mrs. Bly, her motherly eyes moist.

"Next year we will," the old doctor said, nodding.

The party went on into enjoyment and hilarity. There was a marvelous dinner; Mrs. Bly telling Aunt Meg in an aside that her Chinese boy had been with her for twenty-seven years and wouldn't allow anyone else to touch the turkeys or the dessert. "But of course we get in help."

Brenda slipped away now and then, went upstairs to be sure Anthony was asleep in Pauline's old crib in the care of Pauline's old nurse.

"You better keep that crib," Tony, at the old doctor's right, said in his ear. He looked at her, blinked his blue eyes.

"I hope so, I hope so; if not now, one of these days!" But Mary Rose still seems like a baby herself to me," he said.

After dinner came the great hour of the tree, with everyone quite speechless with laughter, surprise, and gratitude.

"Gee, it's cute! I love it. I'm mad about it. Look, look look!" said the babel of voices. "Isn't that adorable! Isn't that too adorable!"

The excitement had reached its height when a maid came to Mrs. Bly, who turned to Tony.

"A Doctor Vanderwall?"

"Oh, on the telephone?"

"No, he's here."

"Oh?" Tony said, pleased and puzzled.

"Where'd you put him, Mamma?"

"In the library."

"Oh, you'll go up, Tony? Yes, and then do bring him down—we'll find something for him on the tree."

Tony went upstairs; stretched both hands to the squarely built man who rose from the shadows of the library.

"Joe, how nice! Merry Christmas! But take off that coat. How'd you know I was here?"

"I telephoned the office. Say, sit down a minute. I just had a cable," Joe said abruptly. His fair moon face was very serious.

Her color changed; her eyes were riveted on his face.

"What is it?" she asked quickly.

"Mrs. Patterson?"

"No, Ruth."

"Ruth?" whispered Tony. The quiet room, softly lighted in the winter evening, and the drowsing fire, and the decorous backs of the handsome books seemed to reel, to settle again in their places.

Joe frowned, spoke slowly, as if he felt a little embarrassed by her emotion, a little sorry for her.

"She was hurt in the street. She never regained consciousness."

"Ruth!" Tony whispered again, with a dry mouth. For a long minute she looked at Joe. "Dead?" she asked.

"Yes, she died this morning—Sunday morning, it said, at eleven o'clock."

"They were motoring?"

"It didn't say. Larry was in Paris. It said Larry arrived from Paris tonight. And it said my grandmother's condition was unchanged; they've not told her. She had a stroke, weeks back!"

Tony's knotted fingers were against her mouth. Her eyes were far away; her forehead wrinkled.

"Ruth dead! It doesn't make sense!" she said, half aloud, as if talking to herself.

"No, does it?"

"It just doesn't seem—true. Ruth's dead."

"Christmas Eve."

"I thought of that. I can't seem to get it."

"Hell come home now."

Tony was not listening.

"She always loved him, dearly. Poor Ruth!"

"Yes, she always did. Well," Joe said, in an effort to be generous, "Larry was always fine to her, too. I think this thing, I mean last year, was the first thing that ever really upset her. She didn't know what to do; she thought the best way was to pretend that it didn't matter. I don't know; I think she acted according to her lights."

"I think she did. Poor Ruth! But I can't get over it!" Tony took the folded cable and read and reread it frowningly.

"Ruth struck by car in street yesterday," she read. "Died eleven this morning without regaining consciousness. Larry arrives from Paris tonight. Gran as usual; we have not told her."

It was signed "Caroline." Tony folded it; opened it and read it again.

"Did this come to Carmel?"

"About five. I motored right in. I didn't want you to see it in the paper tomorrow."

Tony looked away, and Joe looked at her. The gracious lines of the long young body were set off by the green velvet gown; the deep lace collar and cuffs, the flushed cheeks and rumpled dark hair and serious blue eyes made her look like a beautiful child.

"It makes me—feel badly," she said, speaking as if her throat were sore.

"I suppose so, Tony."

"You're awfully kind about it, Joe," the girl said suddenly. She laid her hand on his, but her eyes were absent and her thoughts far away. "Ruth!" she said in a strange whisper. "Dead! Oh, Joe, I'm sorry!"

Nature Printing

A scholar fingering old books on the table of a second-hand book shop frequently comes on a volume of poetry or a Victorian novel with a flower or leaf pressed among the pages. Sometimes the firm of the dried plant has been transferred in a brown stain to one page, says the New York Sun. To a botanist such a stain would be likely to recall certain volumes of "nature printing" issued in the Eighteenth century, in which accurate records of leaves and whole plants were made by a kind of transfer process no longer generally practiced.

Balkans Series of Ridges

The Balkans are a series of ridges of mountains in southeastern Europe. The term Balkan peninsula is applied to the region which contains them, the peninsula of southeastern Europe which was formerly under Turkish suzerainty, except that Rumania and Greece are often omitted in naming the Balkan states. The others, now are Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Albania and the remnant of European Turkey.

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this—and see that you get what you want.

SO SAY ALL THE REPUBLICANS

The American market is the best market in the world for American products—both for raw materials and manufactured goods. To open this market wide to the products of the factories and farms of the world would expose our manufacturers, skilled laborers and farmers to a pitiless competition with the poorly paid artisans and agricultural workers of Europe and Asia. It would drain our country of its money—close our factories, throwing hundreds of thousands of skilled laborers out of employment and into the ranks of the unemployed, and permanently produce in the country a peasantry on a plane with the old-world farmer folk. It is just this very thing—competing in a world market—that has all but ruined agriculture, particularly in the cotton producing states. What we need is to give the American farmers the exclusive home markets for every product they can produce successfully and at a reasonable price. "The American market for the American producers" is the soundest plank that could be placed in the platform of any party.—Rogers News.

We have great respect for the views of Senator Taylor, editor of the Rogers News, but we can not agree with his views on the tariff.
In the above editorial, he has concisely and yet comprehensively set forth the viewpoint of one great party in this country respecting the protective tariff—but it is the Republican party.

We must confess that of late years the Democratic party also seems to have abandoned its time-honored position in favor of a "tariff for revenue only" and gone over bag and baggage into the Republican camp.

But we do not believe that Mr.
Taylor's statements will stand up under the light of analysis.

Mr. Taylor says in effect that our big manufacturing establishments and our farmers must have the protection of a high tariff wall thrown about them in order to survive against foreign competition.

Do our manufacturers in fact need protection?

Without such protection some industries probably would suffer, but we do not believe this would be true
as to any of the great industries.

Take farm machinery, for instance. If our protective tariff walls should be torn down, does Mr. Taylor believe that our farm machinery factories would close and that the employees would lose their jobs?

For years and years we have been told that American manufacturers are not only supplying the American market but that they are selling farm machinery to many other nations cheaper than they are being sold in America. Doesn't this show that even though they are paying higher prices for labor than are being paid in most foreign countries, yet they are able to compete with other nations in the for-

BLACK-DRAUGHT
People who have taken Black-Draught naturally are enthusiastic about it because of the refreshing relief it has brought them. No wonder they urge others to try it! . . .
Mrs. Joe O. Roberts, of Portersville,

Black-Draught to me a long time ago, and it has proved its worth to me. Black-Draught is good for eign farm machinery market? Then why does the American manufacturer need a protective tariff? If he can compete successfully with the foreign manufacturer in the foreign market, where he does not have the benefit of a protective tariff, why could he not compete successfully with the foreign manufacturer in the American market, without the benefit of a protective tariff?

