The Journal Hopes For The Reelection Of Jesse Osborn

AN EDITORIAL

The editor and publisher of The Muleshoe Journal, and everyone connected in any way with the paper, hope for the re-election of Jesse M. Osborn as this district's representative in the Legislature of Texas, not for any political consideration but because of his character and the record he has made.

We know him to be eminently fitted to serve us in the State capital. We know him to be a sincere, dedicated, incorruptible public servant, who will stand by what he deems to be right through thick and thin, and we know that no influence from any source can cause him to deviate from what he thinks is best for the people he represents and for Texas.

When six years ago Mr. Osborn was persuaded by Bailey County to lend to offer for the Legislature, this editor thought this was a "natural". For Mr. Osborn has spent all of his mature years here in our midst, and as a banker, farmer, and cattle man has had the opportunity to study every phase of our life; has experienced the good years and the bad, and he knows our district from formal study and by actual contact.

Very shortly in his first term the Speaker began to give him important committee assignments, requiring much study, much time for meetings, and we venture to say Mr. Osborn was there, prepared to take a part. As soon as he was elected he began to brief himself upon the problems of the state and district as perhaps few legislators do. A state official visiting here recently told this writer that in his opinion the Muleshoe Legislature votes on few measures before he understands the proposal clearly.

The 96th district has in Mr. Osborn not only a capable man, a resolute man, but a man who is able to give his time and attention to our problems and is willing and ready to do so.

We believe we speak for Bailey County when we recommend his re-election to the people of the other counties in the district, Deaf Smith, Parmer, Lamb, and Castro.

Swim Pool To Open Monday

Muleshoe Municipal Swimming Pool will open for the season the coming Monday, May 30, Memorial Day. Coach H. W. Callan will be the manager this year and he will give instruction in swimming.

General admission will be 35 cents. The season tickets will sell for $7.50 for those over 18, $5.00 for persons under 18. The concession stand will operate again this year, will have suits, fins, etc., for rent, and Mrs. Callan will be in charge of this department.

Anyone interested in a private swim party should see Mr. Callan. Swimming instruction will be conducted during the morning hours.

SENN SLEMMONS GETS ARLINGTON AWARD

ARLINGTON, May 18—Senn Slemmons of Muleshoe, now a student of Arlington State College, was one of eight members of the college choir to receive an award during ASC's annual Awards Day ceremonies this week.

Choir citations went only to those students who have completed two years of participation in choir work, according to Dan C. Burkholder, director of the group.

Danish Student In Short Visit

Bent Hansen, from Aarhus, Denmark, is in Muleshoe visiting a few days before enrolling in Abilene Christian College, Abilene for the summer session. Bent will study Bible for the next two years at the college under the sponsorship of the Muleshoe Church of Christ and then plans to return to Denmark to preach for the people there.

He has studied English for 7½ years in the Danish schools and speaks English fluently. He also knows German, French, Latin, and Danish. He was studying language in a university in Denmark when he first met Hollis Prine, missionary for the church of Christ in Denmark.

He was later converted and did much work in translating for the American missionaries. He recalls very vividly "the dark years" he calls them of the German occupation of his homeland.

Bent expects to leave next week sometime for Abilene and will return to Muleshoe during the college holidays at various times during the next two years. He says we are greatly privileged in this country to have so many fine homes and opportunities to travel. His only complaints about Texas so far are the glaring sunlight and hot temperatures which are unknown in Denmark.

Hansen is staying in homes of members of the church during his visit here.

VOTERS TO RECEIVE COPIES

Home Rule Charter Election Set July 5 By Muleshoe City Council

The Muleshoe City Council has set Tuesday, July 5, as the date for holding an election for voting on the adoption of a Home Rule charter for the city of Muleshoe.

Copies of the proposed charter will be mailed to each qualified city voter 30 days prior to the election date.

