By J. M. Forbes

ONE WHOLE OR CLEAN

An old boy writing to the editor of The Clovis News-Journal seems to have trading at home on his mind. We quote the letter about incongruous things:

Editor:
Did you ever hear laughter at a funeral? Incongruous ain't it! Incongruous pronounced incongruous is a seven-year-old's word for something goofy, like if in tracing a T-bone served in a Clovis cafe you had to travel to Ft. Worth and wind up back in a Clovis cattle auction pit.

It means like when I saw a grocer stick out his tongue at people passing by enroute to Roswell or elsewhere to buy food neither better nor cheaper. His tongue wasn't incongruous, but his sentiments were; because in his hell-and-hog raising country his meat counter was stacked with hams imported from Holland.

There was something incongruous about the ideas of the proprietor of a novelty store where I buy my wife's jewelry; he stood before a prominent display of gaudy IMPORTED dolls berating people who patronize mail-order houses.

If a prospect barged into the office of a certain automobile dealer and confessed to the disloyalty of having chosen a foreign-made car, it would be incongruous for the dealer to bounce the culprit over the head with a couple of his foreign-made office machines, but he could.

Finally, there's no better example of incongruity than its application to the reasoning of officials in at least one near-by town who write downs on imported typewriters for the collection of taxes, figures on imported calculators, in support of schools whose students must use Italian-made typewriters to produce themes on the superiority of American workmanship.

Ray Carter, ye sage of Bailey. Women can never be as smart as men; after all, they have no wives to advise them.

And they keep telling you "you can't take it with you." What they don't tell is you can't go very far without it.

Things you hear over the coffee cups:
Tom Bogart: Boy, have you got any more calves for sale?
Ray Wilson: Yes, I have three left, Tom.

Tom: "How big are they, Ray, big as they are?"
Ray: That's how big they are, Tom.

Tom: Oh, shucks, I wanted calves much smaller than that.

Pufs Muleshoe On Northwest Map . . . Wilcy Moore Makes Splendid Debut At Portland; Can't Get Used To Rain

It's not that he's had to play left field, center field, and right field for Portland in the Pacific Coast League so far in the early season, it's not that which worries Wilcy Moore, Muleshoe's star baseballer. No, it seems the incessant rains worry him more, for this Plains raised fellow is more accustomed to sandstorms.

Writing home recently to his folks here, Wilcy said they've had a hard time getting to play because of the rain, but in his first few times at bat, Wilcy had a fat .500 average.

Wilcy, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Moore, has been interviewed by radio and TV and

In a report dated April 11, the U. S. Department of Agriculture predicted a Texas wheat crop of 56.6 million bushels, 23 percent above the December forecast. If realized, this will be the largest crop produced since 1949.

The state's record crop was 117 million bushels in 1947. Second highest was the 1949 crop of 89.8 million bushels. Planted acreage in both these years was more than double that planted this year.

Phone Companies Reach Accord For Service Contract West Of Muleshoe

A five hour verbal tilt between representatives of Five Area Telephone Cooperative and General Telephone Company Monday afternoon, resulted in a compromise agreement which will ultimately mean telephone service to an estimated 100 farm families living west of Muleshoe.

The conference, called by the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce directors, was the result of service being offered in the rural area by West Texas Telephone Cooperative, based in Hereford.

D. B. Lancaster, manager of the Five Area Co-op, and Dusty Kemper and Ray Redd, of General Telephone, discussed points of contention over what type equipment would be used in the area when service begins.

Terms of a contract signed by the two companies in January, were finally agreed upon, so that extended area service can begin.

A mass meeting to be called and boundaries to be served by Five Area and West Texas cooperatives will be set. Following the establishment of boundaries, work is expected to proceed as soon as possible.

Dorothy Hickman Installed As New President Of FHA Chapter Monday

On Monday evening the Future Homemakers of America installed their officers for the coming year. After a short business meeting in which the chairmen of the standing committees gave their reports, the girls who attended the state convention at San Antonio in April gave a report. The girls who attended this convention were Dorothy Hickman and Jan Puckett from the Big Sister chapter; Virginia Hickman and Linda Lee from the Little Sister chapter.