Take the automobile industry.
American-made automobiles are being sold the world over. American automobile manufacturers are able to compete with foreign manufacturers on the foreign field. Then why do they need the protection of a high tariff wall on the American field?

Take clothing. We have high protective tariff schedules for the benefit of our cotton and woollen mills and yet perhaps the poorest paid workers in America are the cotton and woollen mill workers. Situated in the heart of the greatest cotton-producing area in the world, with a wealth of water power with which to generate electricity at their very doors, why can not the cotton mills of Alabama, Georgia, and the Carolinas compete with foreign mills in the manufacture of American cotton into American cloth without the protecting wing of a high tariff?

The protective tariff idea was born in the early days of this republic, when we had no large manufacturing establishments, and when our "infant industries" possibly did need the assistance of a protective tariff. But most of the so-called "infant industries" have grown into mighty giants, well able to walk alone and to take care of themselves in the markets of the world.

Now as to agriculture. We would like to know, Mr. Taylor, how a tariff on cotton or corn or wheat or oats or maize could help the American farmer.

We usually raise enough wheat and corn and oats and maize to supply the American demand. Usually we export a lot of wheat, unless the crop is cut short by an unusual drouth or by a New Deal curtailment program. We import little of these farm products except occasionally as a result of some such calamity. How could a protective tariff on wheat and maize and corn and oats, therefore, help the American farmer?

Take cotton. How in the name of High Heaven can a tariff on cotton help the farmer, when we raise from 12 to 17 million bales annually and consume only 6 million bales at home?

"It is just this very thing," you say, "competing in a world market, that has all but ruined agriculture, particularly in the cotton producing states."

Why, bless your soul, it is the world market for cotton that has enabled the cotton farmer to live.
If we had no world market, if we had no market but the home market, which takes only six million bales of cotton annually, how in the world would the cotton farmer live? Certainly he would be compelled to turn to something else as a money crop—but what?

The cotton farmer already has
"The American market for the American producer"—but suppose this were all he had. If there is any class in America that just must have a foreign market for its products that class is the Southern cotton farmer. But foreigners can't buy much from us unless we buy something from them. Why then should the cotton farmer want a tariff wall built around this country?

Cattle, hides, and wool are about the only products of the farm and ranch which can be benefitted by a protective tariff, and the number of people engaged in cattle- and sheep-raising as their main industry is so small as to be insignificant as compared with the 125 millions of people in this country who consume or use the products of these raw materials.

"The American market for the American producer"—and nothing more—as a governmental policy would be ruinous to the people of this country, and especially to the Southern cotton farmer.

Let's quit demanding bounties and subsidies and debentures, and pull off our coats and go to fighting all kinds of special favors and privileges meted out by the government, including the iniquitous Republican and Republican-fostered protective tariff.

TERRY DID WELL TOO

The Tahoka News tells its readers what Lubbock and Lynn county did in cotton production last year then adds: Some other counties did fairly well, mentioning Lamb, Dawson, Hockley and Terry. Yes, Terry did fairly well; it made almost an average cotton crop, tens of thousands of tons of feed, both-headed and bundle, and perhaps nearly a million and a quarter bushels of corn.

Fairly well is right, Bro. Hill, and in no year does Terry make from 40,000 to 60,000 bales of cotton, then almost entirely "flicker" the next,
as per Lynn county figures for 1934
for instance—Terry County Herald.

Well now, Jack, come down off of that high horse. We were throwing no stones at Terry county. We were talking about the cotton crop out here in this so-called Dust-Bowl last year and this is exactly what we said: "While Lubbock and Lynn are the leaders on the South Plains, other counties in this section have made a fairly good showing, though not nearly so good as they have made in other years." And then we proceeded to give the production of Terry and other South Plains counties, showing that Terry produced 25,014 bales last year, not bad at all.

But for some unexplained reason
Jack seemed to think we were taking a fling at grand old Terry and so he comes back with this veiled thrust at Lynn county: "In no year does Terry make from 40,000 to 60,000 bales of cotton and then almost 'flicker' the next, as per Lynn county figures for 1934, for instance."

Yes, Lynn county did almost
"flicker" in 1934, as did most other West Texas counties. It produced only 8,476 bales, the lightest crop it has produced in nearly twenty years, while Terry that year made 11,544 bales, of which Jack seems to be exceedingly proud. And it made the enormous total of 12,811 bale in 1933, when Lynn county made only 66,478.

But is Lynn county in the habit of "flickering" after a big crop year? From 1923, when Lynn county began to get into the cotton game in earnest, till 1933, a period of 11 years, Lynn county produced 469, 457 bales, an average of 42,678 bales per annum. Her lowest production during this period was 24,942 bales in 1923, or 42 per cent less than the average; while the highest production was 66,478 bales in 1933, or 32 per cent above the average.

Look how the figures run for the 11 years, 24,942; 38,215; 42,189; 50,
338; 41,870; 34,217; 30,732; 28,602;
32,356; 59,518; 66,478.

We will not give the figures for Terry county, Jack, for you might think we were knocking your county, but if you will consult your files or the Texas Almanac you will find that in 1928 your production was 45 per cent less than your average for the 11 years, and in 1931 your production was 91 per cent more than your average for the 11 years. Your county showed a greater percentage variation than Lynn county.

But Terry county is a dandy good county.

We rejoice in the fact that you make a lot of corn. We congratulate you that you made a million and a quarter bushels of corn last year—bushels, we said, not gallons. Where there is a lot of corn on the cob, we figure that there may be some in the jug, and it's not far from Tahoka to Brownfield. Come over and see us, Jack.

We don't know of any Democrat who has more influence over President Roosevelt than does Senator Norris of Nebraska, who registers as a Republican. Norris the other day criticized the manner in which post office appointments had been made and demanded that Farley resign as postmaster general. He said that no man should remain at the head of the post office department while conducting a party campaign. Well, Farley has not resigned and probably will not do so, but President Roosevelt forthwith sent a message to Congress demanding that the appointment of postmasters be taken out of politics and that they be placed strictly under civil service regulations. Now we'll see what the boys in Congress do about it.

Now that the supreme court of the United States by a vote of 8 to 1 has held the TVA constitutional and valid, we wonder what the critics of the court will have to say. They have been telling us that the court is made up of corporation lawyers who have an ear only for the Special Interests. The electric power utilities are among the most wealthy and prosperous corporations in the entire country, and here comes along the supreme court and turns them down cold. The Court has certainly been honest and the majority has probably been correct in every opinion that has been rendered on New Deal measures.

President Roosevelt has proposed a league of the nations of the western continent to maintain peace on this hemisphere. Good! We hope that something may come of it, though leagues of nations seem to be somewhat in disrepute just now.

Behold, the Democratic trustbusters of the last generation have all passed away. A little bunch of brain-trusters have stolen the play.

The Growl

Editor — Beatrice Estes

Tahoka was well represented at the first meeting of the West Texas Teachers last Friday and Saturday. All the teachers were there and besides them there were present as speakers Judge Garrard and Sen. G. H. Nelson. Mr. W. G. Barrett was shifted from a position with the Constitution committee to one with the executive. His cousin, Mr. V. Z. Rogers, of Lamesa was made president for the next year.

Little Joe Lane, eight-year old prodigy of the Midway community, who has entertained in our school, was a popular addition to Deputy State Superintendent Holbrook's musical program.

Teachers and pupils enjoyed the change from the usual class routine Friday.

Section B of the English 111 class had a lot of fun Monday afternoon besides learning and acquiring skill in the formality of making introductions and delivering impromptu speeches. The class voted Eloise Roberts best and most original in introducing and divided opinion as to speeches. Especially good were those of Allen Lullin, Billie Paul Cox, J. H. Dyer, Rudelle Prater, Louise Park, and Pollyanna Walker.

