Fire Prevention poster contest set

The Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department and Clarendon Firebelles will be hosting their annual Fire Prevention and Open House on Saturday, October 12 at 10 a.m. at the Fire Station.

Students from Clarendon Elementary submitted their entries for the poster contest. The posters will be anonymously judged by the firemen, and the winners will be awarded during the open house. Posters will be judged on how well the student expressed this year's Fire Prevention theme, "Prevent Kitchen Fires...Get Cooking With Fire Safety". All posters submitted this year will be on display during the Open House for viewing.

Everyone is invited to attend the event to enjoy a tour of the fire station, refreshments, and learn more about ways to protect your family from fires.

State plans shot clinics in Clarendon

The Texas Department of State Health Services will hold four Immunization Clinics in Clarendon on October 3, 10, 17, and 24 at the TDSHS office at Five Medical Drive with the first 15 clients seen from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1:00 to 3:30 p.m.

All clinic times subject to change or cancellation due to weather conditions or unforeseen scheduling conflicts.

The theme of the 2013-14 Peace Poster Contest is "Our World, Our Future."

One local winner will receive a $50 savings bond. One international grand prize winner will receive $5,000 and a trip to a special award ceremony. Each of the 23 merit award winners will receive a cash award of $500 and a certificate of achievement.

The contest is open to students who will be 11, 12, or 13 years old on November 15, and more information is being sent home with students in Clarendon and Hedley.

Cub Scouts to hold roundup Tuesday

Cub Scout Pack 437 will host "Cub Scout Roundup" on Tuesday, October 8, at 6:30 p.m. at the Clarendon Elementary Cafeteria.

CC receives $2.25M grant for nursing program

Clarendon College received word last Wednesday that it is a recipient of a Title III Part A grant. This grant provides approximately $2.25 million to assist in the establishment of a Registered Nursing Program at the College.

Funding will begin right away with plans for a January 2014 RN program start.

CC President Phil Shirley said the grant is a positive development for the entire area.

"I am very pleased Clarendon College received the Title III Part A grant," Shirley said. "Not only will it assist in starting a registered nursing program, but it will also establish livable-wage careers for many of our Panhandle residents. The level of healthcare will be impacted in a very positive manner within the entire tri-state area."

CC Dean of Students Tex Buckhaults said the grant will help the college serve students better.

"I am excited about the opportunities the grant monies will provide to help improve our health science offerings to our service area residents," Buckhaults said. "We hope to strengthen the College and increase the capacity to serve our students by realizing the full potential of high priority health science programs."

Shirley said the grant also set a new precedent for CC in terms of receiving federal funding.

"It is my understanding that this is the first time that the College has requested and received a grant of this magnitude," Shirley said. "Our college will receive approximately $2.25 million over five years to assist us in our allied health programs."

CC is one of only 33 schools nationwide to receive this grant. The University of Houston at Clear Lake was also funded but at a lower amount.

The grant funds will support the College's initiative, Creating and Re-Energizing High-Demand Nursing Programs at Clarendon College, which includes three parts:

- Develop a new Associate Degree in Nursing leading to a Registered Nurse licensure, with portions made available in an online format to increase access for our time and place-bound students.

• Revise and improve health science pre-requisite courses and the existing 3-semester Vocational Nursing (VN) program.

• Establish new Health Science Support Centers to support students through health science programs.

These new and revised programs, as well as the Health Science Support Centers, will be supported by program-specific equipment, resources, and instructional technology to increase student retention and academic success.

CC picks finalists for next president

Three finalists were named by the Clarendon College Board of Regents in the search for CC's next president last week.

Following a closed session at the board's September 26 meeting, Regents named three candidates as finalists and on-campus interviews are being scheduled this month.

The candidates in alphabetical order are:

• Dr. Gary Stretcher, Vice President of Academic Affairs at Lamar State College in Port Arthur, Texas. Stretcher was also a finalist for president of CC in 2010.

An independent search committee reviewed completed applications from 12 candidates and advanced four names to the board. Regents then unanimously narrowed that pool of candidates to three.

Individual interviews will be held on October 16, 17, and 18; and the public is invited to meet the candidates on those dates during receptions and public forums from 11 a.m. to noon at the Bairfield Activity Center.

Regents will announce the selection of the next CC president at their board meeting on October 24.

In other college business last week, Regents ratified the hiring of the following employees: part time cheerleading coach Andrea Leggett, part time golf coach Daniel Burcham, part time testing clerk Celeste Whitesides, bookstore manager Lauraine Paul, and director of student life Debra Lamb.

J Bar D team wins cookoff

After weathering a severe West Texas storm, the J Bar D Ranch of Amarillo bested 15 other teams to win the 19th annual Col. Charles Goodnight Chuckwagon Cookoff last Saturday, September 28.