Degrees were presented to three members of the club by Neida Redwine. Mary Gross was presented with a junior degree, Dorothy Hickman received a junior and chapter degree, and Linda Landers, a chapter degree.

For the installation, both old and new officers, dressed in formal, were seated in a semi-circle behind a table covered with white and adorned by a centerpiece of red roses. One red candle, representing the flame of home economics, was on the table and eight pale green candles, representing the eight purposes of the club, were placed on either side of the red one. The red candle was lit by the president of the Little Sister chapter, Frances Cooper.

The old officers then lit the other candles from the red one as they repeated the purposes of the club. All the new officers were then asked to stand and take the oath, each new officer was presented by the old one and after stating their duties were formally installed by the old officer, who took off a single red rose and pinned it on the incoming officer.

Those who were installed are: president, Dorothy Hickman; first vice-president, Janet Scarborough; second vice-president, Virginia Hickman; third vice-president, Mary Gross; fourth vice-president, Marilyn Mitchell; secretary, Priscilla Inman; treasurer, Nell Moore; historian, Nella Redwine; reporter, Bonnie Wood; pianist, Jaqueta Nowell; song leader, Darrene Nowlin; and student council representative, Naomi Watson.

They called him the "Iron Man". Through the first half of his career with the New York Yankees he was overshadowed by the mighty Sultan of Swat, Babe Ruth. But Lou Gehrig went on to carve his own niche in baseball's Hall of Fame, and to win an enduring place in the memories of America's sports fans.

Perhaps his greatest achievement was the one which earned him his nickname. For from the time he first went out to first base as a raw recruit in 1925, until his last game fourteen years later, Gehrig played in every Yankee game.

His record stands at 2,130 consecutive games... an "Iron Man" performance that might never be equaled. It was a fatal illness which finally sapped his strength and brought to a close his consecutive game streak. Baseball fans will never forget his tearful thanks for the tribute paid him that year in Yankee Stadium, the year his streak ended.

Remember the year? America was entering a new period of prosperity about that time, but even so, a man buying a new car made sure of getting the best deal. He demanded real savings, not just a "Paper Deal".

The year was 1939.

Sheriff Warns Of Danger From Kids Playing With Dynamite Blasting Caps

The only safe way to handle a blasting cap is "leave it alone", Sheriff Dee Clements cautioned today. "They are deadly dangerous and can maim and blind children."

He describes the caps as shiny, pencil shaped tubes made of either copper or aluminum and from one and one-half to five and one-half inches long. There are two basic kinds. One is exploded by sparks from a fuse which is inserted in one end of the cap and then lit. The other type is the electric blasting cap. It has two covered wires coming out of one end and is fired by electrical current.

Purpose of the blasting cap is to denote high explosive charges which, themselves, are less easily set off than the caps. In practice, the caps are activated by fuses or electric charges, but they can also be set off by a sharp hammer blow or by a fire of ordinary intensity. And that is how many accidents occur. For they are just the kind of intriguing little objects that attract children of every age.

Where and how do children get blasting caps? Sheriff Clements explained that sometimes they are left lying around by thoughtless workmen. Sometimes they are stolen by mischievous boys. More often they are lost, misplaced or hidden away. Children find them, play with them and as a result scores of boys and girls are injured every year. Some lose fingers, toes, or hands; others are blinded for life. Some have been killed.

"Teach your children to know a cap at sight", Sheriff Clements said as he discussed the hazards of the harmless looking little tube. "Tell them of the danger. Insist that they shun caps as they would a rattlesnake. And be sure they know why."

Thousands of blasting caps are used every day in scores of essential jobs for industry and agriculture. They are needed to explode dynamite to help build roads and skyscrapers, mine coal and metals, locate oil, build dams and lay pipelines. Farmers use them frequently in clearing fields of stumps and boulders.