The next oral speeches will be a Centennial program with interesting facts concerning the history of Lynn county.

One dozen, not a baker's dozen, but twelve boys and girls still remain in a class which started school life together. They are now Juniors and seem in a fair way to survive even that. They are: Evelyn Anderson, Joy Brown, Dottie Turrentine, Lois Montgomery, Lottie Jo Townes, Doris Connolly, Ola Lee Stevens, Wells Edwards, Jeanette Oliver, Valerie Wells, Robert Maddox, and Charles Gagnat.

Sophomore News
The Sophomore girls are glad to report the following students back in school after illness: Essie Mae Perkins, Etha Humphries, Louise Barnes, and La Verne Jones.

Mary Ellen Conway and Aletha Goodenough are still ill. It is hoped that they will soon be able to come back to school.

Ronda Clements, popular Senior girl, has been absent for several days. It is hoped that she will soon be back in school.

Mrs. Eddie Jordan, one of the school librarians, spent the weekend in Carlsbad. She went through the cavern. According to Mrs. Jordan, it is very beautiful.

The committee to select invitations and diplomas met and decided upon them last week. The invitations will have a picture of the Alamo on them which designates the Centennial. The diplomas are to be blue with a picture of the Tahoka High School on the front. Mrs. Tunnell also put in the order for the caps and gowns. They are going to be of gray serge.

Senior Play
The Senior play, "The Man in the Green Shirt", will be given Friday night, February 21, at the High School auditorium at 7:30 a'clock. The admission is fifteen cents for all school children and twenty-five cents for adults. Tickets will be sold by Senior students. The numbers between acts will be as follows:
Vocal solo—Johnnie Janak.
Tap dance—Eloise Roberts.
Novelty numbers—Mary Margaret Tunnell and Baby Tot Wetsel.
Cornet solo—C. C. Armstrong.
Popular songs—Group of High School girls.

Home Ec. Department
The Freshmen are studying and preparing breakfasts.

The Sophomores are sewing. They are now making children's dresses.

The Juniors are studying house decoration.

Society News
Miss Louise Barnes entertained with a formal Valentine dance Friday night at Mill's Cafe. The cafe was decorated in red and white, having red Valentines on the door and lights. Also, clusters of red balloons hung at each light. Dancing was begun at nine o'clock. The guests danced until eleven o'clock, then refreshments were served to twelve couples. The lights were turned out and four candles were lighted at the table. The girls were seated on one side of the table and opposite them on the other side the boys were seated. A. R. Milliken served the girls with wine, and Ina Bess Hicks served the boys. Mr. Jim VanDyke gave a toast. Also, Louise Barnes gave a toast. Following the wine, individual plates consisting of two red heart shaped sandwiches and a small piece of candy and a cup of coffee. The table was decorated, having a red center piece with a Valentine in the center and red and white streamers. Valentine motif was carried out in the plates, napkins and plate favors. Dancing followed until two o'clock.

The guests were: Misses Erma Faye Edwards, Beatrice Estes, Marjorie Wells, Imozelle Weathers, Ina Bess Hicks, Evelyn Anderson and Mrs. Jim VanDyke; Messrs. A. R. Milliken, W. M. Walker, W. M. Waldrip Jr., Jack Weathers, Dub Dunagan, Jim VanDyke, and Red Gresham, Ray Hastings and Claude Wasson from Lamesa, and the hostess, Louise Barnes. Mr. and Mrs. Barnes and Mr. and Mrs. Mill Finch were chaperons.

SOCIETY

CHURCH OF CHRIST NOTES

Oh, you cold weather, especially on Sunday, what a fine excuse you furnish some members for absence from service. Another thing that is absent from it to bring their collection for the Sundays they are out. Don't forget that the preacher and his family have to eat in cold weather as well as when it is warm. Oh, you bank night at the picture show, how you keep some away from prayer meeting. What if Jesus should come back on Wednesday night? A check from Him or the picture show, which thing it over. Many have expressed appreciation of the few things I write about "When some church members get to heaven"—if they do, so here is some more.

What will the bridge-playing sister do for pastime there? Where will our cigarette smokers get a light? And the snuff dippers and tobacco chewers, where will they spit? Where will the covetous hide their money when a collection is taken? Remember Ananias and Sapphira, the 5th chapter. Where will our little girls learn to tap dance and who will be the teacher? And the pretty mouthed story or joke teller—who will listen to him? More anon. She study Wednesday night teaching morning and evening on next Lord's Day. Come worship with us "as it is written." The friendly church, where everyone is welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Pain will spend the week end in Dallas visiting the son and their new daughter-in-law, their son having married in Dallas last Saturday.

MARELLA MYERS, CLIFTON JANAK MARRIED FEB. 9

Miss Marella Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil F. Myers, of Amarillo, became the bride of Mr. Clifton Janak in an impressive candle-light ceremony Sunday afternoon, Feb. 9, in the auditorium of the Amarillo College of Music.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. C. Smith, of the San Jacinto Methodist Church. Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Janak, Johnnie Janak, who acted as best man, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Reid of Tahoka, were among those present.

Mrs. Janak is a graduate of Amarillo High School and studied at the College of Music, and also attended West Texas State Teachers College. She is pianist for the church and is a member of the Philharmonic Orchestra and the College Music String Trio. She will continue to teach piano at the college of music.

Mr. Janak is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Janak of Tahoka. He is a graduate of Tahoka High School, attended West Texas State Teachers College, and studied at Sherwood School of Music in Chicago and the Amarillo College of Music. He was under the tutelage of Mrs. D. Suddarth, in a choral class sponsored by the Texas Federation of Music Clubs several years ago. He is a member of the choir of the San Jacinto Methodist Church and of the Beacon Quartet and is employed at Lanig's Grocery in Amarillo.

The couple are now at home at 711 West Fifteenth Avenue, Amarillo, after having returned from a honeymoon trip to Colorado.

Noel Allphin, who has been ill of tonsillitis several days, is reported to be improving.

COUNTY H. D. COUNCIL (Delayed)

Make your club 100 per cent on educational funds this year by each member paying 5 cents.

This fund is applied on the most outstanding club girl in Texas.

Suggestions were made for greater efficiency in clubs.

Literature covering a Model Garden for Northwest Texas was given to each club chairman to distribute to club members throughout the county, by Miss Robb.

Announcement was made of the Meat Show at Lubbock March 30-31 and April 1, and of the Dairy Show at Plainview April 6, 7, 8, and 9.

Mrs. Garland Pennington, Edith, was appointed chairman of the Educational committee; Mrs. M. O. Canaday, chairman Educational Funds; and Mrs. J. H. Lowrey, Petitioner, sponsor of 4-H club girls.

A one-act play was presented by Mrs. H. O. Hargett and Mrs. Garland Pennington on Care of Milk Utensils and Cream before Marketing Good care insures better prices for products sold.

Visitors were: Mrs. G. L. Cobb, Dixie; Mrs. A. C. Weaver, Tahoka; Ora Anderson, Midway; Mrs. J. W. Lowrey, Petty; Bettie Brandon, Wilson; Mrs. S. G. Anthony, Wilson; Mrs. Loyd R. McCormick, New Home.

