State funding cuts to have little effect on local schools

Cuts in the state's public education funds will have little effect on the local school budget, according to Garland Davis, Ozona superintendent of schools.

The state must trim $552 million from education funds to balance its budget. Gov. Bill Clements has not decided how to make the cuts, but is standing firm in insisting that the slashes must come.

The state provides from $220,000 to $250,000 annually to Crockett County schools. This is 8.5 percent of the district's funding.

The remaining 91.5 percent of school funding amounts to more than three million dollars from local sources.

However, state tampering with the permanent school fund monies may be a cause of concern for the future, according to Davis.

"The only other bad thing that might happen is if the state adds more additional cost items without providing the funding," Davis said.

An example of such costs might be increased educational services to mentally or physically handicapped students.

Crockett County schools are a budget-balanced district which means that the district receives very little funding for any of the mandated programs contained in House Bill 72.

"State education cuts will not cause much change with regard to a school district like ours," Davis said.

A projected decrease in the local tax base of about $100,000,000 will likely cause local school taxes to be increased by 6.8 percent.

The long-range effect of state budget cuts in education funds may mean less available money for future needs, according to Davis.

"It may mean less chance for aid on down the line," he said.

Seat belts cut injuries

Two auto accidents in Crockett County last week resulted in no injuries because both drivers were wearing seat belts with shoulder harness.

Barbara Nanny of Barnhart was the driver of a 1982 Ford pickup which overturned Feb. 16 on an unpaved road. Ms. Nanny was traveling west when a deer ran in front of her vehicle.

In an attempt to dodge the animal, the vehicle skidded sideways, ran off the road and overturned one-half time, landing on its top.

There was moderate damage to the right side and top of the pickup according to the report of investigating officer Trooper Cliff Babbitt.

A 1983 Toyota pickup driven by Juan Avila of Ozona received moderate to severe damage to the front end when Avila struck a black cow standing in the road Feb. 20.

The accident occurred on Hwy. 163 as Avila was traveling north of Ozona.

Babbitt was also the investigating officer in this incident.

Public School Week March 2-6

The Crockett County Consolidated Common School District will be among 1,069 public school districts in the state observing Texas Public Schools Week on March 2-6.

"Although parents and the public are invited to visit our schools throughout the year, a special invitation is being extended during Public Schools Week," said Garland Davis, superintendent of schools.

"Share Our Success" is the statewide theme for this year's Public School Week activities.

"All of our four schools will host open-house activities during this week, and everyone is invited to see first-hand how the school district operates," Mr. Davis said.

Open house will be held at Ozona Primary School, Ozona Intermediate School and Ozona Junior High School on Monday, March 2, from 7 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. An all-day open house will be held at Ozona High School on Tuesday, March 3, from 8:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m.

Ozona High School visitors are requested to register in the principal's office before touring the campus.

Due to Ozona's March 4-8 Spring Break, Public School Week activities will be held on only these two days.

Don Payne named head coach

Don Payne was named head coach at Ozona High School in a special meeting of the board of trustees Feb. 23.

Payne was selected "on the strength of his interest in the job and the excellent job he has done in junior high over the years," said Supt. of Schools Garland Davis. The board felt that Payne should be awarded for past service, according to Davis.

Payne has been head junior high boys coach for football, basketball and track since coming to Ozona in 1980. "He has an excellent record in all three sports with several undefeated seasons in football," said Davis.

A graduate of Angelo State University, Payne came to Ozona in the fall of 1980 as his first teaching assignment.

He was an outstanding athlete in the football and basketball programs at Tulia High School.

Payne will retain most of his present classroom assignments in Ozona Junior High.

Dorris Haire receives Game Warden Assn. award

W. D. "Dorris" Haire received the Texas Game Warden Association's Region I Associate Member of the Year award for 1986 last week.

The award was presented at the annual TGWA convention which was held at the Sheraton Hotel in Austin Feb. 16-17.

The prestigious award is given in each of 10 regions of the state to the associate member who makes the greatest contribution of time and effort in helping the TGWA realize its goal of "Conservation for Future Generations", through association projects such as deer hunts and summer camps for underprivileged youths and general community service.