The proposed charter would change the type of city government from "general statute" form to the "home rule" form, and would give the City authority to enact ordinances and rules which may or may not appear in the general laws of the state.

Proponents of home rule government point out that cities with home rule may more efficiently govern themselves, because they can adopt ordinances to suit the needs of their particular city.

Efficiency of administration is also pointed out as a virtue of home rule government. Proponents of the plan say that employment of a full time business manager for the city (a provision noted in the charter), results in more efficient operation of city affairs.

Members of the City Council have announced that a campaign will begin soon to make sure that each qualified voter understands all the provisions of the proposed charter prior to the July 5 election date.

HIGH PER FARM AVERAGE NOTED Agriculture Income Of County 17½ Millions

The average per farm income for 1959 from farms in the four-county Muleshoe trade territory was $28,707, according to a recent survey made by the Plains Cotton Growers, Incorporated.

Bailey County's 884 farms brought a total of $17,496,050 in the channels of commerce, with each farm averaging $19,792 during the 1959 crop year.

Although Bailey County ranked 25th in the state as to total farm income, its per farm average income was far higher than those of some six or seven other counties surveyed.

Hale County led the state in farm income with $83,394,568, with Lubbock County second and Lamb County third.

Parmer County had a total farm income of $39,673,144; Cochran County had $9,797,788; and Lamb County had a total of $55,287,518.

By counties, this is the way the four stacked up:

COUNTY	TOTAL IN.	NO. FARMS	AVG. PER FARM
Bailey	$17,496,050	884	$19,792
Lamb	$55,287,518	1737	$30,939

Cochran	$9,797,788	477	$20,454

SPEAKING OF THE WEATHER . . .

Newcomer Predicts Rain Imminent

By VERNON FOLTZ
The end of the dry season is at hand. We may look for general rains on the weekend of May 28-29 and scattered showers again Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The general rains should develop as a storm center works eastward through West Texas over the weekend. Scattered showers are expected to break out in the area about Tuesday as humid air returns behind the storm center.

Increasing numbers of scattered showers will prevail during the late hours of most June days. Total precipitation for the month of June is expected to be above normal. Normal precipitation for June is 2.65.

Muleshoe now stands below normal as this day of the year.

The year started off with a bang. In January an official 1.16 inches of moisture was recorded by R. J. Klumps Mule-

Bailey Soils Survey Complete

The Standard Soil Survey has been completed in Bailey County. This survey has cost less than ten cents per acre.

The Standard Soil Survey is made by a soil scientist trained by the Soil Conservation Service. He examined the soil by digging holes at frequent intervals and recording what he discovered on an aerial photograph. The information that he recorded is part of a national system whereby all the soils in the United States will be classified.

Factors used by the soil scientists in classification of Bailey County soils were surface texture, depth to parent material, permeability, slope, and amount of erosion. Other factors such as high lime and rock outcrops were recorded. In fact, everything that might be a factor to a farming operation was recorded.

Reports Available
A soil survey report is being written and will be published. It will include a complete soil map of Bailey County, and it will describe these soils in accordance with their characteristics and capabilities.

We hope that this report, which will be free to the public, will be useful in planning farm and ranch operations where the soil will be used within its capabilities and protected from erosion.

shoes weather observer. This was 64 above our normal January rainfall. In February an additional .74 was added to bring the total for the year to 1.90.

With the arrival of a very cold March dry conditions moved into Bailey and other West Texas counties. This dry condition has prevailed through March, April and May. Muleshoe dropped .40 behind in March, receiving only .25; lost 1.00 in April recording only .25, and has received only .03 so far in May. Total for the year stands at 2.43 opposed to the average for this time of 4.83. This puts us 2.40 down for the year.

In looking for the cause of our dry spring conditions we discover that repeated masses of dry air moving into our area has held the Bermuda High far to the southeast off us. This has kept our winds from a southwest and westerly direction.