Members present: Mrs. Paul J. Lawson, Grassland; Mrs. I. M. Draper, Midway; Mrs. Fred McGinty, Wells; Mrs. D. L. Greenwood, Wells; Mrs. Garland Pennington, Edith; Mrs. A. L. Dunagan, Dixie; Mrs. H. O. Hargett, Edith; Mrs. J. R. Strain, New Home; Mrs. G. A. Edwards; Mrs. M. O. Canaday, Tahoka; Mrs. M. W. Todd, Wilson; Mrs. M. C. Brandon, Wilson; Mrs. S. Z. Glenn, Redwine; Mrs. Willis Pennington, Driv-Redwine; Mrs. R. W. Barton, New Lynn.

NEW HOME H. D. CLUB

"Select a wall paper that you will not tire of quickly," said Miss Sylvia Robb to the New Home H. D. club at a regular meeting in the home of Mrs. Boswell Edwards on February 14.

When papering your kitchen select a pattern that you will not get tired of for at least two years. A modernistic pattern or an all over motley design is more pleasing than a naturalistic one. The paper should harmonize with the woodwork and floor covering of your kitchen.

Plans were made for the club exhibit at the Meat Show. A definite plan was decided on for the raising of funds.

There were fourteen members present: Meses. John W. Armontrout, Garland Peek, Joe W. Armontrout, Charles T. Lee, Joe S. Hilton, J. H. Izard, Joe Poindexter, Boswell Edwards, J. R. Strain, Loyd R. McCormick, H. A. Parrish, G. N. McWhorter, J. C. Ballew, R. H. Baies.

C. C. ARMSTRONG JR. HOST TO MINOR BATON CLUB

The Minor Baton met at the home of C. C. Armstrong, Jr. on Monday night. Following a short business session, came a program on Texas Music consisting of a solo, "Run, Mary, Run" (David W. Guion) by Betty Suddarth, "The History of Texas Music" by Maxine Connolly; a vocal solo, "Boots and Saddles" by Lottie Jo Townes; a saxophone solo, "Have You Ever Been to Texas in the Spring?" by Dale Gildersleeve; a sketch of Oscar Fox, well-known Texas composer, by Harold Snowden, followed by Box's "Hills of Home" sung by Ola Lee Stevens. Delicious refreshments of cookies and punch closed the meeting.—Reporter.

NEW LYNN H. D. CLUB

The Club met with Mrs. R. W. Barton February 18. Mrs. Susie Bartley read a paper on "Home—a Partnership" and the club had a round-table discussion on making a friend or pal of your child.

The finance committee arranged that the club have a bake sale day to raise money for the treasury on February 22 at Bouillon's Grocery. We would appreciate your patronage.

Members present were: Meses. Roy Kelly, J. A. Jaynes, J. M. Spears, R. W. Barton, Winnie Bartley, E. B. Terry, and Susie Bartley. New members: Meses. C. B. Caviness, J. G. Cearley, S. B. Francis, Claude Roper, and R. L. Stone.

CARD OF THANKS

We can not praise too highly the faithful friends and neighbors who ministered so thoughtfully and tenderly to our dear mother, Mrs. Ida Hicks, during her recent last illness here. Our hearts are filled with gratitude for their kindness and helpfulness.—Mrs. J. A. Bartlett, Mrs. T. B. Francis, Miss Esther Hicks, Mrs. John C. Dunnagan, Mrs. Percy Mayfield, Mrs. A. John, I. W. Hicks, Urban J. Hicks, E. P. Hicks, J. Hugh Hicks, Joe N. Hicks, O. Clyde Hicks.

"HITCH-HIKE LADY" IS HUMAN AND REAL

Alison Skipworth hitch-hiking her way across the continent is in itself a laugh-provoking idea, but the very funny comedy situations which she encounters in "Hitch-Hike Lady", showing at the English Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, will have you literally rolling in the aisles.

The new photoplay concerns the adventures of an elderly English housekeeper who receives a small inheritance and sets out to join her son in California.

Enroute across the Continent she meets a confidence man, a gangster, a young trailer salesman, and a pretty dress designer, and the five of them make up an oddly assorted party which is only bound together by the mutual determination on the part of the latter four to keep the old lady from learning that her son is actually the inmate of San Quentin prison.

Miss Skipworth in the title role, presents her usual superb performance and she is ably supported by those two inimitable comedians, Arthur Treacher and Warren Hymer. Portraying the romantic leads with distinction are Mae Clarke and Jimmy Ellison, while members of the supporting cast who must be commended for their excellent presentations include Beryl Mercer, J. Farrell Macdonald, Ward Bond, Christian Rub, Irving Bacon, and George Hayes.

"Hitch-Hike Lady" is probably the finest product of the fertile imagination of Wallace Macdonald, Re-public story editor.

MARRIED

Baxter Harist and Miss Edith Collins were united in marriage last Friday, Feb. 14. Elder R. P. Drannen officiated.

NEW LYNN 4-H CLUB

The Club met in Mrs. I. room with Miss Robb and our sor Mrs. E. B. Terry. We were posed to have our club aprons got behind in it and did not turn them in but will have them Friday. Some of the girls are turning in candle wicks. Those were: Allene Bartley, Lillian Effie Waggoner, Pauline Fe Genina Bingham, Venell W. Mezzie Mae Baker, Mary G. Waggoner, Jan Hill, Lois Justis, Imogene Newman, M. Gary, Juaneta Jones, Imalouman, Inorie Meeks, Gladys C. Eloise Meeks, Cleare Lackey, garet Huff, Ardyce Walker.

Washington's Birthday

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

"The character, the counsels and example of our Washington . . . will guide us through the doubts and difficulties that beset us; they will guide our children and our children's children in the paths of prosperity and peace."

"That tribute to the enduring influence of George Washington was expressed by one of our earlier statesmen during a period as critical to America as our own. It remains a true estimate today."

"What counsels can we recall as throughout the nation, we honor his memory?"

"The Father of His Country was more eloquent in deeds than in phrases. He lived his own precept: 'Actions, not words, are the true criterion.' But history has, nevertheless, recorded numerous expressions of his wisdom and foresight. Many of them hold a peculiar significance in a period marked by assaults on the very Constitution in which he incorporated his hopes for the future of our Nation."

Here are some of George Washington's comments on the great Charter of Liberties so intimately identified with his life and his spirit:

"That precious depository of American happiness, the Constitution of the United States."

"The Constitution which at any time exists till changed by an explicit and authentic act of the whole people is sacredly obligatory to all."

"If in the opinion of the people the distribution or modification of the Constitutional powers be in any particular wrong, let it be corrected by an amendment in the way which the Constitution designates. But let there be no change by usurpation; for though this in one instance may be the instrument of good, it is the customary weapon by which free governments are destroyed."

"Experience is the surest standard by which to test the existing Constitution of a country."

"To which might be added one more. In the light of that odd adherence to a new and alien philosophy which actuates so many recent attacks on the Constitution, it seems timely to recall Washington's oft-quoted war-time order:

"Put none but Americans on guard tonight."

Try CARDUI For Functional Monthly Pains

Women from the 'teen age to the change of life have found Cardui genuinely helpful for the relief of functional monthly pains due to lack of just the right strength from the food they eat. Mrs. Crit Haynes, of Essex, Mo., writes: "I used Cardui when a girl for cramps and found it very beneficial. I have recently taken Cardui during the change of life. I was very nervous, had head and back pains and was in a generally run-down condition. Cardui has helped me greatly."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Tenant Problem Must Be Solved

Austin, Feb. 10—The tenant problem must be solved before prosperity can return to rural or urban areas, speakers told the Farm Debt Adjustment section of the Agricultural Resettlement Administration here today.

"The recovery program has done much for agriculture," said D. P. Trent of Dallas, resettlement administrator of the Texas-Oklahoma district, "but in the long run something must be developed to return ownership of land to the man who works it."

