ruling in 2006 and 2007, prayer will no longer be allowed to be put on the agenda as an item to begin the meetings. The decisive case highlighted the Tangipahoa School Parish in Louisiana. (Doe v. Tangipahoa Parish School Board. 473 F 3d 188 (5th Cir. 2006) reh'g granted en banc, 478 F.3d 679 (5th Cir. 2007).

Apparently, the trouble started when a disgruntled parent sued the board and several school officials on behalf of his two sons. It was claimed that the prayer at the meetings violated the Establishment Clause. The references to Jesus constituted more than "allowable ceremonial deism" and demonstrated a preference for Christianity above other religions. The Louisiana school appealed. After being sued, they rejected an attempt to make prayers less focused on Christianity and more 'inclusive'. Childress stated however that in future CPISD meetings, anyone from the public that attends the Board meeting may ask for prayer in Open Forum, and anyone who chooses may join them in that prayer.

He then added that Susan Schaefer (the board member he had replaced) had done a good job and he'd try to serve the CPISD as well as she had.

Ames went on to say, "I know we've all made mistakes and have faults. We need to get over our differences and problems and work together for the kids." With everyone's full attention, he went forward, "We all try to break bad habits. Sometimes we start with good intentions, but then something happens and we stop. Today we say we'll quit the division and heal. Let's put our kids first and start the healing process. Bad habits can be broken. I appreciate being elected and I take this seriously. There are lots of good people around that want to help. Let's all work together."

The pair of ladies boots in the picture was painted with flowers in very loud and psychedelic colors — and the caption read: 'Different! — but in a good way."

Being different is kind of like being an influence — it can be in a good way or it can be in a bad way. There's no question as to whether God wants His people to be different - but He wants us to be different in a good way. "Don't be conformed to the world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind ... " (Rom. 12:2a). The gist of Eph. 4:17-32 is for the Christian to keep putting off the old person of Satan, and keep putting on the new person, patterned after Christ. Be different-in a good way! It's not natural, but when you're "colored" with the blood of Christ, it's not only easier, it's your burning desire goal.

Kids Corner Writing Project Honors Participants/Sponsors

Vilma Gonzalez, Director and Creator of the Kids Corner Writing Project, honored the young people of Cross Plains who participated in the writing project on Saturday, May 19 at the Robert E. Howard Pavilion (courtesy of Project Pride), with certificates and prizes.

Vilma wanted everyone to know that when she and her daughter arrived here a little over a year and a half ago, they were warmly welcomed and felt easily at home in Cross Plains. She said, "after a few months of being here, I felt I had to give something back to all of you, so I thought about starting a writing project where kids could participate and be published in the local newspaper, and later on have our own KCWP magazine. The main purpose of this project is to give our young ones a chance to express themselves freely, without being judged, so we can know what is on their minds and in their hearts. She told about the recent topics of Friendship, Spring Break and Easter and how each young person expressed their feelings. After summer break, she hopes all will be ready to begin again. She is asking "parents, teachers, sponsors, young people and the community for suggestions about topics and any other thing they can think of to make this project a continous success. I thank all of you who were involved in the project."

Then the moment arrived. Each young person waited with anticipation as they heard their name called and went up to assisted Vilma and presented each sponsors helped make this a sandwiches, chips, and soft drinks Subway; Charles Chesshir, as well as much visiting and Liveoak Land and Real Estate; picture taking. Memorial Day at Oplin this Monday at the Oplin Cemetery

The Oplin community would like to invite everyone out for our annual Memorial Day Services on Monday, May 28, 2007. Our services will be held at 9:00 a.m. at the Oplin Cemetery which is located 1/2 mile east of F.M. 604 on F.M. 2926 just down from the Oplin Community Center. Clyde Boy Scout Troop #223 will be presenting a Flag ceremony during our services.

Immediately following our services, refreshments will be served at the Community Center.

Mark the date and time on your calendars and come help us remember and honor all of the many men and women who served our country.

Commissioner Carrillo Speaks at Barn e Shale Expo

Railroad Commissioner Victor G. Carrillo joined Ft. Worth Mayor Mike Moncrief and Economist Dr. Ray Perryman, as guest speaker at the first Barnett Shale Expo at the Fort Worth Convention Center Wednesday, May 16th. Several thousand people are estimated to have attended the first-of-its-kind Expo.

The Barnett Shale natural gas trend is the hottest onshore gas exploration effort in the nation. The Barnett Shale is currently producing in 17 Texas counties but the trend continues to grow. Simply put, no one knows how far the Barnett Shale productive area will continue to extend.

The event highlight was the release of Dr. Perryman's Barnett

Shale economic impact study. The report estimates that overall effects of Barnett Shale activity will yield over 100,000 jobs and $10.4 billion in annual output through 2015.

Carrillo Commissioner reported that as of mid-April, there were 6.083 producing wells and 3,300 permitted locations for new wells into this unconventional natural gas reservoir. Approximately 177 operators are currently involved in the trend with Devon Energy as the largest producer. Since 2000, the Barnett Shale has produced over 2.3 trillion cubic feet (Tcf) of natural gas-representing approximately 6.2 Tcf of natural gas in 2006, making it the top gas producing state in the nation.

"The Texas Barnett Shale trend represents extraordinary opportunities for the region, the state, and the nation," states Commissioner Carrillo. "As our nation's voracious energy appetite continues to grow, this enormous natural gas resource in our own backyard brings much needed jobs, economic development, and energy security to our great state and nation."