The sheriff added that he is sounding this warning at the suggestion of the National Sheriffs' Association and the Institute of Makers of Explosives who for many years have been carrying on this campaign to acquaint children and parents with the dangers of blasting caps in inexperienced hands.

TO VISIT WORLDS FAIR

Travis and Paula Clements left Frankfurt, Germany on May 1 for Brussels, Belgium, to attend the worlds fair. They are making the trip by car, and expect to visit the tulip festival in Holland.

Low Rent Housing Plan Explained At Friday Meeting

Will Holdridge, a Ft. Worth architect explained how Muleshoe might obtain low-rental housing units through the Federal Housing Authority, at a breakfast meeting held here Friday morning.

Holdridge, whose firm has designed a number of similar low-rental housing units in Texas and the Southwest, said that such a project here would provide modern living facilities for families who are in the lowest income group and cannot afford to pay for adequate housing from private ownership.

He outlined a step by step plan whereby a local housing authority would be appointed, a state acquired, contract entered to obtain funds from the FHA, and the appointment of a manager to operate the units for the local housing board, in whose name title to the units would remain.

Holdridge emphasized that neither the city nor any person would have to put up any money either for acquisition of a site, or at any time, all such funds coming from an FHA loan set up especially for such projects.

To qualify for one of the units, a family would be in the low income group, averaging about $40 per week, and would have to show that they were presently living in sub-standard housing.

Rents on such units would be set at from one-fifth to one-sixth of the renter's income.

ON STUDENT NEWSPAPER

Gay Douglas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Douglas of Muleshoe has been named business and advertising manager of a special edition of the Texas Tech student newspaper, the Treador, to be published May 13.

Gay is a member of the freshman journalism class which will publish the special edition.

Proper Mowing Is Aid To Lawn Care

Constant care and attention are necessary for the maintenance of a beautiful lawn. One of the basic factors involved, says E. M. Trew, extension pasture specialist, is mowing.

Improper mowing is responsible for the deterioration of many lawns. Mowing too close encourages the thinning of the turf and shallow rooting, resulting in lower resistance to drought, diseases and invasion by weeds. Setting the mower too high results in many of the same problems, says Trew. Excessive soil drying and baking and heat damage to the lawn grass during the summer also result from too close mowing.

The leaves of the lawn grass not only produce the green color, but also manufacture the food required for the entire plant. When too much of the leaves are clipped, the entire plant suffers, points out the specialist. No more than a half-inch of the leaf tip should be removed at any one mowing.

Creeping types of grasses can withstand closer mowing than bunch types. Bermuda should be mowed at a height of one to one and a half inches; St. Augustine, buffalo and zoysia, one and a half, while bluegrass and ryegrass should be mowed no closer than one and a half to two inches.

Many lawn enthusiasts like a dense mat of turf, but such a buildup of stems and leaves eventually leads to trouble, cautions Trew. The mat acts as insulation; new roots from stems must penetrate it to get to the soil, and it increases the disease hazard.

Proper mowing, advises Trew, requires a sharp, well-adjusted lawn mower. The mower should be sharp enough to cut the tips of the leaves without bruising or crushing them. The height of the bedknife should be determined by placing the mower on a flat surface and adjusting the set screws or bolts so that each end of the bedknife is exactly the desired height. Uniform mowing requires that the mower be adjusted at regular intervals, says Trew. For more information on home lawns, Trew suggests that a copy of B-203 be obtained from the local county extension office.

Insurance Now Available For More Types Crops

The Federal Crop Insurance Corporation will celebrate its 20th anniversary this year by providing one-third of a million farmer policy holders one-third of a billion dollar's worth of all-risk protection against crop disaster.

FCIC protection against loss from unavoidable causes of money invested in crop production is now available in over 800 U. S. counties, more than twice the number in which such insurance was offered in 1948, reports A. B. Wooten, extension economist.

This year the Corporation is initiating a new contract method, another thing that should make crop insurance available to more farmers. The change brings together a variety of crop insurance contracts into a uniform policy with separate endorsements for the crops insured. This will facilitate adding insurance for additional crops in many counties to provide broader protection for policyholders.