During the last five years, he said, thousands of persons who had moved to towns had been forced by the depression to return to farms with resulting displacement of tenants and sharecroppers.

"I am not sure this is a good thing," he said. It means those people had to go somewhere else."

He said 60 per cent. of Texas farmers were tenants.

Governor Allred asserted his administration had attempted to do and had done something for the farmers, "recognizing that home ownership is vital to the welfare of the State and Nation."

Other speakers included R. J. Murray of Dallas, director of the section; W. B. Lea, banker of Spur; and H. H. Ochs of San Antonio.

Governor Allred appointed Lea, John E. Hill of Amarillo and John E. Owens, Frank Holland and Wylie M. Brown of Dallas members of an executive committee.

Exhibits Wanted For Centennial

Dallas, Feb. 13—In any Texas community may be historic treasures that would bring a big price from collectors who will be watching for rare documents and relics at the Texas Centennial Exposition at Dallas next summer.

The most interesting items reflecting life in Texas from first exploration in 1519, through colonization and development to 1900 are being assembled for the Exposition by Prof. Herbert Gambrell, of the historical division. Information and full description of letters or diaries that tell of an earlier day in Texas; early books or newspapers, or implements, furniture and particularly clothes showing period costume should be sent to Professor Gambrell. The Exposition will protect items accepted for display with insurance from the time they leave the owner until they are returned.

At the close of the Texas Centennial Exposition, November 29, such items from the historical exhibits as may be for sale will be called to the attention of prospective buyers.

Every encouragement is being given to the assembling of historical displays in communities and county seats. Professor Gambrell said the best materials shown in these local exhibits will be eligible for the state wide exhibit in the million-dollar Texas Hall of State at the Exposition.

Klaus Abegg who for years was connected with the Field Museum in Chicago as a preparator of Habitat groups has been appointed to the staff of the Texas University Centennial Exposition and will assist in the preparation of exhibits for the Division of Zoology. All exhibits for the University Centennial Exposition will be prepared with a view to placing them in the Texas Memorial Museum.

Newmoore

Erma Gene Brandon, Reporter

Kenneth Weldon, little son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Rogers, is now in the Lubbock Sanitarium with pneumonia.

Mrs. E. E. Alexander, who has been in the Lubbock Sanitarium for some time, came home Saturday. We hope she continues to improve.

Leonard Sheppard of Newmoore is now in bed with pneumonia.

Miss Margie Dell Rogers of Newmoore is now visiting her little sick brother in Lubbock.

Miss Burna Fay and Evelyn Brandon spent last week at their sister's Mrs. Tommie Heard east of O'Donnell.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hanes and family of Newmoore were visiting in Pride community Sunday.

The Newmoore girls basketball team, which won Class C championship in Lynn county, was defeated by the Draw girls, who had won the Class B Championship at Wilson Saturday, February 15.

The Newmoore school had a large Valentine box Friday afternoon and had some visitors. There were many Valentines given away. Taffy candy was served the school and visitors by Mrs. Edward Simpson.

(Delayed from last week)

The Newmoore and Pride Junior boys played basketball here Friday afternoon. Although we were defeated, we enjoyed the game very much and expect to return the game Friday, Feb. 14, if the weather is favorable.

Mrs. Alexander is still in the hospital, but she is better now. We hope she gets well soon.

Louis Parker of Mr. Strasner's room has been sick with bronchial pneumonia. We hope he will come to school soon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. James and Mrs. W. D. Sorrell of Paint Rock spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Nichols and Mr. and Mrs. Rex Morion of Newmoore.

Mr. Johnnie Kern Jr. of the Lamesa CCC camp spent the week end with his parents Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Kern.

There has been a number of pupils absent from school on account of colds. Among these are: Donald Simpson, Billy Joe and Opal Sheppard, Billy Jane Swearingen, Lindly Dale Thomas, James Brandon, Jean Duncan, Billy Snider of the primary room; Louis Parker, Leonard Sheppard, and Valere Rogers of Mr. Strasner's room; Sybil Rogers of Mr. Simpson's room.

We have two new pupils in our school who are Marcella Pipkin and Wanda V. Pipkin.

Mr. Steve Strasner of Newmoore visited his parents at Wilmerswich Sunday.

The Newmoore girls won the county championship in rural basketball by defeating New Lynn. The scores were: Newmoore 3, and New Lynn 2.

Joe Stokes

Well, folks, it's been quite a while since you have heard from ol' Joe Stokes, but you know it has been so cold lately that news runs slowly in this part of the country; sorter like good thick sorghum tasses, slow and easy. Take it from me though, it's not so easy.

There was a really good singing at Joe Stokes last Sunday, Feb. 16. Several good singers were present. The Cousins' Quartet was present and entertained with several good songs. Those boys can really sing. We would like to have them with us more often.

Miss Lois Sossoman rendered a piano solo that was very, very good. Come again Miss Sossoman. There were other singers too numerous to mention.

This little singing group is composed of four communities: Joe Stokes, Union, Wilson and Dixie. These four communities meet each third Sunday of each month at the different places named above and in the order named. Everybody from everywhere is cordially invited to these singings. We have a grand time, folks, so you better come see and hear us some time.

There are a few new families who have moved into our community. We hope that they will attend all our social gatherings. Come on out and let's get acquainted.

There has been quite a bit of moving around in Joe Stokes community this year, but it is mostly among the old inhabitants. You know, we have the greatest and grandest bunch of folks around here that you have ever seen. Yes-sir! They will do anything for you. If a neighbor doesn't like the place he is renting he just goes over and tells another neighbor and they trade places. Maybe, next year he'll trade with some one else and so on until he finally gets back to where he started and decides that is as good as any other place and everybody is satisfied and happy, and so life goes on in Joe Stokes, 'long.

—The Squanderer.

TURKEYS ON PARADE

One of the most unusual scenes to be found in Texas during Centennial year will be the one presented when thousands of turkeys, headed for market, actually march to the strains of band music in the world famous Cuero Turkey Trot next November. Thousands of gobbling turkeys form sections in the parade which is a feature of the Trot, an event to be repeated as a Centennial year celebration.

Lesson for February 23 PEOPLE BEFORE PROPERTY

LESSON TEXT—Luke 8:26-37. GOLDEN TEXT—No servant can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon.—Luke 16:13. PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus With His Friends in a Storm. JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus With His Friends in a Storm. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Sympathy or Selfishness? YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Human Welfare Before Financial Profit.

After his teaching by the parable of the soil and the lighted candle, Jesus exhibited his credentials, enforcing his teaching by demonstrations of his mighty power.

1. Jesus Calming the Storm (vv. 22-25). In this miracle he demonstrated his power over nature.

1. Jesus asleep (v. 23). While the disciples were sailing the ship the Master fell asleep.

2. The frightened disciples (vv. 23, 24). The storm seems to have been an unusual one. These sturdy men were used to storms, but as their ship was being filled with water they awoke Jesus with their cry of fear.

3. Jesus rebuked the wind and water (v. 24). At his word there was a great calm. We can with confidence put our trust in Jesus Christ.

4. After rebuking the disciples (v. 25). After rebuking the raging elements, he turned to the disciples. He did not rebuke them for waking him, but for their lack of faith.

11. Jesus Casting Out Demons (vv. 26-30). In this mighty act Jesus' power over demons was demonstrated. Demon possession was in that day, and it is today, an awful reality. The characteristics are often similar to cases of insanity, and many are called insane, who are really demon-possessed.

