Producers May Expect Midge Influx

Close Watch of Fields To Reduce Infestation

Grain sorghum producers on the Texas High Plains can again expect midge infestations sometime this season, but due to a survey presently underway, they will be forewarned then to take effective control methods.

A survey team of personnel from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and Agricultural Experiment Station, which sponsors the service, are presently checking for the tiny insect in Johnsongrass where it usually overwinters, reports Lyndon Almand, extension area entomologist.

"Head samples from the Johnson grass and other host plants are being collected and held in the laboratory for emergence of adult midge," he says. "This will predict a history of the midge population for the entire season, thus enabling us to know in advance when midge populations will reach damaging levels. We should be able to predict such infestations two to three weeks in advance."

"A 12-county area is being patrolled and wherever Johnsongrass is spotted, 25 to 50 heads of the grass are collected. Grain sorghum heads will be collected as they become available."

"Counties which are in the survey include Bailey, Lamb, Hale, Floyd, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Garza, Lynn, Terry and Yoakum."

"Producers often have difficulty finding midge in a field, even if they are present," Almand points out. "They are quite small and their habits vary greatly. Midge may be active at any time during the day and their detection requires patient vigilance."

"Some adult midge have already emerged from Johnsongrass, says the entomologist, but at present they are merely sustaining themselves. Populations won't increase until they invade sorghum."

"Damaging levels of the midge can be expected when there is older sorghum around and staggered planting of the crop coming along," emphasized Almand.

"A rapid buildup of the pest can occur as it moves from one stage of sorghum growth to another."

"The survey allows us to stay on top of the midge situation throughout the season so that we can forewarn producers when to begin an effective spraying program," he adds.

Records Show Itemized List of Expenditures

After considerable study of a Capital Improvements Program for the City of Muleshoe, city council members have tentatively set September 10 for a bond issue election.

To date, plans call for a total bond issue of $835,000. Of this amount, $420,000 will be General Obligation Bonds to be retired out of tax monies and $415,000 will be Water and Sewer Bonds to be retired out of water and sewer revenues now in effect.

The breakdown of the monies to be spent is outlined as follows: Parks and Recreation, $90,000; Street Improvement, $40,000; Sanitary and Sewage, $65,000; City Hall, $105,000; Community building, $60,000; Library, $40,000; and Fire Station, $20,000.

The City Council is to meet Monday, August 12, at which time final plans are to be made for the calling of the bond election.

Currently, the council has mapped plans to sell $350,000 of the General Obligation Tax Bonds, inasmuch as this amount can be retired without any additional raise in city taxes.

Outline for expenditures for this amount of the General Obligation Tax Bond is: Park and Recreation, $40,000; Street Improvement, $40,000; Sanitary and Sewage, $65,000; City Hall, $105,000; Community building, $60,000 and Library, $40,000.

Of the $420,000 Water and Sewer bonds, the council proposes to sell only $235,000 at the present time, in order to avoid a tax increase.

Expenditures of the $235,000 in bonds are to be as follows: two new wells and wellfield supply line, $50,000; new 1,000,000-gallon ground storage tank, $85,000; new booster pump station, $20,000; twelve-inch artery on south side of city, $70,000 and replace certain small diameter (2 inch) mains, $10,000.

The remaining $180,000 of the Water and Sewer Bonds can be used for water and sewer improvements and will be utilized at a later date.

City Manager Albert Field said that the City of Muleshoe has followed closely the Comprehensive Capital Improvement Program prepared for the City Council and the City Planning Commission by Kenneth W. Larsen and Associates who are city planning consulting this bond issue before the public.

Field said that city councilmen are investigating the possibility of securing matching funds for any of the proposed improvements under consideration which will qualify under a Federal program.

Housing Urban Development (HUD) has numerous types of loan divisions under which the improvements planned for the City of Muleshoe will fall.

Bill Cantrell, Lubbock architect, has submitted preliminary plans of buildings to the council for their consideration and to assist in reaching the estimated cost of construction.

First National Largest Capital Structure

The First National Bank of Muleshoe now has the largest capital structure of any bank in this area, M. D. Gunstream, president, announced today.

With the addition of $50,000 to the bank surplus, Gunstream said that the First National now has a total capital structure of more than one million dollars.

The First National Bank was organized in 1955 with a total capital structure of $300,000, and during the past 13 years has grown with the economy of the Great Plains area of West Texas.

The current capital structure of the bank reflects the sound business economy of this area and further reflects the confidence of the business community and the future of this area.

Other officers and directors of the First National Bank, in addition to Gunstream are: Harmon Elliott, vice president; Robert Alford, vice president and cashier; Guy Nickels, W. M. Pool, Elbert Nowell, James Glaze, L. I. St. Clair, Rufus Gilbreath and Fern Warren, assistant cashier.

In Earth... Yet Still Lost!

The following was noted in a Cheer publication by Falmer Paper Company. Hitting close to home, a reader felt it should be shared with the public:

"Not long ago a Texan traveling in the plains region attempted a short-cut and became lost. Night overtook him and he saw the lights of a village. He drove into the little town of Earth in Lamb County and stopped at a service station.

"I'm lost," he said to the attendant. "Where am I?" "Earth," said the attendant. "I know that," the lost man replied "But where on earth?"

Girl Disappears from July 4 Parade Crowd

A 17-year old Latin American girl, Amelia Castillo, has been reported missing by her mother, Mrs. Julia Castillo.

The girl disappeared from among the crowd watching the July 4 parade around 4:15 to 4:30 p.m. as the parade progressed down highway 214 to the north.

Amelia was last seen, relatives report, as she stood among the crowd between First National Bank and the building formerly occupied by Chubby's Beauty Shop in the 200 block on South First Street (Highway 214 South).