Over its 20-year history FCIC has paid nearly a half billion dollars of indemnities to insured farmers who suffered unavoidable crop losses, according to Wooten. These insurance checks have enabled many farmers to survive crop disasters which otherwise would have put them out of business.

In the words of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, "Every year though national production is high crop catastrophes take a heavy toll in some farming areas. Where crop disaster strikes, farmers and the business community feel the need for emergency assistance. Crop insurance was designed and developed to provide the opportunity to meet this need on a business basis."

Farmers in Texas can obtain information about Federal crop insurance by writing to O. B. Briggs, PMA Building, College Station, Texas.

BABSON DISCUSSES TEENAGE ROAD-E-O WINNERS

Babson Park, Mass., May 8 — It is not my custom to discuss strikes. Now, however, Mr. Reuther's asking that the negotiations be postponed until the tooling time comes truly arouses one's anger. This is a Soviet-type threat. Everyone should rise up against it.

What Labor Seeks
 In this year of poor sales and profits in the auto industry, the UAW is boldly asking for a general wage increase equivalent to about 11c an hour. It also seeks a considerable broadening of the present pension plan, expanded hospitalization and insurance benefits, as well as more money for skilled workers.

In addition to all these requests, the Union is demanding that the Big Three — General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler — adopt a new type of profit-sharing plan. This seems to me a very poor time to make such an expensive and far-reaching demand, and I predict that the auto workers will refuse to go along with it.

Likelihood of A Strike
 Many observers believe that the current negotiations will result in a stalemate and finally in a strike. They contend that automobile industry management are in a better position to stand firm against the more unreasonable demands of labor than they have been in recent years. I do not share this view about a strike of any length, and here is why:

The UAW treasury has already been hard hit because so many members are working only part time or are not working at all because of plant slowdowns and shutdowns. Only recently the UAW — in order to ease its financial position — was obliged to cut salaries of some employees. Although so far as is known, Mr. Reuther has not yet backed down on any of his 1958 demands, I forecast that in the end he will feel obliged to compromise and a strike should be averted. But if by chance a strike should be called, I believe it will be a short one.

What The Workers May Get
 It is interesting to note that the Supplementary Unemployment Benefits plan now in force in the auto industry — and which the Union seeks to expand — was originated by management (Ford) and not by labor. I expect that benefits under this SUB plan will be increased as a result of the present negotiations. Other so-called "fringe" benefits may also be increased, but only fractionally.

Provision for a wage increase of the size asked for by labor now seems impossible. Perhaps management and labor will reach a satisfactory compromise on this issue. Possibly this will take the form of a sliding-scale increase or decrease tied up with sales volume or profits.

Labor-Saving Machinery
 In all this discussion of negotiations between management and workers in this vital industry, I am afraid we are losing sight of one important fact: Labor's fortunes are still dependent on supply and demand. In recent years, management has shown more respect for the workingman and his place in our economy. As a result there is usually less wrangling in labor negotiations than was the case some years back. But management will not sit idly by forever and make concession after concession to labor. If labor does not do its part by boosting productivity and upgrading quality.

Unwise acts by labor unions tend only to stiffen the attitude of management and to hasten and increase demand for labor-saving devices. Automation will become more universal during the next ten years. There will be vast changes in our labor situation during the next generation or two, changes calling for a series of adjustments on the part of both management and workers.

What Management Can Do
 The agreements finally reached by the UAW and the large auto companies will undoubtedly have an eventual impact on other industries. What can management do to protect itself from the pitfalls that lie ahead? First of all, it must do more than simply give in to labor's every demand. Management needs more intensive training in labor relations for it will still be quite dependent on labor even when automation becomes more widespread than it is now. If we are to avoid socialism in this country, management must have the capacity to look ahead at all lines of negotiation, however, must be carried on in a mutually Christian Spirit and without either side using Russian-type threats or sharp maneuvers.

