Wilson Community Hosts Lone Rider...

English Woman Travelling Across America On Horseback

by BUSTER ABBE

When Emma Crosby of Cirencester, England sets out on an adventure, she knows just where she wants to go, how to get there and what the cost is, for she has planned and saved for each of the adventures she has experienced. The petite Englishwoman, who has a degree in graphic design and who earns her living by illustrating children's books, when she isn't off on one of her adventures, passed through Wilson last Wednesday on her way from Brunswick, Georgia to San Diego, California.

Normally that's not a strange occurrence, but what makes her visit through Wilson unusual is that she is making her trip alone and on horseback. Miss Crosby, who has been on the road for 108 days as of Aug. 31, including a short stopover in Marshall, Texas, estimates that she is about half way, or 1480 miles, to her goal of San Diego, after which she will return to Georgia by the same route, hoping to pass by this way again, in January or February.

Miss Crosby, who lives on a small three acre farm in England wrapped around a quaint old stone house built in the early 1800s, lives a very austere and simple lifestyle, preferring the adventure of travelling the quiet backroads of the world to the hustle and bustle of the modern urban world.

Her home is located on the outskirts of Cirencester, which is a town of about 15,000 people about 80 miles west of London. Even though the house is connected to electricity and running water, Miss Crosby cooks on a coal stove, and by her own choice, she has no television. She says she just doesn't have time for watching one.

Miss Crosby's family, which consists of her parents and three sisters and her twin brother, are all very supportive of her travels, which she calls adventures, even to the extent that she and her mother hitchhiked across Canada a few years ago. She has made several other trips, mentioning a tour of Australia and two other trips across the U.S. and Central America. One trip took her from Wyoming eastward to Cape Cod. Another began in Detroit, Michigan and wound up in the Central American country of Guatemala. This trip was made in a "beat-up old '69 Ford pickup" loaded with camping gear, provisions and a canoe.

Miss Crosby's current trip actually had two beginnings, the first being a trip to Marshall, Texas to pick up her horse and then the return to Georgia. She then began her actual trip across the south and the southwestern United States, back at Brunswick. The current trip is being made horseback on a beautiful, spirited little dapple grey mare named Smoking Spear, or Smokey for short. Smokey is a story all by herself, in that she was a wild Spanish mustang captured about 10 years ago out of the Nevada Badlands as part of one of the U.S. government's "Save a Horse" programs. Smokey will be returned to her previous owner in Marshall, Texas, at the end of the adventure.

When Emma got to Wilson, she was a visitor in a town where she knew only the names of a couple of people but not their address, because of one of her previous hosts calling ahead and finding a place for her to stay the night.

Most of the time, at night, she will pull off the road about a mile and just camp out since she carries a small tent with her. When she breaks camp and leaves the next morning, she will make sure that she leaves the spot so that no one will ever know she has been there, no tracks in or out. Currently, she is not carrying a bedroll, choosing to use the saddle blanket and saddle for a bed in the warm summer weather, but when she gets into the cold nights of the mountains and winter, she will contact the people she left her bedroll and jacket with and they will forward it to her.

When Miss Crosby does happen to be in a populated area at night, often times her previous hosts have called ahead and alerted someone that she is on her way and to be on the lookout for her. This way, maybe Smokey has barn or stable space for the night and Emma can visit with some of the local people.

When Miss Crosby got to Wilson, the David Wied family was there to welcome her, to take her into their home, and to provide hay, water and a covered pen for Smokey. After unpacking Smokey, and seeing that he had plenty of food and water, Miss Crosby was able to kick back and relax for a while.

Later on in the evening, Miss Crosby found herself at an impromptu and very informal get-together at the home of Donald and Carolyn Klaus. Here, she met a number of other Wilson residents, and after the introductions, the gathering turned into a question and answer discussion session, with Crosby asking and receiving answers to questions about the U.S., Texas, and Wilson.

