Lazbuddie soybean operation expands into Muleshoe

By Larry Thornton Managing Editor

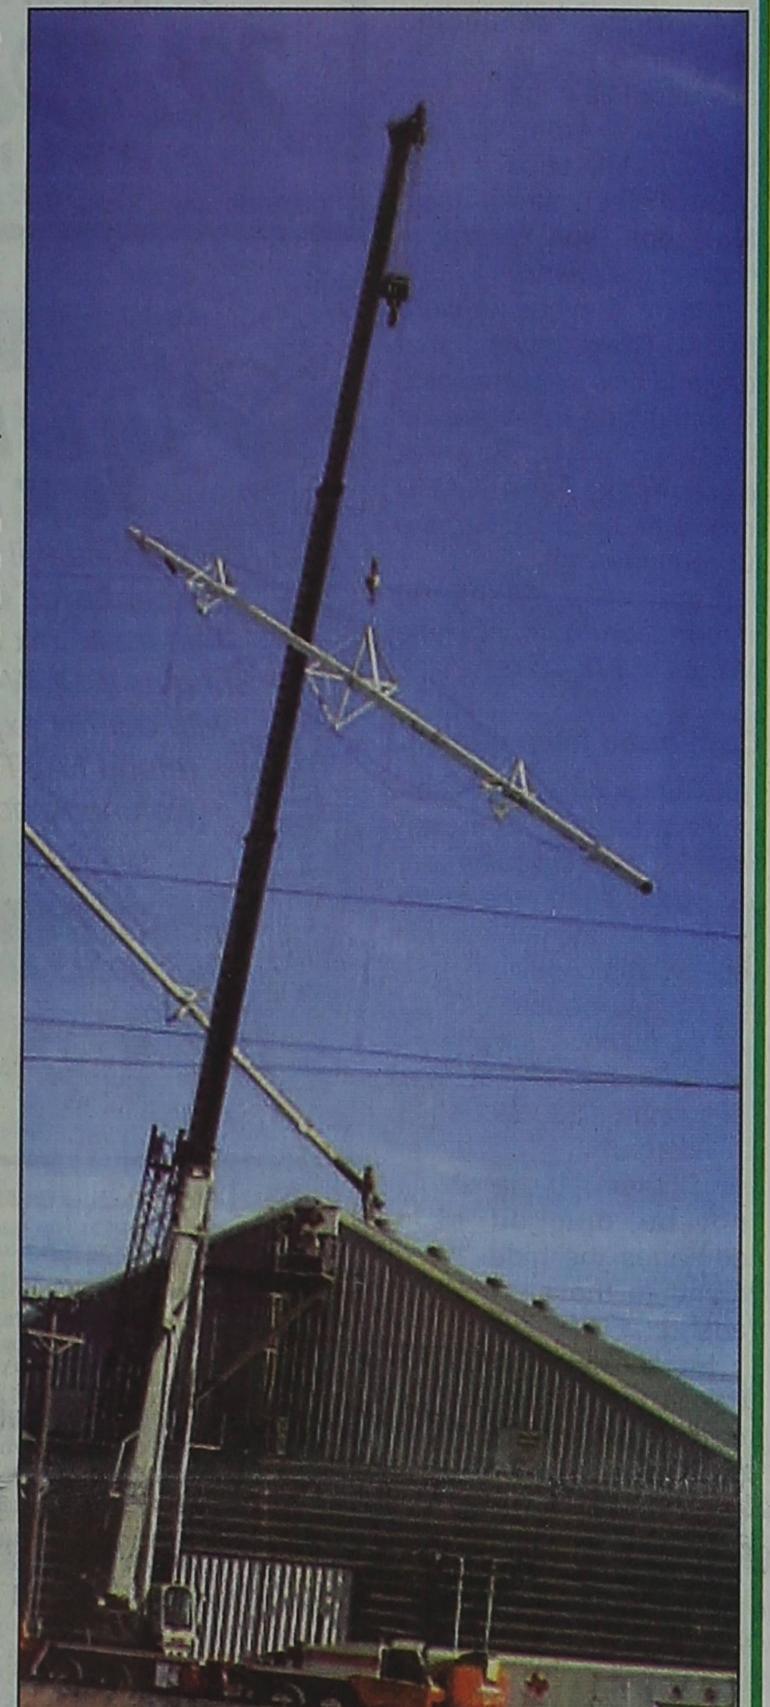

Located on the north side of the tracks in Muleshoe, Def Smith County Grain has recently been updating its equipment.