WASHINGTON NEWS LETTER
 by Lydon Johnson

Dear Friend:
 Should taxes be cut now? It is a question that is receiving a great deal of attention in Congress.

Tax legislation has to be acted on first by the House of Representatives. But this does not mean members of the Senate cannot go ahead and give the best thought of which they are capable to the various factors involved in suggestions for tax cuts.

The day is coming near when we are going to have to reach a decision on what to do about our tax structure.

Automobile dealers, with nearly a million unsold cars on their hands, are burdened with a heavy excise tax which they feel slows down sales.

Our transportation system still pays taxes originally levied to discourage full use of transportation facilities in wartime.

The withholding tax is a big factor in reducing the take-home pay of wage earners and salaried persons. Proposals have been made that it be temporarily set aside.

If we are unable to get public works going and get them enthusiastically administered and executed, we will have to do something else to boost the economy.

Tax revision may well be the only alternative in dealing with the recession if efforts to provide a cure by public works continue to run headlong into presidential vetoes and administrative slowdowns.

It is much cheaper to prevent a depression than to take steps to buy your way out of one.

The Senate situation on labor legislation last week was very confusing. The Senate had before it a carefully drawn, well-considered bill to safeguard health and welfare funds against abuse. Suddenly we were confronted with about 40 amendments.

Some purported to relax Taft-Hartley restrictions. Some purported to safeguard working men and women against labor racketeers. All were technical and complex, and none had had an expert study to determine their effect.

Under the circumstances, the Senate followed the advice of Senator McClellan, who has done more to reveal the facts about labor racketeers than any other man. The amendments were sent to the Senate Labor Committee for study, and I am confident the Senate will carry out my prediction of February 22 and approve, at this session, legislation to protect working men and women from exploitation by a handful of racketeers.

On February 22, I made the following statement in a speech delivered here in Washington: "There are problems which cry

SANDHILLS PHILOSOPHER FINDS THIRD-STAGE Trouble With Rocket Like Third-Stage With Tractor

Editor's note: The Sand Hills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm claims he's found a scientific truth about living. His letter this week reveals.

Dear editor:

I was out here the other afternoon working with my tractor, that is, I was sitting down looking at it wondering if I put some gas in it would it start, when I got to thinking about one phase of the satellite program that a lot of people seem to have overlooked.

That is, every once in a while when the scientists set out to launch one, everything works satisfactorily in the first two stages, the thing takes off straight up with a roar, the second stage rocket kicks it higher, but for some reason the third stage rocket falls, the one that's supposed to send it into orbit, and the satellite nose-dives into the ocean.

This has the scientists puzzled, but that's because they're not familiar with the rule of life I've discovered that says the third stage is always the hardest.

For example, take plowing. I can handle the first two stages, I can put some gas in the tractor and I can start it, but it's that third stage, driving it up one row and down another, putting it into orbit, so to speak, that I have trouble with.

With other people, it's other things. Take borrowing money. Some people can handle the first two stages, getting up the nerve to go into the bank, and actually getting the loan, but it's at the third stage, paying it back, that all the earlier scientific calculations seem to explode.

Or take getting married. A man can find a woman that'll marry him, and he can get married, but it's that third stage, keeping her in orbit, that brings on the headaches.

A scientist occasionally may be able to figure out exactly how much it takes to get a satellite into orbit, but the mild of the job man has never mastered the art of figuring out ahead of time what it costs to keep a family needs satisfied. The mysteries of outer space may be baffling, but they'll never equal the number of unknowns involved in keeping a growing family in orbit, especially when you no sooner get them going in one orbit than they break out in other orbits going in all directions.

Scientists with their nose-diving satellites really have it easy.

Yours faithfully,
 J. A.

Today's Meditation

Read Acts 16:9-13.
 Have no anxiety about anything, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known to God. (Philippians 4:6. RSV.)

A contractor and a future home owner were discussing plans for a new house. Looking at a rough sketch of the floor plan, the contractor asked, "What is this small extra room marked 'prayer room'? I haven't seen any plans like this before except possibly in magazines. I never thought I would be asked to build one!"