Officials with the Saints' Roost Museum, which sponsors the event, said they fed about 600 people at the cookoff, compared to more than 700 people last year when 17 wagons competed.

The J Bar D, led by head cook Don Johnson, won the champion bean pot after earning the first place wagon and camp, fourth place overall cooking, first place potatoes, and fourth place bread.

A Girl's Best Friend

A hidden disability had robbed her of a normal teenager's life, but this summer Hedley's Kortney Burton gained a new found independence and a best friend with which to share it.

For about eight years, Kortney has suffered from seizures. She had her first one when she was eight and was later diagnosed as having epilepsy when she was ten. Kortney was given medication which helped with the seizures, but her condition is progressive, and that medication might become less effective.

The 16-year-old faced a lot of uncertainty for a girl who, like most teenagers, just wanted to do her own thing without being the center of anyone's concerns. But that has all changed in the last several months.

The journey

Kortney came home from school one day last year and her mom, Tanya, asked her what she would think of getting a seizure alert dog.

"She told me we could send in an application and see what happens." "I just wondered if there are seizure alert dogs," Tanya said. "That thought just popped into my head. That thought wouldn't leave me - it was a God thing."

About the same time, Kortney visited her sister and attended church and saw a man with a dog, later finding out that the canine was a seizure alert dog.

So the Burtons set off on a search for more answers and possible sources. Each application included a fee and with the expenses adding up, Tanya prepared six packets and told Kortney to pick one.

"Kortney picked CPL (Canine Partners for Life) at random, and we sent it in," Tanya said.

Two weeks later the organization called to setup an interview.

The Burtons traveled to Pennsylvania to meet with CPL in January 2013.

While there they were told the wait for a match could be anywhere from two to two and a half years, so they returned home to wait.

"Two months to the day (after the interview) they called her and said they had a match," Tanya said.

So this past June, Kortney and her mom made the journey back to Pennsylvania where she was matched with CorKey, a two-year old English Black Lab. She spent three weeks training with CorKey day and night.

"We spent the first week just talking about how to take care of them and walked around in heel position," Kortney said.

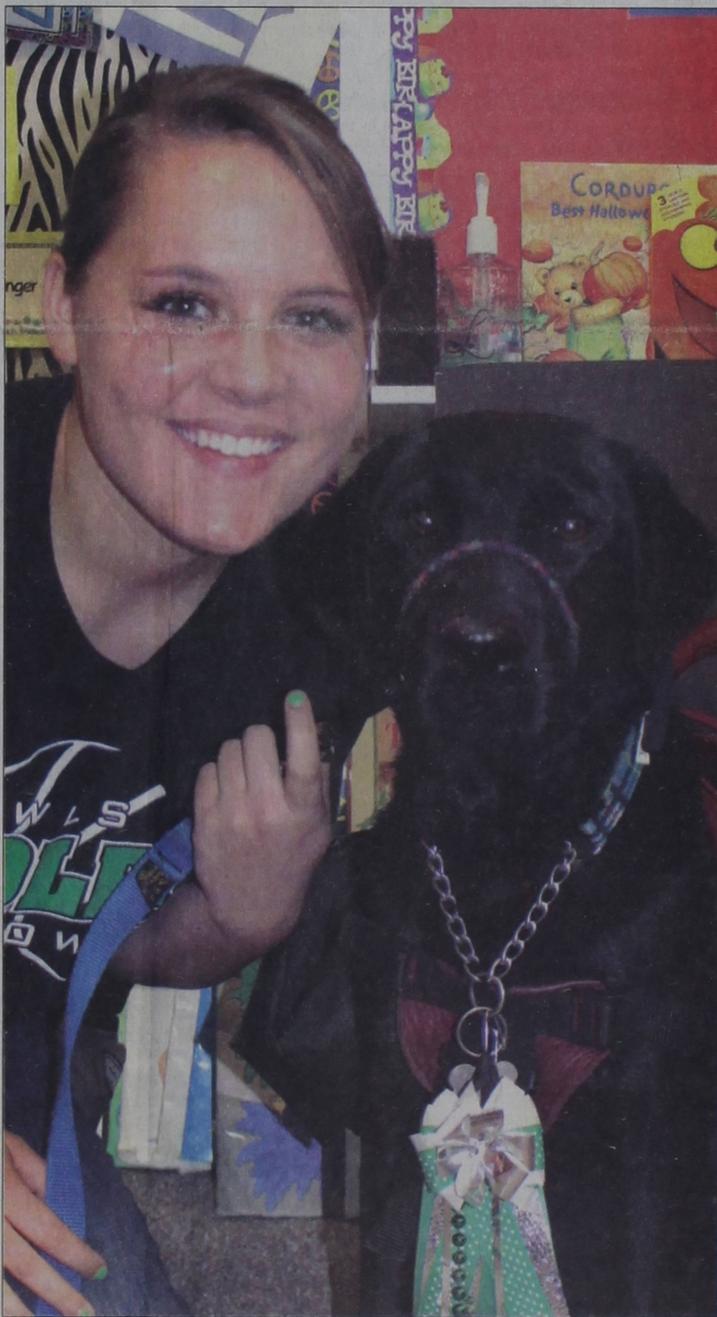

CPL's training including teaching CorKey to do tasks such as open doors and pay checks at restaurants. The training class also went on several field trips out to eat, to a baseball game, the zoo, and a train ride to a mall in Philadelphia.

