City aldermen divide over engineer choice

A divided Clarendon Board of Aldermen voted 3-2 to select OJD Engineering to provide services associated with a $275,000 project to replace aging sewer lines in the north part of the city.

The project, funded by a Community Development Block Grant (CDBG), will require a $41,000 match from the city and will replace lines that are more than 70 years old.

City Administrator Lambert Little and Mayor Larry Hicks scored proposals submitted by four engineering firms, and recommended the board select KSA Engineers, but OJD representative Che Shadle, whose firm provided the engineering services for the grant application at no charge, wanted to know why his firm was not recommended.

"My main thought is that I have heard complaints over the years," Mayor Hicks said. "The city wasn't happy with the status quo, and I'm looking to the future not the past. On scoring, I didn't score OJD high in performance because of comments I've heard on past projects."

Shadle responded that the mayor and city administrator did not have all the information about the project.

"You weren't here when we put this together," Shadle said. "We've been looking at this for 10 to 12 years."

The city first applied for a CDBG grant to replace the sewer lines on the north side of the city more than a decade ago but was unsuccessful and has since been refining its approach. The current grant application was submitted in September 2010. Little began his duties with the city November 1 of that year.

Alderman Ann Huey moved to support the mayor and administrator in selecting KSA Engineers. Alderman Will Thompson seconded, but the motion failed. Alderman Tommy Hill then moved to select OJD Engineering, seconded by Jesus Hernandez, and Alderman Noble joined them in voting for the measure with Huey and Thompson opposing.

In other city business, the board also divided on how to cast the city's 525 votes for representation on the Donley County Appraisal District Board. The board voted 4-1 to cast the city's votes for Wayne Riggs, Mitchell Martin, Rhonda Newhouse, Steve Carter, Dan Hall. Alderman Huey opposed the measure because she favored the city supporting one person with all of its votes.

City aldermen unanimously approved eight separate "housekeeping" motions to meet the technical requirements for the CDBG grant.

The board voted in favor of spending up to $8,000 from an air-

Lady Broncos capture fifth at state meet

By Sandy Anderberg

The Lady Bronco cross-country team has run a whole lot of miles this season in cross-country, which climaxed last week in Round Rock for the State Cross-Country meet. They ran in horrible weather conditions and finished fifth in the meet.

Repeat state-qualifier Audrey Shelton led the Lady Bronco pack in a time of 13:12, which was good enough for 21st place. Abby Johnson finished 50th at 13:52 and Sarah Luttrell was 52nd with a time of 13:54. Haley Ferguson was 53rd at 13:55, Phara Berry came in at 14:06 that was good enough for 62nd, and Deborah Howard ran the two-mile course in a time of 14:35 and finished 79th.

all season long. "We had a great season," she said. "The girls worked extremely hard, and I am very proud of them. They competed well, and we all look forward to next season."

FSA urges ag producers to vote in committee elections

WASHINGTON - The U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Farm Service Agency (FSA) Administrator Bruce Nelson is urging producers to vote in the 2011 FSA county committee elections, which began November 4 and will continue through December 5, 2011.

"The role and input of our county committee members is more vital than ever at a time when our country faces important choices regarding the funding and operation of our government," said Nelson. "New county committee members provide input and make important decisions on the local administration of disaster and conservation programs. With better participation in recent years, we have also seen promising increases in the number of women and minority candidates, helping to better represent the richness of American agriculture."

County committee members are an important component of the operations of FSA and provide a link between the agricultural community and USDA. Farmers and ranchers elected to county committees help deliver FSA programs at the local level, applying their knowledge and judgment to make decisions on commodity price support programs; conservation programs; incentive indemnity and disaster programs for some commodities; emergency programs and eligibility. FSA committees operate within official regulations designed to carry out federal laws.

To be an eligible voter, farmers and ranchers must participate or cooperate in an FSA program. A person who is not of legal voting age, but supervises and conducts the farming operations of an entire farm may also be eligible to vote. Agricultural producers in each county submitted candidate nominations during the nomination period, which ended on Aug. 1.

Eligible voters who do not receive ballots in the coming week can obtain ballots from their local USDA Service Center. Dec. 5, 2011, is the last day for voters to submit ballots in person. Ballots returned by mail must also be postmarked no later than Dec. 5.

The first time Wall Street was ‘occupied’

By Dr. Paul Kengor

As the indignation of the Wall Street Occupiers spreads across the nation, it is time to step back and consider the broader historical perspective. What will history books record about the Wall Street Occupation? For starters, what was the start date? The answer to that simple fact alone has some potentially profound meaning.

The Wall Street Occupation began on September 17. How ironic that date is.

If the Wall Street Occupiers could hop into a time machine and read their New York Times from September 17 almost a century ago – specifically, September 17, 1920 – they would be struck by this headline: “WALL STREET EXPLOSION KILLS 30, INJURES 300; MORGAN OFFICE HIT; BOMB PIECES FOUND.”

At noon the previous day, a horse-drawn wagon carrying hundreds of pounds of explosives and deadly shrapnel exploded in front of the headquarters of J.P. Morgan at 23 Wall Street, the heart and busiest section of America’s financial district. The final death toll was 38, with over 400 injured.

The suspects were surprisingly similar to the spectrum of leftist protestors who are occupying Wall Street right now. They ranged from radical progressives to socialists to communists to anarchists, from homegrown Bolsheviks to Italian Gallianists to Communist Party USA. No matter their labels, all shared one thing in common: they were anti-capitalist, anti-Wall Street, anti-banker, and generally despised what President Obama constantly refers to as “millionaires and billionaires” who do not “pay their fair share.” They saw banks, loan-makers, investors, Wall Street, and the wealthy as sinister forces. They, too, shouted “down with capitalism!”

As the bomb immediately produced millions of dollars in damages and worse still in human carnage, certain wealthy bankers and investors, like J. P. Morgan, braced themselves for a march on their homes by anti-capitalist mobs – a prelude to what happened in New York this time around. The September 17, 1920 New York Times, in a lengthy page-one article titled, “RED PLOT SEEN IN BLAST,” noted not only that Mr. Morgan’s home was being guarded but – in another similarity to the current Wall Street Occupation – that “many cities” around America were preparing their financial districts “against similar disaster.” Mayors nationwide worried about the Wall Street chaos metastasizing to their cities, organized by left-wing ringleaders connected to the New York fiasco.

