A corneal transplant was conducted last Saturday at 4:30 p.m. for Mrs. J.V. Martin, Canyon. Mrs. Martin is the former Carla Derrick who was reared in the Maple community in southwest Bailey County.

Transplant surgery was performed in St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo where she is reported to be in excellent condition this week. Bandages were removed Sunday and Mrs. Martin could see "light."

The 23 year-old former resident's left eye was scarred last year as a result of "shingles." She and her family had known of the pending eye surgery for several months prior, however, the time and date was not known until Saturday.

Betty Bullock, director of the HI-Plains Eye Bank in Amarillo reports that she sent a "call for an eye" Saturday morning early and received notification at 7:15 a.m. through ham radio operators that an eye was available and would be shipped to Amarillo. The eye came from Baltimore, Maryland.

Muleshoe and territory still has passenger train service... a service which was expected to be discontinued with the July 4 train leaving California and terminating at Houston.

The service on this line has been extended, to date, until sometime during the month of September.

Santa Fe officials expressed hope that the line would be able to discontinue passenger service through this city in early July after a request for permission to stop the service was approved by the Texas Railroad Commission.

However, a spokesman of the railroad commission office in Austin said this week that the final order affecting the two passenger trains operating through Lubbock daily between Farwell and Houston apparently will not be released until early September.

Although officials of the railroad do not know when the train will be discontinued, they state that it will be halted just as soon as the railroad commission will allow this action.

Horace Holt, local station agent said in early July that he had not been definitely informed as to the exact date and hour passenger service Con't. on Page 3, Col. 3

John Tower

The American farmer, with his energy and ingenuity, has historically produced a food and fiber supply in excess of the demands of our own exploding population and also has supplied millions of people around the world.

The farmer is one of the largest purchasers of American-produced products, buying in excess of five Billion dollars worth of equipment annually.

He is a bedrock of our national prosperity.

Unfortunately, while our national economy has soared to record heights, farm earnings have sunk to record lows.

Total farm debts have risen from 25 Billion dollars in 1960 to some 50 Billion dollars today. Farm production costs have risen 31 percent. Farm prices today are nine percent lower than in 1940.

The farmer has thus been forced to substitute credit for income and savings for profit. A majority of farmers have been forced to live only off the value of their land. The farm population has been reduced by four million persons since 1960. It is a wonder there are any farmers left; fortunately there are.

If the forecasts of leading economists and sociologists are true, there exists the possibility, in a few short years, of a terrible famine in a large part of the world. How we react to this food crisis will affect the destiny of our civilization.

We must pay close attention to these problems. We must recognize the American farmer, and we must put profit back in agriculture.

The Agricultural Act of 1965 was a basically good law, but administration of the Act has created the dilemma we observe today. With less farmers today we find Agriculture Department employees have increased to an all time high - to a ratio of one USDA employee for each 100 persons on the farm.

I think our farmers must obtain a stronger and more direct voice in the operation of the Department of Agriculture. High positions in that Department should go to men with broad farm experience. Reorganization of the Department is an absolute necessity.

Farmers must have the opportunity to run their farms with minimum government interference. Our farm policy must be designed to meet the challenges of the 70's and must discard the antiquated philosophies of the 30's.

er, and we must put profit back in agriculture.

The Agricultural Act of 1965 was a basically good law, but administration of the Act has created the dilemma we observe today. With less farmers today we find Agriculture Department employees have increased to an all time high - to a ratio of one USDA employee for each 100 persons on the farm.

I think our farmers must obtain a stronger and more direct voice in the operation of the Department of Agriculture. High positions in that Department should go to men with broad farm experience. Reorganization of the Department is an absolute necessity.

Farmers must have the opportunity to run their farms with minimum government interference. Our farm policy must be designed to meet the challenges of the 70's and must discard the antiquated philosophies of the 30's.

Our farm program must be developed to give the farmer freedom to manage his farm and an opportunity to earn a fair share of the national net income.

Some people see the farm program as a likely place for heavy budget-cutting this year. And, many well-intending, but misinformed persons have made a great issue of farm subsidies and of payments to cotton farmers. It is necessary to correct this misunderstanding.

