Stage-Show-On-Ice, First Time In West Texas, Booked At Abilene Oct. 24-25

Something new—an ice show—is coming to West Texas. The stage-show-on-ice, the first ever to be brought to this wide area, is produced by some of the outstanding skating stars of the nation and will be presented at Rose Field House, Hardin-Simmons University, in Abilene, Oct. 24 and 25.

There will be three performances in Abilene, an evening show Monday, Oct. 24, and matinee and evening shows Tuesday. "Icelandia" has a cast of over 30, including stars of "Icecapades," "Ice Follies," and other top-flight shows over the nation.

It is a completely self-sufficient show, carrying its own ice-making machinery, 5 miles of cooling pipes, stage settings, costumes and the like along with it.

A big, elevated ice stage will be built in the middle of Rose Field House for the show. Crews will arrive in the city early and will begin the day before freezing the big slab of ice which will be the stage.

Announcement of the big-time show was made by Dub Wofford, president of the Cowboy Club which is sponsoring the event. The club is composed of Hardin-Simmons exes, friends and West Texas businessmen who are interested in the school's athletic program.

Local Chiropractors Attend State Meet At Brownwood

Drs. Gertrude Robinson and A. D. Stone, well-known chiropractors of Haskell, were among some 500 delegates who attended the 34th annual convention of the Texas State Chiropractic Association at Brownwood last week.

The convention was held Thursday through Saturday and was the first since the profession was legally recognized through passage of the chiropractor licensing law by the Texas Legislature early this summer.

The stimulus provided the profession by legislation and a desire to learn first-hand the provisions of the licensing law and of the basic science law were attributed as the reasons for the extra large attendance this year.

Drs. Robinson and Stone in addition renewed old professional acquaintanceships and learned of new methods, practices, and techniques developed by their profession.

Winter Cover Crops Give Land Protection During Winter

Will the fall and winter rain-drops strike unprotected soil on your farm and make flowing mud out of blowing dust? If so, says Roy L. Donahue, extension agronomist of Texas A. and M. College, your soil needs weather-proofing.

Soil, he adds, can be "proofed" against erosion losses by providing them with a green blanket of protection. That blanket can be made of any closely woven cover of green such as vetch, winter peas or one of the other adapted clovers. Or if you don't want to plant a legume, any close growing crop such as oats, rye, barley or wheat will provide the weatherproofing against soil damage from fall and winter rains says Donahue.

Few people doubt the value of weatherproofing the soil in the long run, says Donahue, but what some doubt is this: Will it pay next year?

The answer to this question comes from records kept by extension service demonstrators located in all sections of the state. Corn following fertilized legume made 36 bushels per acre against 18 bushels per acre where it did not follow fertilized legumes. The same method of farming, says Donahue, showed a per acre increase of 71 per cent for cotton, 63 per cent for grain sorghum, 59 per cent for wheat, 65 per cent for oats and 129 per cent for sweet potatoes.

Donahue suggests that you see your local county agent about this weatherproofing job, for he can help you select the right legume and proper fertilizer for weaving that blanket of green for your farm.

numbers declined a little. Cattle were strong to steady at Fort Worth, Denver and Chicago, and some classes gained at other markets. However, heifers, calves, and feeders showed some weakness at Kansas City. Calves lost $1 to $2 at Houston and San Antonio, and cows fell 50 cents to $1 at Houston. Canner and cutter cows ranged from $11 to $13.50 at South Texas markets, $10 to $13 at Oklahoma City, and $10 to $14 at Fort Worth. Hog prices had their ups and downs during the week but closed Monday little changed from a week earlier, except for slightly lower pig prices in Texas. Top butchers brought $18.50 at San Antonio, $18.25 at Fort Worth, and $19 in Oklahoma.

Wholesale dressed meat prices at New York were unchanged Monday from a week earlier on cow beef, veal and mutton, $1 to $2 higher on steer beef, steady to $1 higher on lamb, and steady to $2 lower on pork.