It strikes me that today’s Wall Street Occupiers, as they go national, have become increasingly belligerent and violent. Reports abound of widespread theft, destruction of property, rampant drug use, sexual assaults from groping to alleged rape, knocking over trash cans, defecating on police cars, clashes with police – involving rocks, tear gas, riot gear, shouting down police as “Pigs” – stabbing threats, mass arrests, blatant anti-Semitism, refusals to report crimes, and all sorts of other violent outbursts. Incidents have occurred across the country, from New York to Boston to Baltimore to Cleveland to Denver to Oklahoma City to Oakland, California.

Democrats have responded to the Wall Street Occupiers in varying ways, from Congresswoman Nancy Pelosi’s strange, “God bless them for their spontaneity,” to President Obama expressing empathy with their “frustrations.” “I understand the frustrations being expressed in those protests,” Obama told ABC’s Jake Tapper. “In some ways, they’re not that different from some of the protests that we saw coming from the Tea Party.... I think people feel separated from their government. They feel that their institutions aren’t looking out for them.” Likewise, Vice President Biden has framed the protests as a sort of leftist version of the Tea Party.

More generally, the Occupy Wall Street behavior is a cautionary tale to President Obama and Democrats: Class-based rhetoric and demagoguery is poisonous and destructive. Once the enraged masses spill into the streets in more and more cities, the chances for violence magnify exponentially. Class envy and hatred engenders an unhealthy rage. I’m amazed that the protests have not gotten much more violent. Gee, Roseanne Barr literally called for guillotining wealthy bankers – and she was deadly serious.

The September 17, 1920 New York Times was a picture of that violence. It was at newstands on Wall Street the exact same day the current Wall Street Occupation took hold on September 17, 2011.

Is the date a coincidence? Yes, I think so, even as the symbolism is jarring. The planners in September 2011, as far as I can tell, have no idea of the irony of the set of dates, being inspired and led by other forces. Unless, that is, the devil has a sense of irony.

Texas’ first generation veterans

This week millions of Texans will gather to pay tribute to generations of our bravest Americans – our veterans. These include the youngest generation of veterans, many of whom are only recently returning from service in Afghanistan or Iraq, as well as the millions of veterans who served before them at every major turning point in our state’s history.

For Texans, some of our earliest veterans made up the forces that secured our independence from Mexico at the Battle of San Jacinto. In 1836, just weeks after the fall of the Alamo and the Texas Declaration of Independence at Washington-on-the-Brazos, a group of Texas volunteers gathered under the leadership of General Sam Houston. Few of them had military training and most carried their own personal weapons. Yet together, they defeated the much larger army of the Mexican dictator Santa Anna. Their victory brought the freedom and independence that Texans enjoy to this day.

Today, in true Texas fashion, a bigger-than-life monument stands at the site of this historic battle. The San Jacinto Monument is the tallest monument column in the world – surpassing even the Washington monument by 15 feet – and topped by a massive 220-ton Lone Star of Texas. From its observation deck – reached by a 489-foot elevator ride – visitors can see the Houston skyline, the Houston Ship Channel and the Battleship Texas. At the base of the monument is the extremely well appointed San Jacinto Museum of History – a must-see for history buffs and any Texan wanting to learn more about our rich culture and predecessors.

This month the San Jacinto Monument will unveil for the first time to the general public a historic wax bust of one of Texas’ most iconic veterans and leaders – Sam Houston. The 33-inch-tall wax bust was sculpted by the same hands that fashioned the famous Mount Rushmore National Memorial in South Dakota – sculptor Gutzon Borglum. Although it has been in the museum’s collection texas times by sen. john corrynn

since 1939, the sculpture has not been put on public display due to its fragile condition. Now, after a four-month conservation effort by museum staff, the newly stabilized bust will be put on display beginning November 12 as part of the museum’s year-long Making a Mark, Leaving a Legacy exhibit. In addition to the sculpture, the exhibit will include more than 300 artifacts ranging from 19th century formulations used by Texas pharmacists to diagnose diseases to Pressler’s Map of the State of Texas, considered one of the state’s premier large-scale maps produced in the 19th century. Those interested in seeing the new exhibit can visit www.sanjacintomuseum.org/Visit_Us/Visit_Us_Overview/ for hours and directions.

As we honor the generations of men and women who have fought to defend Texas, our nation and the liberties we cherish today, I am proud of our rich history of independence and success. And I’m reminded of the powerful words of our state song, “God bless you Texas! And keep you brave and strong. That you may grow in power and worth, Thro’ out the ages long.”

US must evaluate overseas bases

The clock is ticking for the 12 members of the Joint Select Committee on Deficit Reduction, also known as the “Super Committee,” to submit their debt reduction package to Congress by November 23. The Super Committee must make tough decisions about our nation’s finances in order to put us back on a sustainable and prosperous path. Many Senators, including me, have offered suggestions of ways to trim federal spending.

One common sense cost-saving measure I have advocated is a thorough reevaluation of our overseas military base needs, with the intention of relocating as many of our military personnel back to America as is prudently possible. American Forces have been deployed in Germany and Japan since World War II and in Korea since the Korean War. With mounting pressure to make drastic cuts in the defense budget, we should first look for savings by closing unnecessary overseas bases, rather than by reducing force structure or cutting critical weapons programs.

We should carefully evaluate the rationale for every single overseas base and, wherever possible, redeploy our men and women to stateside military installations. Aligning our overseas base commitments with projected security needs will enable us to save billions of dollars in construction and maintenance, bring thousands of troops back to America and take advantage of high quality training facilities and other resources at existing stateside bases.

According to reports from the Government Accountability Office (GAO) and the Congressional Budget Office, it is significantly more expensive to maintain facilities overseas, particularly in Europe, compared to bases in America. In addition to the money that would be saved by closing or downsizing unneeded bases, our troops and their families would spend their paychecks in local communities and contribute to our economy, and billions of dollars in military construction would be performed here by American workers.

My idea has attracted support from a bipartisan group of Senators. For starters, we have asked the Super Committee to take a hard look at halting expensive overseas military construction projects, especially in Europe, South Korea and Guam. It makes no sense to build new facilities overseas if the affected bases may be closed or shrunk in coming years.

