The City of Tahoka swimming pool, located on S. 8th St., is now open for swimmers and for the first time the pool operators are offering monthly or season passes which may be obtained at the pool.

Regular admission is $1 for adults and 75 cents for children under 12. The passes cost $20 per month or $50 per season for adults, and $15 monthly and $37.50 for children.

Operator Linda Spruiell said, however, that children under 12 are not admitted to the pool without parents unless they can demonstrate to a lifeguard that they can swim across the pool. WOODWORK

BY DALTON

IF I HAD ONLY written all this stuff a week earlier I could have had a free vacation, paid for by the farmers and business people of the South Plains. Possibly I could have had a really good one, like to Tahiti by private jet. But by now it may be so late that it doesn't matter.

What I am referring to is the rain, which everyone needed so badly about three weeks or so ago, but which we now have in over-abundance. It has just kept on raining, and farmers are desperate to get into the fields and plant; hopefully by the time this gets into print we will have had several dry days and they will have planted.

How could I have got a paid vacation? Well, for some reason, I'm not clear about, I seem to be the catalyst which caused all the rain. I already took one vacation this year, and when we left home about May 9, it was plenty dry in these parts. Before we got to Oklahoma City, it started raining on us. It rained on us for two weeks after that, almost every day, in Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio,

Michigan, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana. And nearly everywhere we went people would say how badly they needed the rain, and how welcome it was.

We called home once and mentioned that we were sick of being rained on, and someone on this end of the line said, "Bring some of that rain home with you--we need it."

So we did, and it started raining in earnest when we got home the fourth weekend in May and hasn't stopped since.

If I had just explained all that a week or so ago, I'm sure that people would have made up a big pot to send us out of the area for awhile, maybe to Arizona or Ceylon. Or they might have just got a big pot and put me in it. Or just run me out of town.

At church Sunday night we sang "Showers of Blessings." It seems like "Heavenly Sunshine" would have been more appropriate.

HEADLINE in the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal one day last week: "Helicopter Crash Kills Four; King Hussein Not On Board." Also not on board were President Reagan, Margaret Thatcher and Fidel Castro.

PIANIST VICTOR BORGE, one of my really favorite funny and talented people, once was asked if he played any other musical instruments.

"Well, yes," he replied. "I have another piano."

Read - Reno Engagement Announced

Vera Diane Read and Jerry Don Reno announce their engagement and approaching marriage. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Balfour Read of Prince Edward Island, Canada and Mr. and Mrs. D.S. Reno of Tahoka.

The couple plan a July 26 wedding at Summerside Christian Church in Summerside Prince Edward Island, Canada.

PROTECT YOURSELF FROM LIGHTNING--Lightning often is a companion of spring thunderstorms in Texas and can be a deadly force. Quick thinking combined with common sense can go a long way in preventing lightning fatalities when thunderstorms are on the prowl, says a safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. For protection from lightning, stay away from telephones, large fixtures and appliances while indoors. If outdoors, seek shelter in a building protected from lightning, a large steel-framed building or an automobile; don't touch metal objects; get off bicycles, horses, tractors or golf carts; avoid lone trees or taller trees in groves; don't huddle in groups; seek a low spot, such as a ravine or gully; avoid railroad tracks, beaches, piers or any open space; and don't go swimming or boating.

Two visitors to the cafeteria Saturday came in with a copy of the book and showed it to owner Maxine Paris, with the brief description on page 32.

Mrs. Paris said she had heard that the cafeteria was listed, but had not seen it before Saturday. She said people who compiled the book go into such places unannounced and rate them without telling the owners anything.

Only the lid with the steam gauge or indicator weight is needed.

OUTDOOR WORKERS NEED PRECAUTIONS AGAINST SUN People who work outdoors have one thing in common with sun bathers--a higher risk for developing skin cancer. "Farmers and ranchers, construction workers and others who work outdoors may not expose large areas of their skin to the sun, but the cumulative effect of the sun's rays just to the forearms, head and neck can add up over time," says health education specialist Dr. Mary Ann Huesner. She reminds outdoor workers to wear hats when in the sun. Dark, thick hair offers more protection than light or thin hair, but it's possible to get a scalp burn regardless of your hair type. Protective clothing is an important precaution, she says, along with putting a sunscreen on any exposed body parts such as the forearms, face and neck. Avoiding the midday sun when possible will also help workers stay away from the sun's strongest and most damaging ultraviolet rays.

