DPS Stresses Time Element On Inspection

Austin--The director of the Texas Department of Public Safety reminded motorists today that only six weeks remain before enforcement begins on the 1967 vehicle inspection stickers.

Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., DPS Director, said "the law allows for no extension of the April 15 deadline," and urged drivers to have their vehicles inspected before the last minute lines begin forming.

Garrison pointed out that some two and one-quarter million vehicles in Texas remain to be inspected in order to comply with state law. This amounts to approximately 14 for each of the 5,500 official inspection stations.

"Undoubtedly," Garrison stated, "many motorists will see DPS on Page 6

GRAND PRIZE AND FIRST PLACE—John Gunter III, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gunter, won the grand prize and also the first place ribbon for the fourth graders in the Mary DeShazo Science Fair held at the elementary school Tuesday night. ## Survey Phase 70% Complete

The first phase of the industrial survey presently being conducted in Muleshoe by the Industrial Economics Research Division is approximately 70 percent complete. The survey is being sponsored by the Muleshoe Area Industrial Foundation.

The first phase consists of the preparation of an Industrial Facts Book.

Jim Bradley and Perry J. Shepard will be back in Muleshoe the week of March 13. In addition to gathering information for the facts book and visiting personally with business and civic leaders in Muleshoe, Bradley will appear before the Rotary Club on Tuesday and the Lions Club on Wednesday to explain the survey and to tell the individual citizens how they can be of assistance to the overall program.

The second phase consists of the preparation of an Industrial Development Plan, and the citizens of Muleshoe can be of valuable assistance in the preparation of the "Plan."

Questionnaires were previously distributed to many of the Muleshoe merchants, but to date only a few have been returned. If the merchants will complete and return the questionnaire to Industrial Economics Research Division, Box 105 FE, College Station, it would be most helpful.

A problem area check list has also appeared in the paper, and the readers were asked to check

Parents Trek To Schools: Fair, Program Set Thursday

Hundreds of parents accompanied their children on a round of the classrooms at Richland Hills and Mary DeShazo school during open house Tuesday evening, viewing bulletin board displays, projects and Science Fair exhibits. Parents also visited with the principals and teachers.

A display of foods and the process of mold by Bonnie Saint took grand prize in the Richland Science fair. The display showed oranges, grapefruit, cheese, jelly, sweet potatoes and other foods.

Richard and Clifton Myers' electric Arc display took the third spot and consisted of luminous flame of electricity. The simple electric arc was created by using salt water to modify the electric current.

Other winners and pictures will appear in the Bailey County Journal Monday.

At Mary DeShazo, a display based on earthworms took grand prize and first place and was made by John Gunter.

An electric model dam created for the Science Fair by David Hardgrove won first place in the fifth grade at Mary DeShazo and second place winner was Terry Phipps and Don Johnson who took these honor with a battery operated telegraph exhibit.

Bureau Submitting Questions

According to Senator Allen J. Ellender (D) of Louisiana, the Senate Agriculture Committee is conducting inquiry into present farm programs. In response to a request from Senator Ellender, Chairman of the Committee, The American Farm Bureau is submitting the following questions relative to the operation of existing programs:

DIRECT PAYMENTS TO FARMERS

(1) According to USDA estimates, federal payments direct to farmers amounted to about $3.4 billion in 1966. It is not true that most farmers would rather get their income from increased prices in the marketplace rather than from federal checks?

(2) With the budget so much out of balance, and most farmers wanting to get their income from the marketplace rather than from U. S. Treasury checks, isn't it about time we let the market system operate and avoid depressing farm prices by the various methods that have been used in the last three years? (Examples -- Urging the military to curtail purchases of pork and butter -- Hide export controls -- Dumping of CCC stocks of feed grains and wheat -- Permitting increased imports of meat and dairy products.)

(3) If the theory of farmers getting their income from federal checks in lieu of market prices is valid, why not apply the same principle to other areas? For example, wouldn't a system of making government payments to low wage workers be superior to the minimum wage law? Would labor union members be satisfied with getting part of their pay in a check from the U. S. Treasury? Where will this kind of a subsidy program lead in total cost, and what will taxpayers finally say?

(4) Don't compensatory payments like those used for cotton, feed grains, and wheat create a false impression of the true value of these commodities in the eyes of the consumer? See BUREAU on Page 6 highlighted the weeks activities with the annual Science Fair display Tuesday night, however parents are urged to visit classrooms the remainder of the week.