Beginning in late May the Bermuda High is expected to take up a position over the southeastern states to as far west as East Texas. This will give the Bailey county area more southerly and southeasterly winds and insure a greater moisture supply. The Bermuda High is expected to hold this position for the duration of June and July.

On this basis June and July are both expected to produce heavy rainfall in West Texas.

Temperature for the coming week are figured to be:

Date	High	Low	Deviation from normal
Thurs.	86	58	-4
Fri.	90	62	0
Sat.	93	65	3
Sun.	96	68	6

Conservation Irrigation

Graded furrow irrigation with a uniform grade of 0.1 foot grade per 100 feet. This surface irrigation system will cause little or no erosion.

The water supply, the soil, the slope, and the crop to be irrigated determine the correct conservation irrigation system. Conservation irrigation makes possible irrigation without erosion damage or undue water loss, and it makes maximum use of rainfall.

Conservation irrigation can be established on your farm by the following steps:

1. Become familiar with the characteristics and capabilities of your soils.
2. Decide how to apply the water. The methods used to apply water must fit the type of land. They must also fit the crop needing irrigation. Finally, they must fit the water supply available.

3. Plan the distribution system. The farm irrigation distribution system must be designed to get enough water to all parts of the farm when needed.

4. Prepare the land. All fields must be prepared so that water can be applied with maximum efficiency. To accomplish this preparation, some land may need to be leveled.

5. Make efficient use of irrigation water. Adjust the size of irrigation streams so that they will not cause erosion but will apply just enough water to satisfy crop needs.

When you have considered all factors used in determining the correct methods of applying irrigation water, you can see that a conservation irrigation system requires careful attention, and it would be the most profitable system you could have on a farm.

Street Builds Farm Fish Pond

by Bob Crawford

M. C. Street, Jr., has constructed a farm pond this past year. It is located on a draw with range land for a watershed. A gully was forming on this draw so several diversion terraces were constructed to keep the water out of this gully so it could heal over. The water was diverted onto nearby sod and allowed to reach the pond slowly. These diversions will also help eliminate the silting problem.

In stocking farm ponds with fish first make sure that the pond is properly constructed. It should have varying depths from one or two feet to eight or ten feet. The edge of the pond should not be shallower than one to two feet at its low level to prevent growth of undesirable vegetation around the edges. The pond should be stocked with two or more kinds of fish. Sunfish should be stocked along with bass for food. Catfish and Sunfish can also be successfully stocked together.

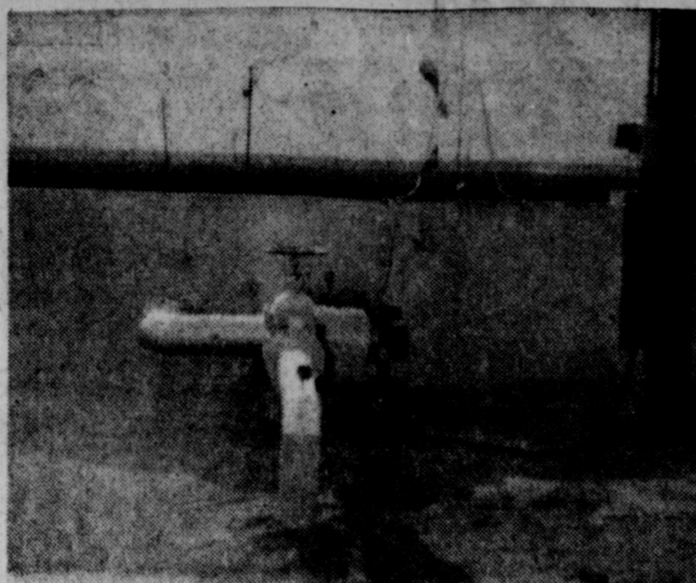

After stocking, the fish should be given from 6 months to a year to grow and reproduce, after that the pond should be fished regularly to keep down the population. Too little fishing is worse than heavy fishing because the small pond rapidly becomes overpopulated and the fish are small because of a limited food supply. Ponds should be fertilized with either commercial fertilizer or an organic fertilizer such as cotton seed meal.