Her hosts and the other guests, in turn, asked questions about her, her home, her thoughts about her trip, and her experiences during the trip.

Emma enthralled and enchanted the group with her stories told with a lilting English accent, answering questions not only with her words but also with her flashing eyes and infectious smile. She told of her love for reading and her habit of tearing out each page of her book after she completes it because it is now in the past and it also lightens her load. She made it very clear that the torn pages are properly disposed of and not just thrown away.

When asked if she had any fears or apprehensions about traveling alone in the U.S., due to all the negative media information about travelers as victims of violent crimes, she replied that she didn't have fears, but that she was careful about where she went. This is probably one reason she takes the back and rural roads.

When asked about what she carried with her in way of provisions, Miss Crosby said that she carried two cans of food, a bottle of gatorade, and jerky, when she could find it. She also carries three changes of clothing, and plenty of vet supplies and feed for smokey. She also carries a spiral notebook for a journal and has just recently purchased a tape recorder to help her keep her thoughts until she can transfer them to the journal.

Miss Crosby expressed delight in that she had recently passed through Crosby County and thought that it was important enough to mention to her parents in one of her many letters home to England.

Thursday dawned cloudy and misty-rainy and as the Englishwoman packed her packs and loaded them on Smokey and prepared to continue her journey westward, she was asked to go by the school, to visit with and talk to the elementary kids.

"Alligators and snakes I can handle," she said. "But I don't know about a bunch of kids."

After visiting the school, telling her story and listening to some of the kids trying to match or top her stories, it was finally time to move on, so that she could travel the 12 miles to New Home, and place herself under the care of John and Mary Bess Edwards.

As Emma Crosby and Smokey left Wilson, it seemed that Smokey was carrying a little heavier load out of town than she brought in and then after a few minutes I realized that she was. She was carrying a little bit of the wanderlust that each of us had put away, on one of the dusty shelves in the back of our minds along with Gene, Roy and Dale and "Happy Trails to You."

Bulldogs' Win Opener 30-0, Play Lorenzo Here Friday

By DALTON WOOD

The Tahoka Bulldogs may be out hustling donations to put in astroturf on Kelley Field this week after they played very well on their first-ever game on artificial turf at Odessa Saturday, downing the Fort Davis Indians 30-0.

The newest edition of Bulldog gridders appears to have come up with an offensive line that charges out hard on running plays and gives QB Wes Solomon more protection on passing plays than he is accustomed to, at least when the opposition is no stronger than Class A Fort Davis. Solomon hit on his first four passes and wound up with 8 completions in 13 throws, including one TD strike. He did have two interceptions.

Tahoka scored four touchdowns, and demonstrated that Gerold Cantu is a good placekicker, as he kicked all four extra points. The Dogs also got a safety in the first quarter when an Indian bit the dust in his own end zone.

At 8 p.m. Friday Tahoka will host Lorenzo in the first of four home games this season. The two teams apparently have never played each other, at least not since 1946, where the Lynn County News' records of full seasons starts. Last week Lorenzo lost 20-0 in the opener to Matador.

Tahoka 7th and 8th grade teams, originally scheduled to play here this week, will instead go to Lorenzo Thursday for a scrimmage against the Lorenzo teams. The junior varsity team also will play at Lorenzo Thursday. Action will start at 5 p.m.

Tahoka drove to a touchdown in the first period after Solomon intercepted a Fort Davis pass at the Bulldogs 49. The scoring drive featured good running by freshman tailback Steve Wiseman, who contributed one 13-yard gain, and an 11-yard pass from Solomon to end Chris Rodriguez. Fullback Mait Garcia scored the touchdown on a 1-yard plunge with 5:36 left and Cantu kicked the point.

Monty Hale recovered a Fort Davis fumble to stop the next Indian drive, and several plays later Tahoka got the safety.

Coach Tooter Draper alternated Wiseman and sophomore Dustin Burleson at the running back position and both did well, including some good running in the scoreless second quarter, when the offensive line, led by charging center Mike Rodriguez, opened some holes. But Tahoka's best chance to score in the second was lost when Solomon's pass was intercepted in the end zone.