All interested citizens are also urged to see the remarkable progress which has been made in recent years to solve tomorrow's needs today. The new teaching techniques make a difference, it was explained.

You can glimpse a portion of these new advances by a visit to a public school during Texas Public School Week, an annual observance which is scheduled from March 6-10.

Open house continues to be conducted in all the schools with the school administrators and teachers serving as hosts.

Muleshoe High School and Junior high school will be observing open house Thursday, March from 6:45 until 9 p.m.

Principals Tom Jinks and R.E. Everett urge all parents to attend.

Clinician Assists Choir

The High School choir, in preparation for the upcoming U. I. L. contest, had Bill Cormack as a guest clinician Wednesday, March 1.

Cormack is director of Tascosa high school choir in Amarillo and has directed choirs for the past eight years.

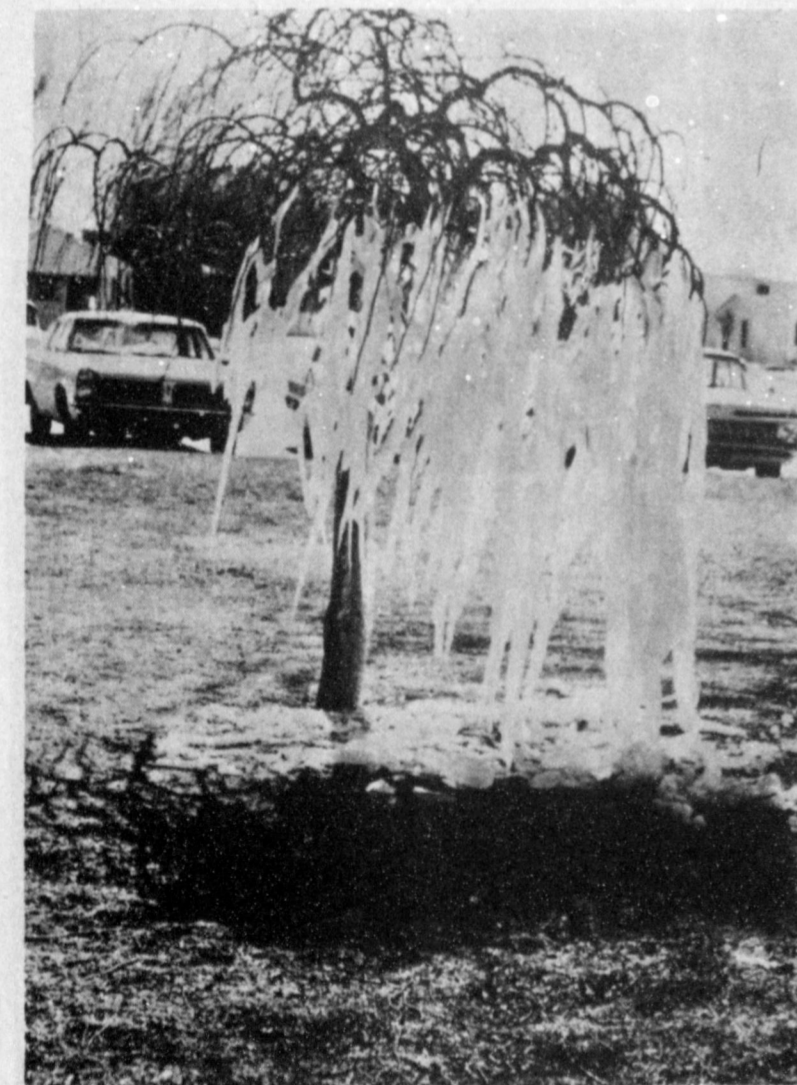

Students of the local choir said he gave them many helpful ideas to better prepare the choir for the March 15 contest to be held in Canyon.

During the morning hours, Cormack worked with the A Capella mixed choir for an hour and with the Girl's Choir for two hours.

That afternoon, Cormack worked again with the A Capella choir for the remaining three hours of the school day.

Songs to be presented by the A Capella Choir for the contest are: "Praise Ye The Lord," "O Magnum Mysterium," and "All My Heart's Desiring."

The Girl's choir will sing "Comfort Ye My People," "He's Gone Away," and "They Lovely Saints."

ICY BLAST--Cold wind and blowing snow whizzed through the area Sunday night. The coat of ice hanging on limbs of a tree at the courthouse almost refused to give way to sunshine which followed the next day. With temperatures 65 degrees and all traces of snow gone, the icy coating slowly disappeared.