The young man replied, "God has created all the raw materials from which everything is made that will go into my new home. I want a place in it where I can, undisturbed, thank Him each day, for it and all His other blessings."

"I think you have a wonderful idea," the contractor said. "I would like a chance to build this prayer room into your home."

Whether or not a special prayer room is built in every house, prayer itself in the home can be an everyday occurrence. There should be a place for it.

PRAYER
 Our Father, we would express now our thanks to Thee for all Thy blessings. Teach us to give ourselves to prayer daily in our homes to thank Thee for Thy love and guidance, to seek Thy will for our lives, to give us Thy divine help in all our undertakings. In Jesus' name and for His sake. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Cotton Research Grant Made By PCG Organization

Cotton research at the High Plains Station of the Texas Research Foundation was strengthened by a grant of $6,000 for 1958 by the Plains Cotton Growers, Incorporated by unanimous action at their meeting April 29. Orville Bailey, chairman of the Finance committee for the PCG, presented the proposal. Frank Ream, Plainview area, finance chairman of the High Plains Station, outlined the cotton research plan, under irrigation, to be conducted at the High Plains Station.

supported by the grant include variety tests, fertilizer tests, time of planting, method and time of fertilizer application, frequency of irrigation and a study of trace elements as they affect production, grade and profit in cotton.

Fertilizer tests on cotton include: different rates and ratios of nitrogen and phosphate; time of application of nitrogen; comparison of six common sources of phosphate; comparison of different methods of application of phosphate; and a study of the effects of magnesium and trace elements. In all these fertilizer tests emphasis will be on cotton quality as well as yield. Tissue analysis will be made on the cotton grown with different kinds and amounts of fertilizer to determine fertilizer uptake.

An irrigation test will also be conducted on cotton to study the effects of the amount and time of application of irrigation water on yield and quality of cotton.

A COOPERATIVE EFFORT . . . Soil Fertility Research Expanded To Promote Better Fertilizer Use

Plans for expanding the soil fertility research to aid in more efficient and economical use of fertilizers for 18 South Plains Counties has been developed by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. This work will be done in cooperation with the Texas Extension Service, Texas Technological College, High Plains Research Station at Halfway, members of the fertilizer industry, farmers and businessmen of the area.

In the proposed program, basic soil fertility research will be conducted at Lubbock on mixed land soils, at Brownfield on sandyland soils, and at Halfway on the hardland soils. In addition, field trial experiments will be conducted on farms to develop information on special soil problems not represented at the three locations where the basic studies will be conducted.

Information from these fertility studies will be correlated with soil tests from each of the locations and field trials to determine the reliability of present tests and to develop more dependable data for predicting the likely response to fertilizer materials.

The expanded research program has been developed to meet the growing demands for information on the use of fertilizer, legumes and other practices to help maintain and improve the original productivity of the soils in the South Plains. The relatively large expansion of irrigation within the past 10 years has brought about intensive cropping, heavy production and a general decline in native soil fertility. The rate of decline has varied widely with the amount of irrigation water used, soil type and cropping practices.

The experimental work on each soil type will be designed to determine the most desirable rates and combinations of nitrogen, phosphorus, potash and trace minerals in relationship to previous land use, irrigation methods, different cropping and management systems. In addition plant physiology studies on plant nutrient uptake, nutrient balance and trace elements will be conducted under field and greenhouse conditions.

A newly formed South Plains Soil Fertility Committee, representing fertilizer manufacturers, dealers, farmers, businessmen, and other industry will serve as an advisory group in the new research work and will help obtain support from various interested groups or parties. August Balzer, of the OK-Tex Chemical Co., Lubbock, is chairman of the committee. Stark Royal, Smith-Douglass Co., Lubbock, is vice-chairman, and Walter O'Neal, Lubbock, Olin Mathieson Co., is secretary.

