Christmas Cards Need Full Address
A caution on Christmas card addressing was expressed by A. J. Gardner, assistant postmaster, this morning after the first batch of cards had arrived. He said many bore no street or box address if the workers have to look up the address delays and extra work result. He urged that everyone put full addresses on their cards and mail them early.

Cong. Mahon Visits In Muleshoe

Congressman George Mahon made his annual trip to Muleshoe Thursday November 17 to visit and talk with his constituents. Mahon met with approximately 20 local business and professional men at a Dutch luncheon at Leigon's Cafe and at 1:30 had a meeting with a group of local farmers in the County Courthouse.

No Wrecks Over Thanksgiving Holiday

According to Sheriff Doc Cements we can all be thankful that Bailey County didn't have one traffic accident on Thanksgiving day. The proposed expansion of the city limits will include most of the residences and industries benefiting from these services. There are few services the city can add to these other than water distribution, garbage collection, and sewer. True none of these are self supporting, but to some extent, they help pay their own way over a period of years. For this reason, very few persons have protested the proposed expansion. These few have explained special hardships to the city council. W. A. Finn, who operates a drive company which will be annexed, was the most vocal spokesman against annexation. Finn told the council that this was the first time in his life he had publicly opposed anything and was doing so now because he felt it was a move that needed to be opposed. Finn stated that it would not be profitable to the city to annex these areas. This argument was answered by council members who stated that the city was not out for profit. The city's duty is to give service to its residents. Council member, Vance Waggon, said that in his opinion the annexation would be good for Muleshoe eventually even if it did work a hardship on the city for a little while. This was borne out by a statement

Great indecision may not register in the face of Mike and Diane Hoybook as they attempt to select a Christmas Tree but you may be sure it is there. They, like many people, must decide on a big tree, little tree, fat tree, skinny tree, blue tree, pink tree, or silver tree. To confuse things more they even found some green trees. Both gave up indecisive and decided to look again next week.

Kids Are Lucky To Be Born In Bailey

(Special to the Journal)
NEW YORK, Nov. 28—From a health standpoint, the average child born in Bailey County this year of 1960 is luckier than he would have been if born 50, 25, or even 15 years ago. He can reasonably expect to survive the hazardous first year of life and attain the age of 69, even without the benefit of any further advances in medical research. Such was not the case in previous generations, when the toll in Bailey County is smaller than that in the United States generally, where it averages 27.1 per 1,000, in the West South Central States it is 30.7. In 1850, for example, about one-fourth of the newborn failed to reach their fifth birthday. By 1900, it was age 25 that the one-fourth failed to reach and by 1940, age 49. Now it is up to age 69. Facts and figures on the subject, covering every section of the country as of the beginning of last year, have just been released by the Children's Bureau of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The extent of the improvement in Bailey County is brought out in the official data which shows that the death rate locally among children under the age of one has dropped to 18.3 per 1,000, a fraction of what it once was. Net counted are stillbirths and deaths of non-residents. Only ten years earlier the local mortality rate amounted to 49.3 per 1,000. By way of comparison, the toll in Bailey County is smaller than that in the United States generally, where it averages 27.1 per 1,000, in the West South Central States it is 30.7. The Children's Bureau reports, after an examination of data published by the United Nations, that nine foreign countries still have records that are better than ours, despite our improvement. The leading nation is Sweden, with an infant mortality rate of 5.8 per 1,000 live births. Next in order are the Netherlands, 17.2; Australia and Norway, with 20.5 each; Switzerland, 22.2; the United Kingdom, 23.3; Denmark, 23.4; New Zealand, 23.4; and Finland, 23.5. Here it is 27.1. Throughout this country, great progress has been made in recent years in preserving life and improving the health of children in other age groups as well. At the pre-school ages, 1 to 4 years, the death rate has dropped to less than 92 per cent since 1910.

Brrrr, It's Gonna Get Cold This Week

by Vern Foltz
Muleshoe's 1960 December, which gets off to a mild start, is destined to bring some big-dig arctic temperatures beginning on December 10. There is a good chance that snow will accompany the December 10 invasion of cold air. If this is the case we may look for sub-zero readings around mid-December with the possibility of some record low figures. This cold spell will stretch on into the new year. If any one has outside work which must be done it would be worthwhile to get as much as the cold wave arrives. If you plan to plant trees or shrubs by Horace Blackburn who said, "a city that doesn't expand, doesn't grow, and this means death to the city." The City Planning Commission, composed of persons who have studied and are studying the development of Muleshoe, have recommended the expansion.