Preserve Today The History Of Yesterday For Tomorrow

"Preserve today the history of yesterday for tomorrow," was the over-all point which Cecil Davis, chairman of Bailey County Historical Society, stressed at Tuesday's meeting of the Rotary Club.

Davis, guest speaker, explained some of the functions of the historical society and its endeavors in trying to preserve what is here to be preserved, to mark points which are now, and will become more important to generations to come and the ways this part or the county came into being.

The duty of each committee of each committee of the society was explained. The organization is divided into two major sections.... A sub-committee for historical preservation and a museum committee.

The function of the historical preservation is to seek those buildings and sites which should be preserved and/or restored, with the concept that it is "better to preserve that restore," Davis said.

The survey committee seeks out these sites which are deserving of a historical marker or medalion, a site which the survey committee feel that follows the dictionary description of a "historical site," "that which points the way."

The duties of the finance committee is to raise funds for the purpose of purchasing official markers, and to pay for supplies needed to continue the county program operation. Membership dues are $5. Donations are also made and under legislation passed by the state, county commissions set aside a fund for the Society.

A committee has been formed to help establish a museum in efforts to further preserve the county's history. The archives housed in a fireproof building will contain old papers and documents related to written history of the county.

Davis added "the Historical Society is not a civic organization but one which strives to preserve Bailey County history from the bootstrap days for future generations...how it was settled up, where the people came from and why...their life here, the progress that has been made, and as time goes by, other data can be added."

"The Historical Society is a county and state wide organization. In 1963, the governor appointed the county judge of each county as an organizing chairman of his respective county. Then in turn the judge appointed people from over the county to attend a county organizational meeting.

From this meeting, local officers for the counties were elected."

Davis said "Through speaking to civic and social organizations, it is hoped to better acquaint everyone with the fundamental purpose of having a historical society in Bailey County."

"Bailey County is one of the younger counties on the West Plains, but is has its history just the same as some of the older counties...not by battle and bloodshed, but in its everyday heyday of living and organization of churches, schools, school districts and towns. Bailey county was and is not short of colorful people, imaginative people and rugged individualists who took the barren land once here and turn it into the farming and prosperous belt which it is today. It took the same ruggedness to settle Bailey County as it did many other counties which comprise the Long Star State, and the lives, ways and means of these people should be preserved properly, along with the documents and other forms of recorded historical happenings, legal and otherwise," he added.

Cooking Tip
When you use your refrigerator's fresh fruit for lunch, package and freeze the fruit as soon as it is prepared.

COOKING TIP

COOK IT YOURSELF--Keep food costs down by preparing more foods yourself. This could mean more time in the store and more work in the kitchen. Let's use meat as an example since it takes the largest portion in the kitchen and longer cooking time. Boneless beef stew that has been cut and trimmed for you in the store is twice as costly as beef plate and considerably more than the blade chuck. You and your trusty carving knife can make your own stew beef in just the size pieces you like and with just the right amount of fat.

Editorials Meany Backs LBJ

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, raised a few political eyebrows recently when he endorsed President Lyndon B. Johnson for re-election as President in 1968. What caused some surprise was the fact that Meany would act this early, before the Republican Party had held a convention and before the party platform had been written.

The nod was sweet music to the President's ears and some believe that the failure of the President to propose a bill to require compulsory arbitration in strikes affecting the public welfare and his failure to insist upon guidelines for wage increases in line with increased productivity are the reasons for the Meany endorsement.

If this is true, Republicans will have a legitimate battle cry in next year's election. But whether it will be worth the endorsement of the AFL-CIO is a good question. Meanwhile it must be discouraging to would-be G.O.P. hopefuls to know that the President of the AFL-CIO has already endorsed the prospective Democratic nominee.

This, admittedly, is not cricket, not in the sporting tradition of letting both parties present their candidates and their platforms, and then deciding. Yet that has not been AFL-CIO policy in much of the recent past and at least Meany is quite open about his preference for the Democratic candidate.

Turn Farmers Loose

GUEST EDITORIAL—

Farm surpluses are gone. Even Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman admits this. But what Washington's agricultural bureaucracy can't or won't admit is that federal management of agriculture should vanish with the excess stocks.

Charles B. Shuman, American Farm Bureau Federation president, has charged that the recent government sponsored farm policy conference was born in fear. A major fear, he contends, was that widespread support for terminating government farm programs is gaining momentum in Congress.