Late in the half, Fort Davis went for it on fourth and short about midfield, and Hale came charging in to down running back Fernando Gomez for a loss and Tahoka took over. It was still 9-0 at halftime.

Tahoka defensive end Mike Castillon recovered an Indian fumble at the Fort Davis 28 and the Bulldogs scored again, with Wiseman doing all the damage and going the last 15 yards off the right side for the touchdown. Cantu's kick made it 16-0.

Starting at their own 7 after a good Fort Davis punt, the Bulldogs sprung Burleson on a 46-yard run before he was caught from behind, and then Solomon hit Chris Rodriguez for 20 and a first at the Indian 30. A couple of plays later he tossed a good strike to end Drew Stone in the end zone to finish up a 93-yard drive and make it 23-0 at the end of the third.

Solomon scored the final touchdown himself, going 7 yards with 7:01 left. After that, Fort Davis moved far downfield on penalties-Tahoka had three 15-yarders on four plays-but Stone intercepted a Fort Davis pass at the Tahoka 8 to put an end to that threat.

Tahoka had a lot of penalties, 14 for 125 yards, and turned the ball over four times, but also took the ball away from the Indians five times, and the defense, led by Hale, defensive back Clay Taylor, Castillon, linebacker Jesse Perez and defensive end Reggie Moore, held Fort Davis to just 23 net yards in the last half.

Burleson gained 110 yards in 14 carries and Wiseman had 98 in 17 carries. Matt Garcia, Chris Rodriguez and Edward Ramirez each caught two passes.

GOOD OPENING GAME-Gerold Cantu (53) and Monty Hale (34) were among a large group of Tahoka Bulldogs who played well in the opening game victory over Fort Davis Saturday. Cantu and the other offensive guard, Jesse Perez, blocked well and Cantu also was 4 for 4 in kicking extra points. Hale made several key defensive plays, including a fumble recovery.

Memorial Benches To Be Placed At Downtown Park In Tahoka

The Tahoka Downtown Park Committee is beginning the second phase of renovation for the Downtown Park on Main Street. With the historical murals completed, the landscaping phase is being initiated, with plans to install benches, planter benches, and decorative lights in the grassy area in front of the murals, in addition to shrubbery, flowers and landscaping trees. A grouping of benches and lights will be centered on a walkway crossing diagonally across the park.

Memorial contributions are being sought for this phase of the project. The benches, to be constructed of durable steel, will be made locally by Leighton Knox. Plans at this time include two 4' benches and two planter benches, which will include a place to plant flowers adjacent to the seating area. Two decorative five-globe pedestal lights are also planned for the area. Memorial plaques will be mounted on the benches and the lights designating each memorial. A contribution of $400 will purchase either type of bench, or a pedestal light for the park.

Members of the park committee, as well as the Tahoka High School Student Council, National Honor Society, and Tahoka Rotary Club, are planning a work day at the Downtown Park on Saturday, Sept. 17, to plant flowers and assist in other landscaping areas. The work will begin at 9 a.m., and anyone interested in helping is welcome to participate.

The committee hopes to have most of the work completed on the park by the end of September. To make a memorial contribution, contact any member of the park committee, including Amy Preston, Cal Huffaker, Barry Pittman, Juanell Jones, and Ray Box.

With Homecoming activities being planned, I thought it would be interesting to run stories from some of the classes that would be having their reunion this year.

'44 Commencement Exercises For Tahoka Class Tonight

48 Seniors Will Get Diplomas, Three In Armed Forces
Commencement exercises will be held in the Tahoka High School auditorium tonight, beginning at 8:30 o'clock, and diplomas will be awarded to 48 graduates, 23 boys and 25 girls.