MANAGE LAWNS TO CUT WATER BILL--Proper lawn management can keep summer water bills from skyrocketing, says a turfgrass specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Water bills can be reduced as much as 40 percent by watering, fertilizing and mowing lawns properly. Water only when grass starts to show signs of drought stress--discoloration, wilting and leaves rolling up in late afternoon. Soak the soil to a depth of 6 to 8 inches. Do not use nitrogen fertilizer during the summer as this will only make the lawn grow faster and use more water. Finally, mow less often and cut grass at taller heights.

IT'S TIME FOR CHICKEN BARBECUE--Chicken barbecue is an all-time favorite and the spring and summer seasons are ideal for polishing up the fine art of barbecuing, says a poultry marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. For great-tasting chicken barbecue, follow these steps: split birds in half and sprinkle generously with salt and pepper before placing on the pit, make sure coals are white-hot before barbecuing, use a basting sauce during cooking that contains no tomato or sugar product because such sauces burn easily, and apply finishing sauce during the last 20-30 minutes before cooking is complete.

OUT OF THE WOODS

By Juanell (Wood) Jones

RECENTLY we received in the mail an invitation to visit a resort near Ruidoso, N.M., with fabulous prizes and free lodging. When Gary and I get these "freebies" in the mail, we always look at each other, roll our eyes, say "no thanks" and pitch that "dude" in the trash can. We have a good reason for this.

Several years ago we got such an invitation to go to Pagosa Springs, Colorado for three days and two nights "free gratis", and all we had to do was listen to their sales pitch. "Well," we thought, "how long could it take for a sales pitch ... probably an hour at the most."

Well, folks, they intend for you to buy a piece of property there, or else. They must put their salesmen through an intense training camp, with sales techniques drilled by gestapo commanders. These guys wouldn't take no for an answer.

We were literally kidnapped for nearly four hours, driven all over the creation in a jeep by the most obnoxious salesman I have ever encountered before or since. At the time our son was only six months old, and I felt like our only hope was for him to throw a screaming fit (as babies sometimes do) so the guy would take us back to our hotel. No such luck, though. Wouldn't you know it, the only time you want your children to misbehave is when they behave like little angels... That silly baby slept through the entire bumpy ride.

Oh, it was a lovely place, all right, it was also an expensive place. We might could have paid off a piece of property by the time we were 92, if we could have planned a grocery budget of $10 a week. But this guy was persistent. He even had a sales agreement already filled out, where all we had to do was sign our names. He finally stopped the jeep, way out in the middle of nowhere, smiled, and said, "Let's talk about it some more." Gary and I groaned, and tried again to explain that we had no funds to "talk about", but to no avail. He simply grinned and started in on his next sales pitch.

Well, eventually we convinced this guy that we were just dirt poor and that not only could we not afford the property, but we lived in a old shack and had to walk five miles, uphill both ways, to work. (We didn't really tell him this, but that's how we felt). He took us back to our hotel and we drug ourselves up to our room, determining to never again accept "freebies". I still have nightmares about that salesman.

There's a lot more to this story, concerning my mother and this particular salesman (Mom and Dad had to listen to him, too), but I'm not one to "tell tales." Those of you who are interested can ask her... or Dad, who now laughs when he says, "I've never seen her that mad at anybody, not even me."

I'm sure (at least I hope) not all resort places are like this. But as for me, I'll just pay my way and spend my time (and money) as I please.

Waco Postal Employees Arrested

U.S. Postal Inspectors arrested five Waco area postal employees May 6, culminating a nine-month long investigation into the suspected sale of illegal drugs, including marijuana, cocaine, and methamphetamine, at the Waco main postal facility.