Some administrative officials, said Shuman, "are pushing the panic button and launching a propaganda campaign to preserve unneeded, unwanted and costly government programs." Not to mention that this also helps save their own jobs.

Mr. Shuman is right that "government supply management has failed in the United States." Unless farmers are turned loose to produce in a free market faster than Washington has indicated it wants, there could be not only famine abroad but serious shortages here at home. As this is written, drought daily becomes more critical throughout the great grain belt of the Midwest and Southwest.

Reluctantly and slowly, the government has permitted expansion in grain planting. But it has not freed farmers from price manipulation or given the clear call urging increased, all-out production that the world's food crisis seems to demand. Nor has it insisted that other countries—India for example—quit concentrating on nonessentials, such as cotton which the U.S. could supply, and turn every available acre over to raising food.

Change is not easy, in government or back on the farm. But there must be complete reversal of policies of the past 35 years if the world is going to feed a population expected to increase from 1.5 billion to 3 billion mouths in the next 35 years.

Cool It, Comrade

GUEST EDITORIAL—

The Soviet Union now is jamming Red Chinese radio broadcasts of attacks on the Soviets. Jamming radio broadcasts is not a new practice for the Soviet Union. It has jammed ours. It does this to keep its citizens from hearing things the party does not want them to hear.

In the case of jamming Red Chinese broadcasts we may wonder first if the Chinese are getting the best of the Russians in the word war. It is not likely that the Chinese can cause the Soviets the same kind of trouble that the Americans and Western Europeans could by making Soviet citizens unhappy with their dictatorship and their kind of living.

The Chinese are aiming violent verbal attacks at the Soviets, and if they have any effect it should be to make the Soviet citizens angry with the Chinese. Maybe Moscow prefers not to take part in this exchange and would rather keep the lid on a little tighter. After all, the Chinese who are doing the talking may not be in business long.

WASHINGTON BUREAU NEWS REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

The German Turn-Discontent in Germany-U.S. Hesitates-De Gaulle Wins

Washington, D.C.—The Johnson Administration and the State Department are not publicly admitting it but the blunder in pulling the rug from under former pro-U.S. German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard is now costing the nation dearly.

What can't be hidden is a recent to gh decision of the new pro-French German regime to stop helping the United States and Great Britain pay the cost of maintaining their troops in West Germany.

This help had been considerable. The Germans had agreed to buy over a billion dollars worth of arms in the United States, to help us maintain a balance in American international payments. That agreement expires in June and the Germans have told us they will not renew it.

Since the balance of payments deficit is one of the critical economic problems facing the Johnson Administration, this decision is a shattering blow. In addition, the Germans have warned Britain they would not continue to offset the cost of maintaining British troops in West Germany by similar agreements. Harsh pressed as the British are financially, at the moment, this is certain to lead to a major British troop reduction.

From Washington come veiled hints that the United States is thinking of withdrawing one division of troops by mid-1968. And this would be disguised as a redeployment. But this apparent unconcern does not constitute a realistic appraisal of the crisis posed by the decision of the new German Government.

Further heavy deficits in the U.S. balance of payments threaten the stability of the U.S. dollar seriously and any sudden change which will throw more than a billion dollars on the deficit side is certain to demand major counter moves and rearrangements on the U.S. side.

Instead of concealing the seriousness of the German move, critics feel Washington should be more frank in facing the crisis. They say the Administration, and especially the State Department, hesitate to admit the gravity of the situation because it is a direct result of the President's tough bargaining position with former German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard in the now famous last visit to Washington of the ex Chancellor in 1966.

Acting on very bad advice, the President refused to grant any relief to Erhard, who came to Washington hard-pressed by pro-French Gaullists (the old Adenauer faction in West Germany). Had the President given an inch, Erhard would not have been turned out of office upon his return, since his pro U.S. policies could not then have been said to count for nothing in Washington.

But he was offered no compromise, no modification, in the offset agreement, and went back to Bonn empty-handed after having long championed a very pro-American German policy. Now pro Gaullist control events in Bonn and the cost of clumsy U.S. diplomacy in 1966 is becoming embarrassingly evident.

Washington Report

From Congressman
BOB PRICE 18TH DISTRICT, TEXAS
1323 LONGWORTH OFFICE BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D. C. • 775-3706

The big news since my last report is the refusal by the House to seat Adam Clayton Powell. In an extraordinarily long session, from noon to eight p.m., the issue was hotly debated. The vote to exclude Powell was 307-116.