Two applications should be made, one in the spring and another later on in the summer. Fish for stocking ponds can be obtained from the Texas Fish and Game Commission. The nearest hatchery is at Dundee, Texas. If fish are desired write "Superintendent, State Fish Hatchery, Dundee, Texas".

ROY WHITTS ANNOUNCE ADOPTION OF DAUGHTER

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Whitt are announcing the adoption of a daughter, Beth Ann. She was born May 19, 1960, and the Whitts brought her home May 23. She weighed 6 lbs., 6 ozs. at birth. The Whitts had adopted a boy, Rusty, in June, 1957.

E. N. Darsey Sprinkler System Is Of Entirely New Design

E. N. Darsey has installed a sprinkler system of entirely new design on his farm in the Longview community. The system consists of four small wells, low pressure underground pipeline, a surge tank, centrifugal pump, and high pressure line.

The water from all four small wells is carried to the surge tank through concrete or plastic pipe. From the tank, the water is forced into underground steel by a centrifugal pump. The surge tank is equipped with a float. In the event that one of the wells gives trouble and does not pump the expected amount of water, the centrifugal pump will automatically shut off when the water in the tank is lowered too much. As the other wells continue to pump, the water level rises and turns the centrifugal pump on again.

There are several advantages to this type of system. The difference in the cost of high pressure and low pressure lines used to bring the water to the middle of the farm resulted in a saving. Since the wells are pumping under low pressure (head) smaller motors can be used than would be necessary if pumping direct into high pressure lines.

The BIG SQUEEZE

... and the Little Woman

"Generally, you can feel it coming. You know what's happening to you. But you've got to earn a living. So you try to ignore it—hoping tomorrow will be easier.

"But tomorrow is tougher than yesterday—as yesterday was tougher than the day before. And when evening comes, you're in the Big Squeeze.

"All you can think about is what happened on the job during the day—and what will happen tomorrow. Things to be done. Not enough time to do them all.

"You rush for the train, the subway or the bus. You shouldn't rush. But you do. You rush going to work. You rush coming home.

"And what happens when you get home? Your wife tells you what happened during the day. The milkman was late. The kids had no milk for breakfast. Beef is higher. So she said to the butcher—and he said to her. And Millie called. And guess what.

"And here are some bills that just came in. The washer's on the blink. Maybe it blew a fuse. The finance company threatened to take your brother's car. Again. He wanted you to phone him. He thought maybe . . .

"You suddenly remember the story in this morning's paper. The husband who shot his wife and the kids!

"You want to get away. It's too much. You want to get out of the house. You want to love your wife, but the more she talks, the more she irritates you. You want to love the kids, but they get on your nerves, too. "Brother, you're suffering from the Big Squeeze.

"Don't worry. You don't need a psychiatrist. You won't do anything violent—beyond blowing your top if you wait too long.

"Now is the time to keep your big mouth shut, finish your dinner civilly, then grab your wife and say—'Honey, let's go to the movies!'

"The movies get you out of yourself, out of your house, away from all the many, the little, the pressing things that apply the Big Squeeze.

"You sit in the dark. In the wide dark. In the wide, cool dark. You look—and you relax. You're in a different world. The world, as you once saw it, is reborn. All women are beautiful. All men handsome. Things turn out right. Good triumphs. Once again you begin to see the amusing side of life. You laugh.

"And suddenly you realize you've escaped the Big Squeeze—just by going around the corner to your neighborhood theatre. You're in love with your wife—as you always were, but you forgot. You get home and the kids are asleep. The house is quiet. Something you saw in the movie queen, you realize, is what you once saw in your wife—and now see again. The day hasn't been so bad after all. "The Big Squeeze is gone!"