USDA announces $990 thousand for household water well system grants

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 29, 2007 - Agriculture Under Secretary for Rural Development Thomas C. Dorr today announced the availability of $990,000 in funds to help qualified nonprofit organizations establish lending programs for rural household water wells.

"The Household Water Well System Grants complement our community water loan and grant program by funding individuals who receive their water from wells," said Dorr. "Many who live in rural America do not live in towns and communities where a centralized water system is feasible. This program helps to meet that basic human need: access to clean, safe drinking water."

The Household Water Well System Grant Program (HWWS) provides funds to non-profit private organizations for them to make individual loans to homeowners to construct or upgrade household water well systems. The applicant must contribute a matching amount equal to at least 10 percent of the grant request to capitalize the loan fund. Since the program was created in the 2002 Farm Bill, Rural Development has made 5 grants for $2,286,100.

The deadline for applications to be submitted is May 31, 2007. Applications may be submitted electronically through http:// www.grants.gov. Paper applications may be submitted to the U.S.

Department of Agriculture, USDA Rural Development Utilities Programs, Mail Stop #1570, Room 2233-South Building, 1400 Independence Avenue, SW, Washington, DC 20250-1570.

USDA Rural Development's mission is to increase economic opportunity and improve the quality of life in rural communities. As a venture capital entity, Rural Development has invested more than $72 billion since the beginning of the Bush Administration to provide equity and technical assistance to finance and growth in foster homeownership, business development, and critical community and technology infrastructure. More than 1.5 million jobs have been created or saved through these Further investments. information on rural programs is available at a local USDA Rural Development office or by visiting USDA's web site at http://www.rurdev.usda.gov.

Childress added, "No, we have standards. We have a bar. That bar has to be met. We've always had this bar, it doesn't go up and down every year. The bar is there. It has to be met. All kids in the future must meet the bar. All kids in the past either met the bar or didn't walk."

A couple of parents asked if this was state law or local policy. It was stated that it was local policy to not allow those who didn't pass walk across the stage. Hyles stated, "It's policy. We either vote to change policy or not." Kim Crockett observed, "The one thing I see wrong here is we have failed our students for another year." It was brought out, "Some kids are smarter than others, some kids just have a terrible time taking tests even though they may know the answers." All the parents involved stated that they planned on going forward with this and having their kids re-tested. One parent said, "My child stayed after class and took hours from her job." Another stated, "My daughter stayed after school for a month. I know how much she studied." Another parent said that their child had even come to school so sick that she could hardly hold her head up, but know she had to be there for the test. It was asked, "Why tell them just 2 weeks before they graduate that they can't? Crockett inquired, "If the TAKS is the standard and if it's going to be eliminated soon, would that make any difference?" Ames asked, "If they have done their very best, is it fair to penalize them? If the best I can jump is a 5 foot bar and the bar is 6 foot, I'll never get there. But if I tried my very best does that matter? Are we being fair to the kid that tried their best? There are kids out there that just can't do it, no matter hard they try." how Crockett added, "Are we doing our best to help them?"

the policy (Hyles, Childress, Dillard, Taylor and Cook) and 2 for (Crockett and Ames), the policy will remain as it is.

*Some changes were made to the Local Parent Involvement Policy before it was approved. Kim Crockett suggested adding to the policy that parents can utilize the school's web site to check on their child's grades. She said there, but may not know that up-to-date grades and records can be seen as well. Hyles asked if parents could see anyone else's child's grades. Crockett more than 125 percent of the responded that after a parent is logged in securely, they could access only their child's grades.

Childress stressed that it is best to be positive around your kids regarding school issues. Therefore it was added: Parents are Holamon 325-646-1591 or 325strongly encouraged to speak 642-6053. positive about school personnel in the presence of their children.

*The Board agreed to pay out the additional $41.00 per employee (about $20,000 a year) to cover the health insurance increases. In the past, the State of Texas covered part of that expense, but will no longer pay the additional cost. Employees voiced their thanks at this decision.

*It was decided that the school would pay for Cheerleading Camp. Childress also offered that he thought the uniforms should be paid for as well, but conceded that he was already out voted on that. It was acknowledged that when the high school girls come back from camp, they hold their own cheerleading camp for the junior high cheerleaders.

*The discussion about Board Policy regarding members inquiring about legal issues was tabled for now. The Board agreed for Cameron and Gulley to remain as their auditor. It was approved to continue with Big

She continued, "I think that's an accomplishment in itself, that we have a paper here that covers our children and what's going on in our school right here at home." Hyles added that he agreed with that, just not the coverage at the School Board meetings.

*The 2006-2007 TAKS scores were announced and discussed at length. It was revealed that the TAKS Tests would most likely be eliminated in 3 more years. Elementary and Junior High schools will still use them, but High Schools will use End-of-Course Assessment Tests. The Board approved increasing required credits to graduate from 25 to 26, while the policy on Dual Credit Classes was tabled.

*Emotions ran high as various parents and students showed up to speak in favor of allowing 3 Seniors to participate in Graduation Ceremonies, even though they did not pass the required TAKS test.

One parent sited a Grand Prairie School who lifted their policy. They allowed several students who failed to walk the stage in cap and gown, with the stipulation that the students would try to pass the TAKS after graduation. It was also brought out that Abilene had 38 seniors who failed the TAKS