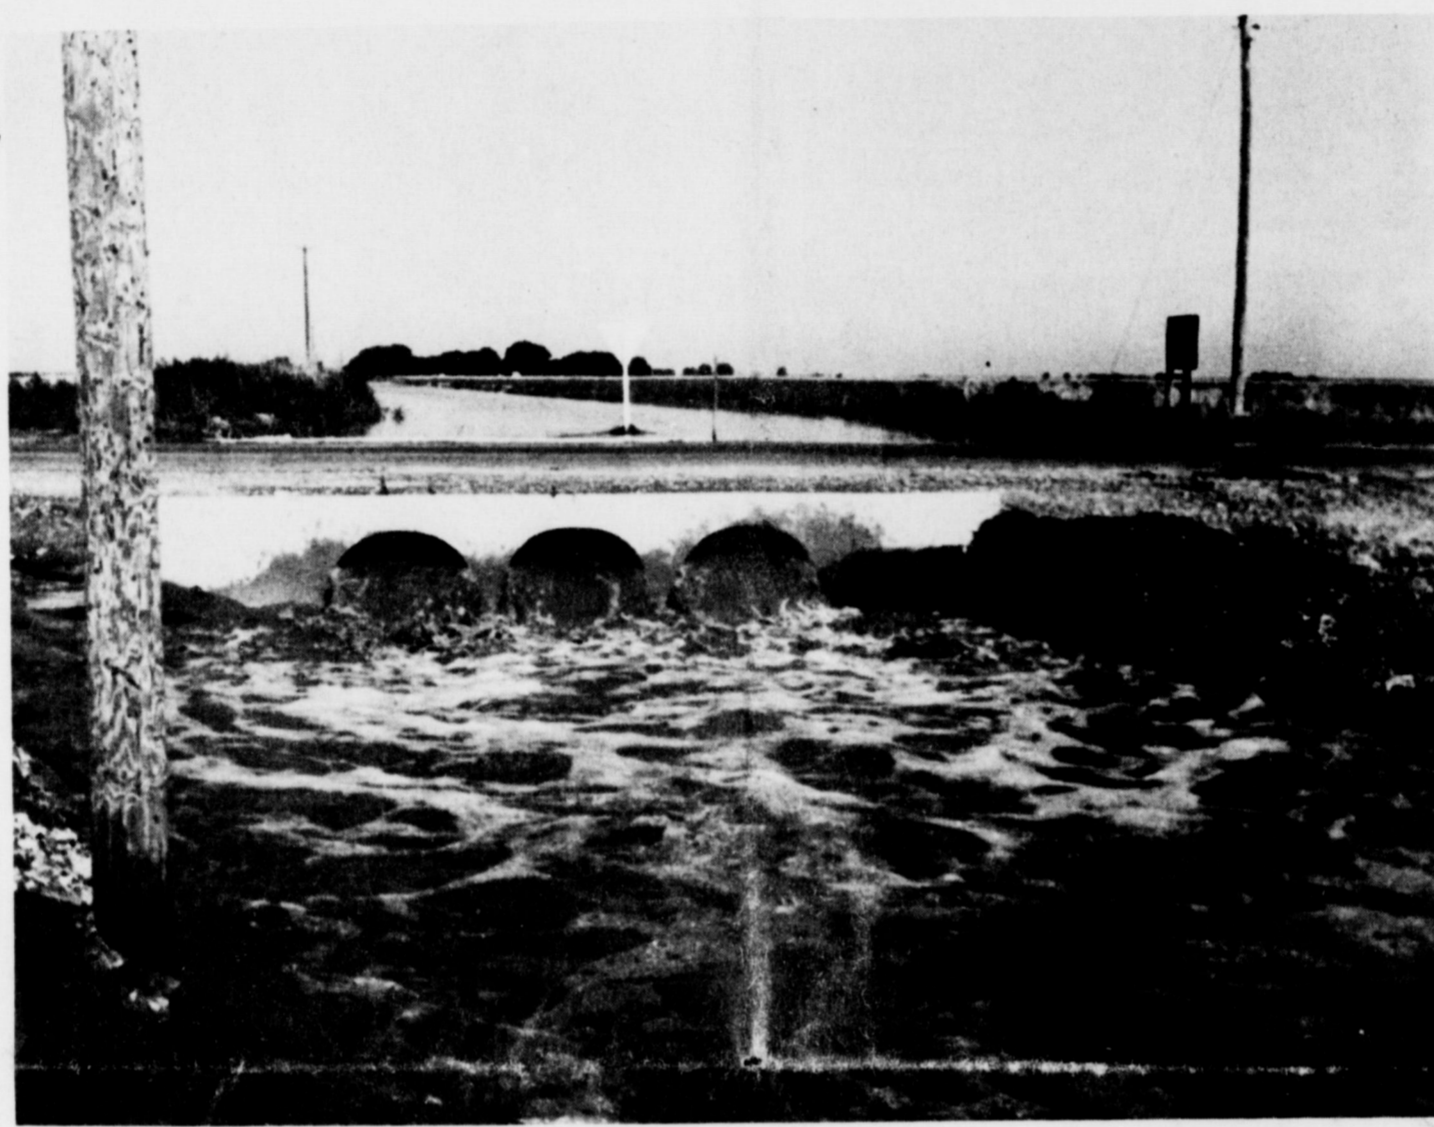

She was wearing a red dress with pinpoint white polka dots, gold shoes and carrying a blue purse.

The missing person is five feet, five inches in height, weighs 125 pounds and has brown eyes and brown hair.

She was accompanied by her sister who resides in Morton, south of Muleshoe. Her sister said Amelia was with her, then suddenly she was gone. The sister did not see her leaving, nor see her talking with anyone. "She was just suddenly gone," she reports.