It wasn't all fun and games though - Kortney had a daily journal, read several books, and watched numerous videos.

"She had homework every night," Tanya said.

Each owner also had to teach their dog a trick, and CorKey had to learn to roll over through clicker training.

"It took about three days," Kortney said. "At first he was confused at why I was trying to tell him what to do. He gave me the hardest time."

On July 9, Kortney returned home to Hedley with her new best friend.

Support

While the Burtons weren't responsible for paying a fee for CorKey, they did raise funds to support CPL's ongoing mission and their traveling expenses, and the Burtons' friends and neighbors from Hedley and the surrounding area came together as Team Kortney.

"We didn't have to raise a certain amount; we just raised as much as we could," Tanya said. "CPL goes off of donations. We wouldn't have been able to get him without the help of everyone around."

"I tried to keep up with everyone who gave," she continued. "It's impossible for me to thank everyone. Without everyone around here we wouldn't have him."

Donations were made by people all over the Panhandle and as far away as Washington state; and through the Team Kortney Facebook Page, the Burtons have been supported by people they don't even know.

Darlene Sullivan, the director of CPL, flew out to Texas and attended Kortney's first two days of school in August to help orient the students on CorKey. No one is allowed to pet CorKey except for Kortney, and understandably that is a hard concept for youngsters to grasp.

"Most kids have been really good about him," Kortney said. "He doesn't like school at all. He wants to come home and play Frisbee."

"He plays in the backyard," Tanya said,

Tax cuts and deficits: Fact versus fiction

By Dr. Paul G. Kengor

In my previous column, I underscored the 1920s lessons that President Obama and fellow "progressives" need to learn. These include the value of tax cuts — lessons that the president and his allies will refuse. They want big, expanded government, not big tax cuts and government restraint.

Treasury Secretary Andrew Mellon, who understood that reducing tax rates can actually create more revenue, wasn't proffering some mere academic theory. He and Presidents Warren Harding and Calvin Coolidge cut the 73-percent upper-income rate left by President Woodrow Wilson. In 1922, it was cut to 58 percent; by 1925, to 25 percent.

What happened? Not only did the economy boom, vanquishing Wilson's double-digit unemployment, but Coolidge consistently balanced the federal budget. Mellon was right: More revenue came in, rising from $700 million to $1 billion.

Unfortunately, "progressive" President Franklin Delano Roosevelt skyrocketed the top rate to 94 percent. It would be reduced to 70 percent by 1965, but it took President Ronald Reagan to return it to Mellon-era levels, ultimately to 28 percent. Like Mellon, Reagan saw federal revenue increase, from $600 billion to $1 trillion.

So, why did deficits increase under Reagan? Liberals insist his tax cuts generated deficits. They're wrong. It's crucial to understand how and why.

Reagan's deficits resulted from revenue loss during the 1981-83 recession and — foremost — from excessive spending. As revenues rose from $600 billion in 1981 to $1 trillion in 1989, spending — on social programs by congressional Democrats and on defense by Reagan — soared from $678 billion to $1.143 trillion.

Reagan biographer Lou Cannon calls the Reagan deficits "war-time deficits," aimed at winning the Cold War and terminating the Soviet Union. Once they did, they paved the way for President Bill Clinton to slash defense spending and balance the budget.

Reagan's deficits peaked in 1983-86, when the upper-income rate was still 50 percent. It wasn't reduced again until 1987, to 38.5 percent, and didn't come down to 28 percent until 1988. And get this: Reagan's deficits actually decreased in 1987-89.

Think about that: Reagan's deficits peaked when the upper tax rate was 50 percent, far higher than the 39.6 percent that President Obama and liberal Democrats demanded. If Obama believes deficits will come down with a 39.6-percent upper rate, why didn't they go down with Reagan's 50 percent?

That gets back to the main reason for most deficits: excessive spending. History tells us this again and again. It's an irrefutable, common-sense fact. It's an elementary fact that liberals/progressives resist because it stands in the way of what they really want to do: grow government and redistribute wealth.

— Dr. Paul Kengor is professor of political science at Grove City College, executive director of The Center for Vision & Values, and New York Times best-selling author of the book, "The Communist: Frank Marshall Davis, The Untold Story of Barack Obama's Mentor."