Special Service Is Held In Needmore

Needmore Rebekah Lodge No. 160 met in regular session Tuesday night, May 24. Noble Grand Ethel Lee Meason presided over the business meeting.

Tuesday night, May 31, Ruby Brashear, Lodge Deputy, will hold a school of instructions. All members are requested to be present.

Nomination of officers for the July through December term was held. Election is to be in June.

A special Memorial Service was held in memory of Johnnie House, who had served as president of the Rebekah Assembly in 1913-14, who passed away in her home in Ft. Worth after a brief illness on May 9. Funeral services were held in Ft. Worth on May 11.

She had been a resident of that city since she was 9 years old, and had served as treasurer of Tarrant County from 1936 to 1944. She had been a Rebekah for more than 60 years. The huge crowd attending services included the president of the Assembly and many past presidents and officers from all branches of the Order was a tribute to her memory.

The Needmore Charter was draped in her memory by the Memorial team. There were 14 members present.

NOW LOOK WHAT CORVAIR'S GONE AND DONE!

The same Corvaire that tallied a whopping 27.02 miles per gallon* in the Mobilgas Economy Run . . . went right on to climb Pikes Peak earlier in the spring than any car has ever tried!

We wanted to show you what the fabulous traction of Corvaire's rear-engine design and the sure-footedness of four-wheel independent suspension really mean. So the identical Economy Run car went right on to 14,110-foot Pikes Peak—and right up to the top of that savage mountain, on April 15, still deep in winter's snow and ice. No other car—even specially equipped—had ever been able to conquer that nightmare alpine road so early in the spring. But Corvaire (with United States Auto Club officials aboard to certify that not one nut or bolt was changed) purred right to the summit without chains or even snow tires! That just underscores the fact that Corvaire is totally unique. But you'll find that out the first five minutes you're at the wheel!

Alfalfa Does Things For Soil

Alfalfa field on the H. H. Brady Farm.

By J. K. ADAMS
More and more area farmers are reaching the conclusion that alfalfa does more to prevent wind and water erosion and correct high lime and low humus problems than any other crop they can grow.

Several years ago Bailey County had over ten thousand acres of alfalfa but many farmers plowed this best of soil builders under and failed to plant more alfalfa on different ground because the break in the drouth had caused a temporary break in alfalfa hay prices. The invasion from the western states of the spotted Alfalfa Aphid added to the discouragement and Bailey County ended up with a low of about four thousand acres of alfalfa in recent years.

Farmers are taking a second look into the possibilities of alfalfa as a money crop with the rise in hay prices and the introduction of Lahontan and Zia varieties of alfalfa that are resistant to the serious damage of the spotted alfalfa aphid. In taking this second look, farmers are looking over their shoulder at the tremendous increases in yields of grain sorghum and other crops on land that once produced from five to eight tons of alfalfa per season. They are adding this increase in farm income to prospective hay prices in deciding to give alfalfa another try in their crop rotation. Some farmers have reported a decided increase in yield for as long as ten years following alfalfa in their rotation.

It is not uncommon for grain sorghums to yield 1000 pounds more on land following alfalfa than the same kind of land will yield alongside the alfalfa land. If the ten year average increase was only 500 pounds per year this would make the alfalfa crop worth $75 per acre more to the farmer.

Local farmers are also learning that early control of insects to permit a heavy loading of early cotton along with proper use of fertilizer and irrigation will make possible high yields of cotton on land following alfalfa. One of the most practical ways to hold down excessive growth of cotton stalks on land following alfalfa is the shutting off of irrigation water about the middle of August.

About 15 years ago, Mr. W. T. Millen carried out a variety test on wheat grown on alfalfa land that had an Irish potato crop grown just preceding the wheat. Yields were so high that many people doubted that accurate yields were taken and properly converted to yields per acre.