In my opinion the entire Congress of the United States was on trial. This was evident from the many letters I received condemning all congressmen, not just the New Yorker. The question raised by many of the 16 who voted to let Powell keep his seat was "why single one man out for punishment and let other members get away with the same thing?" Personally, I will vote to exclude any member who is guilty of so flagrantly violating the trust placed in him by the people and the Congress.

In connection with activities as a member of the Committee on Agriculture, I was in the majority when the committee recently adopted a resolution asking the other members of Congress to help in passing legislation to exempt farm workers from new minimum wage laws which went into effect on February 1. Legislation is now being prepared which will allow this exemption until farm income reaches 100 percent of parity.

Three days of hearings were recently completed on a resolution to increase food aid to India. During the hearing I went on record in favor of the government purchasing any wheat or any other grain to be shipped to India under this program at a price which will assure the American farmer 100 percent of parity. I also reminded the committee that no other segment of the American economy is asked to produce more and more of their product for the world market at a cost 26 percent higher than the price they receive for their product. We have a moral obligation to share our food, but we have an obligation to ourselves to make certain our commitments do not outpace our productivity.

On March 2, I was in the majority of 372 House members who voted for an additional 4.5 billion dollars for the war in Viet Nam. This money will be used between now and the end of the present fiscal year, June 30, to purchase aircraft, missiles, and combat vehicles for our forces in Viet Nam, as well as for additional military construction in that country.

During the debate on the additional appropriation the House defeated an amendment which would have put Congress on record against further bombing of North Viet Nam. The "doves" continue to call for a halt to this bombing in hopes the Communists will agree to peace talks. As I have stated many times, and the President restated at a recent White House briefing I attended, we have halted the bombing three times and all it has accomplished is giving the North Vietnamese time to bring up reinforcements to kill more of our men.

GUEST EDITORIAL—

Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, on a visit to Washington, gave Howard University $10,000 to be used for scholarships. The university officials who called at Blair House to accept the gift were startled to receive 250 $20 bills as part of the fund.

This, it seems, is an old Haile Selassie custom. The emperor carries his treasurer along when he goes traveling, and the job of the treasurer is to produce money when the emperor has need of it. In foreign countries the treasurer loads himself with local cash.

Maybe that is not as strange as the sight of a foreign visitor bring foreign aid to Washington.

BATTLE COMING Connally Revenue Program Is Due Loud Opposition

By Jon Ford

AUSTIN—Gov. John Connally's $187.3 million tax program will be shelled from many directions by organized lobbyists and a few bold private citizens at hearings during the next three weeks.

Aside from the antiliquor-by-the-drink contingent, the gas lobbyists are making the loudest noises so far, crowded closely by the farm lobby and assorted rural groups determined to protect the existing, long-outdated farm-to-market road finance formula.

Hearings were docketed Tuesday on Connally's proposal to boost the gas production tax from 7 to 8 per cent, raise the franchise tax rate to $3 per $1,000, and place alcoholic beverages under the state's 2 per cent sales levy.

House Revenue and Tax Committee will hear arguments March 14 on raising the gasoline tax from five to six cents a gallon and repeal of Colson-Briscoe provisions for financing $15 million a year in farm roads out of general revenue instead of highway funds.

One of the session's biggest shows, the committee's airing of Connally's liquor-by-the-drink bill, which would levy a five cents an ounce tax on booze in mixed drinks, is booked March 21.

The gas lobbyists showed up Tuesday armed with all sorts of professionally researched statistics, although Connally reportedly had gone over their heads to their home office bigwigs with pleas for understanding. There was some wheezing over the stiff franchise rate hike, but this was largely as ineffective as it has been in the past. There is little logical argument that can be made against extending the sales tax to alcoholic beverages.

Texas Good Roads Association actually has taken no official position to this date on the gasoline rate increase. Its opposition may be token, fierce—or none at all. There has been some talk of a coalition attack through the Texas Highway User's Conference, but nothing definite in the way of battle plans has been revealed.

Texas Farm Bureau is set to make a loud and probably effective noise about switching all farm road financing to the Highway Department where it belongs. Rural legislators not as numerous as they used to be, are practically begging to be braced for a heroic stand for Colson-Briscoe.

The bone dries and church group letter-writers have thrown most legislators into a panic on the mixed drink bill, and it is doubtful that the most skilled treatment by the governor and other proponents can bring about a recovery this year.