Cheers... well maybe not just yet

Well, now that October has arrived, that means that November 5th, is just around the corner. In case you haven't noticed, November 5th, is the day we go to the polls and decide if Donley County is going to vote for, or against, the local option petition for liquor sales, including mixed beverages (liquor by the drink).

In Texas, particularly in Donley County, this is a sensitive issue for some, not so sensitive for others, while a few folks don't care much either way. I am one of the "don't care much" folks. Now understand that I enjoy the occasional cold beer on a hot summer day, or with a heaping plate of fine Texas barbecue, however you spell it. I even enjoy a margarita while dining on fine Mexican cuisine. When chatting with friends and family at small, intimate gatherings, or at family weddings, etc., it is really nice to sip on three-fingers of Wild Turkey to see me comfortably through the evening.

As in most elections determining "moral issues," opinions and positions can run a bit hot. So far, folks have pretty much remained calm and quiet. A few people have taken the opportunity to express their opinions in this matter, including some that are a bit more pejorative than others, which is to be expected.

To date, the folks who are adamantly against liquor by the drink are the only ones we are hearing from, at least in public forums. Of course, that makes sense. The folks who are for the sale of liquor by the drink gain absolutely nothing, especially in a small community like Clarendon, by offending their friends, relatives, or customers when expressing their position about this issue. It's probably best that they let their voice be heard, quietly, through the ballot box.

Now, as is usually the case, a few folks go a bit overboard, when referring those in favor of liquor by the drink. Name-calling, and questioning the religious fitness of the voters who are in favor of going wet is unfortunate. Such behavior can be counterproductive. Suggesting that the folks who are in favor of passing the option are in the grip of Satan, or who must be less religious if they enjoy beer and whiskey, is inaccurate.

Actually, the Bible does shed a little positive light on this issue. For example, consider the Gospel of John, chapter 2. In these verses, John the Beloved (at least in his own mind) tells us the story of Jesus making 180 gallons of wine, for a wedding party, no less. Sound familiar, wine being served at weddings? Anyway, I digress.

The text says, "Two days after this there was a wedding in Cana of Galilee; and Jesus' mother was there. And Jesus was invited to the wedding and so were his disciples. When the wine had run short, Jesus' mother said to him: 'They have no wine.' Jesus said to her: 'Lady, let me handle this in my own way. My hour has not yet come.' His mother said to the servants: 'Do whatever he tells you to do.'"

In short, John goes on to tell us that Jesus turned five large jugs (each containing 20 to 30 gallons) of water into wine. He goes on to write that this isn't some cheap rot-gut wine, this is the good stuff.

Now, I'm not sure how many people attended this wedding, but 180 gallons of wine is plenty to keep a lot of folks happy and festive. Of course, the Fourth Gospel presents those who would study it and him who would expound it with a problem, or two problems, actually. There is the simple surface story that anyone can understand and re-tell; but, there is also a wealth of deeper meaning for him who has the eagerness to search and the eye to see, and the mind to understand. So, rather than spend three days studying this issue, and due to time and space limitations, we'll just relate the simple surface story. To wit: Jesus was invited to a wedding, and

Path to prosperity or bankruptcy

By Dr. Shawn Ritenour

Once again there is panic running through the halls of Congress, the Oval Office and in the chattering classes that make up mainstream media over the prospect of shutting down the federal government. Most of the panic is a result of the inability of politicians to reach an agreement on government spending. If we hope to begin to recover true prosperity, then making real, significant cuts in government spending should be a top priority. Only true, substantial reductions in government spending will free necessary capital for entrepreneurs to use in productive investment. This investment, in turn, will allow for sustainable economic progress.

We are in the fiscal mess we are in because, since the early 1970s, tax revenues have been unable to keep pace with government spending. Real government spending has increased almost twice as fast as government revenue. In 1970 our total government debt equaled $371 billion. Today it stands at $16.8 trillion. Even if we adjust for inflation, federal government debt has increased more than eight times what it was in 1970.

Things have only gotten worse following the financial meltdown of 2008. It took from 1789 to 2001 to accumulate a federal debt of $5.8 trillion. However our government officials have added a nearly identical $5.8 trillion in four short years between 2007 and 2011.

The 10 highest monthly budget deficits have all occurred since February 2009. During the Obama administration, the federal government has accumulated more new debt than it did from the time that George Washington became president to the time that Bill Clinton became president. Since President Obama entered the White House, the national debt has increased by an average of more than $64,000 per taxpayer. In fact, Obama will become the first president to run deficits of more than a trillion dollars during each of his first four years in office.

Talking in trillions of dollars can easily boggle the mind. To provide some perspective on the magnitude of our current debt, think about this: If you were alive when Jesus Christ was born and spent one million dollars every day since that point, you still would not have spent one trillion dollars yet. This is staggering but true.