Region I is the largest geographical region in the state, running from east of Del Rio to east of San Angelo to El Paso and from the Rio Grande River to the New Mexico state line.

Haire's 1986 activities include: deer hunts in Crockett County and South Texas for underprivileged youths, youth summer camp at Kerrville, volunteer hunter safety instructor, 4-H leadership in shooting programs, fire chief for Crockett County Volunteer Fire Department.

Honorable mention needs to go to several Ozona residents according to Game Warden Rod Chalmers.

Bob Harris has participated in two youth hunts in Crockett County and one in South Texas. Dee Keilers helped organize and participate in the last two youth hunts in Crockett County.

Harvey Hill and "staff" organized and prepared food for Crockett County youth hunts.

And last but not least, honorable mention to all local residents who have served as "dads" in TGWA youth projects.

Dorris Haire was the recipient of the Associate Member of the Year award at a meeting of the Texas Game Warden Association last week in Austin.

Congratulating Haire is Crockett County Game Warden Rod Chalmers.

Trail riders make plans

The Crockett County Sesqui-centennial trail ride sparked the pioneer spirit of many residents, and a tradition was born. Plans are now underway for a second ride to be held in 1987. Eleven trail riders met Feb. 17 to begin preliminary plans for the annual event.

A second meeting, which was held Feb. 24, was to help establish a possible date for the ride. A combined ride involving Ozona, Barnhart, Sterling City and Mertzon had been considered after the 1986 ride to Barnhart to join the Sesqui-centennial Wagon Train.

J.V. Lions finish district in second place

By Cople Davis
 NEWS SPORTS

The Ozona Junior Varsity Lions capped their 1987 basketball season early last week with a satisfying 64-51 victory over Eldorado. The Lions finished the year with only two district losses, giving them second place outright.

The two teams spent the early part of the game feeling each other out, as neither team had played one another before due to an Eldorado scheduling error. Near the end of the first period, the Lions hit a scoring spurt which put them ahead by four, 16-12.

During the second quarter, the game became a fast break battle. Eldorado, led by flashy point guard Dusty Barker, hustled the court for 14 points. However, the Lions added a little flash of their own, sizzling the Eagles with a 21 point outburst. With the game set at Ozona's pace, the Lions took a 37-26 halftime lead.

The third period was a scorebook Xerox of the first as both teams equaled their offensive outputs of the first eight minutes.

Eldorado finally caught fire in the final period. Depending heavily on the outside shooting of Barker, the Eagles rallied to within ten points until Ozona finally put the game out of reach. Although the Lions were outscored 17-11 in the fourth quarter, they held on to win 64-51.

Freshman post extraordinaire Chris Denman led the Lions in scoring with 17 points. Also in double figures was Lalo Rodriguez who bagged 10 points.

Students place in Early UIL

Early to rise and Early it was Saturday, Feb. 21, for three Ozona High School students competing in a University Interscholastic League literary and speech meet at Early High School.

The sacrifice of a couple hours sleep Saturday morning paid off, however, with three first place and two second place medals in journalism events.

Michael Glaze placed first in newswriting and second in editorial writing. T.C. Tucker placed first in editorial writing and second in newswriting as well as first in feature writing.

Robby Tambunga placed eighth of 31 entries in newswriting.

The 65 points accumulated by the Ozona students put the school in second place for the entire meet. However, Crane managed to add enough points with the last event of the day to tie the second place.

Twenty-nine schools were entered in the competition.

Early won their own meet as well as the Mason UIL meet the previous week.

"If our speakers, math and science people could have gone to Early for the competition we might have won the meet," journalism sponsor Jacquelyn Shacklette said. "We were late calling in the entries and were told that most events were full. They accepted the journalism entries because they had to hire judges just for that."

Ozona students will participate in a UIL speech and literary meet in Big Lake this weekend.

Ladies end season with big win over McCamey

by Alison Larissa Schoenhals

NEWS SPORTS

Winning - Webster's New World Dictionary defines it as "to gain by effort, labor, or struggle...." The Lady Lions showed definite signs of wanting to win their last game of the season. Their opponent, McCamey, had beaten them once before by nine points, 51-42. This time the Ladies set their feet on the court with a vengeance, and they didn't give up until they were the winner.