1. Jesus met by the demoniac (vv. 26-29). This poor man's suffering was dreadful. He abode in the tombs without clothing. At the sight of Jesus he made an outcry and fell down before him and besought him not to torment him. There is no doubt in the mind of demons as to the reality of a place of torment.

2. Jesus' question (v. 30). He asked him, "What is thy name?" His purpose was to bring the real man to consciousness, to enable him to distinguish between himself and the demon who held him. The answer shows that the man thought his case was hopeless. He said, "Legion," which meant that many demons had entered into him.

3. The demons' request (vv. 31, 32). They asked permission to enter into a herd of swine.

4. Their request granted (vv. 32, 33). Just why this was done we do not know. Since Jesus did it, we must believe that it was right and wise.

5. The effect upon the people (vv. 34-37). a. The keepers of the swine went and made it known in the city and country.

b. The people made investigation. They saw the man sitting at the feet of Jesus, clothed and in his right mind, and heard the testimony of those who had seen what was done.

c. The multitude besought Jesus to depart from them. How sad it is that in the face of the mighty works of Jesus men will not open their hearts to him.

6. The request of the healed man (vv. 38, 39). He desired to be with Jesus. This was natural and right, but his responsibility was to go home and show to the people there what great things God had done for him.

(11). Jesus' Power Over Disease (vv. 43-48). Jesus heals a woman with an issue of blood. Observe:

1. Her helpless condition (v. 43). She had been a great sufferer for twelve long years (Mark 5:26).

2. Her faith (v. 44). Her faith was demonstrated by pressing her way through the thronging multitude.

3. Her confession (v. 47). She thought furtively to get the blessing, but Jesus had her make a public confession.

4. Christ's words of encouragement (v. 48). He told her that it was her faith, not her touch, that saved her, and bade her go in peace.

IV. Jesus Raises the Dead (vv. 40-42; 50-56).

1. Jairus' request (vv. 40-42). His only daughter lay dying. He besought Jesus to come to his house.

2. Jesus informed of his daughter's death (v. 40).

3. Jesus' assurance (v. 50).

5. The daughter raised (vv. 54-56).

Valor Is Stability of One's Courage and of the Heart

The estimate and valor of a man consists in the heart and in the will; there his true honor lies. Valor is stability, not of arms and legs, but of courage and the soul; it does not lie in the valor of our horse, nor of our arms, but in ourselves. He that falls obstinate in his courage, if his legs fall him, fights upon his knees.—Montaigne.

NO UPSETS

The proper treatment for a bilious child

ANY mother knows the reason when her child stops playing, eats little, is hard to manage, Constipation. But what a pity so few know the sensible way to set things right!

The ordinary laxatives, of even ordinary strength, must be carefully regulated as to dosage.

A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.

This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult.

The doctors use liquid laxatives. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. The liquid laxative most families use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Any drugist has it.

We Benefit

It is not by special acts directed to the welfare of others that we benefit the most, but by the tone and direction of our habitual activities.

Cardui During Middle Life

Women who are entering middle life will be interested in the experience of Mrs. L. C. McDonald, of Paragould, Ark., who writes: "I took Cardui during change of life. I was so weak, so nervous, I could hardly go. I just dragged around. I had fainting spells and would just give down. My back and head hurt. I read of Cardui. I took about seven bottles. It gave me relief and strength. I am now 60 years past, and can do a pretty good day's work in the house and garden."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

ROUGH SKIN. Don't be discouraged! Make up your mind to try and have the clear, fresh skin you admire in others! Thousands have found the secret in Cuticura treatments. So simple, too! The Soap soothes and cleanses the Ointment relieves and helps to heal. You'll marvel at the difference Cuticura makes. Buy Cuticura at your drugist's. Soap 25c. Ointment 25c. FREE sample of each on request. Write "Cuticura," Dept. 8, Malden, Mass.

Break up that COLD. Perhaps the surest way to prevent a cold from "catching hold" and getting worse is, at once, to Cleanse Intestines with FREE nally. Do it the pleasant way. SAMPLE cup way. Flush the system with a hot cup of Garfield Tea—the mild, easy-to-take liquid laxative. At drug-stores. GARFIELD TEA

Rid Yourself of Kidney Poisons. DO you suffer burning, scanty or too frequent urination; backache, headache, dizziness, loss of energy, leg pains, swellings and puffiness under the eyes? Are you tired, nervous—feel all unstrung and don't know what is wrong? Then give some thought to your kidneys. Be sure they function properly for functional kidney disorder permits excess waste to stay in the blood, and to poison—and upset the whole system. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They are recommended the world over. You can get the genuine, time-tested Doan's at any drug store.

TOOTH PASTE. BEARS IN MIND RECENT PARENTAL LESSONS AND DECIDES TO BRUSH "DESH" THOROUGHLY. I'VE HEARD THAT VOICE—SOME PLACE BEFORE! WHY YES—I'M THE OWNER OF THIS SPEECH—BUT YOU'VE MADE TO ASK BRONC PEELER FOR THE JOB—I'LL FIND HIM!

A Harsh Word. To be silent, to suffer, to pray whenever I cannot act, is acceptable to God. A disappointment, a contradiction, a harsh word received, and endured as in his presence, is worth more than a long prayer. Our Relation to God. Vice and virtue chiefly imply the relation of our actions to men in this world; sin and holiness rather imply their relation to God and the other world.

NO ALKALIES FOR ACID INDIGESTION

MILLIONS have found they do not need to drench their stomachs with strong, caustic alkalies. Physicians have said this habit often brings further acid indigestion. So much more safe and sensible to simply carry a roll of Tums in your pocket. Munch 3 or 4 after meals—whenever troubled by heartburn, gas, sour stomach. Try them when you feel the effects of last night's party, or when you smoke too much. Tums contain a wonderful antacid which neutralizes acid in the stomach, but never over-alkalizes stomach or blood. As pleasant to eat as candy and only 10c at any drug store.

Folly Confounds
It is the folly of the world constantly which confounds its wisdom.—Holmes.

Conserve for What?
A lazy man likes to think it is just his way to conserve energy.

DON'T SLEEP ON LEFT SIDE, AFFECTS HEART

Gas Pressure May Cause Discomfort. Right Side Best

If you toss in bed and can't sleep on right side, try Adierka. Just ONE dose relieves stomach GAS pressing on heart so you sleep soundly all night. Adierka acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels and brings out foul matter you would never believe was in your system. This old matter may have poisoned you for months and caused GAS, sour stomach, headache or nervousness. Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adierka greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli." Mrs. Jas. Filler: "Gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart hurt. The first dose of Adierka brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never feel better." Give your stomach and bowels a REAL cleansing with Adierka and see how good you feel. Just ONE dose relieves GAS and chronic constipation. Sold by all druggists and drug departments.

Worry Defined
Worry is interest paid on trouble before it is due.

No Need to Suffer "Morning Sickness"

"Morning sickness"—is caused by an acid condition. To avoid it, acid must be offset by alkalies—such as magnesia.

Why Physicians Recommend Milnesia Wafers

These mint-flavored, candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia in solid form—the most pleasant way to take it. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly, then swallowed, they correct acidity in the mouth and throughout the digestive system and insure quick, complete elimination of the waste matters that cause gas, headaches, bloated feelings and a dozen other discomforts.

Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 40, at 35c and 60c respectively, and in convenient tins for your handbag containing 12 at 20c. Each wafer is approximately one adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores sell and recommend them.