CHURNING WATER---Runoff waters were still churning some 10 hours after about four inches of rain fell in the Clay's Corner to Hub area. This picture was taken on Highway 214 (north) just three miles north of Muleshoe Monday morning where the water was still running swift. Some crops were damaged in the path of the rain storm which covered a wide area of the state.

What Are Your Memories?

Everyone has memories. Perhaps they are way back in the mind and need to be jostled a bit to come forth as in the past. Do you have memories of Bailey County . . . as it was in the days of old . . . from 1935 and back toward the beginning. . . around 1908?

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Ellis have such memories. Although they did not move to the county until 1931, their memories include such things about the young country as . . . "Having to 'break out' the pastureland into tillable land. . . had to use a grubbing hoe to dig out the mesquite bushes by hand."

"The major part of the mesquite plants were underground, so this was quite a job."

Do you remember the sandstorms? The Ellis' do. They relate: "Naturally the sandstorms of the 30's are etched in our memories. Especially, 1933, I believe -- when the sand blew, it seems like, about four straight months. It blew most of the winter and spring."

"We didn't have any crops that year until July -- hadn't rained (and usually didn't) until about June 20."

"A neighbor of ours to the south had a five-wire (barbed wire) fence, about five feet high. We saw the times when the sand would stack up above this fence. It would blow from the west one day and stack up above the fence and then a day or two later, the wind would be from the north and blow it all away."

When you moved to the county, where did you live? Did you live in a house, a tent, a grain house, or a half-dugout? We have received outlines from many people who have lived in such various places as their first home in the county.

CROP DAMAGE--Damage to this corn crop in the Hub area was typical of those seen following a downpour Sunday night and early Monday morning. Some crops were not damaged, while others were left washed out or beaten down. The amount of damage in Bailey and Parmer was scattered and comparatively light in most cases, however, up to 100 percent loss was reported on some fields of cotton near Running Water Draw.

What type of fuel did you use for cooking and heating? Was it mesquite limbs, maize heads or 'prairie coal'? Many people burned feed when the price was low.

What did you do for entertainment? Did you or members of your family hunt, fish, play baseball, dominoes or '42'? Did you have old-fashioned box suppers at the church or school and church socials? How was your rare, precious spare time spent as far as entertainment?

When you moved to the county --what mode of transportation brought you here? Was it "immigrant train" as so many used, wagon or automobile or truck?

When the pioneers, in their hardy ways, started migrating to the fertile lands of Bailey County, many modes of transportation were used to transport them.

Where did you or your children attend school? How far away was the school and how many students were generally enrolled in the school?

There are many stories untold and these are only a few of the many things to be included with the personal histories of pioneers in the county in "The History of Bailey County" which will be published in the fall of this year -- 1968 -- the 50th Anniversary of Bailey County.

No story is too small or too insignificant to be included in the history of our county. No one is intentionally being overlooked in attempting to compile all available information for the book. This is your book -- this is your history --every effort is being made by The Muleshoe Publishing Company to contact each and every pioneer and/or their descendants to include their stories in the book. If you have not been contacted, please inform The Muleshoe Publishing Company as soon as possible. You will be sent a form to be completed -- you are NOT asked to write your own story -- simply fill in an outline to be used by the staff of the Muleshoe Publishing Company to write your story. The staff members of the company will be more than happy to answer your questions about the book and will assist you in any way possible in filling out the form so your family can be included in the book.

Bryant Elected Lions 'Boss'

Bo Bryant, former Muleshoe resident, took over as boss Lion Thursday night when the Dimmitt Lions Club held its annual Ladies' night and installation banquet in the Colonial Inn Restaurant.

H. L. 'Hub' King, Brownfield, mixed humor with philosophy as he urged Dimmitt Lions to "chart the right course . . . without fear of failure" during the coming year.

PAYING ESTATE TAX

If we have accumulated a few thousand as the years go on, we start to worry about how much tax our children will owe when we die. There is an inheritance tax in the State of Texas, and a federal estate tax to consider. On the federal tax you do not have to file an estate tax return unless your estate amounts to more than $60,000. If you own community property this goes up to $120,000.

Publication No. 448, a Guide to Federal Estate and Gift Taxation, is available for 25 cents from the Government Printing Office. A 25 cent investment could help you avoid a lot of problems for your heirs.

Put On a Pretty Face

Every woman desires a smooth, glowing complexion with youthful loveliness. From the middle twenties on, the first revelation of a woman's age are tiny lines around the eyes and throat caused by dehydration, and special gentle care must be paid to revitalize skin dryness.

To prevent retard lines, the tissue-thin skin area surrounding the eyes, and skin at the throat, must be massaged tenderly with special oil. Fashion Two - Twenty has created a special Eye and Throat Lotion, made of the rarest oils, that blends with water and carries moisture to the skin.

Apply a drop of this rich lotion around the eyes, and without pulling, gently pat it into this most delicate area of the face. Begin under the eye, from the outside, working toward the nose, over the upper eye lid, then down and round the eye again. Now dip fingertips in water, and go over the same area with continuous gentle patting motion.

At the throat, smooth a few drops of Eye and Throat Lotion with upward molding strokes toward the chin, using the fingers and cupped palm of the hand. Dip fingers in water and coax the oil into the skin with continuous upward massaging strokes. You will be surprised what remarkable improvement the Eye and Throat Lotion brings to the crepey neck, smoothing it out and moisturizing dryness.

WE SIMPLY CANNOT UNDERSTAND why the networks will cancel all regular programs for three days in order to repeat over and over again the same things that have been said and why they seem only to be killing time between events that are of real interest to viewers. Of course, we realize that tragedies of national interest should be adequately covered, but so much of the time given after the assassinations of Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King seemed to us to be unnecessary. Events of the first day, the services in the cathedral, the arrival at the train etc., etc., were all of great interest to the public but it seemed very poor taste to us for the wife of Robert Kennedy to be unable to say a prayer in church without being photographed. And the tired faces of the commentators as they strove to dig up or repeat things that might hold the viewers attention hour after hour was something of a bore.

