Red Dogs Chew Up Blue Ones

BY DALTON WOOD

It's a known fact that the Tahoka Bulldogs can play good football; they showed that against Slaton two weeks ago. It's also becoming common knowledge that if you really want to score against Tahoka, all you have to do is throw a pass, because the Bulldogs have shown nothing so far that resembles pass defense.

Coahoma's big Bulldogs, with 16 seniors on the varsity, were just too strong and experienced, especially in the line, for Tahoka's Bulldogs. Blue Dog fans who made the trip to Coahoma were disappointed to learn that the younger Tahoka players just couldn't move the Red Dogs on offense and couldn't get to the runners too often on defense.

The result was that Coahoma won the game 37-0, including touchdown passes of 58 and 49 yards and two more apparent TD bombs were called back because of penalties.

For much of the game, especially in the first half, Tahoka did pretty well on defense, until it came to pass, as the Bible says. Tahoka's offense couldn't get untracked at all, except for one drive in the first quarter when the Dogs put together three first downs. After that the Bulldogs could manage only one first down, on the second play of the fourth period, so Tahoka had just 71 yards total offense and four first downs in the entire game.

Offense Has Problems

Steve Pierce, Tahoka's top running back who almost always manages 100 yards or more per game, was limited to a minus 1 yard in the second half and wound up the game with 43 yards in 20 carries.

Tackle James Sanders kicked a 38-yard field goal to give Coahoma a 3-0 lead midway of the first period. Later in the quarter, Tahoka put on a good drive with Pierce gaining 17, 9 and 13 yards, but penalties stopped the Dogs and the ball went over on the Coahoma 29.

In the second period, Coahoma put on a long drive which carried to the Tahoka 11, where good defense by the Bulldogs stopped them, with Doug Lawson, Pierce and others doing good work. Tahoka punted out the Coahoma 42, and the home-towners then scored on a 58-yard pass play, QB John Swinney to end Jimmy Carruthers, who was so far behind any defenders they couldn't have reached him except through the long distance operator. It still was just 9-0, but after a Tahoka fumble, Coahoma moved 35 yards in three plays. Scott Mayhall scoring from the 7. Another Tahoka fumble was lost, and Coahoma scored again before the half on a 14-yard run by Richard Seals. Sanders kicked and it was 22-0 at halftime.

Swinney ran 12 for still another TD early in the third, and shortly afterward, Pierce was tackled in the end zone by Ronnie Musser for a safety to boost it to 30-0.

Tough Defense

Coahoma's swarming defense kept Tahoka in check for the rest of the game, and just for kicks, Swinney threw another scoring bomb, 49 yards, to Mayhall, who simply had sprinted past the defender to catch the ball going away.

EVERYBODY AGREES that sex sells products, but it somehow seems unreal that every advertisement you see for swimming pools, soap, diet drinks and clothing features people who look like Lynda Carter and Sylvester Stallone, instead of Jackie Gleason and Aunt Jemima, which is more like most of us look.

We see on TV people gulping pizza by the handful, chewing on Snickers or drinking beer like crazy, and they all still look trim and healthy. Naturally, the people who sell these things don't want to project an unhealthy, fat slob image, but that's what happens in real life if you eat and drink the way they'd like for you to.

LOOKING THROUGH the area newspapers which we receive, I learn that:

Two Sentenced For Burglary At O'Donnell

Two men received seven-year probation terms last Friday after pleading guilty before District Judge George Hansard of charges of burglary of a building, the Ince Oil Co. convenience store in O'Donnell, on Sept. 10.

Assessed the prison terms and also fined $1000 each were Omene Montano Jr., 25, of O'Donnell, and Daniel Leal, 20, of Wellman.

Sheila Williams, Rt. 4, Tahoka, reported her home a half mile south of New Home had been burglarized with items valued at a total of $1135 missing. Most of the items were later recovered in Lubbock, and no charges were filed.

The add-on heat pump is an efficient air conditioner that cools your home when it's hot. But that's not all.

In cold weather, the add-on heat pump works with your present furnace to help heat your home.

Replacing your air conditioner could actually save you money.