The first quarter started off at a high speed tempo. As in every first quarter, one team took dominance; fortunately the Lady Lions were on top. The Ladies were proving to McCamey that they could hold their ground and play some "awesome" basketball. At the end of the first quarter, the Ladies had a nine point lead over the Lady Badgers, 13-4, and they were ready to get back onto the floor and do it again.

Excitement prevailed on the Lady Lions bench. They were very anxious to pull off a victory, and their over-anxiety is what may have caused them to slip a bit in the second period. McCamey came back in the second quarter scoring 15 points over Ozona's 12.

Most of Ozona's scoring in this quarter came from free throws. Lydia Pena, a second year letterman, shot 10 free throws, making seven and missing three. This remarkable free throw percentage was outstanding and probably the factor that held the Ladies on top. McCamey had five players in foul trouble by the end of the first half of play. This excessive fouling added to Ozona's free throw percentage and is probably what baked McCamey's badger. As the last seconds ticked off the clock to end the first half of play, the score came to a close at 25-19, Ozona's favor. Both teams went to their locker rooms to rest a minute and go over some of the rougher areas of play.

After half time the Ladies came back onto the court, but this time the atmosphere was a little less on the anxiety side and more weighted on the determined side. McCamey was out to teach Ozona a lesson for making them look so bad in the first half, but Ozona didn't care because the ladies had it set in their minds that Ozona was going to be the victor this time.

In the course of the third and fourth quarters, McCamey got hot on the heels of the Lady Lions. Scoring 27 points, compared to Ozona's 21 in the second half, McCamey brought the game to a tie at the conclusion of the final quarter.

This tie caused both teams to go into an overtime situation and play until one team finally won. Three minutes were put on the clock and both teams went to the center to jump for possession of the ball. Vickie Reagor, Kelly Williams, and Vickie Flores had fouled out; therefore, the outcome of the game lay heavily on the shoulders of the second team players. McCamey had also lost several of its players to fouling out and injury so the stakes were somewhat equal.

The first overtime drug on until finally the buzzer sounded with each team having scored two points. This caused yet another overtime to go into effect and for the game's outcome to be even more of a suspense.

Finally, in the second overtime, the Ladies got tired of running up and down the court without any baskets being made, so they decided to do something about it. Stacy Lay scored a two pointer, Adriane Wilson made a three point play by shooting, making it, getting fouled on the shot, and then making the free throw she shot. Then, to enhance their win, Stacie Winkley made a free throw, pulling the Lady Lions to a six point lead.

Ozona did not let any points go in for McCamey in the second overtime and thus Ozona won the game 54-48.

Pandemonium was heard throughout the gym, not to mention the massive excitement which was expressed on Ozona's bench. It was truly a last night to remember for the outgoing seniors and a place to start again next year for the others.

The Lady Lions would like to express their appreciation and thanks to all of Ozona for its support throughout the year.

Lions look toward bi-district

by T. C. Tucker

NEWS SPORTS

The Ozona Lions ended regular season play last Tuesday, Feb. 17 in a game against Eldorado. This Friday, the Lions will play either Presidio or Van Horn for bi-district play, the first of the state playoffs.

Being their last game, the Eldorado Eagles gave the Lions a tough time Tuesday. Ozona pulled out in front by nine in the first quarter, but by halftime the Eagles had already positioned themselves for a move toward the lead.

With the aid of scoring leaders Scott Denman and Roger Flores, the Lions were able to hold any sort of rally and eventually broke away in the fourth period to win 67-49.

Once again, the Lions demoted how well their defensive play stifles the opponent. In overall district standings, Ozona led in defense, allowing only 632 points to be scored against them all district compared to some figures of 825 or 892 points.

The Lions finished second in overall standings behind Stanton. The reason for the second place finish resulted from the Lions second half record of 4-3 where as Stanton lost only a game each half.

Three Lions made the top 25 scorers for the district. Denman scored 220 points in 14 games, averaging 15.7 points per game.

Sam Hightower averaged 8.4 points per game to place 19 while Flores scored 102 points on the season to finish out the list at 25th.

Tuesday, Feb. 24, the Lions took on Stanton to decide the district winner which will in turn establish the bi-district pairings. Both Presidio and Van Horn would be competitive in Ozona's district, Coach John Curry commented.