Recipe Of Week

Keep the menu light, lovely and low in calories -- but add a few flourishes to stimulate girl talk. For the fruit plate below - frost the grapes, coat sherbet balls in coconut and freeze, garnish the plate with lime roses. Maybe curl the butter for the Swiss Cheese Stars. For the coffee cup, try Mocha Espresso; to each cup of milk, stir in 1 tablespoon instant cocoa mix and 2 teaspoons instant espresso coffee; serve in demitasse cups and sprinkle with cinnamon. Use your prettiest china and linens, of course, with fresh flowers for a centerpiece. When it's time for dessert, serve your most famous one. And go ahead, share the recipe.

SUNBURST FRUIT PLATE
Pineapple slices
Orange slices or sections
Sliced bananas
Clusters of grapes
Melon balls

LEMON-HONEY DRESSING
Mix 1/3 cup frozen lemon concentrate, thawed, 1/3 cup honey, 1/3 cup salad oil and 1 teaspoon celery seed in small bowl. Beat thoroughly with rotary beater. Makes 1 cup.

ABOUT YOUR HOME

Planning spring house cleaning will make the job much easier. Efficiently and intelligently planned and carried out, the work will move along quite rapidly.
A good cleaning plan will avoid the hit-and-miss method used by too many housekeepers. Tasks written down in black and white are not easily forgotten or skipped. There will be less inclination to "let the housework go" while idling away time on the telephone or over the back fence.
Actually, planned work gives one more leisure time. One way to start a plan is to go through each room in the house with a pad and pencil. Make a list of things that have to be done in each room. Take into consideration washing woodwork, waxing floors, polishing silver, washing curtains, slip covers and bed spreads as well as the almost everyday task of vacuuming, dusting and sweeping.

Next, list all the cleaning equipment and supplies needed. The third and last step is to schedule the work for certain times. Remember that a good schedule is elastic. Never try to stick to a schedule so rigidly that having to alter it to fit inevitable events or small crises of family life, will be a worry. This type of schedule does more harm than good.

Bill Could Open Some 'Golden Trade Gates'

Lt. Gov. Preston Smith announced recently a new state cattle export program for Latin America which "will greatly aid and encourage Latin Americans to buy Texas cattle."

Speaking to the National Convention of the Red Angus Association of America in Austin this week, Lt. Gov. Smith said the program "could produce a chain-reaction in gaining additional world markets for our products" and "open some golden gates of trade" for many other Texas goods.

Excerpts from the speech, given during a break in senate debate on the tax bill, included:

"In addition to welcoming you for the State of Texas, especially those of you from out of state, I would like to announce to you the development of our most recent program in the livestock field.

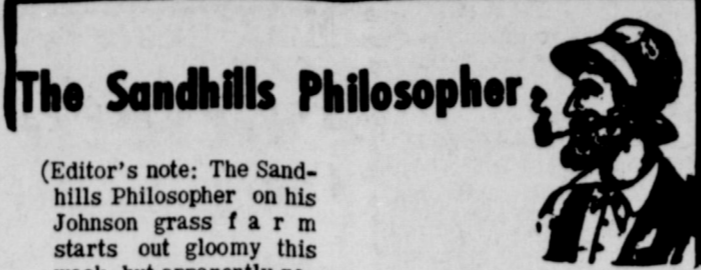

"Our state has developed a cattle export program for Latin America which will greatly aid and encourage Latin Americans to buy Texas cattle. It may have a highly significant effect certainly develop and expand the markets for our Texas breeding cattle. And, it seems certain that the Latin American export programs will, not only increase our cattle markets, but it is certain to develop closer trade relations that can open some golden gates of trade for many other goods produced by our people here in Texas.

"This program, coupled with the traditional go-get-it spirit of our Texas businessmen, could produce a chain-reaction in gaining additional world markets for our products. This cattle export program to Latin America spotlights great sources for Texas economic expansion, as well as international prestige and involvement as a major exporter.

"Our first directory will contain the names of 15 breeders of Red Angus cattle who will be joined by ranchers dealing with just about every breed. It is easy to see that the work and participation and interest of our state's cattlemen, not only will benefit their state's economy by generating more business and trade, but will certainly benefit the cattlemen themselves.

"And this pleases us greatly."

The Sandhills Philosopher

(Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm starts out gloomy this week, but apparently recovers his sense of humor.)

Dear editor:

I was holding a copy of a newspaper in front of me, I don't remember now where I got it, it's not important, but I was suddenly tired of reading the news.

I don't know why, it was just I guess that it was averaging two crises to every inside page and twelve on the front, just as the last one I found did and like the next one will too. I don't know whether the world has more crises now than it used to or whether they're just better reported, but nonetheless I was tired of reading about them and started reading the ads.

I'm not sure it helped. There was this one ad promoting some electronic computer, an item I'm not in the market for, I don't need one, I never think up a problem requiring that long an answer, and its slogan was: "Machines Should Work, People Should Think."

It has long been my contention that the slogan is right, that unless a machine throws me out of work I'm not interested in it, but I have begun to have my doubts.

Maybe we've got it backwards. Maybe machines should think and people should work. You other people, anyway. Me and the college students have got other things to do.

I don't know that machines could do a better job of thinking, but it's hard to see how they could do any worse.

You take a world where the more civilized we get the less secure we are, and you begin to wonder,

At least with machines in control, they could be blamed instead of us.

I can see the militant fringe of college students now saying, "We've got to overhaul the too.

Price Speaks On Gun Control Legislation

I have now received more than 5,000 letters, telegrams and signatures on petitions expressing opposition to any further gun control legislation. I have also received some 100 letters in favor of stiffer controls.