If your air conditioner breaks down, you have several choices. Repair. Replace. Buy a whole new system. All major investments. Southwestern Public Service Company would like you to know about another option, a more efficient alternative: the electric add-on heat pump. The add-on heat pump is a very special air conditioner. It cools in the summer and helps heat in the winter for less than you'd spend on a new heating and cooling system. It works with whatever kind of furnace you have, to improve the performance of your furnace by keeping it off completely during a good portion of the winter. It will satisfy your home's heating requirements more economically while temperatures are above 30°. That's about 80% of our area's normal heating season. As one of the most efficient ways to heat and cool, the add-on heat pump can really make a difference. Helping you use electricity efficiently is another way we're working to justify your trust. Call us to see what your savings could be.

City-County Library News

BY LENNIE COX

It seems good to be back at the library after being gone for two weeks because of illness.

We are still getting in a lot of new books for all ages. We now have practically all of the Trixie Belden series of books as well as about 30 other books for the children's room, including some award-winning Caldecott books. For the young people who like Judy Blume books, we have several of those now. For those of you who are interested in computers, we purchased some that would be suitable for people who are just learning something about them.

At our last library board meeting, we discussed having the story time for four and five year olds again on Wednesday mornings. It was suggested that we ask for a volunteer who would be willing to call some people who might consider telling the story just one time each. If you would like to volunteer for this project, please call the library, 998-4050, and we can supply you with a list of some good story tellers. We just need some for October, November, and December. In January of 1984 through May, our home economics teacher, Carolyn Virgin, has volunteered to make this a project for her students. Not only will they tell stories, but they will put on puppet shows and have other activities for the children.

Although we are not a member of the West Texas Library system now and will lose at least $1,000 in book money this next year, we can still get books for you from the ILL, so feel free to request any book that you might need and we will try our best to get it for you.

Baptists Set Revival

Tahoka First Baptist Church will hold revival services Sept. 25-29. Larry Ramsour, who grew up in Tahoka and graduated from Tahoka High School, will be the Evangelist. Larry's father, Lee Ramsour, was pastor of First Baptist Church from 1950 to 1953. Larry is now in full time evangelism and makes his home in Winnsboro, Texas. Ralph Gibson, Minister of Music at Paramount Baptist Church in Amarillo, will be in charge of the music for the services. Services will be at 11:45 a.m. with a covered dish luncheon; and 7:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday with regular scheduled services on Sunday. The revival choir and prayer meeting group will meet at 6:55 p.m. week nights.

The community is invited to attend any or all services. A nursery will be provided for each service.

Business seldom expands by magic; if usually grows because someone with brains is working.

You can never tell when a little careful driving will save your life on the highways.

WATER FACTS AND FANCIES

What is the fastest growing beverage in the United States? It's not beer, wine, or soft drinks, but water. With U.S. sales estimated to soar into a billion-dollar-a-year market by 1985, water is turning into a hot item.

Every living thing on Earth needs water to stay alive--every plant, animal, and human being. All the life processes from taking in food to getting rid of wastes require water. Man also needs it for his way of life--for cooking food, washing dishes, brushing teeth.

Water is so important to our well-being that doctors recommend adults drink eight glasses a day. Because it is so important for good health, more and more people prefer to drink bottled spring water or purified water dispensed by coin-operated vending machines located in hundreds of food markets across the country.

At home, water can be stored in glass or plastic containers. Plastic jugs are lighter and safer but some plastics impart a funny taste to water. Not so with containers made of a General Electric Company plastic--Lexan--resin. Water stored in jugs made of this tough plastic stays fresh-tasting for months.

The sport of skiing is said to have begun in Telemark, Norway about 1860.

A home computer can assist in keeping household records of checks, mailing addresses, telephone numbers, special days and appointments. It can also maintain an accurate inventory of household goods or the stamps in your collection. "But a computer will not make you a good record-keeper," says Bonnie Piernot, a family resource management specialist.

"Unless good household records are available, you will have nothing to put into the machine." The computer simply organizes, retrieves and presents the information you give it in a useful form. Poor record-keepers who are looking for a way to organize their lives might be better off learning to use a simpler paper and pencil system than investing in a computer, says the specialist.