Last summer, the New York Times' columnist and economist Paul Krugman told Business Insider that in order to avoid an economic depression, "Somebody has to spend more than their income, and, for the time being, that has to be the government."

Krugman stands the economic problem on its head. Instead of not enough desired production, it is thought that our problem is not enough demand. The perceived solution is increased government spending. If people do not voluntarily demand enough, don't worry, the government will make up the difference.

The problem with this thinking is that government spending has to be paid for. It can be funded in only three ways: with taxes, borrowing, or inflation. All three of these funding methods have negative economic consequences.

Taxes are politically unpopular, and because of this the government relies on borrowing money to fund deficit spending. There are two sources from which the government can borrow: The banking system and private savers.

The bottom line is that we are correct to be concerned with the fiscal situation facing the federal government. The larger the percentage of a nation's economy absorbed by government spending, the slower their economic expansion because real economic expansion is the product of wise entrepreneurs using capital that is funded by real savings.

As the deadline for the federal budget knocks on the door it is quite clear what is needed: fiscal reform. Only facing the melancholy music of drastically cutting government spending will put us back on the path to prosperity.

Best Friend: Service dog a blessing in girl's life

"and he can interact with our other dogs."

Regardless of whether he wants to be there, CorKey does have school spirit.

"He won a spirit award," Kortney said. "It was nerd day and he wore nerd glasses."

In addition to the outpouring of support, the Burtons received a big gift from Pet Partners that will take care of CorKey for years to come — medical insurance for life.

"They wanted to help a child with an invisible disability, so CPL gave them Kortney's name and phone number," Tanya said. "It will cover any emergencies, any sickness, anything."

CorKey's gift

Seizure alert dogs are able to sense chemicals and behavioral changes in their owners and then alert through means such as focused attention or continuous physical contact.

CPL trains seizure alert dogs which work with a man with seizures who lives near their training facilities. He helps CPL detect which dogs have the ability to alert, and CorKey did.

Since being paired up with Kortney, CorKey's alert time has decreased from two hours down to about 45 minutes.

"We're still learning how he alerts," Kortney said.

"They say it takes about a year for them to get into a groove," Tanya said.

CorKey's alert signals give Kortney time to get to a safe place — usually the floor — and wait out what might be coming.

When asked how her life has changed, Kortney joked "I basically have a kid. It's a huge responsibility."

But one that she wouldn't trade.

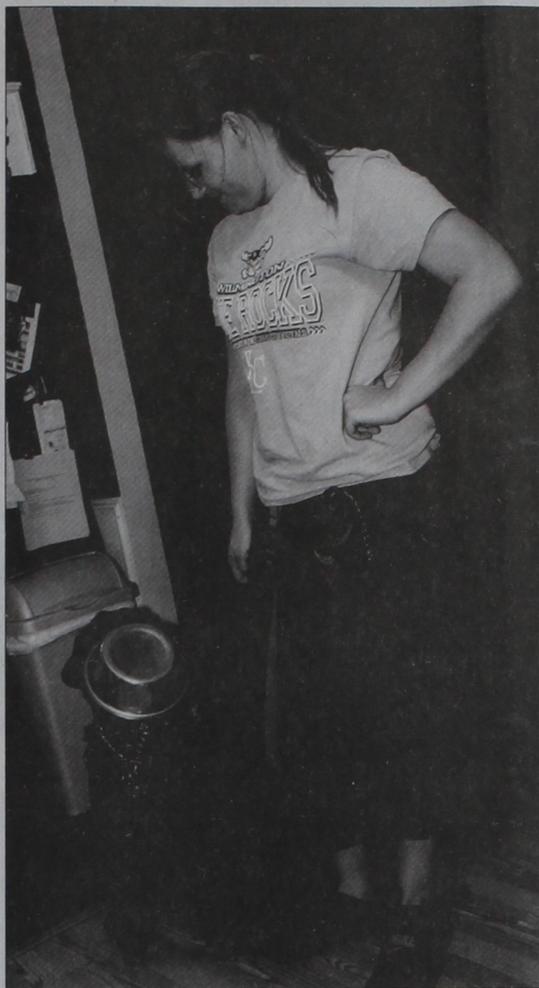

"I feel more secure and better about going different places," she said.

Tanya said that Kortney got to a point where she wouldn't leave the house or go anywhere.

"Now she'll go with friends without me," Tanya said.

In addition to security, CorKey has helped the Burton family find their way through a difficult time.

"Having CorKey is a huge relief for us," Tanya said. "I quit my job a year ago to stay home with Kortney. It was scary for her and for us."

A bright future

Alert dogs are usually retired after eight to ten years of service, and the decision to retire CorKey will be up to CorKey, Kortney, and CPL.

She will have the option to keep him as a pet after he retires, and both Kortney and Tanya couldn't imagine life without him as part of their family.

