Three of the five women live in Lubbock. One, Mrs. Ina Floyd Slover, still lives in Tahoka. The others are Mary Wood Wilson of Slaton, Annette Weathers Gilson, Sybil Tarrance and Margaret Lam Fulton. All have kept in close contact through the years, according to a story by Jamie Stewart in the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal last Friday.

The story said, in part: Mrs. Gilson was salutatorian of the class. She recently underwent surgery, and was permitted to leave a Lubbock hospital to attend the reunion. She said a positive attitude has been an important part of her recovery.

Mrs. Gilson said she remembered the time that she and Mrs. Wilson had planned a double date with two boys from Slaton and the boys were late, claiming they had a flat tire. "It was my first date. My parents didn't let me date until I was 18," Mrs. Wilson said. "When the boys were late to pick us up, my parents wouldn't let me go. Mrs. Gilson went out with her date anyway."

Five 1926 Tahoka High Graduates Have Reunion

Five women who graduated from Tahoka High School in 1926 gathered in a Lubbock tea room May 24 to reminisce about how school was during those days when they were students. The five were members of the class of 15 seniors.

Three of the five women live in Lubbock. One, Mrs. Ina Floyd Slover, still lives in Tahoka. The others are Mary Wood Wilson of Slaton, Annette Weathers Gilson, Sybil Tarrance and Margaret Lam Fulton. All have kept in close contact through the years, according to a story by Jamie Stewart in the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal last Friday.

Mrs. Gilson and Mrs. Wilson were in Texas Tech their first year, and because the road to Tahoka was not paved, Mrs. Gilson said she didn't get to go home very often.

Mrs. Slover, described by the others as "the star of the team," talked of her days on the Tahoka High School girls basketball team. She said she enjoyed sports and also played volleyball and tennis. She also said she rode a horse to school, and that there was a place outside the school where the horse could get water and graze. She taught English in a one-room school in Gaines County. She has three children, four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. She now uses a walker, but said she tries to "live a little better each day."

Discussing getting older, Mrs. Wilson said she thinks all young people should spend some time with old people before they get old, so the young people can see what it's like. She said growing older "creeps up on you before you know it," and young people should be better prepared.

Two In County Work On National Agriculture Survey

Barbara White and Patsy Barnett of New Home will be working as field enumerators with the Texas Agricultural Statistics Service on a national agriculture survey starting June 1. They will travel over the county counting livestock and collecting data on crops, interviewing farmers and ranchers.

Information gathered on the confidential survey will be used to make state and national estimates of crop acres, livestock inventories and grain stocks, information they said is vitally important to producers in Lynn County.

"These estimates are a working tool farmers and ranches can use in their production, marketing and investment decisions and are the only unbiased information source available," said state statistician Dennis Findley.

The June agricultural survey is the largest of a series of surveys conducted throughout the year by the Texas office. The random sample of producers selected for the survey represent a cross-section of Texas agriculture.

"Our field enumerators will be putting in some long hours during the next two weeks," Findley said, "but their hard work is the only way to provide Texas producers with accurate, reliable agricultural information."

A STORY showed up on my desk, submitted for publication, about a Lubbock barber named Jake Goss, who started cutting hair when he was 10 and has been barbering for 56 years. Since Goss has no Tahoka connections (that I know of), I didn't use the story, but some of it did make interesting reading.

For example, he said he cut the hair of Buddy Holly and once cut the hair of Waylon Jennings. Goss told reporter Brian Mayes that Holly was very particular about his hairstyle, which he changed frequently. And he supposedly cut the hair of Jennings, although from what I have seen of old Waylon, he probably didn't cut it much.

Reading about Goss reminded me of haircuts I used to get when I was a kid (I really was a kid once, although most members of my family don't believe it). Haircuts were a quarter in those days (and school was a 10-mile walk through the snow, uphill both ways). The name of the barber in Newport (which straddles the Clay and Jack County lines) was Everett Cloer, and about the only thing I remember about him was that he had me convinced that if I didn't sit still he would cut my ears off. He'd tell me things like "I just swept up a couple of ears I cut off kids who moved at the wrong time." I was terrified, and I remember I sat as still as I could, although sitting still was not (and still is not) one of the things I do best.

Although lots of kids in those days, and some now, had their hair cut by their mom or dad, I don't remember ever getting mine cut by my parents. Later in life, shortly after getting married and not having enough money for haircuts, I remember letting my wife cut my hair with some clippers we bought. She did a pretty good job, but the clippers were cheap and after about five minutes they would get so hot they branded the back of my neck, making me one of the first of the West Texas rednecks.

When our son was in high school and college, haircuts were things only older, out-of-touch people got, so he only had a couple of haircuts a year, both at gunpoint.

I once knew a man at Sudan who got his hair cut every Friday, although he was in his 70s, and to me it looked like a waste of money. I seldom get my own hair cut these days, since I no longer have much hair, and besides I pull a lot of it out trying to keep the reading public happy while still doing my job of reporting what is happening.