New Ideas From Knit-Crochet Realm

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WHEN is the psychological moment to "tend to your knitting"? Right now, between seasons. The peaceful aftermath of a maddening, whirling, swirling, dizzying, hectic holiday rush, the blissful, mid-season lull betwixt the lingering farewell of winter and the none-too-hurried advent of spring—its "opportunity knocking at the door" of eager knitters and crocheters.

Yes, indeed, it's full time to begin to purr one, knit one, chain-stitch here and chain-stitch there, if you would be having in readiness a collection of pretty wearables to enhance the forthcoming spring and summer wardrobe. If you are needing fresh ideas to whet your enthusiasm, the illustration offers several of the very newest in the realm of things knitted and crocheted.

A sunning blouse! We agree with you. What with its high rolled collar which chucks under the chin with unmistakable chic, its unique yoke, its novel bib front, and its crocheted-cord edged short sleeves the ever-coveted "something different" is achieved with emphasis. It is knitted of a very likeable knitting-and-crochet cotton which comes in heavenly colors. Yes (reading the query on the tip of your tongue) the answer is in the affirmative, it washes to perfection.

Just what you'll be wanting—a frilled jabot to go gracefully cascading down the front of your dark daytime dresses. The one pictured is easy to make, easy to wear and a gladsome sight to appreciative eyes. It should be slightly starched to give it its flare.

Hat and gloves? To be sure, and aren't they nifty? A mere matter of a few leisurely half hours, a ball or so of knit-crochet cotton in the color you like best, nimble fingers and a will to dare, and these charming accessories will be your reward.

The little close-fitting hat speaks eloquently in terms of the now-so-avoguish popcorn stitch. The tall peak is along lines of smartest fashion since the newest millinery gesture trends to extreme height. The beauty of the knit-crochet cotton which is used for its making is, that being strong and firm it assures a hat that will stay in shape, will not be hot and scratchy and, best of all, it will come from a tubing looking as good as new. It is an extremely young and engaging creation.

The lacy gloves crocheted of mercerized cotton succeed in "running the gauntlet" halfway and more up to the elbow. Which means you have to keep on keeping on crocheting for quite some time in order to arrive at just the right point.

A highly interesting bit of news in regard to things crocheted comes from Paris. We refer to the fanciful little tri-cornered shawl-scarf, which being of peasant inspiration is as quaint and colorful as can be. These are proving wonderfully popular and picturesque as worn at resorts this winter. With every shawl-scarf there's a hat, either a straw capeline crowned with matching crochet or else a small beret or turban.

CHIC BIRD PRINT
By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The new prints are a revelation in the way of original and most out-of-the-ordinary patternings. Imagine bars of music notes printed all over your first spring silk, or a design using postage stamp motif and there are any number of ideas that could be cited just as unique. There are the flying-bird prints as they are called, for example, such as pictured here. In the print illustrated, white love birds with bright colored heads fly across a navy blue background to form a striking design for a dinner suit of woolly textured silk. The bodice is of white silk matching the lining of the jacket.

SANDALS WITH SILK GOWNS FOR TRAVEL

Silk dresses in white, in pastels, or in gay prints are tops for luncheons, cocktails or for wear at special stop-offs on cruises—a fashion that definitely calls for sandals. Whether in white linen, white patent leather (a very smart and different note), or in white suede, the sandal shown in the photo has a place in every traveler's wardrobe. It is extremely graceful on the foot, fits beautifully and should be regarded as a "must" in cruise shoes. For snooty shindigs, where the gala dress of black or white chiffon is correct, and for the more formal cruise occasions, a smart shoe store has created the "courage" kid sandals in delicately flowered design.

Slender Effect Achieved by Stem-Like Silhouette

A stemlike silhouette making mannequins look slim as a reed, mark the new fashions launched by Roger North, new president of the famous old dressmaking house of that name and great-grandson of its founder. Both day frocks and coats are built on slender lines, their only variation being occasional big sleeves which balance the straight narrow skirt.

Black, violet, wine red and navy afternoon frocks of satin, crepe or faconne silk are generally designed with high necklines and finished with a variety of gold touches. Gold embroidery or gold tipped tassels marks belts, which are sometimes slightly lowered, while necklines are draped into gold metal loops or accented by a cluster of gold coins swinging from silk cords.

Elegant Blouse
The tea-time blouse may be made of a variety of lovely fabrics—brocade, metal cloth, chiffon or lustrous silk. It is usually designed tunic-style and may be worn with a velvet skirt or with a plain cloth suit skirt.

Bob Davis Reveals

Gentle Art of "Making the Touch" in Foreign Parts.

ANYWHERE AND EVERYWHERE BORROWING is one of the arts that has never fallen into decay. Kept alive by conscientious disciples, brought to efficiency by earnest students, kept afloat through the ages and practiced even by those who developed the habit without necessity for it, "the touch" has survived—as a pristine pastime among its champions.

Because of the long drought that followed the shifting fortunes so suddenly lost, strayed and stolen after the chair was pulled out from under those accustomed to sitting pretty, with no thought of rainy days, the business of holding up friends, relatives and even strangers, has become a science. Check kiting, bad news from home, threatened disgrace due to debts of honor, delayed mail, tipsters who knock down, improvident noblemen who borrow from snobs and petty chisellers of all sorts are operating on what amounts to a code for grafters. These disreputables had multiplied with such rapidity that they threatened to become a leisure class in the European capitals.

He Couldn't Be Touched.

Recently in London a whistler I was lurching with a certain well known man about town, a messenger arrived with a note that called for an immediate answer. It was short and definite. "This man," said he, without disclosing the name, "has touched everybody he knows. I am the one untouched among his acquaintances." And with that mine host peeled £20 from a fat roll, wrote a short note, sealed it with the money under envelope and instructed the messenger to return with the answer.

"You, untouched?" I asked, started by his action.

His eyes sparkled. "Doesn't seem so, does it? What I wrote was this: 'Enclosed find £20. Don't thank me for it. Repay me at your convenience on a definite date. Name one, now, R. S. V. P., this messenger.'"

Before we had reached our coffee the boy was back with the original note amplified by this indorsement: "December 1, 1935," and signed. "I'm the one man in London that he keeps faith with; his ace in the hole, his unfailing last resort," continued the lender. "One default, one excuse, and I'm off him forever. That, he knows. This has been going on more than ten years. I've grown rather fond of him, despite his utter irresponsibility. He returns my friendship by being afraid of me. That's the only way to keep habitual borrowers where they belong. He'll manage somehow December 1 to meet that loan if he has to touch twenty others to meet the demand. He won't lose me, and I can't lose him. If one must be a private banker, my way at least limits the losses. Yes. What?"

This idea is worth distribution. I'm anxious to try it on a bird awaiting my return to Manhattan.

Now and then there is a touch of comedy in the technic of touching. And, by the way, men who laugh easily and heartily are not difficult to handle.

Among my acquaintances is an American author who spends four months out of the year in a Paris suburb.

One summer night, at the wretched hour, aroused by the clanging of his door bell, he got up and admitted two temporarily embarrassed actors.

Apologies in Order.

"It may surprise you," said the taller and stouter of the pair, "to have a call at this unseemly hour from two of your countrymen who for the moment are in some straits and much fatigued by the long journey down from Paris to your hospitable domicile. Indeed, it is with reluctance that we have brought ourselves into your presence. We are two of a small company of players lured by the hope of a prosperous season at the French capital. Unhappily, we were mistaken in the illusion that a warm welcome would be extended. I had the honor to be the leading man, whilst my companion, this gentleman, reduced to the necessity of wearing an ill-fitting sweater, was our comedian, whose sense of comedy has served to invest our pilgrimage with a dash of mirth. Yes—a dash. The purpose of our mission is to ask for a loan of funds from the States, 200 francs, or, if that is unseemly, ah—well, possibly 100 francs—until—"

"I'll say 25 francs," interrupted the comedian, laying a hand upon his sweated bosom, "or even 10."