Each of these communications will be answered as soon as possible. In the meantime I have attempted to make my position perfectly clear in opposition to any further gun control legislation. Most of these, both pro and con, are thoughtful and sincere expressions of the writers' views. Other Congressional offices have also received a heavy volume of mail although the sentiments expressed in the northern and eastern sections of the country appear to be more evenly divided.

I might point out that the recently enacted Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968 contains the following:

1. Prohibits the sale of handguns by mail to out-of-state residents and to minors.
2. Requires all manufacturers, dealers, and importers of firearms to be licensed.

3. Makes it a Federal crime for the following persons to receive, possess or transport firearms in interstate commerce: felons, the mentally incompetent, those discharged from the armed forces other than honorably, U.S. citizens who have renounced their citizenship and aliens illegally in the U.S.

4. Makes it a Federal criminal offense (punishable by a fine up to $5,000 and imprisonment of up to 5 years) for violating any state or local law involving a firearms transaction.

Personally, I feel that proper and strict enforcement of present Federal laws and local and state laws now on the books or new ones that might be enacted are adequate to keep not only pistols but rifles and shotguns as well out of the hands of known criminals, mentally incompetent, minors and the like.

I am convinced that registration of all firearms by law-abiding citizens, the vast majority of whom would never use a gun against another human being except for protection of themselves or their families, would not solve the problem.

No law can prevent a gun from falling into the wrong hands. If the President's proposed firearms bill is passed and made law, we are only closer to that day when law-abiding citizens cannot have a gun in their homes.

We now have two very comprehensive Federal firearms acts on the books. These laws, the Federal Firearms Act and the National Firearms Act, prohibit felons, habitual drunkards, drug addicts and insane people from buying or possessing guns. But neither of these laws are being fully enforced by the Federal government. If all the provisions of these laws were enforced, the main problem of firearms -- and that, of course, is their use by criminals -- would be greatly reduced.

The man who assassinated President Kennedy was a dedicated Communist. The man charged with killing Senator Kennedy is an alien and the man who shot Martin Luther King is an escaped convict. There are Federal and state laws that prohibit any of these three from owning a gun. Could anyone really believe that these three murders would not have been committed if there were a restrictive Federal firearms law -- even total prohibition of firearms.

I have no intention of supporting any proposed firearms legislation.

Meet Canceled For Witnesses: Convention Set

Local meetings for Jehovah's Witnesses have been temporarily suspended as this congregation, along with 90 others in Texas, heads for San Angelo for a four-day Bible convention.

"The Coliseum in San Angelo has been transformed into a huge Kingdom Hall and our meetings will be held there," Boyd Lowery, presiding minister, said. "Dramatizations, lectures and demonstrations will be used to teach and further equip Jehovah's Witnesses for their Bible educational work," Lowery added.

The meeting, one of three scheduled in Texas this summer, opens Thursday at 1:40 p.m. and is expected to attract over 5,000. The convention theme, "Good News For All Nations," and the program will be the same for like assemblies in Ireland, Scotland, England and Wales, as well as some 46 assemblies in the United States and Canada. This gives basis for the unity found among Jehovah's Witnesses.

A grand climax will be reached at 3 o'clock Sunday, July 14. With the talk "Man's Rule About to Give Way to God's Rule," Watchtower official, L. M. Dugan, will be the featured speaker. All meetings are free and no collections will be taken.

There's Still Time
"Why are you so sure there is no life on Mars?"

"Well, for one thing, they have never asked the United States for a loan."

Baptist Girls Attends Camp

Girls of the First Baptist Church left at 10 a.m. Monday for Floydada where they are attending a camp session.

Camp theme is "Bless His Wonderful Name."

Several changes were made this year and registration fees for each girl is $7.25.

Handwork will be taken for the girls to do while at camp. In previous years, there has been no handwork and some of the girls expressed disappointment. This is only one among many things which has been added to improve and make the days of camp more enjoyable.

Those helping to arrange for the girls going to camp were Mrs. Royce Barnes, Mrs. Dick Stafford, Mrs. Johnny Shelton, Mrs. J. R. Johnson, Mrs. Jack Schuster and Mrs. I. M. Stinson.

Evel Goertz Ends Control Missile School

FT. SILL---Private Evel D. Goertz, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest D. Goertz, Littlefield, completed an artillery fire direction control course June 13 at the Army Artillery and Missile School, Ft. Sill, Okla.

During the eight-week course, he was trained in artillery mathematics, observer procedures and firing tables and charts.

Pvt. Goertz received his B. S. degree in 1967 from Sul Ross College in Alpine.

O. C. McBride

Dear Turnrow Tunkel . . .

I see where a travel expert advises people inexperienced in air travel to use care in choosing a wardrobe, since planes move quickly from one climate to another.

Packing for an airline flight is a problem these days. In addition to taking along clothing suitable for his destination, a passenger has to consider what they're wearing in Havana, because there's a pretty good chance he'll be spending a few days there.

What did you think of the recent defeat of mini-bottle legislation in Texas?

I'm surprised that drys opposed it. Complete prohibition didn't stop drinkers, but no one has ever tried weaning them.

Weed control with chemicals seems to be successful. Do you think all hand labor in fields will be eliminated?

Probably, and if farmers can't borrow a little cotton-chopping money at the bank during the summer, it will also eliminate many a fishing trip.

Senator McCarthy said recently that if he wasn't nominated by the Democrats, he might support Nelson Rockefeller in preference to Hubert Humphrey. Do you think his statement will help Rockefeller?

No, but it's probably the best thing that has happened to Hubert since the invention of throat lozenges.

Don't you think the answer to our crime problem is prompt and certain punishment?