The cotton farmer's support payments are a vital part of his income. For the great majority of farmers they represent not only all their profits, but also a significant part of their cost in producing cotton. Any sudden denial of payments to larger farmers would put out of business our most efficient and productive people. To place a ceiling on the support a farmer could receive would destroy all semblance of efficiency in most American agriculture and would bring chaos and ruin to all producers of agricultural products, regardless of size, because such a ceiling would destroy the effectiveness of all voluntary farm programs.

The lack of good management in administration of the cotton program is particularly apparent. I am informed the Agriculture Department will announce on August 1, a 6.7 million bale carryover. In actuality this cotton is the reject of industry for years, and for all practical purposes it is worthless.

I think it is mandatory that we maintain a 6 to 7 million bale hold-over of quality cotton to provide protection against a crop failure and for national defense stockpile needs.

In my view, the Agricultural Act of 1965 must - in the closing days of this Congress - be extended for one more year, and for no longer.

This will provide the necessary interval in which the next Congress and the next Administration can formulate an effective farm program that will improve the economic status of the American farmer.

The American farmer has done much and asked little. It is our duty and responsibility to recognize him. We must receive his views and institute farm programs that will allow him to receive a fair share of our national prosperity.

Our state is a major producer of every sort of farm commodity. It is vitally important to Texans that our nation achieve more responsible farm programs and that those programs be administered by persons who understand farmers.

That certainly will continue to be my goal as your United States Senator.

"Donated eyes must be removed from three to eight hours following death," Mrs. Bullock explains, and that they are then enroute to the recipient within 25 to 72 hours after removal. "Ham radio operators are used for emergency information on the project," she adds.

Mrs. Bullock, who is on 24 hour call at the Hi-Plains Bank is in charge of the distribution of donated eyes for this area.

She takes local shipments (usually by airplanes) and delivers them to the hospital, enroute to the recipient.

She said that donated eyes are kept under refrigeration while enroute to the recipient.

Donors from age three up are acceptable for the plan. Quality of vision makes no difference providing the cornea sclera and ciliary fluid are not diseased.

"One pair of eyes donated," said Mrs. Bullock, "may be used to help correct eye problems for as many as six people under perfect conditions."

Additional information on eye bank procedure is available from the Hi-Plains Eye Bank, Inc. offices located at 320 Herring Hotel, Amarillo.

Donors sign release cards when they desire to donate their eyes to the project, Mrs. Bullock concluded.

Mrs. Martin is the sister of Mrs. Bob Kindle of Maple and has a number of other relatives living in this county and area.

Mrs. Carl Miller, Canyon, also a former resident of the Maple community, said "The role of the Hi Plains Eye Bank of Amarillo and Lions Clubs over the nation has played in the surgery by their efforts will ultimately benefit a former resident of this community and should be highly commended as a non-profit organization."

Kit Carson Scout Program Being Used in Vietnam

When legend was old in our early history, the name of Kit Carson, frontiersman and guide, stood out among others. Renowned for his superior scouting ability, he was used for scouting by the U. S. Army during the early Indian wars.

The Marine Corps, borrowing his name, has instituted a program based upon his qualities as a scout and guide. It is called the Kit Carson Scout Program and is in use now in Vietnam.

In the summer of 1966 the need for local Vietnamese to accompany Marine units into the field to act as interpreters was grave. More often what the Marines wanted was a "scout," to seek out the Viet Cong and disclose his position, sort of a Marine Kit Carson.

In November 1966 the first Kit Carson school was opened in I Corps by the Marines. The program itself had its beginnings from the Chieu Hoi record book is made up with pay record, health and dental program in which former VC and North Vietnamese Army soldiers who turn themselves in are retrained and instructed towards their new life. Once the person finished Chieu Hoi school, he is given an opportunity to enlist in the Kit Carson Program, which is strictly voluntary.

Once he volunteers, the individual is screened and checked-out for possible subversion.

which is a constant threat. Once accepted, the individual is put through two weeks of vigorous "boot camp" training.

Along with other future Kit Carson scouts, the individual is issued all the equipment and gear he will need while in the service of the Marine Corps as a scout. One of the main points that is emphasized is to make him feel a part of the Marine Corps and it instills confidence in him and what he is doing.

