Editor's Note: Reggie Pillans, of the Atwell Community, handed this story to me last week. The message is so simple (out of the mouths of babes), if only we could apply the reasoning. Vanda Anderson

"The Map"

A father wanted to read a magazine but was being bothered by his little girl, Shelby.

She wanted to know what the United States looked like, so he tore out a sheet from the magazine on which was printed the map of the country.

Tearing it into small pieces, he gave it to her and told her to go into the other room and see if you can put this together. This will show you our whole country.

After a few minutes, Shelby returned and handed him the map, correctly taped together.

The father was surprised and ask how she had finished so quickly.

"Oh," she said, "on the other side of the paper is a picture of Jesus. When I got Jesus back REGISTRATION for country just came together.

BENEFIT QUILT WINNER— Edna Carey, of Cross Plains, won the quilt that tickets were sold to assist Denese (Whiteley) Watt and her family. Denese's grandmother, the late Jessie Casey, had quilted the beautiful covering. Denese has been diagnosed with stomach cancer, and the Love Fund for the family remains open at the Texas Heritage Bank in Cross Plains. Your prayers and monetary contributions are needed and appreciated.

Junior Class Fall Festival Saturday, October 25th

Saturday, October 25th. The junior class will host the 2008 Fall Festival. Many hours of work have gone into this event. This fun evening begins in the old gym at 6:00 p.m. and continues until 9:00 p.m. Over 20 booths are planned to entertain the old, young and everyone in between. Some of the more popular games include: Ghost (Bingo), Plinko, football toss, face painting, the cake walk, and pie throw. (You may find two coaches and a principal in this booth). A very "spooky" haunted house and eerie hayride awaits eager patrons. A concession stand is open with lots of treats, eats and drinks.

Around 8:00 p.m. the Festival King and Queen will be crowned. You still have time to make a monetary vote for your favorite nominee in designated boxes that are placed at Dairy Queen, may be purchased at the booth the junior class. Mexico City and Jean's Feedbarn. located next to the admission

Serious Savings

With no end in sight to high gas prices, consumers can take control of how they drive their vehicle to get more miles per gallon. The Car Care Council recommends the following ways to drive smart and save money:

• Combine errands in one trip and get good directions before you head out to minimize driving unnecessary miles.

• Lighten the load by getting stuff out of the car, including the trunk, with the exception of important emergency items such as a spare tire, flares and a first-aid kit. Items that are not needed weigh the vehicle down, causing an increase in gas usage.

• Stay within the speed limit and use cruise control on the highway. Gas mileage usually decreases when going over 60 miles per hour (mph).

 Avoid aggressive driving. Your driving behavior has a lot to do with fuel economy and sudden stops and starts and rapid acceleration decrease your vehicle's miles per gallon (mpg).

• Check the condition of the gas cap. Approximately 17 percent of vehicles on the road have loose, damaged or missing gas caps, causing 147

Simple Tips Can Add Up to million gallons of gas to vaporize every year.

• Don't idle your vehicle and go inside instead of waiting in long lines at the drive-through window to avoid wasting gas. In response to reports that gas is being stolen from vehicles, the council recommends that drivers park in well-lit and highly-traveled areas and consider using gas caps that lock to help prevent this crime.

Performing simple and inexpensive vehicle maintenance can also save big money at the pump, perhaps as much as $1,200 per year, while improving a vehicle's safety and dependability. In fact, according to the survey the Automotive by Aftermarket Industry Association, 75 percent of drivers said they are maintaining their vehicles better because of rising gas prices

To help you make the most of your gas dollars, visit the Car Care Council's Web site at www.carcare.org to order a free copy of the 60-page Car Care Guide designed to help you save money, conserve energy, improve highway safety and help protect the environment.

In the comics, Marmaduke is looking over the fence and barking at the neighbors as they rake leaves from their yard, and the man tells his wife, "I wish he knew how to give us the silent treatment!"

Our new preacher, Don Davis, shared a sermon with us Sunday morning from James 2:1-10, which is an admonition to not show partiality or favoritism. He entitled the sermon, "The Strange Case of the Snooty Usher." James talks about the wrong of ushering the rich person, "Mr. Goldfinger," to the most favorite seat, then offering "Mr. Shabbily Dressed" to just stand, offering him a "footstool" at best! There are many ways the sin of favoritism might be committed, including "the silent treatment." Marmaduke's neighbors might have wished it from a dog but most people don't enjoy "a cold shoulder at ten paces"- and God doesn't either...