E. R. Hart Hardware Quits Business

Purchase of the E. R. Hart buildings running back about 75 feet will be removed. Mr. Higginbotham-Bartlett Co. is expected to be ready to release the building Dec. 21, and Mr. Mayo said the new store likely will be ready for business a week later. The Hart company fixtures were bought with the building. The E. R. Hart Company is one of the oldest firms in Bailey County, having been started here 47 years ago. However, the pump business will be continued under the E. R. Hart Company name. Higginbotham-Bartlett will now have a Main Street frontage for their store of 75 feet giving them a floor space of 10,000 square feet.

Great indecision may not register in the face of Mike and Diane Hoybook as they attempt to select a Christmas Tree but you may be sure it is there. do it before the tenth if possible. In the immediate 7-day forecast we look for continued mild weather for the first 6 days, but then turning colder Thursday. The Thursday cold spell may have some rain or snow showers accompanying it. There is a smaller chance of snow early Saturday morning, but it should not interfere with Santa's Christmas Parade thru downtown Muleshoe at 1 p.m. There is also a small chance for snow flurries late Monday night. December 17, 18, and 19 may produce considerably cold and frozen forms of precipitation. Prospects are real good for a white Christmas this year with some activity beginning late Christmas Eve and continuing Christmas Day. This year 1960 will come to an end with cold and snowy weather during most of December 30 and 31.

The City Council has studied the problem very carefully and is to be congratulated on their efforts to be fair. The protests have been weighed carefully and the date of the decision on annexation set forward to December 31.

Jeanne Garrett Guest Speaker For Recent Meeting

Miss Jeanne Garrett was guest speaker at a recent meeting of the Future Business Leaders of America when the Muleshoe High School Chapter met in Room 13 for the regular monthly program meeting.

Miss Garrett, who is a 1960 graduate of MHS and now employed as a secretary at the Chamber of Commerce, spoke persuasively to the group on the need for getting the most from the business courses pursued in high school. Said Miss Garrett, "Student, wake up! Prepare yourselves for future life. When you are employed by someone, they take for granted that you have the skill and knowledge for what you hired out for."

The speaker used such teenage expressions as "goofing off" to impress her listeners with the need to take their school work seriously.

In conclusion, she enumerated a number of points she considered to be helpful, among which was the following salient admonition, "Receive all knowledge you can, and learn not for a point or two, because the amount of knowledge you gain will determine your future status in life."

Following the program, the Chapter discussed the group of film on consumer education and family finance which were to be shown as a fund-raising project to pay their National and State dues.

Supervisors Award Goes To E. N. McCall

E. N. McCall, who was elected to the Blackwater Valley Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors in October, 1952, was chosen Outstanding Supervisor for the district for 1960 by a group of local bankers.

There are 240 districts in the state and each has chosen a man to represent them in an area competition. There are 5 areas from which an outstanding supervisor will be chosen. The five winners in this competition will then compete for the honor of being named outstanding supervisor in the state.

E. N. or "Shorty", as he is known by his friends and neighbors, seldom misses a meeting except for one or two nights at the peak of ginning season. "Shorty" manages a gin at Enoch, where he is widely known and respected by many farmers.

McCall owns 691 acres of land. Some 444 acres are in native range. All the range and is in good or excellent condition. About 3 1/2 years ago he built a graded diversion terrace to pick up water from a hillside and empty it in a wide, flat draw. He then installed a series of net wire diversions to slow, spread, and hold the water on the land longer. The grass in the draw was in poor to fair condition at time of installation. Now the draw is in good to excellent condition.

Another fine conservation practice was the installation of spreader terraces on a 69 acre dryland field. A diversion was built on the rangeland "upslope" from the field. This diversion not only picks up water from the range land, but also intercepts outside water from a neighboring unit. The water is then carried to a system of spreader terraces. The water is then spread over the cultivated land.

The remaining 177 acres of this land is dual purpose. Two small wells furnish enough water to sprinkle irrigate about 60 acres. The rest of the field is dry farmed.

"Shorty" practices proper range use and deferred grazing on his land. He has conservation cropping systems on cropland and manages his residues properly. He is a man who both preaches and practices good soil and water conservation practices.