To achieve this, a complete records and other information on his background. He is made to feel that he is doing an active service for his country while helping the Marines.

The school itself is organized and operated by the 1st Marine Division and is located near the 7th Marine Regiment area in Da Nang. The school is operated by Staff Sergeant John P. Johnson, Clearwater Beach, Fla., chief instructor and Sergeant Steven Allbee, Marble Lake, Minn., assistant instructor, plus a Vietnamese interpreter.

While going to school, the future scouts are taught demolitions, mines, booby-traps, small arms fire, Marine tactics and hand-to-hand combat. One of the most important courses offered is English. He is taught some basic English so he can communicate while in the field with Marine units.

As in boot camp, the scouts have regular rifle inspections, drills and conditioning exercises. Once the scouts finish the two-week course, they are ready for graduation. Finally, when they are full-fledged Kit Carson scouts, they are sent to Marine units in teams of two. Usually, they work on the battalion level with the S-2 intelligence scout section. Some scouts who show the ability are sent to sniper teams.

Their object always remains . . . to seek out and disclose the VC or NVA, to search for possible ambush sites and booby traps and to act as interpreters when the need arises.

Unlike the Marine, the scout has no obligated service to fulfill, he may resign whenever he wants -- so far very few have. Such comments as "I wish I had a dozen more like them," and "They are great workers!" reflect the overall confidence and ability they have shown the Marine Corps.

Kit Carson, Indian scout, rides once more, except for one change . . . he's looking for "Charlie" this time.

A - Yes, All service after August 4, 1964, other than active duty for training as a reservist, is considered Viet-Nam era service.

Q - I have received a widow's pension providing benefits for myself and two minor children for several years. This VA award is based upon my husband's military service. I have just remarried. Will my children still be eligible to receive benefits from the Veterans Administration?

A - Yes. Your children will continue to receive pension benefits from the VA as long as their unearned income is less than $1,800 a year for each child. These benefits will be paid until they reach age 18, or age 23 if they are in college. You should report

A - No. In applying to the VA for a Certificate of Eligibility for G. I. Bill educational benefits, you must furnish a copy of your Report of Separation (DD Form 214) with the application. And you cannot obtain this necessary form un-

Your application will be handled without delay by the VA regional office where your records will be maintained. And you will receive an educational assistance allowance dating back to the time you started school.

Home is Center of 4-H Projects

SPECIAL - Several 4-H programs covering the perpetual needs of man... food, clothing and shelter...are offered to youngsters between 9 and 19 years old by the Cooperative Extension Service. One of them is the national 4-H Home Improvement program supported by The S&H Foundation, Inc.

About 200,000 youngsters were enrolled last year. The number is expected to increase for 1968 predicts the Extension Service, in keeping with the upward trend of 4-H membership. Since "a place of their own" is the desire of growing boys and girls, the improvement projects usually begin with their own room.

Girls who have learned to sew in 4-H brighten up their bedroom with colorful draperies, pillows and other decorator touches. Boys who are handy with tools and a paint brush construct bookshelves, benches, tables and lamps to add to their possessions.

As many different projects are underway as there are different needs. Apartment dwellers are limited for space. Houses that once were adequate for a family of four, must now accommodate a family of six. Families move from city to country, and vice versa. So there is always a time for "home improvement."

With the help of 4-H adult leaders and cooperation of parents, plans are worked out to rearrange, remodel or decorate rooms for beauty and comfort. Recreation rooms, patios, bathrooms, kitchens and closets are frequently targets for improvement.

To aid 4-H'ers in learning more about interior decorating, S&H provides each member with a manual explaining color, texture, and design in space. The manual introduces future homemakers to basic rules of color harmony, lighting, design, proportion and effects of textures. Projects often lead to lifelong hobbies and future careers.

Annual incentive awards are offered by The 4-H'ers are judged at three levels of competence: County, state and national. An estimated 6,500 members will be rewarded this year, according to the Extension Service.

The top awards are six $600 scholarships. The others are medals of honor and educational trips to the National 4-H Congress held in Chicago.

In addition, the foundation provides educational grants of $300 each to present or former 4-H members in 17 states.