Kortney trains with CorKey every day, and she must recertify her training with CPL once a year until she turns 18.

When Kortney suits up for the Lady Owls this season, CorKey will be seen sitting courtside — possibly a bit excited.

"He likes basketball, and I play basketball," Kortney said.

CorKey provides more than just seizure alert duties for Kortney, too.

"It is scientifically proven that if I get stressed, if I put my hands on the dog, the stress will go away," Kortney said.

According to her mom, Kortney has grown through this entire process.

"She never talked about going to college before she got him and now she's talking about it," Tanya said. "It's been good for her; she opened up a lot at training."

Kortney sums up her feelings about CorKey simply.

"He's definitely been a big blessing."

Cookoff:

event drew 14 contestants, who were paired with experienced wagon teams to prepare potatoes for the cooks' dinner Friday night. Darcie Hunsaker from Clarendon won first place and was teamed with the Wagon Rangers Team.

Ethan Babcock of Clarendon was second with the C4B Team, and Boe Boedeker from Lockney was third with the CO Ranch Team.

Following the Junior Cookoff, 160 people enjoyed a delicious steak dinner Friday night on the museum grounds, 40 less than the year before.

The invitation-only event was held exclusively for Chuckwagon teams and members of the Museum and their families. Immediately following the Friday evening meal, a terrible storm hit Clarendon, ripped several chuckwagon flies, and delayed the next day's cookoff by one hour.

The trade show was held throughout the day Saturday, and live entertainment was provided. Museum tours were led by the Clarendon High School Junior Historians. Relatives of Chuckwagon inventor Charles Goodnight also were present for their annual reunion.

Weather holds up Cookoff

The good Lord blessed us with more rain this weekend, three more inches. This time some damage was sustained south of Howardwick from high winds.

Utility poles were snapped, irrigation equipment was in a tangled mess, and metal doors were torn from a storage unit owned by Gary Hunt. The museum grounds and chuckwagons were hit with wind and rain, but the show did go on, the dinner was just a little late. Those old cooks were tough and knew they had to feed everyone no matter what Mother Nature threw at them. This generation continued the tradition.

Our beautiful weather is here. We are beginning to winter proof the place, and Buffy the Wonder Dog is keeping us safe. The garden has stopped producing, and the vines are in the compost heap. I do have some vegetables in the freezer for the winter. The garden was a success this year. Ole Jim may try it again next year.

If you are looking for a treasure, don't forget the charity garage sale being held October 5 at 52 Arthur in Howardwick. It is sponsored by the Howardwick Baptist Church with all proceeds going toward a better van to be used in the church ministry. Enjoy the ride and find a treasure. What could be better than that?

Prayers and best wishes go out to Mayor Mike Rowland who is recovering from a knee replacement that was done last week. He is home. Now comes the rehab part and following instructions. Do your best, Mike. We want to see you out and about again.

News from City Hall

• Budget – The City's 2013/2014 Fiscal Year began Tuesday, October 1. The operating budget will be the same as last year's as the current city council is prohibited from making any changes or amendments until three new aldermen are seated following the November 5 election.

There is reason for optimism related to budget issues as the state and local economy have improved which translates to increased revenue for the city, and the additional revenue from the sale of water to the Greenbelt Water Authority is having a positive impact on the budget. Even though no new taxes are being considered for the coming year, the new City Council will likely have an opportunity to make improvements to Clarendon's deteriorating infrastructure (streets, water quality, equipment, etc.) and closely examine the needs of our valuable city employees.

• Aldermen Election – Hat off to the four candidates running for the three seats on the Council. Larry Jeffers, Wayne Cole and Beverly Burrow will compete for the two seats expiring May 2014 and Doug Kidd is unopposed for the alderman position expiring May 2015. Clarendon is fortunate to have these citizens step up to the plate for the good of our city. Thanks to all candidates for their desire to participate in local city government.

• Other City Business – Unfortunately, Clarendon did not receive the downtown revitalization grant but there are plans to reapply again next year. Our Public Works Department is the proud owner of a new large mower and thanks to the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, our Sanitation Department has received a new baler for the recycling program.

The daily work of all city employees is appreciated. We have a hard working group of men and women who are on the job each day and are always willing to help out during city emergencies. Citizens are encouraged to thank them for their commitment and dedication to our community.

Owls punt Longhorns

By Fred Gray

Last Friday night the Hedley Owls hosted the Lazbuddie Longhorns, and promptly kicked the cow patties out of them, 54-20. It was homecoming, no less, so their victory was doubly sweet indeed.

Anyway you look at the game; it was complete domination by the Owls, taking some of the sting out of last week's loss to another herd of Longhorns in Hart.