Heritage Sessions Continuing

LUBBOCK—Dr. C. L. Kay, Vice-President in charge of Public Services, at Lubbock Christian College, will discuss "What's Right About America" at the Muleshoe High School student assembly Friday at 10:40 a.m.

This is the fourth lesson in the series of "Our American Heritage" and over 350 students and adults have been present for the past sessions. The general public is cordially invited to attend.

"What's Right About America" examines the basic economics of Capitalism as practiced in America under the guarantee of personal freedom. Freedom is equated to prosperity and productivity is shown to be the secret. The great superiority of the American Standard of living is contrasted with competitive systems.

It emphasizes the importance of incentive in relationship to savings, investment, production and general welfare. Emphasis will be given to public misconceptions of the distribution of profit by studying typical American companies and the distribution of their sales dollar.

The actual benefits of the profit system are contrasted with the false hopes and empty promises of "all systems of controlled secrecy."

Hunt Family Held Annual Gathering

The Hunt clan again gathered in Muleshoe at Thanksgiving, making the seventh year they have met here to transact business, and to visit with each other.

Arriving Thursday morning for the get together were: Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hunt and son, Larry, of Bennett, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hunt, also of Bennett; Clifton Hunt, Panama, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hunt, Douglas, Neb.; and the Hunts' sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Boscamp, of Mission, Texas. It's just about midway at Muleshoe between Mission and Nebraska.

The group had their Thanksgiving dinner at the Dinner Bell Cafe, enjoyed their reunion, and early Saturday morning had scattered for their respective homes. The Hunts own land west of Muleshoe. The Nebraska men said crops were the best ever in their section of that state, not so good this year at Muleshoe.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICE

The completeness and supremacy of God will be underscored at Christian Science church services this Sunday.