As it looks now, the $15 million anticipated by Connally from mixed drink sales might as well be written off. And there's a good chance there will be no $30 million gained from a farm road finance switch.

Assuming the legislature buys all the rest, including the gas tax increase, total general revenue additions will be $99.1 million instead of $144.2 million needed to pay for Connally's spending recommendations.

If the gas lobbyists have their way and manage to lop off another $17.8 million, biennial yield to general revenue will shrink to $81.3 million.

A loss of $63 million or even $45 million, obviously, alters the entire budget-writing task and would make such big spending items as a teacher pay raise completely out of the question.

Opponents of the governor's tax bills are motivated by a variety of interests. A goal shared by many is to strip the Connally revenue program as lean as possible, in hope the legislature will be forced to turn to a general sales tax rate or exemption adjustment for budget-balancing revenues.

The latter would suit the business lobby fine, and Lt. Gov. Preston Smith has made clear all along he would prefer a 1 per cent sales tax raise or elimination of some present exemptions to selective taxation. Although he contends no new taxes are needed, the lieutenant governor apparently would not be disappointed to see $300 million in new general sales taxes imposed.

As if in preparation for a squeeze on the governor's tax bills, Rep. Ben Atwell of Dallas (who handles the program) Friday introduced a 3 per cent general sales tax measure.

School teachers, now trying to stay above the tax storm, may in the end find themselves in the position of joining the sales tax boosters of getting no raise at all.

Connally probably has tighter control of the tax-writing mechanism than lobbyists give him credit for, but 100 per cent success with the original package is virtually impossible.

QUICK ONES

Texas licensed beverage distributors insist their organization has no official position on liquor by the drink but is giving it careful (and apparently somewhat wary) legal study... Texas Restaurant Association officially "has nothing to do with the mixed drink bill" either, according to the TRA Newsletter which adds in the same sentence: "But you who are in favor (and the vast majority of you have so indicated) should contact each of your House and Senate members and let them know you are in favor"...

Two months deep in the legislative session, not one conference committee has been named to adjust differences in House and Senate bills, but one may be necessary this week to consider the word "fine." The Senate voted for making Texas Arts Commission a permanent organization. The House insisted the agency should be known as the "Fine" Arts Commission... There were rumblings of opposition from dries to San Antonian Harry Jersig's appointment as Parks and Wildlife commissioner. Figuring Jersig is the best qualified man for the job who has emerged in years, key senators rushed confirmation through before any real trouble could get started... Both House and Senate budget bills are expected out of committee by the end of next week... There are a dozen determined opponents of city sales tax legislation in the Senate, but Lt. Gov. Smith predicts bill will probably pass... Smith rates passage of daylight time extension in the Senate a "tossup." Picture in the House is even more cloudy... There are now more than 1,100 registered lobbyists here — but that includes the gal from the League of Women Voters and busloads of civic cause-promoting amateurs... Legislators who voted.

Death Claims Five Of Residents Kin

Muleshoe residents were notified of the death of five members of their family in Antioch, Calif. Those who died that day were nephews of Mr. and Mrs. A.F. Parker and cousins of Carlos and Frank Park, owners of Sanitary Barf Shop.

Saturday, February 28, was to have been a happy day for Clovis Hiebert II, of 917 Second St., Antioch, Calif. It was his ninth birthday and he was going to Vacaville to ride horses as a birthday treat.

The boy, his father, brother, uncle and cousin left Antioch about 9 a.m. His mother Mrs. Mereda Hiebert watched them leave and made her plans to bake a birthday cake that afternoon for her son.

She never got the cake baked. Antioch police came to her home about noon to tell her that a pickup truck they had been in had collided with a fast moving freight train about two miles southwest of Dixon, just before 11 a.m.

All five, including young Clovis, were killed instantly in the crash.

The dead included young Hiebert, his father, Clovis M. Hiebert, 34; the boy's younger brother, John, 6; his uncle, Erven Hiebert, 36, of 1134 Leggett St., Antioch, and his cousin, Erven Hiebert Jr., 10, also of 1134 Leggett St.

The quintet had been driving on Midway Road when, according to a witness, Mrs. Dixie Price of Vacaville, their pickup truck seemed to slow down for the approaching freight train, then shot across the tracks.

The highway patrol is still seeking an answer to why the accident occurred. There is good visibility at the intersection they said, but no crossing signal.

The CHP said the driver, Erven Hiebert, apparently saw the truck left 22 feet of skid marks near the crossing.