Social Security
By BOOTH ROBBINS

Guaranteeing Social Security Benefits
The Social Security Amendments of 1983 were the result of a national dialogue that extended into the past decade. The provisions reflect an effort to reconcile Social Security to emerging changes in society and to assure that benefits will be paid when due under any circumstances. Two provisions included in the amendments deserve special note as examples of national determination that benefits will be paid. One is considered a "stabilizing" mechanism and the other, a "failsafe" mechanism. Both are designed to assure the payment of Social Security benefits on a timely basis under adverse economic conditions. The stabilizing mechanism provides that, beginning with the cost-of-living increase in January 1985, if the Social Security trust fund balance falls below 15 percent of estimated benefit payments for the coming year, the benefit increase for that year will be based on the lower of the increase in the cost-of-living or in average wages. This level increases to 20 percent beginning in 1989. When the trust fund balance reaches 32 percent of estimated annual outgo-benefits and administrative expenses—catch-up benefits will be paid to make up for any previous benefits that were less than the cost-of-living to the extent that funds are available. In recent years increases in wages have generally lagged behind increases in prices. Basing the annual benefit adjustment on the lower of the two assures a lesser impact on the trust funds. At the same time, recognizing that the cost-of-living for beneficiaries is more accurately reflected by increased prices for the goods and services they purchase, the law mandates catch-up benefits to the extent that funds become available. The failsafe mechanism includes several provisions designed to anticipate a sort of "worst-case" scenario in which poor performance by the Nation's economy would reduce income to the trust funds below that needed to pay benefits on time. The law authorizes borrowing money among the three of the Social Security trust funds to pay benefits as needed. The funds—Retirement, Survivors Insurance, Disability Insurance and Medicare Hospital Insurance are maintained separately each designed to support a specific program. This is not a new concept. In 1981, for the first time the Board of Trustees was given the authority to borrow between the trust funds without further Congressional action. The authority ended in December 1982. With the economy improving it is unlikely that we will ever need to use these measures. But the important point is that they exist as part of the law if they are ever needed. People who count on Social Security benefits as their primary source of income as well as workers who have worried about the payment of benefits in the distant future may take heart. Benefits will be paid on time under any foreseeable circumstances.

Teacher's Roles Are Varied

BETTY PYLE

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of articles on public education written by Betty Pyle, president of the Texas Classroom Teachers Association. This week's article details the duties and responsibilities of a teacher.

BY BETTY PYLE
President, Texas Classroom Teachers Association

When I am introduced to someone and that person asks me what I do for a living, I am proud to reply, "teacher." Occasionally, the next question is, "what do you teach?" followed by "what grade?" I answer, "earth and life science" and "junior high school." Simple answers to simple questions, and the discussion rarely goes beyond that point. However, for those who have not participated in the educational process from the perspective of a teacher, there may be little understanding of what is required of today's teachers beyond simply presenting the subject matter.

The roles performed by today's teachers are numerous and varied, but all play an integral part in the total learning process.

Teaching The Subject
The primary responsibility of all teachers is, of course, to impart their knowledge of the assigned subject matter to their students. In theory this is a relatively simple task, which in practice becomes much more difficult. The sharing of knowledge between teachers and students is complicated by human factors.

In order to impart knowledge, the teacher must first have a willing student. Motivation is a highly individualized process, and while one student may be reached through a genuine intellectual curiosity, another may be more concerned with remaining eligible to play football and participate in other extra-curricular activities. Determining how to reach and motivate each individual student becomes a major task for the teacher who may be responsible for teaching more than a hundred students in any given year.

A delicate balance must also be struck in the presentation of the subject matter to be taught. Maintaining the interest of the brightest students while not abandoning those who find learning more difficult requires great skill and creativity. Although the establishment of special programs in recent years, such as those for the gifted and talented or handicapped, has alleviated those problems to some extent, new related difficulties have arisen. For example, while placement of handicapped students into regular classrooms has helped these children to adjust to the world in which they will live, it has also required many teachers who have not been adequately trained in this area to learn to deal with the learning handicaps and emotional problems of the special children.

Unfortunately, the need to maintain discipline is present throughout the education process. A single misbehaving child can deprive a classroom of students of time which could be spent learning. The need for order to be maintained in the schools often results in additional non-academic duty for teachers, such as assuring orderly conduct in the halls before and after school and between classes, and monitoring students during the lunch period.

Occasionally parents seem to resent the disciplinary actions taken in the schools with regard to their children. Although school discipline is not without its flaws, parents should be aware that the role of disciplinarian is not sought by most educators; it is forced upon them as a necessity in maintaining an environment that allows students to learn. Supportive parents who make their children aware that they are expected to behave properly at home as well as at school make a great contribution to the education system.