Yes, I think they had the right idea in the days of the Old West. If a person knows he is going to spend Monday morning hanging from a 20-foot tree at the end of a 10-foot rope, it discourages him from going around killing people on Saturday night.

President Johnson has recommended that the voting age be lowered to 18. Would this help the Democratic Party?

Just temporarily. In a few years those kids would be old enough to start paying taxes.

Equip Car for Towing Trailer

Planning to tow a trailer on your vacation this year, then be sure you and your car are equipped for the job, says County Agent J. K. Adams.

He offers these tips to help make your trip safer and happier:

A strong, safe hitch is important. Use a regular hitch with stabilizers bolted or welded to the frame or axle of your car.

Load your trailer so that about 60 percent of the total weight is ahead of the trailer axle to give the trailer and car maximum stability.

If the hitch weighs more than 100 pounds, you may need to install heavy duty springs and shock absorbers on your car to handle the extra weight.

Check your electrical hook-up to make sure the trailer lights and turn signals work properly.

Be sure your outside mirrors give a good view to the rear on both sides of the trailer. You may have to add extra length mirrors.

Remember your extra weight and length. Add extra air to your car tires to prevent sidewall flexing. Underinflation causes overheating and increases the possibility of a blowout.

Adding a trailer may mean that you need more than double the space and time to pass other cars or change traffic lanes.

Remember, also, that your brakes have to do much more work to stop a trailer. On hills, use a lower gear to keep from overheating your brakes. Even if brakes are in perfect condition, they won't stop you if they are too hot.

Pay careful attention to steering, and ease into any direction change so the car or trailer won't sway excessively.

Avoid traffic situations which lead to a panic stop, the sure invitation to a jackknife disaster.

Stay alert to the fact that you have extra weight and extra length when pulling a trailer. Your pace can be more leisurely, the drive so much smoother and safer, and your family will have a better chance to enjoy the scenery if you observe applicable safety rules.

Social Security
Q's and A's

Q. - I have been told that Medicare will pay only for a semi-private room. If I request a private room, will I have to pay all of the cost?

A. - No. If you have a private room at your own request, you will have to pay the difference in the cost of a semi-private room and a private room.

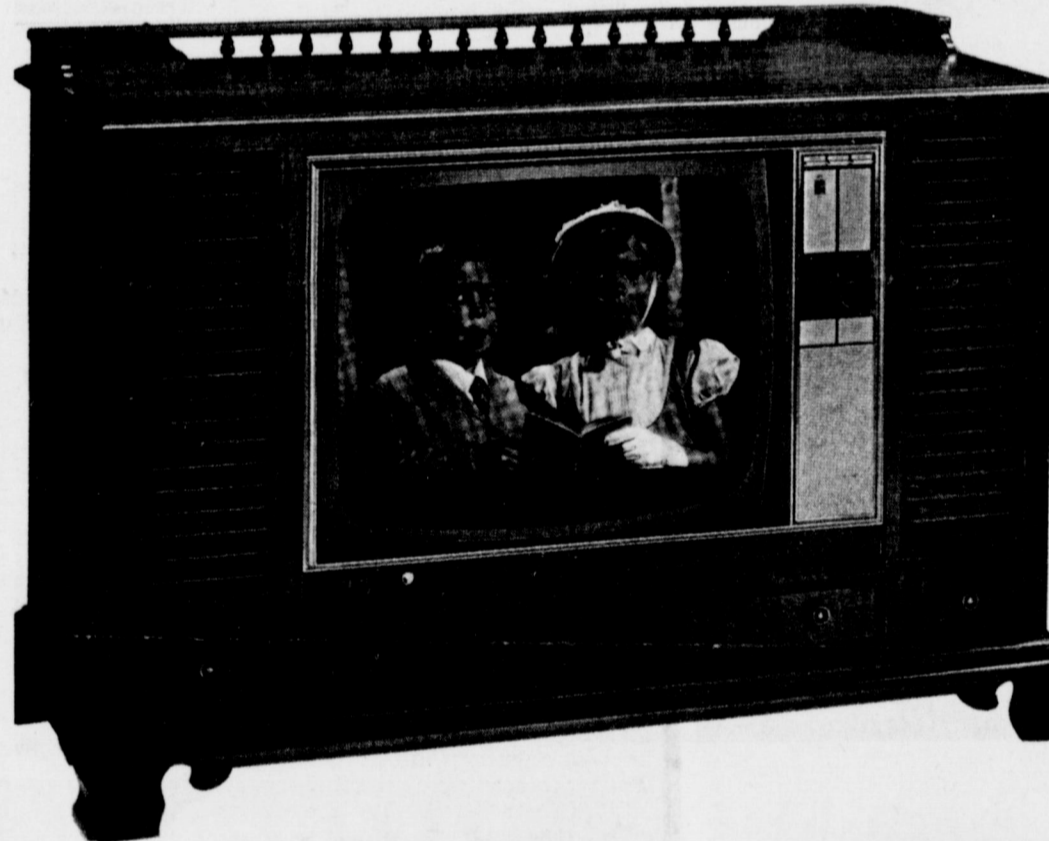

Q. - Why was the premium for medical insurance increased from $3 to $4 a month?

A. - A number of things were considered in increasing the premium. Among these were improved coverage under the law, an expected increase in the use of medical services, and an expected increase in the cost of medical service.

Dear Editor

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following story concerning the pending gun control law was submitted to the Journal for publication by Allen Berry.)