IF OUR VIEWERS have wondered why many of the programs, which were advertised, have not been shown but have been replaced by others, we understand that this was caused by the death of Robert Kennedy. Producers changed schedules and movies, which featured violence, assassinations and other themes which they considered to be in poor taste so soon after the Kennedy tragedy. We will probably be seeing many of these postponed films in August.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Vern Sanford

With his veto power Gov. John Connally has the last word on the free-spending works of the special legislative session. He has until July 23 to exercise this privilege. Speculation is high that he will strike from the 1969 budget several million dollars worth of items riations bill as much as $10 million worth of spending that has been programed by the Legislature...much of it in conference committee. Connally also is being urged to veto appropriation riders restricting the Air Control Board from using state funds to investigate pollution caused by cotton gins. He probably will do so, since he axed the same provisions last year. Governor Connally chopped $3.2 million from the Legislature's spending plans after the 1967 regular session. Another rider likely to feel Connally's hatchet would deny salary funds to any state employee who took a leave of absence to work in a political campaign. This proviso wasn't in either House or Senate bill originally. How it showed up in the conference committee report is a mystery of the special session. Some legislators contend that the governor cannot veto riders. But Connally has done it effectively in the past, and nobody has yet to challenge his authority in court. It's a good bet he plans to do it again. LCB OFFICIAL TO RETIRE-- Aubrey R. Carlidge, chief of the Liquor Control Board's enforcement division and target of criticism in Attorney General Crawford Martin's report on that Board, plans to retire. He's a 33-year-veteran of the Board. Carlidge is expected to ask the Board, later this month, to let him retire August 31, two weeks after he reaches 65 years of age. In Martin's investigative report, he claimed that Carlidge "failed to demonstrate any supervisory control over agents," and added, "It is our feeling that as long as he remains chief of the enforcement division this situation is not likely to show improvement." APPOINTMENTS ANNOUNCED--Governor Connally named Shearn Smith district judge in Houston. Col. Jack W. Fickessen, district engineer of the Fort Worth District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, will join the Texas Water Development Board in an administrative capacity on August 1. House Speaker Ben Barnes named five legislators to an interim committee to study the necessity of a tort claims act for citizens who wish to seek redress for injuries by negligent state and local government employees. They are Reps. Bill Finck of San Antonio, Bill Braecklein of Dallas, Temple Dickson of Sweetwater, Bill Swanson of Houston and C.L. Ray of Marshall.

IN COLLISION-- This pickup is shown being towed away from the scene of an accident Monday morning. Driven by John Crim, the pickup received damage to the front end and the car being driven by Bob Lowe was damaged on the left front fender. Investigating the accident was Chief of Police Harold White. Crim was pulling onto Highway 84 (American Blvd, inside the city limits) when the accident occurred.

Nine-point program calls for enactment of new Texas Employment Commission aid, improved vocational and technical education and better industrial safety services. GOP would also limit to two the number of times a person can refuse suitable job offers provided work pays as much or more than unemployment or welfare benefits. Tax credits, GOP said, should be "preferably federal." LBJ PARK CONTRACT LET--Construction contract of $116,900 was awarded to Blanchard and Associates Inc. of Fredericksburg to build new facilities at the Lyndon B. Johnson State Historic Park, near Johnson City. Work at the park, across the Pedernales from LBJ Ranch, will include a visitor center and rest room, water, electric and sewage systems. Part of the materials were obtained from 113-year-old Pfeil Building donated to the park by the Fredericksburg National Bank. HUNTING SEASONS SET--Texas nimrods can start making those fall hunting plans. Parks and Wildlife Commission has set the new hunting regulations. Deer season will open on November 9 in most areas of the state. General limit is three, no more than two bucks (there are exceptions in some areas). An experimental deer season was established for November 9-January 7 in Frio County. Mourning Dove season starts October 1 and extends until October 30 in the north zone. Dates for the southern zone are September 21-November 19. A small section of Lower Rio Grande Valley will become a non-season sanctuary for white wing and mourning doves. Regular white wing season is September 1-2 and 7-8. NEW WILDLIFE PRESERVE--George Light III of San Antonio has agreed to sell the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department 15,200 acres of land in La Salle and Dimmit Counties to be used as the state's tenth wildlife management area. In 1967, the Legislature appropriated $2 million for the purchase of land for a game preserve. For more than a year now the department has been looking and negotiating. Terrain and vegetation on the tract is representative of some 20 million acres included in the Rio Grande Flood Plain of South Texas. Department will spend $1.9 million for the land and 75 per cent of this amount will be reimbursed to the department under the Federal Aid in Wildlife Restoration Act. BRUCellosis--All but 29 of Texas' 254 counties have qualified or are trying to qualify as modified certified brucellosis areas -- and most of those 29 are in a group along the Gulf Coast. U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Texas Animal Health Commission say that Newton and Smith Counties qualified for certification in May and Bell, Cameron, Hida-