I encourage you to share in times of Bible study and worship with us as we strive to "sign our lives with the excellence of God." Junior High Football Update

The Junior High Buffs took another football trip, this time they loaded the bus and went to Miles to take on the Bulldogs.

The Buffs received the opening kick-off but failed to move the ball. On the punt the snap was over the punter's head and Miles took over and on the 2nd play scored a TD.

On the next series the Buffs punted out of their own end zone and on a short punt, Miles ran it back for a TD and the extra point. The score was Miles 14 Cross Plains 0.

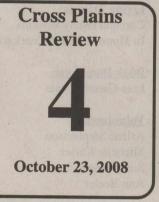

On their 3rd possession, Miles picked off a pass and then threw a 42 yard pass for another TD, right before the half. Cross Plains fumbled and Miles recovered on the Buff's 12 yard line. After a pass the Miles team scored a TD. The half ended Miles 28 Cross Plains 0.

The 2nd half went like the first half. Fumbles and failure to move the ball led to two more TDs for Miles. The final score was Miles 41 Cross Plains 0.

The young Buffs play Bronte at home this week. See you at the game.

Curtis has been involved in the confiscation of many illegal drugs. Because of these confiscations, Callahan County has been awarded many federal grants that have allowed the Sheriff's Office to acquire badly needed equipment without the purchases being an additional burden for Callahan County taxpayers.

As a member of the Baird Volunteer Fire Department, he is an active participant in fighting local fires, and he can most often be found at a command site assisting in fighting fires throughout Callahan County.

And, the youth of Callahan County also have a friend in Sheriff Curtis. He arranges and assists in Hunter Safety Education classes for youth that are required by the State of Texas. He, along with former Callahan County Game Warden Vance Wallace, working with Sliverbrook Ranch and ranch foreman Ken Welch, initiated twice, annual youth hunts in Callahan County. These hunts give young people an opportunity they might otherwise never have, to share the experience of deer hunting in Texas.

Golf News

It turned out to be a beautiful day for our Club Championship Tournament on October 11th. Everyone played 9 holes to be flighted for the 3 flights. After Bruce assigned flights, everyone played 18 more holes.

Ronnie Green had brought out his barbecue pit to keep the brisket hot. Betty's Quikstop had once again done a good job with the catering. Allen and Bruce kept the food coming despite burnt fingers. The members stopped and enjoyed a good meal at the time of their choice. Many played the first 9 and then ate, but several elected to wait until they had finished.

The Championship Flight was won by Korey Morris with a 78. The Presiden'ts Flight trophy went to Chaz Odom with an 81. The First Flight winner was Dweilyn Dodrill with 99.

A total of 11 door prizes were awarded. Maty and Rhett West drew the winners from the hat. The grounds crew had changed the pins so that everyone would have a challenge. This made for higher scores, but a much more rewarding game.

Closet to the pin went to Ky McDorman and Randy Collum. They received bag pins for their efforts. Runners-up also received a pin. They were Ronnie Green and Paula Cole. Everyone seemed to have a big time and we are making plans to have the tournament a little sooner next year to avoid conflicts.

Our last scramble was held Tuesday, October 14, and was won by Korey Morris' team of Mike Jaynes and Phil Davis. Closest to the pin on 14 went to Korey and on 16 it went to David Scroggins.

We are continuing to get new members If you are interested come by the pro shop from Monday thru Friday 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday until 7:00 p.m.

Workshop October 23-24

Texas AgriLife Extension Service will conduct the workshop, "Brush Sculpting ... A Decade Later," on Oct. 23-24, 2008 in Snyder. The first day's activities will run from 8:30 a.m. until 6:30 p.m., at the Scurry County Coliseum in Snyder. The first day's topics will include case studies conducted on the King Ranch and Lazy B Ranch at Brownwood, optimizing U.S. farm bill cost-share programs, planning considerations for livestock, deer and quail management, and new Brush Sculpting innovations. The second day's events will be at the Rolling Plains Quail Research Ranch at Roby. Activities will include demonstrations of Brush Busters individual plant treatment techniques; prickly pear control using boomless nozzles and other application methods; half-cutting mesquite for quail cover; patch-burn grazing and summer burning.