Eggs and poultry remained in good demand at about steady prices. Current egg receipts sold mainly from 43 to 53 cents a dozen in Arkansas, 43 to 49 in Colorado, 53 to 55 in Louisiana, and 45 to 53 in Texas. Turkey markets remained very light.

Fruit and vegetable markets showed a firmer tone this week, as supplies became lighter. Potatoes and onions sold higher at Colorado shipping points, and sweet potatoes advanced in Louisiana. Lettuce, squash and beans gained at Fort Worth. Many items sold higher at Denver, where first Texas grapefruit arrived.

Yellow corn lost 7 cents a bushel during the week, and sorghums gained 7 cents a hundred pounds. Wheat and white corn advanced a cent or two, as oats and barley saw little change. No. 2 white corn closed Monday at $1.51 1-2 to $1.55 1-2 in bulk carlots at Texas common points. No. 2 yellow milo brought $2.20 to $2.25.

Cotton closed Monday 50 cents to $1 a bale lower for the week. Middling 15-16 brought 28.70 at Dallas, 28.90 at Houston, 29.15 at New Orleans and 29.30 at Little Rock.

This Week... take a look at the industry behind the service station where you buy gasoline

As an average American, you probably take it pretty much for granted that the oil industry will supply you with dependable gasolines and motor oils for your car.

Your confidence is well placed. In the 90 years since the Drake well "came in" in Pennsylvania, oil has progressed from "rock oil", a medicine advertised as good for man and beast... through an age of kerosene, when petroleum fueled the lamps of the world... to the great industry which today supplies you not only with gasoline and motor oil, but also with heating oils... with rubber... house paints... insecticides... detergents... plastics... cosmetics... solvents... a list of products too long for printing!

This week, October 16-22, the oil industry specially marks the great progress made since 1859 — progress evident in the scientific methods used in the search for oil; progress in the production and conservation of oil; progress in oil refining and the development of new petroleum products; progress in distribution which makes oil products available to every American.

OIL PROGRESS WEEK

The two million men and women of the industry are proud of its accomplishments; at the same time, they recognize an obligation to you as the customer whose needs have made progress possible, and to the nation which provided the encouragement of an enterprising spirit along every step of the way. In the discharge of that obligation, the oil industry looks at today's progress in terms of your needs for tomorrow.

Oysters Require Careful Handling At All Seasons

Some people claim that oysters are good only during the months which have an R in their spelling. But the Texas State Health Department says oysters are not safe any month, with or without the R, if the seafood has not been cultivated, shucked, packed and shipped under sanitary conditions. Texas' veteran state health officer, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, says oysters have much to commend them as a source of food. "They have protein of good quality, iron and copper (important as a protection against anemia), iodine, which is essential to proper working of the thyroid gland, and a fair amount of vitamins," Cox says. But he adds emphatically, "Beware of uncultivated oysters." According to the doctor, each oyster grower in Texas is given a certificate of approval for the oyster beds he uses, provided health department officials find the beds are free from pollution, and the shucking houses are clean and well-kept. Otherwise, no certificate. Each shucking house (where oysters are opened) must have a certificate showing all employees are free from communicable diseases, especially typhoid fever. The certificates are issued annually. The Federal government cooperates with the State by keeping a list of all certified shippers in Texas. If a shipper isn't certified by the State Health Department, his oysters can't be shipped in interstate commerce. And since Texas has some fine oyster beds, Dr. Cox says the interstate commerce ruling is an incentive for oyster shippers to adhere to sanitary practices. Otherwise they miss the out-of-state market. That's the situation on oyster sanitation from a man who knows. So don't look at the calendar when you order oysters. Ask the seller if his product is certified by the proper public health officials. Mr. and Mrs. Milton Gilbreth and Jerry, of Abilene, and Mrs. J. L. Reid, Sr., of Rochester, spent last Sunday in the home of Mrs. H. C. Sanderson and Sharon.

Miss Jeannine Holland, 20-year-old brunette, was presented October 15 at the A and M-TCU football game in Fort Worth. A junior at Texas State College for Women, Miss Holland is from Houston.