Among the group will be three youths who are in the armed forces of the United States. Kenneth Carter, now in the Navy, and Maurice Smith, now in the Army, were each members of the Seniors class this year until called into service by the Selective Service board at end of the first semester this year. Both were granted furloughs to come home for the graduating exercises.

One young man, Doyle Manor, lacked just a few weeks of graduating with the class of 1934. He has received much educational training since he has been in the Army, far more than enough to entitle him a diploma along with the members of the 1944 Senior class. He is in the Army Air Corps.

Euella Dollins won the honor of delivering the valedictory address, and Clara Faye Nordyke will be salutatorian.

The commencement address will be delivered by Dr. Doyle D. Jackson of the Texas Technological College, and Truett Smith, president of the school board, will present the diplomas, Principal Leo Jackson certifying the list of graduates.

A trio composed of Patricia Hill, Dorothy Lee Carmack, and Mary Beth Fenton, members of the class, will sing "Come Where the Blue Bells Ring." Mrs. Marcus Edwards will be the piano accompanist.

On last Sunday evening, beginning at 8:30 o'clock, baccalaureate services were held in the auditorium, in the presence of a congregation that packed the building.

Mrs. Marcus Edwards played the prelude, and for the processional, the choir sang "Lead On O King Eternal."

The invocation was given by Garnie Atkisson, minister of the Church of Christ, and Rev. H.A. Nichols, pastor of the Methodist Church, read the Scripture selection.

After "Come Thou Almighty King," was rendered by the choir, Dr. J.M. Lewis, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Lubbock, delivered the baccalaureate sermon, which was a well-prepared and thought-provoking discourse.

After another hymn, Rev. A.C. Hardin of the Baptist Church pronounced the benediction, and "Onward, Christian Soldiers" was used as the recessional. Rev. Art Brown was music director and Mrs. Edwards was pianist throughout the program.

The class personnel is as follows:

New Study Supports Lumpectomy

A new study by the University of California reported in the Journal of the AMA, should assure women of the safe use of a lumpectomy as a breast cancer option. This was the first significant research to endorse the lumpectomy since the recent disclosure of fraud was announced. The new study found that women with lumpectomy surgery lived just as long as, and in some cases longer than, women who received mastectomies.

Lynn County Merchants Appreciate Your Business!

WHAT DOES IT TAKE TO CONVINCE YOU?

What does it take to convince you of anything? Flashy advertisements? Hands-on experience? Testimony from a friend? Most of us would like to think we are logical, maybe even hard to convince. We want to be shown tangible, measurable evidence. Our gullibility in some areas is contrasted by at least a desire to be discerning and very reasonable in others.

Let's say a friend of yours died. You saw him dead. Someone later tells you he is alive. How do you respond? The apostles were no different. They needed proof, even "many convincing proofs," that Jesus had been raised from the dead. Thomas wasn't the only one who needed to see, touch and feel the live body of Jesus. Jesus knew that need and filled it. For about a month and a half he appeared to them, instructed them, and ate with them. Eleven appearances are mentioned in scripture.

Those appearances made all the difference in the world! Trembling, fearful bystanders became triumphant, fearless proclaimers who staked their own lives on the claim that Jesus was alive. They were convinced!

We are convinced. We live today because He lives! Come and worship our Living Saviour with us. "And if Christ has not been raised, your faith is futile; you are still in your sins... But Christ has indeed been raised from the dead" (1 Corinthians 15:17, 20).

Wilson Rally Falls Short

The Wilson Mustangs lost a 31-28 opening game to Wellman at Wilson Friday night, but hope to avoid some of the errors when they go to

1994 WILSON VARSITY MUSTANGS

Whitharral this Friday night. The Panthers started with a 56-12 win over Southland.

Wilson's first touchdown was a 25-yard pass from Adam Castillo to Joe Hernandez, but Wellman had a big lead at halftime, and Wilson's two TDs in the fourth left them 3 points short.