Counselor/Friend
Concerned teachers who take an interest in their students as individuals are often faced with problems requiring the skills of a counselor and the compassion of a friend. When a bright child begins to exhibit the symptoms of emotional difficulty, the teacher has several options. If the student is sent to the principal's office, she may become even more rebellious, while scolding her before the class may simply aggravate the situation and prolong the disruption. Understanding the child may be having and tailoring the response to the student's personality and needs increase the chance for a successful resolution.

Liaison Role
Teachers share a primary goal with parents—that of assuring the best education possible for all students. Often the primary contact parents have with the school district is through the teachers of their children. The teacher's job can be made easier and more satisfying when a productive, mutually supportive relationship exists between the teacher and parents. If a child goes home complaining about the amount of homework assigned by a particular teacher, the parents can respond in several ways. If the parents sympathize with the child and allow these assignments to be ignored, the child loses respect for the teacher and the learning process becomes more difficult. A more positive response would be for the parents to contact the teacher and express their concern; there may be a good reason for the assignments which has not occurred to the parents.

Many problems can be resolved through open communication between parents and teachers. Parents should feel free to contact teachers and teachers to contact parents to discuss concerns and accomplishments. The attitudes of the parents are often reflected in their children's behavior at school, whether positive or negative. Since parents and teachers all share the desire for their children to receive the best education possible, the basis for productive communication and mutual effort is present and should be used to its fullest potential.

NEXT: The Merit Pay Issue

Letter to The Editor

The Tahoka High School Band would like to publicly thank the following people: Kent Elliot, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Isbell, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Coulston.

Friday, Sept. 16, the band was on its way to Coahoma for a football game. About five miles out of O'Donnell, one of the two buses broke down. The afore-mentioned people offered the use of their automobiles to take band members to Coahoma. As a result, the band arrived at Coahoma in plenty of time to change clothes and warm up before the game. Another bus was brought to Coahoma for the long trip home.

Without the concerned Bulldog supporters like these people, this town could not function as a unit. These people are a credit to Tahoka.

Sincerely,
THS Band

Project By NCCB Is Outlined

A three-year special project to identify ways to improve cotton yields and lower production costs was announced at the National Cotton Council Board of Directors.

In announcing the study, Tommy Funk, Harlingen, cotton producer and president of the Cotton Foundation, explained that cotton yields in the U.S. have not increased during the past 15 years. He pointed out that potential world markets for cotton are forecast to increase at 1.3 million bales per year compared with 1 million in recent years.

"If we are to take advantage of the potential growth, we must increase yields both to have an adequate supply and to be a low-cost producer," Funk said.

The study will be based on USDA research concerning the cotton plant's response to changes in production inputs under controlled growth conditions. During the three-year project, additional information will be put into the model. This will include data on weather, soil conditions, tillage, insects, insecticides, herbicides and other inputs, according to Funk.

"We expect that the most significant yield problems will be identified and the relative impact of each problem will be measured," he explained. "This will help guide what needs to be done next."

Team Leader Bert Kyle of Plains Cotton Cooperative, Lubbock, Tex., said the Philippine minister of finance is expected to request credit guarantees from the Commodity Credit Corporation for purchasing 60,000 bales of U.S. cotton.

Traveling with Kyle on two-week trade mission are Uwe Grobecker, Phoenix merchant; Eberhard Wulff, Memphis merchant; Bill Lovelady, Tornillo, Tex.; producer; Ed Deariso, USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service, Washington; and Frank Waddle and Roger Yu of CCI's Hong Kong office.

Farm Program Defended: National Cotton Council President Gerald Brewer of Fresno, Calif.,

commented this week that the government farm program appears to be working as it was intended to work -- "Providing help to the farmer when he needs it."

Lashing out at critics who complain that farm program costs are excessive, he said government outlays should be measured over a period of years and not just on the special conditions of the past two seasons.

What many critics fail to mention, he said, is that most price support loans -- usually included in so-called cost estimates -- are repaid with both interest and storage charges.

New Cotton Project Slated: Three corporate members of the Cotton Foundation have agreed to fund a special project aimed at identifying ways to improve cotton yields and lower production costs.