Haste In Gathering Cotton Can Result In Lower Grade

The Texas cotton harvest is now in full swing and the shortage of pickers may cause producers to follow practices that will lead to lower selling prices, says F. E. Lichte, extension cotton gin specialist of Texas A. and M. College. Care in handling cotton at harvest time pays big dividends, Lichte says. Cotton picked green or wet and taken directly to a gin not equipped to handle such cotton may be reduced in value from $5 to $35 per bale. Rough preparation at the gin is costly to the farmer and the ginner for they both lose money, he says. Wet, dirty cotton usually means a poor quality product that brings less money, says Lichte and growers should pick carefully, take their cotton to the gin dry, and then see that it is ginned properly. Lichte says the cotton producer should not expect the ginner to turn out a quality product at the gin unless a quality product is provided by the farmer. The farmer and ginner both have a stake in the careful preparation of the cotton. It helps the ginner's business and the farmer's income. Two mighty important items, says Lichte. The Treaty Oak in Austin has been called the most perfect specimen of a tree in North America.

Texas Farm Land Prices In Decline From Peak

Almost two-fifths of Texas' farm and ranch land has changed hands since 1940. In one county, Nacogdoches, more than half of all farm land has changed ownership in the past eight years. And for the past two years land prices for Texas as a whole have been at record high levels. But there is evidence, according to a joint USDA-Texas A. and M. College System study released by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station as Progress Report 1181, "Texas Farm and Ranch Land Prices, 1948," that the boom is slowing down. Actually the average per acre land price fell 1 per cent in 1948, from $41.79 in 1947 to $41.36. The 1947 price level was the all-time high. More significant, says John H. Southern of the USDA bureau of agricultural economics and Wayne C. Rohrer of the A. and M. department of agricultural economics and sociology in their report, is that volume of sales fell off 15 per cent in 1948. There was also a 20 per cent drop in total acreage sold. "Such marked reduction in sales volume in connection with the leveling off of price can be taken as evidence of a slowing down in the activity of the land market," they point out. The leveling off of land prices was rather spotty, and the range in prices in the various areas of the state was also wide, the highest sometimes being four to five times greater than the low price paid.

Average land prices ranged from $24.00 to $84.00 in the various areas of the state. The highest prices were in the Grande Valley.

EARLY TEXAS HOMES

By HOWARD KING

Texas is a treasure chest of early-day, pioneer or ante-bellum homes—the type that people travel to Mississippi, Louisiana and Virginia to see. In many ways they are more interesting for few, if any, have been "doctored up" for the tourists and most of them are well kept. Descendants of the original builders live in many of them.

Roughly speaking, they are of five types of architecture: Colonial, Victorian, Plantation, Ranch Style and Louisiana.

Beautiful examples of giant pillared Colonial homes are "Woodlawn," the Governor Pease home; the Governor's mansion at Austin; and the "Le Grande House" at Tyler. The first two were designed by Hugh Cook and built from 1851 to 1853. Both were the homes of Governor Pease.

To reach Woodlawn, drive out West 42nd Street in Austin. It is a huge red brick with white columns, and is surrounded by giant oaks. Lamps on the entrance posts of the driveway are from the first Capitol, which burned in 1883. Mr. R. Niles Graham, grandson of Governor Pease, and his wife live there.

The Governor's mansion is across the street from the Capitol building. It is a huge white house with six massive columns. It is furnished in anti-bellum style. Of special interest to visitors are the beautiful winding stairs, the Green Room, the Sam Houston Room, the huge clock once used by Napoleon, and the coffee table made from a Civil War drum.

The Le Grande House at Tyler is quite a sensation. More "Oh's!" and "Ah's!" are heard there than you ever dreamed of. It is just like stepping into a fine home before the Civil War. Everything seems to have been preserved and it is as bright and shiny as a jewelry store. It is right in town about three blocks west of the Blackstone hotel.

Partially hidden from the street by giant trees, its massive columns glisten in the sunlight. The back of the house is as grand and handsome as the front and opens out onto a six-acre garden. The home is owned by the City of Tyler and is maintained as a museum open to the public. Two charming ladies are present to visitors through and to describe the house and its history.