The Wilson Fire Dept. responded to a request for help from the Tahoka Fire Dept. in fighting a house fire about a mile south and a mile east of the Gordon community. The house, which was apparently vacant, suffered extensive damage, and probably will be a total loss, since the fire went through the roof. Firemen were hampered in their efforts to control the blaze by the storm and related lightning strikes which passed through the area during the fire.

The Wilson Mustangs played the Wellman Wildcats last Friday and after a hard-fought ball game, the wildcats came out on top 31-28. The Mustangs travel to Whitharral this Friday night for their second game.

The Wilson Chamber of Commerce will meet Saturday, Sept. 10 at 9 a.m. in Jan's Piggery.

The Wilson Quarterback Club will meet Saturday morning at 9 a.m. at the school. They will probably meet in Coach Lane's classroom in the Jr. High building.

The Wilson Mustang Jr. High football season will open on Thursday, Sept. 8 when they take on the Whitharral Jr. High team. The game will be played at Wilson at 5 p.m.

All Wilson Jr. High and High School band members need to attend band practice every Tuesday, 6:30-8 p.m.

The Wilson Mustang Booster Club will meet Thursday, Sept. 8 in the cafeteria after the jr. high football game. Everyone is encouraged to join the booster club to support the Jr. High and High School youth. Dues are $10 per family and $5 per individual. The booster club will sell caps and cushions prior to each home game. They can be purchased at other time by contacting Arthur Castillo, the club's 2nd vice president.

Notice of Public Hearing on Tax Increase

The CITY OF TAHOKA will hold a public hearing on a proposal to increase total tax revenues from properties on the tax roll in 1993 by 8.74805 percent. Your individual taxes may increase at a greater or lesser rate or even decrease, depending on the change in the taxable value of your property in relation to the change in taxable value of all other property.

The public hearing will be held on September 12, 1994 at 7:00 p.m. at City Hall, 1612 Lockwood, Tahoka, Texas.

FOR the proposal: MIKE MENSCH TODD HENRY
WAYNE HUFFAKER JAY DEE HOUSE
RAY DON BOX

AGAINST the proposal:

PRESENT and not voting:

ABSENT:

The statement above shows the percentage increase the proposed rate represents over the EFFECTIVE tax rate that the unit published on August 4, 1994. The following table compares taxes on an average home in this taxing unit last year to taxes proposed on the average home this year. Again, your individual taxes may be higher or lower, depending on the taxable value of your property.

	Last Year	This Year
Average home value	$21,740.00	$21,740.00
General exemptions available (amount available on the average home, not including senior citizens' or disabled person's exemptions)	$0	$0
Average taxable value	$21,740.00	$21,740.00
Tax rate	0.54284 / $100	0.59284 / $100
Tax	$118.01	$128.88

Under this proposal taxes on the average home would INCREASE by $10.87 or 9.21081 percent compared with last year's taxes. Comparing tax rates without adjusting for changes in property value, the tax rate would INCREASE by 0.05000 per $100 of taxable value or 9.21081 percent compared to last year's tax rate. These tax rate figures are not adjusted for changes in the taxable value of property.

Out of the Woods

The wayward thoughts of Juanell (Wood) Jones

It all began innocently enough, with an idea of peace and solitude, and the anticipation of the sound of a stream trickling over stones, the swish of tall trees in a mountain breeze, waking up to the smell of the pines and cooking a hearty breakfast over a campfire in the cool morning air.

That was the idea, anyway. What actually transpired on the family camping trip to the Pecos wilderness of New Mexico was somewhat different.

The first thing you have to do on a camping trip, in case you've never had the pleasure, is to find a way to pack everything in the kitchen and workshop into your car ... plus an ice chest and a few of the holy-est clothes you have (with holes, that is, although the other is a not a bad idea, considering the fact that you'll be communing rather closely with nature, some of which can come in the shape of bears and such, and a little divine intervention jumps right up there to the top of your list).