If the Lions do win on Friday, they will advance to the area playoffs to be played the following Tuesday. Place and opponent would be determined by other games.

Rachel's Reviews

SHOULD SUPER CONSUMERS WRITE OFF CONVENIENCE FOODS?

Does it pay to scratch from your shopping list the quick-to-fix commercial food items and make them from "scratch"? A study by USDA and another study by the Co-operative Extension Service in Florida reveal that 60 percent of 228 selected convenience products cost more per serving than the homemade version. About one-fourth cost less, while others cost about the same.

Convenience foods account for nearly half of the food sold for home use. But, with rising food and fuel costs, what impact is such buying having on your total food cost?

Convenience foods usually require less fuel at home and are quicker to prepare than their homemade counterparts. When the cost of fuel and preparation time, figured at minimum wages, was added for 41 of the convenience items and their home-prepared counterparts, nearly half the convenience products cost less. The value you place on time may influence the final decision on whether you or the processor handles most of the preparation.

A look at convenience foods in your local supermarket reveals "convenience" now comes in all sizes and shapes. Generally, the more ingredients involved and the more preparation necessary, the slimmer are the chances that one of these items will be cheaper than one prepared at home.

The results of careful shopping for convenience foods may surprise you. According to the Florida study, frozen french fried potatoes are less expensive than fresh homemade ones. Convenience au gratin potatoes, however, cost three times more than making them from scratch.

Other samplings of comparative cost cited in both the USDA study and the Florida study are:

Among vegetables most canned and frozen bulk packaged items are lower in cost than their fresh counterpart. However, vegetables with added sauces and in cooking pouches increase dramatically in cost.

Pancakes and waffles made from mixes requiring only water are better busy than those made from scratch. And the frozen, ready-for-the-toaster variety costs three to five times more than those made from a mix.

Enforcement Wives meet

The Crockett County Law Enforcement Wives Association held their monthly meeting on Feb. 19, 1987. The meeting was held at the home of Linda DeLaGarza and was hosted by Linda DeLaGarza and Jill DeLaGarza. The meeting began at 7:30 p.m. with Texas Dept. of Human Services, Frank Galindo III giving a presentation on child abuse, followed by a question-answer period.

The meeting was attended by: Linda Rodriguez, Barbara Burger, Cyndi Simmons, Jodie Barton, Sandra Gonzales, Jill DeLaGarza and Linda DeLaGarza and adjourned at 9:15 p.m. Refreshments were served.

Sutton, Vannoy fleeces tops in doe kid program

The Crockett County 4-H commercial doe kid feeding program ended Feb. 17 with the selection of the champion fleeces.

Cody Sutton had the champion fleece and Whitney Vannoy had the reserve champion. Both of these kids were bred by Bob Childress. Stefny Sutton placed third, Tamie Reagor fourth and JoLynn Vannoy fifth.

The commercial doe kid feeding program is sponsored by the Livestock and Range Committee. Ranchers furnish doe kids to 4-H members in August. These kids are assigned to the feeders, tagged, sheared and weighed. The 4-H members feed and care for the animals and show them in January at the 4-H show. In February the kids are shorn, weighed again, and the fleeces are weighed, graded and evaluated. The 4-H members receive money from their fleeces to pay feed ills, and the doe kids go back to the rancher. This is a very good educational program for the youth and producers.

Brian May and Jim Adams, local warehouse men, graded, evaluated and judged the fleeces.

Brian May discussed mohair quality and preparation at the awards program on Tuesday evening to the 4-H members, parents, leaders and producers. Banners, rosettes and ribbons for the top fleeces were furnished by the Ozona Lions Club.

This year, some 18 youths fed and participated in the program and fed four animals each.

The quality of the kids in the commercial program continues to improve.

The following is the average and will give some indication of how the goats performed:

A trim, anyone?

By Sandra Hancock Stark

Beauty shop. The name of this well established business has always conjured up Cinderella-like fantasies. No more ugly ducklings -- only swans! No Cinderella scrubbing floors, but rather floating in a ball gown with hair piled high! No "before" but rather only "after" shots.