"Shut up," muttered the leading man, for an aside.

"Better than that," continued the character actor, coming forward, "it would be a sensational hit if you could come across with a cup of hot, black coffee, or let us say two cups for each of us. We can then take the question of a small loan in better humor."

The Good Samaritan from the U. S. A. broke into a gust of laughter, opened his heart and his house, set up a midnight lunch, showed his guests to comfortable beds and started them back to bed the next day with full stomachs, renewed courage and 500 francs.

The comedian's cry for a cup of coffee had turned the trick.

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

If your cactus does not bloom pinch leaves and branches, leaving only branches that grow upward. Water whenever soil is dry.

To dice or cut marshmallows easily dip a dry scissors into powdered sugar.

Meat thawed quickly is likely to be tough. Keep frozen meat in warm place before cooking.

One teaspoon of chopped maraschino cherries and one tablespoon of orange juice added to boiled salad dressing makes a delicious dressing for fruit salads.

If an apple tree is broken by winter storms, pare off the splinters with a sharp knife or chisel and treat the wound with creosote, then give it a coat of linseed oil and lead paint. Do not let the creosote touch the live bark.

Chocolate cake scorches easily on the bottom and sides because of the large percentage of fat it contains. It is therefore necessary to bake it in a moderate oven.

Tie a cheese cloth or paper bag over the mouth of food chopper, when cutting bread, nuts, etc. through it. Every bit will then be saved.

Add one eighth teaspoon of cream of tartar to cinnamon and sugar used in apple sauce. It gives it a delicious flavor.

HOW TO "ALKALIZE" YOUR STOMACH ALMOST INSTANTLY
Amazingly Fast Relief Now From "Acid Indigestion" Over-Indulgence, Nausea and Upsets

If you want really quick relief from an upset or painful stomach condition—arising from acidity following over-eating, smoking, mixtures of foods or stimulants—just try this:
Take—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a full glass of water. OR—2 Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets, the exact equivalent of the liquid form.
This acts almost immediately to alkalize the excess acid in the stomach. Neutralizes the acids that cause headaches, nausea, and indigestion pains. You feel results at once.
Try it. AND—if you are a frequent sufferer from "acid stomach," use Phillips' Milk of Magnesia 30 minutes after meals. You'll forget you have a stomach! When you buy, see that any box or bottle you accept is clearly marked "Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia."

Martha Chancellor, Reporter

After several weeks of absence we are here again.

Farming is progressing slowly, for many families have not moved to their homes for the coming year. There has been so much moving that most everyone has a new neighbor.

After several years of absence, Mr. and Mrs. Perkins and family, have moved back into our community. We welcome their return.

We are very glad that Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Bussell are back with us again. Mr. Bussell has been ill since his return. We hope him a speedy recovery.

The little infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Truett Smith is slowly recovering from a serious case of pneumonia.

Mrs. Winkler fractured her ankle several weeks ago and has been depending on crutches to walk, but is reported some better. Bandages were removed Saturday. We hope she will be walking soon.

Mr. Everett Williams spent the week end at his home in Sweetwater.

We are needing some help for our singing class on Saturday nights. Next Sunday is the regular singing evening. Everyone invited to come and help us sing.

Next Sunday Mrs. McMahon, pastor of the Nazarene Church, will fill her regular appointment. N. Y. P. S. will also render a program Sunday night. Everyone is welcome.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our gratitude and thanks to the many friends for all the kindness and love shown during the illness and death of our beloved husband and father.—Mrs. W. C. Cowan and children.

W. C. COWAN, PIONEER OF LYNN COUNTY BURIED MONDAY

fore the beginning of the Civil War.

Although his educational opportunities were meager, Mr. Cowan succeeded in procuring a fairly good education for a young man of his day, and for six or eight years during his early manhood, before and after his marriage, he taught school in Erath and Stephens counties.

On September 20, 1877, at the age of 25, he was married to Miss Eliza Evans at Alexander in Erath county. This was during the first year of the administration of Dick Hubbard as governor of Texas.

Richard Coke having just resigned as governor to become U. S. senator from Texas.

For about five years following their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Cowan resided in Stephens county, two miles east of Breckenridge, in the heart of the present oil field that lies adjacent to that city. Then they spent a few months in Anderson county, after which they located in Somervell county for a residence of three years. The next twenty or more years were spent in Haskell, Borden, Howard and Mitchell counties, and then in February, 1902, they came to Lynn county and settled here for the remainder of their lives. That was more than a year before Lynn county was organized.

In 1903 Mr. Cowan and about twenty other citizens formed a townsie company and bought a section of land for the purpose of establishing a town. The original section selected and purchased was the section lying immediately north of the present original town of Tahoka, but this section became involved in litigation almost immediately and the promoters abandoned it and bought the section to the south. The town was laid out on the north side of this section because water was more abundant here than elsewhere on the section. It is said that the first election ever held in Lynn county was held in Mr.

Keep a Good Laxative always in your home

Among the necessities of home is a good, reliable laxative. Don't be without one! Do your best to prevent constipation. Don't neglect it when you feel any of its disagreeable symptoms coming on. . . "We have used Theodor's Black-Draught for 21 years and have found it a very useful medicine that every family ought to have in their home," writes Mrs. Perry Hicks, of Belton, Texas. "I take Black-Draught for biliousness, constipation and other ills where a good laxative or purgative is needed. I have always found Black-Draught gives good results." Sold in 25-cent packages.

BLACK-DRAUGHT

Cowan's residence. The county was organized in 1903 and the new town of Tahoka selected as the county seat. In that same year The Lynn County News was established, and Mrs. Cowan was enrolled as the first subscriber. J. H. Dyer, who died here a few years ago having been the second subscriber. He continued to take the paper until the day of his death and therefore read it for 32 years.

W. F. Humphries and Mr. Cowan's daughter, Miss Bertie, were the first couple married in Lynn county, the ceremony having been performed on Sunday, October 4, 1903, an account of the wedding being published in the first issue of The Lynn County News, which made its appearance on the following Friday, October 9.

Mr. Cowan was also a member of the first grand jury ever impaneled in Lynn county.

When Mr. Cowan came to Lynn county, there were no church organizations here. Religious services were often held in his home. Soon after coming to the county, he helped organize the first Baptist church here, he and Mrs. Cowan being "charter" members of this body. They have been members of this church ever since, and Mr. Cowan was a deacon of the church during almost its entire history up to the time of his death.

To Mr. and Mrs. Cowan were born ten children, five of whom are still living. The living are Troy B. Cowan, a resident of Lynn county until a few years ago when the family moved to Lubbock to be near the Tech College, Mrs. G. B. (Lula) Warren of Amarillo, Mrs. W. F. (Bertie) Humphries of Overton but residing here temporarily, Mrs. S. W. (Annie) Cain of Canyon, and Mrs. Charles (Linnie) Harter of Happy. Besides his aged companion and children, he also leaves surviving him twenty grandchildren and thirteen great grandchildren.

All the children were present at his death and funeral except Mrs. Cain, who was seriously ill and unable to come.

Mr. Cowan was a useful citizen, a good neighbor, a faithful friend, a devout Christian, and a devoted husband and father. He will be missed greatly among the walks of men.

The News joins many friends in expressions of condolence to all the bereaved.