TO: All Friends of Mossberg and the Sporting Arms Industry Gentlemen:
Many of us here were taught to shoot by our Dads, others by Uncle Sam. In this plant manufacturing sporting firearms, there is the love of hunting and of guns, such as is expressed in the following excerpt from 'SHOTGUNS and CARTRIDGES' by Gough Thomas, published in England:

'I always feel that it is a pity for a shooting man to be too keen on guns -- it seems to be subordinating a major to a minor interest. There is so much more in shooting than the mere weapons of the chase. In many ways it takes a man back, body and spirit, to the places where he belongs, and gives him back so many of the things of which modern commercial civilization has deprived him. Air, freedom and exercise; wild nature; the good companionship of dogs and men; and the eternally thrilling pursuit of a wild quarry destined for wholesome food, are surely its main sources of delight.

his only effective defense and food-provider, was regarded as precious to him as one of his own limbs. Small wonder that instinct should invest the modern man's gun with some faint aura of this quality, enhanced, as it may well be, by his recognizing it as an old friend, the indispensable companion of some of his best days and the agent of some of his best-remembered successes.'

The first film made about the 'Green Berets' and their part in the Vietnamese conflict is not all the viewer would desire. The story concerns the early months of the Vietnam war. One must take into consideration the fact that the film by the same name, 'Green Berets,' cannot make public the secret tactics employed in an existing conflict. This fact will make some parts seem amateurish, but one should not ridicule the aim of this Special Forces outfit, nor their effort and purpose in Vietnam.

A Biased Treatise On Guns and Criminal Actions

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is from the Jayton Chronicle published at Jayton, Texas and submitted to the Journal for publication by Harvey Bass.)

By C. Ray Williams

That lethal weapons are a public menace in the hands of anti-social mentally deficient, immature, careless and irresponsible people is a fact, self-evident and too often demonstrated to be denied. But this same charge can be laid with equal justice against a thousand other articles in easy reach and daily use by these people. The carnage they produce with their cars, to say nothing of drugs, knives and innumerable other inanimate objects designed to be used as weapons never excites a panic program. And we see no tidal wave of hysterical demand that people who do not misuse such articles must have their rights infringed on by a blanket of precipitate action aimed at those who do. To stay under our Constitution and keep weapons out of the hands of those who are not fit to have them is not as easy to do as articulate and extreme proponents of gun control legislation manifestly believe that it is. And to keep the criminal mind from exploring the criminal possibilities of encounters and using it according to the use he discovers is a practical impossibility.

I get the impression, as I examine and seek to evaluate the arguments emanating from some of the most feverish gun-control advocates, that they are like those piscatorial specimens who carry all their eyes on one side of their heads and are not able to see this business in its entirety. They are not seeing that all men are not "equal before the law" if here is a law passed to make them un-equal.

And they are not seeing that another American principle goes down the drain when laws are passed that negate the idea that we are "innocent until we are proven guilty" and then deal with us on the basis of crimes some timorous soul is afraid we might commit.

And they are not seeing that there is not, anywhere in our Constitutional Law, a scrap of evidence that charges gun-dealers and hardware clerks with responsibility for conducting psychiatric examinations, taking over from the regular courts the business of saying who is or is not an idiot or a madman, or with any responsibility for enforcing or negating any section of the Constitution with an arbitrary, off the cuff and spur of the moment decision. I wonder how many of them have considered all the possibilities of letting the people who have a fat profit in every gun that is sold have the say as to whether it is sold or not. A customer enters and says "I want a gun" and the proprietor says "are you an idiot or crazy?" and the customer says "I don't know. What do you think?" and the dealer says "have you got the cash?" and the buyer says "I sure have" and the dealer says "that is all the evidence we need. What sort of gun do you want?"

I have been on Earth for about 76 years and I have never seen anything good come of hurried, hysterical and slipshod legislation. I distrust and refuse to be panicked by the pseudo servants, newspaper editors and columnists, news analysts and commentators, bunco artists and piffing pretenders to political leadership and power who undertake to fast talk me into what could be impulsive decisions that involve and jeopardize basic ideas, instincts, interests and rights. There is too much of this panicky persiflage turned to hurry! hurry! and the more of it I see the surer I feel that nothing good can come from it.

The prohibition era demonstrated that passing silly, unenforceable laws will not solve problems and that crime cannot be controlled by making it profitable or making ersatz criminals out of decent and respectable people. Guns can and will be bootlegged as easily and extensively as booze was. Gun control legislation that doesn't take this into account and that infringes on the right to keep and bear arms with the excuse that anti-social apes misuse the right is contrary to justice and an affront to common sense.

I am not against gun control but I don't think it can be made effective unless it puts the restrictions and the penalties where the crime is. It is practical and a demonstrable impossibility to deny the armed creatures their quills or spines, their horns and antlers, their claws and talons, teeth and fangs. And it will prove equally impossible to deny the human predator the tools of his trade, but he can be detected in and punished for misuse of them in anti-social acts. You can take his gun away from him and be certain he will find another or a substitute, but if we take the profit out of his business and convince him that he will be held accountable for his anti-social acts we will be hurting him in about the only area where we can influence his conduct. And if that doesn't work we can still take him out of circulation and keep him there unless this modern and moronic nonsense that his civil rights come first and are paramount to all others, including his victims, are too sacred to discard.

I've said enough to reveal that I am a biased witness and advocate this gun debate, but I have a right to be and my position is a considered one. Less than one hundred years ago when I had my teeth and hair and could dance without hearing my bones rattle, I made a juvenile and grievous mistake, operating under the ancient idea that might makes right makes night, I undertook to impose a citizens arrest on a gentleman who outweighed me by about fifty pounds.

This boy was rapidly becoming one of those malefactors of great wealth by stealing seed-cotton out of the cotton house at a gin in West Texas where I was employed as a bookkeeper, and selling it back to us the next day.

When I caught up with him and charged him with the unethical nature of his operation, he spread me out on the gin lot and straddled my inadequate torso. From his vantage point he was industriously rearranging my cranial contours with a half brick when the cotton gin manager, whose right to keep and bear arms had not been subtracted, slapped him off me with the barrels of a twelve gauge shot gun and put two charges of number four bird shot in him as he was leaving the scene in high gear. The shot didn't kill him but improved my chances for staying alive.