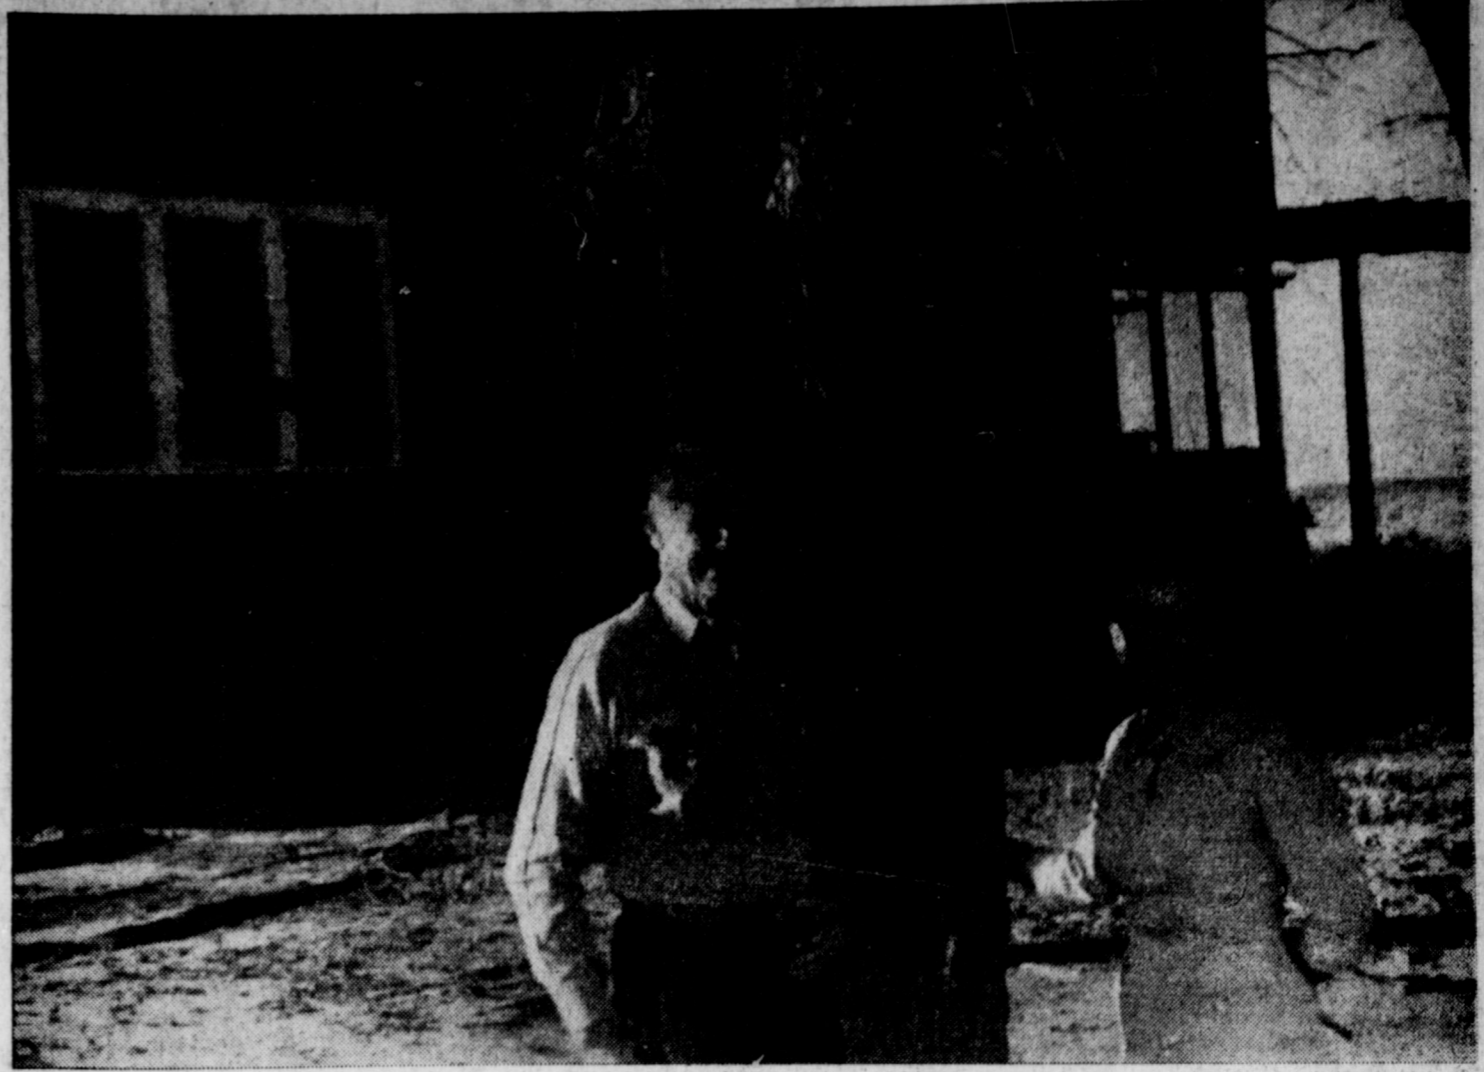

Highlighting the Lesson-Sermon "God the Only Cause and Creator" is the Golden Text from Psalms (146:5, 6): "Happy is he that hath the God of Jacob for his help, whose hope is in the Lord his God; which made heaven, and earth, the sea, and all that therein is: which keepeth truth forever."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy the following will be read: "All substance, intelligence, wisdom, being, immortality, cause, and effect belong to God" (275: 14-15).

Selections from the Bible will include: "Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honour and power: for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created." (Rev. 4:11).

Are Destroying Capitalism", and movies "Profit System", "Inside Cackle Corner", and "The Devil and John Q." A flannel presentation is also used on the "Secret of American Production."

In addition to the lectures, Lubbock Christian College presents to the schools two great documents — the Constitution of the United States of America and the Declaration of Independence. The replicas are beautifully framed and have been received with enthusiasm.

MR. AND MRS. McMURRY are pictured above standing outside their ranch home that was erected in

Johnny McMurtry Has Been Cowboy All His Life

by Cherry Hoybook

(Editor's note: Mr. and Mrs. Johnny McMurtry were hosts in their ranch home east of Muleshoe to Brents Davis and myself for pictures and an interview recently. Yours truly enjoyed the conversation and scenery so much, the invitation to come back again will be gratefully accepted in the near future.)

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny McMurtry live in a sprawling 21-room ranch house that was built in 1913. The furniture of that era is still being used with such things as an electric refrigerator, gas stove, TV set and a Hi-Fi set added.

The living room has a huge fireplace that is still used and enjoyed by the couple. The highlight of interest in the living room is the player piano that is still in good shape and plays well. A beautiful antique clock adorns the mantel.

The light fixtures in the house are half gas light and half electricity. After the gas light era, a Delco system was installed and then electricity came to the ranch.