The South Plains Committee has appointed four groups to obtain the needed support for the program. Walter O'Neal, Stark Royal and Alfred McWhorter of International Chemicals & Minerals will represent manufacturers. Farmers are represented by Ben Dopson, Lamesa; Kenneth Purcell, Brownfield; Frank Moore, Plainview; Elbert Harp, Abernathy; and Ivan Black, Hereford. The dealers will be represented by James (Doc) Poths, Taylor Evans Feed Stores, Amarillo; Grady Goodpasture, Goodpasture Grain & Milling Co., Inc., Brownfield; and August Balzer, OK-Tex Chemicals, Lubbock.

The technical advisory committee is composed of C. E. Fisher, Superintendent of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock; H. J. Walker, Asst. Agronomist and Harry C. Lane, Associate Plant Physiologist also of the Lubbock Station; Dr. A. W. Young and Dr. Clark Harvey of Texas Technological; W. H. Jones, District Agent of the Texas Extension Service; Dr. Tom Longnecker, High Plains Research Station at Halfway; and George Pfeiffenberger of the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock.

Grady Goodpasture is chairman of the finance committee and Alfred McWhorter is chairman of public relations.

SALES TAX A THREAT TO TEXAS FARMERS

Much in the air these days is a word that turns stale the sweetest Texas spring breeze—taxes. Concensus of opinion among many is that Texas governmental costs are rising above state revenues to such a degree that some new form of taxation will inevitably be the top order of business for the next legislature. And, sadly for the Texas farmer, the fashionable turn of tax talk lately has been for a type of general sales tax.

Any type of sales tax would impose on Texas farmers and ranchers a greater hardship than on almost any other occupational class. And they are the very people who can least afford it.

Farmers and ranchers must invest more money to produce their narrow profit margin than practically any other business, and most of their purchases are at the retail level where sales taxes normally occur. Regular purchases of every farmer and rancher on such essential items as feed and seed, farm implements, machinery and building materials could run up a staggering tax bill—staggering enough, in fact, to deal the final blow to already-squeezed farm profits.

In addition to the burden of taxes paid on everything they have to buy to produce a crop and make a living, our farm people would also suffer along with everyone else on taxes paid out for normal living expenses.

Taxation which discriminates against a working class of people is unfair taxation. Times are trying enough for rural people as evidenced by continued migration away from the farms. With mounting federal taxation besetting farmers on one hand and rising production costs cramping them on the other, surely they must be spared an additional and unnecessary blow at the state level.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Journal was pleased to receive a nice letter from Mrs. Johnnie Glasscock who with her family is residing now in Portales, N. M. She is the former Pat Hanover. She has some nice things to say about Ray Franz, formerly CoC manager here, now holding the same position there:

Portales, April 25

Dear Editor:

By all means renew our subscription to The Journal! We have learned to love Portales and all its wonderful people, but Muleshoe is still a big part of us. Hardly a day passes but we think of or see a "Muleshoeite".

Johnnie will become a junior at Eastern New Mexico U. this coming semester, and I'm still making hamburgers galore.

Prospects for a bumper crop this year seem good, since New Mexico has finally gotten a fair share of moisture this spring. We have a very fine local man, John Burroughs, who has a very good chance of becoming the next governor of New Mexico.

Ray Franz is doing a very fine job as CoC manager here. You remember Ray and Ruth? Portales has acquired a sausage casing factory, almost completed, due to him and his colleagues' hard work. They are working desperately on the "highway 70 project" connecting Portales and Muleshoe. We would love to have some of your business and give you some of ours. If all this hard work, Mr. Burroughs, ENMU, plus our peanuts and "taters" don't put us on the map, we'll find something else.

Sincerely,
Pat Glasscock

Details of Compromise Cotton Bill Explained by PCG Vice President

Details of a plan drafted by the House Cotton Subcommittee for the next three years, were outlined this week by George Pfeiffenberger, executive vice-president of the Plains Cotton Growers.

The plan would give individual cotton farmers a choice of two programs for the 1959 crop year. Farmers could retain their present acreage allotments at the 1958 price support levels under one choice. As an alternative, they could take a 30 percent increase in allotments and receive 65 percent of parity for support. In 1960 and 1961 the loan choice would be (1) calculated in accordance with the formula in the present law, or (2) 65 percent of parity in all three years.