Beauty shop. Beauticians. Beautiful. They are synonymous. From them come ladies -- and gentlemen -- coiffed and elegantly styled. Then there is me! I know that I must be the ONLY person in the world who can enter a beauty shop looking BETTER than when I come out! I am the "after" before and the "before" after. Confused? So am I. And it has happened so often that it surely must not be the beautician, but the subject whom she is diligently trying to transform into elusive swan.

In our minds-eye, we all carry certain pictures of how we see ourselves. We may even take a picture torn from a magazine -- on a whim -- as a visual aide to help the beautician understand just what we are expecting. (No. I am not fool enough to think that I will be shapely like the svelte woman in the picture. Her slim body intimidates my more rounded one.) But surely my hair could be styled to bear a reasonable resemblance to the picture! I'm not talking MIRACLES -- only cooperation!

But for some reason when I enter a shop and ask for a trim, I come out SCALPED! Mr. Webster has several definitions for "trim". When I say "trim", I mean his first definition; "To put in order; to make neat or trim". Undoubtedly, I do not make myself clear for I usually exit the shop feeling that I have been subjected to another translation: "To chastise"!

There should be a universal hair-length "cutting-code". I think it should be as follows: smidgen = 1/16th inch; tad or tip = 1/4th inch; trim = 1/2 inch; cut = 1 inch or more; scalped = ME!!

I am a very trusting person. Perhaps to a fault. Once I have said, "Trim, please, and DON'T TOUCH THE BANGS", I leave myself in the beautician's capable, well-qualified hands. SHE is the professional -- the sculptress. I am her clay. SHE is to mold my hair into something not too far-fetched from "beauty". That is probably my biggest mistake! I should tell her: "Trim my hair like THIS [emphatically pointing at the crumpled picture]. And if you cut ONE hair MORE, I WON'T PAY YOU!!" Yes. I definitely should be more ASSERTIVE. Instead, I sit calmly as my hair continues to fall onto the cape with each snip of the scissors sounding a death knell, while telling myself that I am being transformed into a reasonable facimile of that picture. Everything is going as it should. I trust HER. SHE is taking care of me!

When finished, I am turned around to face the mirrors. ALAS! There is no resemblance whatsoever to the picture that I am still holding! Once again I've been SCALPED! "Is it too short?" she asks. [What would she do if I answered "yes"? Try Super-Glue?] I could make a fuss. What would that accomplish? Too late! "How do you like it? Is this what you had in mind?" she asks. "Well..." I answer, "It is a BIT short...but what the heck! It'll grow..." Why hurt her feelings? I do work in a back office...thank goodness. THINK POSITIVE! She really has saved me money. I won't need another trim until spring...

Stained glass topic of study

The Pandale Study Club met Thursday, Feb. 12, at 2 p.m. at the Pandale Community Center Building with Sue Arledge serving as hostess. Members decided that their 1986-87 Pandale Study Club scholarship that will be presented to a deserving Ozona graduate in May would be given this year in memory of longtime member and retired Ozona school teacher Jessie White.

President Barbara Malone introduced Susan Wardlaw from Del Rio who gave a fun and interesting program on how to make things with stained glass. She brought several beautiful window hangings she had made along with suncatchers, Christmas ornaments, candleholders and a kaleidoscope. She completed a little yellow duck night light to demonstrate how to cut and solder the stained glass. At the end of her program, she gave the finished night light to Josephine Mills.

The meeting was adjourned with the club prayer, and hostess Sue Arledge served refreshments to guest Susan Wardlaw and members Martha Gries, Sara Hargraves, Barbara Malone, Josephine Mills, Ginger Perner and Vonnie Womack.

Sorority meets at Miller Hall

Xi Sigma Omega chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met at Granny Miller Hall Feb. 23 with Mrs. Jeannie Wellman as hostess.

A regular meeting was held, and members adjourned with closing ritual and mizpah.

Mrs. Pearlletta Morris presented a program on flower arranging. Members brought flowers and containers to make arrangements for their own homes. Mrs. Morris helped members in deciding how to make the arrangements, and each took home a beautiful creation.