"Brush Sculpting" is the art and science of selectively removing woody plants to optimize a property's potential for sustaining a balance of wildlife, livestock, aesthetics and value," said Dr. Dale Rollins, who coined the phrase ten years ago. Rollins said the methodology, now used on thousands of Texas acres, often incorporates a number of integrated management techniques to achieve the final goal.

The purpose of the workshop is to review the evolution of Brush Sculpting and to look at and evaluate the many practice on Texas rangelands, Rollins said.

The program has been approved for eight Texas continuing education units (5-1/2 in the general category and 2-1/2 in the integrated pest management category).

Individual registration is $30 before Oct. 10 and $50 thereafter. Mail payment to: Brush Sculpting...A Decade Later. Texas Wildlife Association, 2800 NE Loop 410, Ste 105, San Antonio, TX, 78218. Contributing workshop partners are AgriLife Extension; Renewable Resources Extension Act; Texas AgriLife Research; Landitude, Inc.; Rolling Plains Quail Research Ranch; Natural Resources Conservation Service and Texas Wildlife Association. For more information contact Rollins or Dr. Allan McGinty at 325-653-4576.

Halloween Safety Tips

Halloween is one of the most enjoyable holidays for adults and children alike. It is also a time for making sure our kids are safe in their costumes, on the street, and enjoying all the treats collected on their rounds. And let's not forget about making sure Mom and Dad have fun with their children on this spooky night! The following tips will help ensure your trick-or-treaters enjoy haunting their neighborhoods while gathering their munchings and crunchings!

Pumpkin Carving:

 Never let young children near carving tools. Non-toxic paint, stickers, and push-in lights are safe decorating alternatives. Or let your child draw the face on the pumpkin; you do the carving.

• When permitting older children to carve, always, supervise closely. Work on a flat, tip-proof surface in a welllit room.

 Don't let your child use adult kitchen knives-supply safer, kid-size tools created specifically for this purpose.

 Consider using battery operated candles, tea lights or flashlights to illuminate your decorative accents instead of candles.

Treats:

• Make sure your children understand they're not to snack on their treats while they're out trick-or treating. • Parents should inspect the goodies (even commercially wrapped) for any signs of tampering, such as an unusual appearance, discoloration, pinholes or tears in wrappers. Throw away anything that looks suspicious.

• For young children, remove methods now used in the hard candies as they can become choking hazards; even larger varieties, which will shrink as they are mouthed. Other choking hazards for Department of Agriculture younger children include gum, nuts, small toys and coins.

• If juice or cider is served to children at Halloween parties, make sure it is pasteurized or otherwise treated to destroy harmful bacteria. Juice or cider that has not been treated will state it on the label.

Costumes:

• When purchasing costumes and accessories, look for "Flame Resistant" labels. Although this label does not mean these items won't catch fire, it does indicate that the items will resist burning and should extinguish quickly once removed from the ignition source.

 Purchase or make costumes that are light and bright enough to be clearly visible to motorists.

• For greater visibility during dusk and darkness, decorate or trim costumes with reflective tape that will glow in the beam of a car's headlights. Bags or sacks should also be light colored or decorated with reflective tape.

• To easily see and be seen, children should also carry flashlights.

• Costumes should be short enough to prevent children from tripping and falling.

 Children should wear wellfitting, sturdy shoes. Exaggerated footwear can result in slipping or twisting ankles while walking.

• Hats and scarves should be fitted enough to prevent them from slipping over children's eves

 Apply a natural mask of child-safe cosmetics rather than wearing a loose-fitting mask that might restrict breathing or obscure vision. If a mask is used however, make sure it fits securely, has eyeholes large enough to allow full vision, and an unobstructed breathing opening

 Swords, knives, and similar costume accessories should be of soft and flexible material.

Pedestrian Safety:

 Young children should always be accompanied by an adult or an older, responsible child.

• Have your trick-or-treater carry your cell phone

· All children should WALK. not run from house to house and use the sidewalk if available, rather than walk in the street.

· Only cross the street at cross-walks and always look both ways.

· Children should be cautioned against running out from between parked cars, or across lawns and yards where ornaments, furniture, or clotheslines present dangers. · Going out in groups with several adults in attendance ensures children will be supervised.

Choosing Safe Houses and Safety in your Home:

• Children should go only to homes where they know the residents

• Choose homes which have outside lights on as a sign of welcome.