Kyle Lindsay, Denver Chambless, Casey McCleskey, and Clay King used devastating blocks all night long, to free up Owl skill players (It must be noted, however, that in 6-man football, everyone is a skill player). Such physical domination, as exhibited by the Owls' offense, started and finished in the trenches up front.

The Owls' ground attack was a beast all night long. Seth Ruthardt ran over and through the Longhorn defense for 74 yards and three touchdowns on 7 carries. Klaiton Moore slashed his way for 300 yards and five touchdowns on a mere 14 carries, for a hefty 21.4 yards per carry average. Clay King, Jake Owens, and Arden Haught also carried the pigskin for the Owls during the game.

Meanwhile, the Owls' defense held Lazbuddie to 53 yards and a single touchdown on 18 carries, for a per carry average of just less than 3 yards. The Longhorns' passing attack met with a similar fate, gaining just 111 yards on a 7 for 19 effort.

The Owls' defenders continued their aggressive, hard hitting ways. Kyle Lindsey had one solo tackle, along with two assists. Jake Owens added one solo tackle and one assist to the defensive domination. Seth Ruthardt had two solo tackles, eight assists, and a fumble recovery. Denver Chambless added two solo tackles, three assists, and knocked down a pass. Klaiton Moore managed three solo tackles and an assist in addition to his sparkling offensive contribution. Arden Haught also contributed a solo tackle and two assists to the Owls' defensive domination.

The bench also contributed significantly to the Hedley results. Zach Chapman, Raul Carillo, and Lane Cabler played very well when they were asked to go in and give the starters a breather.

This week, the Owls travel to White Deer for a 7:30 p.m. kick-off on Friday, October 4.

Senior Jake Owens carries the ball in the Owls Homecoming victory over Lazbuddie.

Lady Bulldogs host Odessa

By Fred Gray

The Clarendon College Lady Bulldogs hosted Odessa College to a volleyball match last Wednesday, September 18.

The Lady Bulldogs fell to Odessa College in a spirited match, 23-25, 15-25, 25-21, 19-25. After half-time, the Lady Bulldogs came out focused and played very well in the 3rd set, before fading in the final set of the match.

Then on Sunday, September

29, the Lady Bulldogs hosted Frank Phillips College, out of Borger, and sweep them in three sets, 25-11, 25-18, 25-23.

In between the two matches, the Lady Bulldogs hosted Vernon College and fell, 23-25, 20-25, 25-20, 25-13, 6-15. During the tie breaker, the Lady Bulldogs appeared to simply have run out of gas.

The Lady Bulldogs travel to Snyder, Texas, to play Western Texas on October 6, 2013.

The Clarendon Church of Christ invites you to watch "In Search of the Lord's Way" every Sunday morning at 7:30 on KAMR Channel 4.

Clarendon Church of Christ EVOLUTION, THE GOD KILLER

There are only two options of how we got here. Either matter is eternal or there is a being that is eternal. Science tells us that matter is not eternal. So, what is left? We all know the answer, but some will not own up to it. Good science tells you that life can't come from non-life. Also, good science tells you that there is a law of kinds, meaning that horses have horses, robins have robins, and humans have humans. No matter how many years you try to string together, life didn't just "happen."

So, why did this theory ever come about? The only logical explanation is that there are some who want to do away with the idea of God. Even Darwin himself had an ulterior motive in his theories. His father was a minister and had entered Charles Darwin into a ministerial school. He dropped out to pursue his own life. He had had all of God that he wanted.

An honest scientist or doctor will tell you that there is no way that we came from one cell organisms or monkeys. The famous atheist, Antony Flew, once debated Thomas Warren in Denton, Texas in 1976. He signed the affirmative statement: I Know There Is No God. He then was made to look foolish since there is no way to prove such a thing and by the time the debate was over, he admitted that there might be a God. 25+ years later, he wrote a book, entitled: I Know There Is a God. After years of study and swallowing his pride, he had to admit that science proves there has to be an eternal designer and creator. He still didn't become a Christian, but knew that we didn't just pop into existence. Of course all of his fans and admirers quickly turned on him before his death. He had been their champion, yet in the end, truth prevailed.

The day this country allowed prayer to be kicked out of school, and allowed evolution to be taught, this country has been on a downward spiral. You see, when you teach kids that they came from animals or monkeys long enough, they grow up with ethics and morals of animals. If there is no higher power, then who is to say what is right or wrong?

(Psalms 19:1) "The heavens declare the glory of God; And the firmament shows His handiwork." God's work screams that someone made all things. Our conscience and feelings of right and wrong prove someone gave that to us. No other creature on earth has these things. May we all reject man's philosophies or theories that would contradict the Almighty. We must bow our heads and knees to His power and righteousness. For those who don't want to believe, your attempts to do away with Him are futile.