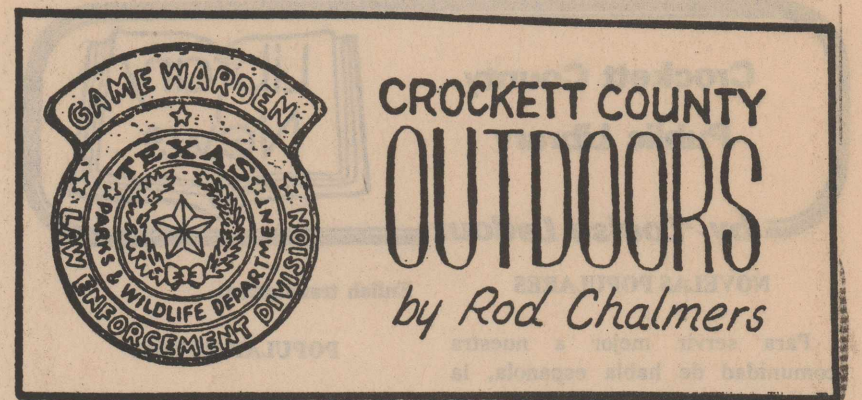

Members attending were: Donna Sanders, Marsha Cannon, Brenda Newton, Nancy Hale, Betty Koerth,

Donna Snyder, Alice Sawyer, Debbie Phillips, Jeannie Wellman, Bobbie Fatout and Arlene Clayton. Marsha Cannon reporting

It's a boy

Albert and Juanita Luna of Sonora are the parents of a son, Albert John IV, born Feb. 20, 1987. The baby arrived at Community Hospital in San Angelo weighing seven pounds, five ounces.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Limon of Ozona and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Luna of Sonora.

If you didn't go quail hunting Sunday, you missed your last chance till November. But don't be too hasty to moth-ball your shotgun, because on April 4 we'll open spring turkey season. I'll run a column on pertinent rules and regulations as the season approaches, but let's take a break from hunting and direct our attention to another part of our great outdoors-fishing.

On numerous occasions, I've been approached by a fisherman (usually in January, when he's looking for something to bring up his favorite sport at a time of year when there's little more to do than talk about it) and he says, "This summer I caught a bass about 15 inches long - now recon, Mr. Warden, how long did it take him to get that big?" This guy doesn't know it yet, but he's taken his hog to the wrong market, because he's asked a Deer Country Cop a Fisheries Biologist's question. Not wanting to let our fisherman know how really ignorant and narrow-minded this particular Warden really is, I start quoting Allen Forshage, largemouth bass program leader for the Texas Parks & Wildlife Department.

First thing I'll tell him is, it depends on what part of the state (length of growing season) the fish came from. Theoretically, the longer the growing season, the longer and bigger the fish can get in a year. There are also other variables to be considered, the most important of which is probably food availability. A predator fish like a largemouth bass needs plenty of forage fish to attain maximum growth. At this point, Mr. Fisherman is getting bored (heard all this before), and that glazed-over look in his eyes tells me he's down at Amistad trashing the water with a chattrause spinner, so I bring him back to earth with a statement like, "Rings on a fish's scales show a growth pattern which can indicate age." (He's back.)

"Forshage is doing a study on Ethyl, the 17 1/2 pound state record largemouth bass, who's now living at the state's Tyler fish hatchery." (At this point, you couldn't drive Mr. Fisherman away with skunk scent!)"

He's determined that Ethyl was one of a group of brood fish stocked in Lake Fork during 1978. Ethyl was 9.9 inches long when a year old, 19.5 inches long at age 4, 24.2 inches long at age 7, and she's now a strapping 27.5 inch 10 year old, and Ethyl figures if she hadn't been hauled in from Lake Fork in '86 she could have made the Lakers basketball team at 15. Forshage has another brute, a 13 pounder, caught at the same lake, for comparison and found that the two fish grew at an almost identical rate. He has determined, this data supports the philosophy of catch and release, in that the Florida strain fish have shown they grow quickly and consistently to a quality size if given the chance. And here's the clincher: he says it is very likely that there are other bass as large as Ethyl in the lake." (I just lost my audience... he's hooking up his bass boat and off to Lake Fork, wherever that is.)