To sum it up, alfalfa farming is more popular, not simply because of an upward trend in hay prices but because of the sound fundamental fact that alfalfa will increase yields and profits of following crops for many years to come. The Blackwater Valley Soil Conservation District anticipates more than normal usage of their alfalfa seeding equipment this coming fall.

Muleshoe Wildlife Refuge Is One Of A Chain In Central Flyway

Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge is one of a chain of refuges in the Central flyway. It was established in 1935 as a wintering area for migratory waterfowl and is administered by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service in the Department of the Interior. Although it is one of the smallest units in the national refuge system, it supports large populations of waterfowl during the winter months.

The first Waterfowl migrants usually appear during August and reach their peak, often exceeding 700,000 birds, by the end of December. Most of the ducks and geese have left the area by the first of April. Of the dozen species common to the area, the favored Mallard predominates. Over 5,000 acres of short grass, mesquite type, range lands are under a managed grazing program. Cattle are rotated among several grazing units to provide the best utilization of range grasses. Grain sorghums and wheat are grown on refuge farm lands for wildlife foods.

The refuge is located 20 miles south of Muleshoe on Highway 214. Visitors are welcome to travel refuge roads from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., and picnics and overnight camping are permitted in the recreation area.

ATTENTION!

The Muleshoe Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol meets each Monday night at 8:00 p.m., in the Junior high school building. Happ Durnell recently assumed duties as the new Commander.

Applications are now being taken for both Seniors and Cadets. All boys and girls from 14 years through 18 years of age are eligible for Cadet Training. If you like to fly and are interested in a new and interesting hobby, attend the meeting Monday night at 8:00 p.m., in the Junior high school building.

We are especially grateful to the many who gave food, flowers, and cards. We wish to thank, also, the many people whose visits in our home comforted us.

It was especially kind of the neighbors who worked in the hay and those who met relatives at Clovis.

Close Spaced Sorghums Prove Successful For Bert Mathis

Close-spaced grain sorghum is proving successful in the Blackwater Valley Soil Conservation District. Several hundred acres have been planted the past few years. In almost every case, yields were greater than on comparable acres of normal row sorghum.

H. B. (Bert) Mathis, 7 miles north of Muleshoe planted sorghum in 20 inch rows on dryland. His milo yielded an average of 1800 lbs. per acre. H. E. Schuster's dryland 20" milo yielded about 1600. Schuster's irrigated 20" row yielded over 5000 average.

It is important to remember the seeding rate to be used. If you normally plant 3 lbs. per acre in 40-inch rows, the same rate should be used when planting close-spaced rows. The increased yield is due to better distribution of plant population. This allows individual plants to make better use of soil moisture and nutrients. In addition to increased yield that can be expected, close spaced plantings shade the ground sooner than normal row plantings. This shading effect reduces evaporation losses from the soil. The shading also reduces competition from weeds.

Several ways to plant close spaced crops have been tried. Among the most successful are regular row plantings each and every beam between each and seed in a Planet, Jr. type box. Another way is to use a drill and stop up every other hoe.

The Sand Hills Philosopher Admits Latest Summit Meeting Flopped, But Asks Which One Succeeded

Editor's note: The Sand-hills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm sounds a little serious this week, but he'll get over it. Dear editor:
 One of my neighbors was feeling gloomy last week after the failure of the celebrated summit conference in Paris, the one that Khrushchev walked out on and wouldn't even shake hands with President Eisenhower at, which is not much of a secret weapon, if you ask me. I've known people who got mad at each other and wouldn't shake hands for years, sometimes they wouldn't even talk, although it's hard to imagine Khrushchev getting so mad he'd wind up in that condition. But what I started out to talk about was the gloomy feeling my neighbor had. I don't look at it that way. I mean, I've been reading about how the fate of the world rested on the success of this or that one, but what I'd like to ask is: has there ever been a successful one? Which one was it