Foundation President Tommy Funk of Harlingen announced the three-year project at the National Cotton Council Board meeting in Lubbock. Financial backing for the project will be provided by Deere and Company, FMC Corporation, and Shell Chemical Company.

The study will be based on USDA research concerning the cotton plant's response to changes in production inputs under controlled growth conditions. Five USDA scientists and numerous other personnel will participate in the project. Completion of arrangements to develop crop management tool from research model will put total project funding above $500,000. Funk said.

Indonesia Cotton Use Increases: Despite the world wide recession, cotton use in Indonesia has been on a gradual uptrend during the last three years, a Cotton Council International trade team reports after completion of a four-day visit in that country.

Indonesian mill representatives indicated a keen interest in the GSM-102 credit guarantee program. However, fear of currency devaluation, limits on off-shore borrowing, and high cash reserve requirements have limited value and use of the program.

The team heard that the new Indonesian cabinet is more inclined to provide incentives to the textile industry than previous cabinets. Officials are developing plans to expand spinning capacity of government mills from 20 percent to 40 percent of total yarn production.

CCI is the overseas arm of the National Cotton Council.

Growers Will Meet Customers: Cotton growers from across the Cotton Belt and their customers from Far East countries accounting for more than 70 percent of U.S. Cotton exports will get a chance to get better acquainted Oct. 12-29.

Cotton Council International and USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service will sponsor a tour across the cotton area during that period.

A new feature of this year's program will be a series of meetings that will provide cotton producers and textile mill executives opportunities to exchange views on U.S. cotton. The goal is to further stimulate cotton exports to the fast developing Far East market.

The meetings are made possible through a grant to the Cotton Foundation by ICI Americas Inc. Taking part will be 29 executives from mills and textile organizations in Taiwan, the Philippines, Malaysia, Hong Kong, Republic of Korea, Thailand, Japan and Indonesia.

The complete itinerary is as follows: Washington, Oct. 12-15; Raleigh, Oct. 16-17; Memphis, Oct. 18-19; Greenwood, Miss., Oct. 20; Greenville, Miss., Oct. 21; New Orleans, Oct. 22-23; Dallas, Oct. 24; Lubbock, Oct. 25-26; Bakersfield, Oct. 27; Fresno, Oct. 28; and Los Angeles, Oct. 29.

PCA CELEBRATES 50TH ANNIVERSARY--James A. Rogers (left), president of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank in Austin, presents a plaque to Lubbock Production Credit Association Chairman Cleve Littlepage of Tahoka in honor of the association's 50th anniversary. The award came during the 1983 PCA Directors Conference held recently in San Antonio.

PCA Directors Attend Conference

Directors of the Lubbock Production Credit Assn. (PCA) joined approximately 160 other Farm Credit officials attending the 1983 PCA Directors Conference held recently in San Antonio.

Directors representing the association were Chairman Cleve Littlepage of Tahoka, Dewey Wells of Ralls, T.A. Elmore of Brownfield, Dalton Redman of Morton and Keith Young of Seagraves.

The purpose of the conference, held annually, is to update members of PCA boards of directors on matters concerning Farm Credit.

A highlight of the conference was presentation by J.A. Rogers, president of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Texas, of a commemorative plaque honoring the Production Credit Association's 50th anniversary.

The International Agricultural Exchange Association is looking for farmers, ranchers and agricultural families who might like to host a young man or woman from Australia or New Zealand to come and live with and work for them.

These young trainees are between 19 and 28 years of age and have very good experience in their field of agriculture. They arrive at the end of October and leave the beginning of May.

Upon arrival in Texas, they will attend agricultural seminars at Angelo State University in San Angelo before meeting their hosts.

Anyone interested in learning more of the international opportunities available through IAEA should call or write to I.A.E.A., 205 9th Ave. South, Great Falls, Montana 59405.

Sales Tax Rebates Told

State Comptroller Bob Bullock sent checks totaling $41.1 million in local sales tax payments to the 974 cities that levy the one-percent city sales tax.

"Last September, we were reporting the biggest allocation based on a single month's tax collections in the history of our state," Bullock said. "This month, with sales tax receipts running about one percent behind last year, shows us just how fast things can change."

September checks were for taxes collected on sales made in July and reported to the Comptroller by the end of August.