Forshage's study is made possible by a program called "Operation Share A Lone Star Lunker," sponsored by the TPWD and three corporations. Under this program, anglers can donate their live fish for study, and the sponsors will either pay for mounting or cover the cost of a fiberglass replica, if the fisherman elects to release the fish back into its lake of origin. I don't know about you, but that kinda gives me a good feeling.

Meanwhile, the TPWD uses the big fish as brooders in the hatchery system in hopes that their genetic potential for growth will be passed along to fish stocked in the future. Well, we're doing it with everything else, why not fish?

By the way, if you see Mr. Fisherman 'tween here at Lake Fork, tell him if he catches a 13-pound-plus bass and keeps it alive and in good condition, he can call the Tyler hatchery at 214-592-7570, or TPWD in Austin at 1-800-792-1112 weekdays (or 512-389-4848 afterhours), and share his lunker with the rest of us for posterity. Who knows, you might want to donate yours from Amistad this weekend. Ah...the stuff dreams are made of...

Fort Lancaster...

By Fred Bitting

THEN

Fort Lancaster began as Camp Lancaster in 1855 by Companies H & K of the First Infantry. Captain Stephen D. Carpenter, commanding, was given the option of choosing a name for the camp. It was named for Job Roberts Hamilton Lancaster. He was a classmate of Capt. Carpenter's at West Point and was killed by lightning in Florida during the Seminole War.

The soldiers' first duties were to clear the ground of cactus and yucca. Mesquite did not dominate the landscape back then. Camp Lancaster started with tents and Turnley Cottages, an early pre-fab building. After establishing the basic camp, the men were assigned the duties of erecting the permanent fort buildings. Cutting rock, making adobe and lime, cutting wood, and hauling water were the primary duties as well as normal guard duty. Going on patrol must have been a pleasure.

Women were also assigned to the post, the laundresses. The soldiers' pay was docked to cover the salaries of these women. New Army policy required soldiers to bathe and change their underwear once a week.

Fort Lancaster was far removed from civilization. No weekend pass from here, although the officers seemed to find plenty of excuses to be away for extended periods in San Antonio. Only 12 desertions were recorded between 1857 and 1860 which was considered a small number and a credit to the Post command.

There were probably some camp followers who set up a tent town next to this Post as this was quite common. It is from these military posts and the camp followers that the towns like Fort Davis and Fort Stockton grew. In 1859 Company H was detailed to Comanche Springs to establish Camp Stockton. Only one company remained at Fort Lancaster until it was abandoned in 1861.

NOW

Fort Lancaster State Historic Site is still considered by some people to be a lonely and deserted outpost. Those of us who serve here are often asked what it was we did to be sent here. The very thing that appeals to us is what frightens others away, the quiet and solitude.

We welcome a new Park Superintendent for Fort Lancaster, Ronald R. Alton. Ron comes to us from Sea Rim State Park east of Houston where he served as a Park Ranger. He is a graduate of Texas A&M University and has worked as a Park Attendant for the A&M Department of Recreation and Parks and as a Park Technician with the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers.

As a reminder, any groups wishing to tour the Visitor Center and ruins, call in advance to make reservations to be sure the site will be open. Also, a staff member can be available to enhance your visit to Fort Lancaster.

State court upholds
TECAT legality

Ozona teachers apparently did the right thing last March when they dutifully showed up at the appointed time and place to submit to the Texas Examination of Current Administrators and Teachers (TECAT).
The Texas Supreme Court ruled last week that the state literacy exam was constitutional when the high court upheld an Austin Court of Appeals decision in which the Texas State Teachers Association (TSTA) challenged the literacy exam.
With 99 percent of the state's 202,000 educators having passed the exam, teacher grumbling has disappeared.
All professional personnel of the Ozona schools passed the TECAT. Teachers statewide are now turning their attention to opposition to subject matter testing.

Prickly pear control

For many ranchers in Crockett County, prickly pear causes problems with their livestock such as sore mouth and digestive problems from seed compaction in the rumen. Prickly pear also inhibits growth of desirable forage.

There are several methods ranchers can utilize to help reduce and control the amount of prickly pear and related species in a pasture or entire ranch.