An incoming Viet Cong mortar round abruptly ended a folk singing session at the 3rd Bn., Twenty-seventh Marine Regiment command post.

"Four of us were sitting in the company supply hootch singing folk songs when a mortar round came exploding through the tin roof," said Corporal Charles D. Huckaby, 21, Linda Vista, Calif., the "K" Co. supply sergeant.

Lance Corporal Joe Hecht, 20, Ridgefield Park, N.J., was sitting closest to the blast. "I got my back pretty well peppered with little pieces of shrapnel," he said, "but all I could think about was getting out to the bunker."

Playing the guitar for the foursome was Private First Class Craig D. Olson, 21, Wheatridge, Colo. "I was playing 'The Times Are A Changin' and sure enough, things changed fast. The whole hootch just seemed to blow up in my face," recalled Olson. "We were all pressing against the door trying to get out and into the bunker," Huckaby said, "but because we were all pressing against it I couldn't get it open."

Huckaby managed to push the other three Leathernecks back far enough to get the door open. "Wow!" exclaimed the Golden State Marine. "I've never seen a party break up so fast in my life!"

"Just about the only thing in the whole supply hootch that wasn't hit was the guitar I was playing," added Olson.

Hanoi Hannah would probably gasp at the news. Ho Chi Minh would denounce it as a capitalistic lie and when the word reaches General Giap's command post, there'll undoubtedly be an order declaring it a treasonable offense.

But there it was as plain as day, carefully tucked away in the pack of a soldier of the People's Army of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam--good-old-fashioned American Kool-Aid.

"One lemon and lime and two raspberries," said Private First Class Frank Chaplik, 18, a rifleman with "E" Co., 2nd Bn., First Marine Regiment. Chaplik made the find while searching out an abandoned enemy bunker west of Khe Sanh.

"I was kind of stunned when he told me," said PFC Carl Block, 21, Buffalo, N.Y., "you don't expect to find Kool-Aid with Bugs Bunny on the package front in an enemy pack."

Block, also a rifleman with "E" Co., was with Chaplik when he made the Kool-Aid discovery.

"They were neatly tucked away in his pack," explained Chaplik. "There were several packs there but his was the only one containing Kool-Aid."

It was a lucky find for the two Leathernecks. The only water available to them in the area was rain water that had settled in a bomb crater.

"And that wasn't exactly too tasty," noted Block. "So the presweetened Kool-Aid made our day."

"Shower power" is what's happening on Hill 861, a Marine hilltop near Khe Sanh. In fact, there might be a world record set for jamming men into a shower stall once the Marines get their shower barrels full.

"That's the problem right there," said PFC Joseph Roberts, 18, Martin's Ferry, Ohio, an assistant machine gunner with "A" Co., 1st Bn., First Marine Regiment, 1st Marine Division.

"We're praying for rain," Roberts explained. "And if it doesn't rain we'll figure out another way to get water." The Leatherneck outpost, manned by Marines from "A" Co., 1st Bn., Fifth Marines, is regularly re-supplied by helicopter with drinking water but larger quantities of water cannot be heli-lifted to the Marines.

The 1st Squad, 1st Plt. of "A" Co., built Hill 861's first shower stalls. Other Marines in the company followed their example and now several shower stalls, built from empty fuel barrels and spare wood, have been erected on 861.

Now all that's needed is some cooperation from the weatherman so that "A" Company's shower barrels can fill up. A training school for 120 new patrolmen with the Texas Department of Public Safety will start July 30. Major Luther Moore, Regional Commander, announced today.