· Homes should be well lit inside as well as out.

• Children should not enter homes or apartments unless they are accompanied by an adult.

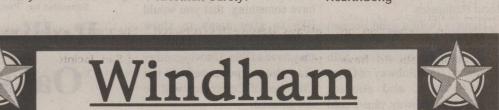

• If you are expecting trickor-treaters remove anything that could be an obstacle from lawns, steps and porches.

• Candlelit Jack-o'-lanterns should be kept away from landings and doorsteps where costumes could brush against the flame.

 Indoor Jack-o'-lanterns should be kept away from curtains, decorations, and other furnishings that could be ianited.

 Consider using battery operated candles, tea lights or flashlights to illuminate your decorative accents instead of candles.

This possible President of the United States? Read below and ask yourselves, is this REALLY someone we can see as the President of our great nation!!!

Below are a few lines from Obama's books; in his words!

From Dreams of My Father:

• I ceased to advertise my mother's race at the age of 12 or 13, when I began to suspect that by doing so I was ingratiating myself to whites'

•'I found a solace in nursing a pervasive sense of grievance and animosity against my mother's race.'

• 'There was something about him that made me wary, a little too sure of himself, maybe. And white.'

• It remained necessary to prove which side you were on, to show your loyalty to the black masses, to strike out and name names.'

•'I never emulate white men and brown men whose fates didn't speak to my own. It was my father's image, the black man, son of Africa, that I'd packed all the attributes I sought in myself, the attributes of Martin and Malcolm, DuBois and Mandela.'

And FINALLY the Most Damming one of ALL of them!!!

County Election Judges receive pay increase

Election Judges in Callahan Treasurer Dianne Gunter, and County will receive a $1.00 an County Clerk Donna Bell. hour pay increase after the Callahan County Commissioners' Court approved the election judge pay raise during the commissioners' court meeting held Tuesday, October 14th at the County Courthouse in Baird.

County Clerk Donna Bell. brought before the commissioners' court a request to raise the Election Judge pay from $7.00 an hour to $8.00 an hour. She explained that each Election Judge is responsible for making arrangements for the use of the building where the polling location is to be held, for getting election workers, for obtaining the equipment to the polling places and opening up the polling place on election day.

On a motion by Commissioner Bryan Farmer and a second by Commissioner Cliff Kirkham, the commissioners' court voted 5-0 to raise the pay for Election Judges from $7.00 an hour to $8.00 an hour.

Other agenda items brought before the commissioners' court meeting included:

All downhill for hero after Battle of San Jacinto

OCT. 22 - 28, 2008 The daughter of a long dead and all but forgotten hero of the Texas Revolution unveiled a statue of her tragic father at a Galveston intersection on Oct. 23, 1938.

San Jacinto should have ensured success and immortality, but Sidney Sherman knew only pain and disappointment. The most powerful politician of his day ruined his reputation, and three suspicious fires left a promising career in ashes. Yet his public ordeal could not compare with the private anguish of burying four children and a wife. Sherman proudly admired the fruit of four years labor since leaving New York City in 1831. Nevertheless, the Cincinnati businessman was willing to risk everything to fight for freedom in a foreign land. On Mar. 6, 1836, Sherman and 50 volunteers from Ohio and Kentucky reached Gonzales, where reinforcements were supposed to be ready for an Alamo rescue mission. But no relief column was waiting, and the stunned officer refused to lead his men into certain annihilation. Five days later, Gen. Sam Houston showed up and forged the chain of command that included Sherman as lieutenant colonel. When confirmation came that night of the massacre in San Antonio, the commander gave the order for a full-scale retreat which Sherman and many others found hard to swallow. At the Colorado River, the outspoken newcomer pleaded for permission to cross the tributary and surprise a Mexican force twice the size of his own contingent. Harsh words were exchanged, when Houston pulled rank and insisted Sherman resume the withdrawal.

wagging. Sherman was the popular choice of the dispirited soldiers to replace their donothing general, a fact duly noted by Houston who would always despise his rumored successor as a back-stabbing traitor.