I’ve also recently introduced a bill with Senator Tester from Montana that would require a comprehensive review of the potential benefits and savings from closing outdated overseas military bases. Our legislation would establish a blue-ribbon-commission of national security experts to review the United States’ current overseas basing structure, and report recommendations to the President and Congress. Modeled after the Hutchison-Feinstein 2005 Overseas Basing Commission, this commission would re-examine our current overseas bases in light of the nation’s current fiscal challenges, new military capabilities, and evolving security threats to determine which bases could be closed, and what forces could be redeployed to bases in the continental United States.

The Commission would ensure that military spending on construction, operations, and maintenance match our future national security needs for training and force projection.

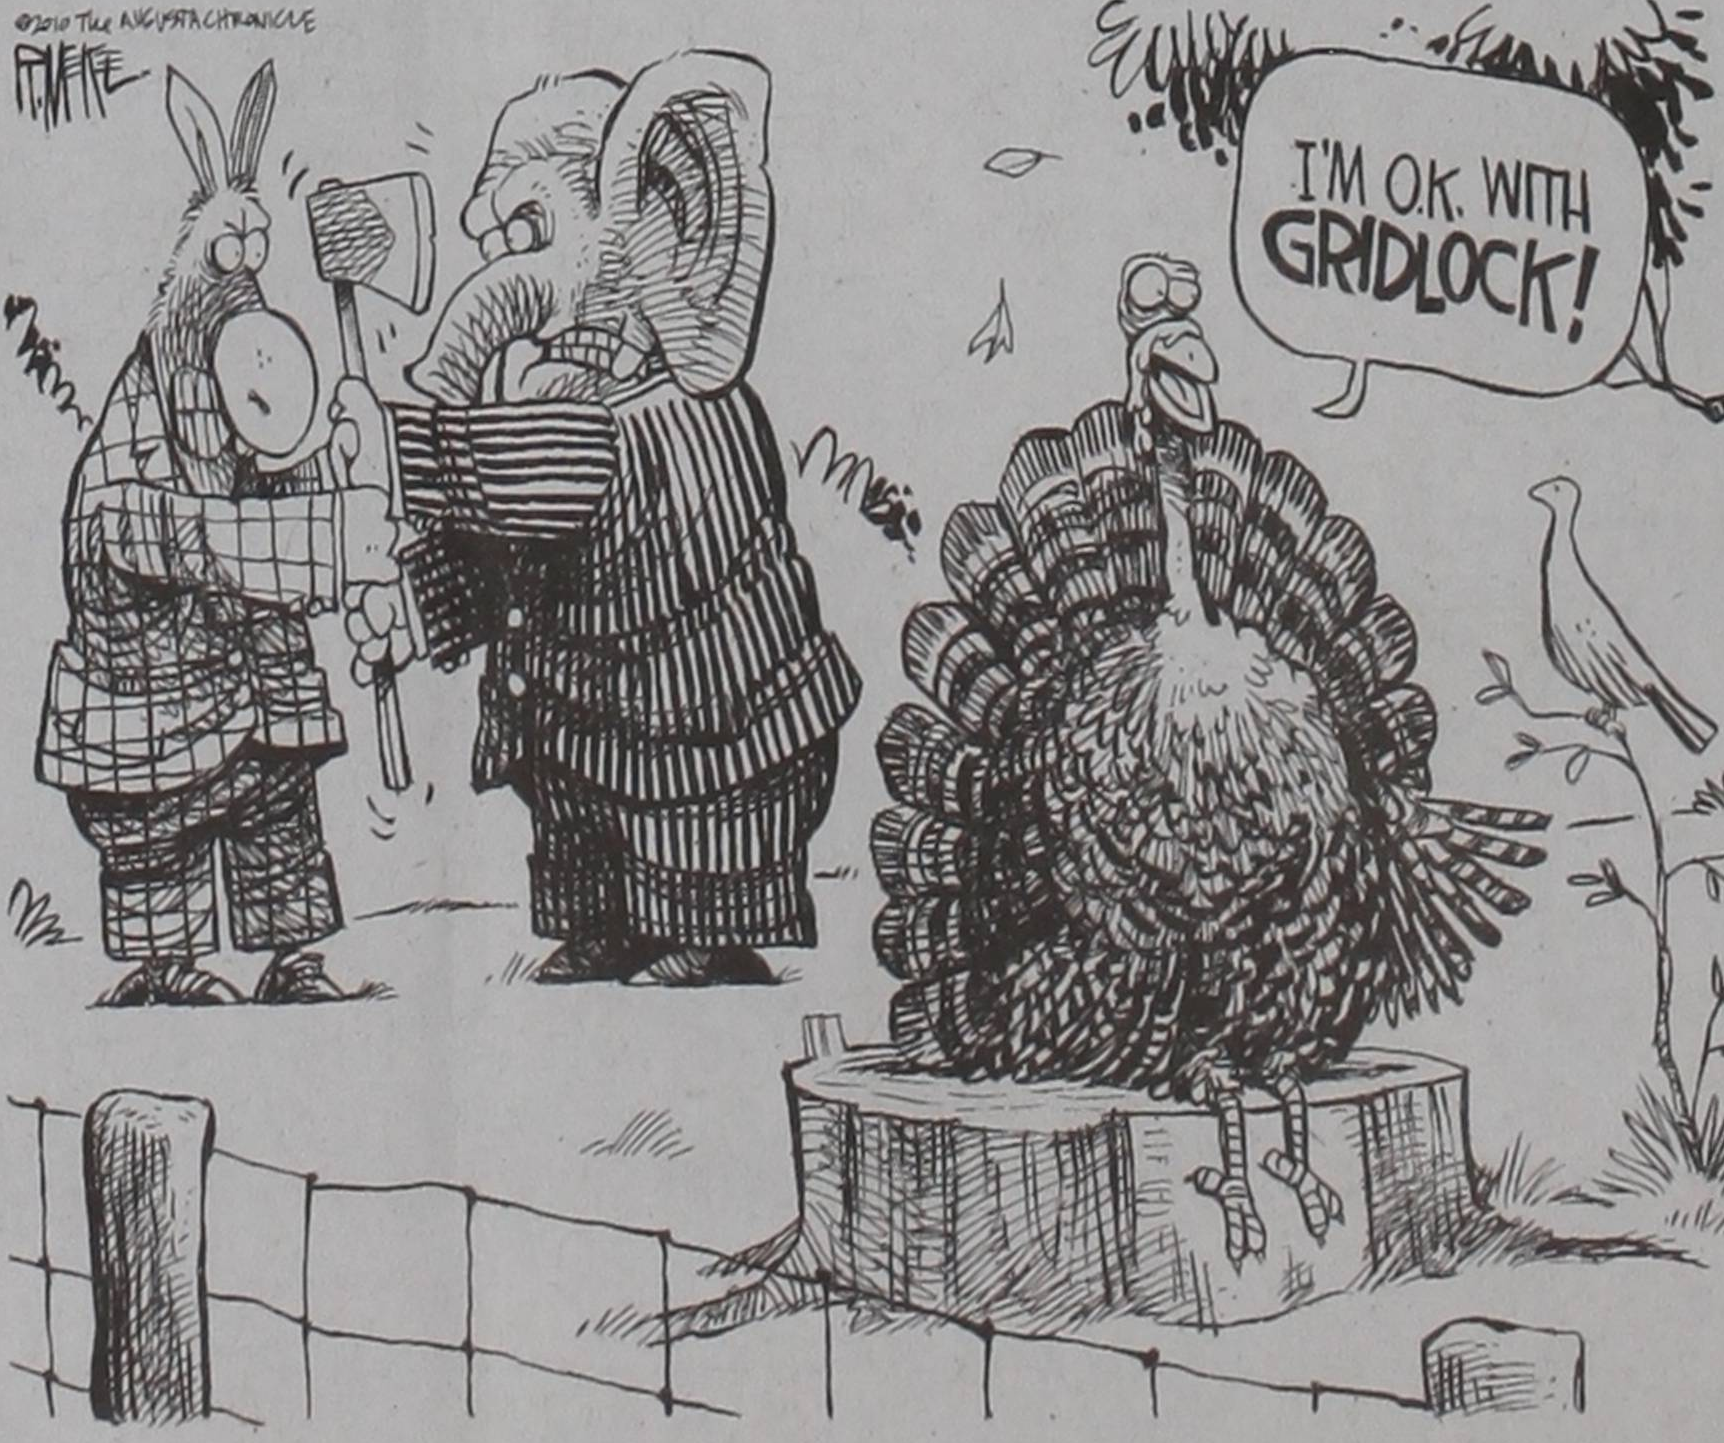

The bipartisan National Commission on Fiscal Responsibility and Reform has estimated that strategically sound overseas base closings could save taxpayers $8.5 billion through 2015. There are a number of stateside military installations that could easily accommodate returning U.S. forces at great savings. For instance, we know that Fort Bliss and Fort Hood in Texas both offer unparalleled training facilities and equipment as well as family housing, excellent military health care, and ready access by rail to nearby Gulf ports for rapid worldwide deployment. At the same time, Texas offers supportive communities, educational and employment opportunities for family members, and an overall high quality of life.

It has been determined that deployment from U.S. bases is as rapid and efficient (sometimes more so) than deployment from other countries.

Tough choices are inevitable in order to get our nation’s fiscal house in order. Training more of our military stateside at a lower cost to the taxpayers, without jeopardizing troop readiness, is a common sense, painless way to help reduce our debt.

Farm Bureau donates funds to local fire departments

A $344 contribution to the Clarendon, Howardwick, and Hedley Volunteer Fire Departments has been matched on a three-to-one basis by Texas Farm Bureau (TFB) for a total of $1,334 for each department to help recover resources and funds used to fight wildfires that have stuck the area in recent months.