Museum

Tours by the third and fourth grades of Wilson and the first grade of Tahoka were acknowledged by letters from the participating students. The letters were delightful and the various interests of the children were highly diversified. A few of the more brave boys touched the "radel" snake and their appreciation of the mural was obvious.

The meeting of the Tahoka Pioneer Museum Board of Directors was held May 21 at noon. The annual meeting of the members of the museum will be held Saturday, June 23, and plans for that were discussed. The terms of five members of the board of directors will expire and a nominating committee consisting of Mabel Gurley, Arlys Askew and Mary Louise Louder, was appointed to choose replacements or to re-appoint the necessary number of board members. Various committees were appointed to plan the annual meeting.

Members present were Meldon Leslie, Mabel Gurley, Lottie Jo Walker, Auda Norman, Mary Louise Louder, K.R. Durham, Bill Craig, Arlys Askew, Jim Solomon, and Mildred Abbe. Absent were Madeline Hegi, Weesie Carroll, James Roberts, Melvin Burks and Carl Reynolds.

School Controversy
Challenges Statement

One of two persons named as critics of Wilson School Supt. and Mrs. David Williams in last week's Lynn County News this week challenged part of the report made in last week's Wilson news section of the paper.

The report said that in an open meeting of the school board, the board heard criticism of the superintendent and his wife, "most of which dealt with the 1987-88 school year," by Randy Moczygamba and Gary Moore. Moczygamba said this week that the article was correct in that criticism was expressed, but said most of the statements were not necessarily related to the 1987-88 school year.

VISITORS AT THE MUSEUM - These three women are members of a group called the "Friends of the University Library/Southwest Collection" which visited the Tahoka Pioneer Museum last Thursday. The Lubbock-based group made the Tahoka museum part of their fifth annual spring trip when they departed from the Texas Tech Museum for a day of sight-seeing including stops in Lamesa, Waldrop's Well, the Dean Ranch, and the Tahoka Museum. Shown here, from left, are Irene Temple of Lubbock, Angela Faye Pope of Abernathy, and Ruth Rogers of Lubbock. The group included 34 people on the trip, who were welcomed to Tahoka by several members of the Museum board, who served as tour guides.

The elementary school held a Texas Day last Thursday. Students were served hot dogs and chips by the PTO. Each class was then responsible for some type of activity which included roping, washers, bandana tag, one-legged races, balloon bursts, and others. Each class was treated to a horse and buggy ride, also. The afternoon was a lot of fun and a good way to bring the school year to a close.

The Wilson Community Cookbooks are now available at $5 per copy. Copies can be purchased at the superintendent's office or from a PTO officer or by calling Donna Fields at 628-6318 or Nan Wied at 628-6576.

The 1990 seniors participated in commencement exercises last Saturday evening at the school auditorium. Sharon Isham played the processional, Michelle Mendez led the pledge, Ann Lowrie sang the special music and Cody Means gave the invocation. Salutatorian Melissa Hernandez and Valedictorian Robin Wheeler gave speeches and Judge J.Q. Warmick, a Federal Magistrate, gave the address. Several of the students received special awards and scholarships. Michelle Young gave the benediction and Rebecca Arellano, junior class president, led the candle lighting ceremony.

Five school employees received service pins at the graduation ceremony last Saturday. Ginger Swope received a 20 year pin, Vera Mendez, 15 years; Myrtle Stabeno, 10 years; Mary Angell and Darla Earwood, 5 years.

WHAT IS ABNORMAL METABOLISM?

Metabolism is a big word that refers to all the ways by which a particular substance, food for instance, is handled in your body. Once in a while, these processes do not work right, but in some cases the problem can be controlled by diet.

In this and others types of metabolism problems, special foods may be required or the patient may be required to stay away from certain foods. Of course, in addition to diet control a prescription may be necessary to help the condition.

ESEA Chapter 2 Meeting Set

All interested persons are invited to attend a meeting in the Tahoka High School library at 2 p.m. Friday, June 1, for input into the expenditures of Chapter 2 funds. Chapter 2 is a part of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act which had its beginning in 1965 as a function of Lyndon B. Johnson's "War on Poverty" and has been routinely amended and extended.

Locally, the Chapter 2 block grant is contracted with the Education Service Center in Lubbock for the purpose of staff-development in any of six targeted areas.

ANGER IS BA-A-D

New research into the link between "Type A" behavior (workaholic, in-a-hurry) and heart disease, suggests the real killer is anger, not impatience. "What is bad (for the heart) is if you have high levels of hostility and anger and show it when dealing with people," says Dr. Redford Williams of Duke Univ. Medical Center. Anger, distrust, and suspicion tend to provoke other illnesses as well. So, "lighten up Jack" - the good-natured, generous attitude promotes good health.
