EDUCATION-EMIGRANTS.

A writer in the Huntsville Item, over the signature of "Imigrant" who says that he receptly traveled extensively over Texas, with a view to location if pleased, expresses much gratification at the spirit of improvement which is abroad among the people.-One of the great difficulties, which present ed itself to his mind, when he was contemplating a removal to the prairie land, was the supposed want of school privileges of a proper character. These he found to exist to a greater extent than he anticipated.

He expresses himself especially pleased to find that the people were inclined to avoid the great difficulty of a diversity in common school books, by uniting on the Electic Educational Series, which he found in most of the schools he visited.

From the remarks of "Imigrant" land holders as well as town proprietors, may dearn that in giving liberal encouragement to schools, they are indirectly, yet most effectually, promoting their own interests.