"We are grateful for these local heroes who protect our homes, land, animals and families," said Hall-Donley County Farm Bureau President Matt Montgomery of Memphis.

The TFB state office committed to match county Farm Bureau donations on a $3 to $1 basis, up to $1,000 per volunteer fire department, across the state.

"Volunteer fire departments are ready, at a moment's notice, not just to put out fires, but also to prevent them. They deserve financial help. More than that, those in our community should say thanks for those who risk their lives to protect our families and resources," Montgomery said.

City crews use new Asphalt Zipper, stabilize roads on Fourth Street

By City Secretary Machiel Covey

City crews have replaced four blocks of six-inch water pipe and several hydrants on Fourth Street.

Not all of the discolored water problems have been cured, but we are still working on a solution for it. The City's new Asphalt Zipper worked very well as we stabilized the Fourth Street road base. Imagine a gigantic garden tiller. The Zipper grinds the existing street surface into gravel like base which is stabilized and compacted into new road base. Next, we will sealcoat the street with tar and gravel.

We have big plans for the airport! We will be having a survey done that is FAA approved which will open the door for available grants. We want to get a fuel farm and build a large hanger for a FBO (Fixed Based Operation). City Hall has to direct pilots to Pampa or Childress to purchase their fuel. Ultimately, we hope to make the airport a self-sustaining asset which will put Clarendon on the map!

Remember that Clarendon is offering Computer Recycling through December 15. Just bring you old computers and parts to the Recycling Center on Front Street. There is no charge for this service and will divert tons of waste from the landfills.

The City would like to thank Jerri Ann Shields for ten years of service as our Librarian. We have a great library and are very proud of it and all her hard work keeping it that way.

Till next week Clarendon, have a safe and blessed week.

Donley County voters approve six amendments to state constitution

Donley County voters agreed with the majority of voters across Texas November 8 in approving six amendments to the state constitution.

Participation was very low in the election with only 8.6 percent of county voters casting ballots. A total of 207 people took the time to go to the polls.

Local voters approved Propositions 1, 2, 3, 5, 6, and 10. Voters across Texas also approved those measures and Proposition 9 as well.