Originating in Hereford about 30 years ago, Def Smith County Grain which is owned by Cliff Skiles of Hereford — has been operating its main elevator at Lazbuddie for several years.

When it became necessary to expand its soybean processing operation a couple of years ago, the company purchased the elevators at the former Texas Sesame elevators across the tracks from Leal's and Pizza Hut in Muleshoe.

Although the company - which has about 15 employees — contracts with local soy bean producers, it also dehulls and processes soybeans for other companies.

Recently, the Def Smith CountyGrain Company has been updating its equipment at it's facilities.

"The two big factors are the money and your needs."

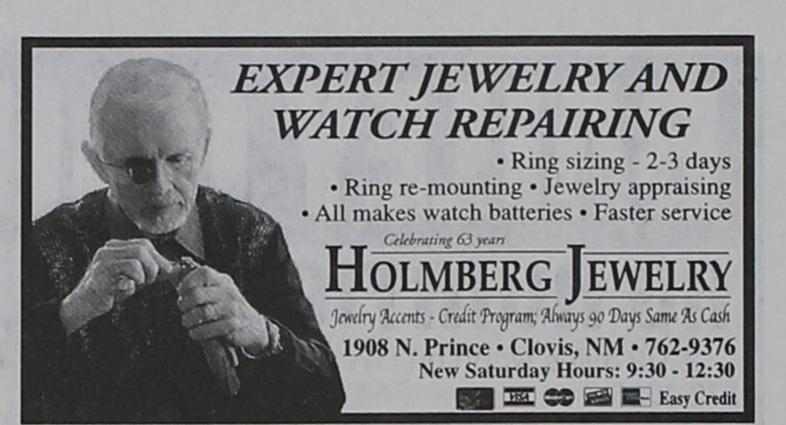

Pacheco pointed out that it would cost the school district a lot more to fix the problems at a later date. "A sickness that isn't cured can come back and get you," she said.

However, not all of the voices speaking at Thursday's meeting supported the drastic changes called for by some within the school district.

Ed Alvarado spoke out against the replacement of the district's buildings and suggested that while old, the structures are still useable. "Part of me seems to say everything is okay the way it is."

During the initial meeting, the committee members elected Bob Finney as committee president. At future dates, the committee will be meeting with the school district's architects and financial advisors.

The committee's next meeting is scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 2, at 6 p.m.

Legacy of Love Hospice

Giving Care... Bringing Hope... Sharing Love!

My first personal glimpse of the power of finding the right resource to meet health care needs came in 1990 when my aging father went on a trip to Seattle and came back almost unable to walk because of aggravating the arthritis in his spine. We got him into a physical therapy water program, where he improved, and five years later was able to go on a trip to Alaska. This led me into home health and eventually into hospice. I have spent most of my career as a registered nurse working to help seniors find the resources which offer the best quality of life.

Suzy Brown and I opened Legacy of Love Hospice so that we could offer hospice care that we could be proud of to our neighbors. To help the community better understand hospice as a health care resource, I will write a short article each week addressing how to get the most benefit from this resource.

#1 What is Hospice?

By Wiley Haydon

Hospice is a very special kind of care designed to help patients facing a lifelimiting illness to enjoy the best quality of life possible, and support for families. This is done through the provision of compassionate care, such as: nurses, nurse aides, homemakers, social worker, bereavement support, chaplain, volunteers, dietician, physical therapy, respite care, medical equipment and hospice medications. This care not only may improve quality of life, but can help conserve family resources.

Medicare views life limiting as having a life expectancy of less than 6 months if your disease runs its normal course. The word makes people hospice some uncomfortable. They fear that choosing hospice means you are giving up hope and will die faster. In my experience the opposite is true. Hospice staff is trained to help control debilitating symptoms such as pain or anxiety. So from a practical stand point, resources like oxygen packs, social support and good symptom management help to promote the best quality of life possible for as long as possible.