Complaints were filed against the five were filed on Monday, May 5, and Postal Inspectors obtained arrest warrants from U.S. Magistrate Dennis Greene.

Those arrested were: Vernon Clark, 38, Joe D. Rosas Jr., 29, Fred L. Smith, 40, and Rudy Torres, 30, all of Waco and Drury L. Singleton Jr., 29 of Ax-tell.

D.C. Strader, Postal Inspector in Charge of the Fort Worth Division, which handles the Waco area, said the arrests were an effort to eliminate the sale of illicit drugs in postal facilities. According to Strader, "The overwhelming number of postal employees are hard working, conscientious and law-abiding employees, and the sale of or illegal possession of drugs in post offices by a few people cannot be tolerated."

Coach Shaver Critically Ill In Hospital

A.D. Shaver, Tahoka High School athletic director and head football coach, remained in critical condition this week in Lubbock Methodist Hospital, two weeks after being taken to the hospital for treatment of spinal meningitis.

Friends who visited Shaver Tuesday said he remained in a partial coma, but there were hopeful signs that he might come out of the coma. It was noted that the illness was of the non-contagious variety.

Shaver has been head coach at Tahoka for several years and coached for many years at Seagraves.

Education consortium expects to help improve science, math education

COLLEGE STATION — Business, education and government leaders across the state have launched a new cooperative effort to improve mathematics and science education in Texas schools.

The Texas Alliance for Science and Math, a consortium modeled after similar alliances in Colorado and Minnesota, is expected to create a closer partnership between business, education and government through the sharing of ideas, resources and programs.

"This is a great step forward for public education in Texas," said Dr. Robert K. James, a Texas A&M University professor of educational curriculum and instruction and the director of the Center for Math and Science Education.

"Every youngster who comes out of school must deal with technology and its impact on their lives," he said, pointing to the need for increased awareness of technological developments among all students. "That subject matter needs to be offered in schools, and it's not now being offered."

State education leaders hope the work of the alliance will stimulate interest in science and technology among all levels of students, not just those who intend to pursue science-related careers. The alliance is also expected to address issues of public policy that affect science and math education and improve support systems for teachers.

The first wall paper was used by the poor and consisted of painted imitations of tapestry and velvet hangings that decorated walls in Europe during the 1500s.

Family Financial Stress And Children

Stress in a child may be hard to recognize because it often takes the form of misbehavior. But you should be aware that a family's financial problems - like other stresses - will affect children too.

However, child development experts tell us there are several ways to support a child who is stressed.

Listening is the first suggestion. Children's concerns are real to them. It may not seem to you that what they are describing is important or worth worrying about, but it is to them.

Children may have exaggerated fears that the loss of your job, a drop in farm income or some other family financial problem will mean they won't have anything to eat or they'll have to move right away.

Reassuring the child and sharing what positive steps the family is taking to deal with the problem can help reduce such fears. Letting the children help by making from-scratch cookies, clip coupons, save aluminum cans or other money-saving jobs will let them feel both helpful and important.

Allowing children to express their feelings is also an important way to help them deal with stress and to let them know it's "o.k." to worry. Adults can comfort children by telling them, in words or with a hug, that you appreciate their concern and that they don't have to bear their burdens all alone.

Sometimes it helps to read a story or make one up about a child in similar circumstances. This can also convey the sense that the child is not the only one who feels bad.

It's also very important to provide many opportunities for children to exercise vigorously, to play creatively, to work constructively, to feel needed, and to rest soundly.

A final suggestion is to maintain basic limit setting. This sends a message to the child that you are interested enough to care what he or she does - and that is crucial to the child's sense of security.

"To be seventy years young is sometimes far more cheerful and hopeful than to be forty years old."
Oliver Wendell Holmes

In Memory of Buster Todd

For what is it to die but to stand naked in the wind and to melt into the sun?
And what is it to cease breathing, but to free the breath from its restless tides, that it may rise and expand and seek God unencumbered?
Only when you drink from the river of silence shall you indeed sing.
And when you have reached the mountain top, then you shall begin to climb.
And when the earth shall claim your limbs, then shall you truly dance.