The amendments approved will: 1) Authorize the legislature to provide the surviving spouse of a 100 percent or totally disabled veteran with an exemption from ad valorem taxation on a homestead; 2) Authorize the Texas Water Development Board to issue additional general obligation bonds not exceed $6 billion; 3) Authorize the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board or its successors to issue bonds financing educational loans for students; 5) Allow cities and counties to enter into interlocal contracts with other cities and counties without having to assess an ad valorem tax and set aside a specified amount of funds for the payment of costs under the interlocal contract; 6) Increase the amount of principal that is available for withdrawal from the permanent school fund each year; 9) Authorize the governor to grant a pardon to a person who successfully completes a term of deferred adjudication; and 10) Extend the length of the unexpired term that causes the automatic resignation of certain local elected officeholders if they announce candidacy or become candidates for another office from one year to one year and 30 days.

Howardwick residents celebrate 11/11/11 as Veteran's Day

What can I say about the weather except warm, very dry, windy with blowing dust. Oh my, what are we in for? We watched the moisture slide over us again, repeating the pattern from this spring and summer. We can endure, maybe not in the style we are accustomed to. Veterans Day was 11/11/11, and it appeared more attention was focused on the number of marriages being performed than honoring our veterans. Ole Jim proudly put on his uniform and attended the ceremony and dinner prepared for veterans at the school, and I must say, he still looks good in that uniform. He came home with a bag of "thank you" notes, a warm feeling, and a stomach full of brisket and all the trimmings cooked by students. We called it Home Ec. class. Those teachers and sponsors put so much effort into the program and all the veterans appreciate the results... the respect they deserve.

Veterans Day has a special meaning to my family. Some relation of mine has fought in every war, beginning with the Revolutionary War. David McCracken was there from my Father's side, and from my Mother's side, Tyree Gentry and Samuel Parsons. Tyree was my Grandmother Henrietta Kitchens Reynolds branch, and Samuel was Grandfather Robert O Reynolds branch. The funny twist, Tyree and Samuel fought at the battle of Guilford Courthouse, North Carolina, on March 15, 1781, against the British Gen Lord Cornwallis. They didn't win, but Cornwallis' army was weakened, and that battle led to his surrender on October 17, 1781, at Yorktown, Virginia. In 1901 Robert and Henrietta were married in Clark County, Arkansas. Had those families known each other for over 100 years? I don't know the answer.

Being from the south, all my ancestors fought for the south during the Civil War, and so did Ole Jim's. An uncle, Frank Van Meter, was in WWI. Many were in WWII, Jim's brother George was in Korea, and Jim and brother Stanley were in Vietnam. Then we get to the following generations, our son Gary and

The Clarendon Lions Club held their regular Tuesday noon meeting November 15 with Boss Lion Steve Hall in charge.

We had 18 members and three guests this week - Tex Selvidge, guest of Lion Phil Shirley; and Lion Bill Auvenshine and Anna Auvenshine, guests of the club.

Lion John Taylor reported that the junior high kids are doing a great job collected canned food for the Lions Club food baskets, and Lion Hysinger reported on the great cross country season the girls had.

Lions Shirley and Tex Buckhaults reported on college news, and Lion Don Smith commended the college and school for their Veterans Day programs

The bake sale hosted by Kayla Elam and Ashley Smith for the Donley County Senior-Citizens Center raised a total of $561 from the bake sale last Saturday. During the bake sale, the girls also sold raffle tickets for a quilt made by former residents of Donley County. They plan on showcasing the quilt at local businesses in town and give the quilt away on November 29 at the Clarendon High School basketball game. They also plan on holding our craft show "A Unique Kind of Christmas" during the first weekend of December at the Donley County Senior Citizens Center. They will be exhibiting different crafts and baked goods. Another part of "A Unique Kind of Christmas" will be the Senior Citizens Center's chili supper. If anybody has anything to donate or would like to participate in our craft show, contact the Donley County Senior Citizens Center at (806) 874-2665.

League to host public forum on Social Security and Medicare

The League of Women Voters will sponsor a public forum on "The Future of Social Security and Medicare" on Monday evening, November 21, at the Amarillo Downtown Library, 413 SE 4th, in its second-floor meeting rooms. Registration and light refreshments begin at 5:30 p.m., and the program at 6 p.m.

All interested area residents are invited to attend, and there is no charge.

Guest speaker will be Pamela Larson of the National Academy of Social Insurance in Washington, DC. Her visit to Amarillo is part of a series of talks she is giving around Texas this month at the recommendation of the League of Women Voters of the United States. NASI is a non-partisan organization that provides information to all those interested in the Social Security, Medicare, unemployment insurance, and workers compensation programs. Larson, who earned her master's degree in public policy from Cornell University in New York, is the executive vice-president of NASI and has been with the organization since it began 23 years ago.

For the first half hour of her talk, she will present basic facts about Social Security and Medicare's future, using examples "that help make those facts fit into anyone's dinner table conversations," she says. She'll then invite a discussion with those attending for two purposes: 1) to answer questions about the policies of these two key programs and 2) to help her figure out how best to spread the word about the way we can sustain Social Security and Medicare benefits adequate to our society's needs into the future.

For those who want to do some reading before the forum, her organization's website is <http://www.nasi.org>. For questions, please leave a message on the Amarillo League's phone, 372-5438.

Hedley residents in need of your prayers

Helen Lamberson fell and broke her arm and is in the Memphis nursing home for about six weeks. She sure would like to hear from some of you. She is 95 years young.

We also need prayers for Wayne Copeland and Jim and Anita Mitchell and just stick a prayer in there for everyone. We all could use our good Lord right about now. Remember our veterans and our soldiers. May God bless them all and America.

in a shallow dish. Place egg white in a shallow dish. Dip each chicken tender in egg white; dredge in the breadcrumb mixture. Melt butter in a large nonstick skillet over medium-high heat. Add chicken; cook 3 minutes on each side or until done. Set aside. Combine 1/8 teaspoon salt, pasta sauce, vinegar, and pepper in a microwave-safe bowl. Cover with plastic wrap; vent. Microwave sauce mixture at HIGH 2 minutes or until thoroughly heated. Pour the sauce over chicken in pan. Sprinkle evenly with the remaining Parmesan and provolone cheese. Wrap handle of pan with foil, and broil 2 minutes or until the cheese melts.

Watch for scams as e-book industry grows

E-book sales are growing exponentially. According to the American Association of Publishers, e-book purchases increased nearly 150 percent in the first eight months of 2011, and now outpace sales of traditional paperbacks.

However, the sales boom means a proliferation of related scams. The most popular e-book cons include: Malware is attached to cheap, badly-written e-books in order to obtain your credit card information.