If you would like a copy of the article "20 Commonly Asked Questions" or would like more information please call Wiley Haydon, RN at 806-385-9329 or toll free 866-645-4228.

Wiley is also available to speak to church or civic organizations on topics such as shut-in ministry, access to health care resources and dealing with grief.

"This Grace Stuff Sounds Too Good To Be True!"

If mortals like us were big enough, strong enough, wise enough to reach up into the night sky with a paper cup and scoop up a drink of the Milky Way's liquid light, maybe we'd be big enough, strong enough, wise enough to catch with our minds some idea of the enormity of the sacrifice God's Son made to leave the right hand of the Father and to bear on his own now-human shoulders all the sin and guilt of the world.

Small as we are, we can barely begin to catch a glimpse of what Christ has done for mankind, but even a glimpse should be enough to make us fall at his feet and worship.

It did Paul. In one blinding instant on the Damascas Road his passion for the Law became a passion for the Savior. Paul's message became the cross and the gospel of God's grace. But it was often met with mistrustexactly as it is today.

"Paul, this grace stuff sounds too good to be true. I'll get my salvation the old-fashioned way: I'll earn it." But Paul replies, "You'll never get it that way. And the pride that would cause you to think you ever could is absolutely deadly to your soul. Earn it? Never!"

"For it is by grace you have been saved, through faith-and this not from yourselves, it is the gift of God-not by works, so that no one can boast."

"But, Paul, preaching this grace stuff is dangerous business. Why, once people hear about THIS deal, they'll just sin and sin and sin some more!"

But Paul has already asked the same question: "What shall we say then? Shall we go on sinning so that grace may increase? By no means! We died to sin; how can we live in it any longer? Count yourselves dead to sin but alive to God in Christ Jesus. For sin shall not be your master, because you are not under law, but under grace."

"But, Paul, won't you let me cast the spotlight on my own works for just a moment?" No, not even for a moment because the time we spend centered on ourselves and our puny attempts at do-it-yourself righteousness is time we ought to spend focused on the only One who can ever make us truly righteous.

"No one will be declared righteous in His sight by observing the law. . . . But now a righteousness from God, apart from law, has been made known. . . . This righteousness from God comes through faith in Jesus Christ to all who believe. There is no difference, for all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God, and are justified freely by his grace through the redemption that came by Christ Jesus. Where, then, is boasting? It is excluded. . . . For we maintain that a man is justified by faith apart from observing the law."

And that is the message of the gospel. That is good news. And we can accept that good news, if we're willing to lay down the pride that is humanity's cancer, open our hands, and receive what God would give us but what we can never even begin to earn.

Focus on law and the end result is despair and death. Focus on the Savior and the end result is life and joy and hope.

May that Good News be ever on our lips and may its joy fill every corner of our lives! Curtis Shelburne is minister of the 16th & D Church of Christ in Muleshoe.

Mules defeat Littlefield third time this year

The Mules used a big first period in Littlefield Tuesday night to disprove the old basketball adage that states it is almost impossible to defeat a team three times in a single season. The Mules had defeated the Wildcats twice before Christmas in area tournaments.

The Job of a Lifetime!

Taking care of your teeth is a life-long job. It takes a lifetime of good habits to keep your teeth healthy and bright.

You know that you need to brush and floss, but do you know that what you eat is important too? A balanced diet will keep you healthy. That alone should give you reason to smile. It is especially important to remember that foods from the dairy group will give you calcium needed for strong bones and teeth. Junk food snacks taste good, but they do little to keep you in good health. In fact, sticky, sugary treats will cling to your teeth unless you think, stop and brush your teeth. There are also many foods with sugar "hidden" in them. The peanut butter, ketchup, canned foods, presweetened cereals, jams and ice cream you buy may have a lot more sugar in them than you think.

Check the labels for these sugars: corn syrup, honey, sucrose and brown sugar. Try to brush after eating sugary foods or, even better, choose snacks from this list: -

- Fresh fruit
- Pickles
- Popcorn or Rice cakes
- Nuts or seeds
- Juice (may have a lot of sugar, but is better for you than soda)
- Soup or broth
- Cheese cubes