The truck was dragged nearly 100 feet along the railroad right of way by the train as it braked to a stop. Train engineer M. Stranahan of Hayward, estimated his 96-car Southern Pacific was traveling 55 miles per hour at the time of the impact.

Erven Hiebert had been asked by a friend in Vacaville to come to the ranch to help install some electrical outlets. Hiebert was an electrician at a Martinez cannery.

The boys had gone along because it was Clovis Hiebert's birthday and their fathers knew how much a few short hours on a farm could mean to the youngsters, Mrs. Erven Hiebert recalled.

Funeral services for all five victims will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the Higgins Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Seldon Nutt of the Church of the Nazarene, Antioch, officiating.

Erven Elmo Hiebert, 36, a native of Oklahoma, had lived in Antioch for several years. He had served with both the U.S. Air Force and Marine Corps and had served in Korea. He is survived by his wife, Mary, and three daughters, Kristi, 9, Valdi, 7; and Lorene, 5., all of Antioch.

Clovis Mitchell Hiebert, 34, also a native of Oklahoma, was an employee of the Fibreboard Co. He had lived in Antioch several years. He was a member of the Fibreboard Club and leaves his wife, Mereda, and a daughter, Bridget, 7, both of Antioch. He also leaves a stepdaughter, Mrs. Pamela Rogers, Antioch; stepson, PFC Charles Schaff, in Korea, and a granddaughter.

Both men are survived by their mother, Mrs. Mae Stewart, of Antioch; their father, Amos, of Yakima, Wash.; a brother, Otto, of Martinez; and three sisters, Capt. Florence Hiebert, Ft. McClelland, Ala.; Mrs. Kenneth Jordan, Port Arthur, Tex.; and Mrs. Edward King in Germany.

All three boys attended Fremont School. Erven E. Hiebert Jr., 10, a native of Yakima, is also survived by his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Lena LaFord, of Seattle.

Clovis M. Hiebert, II, 9, and John Paul Hiebert, 6, were both natives of Yakima. They are also survived by maternal grandparents, Mr and Mrs. Charles H. McKinney of Yakima.

All five will be buried in Memory Gardens, Concord.

Curves, Crimes, Sales Match, Crime Noted

Paul Crume's Big D column again makes mention of a Muleshoe... this time of an 'ole boy with a 'Muleshoe upbringing.' It reads:

NATURALLY, it took an old boy with a Muleshoe upbringing, Wayne Smith, to notice that the graph curves on the rise in crime and the increase in bathtub sales were identical. A man has to have the background to brood on a subject like this before he perceives the significance.

In the old days when people took a Saturday night bath in the galvanized washtub, there was very little crime and absolutely no juvenile delinquency, as Mr. Smith says. A kid who had managed to skip the Saturday night dunking evidently felt that he had got by with enough for that week. Furthermore, an honest burgher could smell a criminal a block away. For that matter, he could smell a friend.

Furthermore, the friend could smell the honest burgher. If he approached any closer without yelling, "Are you all right, Herman?" he was undoubtedly would "immediately get out his hogleg. A Saturday night altercation was the best excuse in the world to skip the Saturday night bath.

Nowadays, the burgher can't decide whether the beautiful stink in his nostrils is his own or an alien's. He used to know how he smelled.

THE HUMAN RACE has been pretty stupid. One scientist or another he said that man's sense of smell has been the only way he survived among the great animals of his youth. At the moment, man is committing suicide as a race. He is inventing sprays and deodorants so that he cannot smell himself. He can even smell wet dogs when human beings are around, which is something that could not be done in the great days of human smell. As a result of all these scents of primrose and gardenia, very subtle, a burgher cannot smell a robber. "That is walking gardenia," he says of a small little reeking that the moving flower will relieve him of his bank roll.

Back in the old days when a man worked at wheat harvesting or sulphur mining, merchants used to refuse to get excited about his debt. "His word is as good as his bond," they would say hopefully. Mostly it was. But nowadays, the collector only says, "What brand of deodorant does he use?"

He wouldn't want to bring the man into court and publicity with the other store's spray smell.

In the old days of the No. 2 washtub, the psychological barriers to a crime were many. You hesitated to take chances. If you got shot, people would find out that your long underwear was dirty. If you turned an ankle, police would release the information that you hadn't changed your socks in two weeks.

People who were so busy being dirty outside didn't have time to be dirty inside.