A single book is given different editorial spins and sold under different titles or authors' names.

Material is plagiarized from websites and blogs and packaged into an e-book.

To avoid e-book scams, BBB advises:

Stick with authors you already know or those who have an established reputation.

If you decide to buy from an unfamiliar author, download a free sample (Amazon lets you do this) to test the quality.

Don't be taken in by great reviews that accompany cheap e-books. The reviewers may have been paid to write them.

Don't click on links inside an e-book unless it's by an established, reputable author. Even then, it's advisable to visit websites via your Internet browser rather than using the link.

If you believe you've been scammed, seek a refund. You should also register your complaint with the seller's customer service department and/or BBB. If all else fails, do other readers a favor by writing an honest review of the book.

Lady Owls begin season with win

By Tangela Copelin

The Hedley Lady Owls began their 2011 season last week with a hard fought win against the Booker Lady Kiowas.

The game started out with Booker quickly taking the lead, outscoring the Lady Owls in the first quarter 15 to 9. The Lady Owls began to overcome their first game jitters and closed the game to just four points at the end of the first half.

The second half the Lady Owls began to pull ahead of Booker and won the game 40 to 32.

Scoring for the Lady Owls were Sierra Wheatly 15, Kassidy Burton 11, Bailey Wood 5, Sierra Shelp 3, and Becca Butler, Salem Shelp and Kati Adams with 2 points each.

The Lady Owls and Owls will be playing in Amarillo this week against Arbor Academy game time is 6:30.

Lady Broncos hit century mark in season opener

By Sandy Anderberg

Great shooting, hustle, determination, and intense defense spurred the Lady Broncos to a 62-point win in their season opener at home Tuesday night at home against the Amarillo Flames. The 107-45 win gave the ladies the boost they needed to begin their 2011-12 season.

The Lady Broncos were missing several of their players due to the cross-country team running at the state meet and a huge season-ending injury to Jency Burton, but several players stepped up. Five Lady Broncos finished in double figures on the scoreboard. McKayla Cartwright played tough inside and led all scorers with 17 points. Outside shooters Jentry Shadle and Lydia Howard followed with 16 points each, and Camra Smith and Ryann Starnes helped with 13 and 12 points respectively.

The Lady Broncos took off in a hurry and outscored the Lady Flames 23-4 in the first quarter of play. They picked up the pace in the second quarter and pumped in 29 points to take a huge lead at the break. They continued their dominance in the second half of play and earned the big win.

Scoring: Cartwright 17, Shadle 16, Howard 16, Smith 13, Starnes 12, Marqueta Gaines 8, Anna Cenicerros 8, Taylor Gaines 7, GloryBryley 6, and Savannah Topper 4.

Sales tax revenue increases

All three Donley County municipalities posted sales tax revenue increases this month when Texas Comptroller Susan Combs made her November allocations last month.

The City of Clarendon saw its sales tax revenue increase 2.35 percent in October for a total of $35,312.88 compared to the same period one year ago. The city is now 6.19 percent ahead for the year-to-date figure with $307,069.65 compared to $289,154.97 at this time in 2010.

Hedley's allocation of $959.53 reflects an increase of 1.73 percent, but that city still lags 0.88 percent behind last year with a year-to-date collection of $6,978.17.

Howardwick posted a 5.46 percent increase with an allocation of $1,231.08 this month, which has the city just slightly ahead for the year with an increase of 0.45 percent.

Combs said that statewide sales tax revenue in October was $1.87 billion, up 15.9 percent compared to October 2010.

"Strong growth in business sectors such as the oil and natural gas industry boosted sales tax revenue for yet another month," Combs said. "State sales tax revenue has now increased for 19 consecutive months. Sales tax also grew in the manufacturing industry, as well as consumer sectors such as the restaurant industry and retail trade."

The sales tax figures represent September sales reported by monthly tax filers and July, August and September sales reported by quarterly filers.

Aldermen accepted the resignation of Municipal Judge Trina Wright with regret, and approved a contract for the coming year with the Donley County Appraisal District for appraisal and tax collection services. They also approved an interlocal agreement to provide emergency support services to the City of Hedley, but the measure has not yet been before the Hedley Board of Aldermen.

Aldermen also met for about two hours in closed session to conduct an annual evaluation of the city administrator.

Speaking from the heart

"I didn't know how I would manage on my own."

Clarendon Church of Christ

THEY ARE BLESSINGS FROM GOD

Recently, in the last 3 or 4 years, there have been several children born to members in our congregation. It's a wonderful sound to hear the cooing, laughing, and yes even the crying. One of our tots likes to yell "yay!" at the end of service, cute for now, hopefully our teens don't get any ideas.

The young people, from babies to teens, are encouraging for a couple of reasons: 1. There are some parents who care enough about their children's spiritual well-being that they make sure they are here for study and worship. 2. There are so many worldly things for the teens to be doing, yet, they are here instead.

(Proverbs 23:24) "The father of the righteous will greatly rejoice, and he who begets a wise child will delight in him."

Someone determined to be a good parent and follows through will never regret having children. A person that lets the world train up his child will often be miserable and full of regrets. That's why I enjoy whatever sounds that come from the babies and toddlers during worship service. Their sounds let me know that these children will never remember their first day at a church service. They will grow up around spiritual people and people who will love them. Raising children is the parents' responsibility, but brethren in Christ can help teach the children by their influence and example.

God entrusts us with these children. They are, in a way, time capsules. I remember in the early 1970's, it became popular to construct time capsules. Things from the current era of time would be put inside and buried or stored for future generations to open and have a glimpse into the past. Our children are that way also. We will be gone one day and our children will still be around, hopefully sharing the values and teachings that we instilled in them from another time. It will be a reflection on us. What will the message be?

My prayer is that we all would treat the children as true blessings from God and take the responsibility for them seriously. If we let them be rule-breakers now, they will be our heart-breakers in our older age. If we instill Godly values into them, not only are they blessings now, but will continue to be blessings to us when we are old. Thank God for these little blessings!

Broncos season ends with loss

By Sandy Anderberg

Even though the 2011 football season did not end as the Broncos had wished, it was a profitable year for the young team.