We had planned on a leaving around 6 o'clock in the evening after getting off work at 5:00, giving us an hour to load everything in the car. Friends of ours drove by the house periodically to see how the loading was going, and some actually stopped to laugh at us, giving us such great encouragement as, "You'll never get all that stuff in your car ... you're not really taking all that are you?"

One friend finally took pity on us, and being a champion packer herself, stopped and took charge of the procedures (I think because we weren't actually packing anything into the car - we just kept bringing stuff outside and piling it on the driveway, in the hopes that it would all somehow magically shrink and fit itself into the trunk or the Big Mac on top of the car. That's what I call it, because it looks like the box a Big Mac comes in.)

Okay, so at 7:40 we were ready to roll, and we jump into the car, turn the key, and our automatic seatbelts come charging around the doorframe to get a choke-hold on our necks, and ... hey! The seatbelts are making this funny clicking noise. With a sick feeling, my husband and I turn our heads, to see that the clamps and webbing holding the Big Mac on top of the car is preventing the front seatbelts from finishing their rounds. Well, that's just great!

So, at 8:00 o'clock we're ready to roll again, after figuring out that if you just stick the clamp over a little lip on the edge of the door frame, threaten it in a loud voice, and shut the door really hard, it would hold the Big Mac up there just about slicker than snuff, and the seatbelts could still make their rounds.

The trip to New Mexico is relatively uneventful, and we stop overnight, reaching the little town of Pecos about 3 o'clock in the afternoon the next day. It's been overcast the entire day, but ever optimistic, we purchase firewood, steaks and bacon, and a fishing license for my husband, cramming the firewood onto the floorboard and any other extra available inch of space, and head further into the mountains to look for a good camping spot.

That's when it begins to rain. And rain. And thunder and lightning. And hail ... lots of little tiny hail piling up on the side of the roads and sliding down the mountain. And rain. We drove around for three hours in the rain, noting that all the camping spots were already full, preventing us from pitching the tent, had we had the insane desire to put the tent up during the monsoon season. Lest you think we were not entertained, I forgot to mention that my son and I, who were fortunate enough to be riding in the back seat, were highly entertained by holding cups up to the top of the doors with one hand while dodging a sack of kindling wood placed between us which had several lethal sticks jockeying for position to poke us in the ribs.

The cups were to catch a steady stream of water dripping into the car from the webbing of the Big Mac straps on top of the car. It was highly entertaining. After about two hours, it dawned on me that if we ate our Rice Krispie Treats, we could use the little plastic baggies I had them wrapped in to tape up on the doors and catch the water.

After three hours of nonstop rain, we gave it up and drove on to Santa Fe where we were able to purchase a hotel room for the night, even if it was Labor Day weekend and everything was full and we had to pay a week's salary for the privilege. We dripped in to the lobby wearing our hole-y camping clothes, and they treated us nice anyway.

We checked out the next day, however, when a different clerk was there, and she was one of the all-time unhelpful jerks who treated me like ... well, let's just say that I'm still forming the letter in my head that I plan to write to the hotel manager.

We looked at the dark blue clouds over the mountains where we thought we still might make one day of fishing and camping, but it still looked like it was raining, so we just came on home, where we, by golly, unpacked the camping gear and made us a campfire in the back yard and cooked our steaks.

We could hear the West Texas wind rustling the trees, and we had our lawn chairs gathered round the campfire, and we roasted marshmallows and made s'mores, and looked at the stars. Our friends, whom we had invited over to share the campfire since they were good enough to look after our dog while we were gone, said we should hang the garden hose over the fence and turn it on, and it would sound just like the Pecos River trickling over stones.

Our camping trip turned out to be three days of sitting in the car, which is not a choice camping location. We decided we would have been better off just sitting in the car in our driveway for three days, occasionally tossing money out the windows. It would have been much less stressful. But it was my idea, so I really can't blame anyone else, much as I'd like to.

My son said the only good idea I had during the whole weekend was taping the little plastic baggies to the car door to catch the rain dripping in. I guess I'd have to agree.