The "base" acreage allotment in 1960 and 1961 would be the "acreage required to produce the estimated demand". Commodity Credit Corporation stocks would be offered for sale at 68 1/2 percent of parity.

This plan would go into effect only if approved by two-thirds of the farmers voting in a referendum to be held in November. If the referendum failed to carry, the present law would remain in effect and the usual referendum would be held in December.

As a prelude to the explanation, Pfeiffenberger said that a compromise cotton bill now in the works might be the only way to prevent the cotton industry from receiving no legislation at all.

Results of Wear Tests on Floors Are Published

Accelerated wear tests made on six common floor covering materials indicated there are variations in the changes of appearance and wear in these materials.

These tests were conducted by the Texas A&M Department of Agricultural Engineering in an effort to stimulate the wear conditions experienced in a home. The materials tested were solid sheet vinyls, rubber tiles, vinyl-asbestos tiles, linoleums, corks, and asphalt tiles.

The time factor could not be reproduced in such a study, and any changes in the material caused by time could not be observed. It also was impossible to reproduce exactly the effects of human traffic on a floor covering material. It was assumed that the customer would prefer to have the material maintain its original appearance while wearing and aging, and that any type of charge would be objectionable. Solid sheet vinyls and rubber tiles showed significantly less wear than the other materials. Asphalt tiles showed significantly more wear than the other floor materials tested.

Maintenance cannot be recommended for decreasing wear, as determined from these tests, except on linoleums and cork. Waxing may be desirable on all materials to maintain appearance.

With the exception of rubber tile, light-solid or dark-mottled materials generally showed less change in appearance than dark-solid or dark-mottled materials. Solid color materials showed more change in appearance than mottled materials. Dark colors in rubber tiles gave the least change in appearance.

More information on the procedures, results and conclusions of these tests may be obtained by ordering B-890, "Accelerated Wear Tests on Common Floor-covering Materials", from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

representative and let them know how you feel.

It appears that there are some legislators who will agree with you and it is possible that this uncontrolled monopoly may be weakened, if not broken. Farm Bureau officially urges Congress to place labor unions under the same anti-trust provision under which their employers must operate.

So there can be no misunderstanding about it, we make this statement: Farm Bureau asked the president to veto the "freeze" resolution on the farm program, and when he had done so, stated that he had acted with "courage and good sense". In opposing the price "freeze", Farm Bureau made it clear that it favors price supports where appropriate as an aid to orderly marketing and as a protection to farmers during periods of change and adjustments.

J. Harrel West, Texas Farm Bureau president, speaking to service representatives in Waco last week, said that he was strongly in favor of working with commodity organizations and other farmer organizations where possible. He said that he thought it could strengthen the other groups, too, to which he surely had no objection. The main objective is to get farmers more closely united in their principle objective, to gain opportunity for a good net income from the production and marketing of their commodities.

Do you talk with the Farm Bureau director in your community about your farm problems so that he can present them at regular directors meetings? If not, why don't you just attend one of them yourself, the first Monday night of each month in the office in Friona?

CONSIDER THIS: To do justice and judgement is more acceptable to the Lord than sacrifice. —Proverbs 21:3.

That old common-grade oil I used to use in these irrigation engines sure did let the dirt and dust and rust cake up in those engines! But worse than that, with butane or propane, it thickened up when it looked almost like gear-grease! Man, what a change with this AMALIE L. P. G. Oil!

AMALIE L. P. G. is more than just a good oil, it's a super oil. When you burn butane or propane (Liquid Petroleum Gas), ordinary oil won't do. It must be ENGINEERED for L. P. G. And AMALIE L. P. G. is just that: 100% pure Pennsylvania — no other crude like it on earth. Special additives to hold that dirt, grit, etc., in suspension — so they filter out. And above all, it holds its viscosity — its "flowing" qualities. Give YOUR engines — and your bank balance — a break!