Devotional

By Rev. Hazel House

SCRIPTURE:
Luke 18:1-8;
Genesis 32:24-30

Jesus said: "Men ought always to pray and not to faint."

The widow in this parable of the unjust judge persisted in her demands for vindication; she did not give up, she did not faint, she kept on coming to the judge asking, until the unrighteous judge, who could care less about her problems, responded to her needs.

And Jacob — Jacob's reward for the night-long wrestling with God was a new name and a blessing. (Remember he was asking for the Lord's blessing and he received that plus a new name.)

Looking at these illustrations, we see no passive faith, but rather an active life-giving power which helps the desperate Christian to do more than just "hang on." Jacob's new name was

Israel, which is translated: "He who perseveres with God" and this interpretation would imply that with God even the improbable becomes possible.

How much more is God able to do for those who continue to pray in faith? And yet we hear the plaintive words of our Lord, "When the Son of Man comes, will He find such faith on earth?"

Paul's advice to Timothy was to be steady, to endure suffering, and to be urgent in season and out of season, in good mountain-top times and down in the dark valley times. We are to keep our faith actively alive by striving with God, not against Him. Such faith will prevail, and God's Will will persevere — His Will will be done.

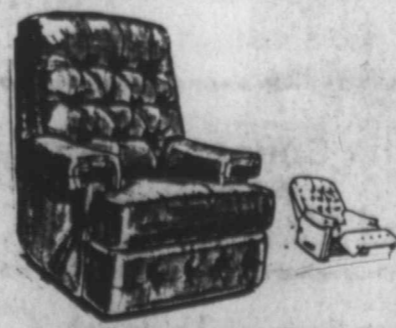

Jesus said, "When the Son of Man comes, will He find faith on the earth?" He was not referring to personal faith, but to belief in the whole body of revealed Truth; and this revealed truth is that there is only one Holy God; that Jesus Christ is the Divine Son of God, to reveal God as our Father, who loves us, so He sent Jesus to die on the cross that through His death for sin, we might be saved and that we, too, can have eternal life, as Jesus said to the disciples, "Where I go you cannot follow me now, but you shall follow me afterwards... I will come again and receive you unto myself; that where I am there you shall be also."

A Visit With Your County Agent

By Stanley Young

Dealing With Tomato Problems
Tomatoes are the Number One garden vegetable in Texas, but they also cause a lot of headaches for gardeners.

Stanley M. Young, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, reviews some of the common tomato problems, along with their causes and cures:

Young plants dying soon after planting. This is often the result of fertilizer burn or damping off disease. Thoroughly mix fertilizer into the soil and treat seed diseases. Avoid overwatering.

Stunted, yellowing plants. Low soil fertility, poor soil drainage, shallow or compacted soil, insects or diseases, and nematodes are among the causes. Fertilize and work the soil well and control insects and diseases.

Stunted, purple colored plants. Low temperature and a lack of phosphorous cause this problem. Plant at recommended times to avoid temperature damage and add phosphorous fertilizer.

Spots, molds and darkened areas on leaves and stems. These could be caused by many things. If a disease is present, identify it and spray or dust. If there is a chemical burn, use only the recommended chemical at the recommended rate. To avoid fertilizer burn, keep fertilizer off plant leaves.

Wilting plants. Common causes are dry soil, overly wet soil, nematodes and diseases. Cures include watering, providing good drainage, and controlling diseases and nematodes.

Weak, spindly plants. Check for too much shade, too much water, plants too thick or too much nitrogen.

Failure to set fruit. Temperature extremes, too much nitrogen, insects and cloudy weather are some of the culprits. Plant at the recommended time, control pests and avoid excess fertilization.

Tomato leaf curl. Heavy pruning in hot weather as well as insects or diseases cause this problem.

Blossom-end rot. Low soil calcium and too much as well as not enough moisture are causes. Add calcium-containing material, water regularly and improve drainage.

Misshapen tomatoes or catfacing. Cool weather during blooming is the usual cause, so avoid planting too early.