Johnny McMurtry is 69 years of age and comes from a family of nine boys and three girls. He worked for a Land and Cattle Company until he bought his own ranch. He has been a cowboy and rancher all his life and has never wanted to be anything else.

He came to work for the Jaynes Ranch in 1917 and took over full management in 1940. He now looks after 12,614 acres of rangeland including his own ranch that adjoins the Jaynes Ranch. He owns another ranch in Carson and Armstrong County.

Of the original 50 or more cowboys employed at the Jaynes Ranch, there are only seven remaining. The cowboys meet annually at Roaring Springs for a reunion.

Mr. McMurtry married the former Ida Givens of Pampa in 1956. They ride horseback almost every day to oversee their many interests on the ranch. They do most of their eating in the cook house, and lead a very active and interesting life.

Mr. McMurtry has written several short stories. One of them has been published in the Cattleman's Magazine.

PROCLAMATION

HISTORICALLY, the cattle industry in Texas is older than Texas itself. In its unrecorded beginnings, the industry was born in the vast unbroken miles of one of the world's finest natural pastures.

ECONOMICALLY, the cattle industry has been a pace-setter for Texas, and continues to be a leading growth factor in the State's economy, constantly seeking new techniques for building an even more rewarding future for all our citizens.

THEREFORE, I, as Mayor of Muleshoe, do hereby designate the week of December 4-10, 1960 as

and urge appreciation and recognition from our citizens for the many continuing contributions of this great industry.

In official recognition whereof, I hereby affix my signature this 28th day of November, 1960.

MAN, THESE DRYERS ARE THE GREATEST! BUT WHY ARE THEY ALWAYS GAS?

ANY FAMILY MAN CAN ANSWER THAT ONE! GAS IS FASTER, SAFER AND COSTS LESS. WHAT ELSE?

there are good reasons why 97% OF ALL COMMERCIAL LAUNDRIES USE GAS CLOTHES DRYERS

Gas goes to work instantly, with no warm-up wait. Gas is faster by far, reducing drying time to a minimum. Its low heat, high air-flow principle makes short work of even difficult-to-dry shag rugs and bedspreads, yet is ever-so-gentle on even the daintiest synthetics. And gas for economy. A Gas Dryer operates for about 1/9th the cost of the other kind. When Gas drying rates first with those who know wouldn't it be best for your family, too?

These lakes were pumped direct onto crops in 1960. Centrifugal pumps, which fit the situation of low left, high volume, are used on these lakes. These pumps are relatively cheap to buy and very economical to operate.

To best prepare for lake water use the farmer should ditch water to the edge of the lake, a pit dug with dirt piled up above high water mark so that pump may be placed on this mound of dirt. Operation may be thus performed on dry-land base.

Lake water if left in the lake evaporates at the rate of 75 to 79 inches per year. Of course, some seepage occurs which eventually helps rechargers the Ogallala sands.

Lakes on farms are now regarded more highly than formerly. Some 170 recharge wells are in the High Plains. Silt is a major problem in these dual purpose wells.

However, for direct irrigation no cheaper water can be had than lake water. It is rich in top soil—marine life—is softer and warmer than well water. It is excellent irrigation water.

Naturally the best place for rainfall is in the soil itself, however, we get some quick rains in such volume that the soil will not take the water fast enough. As a result lakes fill. Organic matter on sloping soil will increase intake rate of water and accumulate less lake water.

But, if water does get in the lake, we can pump it on the land and salvage many lake bottoms for crops. So the lake can be an asset rather than a liability. If you have a lake

Use Lake Water This Winter

Recent rains filled many lakes. Moisture during October amounted to a very good pre-planting irrigation for next year in most of the High Plains. Less pre-planting irrigation water from wells will be needed next spring, as a result.

Many fields of wheat could be irrigated from lakes this winter. Many lakes will afford pre-planting irrigation. This should be done when crops are harvested, if the soil can take any more water. Soil should be wet at 6 foot depth for cotton or if soil is not this deep it should be wet entire depth. This will hold true for grain sorghum and wheat to some extent. We know the pre-planting irrigation is the most important one for all crops.

There are about 37,000 lakes on the High Plains. This is an average of 1 lake per section of land. On the average each year 1,000,000 acre/feet of water accumulate in these lakes. This year due to July and October rains there will be more water from about 2,000 of