As the two sides jockeyed for position the day before the climax at San Jacinto, Snerman proposed preemptive strike against Santa Anna's cannon. A rancorous debate ended with Houston giving his reluctant approval, and the recently promoted colonel assembled a squad for the daring dash. Coming under heavy fire from the Mexican lines, the horseback commandos pulled up short of their objective. "What are they about?" shouted Houston. "I ordered a reconnoiter only!" Sherman accused his superior of reneging on promised support, a charge the latter denied to his dying day. While Sam Houston scaled the political heights after the Revolution, twice serving as president of the Republic in addition to senator and governor, Sherman suffered a personal apocalypse. In May 1852, an arsonist burned to the ground the sawmill that supplied his troubled railroad with crossties. The mysterious incident was only the beginning of a strange series of calamities. Within the year, Sherman's 18 month old child died unexpectedly, and a second blaze destroyed the family home at Harrisburg. Sending his kin out of state, the head of the family took shelter in his railway office until that structure too went up in smoke. At age 51, when he should have been looking forward to a secure retirement, Sherman started over from scratch as a hotel proprietor in Galveston. But his problems were far from over.

launched into a scathing tirade against every enemy he had ever made. During this blistering attack, he produced a letter purportedly written by Sherman's adjutant accusing him of cowardice at the Battle of San Jacinto.

Dazed by the patently false allegation, Sherman countered with his own clear recollection and testimonials from several eyewitnesses. But, as far as most Texans were concerned, irreparable damage had been done. If Sam said Sherman was yellow, then yellow he was.

Only in Galveston did Sherman remain above reproach. In early 1861, he was asked to direct the defense of the island in the event of northern invasion, a responsibility relinquished that August to the incoming Confederate commander.

He sold his hotel and moved his family to the mainland. At the Battle of Galveston, when the Rebs freed the city from Union occupation, Lt. Sidney A. Sherman, his 19 year old namesake, was among the gray-clad casualties.

Tragedy stalked poor old Sherman into his twilight years. The last of his sons perished in 1863 followed a few months later by his invalid wife. The yellow fever epidemic of 1867 claimed the husbands of two daughters, and in 1872 he lost a fourth child.

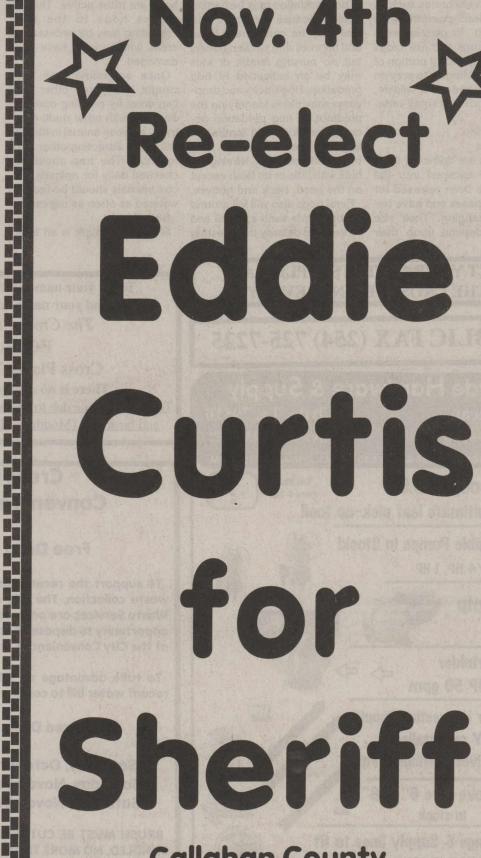

Finally, in August 1873, death came calling for Sidney Sherman, the sole surviving San Jacinto officer. In solemn tribute the "Galveston News" advised, "Let Texans follow this patriot to his grave and moisten the ashes of glory with the sweet tears of gratitude."

Feral hogs can be effectively controlled by snaring, live trapping, shooting and hunting them with dogs. There are currently no toxicants or repellents registered for the control of feral hogs. Snares

An extension cable, 3 feet long or longer, should be tied from the snare to tively restrain the animal.

Live Traps

Live traps are extremely effective for capturing feral hogs. There are many different trap designs, ranging from singlecatch traps with a drop gate or one-way swing gate to multicatch traps. This trap is constructed from 2 inch x 2 inch angle iron and stock paneling. The trap door measures 2 feet x 2 feet and when closed should lie at an angle of approximately 30 degrees. The assembled trap measures 10 feet x 10 feet x 5 feet. It may be necessary to enclose the top of the trap to prevent hogs from escaping. All with the gate, may be camouflaged with brush. If the trap is secured to the ground with 24