The Broncos' season came to an end Friday night in Pampa when they fell short against Canadian. Despite the loss, the Broncos have a lot to be proud of this season and can only build for next year's team.

A rough first quarter in the 20-48 loss, gave the Wildcats the early edge; and, according to head coach Gary Jack, that is something you cannot do when you play Canadian.

"They jumped out to a 21-point lead early in the game," Jack said. "But our boys didn't quit. They kept battling, and we scored twice in the second quarter."

The Broncos did fight back when Charleston Harris scored on a 64-yard run with Cole Ward adding the kick, and Wes Williams took it in from 78 yards out.

But the Wildcats came marching back to score with only eight seconds to go in the half and went up 15 points at the break.

"They are a good team," Jack said. "Offensively, they execute well, but we made them play until the very end. And we had a couple of good kickoff returns, but didn't score. That hurt us."

The Broncos managed the ball for most of the third period,

Bronco Head Coach Gary Jack discusses the game plan with Senior Jerami Johnson during last Friday night's game in Pampa against the Canadian Wildcats. After a great season and a fifth straight appearance in the playoffs, the Broncos fought hard but came up short with a 20-48 loss.

but could not punch it through. The Broncos had to punt from deep and Canadian was able to take advantage of that and put another six on the board. The momentum changed and Canadian reaped the benefits of it to go on and win the game.

The Broncos did score one more time in the final period when Williams grabbed a pass from quarterback Chance McAnear and Ward kicked the bonus. "Overall, I am proud of how we played," Jack said. "They played hard and that is all we can ask. We made a game of it."

Canadian definitely took notice of the way the Broncos fought and commented to Jack after the game.

"It was nice to hear another coach compliment us on our tough play," Jack said.

Several Broncos played extremely well in the game.

"Trevor Cobb really stood out in the game," Jack said. "He played well on both sides of the ball. He gave a good effort and had a great year."

After making the playoffs for the last five years, the Broncos will be back again next year for number six and be as strong as ever.

Shoulder Pain: Steroid Injections Evaluated

Pain in the area of the shoulder is a common complaint seen in doctor's offices. There are many different causes, including rotator cuff tears or tendonitis, a dislocated, separated, or frozen shoulder, arthritis, or a rupture of a biceps tendon. According to the findings of a recent study published in the medical journal Archives of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, low doses of the two most commonly used injectable corticoid steroids were evaluated and found to be just as effective as higher doses of these drugs. They found that both the low and high doses reduced pain and improved the range of motion of the arm and shoulder. The study was conducted among 79 participants who had experienced at least one month of moderate to severe shoulder pain prior to study participation. Those conducting the study suggest that since high doses of steroids may cause complications, a lower dose is preferred for initial therapy.

Non-medication treatment for shoulder pain includes rest, ice and heat applications, physical therapy, stretching, and specific exercises.

CC golf team places 5th at Midland Invitational

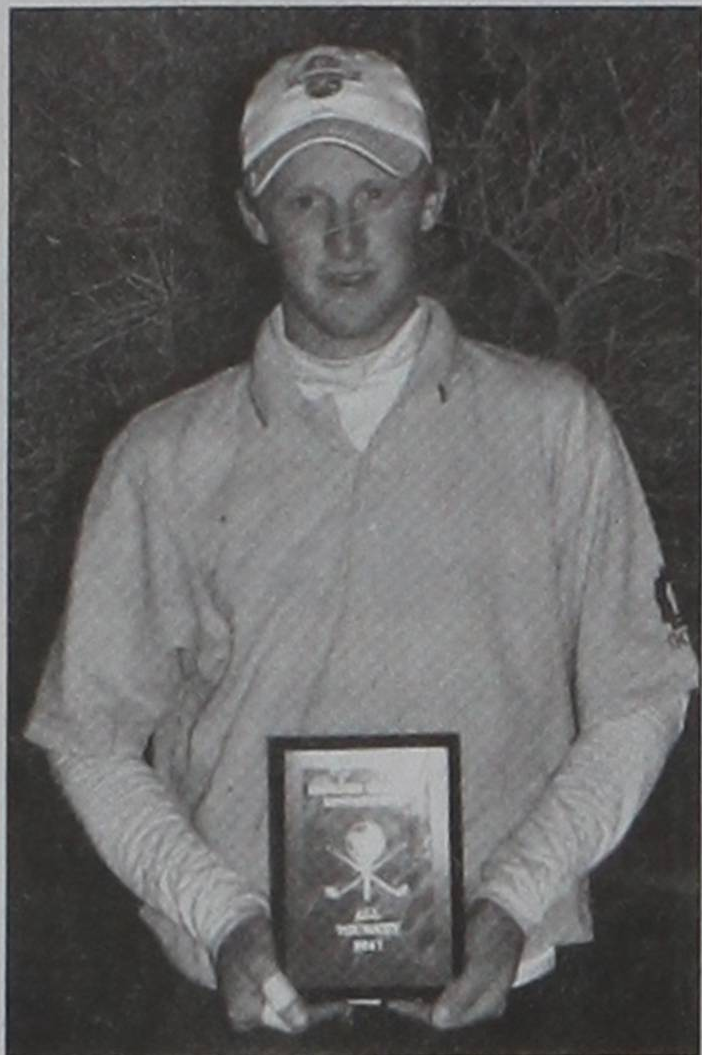

The Clarendon College Golf Team faced off and played well against some very strong Division I golf programs at the Midland Invitational this weekend.

CC finished 5th and three of the CC Golfers finished in the Top 20. Steve Evans placed 7th, Jake Bond placed 11th, and Chris Fletcher placed 18th.

"We are playing well, but I believe there is another level that this squad will achieve in the spring. Training will elevate now that the fall competitions are over," John Green, CC Athletic Director and Golf Coach said. "The freshman have experienced another level of competition and this will season them for the run to the NJCAA National Golf Tournament in May 2012."

"I am very proud of Steve, Jake and Chris for stepping it up and finishing in the Top 20 at this event of strong competitors."