Abnormal leaves and growth. 2,4D weed killer and virus diseases could be at fault. Remove affected plants to prevent spreading diseases and use care with weed killers to avoid spray drift.

WINDBREAK TREES--Loretta Abbe, daughter of Robert and Reda Abbe of Wilson shows a Russian Olive tree which was planted as a windbreak at her home. The tree was purchased from Lynn County Soil and Water Conservation District in 1985.

Endurance Depends On More Than Muscles

Now that a healthy lifestyle has become a permanent way of life for many people, more and more people are depending on exercise to help them lose weight, stay in shape and even improve their self-image and mental health. Moderate exercise, of course, is recommended for people of all ages to help maintain good health.

A balanced diet is important to provide the basic energy and nutrients for those who exercise. Even with a good diet and a programmed approach to exercise, however, you may not be functioning to capacity, or have the endurance for which your body is fully capable.

A number of scientific research studies have been completed recently that indicate there is a direct relationship between your level of endurance and the level of vitamin E in your body. These studies basically point out the advantages of supplementation in order to attain "optimum" levels for the vitamin. Deficiencies are not often found in people, but there is a great deal of difference between an optimum level and a deficiency, especially where exercise is concerned.

During exercise, the body takes in and metabolizes oxygen at a greater rate than when at rest. That's good because the heart, lungs, muscles and other organs need more oxygen to function during exercise. But it also means that a tissue damaging process involving oxygen, called lipid peroxidation, takes place at a greater rate.

Lipids are basic components of cellular membranes. During lipid peroxidation lipids are damaged, injuring the cell. Vitamin E is known to interrupt the process of lipid peroxidation, thereby preventing damage to the cells during exercise.

Structures within the cell which are most easily damaged by lipid peroxidation are mitochondrial membranes. Mitochondria inside the cell extract energy from food and make it available to the cell for work. Because of this energy related function mitochondria are nicknamed the "powerhouses" of the body. Damaged mitochondria can't provide adequate energy for the cell to work.

Research conducted at University of California, Berkeley suggests that damaged mitochondria are a major cause of exercise fatigue. Additional studies indicate that there is an increased need for supplemental vitamin E during endurance training. It appears that vitamin E is used up by the working function of muscles during strenuous exercise. One study of exercising rats found clear evidence that vitamin E is depleted from both the liver and muscles during exercise. These facts lead to the conclusion that cell tissues are protected against the damaging process of lipid peroxidation during exercise by using up the body's vitamin E supply.

Scientists are continuing to explore the connection between exercise-induced tissue damage and fatigue and vitamin E. So far, the evidence points to a need for supplemental vitamin E in endurance exercise training such as swimming, jogging, and other aerobic exercises as a convenient way to reduce the damaging process of lipid peroxidation. To provide the maximum protective value from supplemental vitamin E during exercise, it is important to know that there is a difference between natural and synthetic vitamin E. It has been proven that natural source vitamin E is 36 percent more potent than the synthetic form. To tell the difference between natural source and synthetic, simply check the label on the bottle. Look for "d" in front of the words alpha tocopherol or alpha tocopheryl, which indicates it is natural source. If the label indicates a "dl", it is synthetic.

Tomatoes can be peeled more easily if they are first placed in boiling water for a minute, then plunged into cold water.

The deepest known depression in the surface of the earth--Marianas Trench--is nearly a mile deeper than the world's highest mountain, Everest, is high.

CLEANING, PRESERVING CEDAR FENCES, ROOFS--Cedar roofs and fences can be restored and preserved to give longer life, says a wood products specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The key is to start treatment before cedar has weathered for more than six years, particularly on roofs. First, thoroughly clean the cedar; bleaches work well. After the cedar has dried, treat it with a preservative--either a pigmented copper octoate in naphthenic oil or a pigmented, water soluble copper napthenate. The copper octoate in naphthenic oil is best for cedar roofs.

If you want to tint coconut, add a few drops of liquid food color to the coconut in a jar, and shake until it's evenly tinted.