"We have several new benefits to offer qualified young men," Moore said. "For instance, the pay during training is $500 per month and upon graduation this is increased to $571."

"Also, our selection methods are more liberal in that an applicant is not required to live in Texas for one year prior to employment, and the entrance examination is given every day at our larger offices."

To qualify for employment in the uniformed services of the DPS, a man must be between the ages of 20 and 35, not less than 5 feet 8 inches tall, have a high school education or its equivalent, be in sound physical condition with good vision and must be a citizen of the United States.

"Among the many benefits that patrolmen enjoy," Moore pointed out, "are two weeks annual vacation, all holidays provided for by the Legislature, modern liberal retirement systems and group hospitalization and life insurance plans, traveling expenses and longevity pay, and uniforms and all the necessary equipment to perform their duties."

For complete information concerning the position of patrolman, training and benefits, Moore asked that those who are interested contact the nearest DPS patrolman or DPS office. "In return," he said, "they will receive complete information in regard to the application and examination."

The Khe Sanh Marine combat base had two unexpected visitors from North Vietnam, during the middle of June.

Two North Vietnamese (NVA) soldiers turned themselves in under the "Chieu Hoi" program (South Vietnamese Government's "Open Arms Program"). Under this program, NVA soldiers who willingly surrender to the allied forces are sent to the Saigon government's Chieu Hoi camps for rehabilitation.

The first NVA soldier, a private first class, turned himself in to "E" Company, 2nd Battalion, Third Marines just southeast of Khe Sanh. He was dressed in a new uniform and was fairly well groomed.

Through an interpreter, he told Marines his unit had not made contact with American Forces and had only been south of the demilitarized zone since early May. He also told the Marines that most members of his unit belonged to the Communist Party and had entered South Vietnam from Laos.

The second "Hoi Chanh," as the person is called who surrenders under the Chieu Hoi program, was a private from another enemy battalion. He walked to the Khe Sanh combat base and turned himself in to members of the 1st Battalion, Eleventh Marines.

He said his unit had received allied artillery fire and had been under jet aircraft attacks which had killed many NVA. Members of his unit feared sickness and were afraid they would be killed. He concluded saying the weapon he feared most was the 81mm mortar used by the allied forces.

He revealed he was aware of the Paris peace talks and felt bitter because the North Vietnamese ambassador had denied the NVA was operating in South Vietnam.

LCC Announces Tenth Annual Music Camp

Lubbock Christian College has announced that its 10th Annual Music Camp will be held August 4-16.

Corus, band, theory and sight-singing, song directing and Bible classes will be offered.

It is open to students of junior high or high school age, with the minimum age being 12 years. Tuition, room and board for the two-week period will be $45 for persons living on campus and $15 for others.

Students will use the school cafeteria, post office, classrooms and recreational facilities.

Recreation for students will include tennis, volleyball, softball, picnics and evening programs and concerts presented by the students themselves. A highlight of the camp will be the talent show in which all students are encouraged to compete.

Several outstanding men will aid in conducting the activities of the camp. They are as follows: B. Wayne Hinds, LCC Chorus Director and Head of LCC Music Department; Charles E. Cox, LCC Chorus Director; Eddie Chance, LCHS Band and Chorus Director; Vic Kyler, Gruver Band Director; Jim Priest, Hereford; Junior High Band Director; Horace Coffman, Lubbock church music director; and Tex Stevens, also a church music director in Houston; as well as John Priestwood, El Paso Choral Director.

The North Vietnamese walked up, took the cards and started to deal!" explained Cpl. Mitch Michaud, Fort Kent, Maine.

Michaud, a member of a security platoon, was off-duty. The North Vietnamese had turned himself in under the "Chieu Hoi" (South Vietnamese Government "Open Arms") program. The former North Vietnamese Army (NVA) soldier was awaiting transportation to Dong Ha when the card game started.

"It wasn't hard to understand what he wanted to play once he picked up the cards and started to deal," said Michaud. "He immediately laid down three threes and a game of gin rummy was under way." Cpl. Michaud later said that he did not think that it would take much to rehabilitate the card playing North Vietnamese. "He was friendly, even if he did beat me with my own cards."