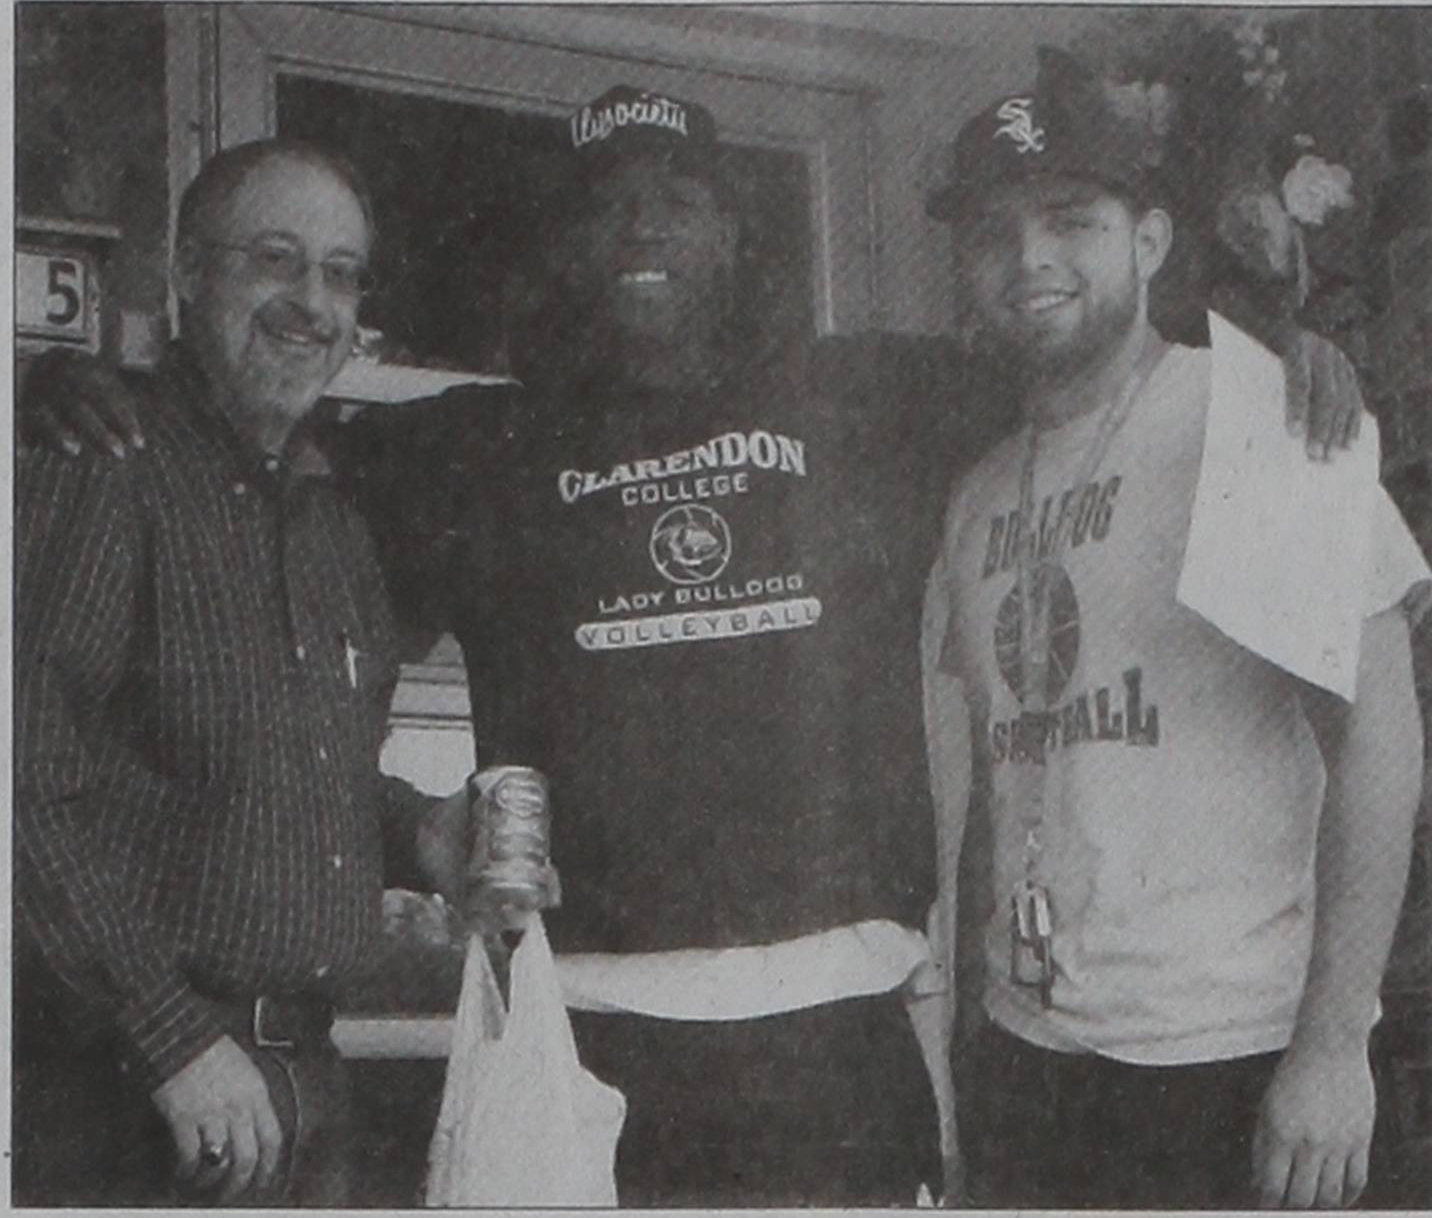

The CC Golf team, who had

dropped to 15th in the nation, moved up one notch to 14th this week on Golfstat.com.

"I believe this success at the Midland Invitational will help us to climb higher next week," Green said.

GIVING THANKS

- 26,490 Square-foot facility
- 16,795 Patients treated
- 267 Years of combined physician experience
- 205 Patients enrolled in clinical trials locally
- 164 Stem cell transplants completed
- 43 FDA-approved therapies developed
- 25 Years helping Texans fight cancer
- 5 Years fighting cancer in the Panhandle

As we count our Thanksgiving blessings and celebrate the five-year anniversary of Texas Oncology–Amarillo Cancer Center, we thank our patients and families for entrusting us with their health – the greatest gift of all. Together with the greater Texas Oncology network, founded 25 years ago, we pledge our continued commitment to the Panhandle community we call home.