We've had lots of summit meetings that didn't bust up like this last one, where everybody shook hands three or four times a day, turned on their smiles, had their pictures taken together, signed some agreements on the dotted line, but what happened? As far as I can tell, everybody went home and took up where he left off. What I mean is, I have never yet seen a signed piece of paper head off a war, and anybody who thinks the world is now closer to war than it would have been if Mr. Khrushchev had shaken hands with Mr. Eisenhower and they and Mr. McMillan and Mr. DeGaulle had all sat down and had a jolly good time signing agreements right and left, just ain't thinking back very far. All he has to do is think back to that famous picture of Prime Minister Chamberlain stepping out of the plane on his return from Berlin and waving a piece of paper Hitler had signed guaranteeing peace in our time, just before the outbreak of World War II. The failure of the summit meeting didn't bring the world closer to war. As best I can tell, the world has been fairly close to war ever since man first learned to throw a spear.

My neighbor ought to take heart. A summit meeting is sort of like a P-TA meeting. It's important, but something not as important as its participants imagine.

Yours faithfully,
 J. A.

Babson Discusses Why The Summit Conference Broke Up

Babson Park, Mass., May 26. It does not seem reasonable that the Summit Conference of the four largest world governments broke up suddenly in a turmoil without a cause. THE SPY INCIDENT
 Khrushchev must have known for a long time that we were flying spy planes over Russia and that it was a ruse of service. Surely it could not have been the real reason for the Summit Conference break-up. Something else must have happened to cause Khrushchev to give President Eisenhower an ultimatum and demand the abject apology which Khrushchev, of course, knew he would not get. It also was a general surprise when President Eisenhower indicated that the U-2 spying would be suspended, at least for the time being, though many interpret this as a final cancellation. Many rumors are flying in the various capital cities as to the reasons for the collapse of the Summit Conference and the calling off of the spying.

A REAL PROBABLE REASON
 When I was in Moscow a short time ago, I heard the United States bases discussed. The United States, it was said, was depending mainly upon these missile bases which surrounded the Russian empire. Furthermore, it was understood that in the event of the outbreak of World War III, these missile bases would be the first targets of attack; that is, Russia would first try to destroy these.

Also while in Russia I heard that the U. S. bombers were to be gradually withdrawn following the U. S. Defense Department's disagreement as to whether we should depend upon bombers or upon missiles and rockets. This may have been another "Eisenhower compromise." Also when in Russia, I heard much about rocketry and missilery. Rockets are necessary to perform stunts in space, such as going around the moon; but there are various types of missiles that are sufficient for fighting on land or water. They can be fired from East Germany to any city in the United States, or from any of our cities to Russia.

WHAT KHRUSHCHEV KNEW ABOUT BASES
 What may have made Khrushchev so ugly and insistent on an apology from Eisenhower is that he was just learning of these mobile bases. For instance, now most rocket bases are fixed. Eisenhower, however, was probably informed that the mobile rocket bases are a practical success. If this is true, the United States may have no further need of spies to discover rocket bases in Russia. Furthermore, the United States may be able to give up rocket bases in countries now surrounding Russia.

The land-based mobile rocket will work as follows: Instead of being on a fixed foundation, it will be on a heavy weighted car operating on heavy rails. This mobile base could be moved each night so that it would be constantly in a different location. Some nights it might be moved only twenty-five miles, other nights a hundred miles. Furthermore, at junction points it could be shifted to another railroad. Of course Russia will also adopt mobile bases, but she has no such railway systems as we have. This would make the work of both the United States and Russian spies more difficult and dangerous.

Other Possible Reasons For Khrushchev's Sudden Leaving Khrushchev probably had news from Moscow which caused him to destroy the meeting before it opened. It may have been some action of the Presidium directly after he left Moscow, or he may have felt that some other man was looking for his job and he had to be home to protect it. He may have heard that the younger element in Moscow is getting aroused, as in other countries, demanding reduced armament expenditures so that they may have more consumer goods. He may have been informed before the meeting that he would not get satisfactory action on Berlin.