Things have changed. The man with the dirtiest soul in all the universe can well pose for an ad on the person most acceptable to society. It has happened here in Dallas from time to time. It's still happening.

Grain Sorghum to Become Known as U.S. Food Grain

AMARILLO--Grain sorghum eventually will become known as a food grain rather than a feed grain in the United States, a research scientist predicated this past week.

O. Ben Gerrish, head of the food science section of Midwest Research Institute, Kansas City, Mo., made the forecast during the 5th biennial International Grain Sorghum Research and Utilization Conference last Thursday and Friday in Amarillo.

More than 265 farmers, businessmen and researchers from 20 states and two foreign countries attended the two-day meeting sponsored by the Grain Sorghum Producers Association.

"While sorghum is a most important food grain in large parts of Asia and Africa only about 10 per cent of the sorghum grown in the United States is used as human food," Gerrish said. "When the population in this nation comes into a closer relationship with the available food supply, then we'll start using more grain sorghum for food in the United States."

Dr. S. M. Kennedy, vice president for Academic Affairs at Texas Tech, Lubbock, pointed out that the "country that is a world power doesn't reach that level without a reliable source of food.

"The food supply has to be reliable for the country to exist. History has shown that nations have literally fallen apart because they failed to grow adequate food supplies."

He added that grain sorghum has been looked upon as a crisis ration, and it will take considerable amount of educating to convince the American housewife that it is an edible food.

Once nematodes get at your cotton, yields go down and so do profits. But with FUMAZONE® 86 soil fumigant applied at only 1 to 2 gallons overall an acre, you can take care of root-knot, sting, meadow and other nematodes—those microscopic, worm-like soil pests that attack plant roots, suck away profits.

FUMAZONE 86 soil fumigant increases yields up to 1/2 bale an acre. Many High Plains farmers just like yourself tell us that's exactly what happened to their yields after their soils were treated with FUMAZONE 86. It can be applied right from the drum. No mixing, no diluting, no nozzles clogged with foreign material. You can use the chisel method, the plowsole method or inject FUMAZONE 86 into your irrigation water. Could you ask for greater flexibility? Sure you could. So here it is. Apply FUMAZONE 86 before planting, at planting or after planting. It's the only type of soil fumigant that can be used on living plants. Ask your Dow farm chemicals supplier about it.

The works of two contemporary authors who live in the panhandle of Texas

Max Evans is a writer worthy of high position in the great tradition of Western Americana. The One-Eyed Sky is his sixth book. In its three stories he captures perfectly the plains country and its people, their solitude, their courage, their idiosyncrasies and humor.

THE GREAT WEDDING

"Jim Ed Love paid us off the next morning...We stuck the money in our pockets, loaded Old Fooler in the back of our own pickup and headed for a wedding...Now nearly every time I'd either been drunk, in a fight, in jail, or gone broke. Sometimes all four. It was all done in the interest of having fun, even though other folk seemed to think different. But for once I was going to try to handle these situations a little better - really use my thinker. I knew we had to get a pretty fancy hotel to meet rich women."

What happens to Dusty, Wrangler and their wonderfully loco horse is fresh, funny, and too good to give away here.

THE ONE-EYED SKY

This is a moving narrative of love, death and birth; a classic drama of man and beast in a harsh land. An old cowpuncher; an old cow, calving; and an old coyote with pups face each other under the silent, blazing sun of the desert.

MY PARDNER

...is the story of a twelve-year-old boy who takes a string of horses from Texas to Oklahoma where his impoverished father hopes to sell them - that is, if Dan can fatten them up on the way. All he can give Dan for assets are three dollars and a bowlegged old helper named Boggs. Boggs proves to be a master of ingenuity, and from his "pardner" Dan learns the value of imagination (sometimes, perhaps, a euphemism for deceit). Old Boggs gets the only saddle, but the horses do get fat, Dan's father gets his money, and a wiser Dan gets a dubious present from his departing friend in a story which is warm, funny, earthy and fresh.

Max Evans' first book, The Rounders, is now being filmed, and The One-Eyed Sky has already been bought by Hollywood. Evans knows at first hand the wide country of the Southwest and writes about it in a way which will please all readers who know their Western classics form Wister on.

"It's sad," he writes, "how little spirit of fun is left in the world - hysterics, yes; strained laughter, yes; but true, free fun is very rare. I think I'll spend the rest of my life writing comedies."

Max Evans is from Lubbock. Both books are at the Muleshoe Area Public Library.