The Le Grande House was built in 1859 by Captain Gallatin Smith, a bachelor who was killed in the Civil War. It was first called "Bonnie Castle" and was later the home of Dr. W. J. Goodman whose brass name plate is still in place. In the house is the "pharmacy" and surgical instruments of Dr. Goodman, all carefully preserved.

The front consists of a circular portico two stories high, with great round columns. At the second-floor level is a balcony enclosed by a turned wooden balustrade. The back is similar to the front and the balcony runs the width of the house. Under the north veranda is the service hall and kitchen, and under the south veranda is a portico. A central hall runs the length of the house and a circular stair leads to the second floor. Beautiful parlors with giant mirrors and crystal chandeliers are on each side of the hall. The ceilings are 18 feet high and the walls are finished in ivory. The windows are hung with rich brocade from gold cornices.

Furnishings are as interesting as the architecture. In the completely furnished house are choice Empire and Victorian pieces as well as complete sets of period furniture. There is a lovely set of Le Moge china imported from England as well as a large cut-glass bowl used to bathe the baby. Cases contain bridal dresses, shoes and accessories from four generations.

The extensive grounds are planted in rare shrubs and flowers and in the hothouse are lovely camellias, one of which is 85 years old. In the yard there is a fig tree planted in 1860. The entire place reflects the culture of the time.

Among the Victorian or recco houses none is a better example than the Mary Key home located on the corner of South Bolivar and Crockett Streets, just south of the square in Marshall. This house actually was the Governor's mansion when the capital of Missouri was located there during the Civil War. This may sound like a "Believe It or Not" but it is true. Governor Clairbourne F. Jackson and Staff lived here. The Capitol of Missouri is just across the street.

Another beautiful example of this highly decorative type of house is the old Abe Mulkey mansion located diagonally across the street from the courthouse at Corsicana. Abe Mulkey was a famous Texas evangelist of another day.

An outstanding example of the Plantation style home is "Liendo" at Hempstead. Built in 1853 by Leonard W. Groce, it was at first headquarters for a great plantation in slavery days but later became famous as the home of Elisabeth Ney, the internationally famous sculptress, who is buried on the grounds. She cremated her baby in the fireplace of the downstairs east parlor.

Surrounded by huge oaks, some of which are 800 years old, this great, two-story house would be a show place anywhere. Furnished in period pieces, this house with its high ceilings, hand-painted cornices and hand-sawed floors is a perfect example of an early home on a great plantation.

W. C. Compton and his sister lived in the Liendo and guests who desire to see the house are admitted for a small fee. To reach it drive three and a half miles south from Hempstead on U. S. Highway 290 and turn left at the roadside park. It is about three miles back in the woods, over a winding road.

A good example of early-day Texas ranch house (a real one) is "Whitehall" built in 1840 by Joseph H. Polly who owned a great cattle empire extending from Austin to the Gulf. This old house of native stone with its separate log kitchen, both in excellent condition, is a short distance from La Vega, 30 miles east of San Antonio on U. S. Highway 87.

One of the finest examples of the Louisiana style home is that of Colonel Wm. T. Scott, built in 1834, six miles east of Marshall at old Scottsville, on the old Shreveport road. The house has its original furnishings, slave cabins, private cemetery, stone chapel, with stained glass windows, private park and a large summer camp meeting ground with about twenty well kept buildings.

The Sterling Clack Robertson home with its private cemetery and slave cabins, at Salado is well worth seeing. Sterling Clack Robertson III and family live in the house. It looks like new, so well has it been kept. Turn west at the cattle guard just south of the Stage Coach Hotel in Salado and go a short distance into the woods.

At 3110 Bonnie View Road in Oak Cliff, Dallas, is the Colonial Barry Miller mansion "Miller-more" (meaning Miller Hill) built in 1855 and the log cabin built in 1846, used as the home before the mansion was constructed. This is the home of Mrs. Barry Miller, wife of a former Lieutenant Governor of Texas. The extensive grounds embrace more than 30 acres.

For the lovers of real Victorian homes of splendor and gorgeous antique furnishings should see the William Street home. Real polite people inside. Look also home nearby.