One of the most commonly used methods for controlling prickly pear is to aerial spray by mixing 1/2 pound active ingredient picloram (1 qt. of 2 lb./gal. product) with 1/4 to 1 gallon diesel fuel oil plus 1 to 2 ounces emulsifier per gallon of oil and water to make a 2 to 4 gallon solution per acre. Aerial spraying is normally done in the spring or fall when the air temperature is above 60 degrees F and has not been 32 degrees F or below in the past 24 hours.

Prescribed burning followed by aerial spraying a reduced rate of picloram has shown excellent results in the past. However, sufficient fine fuel of approximately 1500 pounds air-dry grass per acre with good fuel continuity must be present to provide a uniform burn with moderate to high intensity. In this area the prescribed burn is applied in January or February. Aerial spraying is followed up normally in April. The mixture used for follow up spraying consists of 1/8 pound active ingredient picloram (1/2 pint of 2 lb./gal. product) plus 1 to 2 quarts of diesel fuel oil plus 1 to 2 ounces of emulsifier per gallon of oil and sufficient water to make a 2 to 3 gallon solution per acre.

Individual plant treatment can be accomplished by several methods. One method is to apply 3/4 of an ounce of 10 percent picloram pellets (1 1/2 tablespoons) per 100 sq. ft. of canopy. Pellets should be applied in the spring or fall prior to expected high rainfall periods and should not be applied on areas to be seeded within the next two years.

Another method of individual plant treatment is to tank mix 1 pound active ingredient of picloram (2 qts. of 2 lb./gal. product) plus 19.5 gallons of diesel fuel oil plus 1 to 2 ounces emulsifier per gallon of oil plus 80 gallons of water. A similar tank mix utilizes 1 pound active ingredient of picloram plus 16 to 32 ounces of nonionic surfactant and water to equal 100 gallons of mixture. These treatments should be applied in the spring or fall anytime air temperature is above 60 degrees F and has not been 32 degrees F or below in the past 24 hours. If smaller batches are desired, the local SCS office can assist with the formulation.

For assistance in planning and applying prickly pear control, contact the local Soil Conservation Service office who provides assistance to local ranchers through the Crockett Soil and Water Conservation District.

FEBRUARY 1942

The Jap tide of aggression spread more and more over southeast Asia and the Netherland East Indies during February. Bali, Timor and then Sumatra were occupied against negligible resistance. On the 15th, General Percival surrendered at Singapore, some 64,000 troops being taken prisoner. Singapore, the Gibraltar of the far east, was presumed to have been almost impregnable from sea attacks. Most of the large artillery pieces protecting the port were mounted to fire only toward the sea approaches. The Japs came in the "back door" overland down the Malay Peninsula.

The Australian port of Darwin underwent heavy air attacks on the 19th, the U. S. destroyer Peary being among the ships sunk. A week later, the USS Langley was sunk en route to Java with thirty-two fighter planes aboard. From February 27 to March 1, what little naval forces the Allies had in the area were almost totally wiped out during the Battle of Java Sea and the subsequent withdrawal from Java. The U. S. cruiser Houston was one of those lost.

On the home front, "war time" (now called daylight savings time) went into effect in February. Our local school changed over on March 16. All of the various drives were being organized on the local level also. T. A. Kincaid Jr. was in charge of the scrap iron, rubber, rags, and waste paper collection until he went into service. Joe North then took over. The book drive was headed by Mrs. Carl Colwick, while Scott Peters headed the war bond sales. Mrs. Roy Henderson directed the Red Cross knitting, the first quota being ninety garments.

An aircraft warning service school was held in Ozona on the night of February 28. Among the local ranchers who volunteered to act as spotters were A. C. Hoover, Jeff Owens, J. M. Dudley, Paul Perner, Ben Robertson, Tom Powers, James Baggett, Dempster Jones and Max Schneemann.

The people of California were made a little more jittery when, on the 23rd, a Japanese submarine shelled an oil refinery near Santa Barbara. More serious losses, however, were occurring along the eastern seaboard, as German U-boats sunk their sixteenth merchant ship in these waters since December.

Jack Williams joined the Air Corps on February 1 at Goodfellow Field, and Ismael Najar was inducted into the Army on the 12th. Later in the month, Dean Phillips was transferred into the 54th Fighter Squadron at Pane Field, Washington.