This bad boy's profit on the episode was about $500 in cash, a month in the hospital, and 9 and one-half years in the pen. And mine was a conviction that I do not intend to part with any time some Hysterical Hatties and Palpitating Peters launch a campaign that might divest me of the best crime deterrent I own.

The founders of this nation made no mistake when they made the right to keep and bear arms a part of its basic and fundamental law. Some say that did not insure this right but the fallacy of that argument is too well supported by evidence to justify debate.

We will not be acting with wisdom to match theirs if we let fulminating purveyors of hysteria confuse this issue and destroy this right. I respect and support those members in both houses of Congress and N.R.A. who have done their best to stay on the same course in this crisis precipitated by Senator Kennedy's murder by refusing to be stamped into rash and inadequately considered actions. We need these steady and responsible people and as many more like them as can be found to insure that whatever arms control laws are passed will control those whose acts are the problem without infringing on and prejudicing the rights of those of us who have exercised self-discipline and have not abused the right. Legislation that places good people under blanket indictment with the sorriest elements in our social order will fail. It will not control crime nor reduce the amount of it to give these elements Government insurance that their intended victims will not be armed.

I wouldn't say a word if the promoters of impulsive and unsound legislation could reap the natural consequences of their stupidity by themselves but that is not the way the ball bounces. So I am standing by my guns and will part with them, unwillingly and reluctantly, not one split second before a Police State law makes freedom a farce in this land of liberty by saying that I have to.

Tax sought on industrial development bonds.

FLY-IN VISITORS--Some of the many July 4 visitors in Muleshoe arrived by plane about noon. Pilot of the craft is pictured with his young son, Thomas. Dr. John Jagger, professor of biology, Southwest Center for Advanced Studies in Dallas, piloted the Cherokee to Muleshoe, bringing Kay Petty here to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cole.

The preliminary report of the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service on acreage, yield and production of cotton shows 1,203,520 bales (500 pounds gross) produced in 1967 by the 23 High Plains counties served by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., 43.5 percent of the State's 2,767,000 bale total.

Running bales from the area were reported earlier by the U. S. Bureau of Census at 1,187,472. Statewide production in running bales came to 2,721,055 according to the Census report.

The TCLRS report for 1967 revealed an average yield per harvested acre for the Plains counties of 473.8 pounds as compared to the 1966 average yield of 449 pounds and a 1961-65 average of 485.8.

The State average yield was 376 pounds in 1967, compared to 385 in 1966 and the previous five-year average of 362 pounds. Both the High Plains and the State set record per-acre yields in 1965 with production of 519 and 402 pounds per acre, respectively.

The 1966 and 1967 crops of cotton in Texas were far below the 1961-65 average of 2.1 million bales on the Plains and 4.5 million for the whole state. Responsible for the drastic drop was the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965, which became effective with the 1966 crop, and highly adverse weather conditions.

Weather in 1967 cost farmers 185,000 acres on the Plains, 13.2 percent of the 1,403,700 acres originally planted, according to the report, leaving only 1,218,700 acres for harvest. In addition, weather severely reduced yields on that acreage not totally destroyed in many areas.

The State "abandonment" percentage in 1967 was 10.1 percent, and both these abandonment percentages are well above normal for the State. The High Plains lost only 5.7 percent to the elements in 1966 and has a 1961-65 average abandonment of 7.4 percent.

Statewide, the loss experience was seven percent in 1966 and 6.9 percent for the 1961-65 period.

Again this year the High Plains, as well as many other areas of the State, will record a high level of abandonment. Best estimates on the Plains as of this writing set losses to fall, heavy rains and high winds at around 200,000 acres in the 23 PCG counties.

Producers this year signed up to plant about 1.65 million acres of cotton. But normal underplanting would reduce actual acreage to about 1,625,000. So if 200,000 acres have been taken out by weather something like 1,425,000 acres are left standing, about the same as farmers originally indicated they would plant in 1967 and some 207,000 more acres than were harvested last year.

Although much of this year's crop on the Plains is late there is still reason to hope for per-acre yields well above the 473.8 pounds recorded last year. Moisture conditions are better over the area than at any time in many years, and the relaxed skip-row planting regulations for 1968 should also serve to boost yields in some sections.

Assuming that current acreage is maintained until harvest, and that yields are equal only to the 1961-65 average of 485.8 pounds, Plains production this year would come to 1,442,000 bales, 500 pounds gross weight. The same acreage with a yield of 519 pounds, the record set in 1965, would produce 1,540,780 bales.

A better idea of what can be expected from the Plains this year will be available around August 1 when the Plains Cotton Growers and the Lubbock Cotton Exchange releases their first joint estimate of standing acreage and production prospects.

In Bailey County, planted cotton acres totaled 60,000, with 48,100 acres harvested. Percentage of acreage lost is recorded at 19.8. Yield per harvested acre is 390 with production of 500 pound bales totaling 39,100.

Total bales for the 23 High Plains counties are 1,203,520.

MADIGAN
 Richard Widmark portrays detective Madigan in the movie "Madigan" which concerns the hunt for a dangerous killer in Manhattan.
 Widmark is no stranger in this role as a detective following the usual crime beat. "Madigan" seems to make an effort to get across to the viewer that even though some police and detectives may be guilty of the not so straight and narrow path themselves, they make every effort to perform their jobs and duty even at the risk of life itself.
 The film becomes almost a separate story when it delves into the personal lives of the Commissioner (Henry Fonda) and his attractive friend (Susan Clark). Inger Stevens portrays the detective's social climbing wife.
 This film should not be considered a reflection on the many fine men in today's police forces, over the country, in a time when respect for the law is at a low ebb.