A Marine PFC surrendered his canteen cover last week at Khe Sanh.

PFC Craig M. Hambleton, 19, Yakima, Wash., a member of "E" Co., 2nd Bn., Third Marine Regiment, was standing guard in a foxhole.

Throughout the night, Hambleton heard faint squeaks. "I couldn't imagine what they were," he said.

He found out the next morning. "I'd taken a drink of water during the night and had left my canteen outside of its cover. When I reached for the cover the next morning, I noticed I had three companions."

The fourth companion, a mother mouse, instantly charged inside the canteen cover to protect her new born children. Having no intention of alarming the Vietnamese Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, Hambleton put his canteen inside his trouser pocket, surrendering the cover to the mice.

BUNDLES OF BRAUN

Seen through a microscope, muscle tissue is a bundle of fibers, each one no larger in diameter than a fine human hair. Yet these slender threads are capable of supporting a thousand times their own weight. Durable as they are, muscles are subject to a host of disorders, ranging from simple charley-horses to crippling and often fatal diseases. Muscular Dystrophy Association of America advises that any muscle weakness of prolonged duration, especially in children, should be reported to a physician.

F. Ford Calls For Greater Skill Efforts

Frank Ford, Republican candidate for State Representative, has called for greater effort in providing skills training for the underemployed. Stating that "Jobs are the best answer to poverty," he has proposed a plan to utilize existing school facilities and volunteer teachers to step up adult education in Texas that will meet the needs for those skills that will be required for jobs in the 1970's.

"With increasing mechanization of farm labor and other low skill jobs in Texas," said Ford, "the need for job training is well recognized, and I am not satisfied with the current progress in education."

"Industry must continue to assume a greater role in education, and there must be greater state appropriations for learning as well as increased local effort for education and vocational training. However, with our rapidly increasing tax burden, we find ourselves walking a tightrope. This points up the need for mobilizing those who are willing to volunteer their time and talents to help

Where should you build your camp, or summer house, to get the breeze? If you place it in the bottom of a depression, or valley, will it be as well ventilated as it would on the top of a hill, or on the side of a slope? You probably know that a house built in a bottom doesn't get the breeze—but why? First, of course, it lies too low to feel the effects of surface winds as much as higher structures. But even more important, in some cases, is the fact that it lies out of reach of heat radiation movements. A house on the side of a slope will experience the passage of warm air rising out of the lower areas in day and the descent of cold air at night, which means desirable ventilation in the summer.

Washington Report
From Congress
BOB PRICE 18TH DISTRICT, TEXAS
1323 LONGWORTH OFFICE BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D.C. • 225-3704

Congress is now staging the annual ritual of authorization for more Foreign Aid, a program that becomes less and less popular each year.

In spite of the pleas of those who insist that we must help the needy both at home and abroad if we are to have the kind of world we want to live in, I believe it is wrong to continue to take money from American citizens by taxes and then give it away to foreign nations many of whom have no debt at all and all of whom have vastly less debt than the U.S. Yet this is what has been done year after year since days of the Marshall Plan which accomplished its goal of rebuilding a war-torn Europe and making those countries self-sufficient. And not all of them have remained friendly to America.

More important are the realistic views expressed by some of the members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee in the report on the bill which asks for another $2,364,725,000 for fiscal 1969. One of them said: "During a discussion I had recently with one of our Ambassadors he made the following observation: 'Modern diplomacy is 90 percent aid. We can't get along well with the government of the country unless we have a larger aid program.' 'This attitude typifies the U. S. State Department, since for 20 years our diplomats have substituted overgenerous aid programs for practicing diplomacy. It is apparent, however, that the days of blank checks for foreign aid have finally ended.

"This Congress obviously recognizes our budgetary complications and the great frustrations of the American public over the complete collapse of foreign policy. If the Congress provides an aid program at all, it will set limitations far below the Administration's request. Therefore, our diplomats will have to use long-neglected diplomatic skills and will no longer have available unlimited aid funds to disperse to many unappreciative governments. 'The aid program which survives should place emphasis only on practical long-range projects rather than the glamorous facades that have marked 20 years of aid. It is also necessary that a reduced aid program have as its foremost requirement the practical interest of the United States in any approved project.'