Drugs in the News

Investigational Drug May Correct Anemia

An experimental iron replacement has demonstrated clinically improved hemoglobin levels in persons with chronic kidney disease compared to placebo (fake medication). During the late stages of chronic kidney disease, the body has a difficult time making red blood cells which may cause iron deficiency, a type of anemia. Hemoglobin is a protein that transports oxygen into these red blood cells. When a person is on dialysis, a machine is used to remove waste and extra fluid from the blood before pumping it back into the body. This investigational drug is called soluble ferric pyrophosphate (SFP). It was administered during dialysis treatment. It entered the bone marrow to increase red blood cell production. Traditionally, those on dialysis would require intravenous administration of iron to correct anemia. However, IV iron has bothersome side effects, and allergic reactions can occur. Iron deficiency anemia may cause us to be tired, sluggish, have cold hands and feet, and shortness of breath. If anemia is left untreated in kidney disease, it may cause significant heart problems.

Terry

Memorial service to honor the life of Billie Jean Terry (Adkins), 81, of Chickasha, will be held at 1:00 p.m. on Thursday, October 3, 2013, at the McRay Funeral Home Chapel with the Rev. Johnny Tims officiating. Jean came into this world on February 3, 1932, the only child of Clem Houston and Alberta Davis. On September 26, 2013, with her family by her side she departed this world to join her heavenly family.

Jean spent her entire childhood in Clarendon, Texas, with the exception of the time her parents along with their siblings moved to Phoenix, Arizona where they found jobs working on a dam project. The family then returned to Clarendon, Texas where Jean lived until graduating from high school in 1950. While in high school, she played half-court basketball for the school team. After graduation, she was employed for the telephone company where she worked as one of the last of the PBX switch board operators. Jean met the love of her life, Herbert Terry in Amarillo, Texas while at a USO dance. On April 16, 1954, they eloped to Tucumcari, New Mexico and spent the next 58 years together. During their marriage, they moved quite often following her husband Herbs 10 year career in the United State Air Force. They were stationed in New Mexico, Florida and Peas Air Force base in New Hampshire. They eventually settled and made their home in Chickasha in 1994.

Jean loved to read and collected a library full of books in her lifetime. The one book she read many times over was her bible. Every morning she would put aside the time to sit and read from her bible. A devoted wife and loving mother, she was always ready to offer a word of advice or a much needed hug.

Jean was preceded in death by her loving parents, Clem and Alberta Adkins and her son, Michael David Terry.

Survivors include her husband, Herbert Terry of the home and daughters, Marcia Terry of the home, Deborah Terry of Chickasha and Patricia Putman of Amarillo, Texas. She also has eight grandchildren, Robin, Erica, Michael, Dannie, Ashley, T. J., Samantha and Jessie and three great grandchildren.

Interment will be on a later date at the Citizens Cemetery in Clarendon, Texas. Service will be under the direction of the McRay Funeral Home.

Victory for Colts 34-8 over Booker

The eighth grade Colts traveled to Booker last Thursday night and grabbed a big win by the final score of 34-8.

The Colts were on fire and virtually unstoppable throughout the game. Colt Wood struck first on a 50-yard run to make the score 6-0. But the Kiowas came rushing back to take a two-point lead at half time.

The Colts were able to really get going in the second half and never allowed their opponent to reach the end zone again. Nathan Shadle ran back the kickoff after the break to give the Colts their second lead of the game, and Wood punched it through from five yards out for another six. Shadle earned the bonus for the Colts. Shadle then gave the Colts six, and Zach Caison made good on the conversion. Damarjae Cortez had a 20-yard touchdown to end the game.

"Justin Christopher and Cortez each had an interception," coach Brandt Lockhart said. "And Christopher had a blocked punt. Raylyn Shelton caused a fumble, and Wood had a fumble recovery."

The offensive line of Kade Hunsaker, Shelton, Christopher, Randy Aguilar, Alex Bilbrey, Clayton White, and Grayson Burch did a great job, according to Lockhart.

"Joshua Cobb did a good job of running the football, and our defensive players of the game were Aguilar, Cortez, Wood, and Christopher. We did a good job in the second half of executing the offense and playing good defense."

The seventh grade Colts were able to play a fifth quarter against Booker and won 14-0. Coach Brad Elam said the offense started and looked good behind the running of Ryan McCleskey and Preston Elam; the blocking of Cameron Smith and Ryan Ward, and the passing of Noab Elam.

"McCleskey started the scoring by catching a 20-yard touchdown pass from Noab Elam on a fourth-and-long situation," Elam said. "Preston Elam gained big yards on a long run and pass from Noab that led to a 5-yard touchdown run by Preston Elam. Noab found Dalton Benson all alone in the end zone for the two point (conversion)."

Ward, Cole Franks, and Smith, who made big tackles in the game, led the Colts defensively.

The Colts will play West Texas at home Thursday, October 10, at 5:00 p.m.