Finally, Khrushchev must have been anxious to get home to speed work on his submarine fleet, as submarines will eventually take the place of all land bases, fixed or mobile. The Chinese Government, too, may have passed along threats to him which he could not ignote. At any rate, knowing he was blocked on all the most crucial subjects, he saw that it would be impossible to get any agreement on a reduction of armaments.

If we made Gladiola Flour for Kissimmee, Fla...

we could get by with lower quality

...but we make it for you!

We make just enough Gladiola Flour for our best neighbors—in Texas and a little bit beyond. These ladies are the best home bakers in the U.S.A.—and the sharpest judges of flour quality.

That works out fine for us. We know precisely what our customers want, and precisely how to make it. That's why snow-white Gladiola Flour outsells every other brand, every day, every year.

The women-folk in Kissimmee, Fla., just can't bake biscuits, cakes and pies like yours. They don't have Gladiola Flour. Only you and your neighbors can buy it. And, for the average family, it costs only about 1/2¢ a day more than the cheapest flour made.

CARD OF THANKS

It is with deep sincerity and humbleness that we want to try to express to the people of Bailey and Parmer counties and surrounding areas for the wonderful kindness shown to us in the going of our loved one.

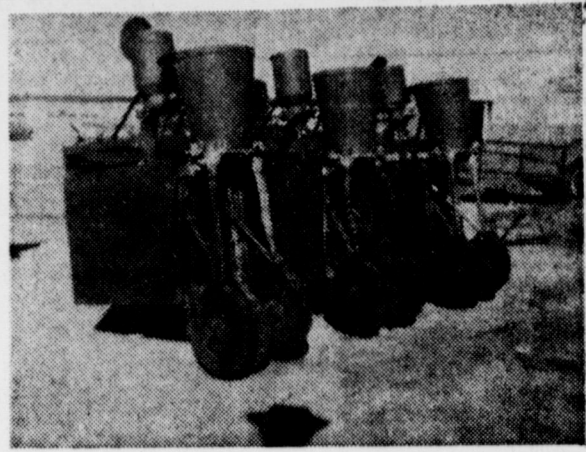

Things were made easier just by knowing that people care. Seems like to take something like this sometime to make a person realize just how wonderful people are. No where could anyone find such friends.

Thank you so very much. J. P. Harris, Sr. J. Roy Rosemary and children.

Maple News

We wish to express our sympathy to the loved one of Mr. Masten, who passed away last

The safest place in a lightning storm is your LOK-RIB Building

You enjoy peace of mind in stormy weather when you own a LOK-RIB Steel Building. It's all steel—it won't burn—and if lightning strikes, the easily grounded steel panels dissipate the charge. The extra strength of LOK-RIB's exclusive V-rib design gives you that same safe feeling when winds are high. The factory-engineered, mass-produced LOK-RIB Steel Building goes up easier and faster. There are no high framing costs. Every part is pre-punched and matched to fit. Four widths—24, 32, 40, and 48 feet. Call us for an estimate today.

Glover Studies Of Grass Grazing Rotation Method

This year clipping studies on Carl Bamert's Blackwell Switchgrass and C. L. Glover's Sidecuts grama showed that pastures which were rotated had the highest yields. These studies which simulated rotation grazing and were clipped to proper use height, outyielded plots which were grazed continuously to proper use height. The Switchgrass under a rotation grazing system yielded 16,260 lbs. of green forage per acre during the growing season while under continuous grazing it yielded 14,220 lbs. of green forage per acre. Glover's sidecuts under a simulated system of rotation grazing yielded 13,310 lbs. of green forage per acre. Sidecuts which were grazed continuously yielded 11,185 lbs. of green forage per acre. Under the simulated rotation grazing system the grass was allowed a four weeks rest period between grazings.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Snow bought a house in Muleshoe, and are going to make their home there. We wish them lots of luck in their new home.