Another committee member said this in the report: "As a matter of cold, hard necessity there should be no authorization or appropriation of new money for so-called foreign aid for fiscal year 1969. The Administration should be compelled to go to the pipeline. Whatever legislation is necessary to deobligate and reprogram funds in the pipeline for use in a few vital areas such as South Korea should be enacted and the bulk of the program ended. 'More than $170 billion, including interest on the money, has been dug from the pockets of American taxpayers and lavished on governments around the world. The waste and extravagance; the lack of appreciation by most of the recipient countries is appalling. 'As great as the resources of this nation may be, it has neither the capacity nor the capability of policing and financing the world and remaining a free and solvent Republic.'

Or how can we demand that Americans, already taxed to the hilt, ante up a 10 percent surtax so we can reduce our deficit and slow down inflation and at the same time continue a Foreign Aid program that is the cause of a good part of our troubles.

The cotton futures market is drawing considerably more interest from cotton producers than at any time in recent years according to Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock.

And it can be just as valuable a tool for farmers as it is for the merchants and spinners who, along with the ever-present speculators, have traditionally "made the market," Johnson believes.

"But," he cautions, "as of now all too few of us have the necessary knowledge and understanding of futures trading to properly take advantage of its usefulness."

His remarks were triggered by the initiation of trading July 15 in the New York Cotton Exchange's new Number 1 contract, based on Middling 15/16 inch cotton. The Number 2 contract began trading in 1967 and is based on Middling cotton stapling 1-1/16 inches. Certain grades and staples above and below the base of both contracts are tenderable at premiums or discounts calculated from spot market quotations.

The successful operation of a futures market is dependent on freedom in the market place for supply and demand factors to have their normal influence on prices, a condition which did not exist for cotton so long as Commodity Credit Corporation had huge stocks of all cotton qualities.

But as of August 1 this year CCC stocks are expected to be below a million bales, down from almost 17 million on August 1, 1966. Consequently CCC sales of cotton will not have a significant influence on prices, making active futures market possible and necessary as a price stabilizing tool for all concerned.

Under the current cotton program it isn't likely that CCC stocks will soon be rebuilt to price-depressing levels. So this "new era" for cotton, in which futures will play a significant role in cotton marketing, is expected to endure for some time.

Futures trading essentially is the buying and selling of contracts which obligate the seller to deliver and the buyer to accept delivery of cotton or other commodities at some future date. Cotton Trading is done in 100-bale lots with contracts for delivery or acceptance on any date in a specified month. "With careful study and consultation with reputable futures brokers," Johnson said, "producers under certain conditions can 'peg' in advance the price they will get for the fall harvest."

If for example the new short staple contract should open at 24 cents a pound for Middling 15/16 delivered in January, 1969, a producer expecting to produce 100 bales of approximately this quality could sell a 100-bale January contract, assuring himself of 24 cents a pound on his production regardless of what happened to spot market prices.

Should the market drop to say 20 cents he would have gained four cents a pound by using the futures market, less the broker's commission ($45 per 100 bales) and delivery costs (about two cents a pound).

Of course by the same token if the market went up to 28 cents he would still be obligated to deliver at 24 cents, losing four cents a pound.

However in no case is the seller or buyer of a contract required to deliver or accept the actual cotton. At any time he wishes to get out of the market he can instruct his broker to "buy in" or "sell out" his contract at whatever price may prevail at the time.

In the example used above, for instance, if January futures went to 22 cents a month or two after the producer had sold, he could instruct his broker to buy in his contract, take his profit and sell his crop on the open market at harvest.

Delivery months for the long staple contract, Number Two, are October, December, March, May and July.

To avoid confusion the New York Cotton Exchange has set September, November, January, April, June and August as the trading months on the Number One contract.

Johnson goes on to say that even if a producer does not personally intend to buy and sell in the futures market he can still profit by keeping abreast of futures prices, particularly if he is interested in contracting his crop to a merchant or spinner.

"Futures market prices are an indication of what merchants, mills and speculators think spot market prices will be at a given time in the future, and this information can be very useful to producers in determining the price at which they would be wise to contract their crop," he said.
