Bryan police investigate deaths of former locals

Two bodies pulled from the rubble of a house fire in Bryan, Texas, Monday are believed to belong to former Clarendon residents Dr. Thomas "Mac" Devin and his daughter, Noel, a 2000 Clarendon High School graduate.

A Bryan Police spokeswoman told the ENTERPRISE late Tuesday that the bodies have not yet been positively identified, but they suspect they are those of the Devins. Reports coming out of Bryan say officials may have to use dental records to officially identify the remains.

KBTX has allowed the Enterprise to use its report on the tragedy, which is now reprinted in part:

According to an arrest statement, Bryan Police believe Noel

Devin and her father Thomas Devin were the two bodies found inside a burned home on Vinewood Drive.

Around 4:30 a.m. Monday, Bryan firefighters were called to the home after 9-1-1 received calls of an explosion and fire. Firefighters say the flames were so intense they had a difficult time putting it out.

Investigators said that Noel was the single occupant at the house. When she couldn't be reached, Noel's mother was called to the scene. She told officers that Noel's 2011 Ford Edge wasn't at the house. Bryan PD put out a notice looking for the car.

Dennis Wayne Brown III, 34 of Madisonville, was arrested Monday evening at the El Camino Motel on Highway 21. Officers found Noel's missing Ford Edge in front of his room. Officers saw a set of keys on a table when Brown came to the door.

Brown told them a black man he knew as "tear drop" left him with the car. He was arrested for Unauthorized Use of a Motor Vehicle after police said the motel manager saw him drive the SUV on to the property. He is in the Brazos County Jail under $150,000 bond.

According to the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, Brown had been released from prison Friday after serving a 15-year sentence for aggravated robbery out of Brazos County.

Monday morning, Bryan Police originally told News 3 that no one was home when the fire started. As of 4:55 a.m., they had the fire contained to the house and under control.

As they later combed through the rubble, they found one body in one portion of the home. A later search of the house yielded a second body in a different part of the home. BPD says the bodies were badly burned and that dental records would, most likely, be needed.

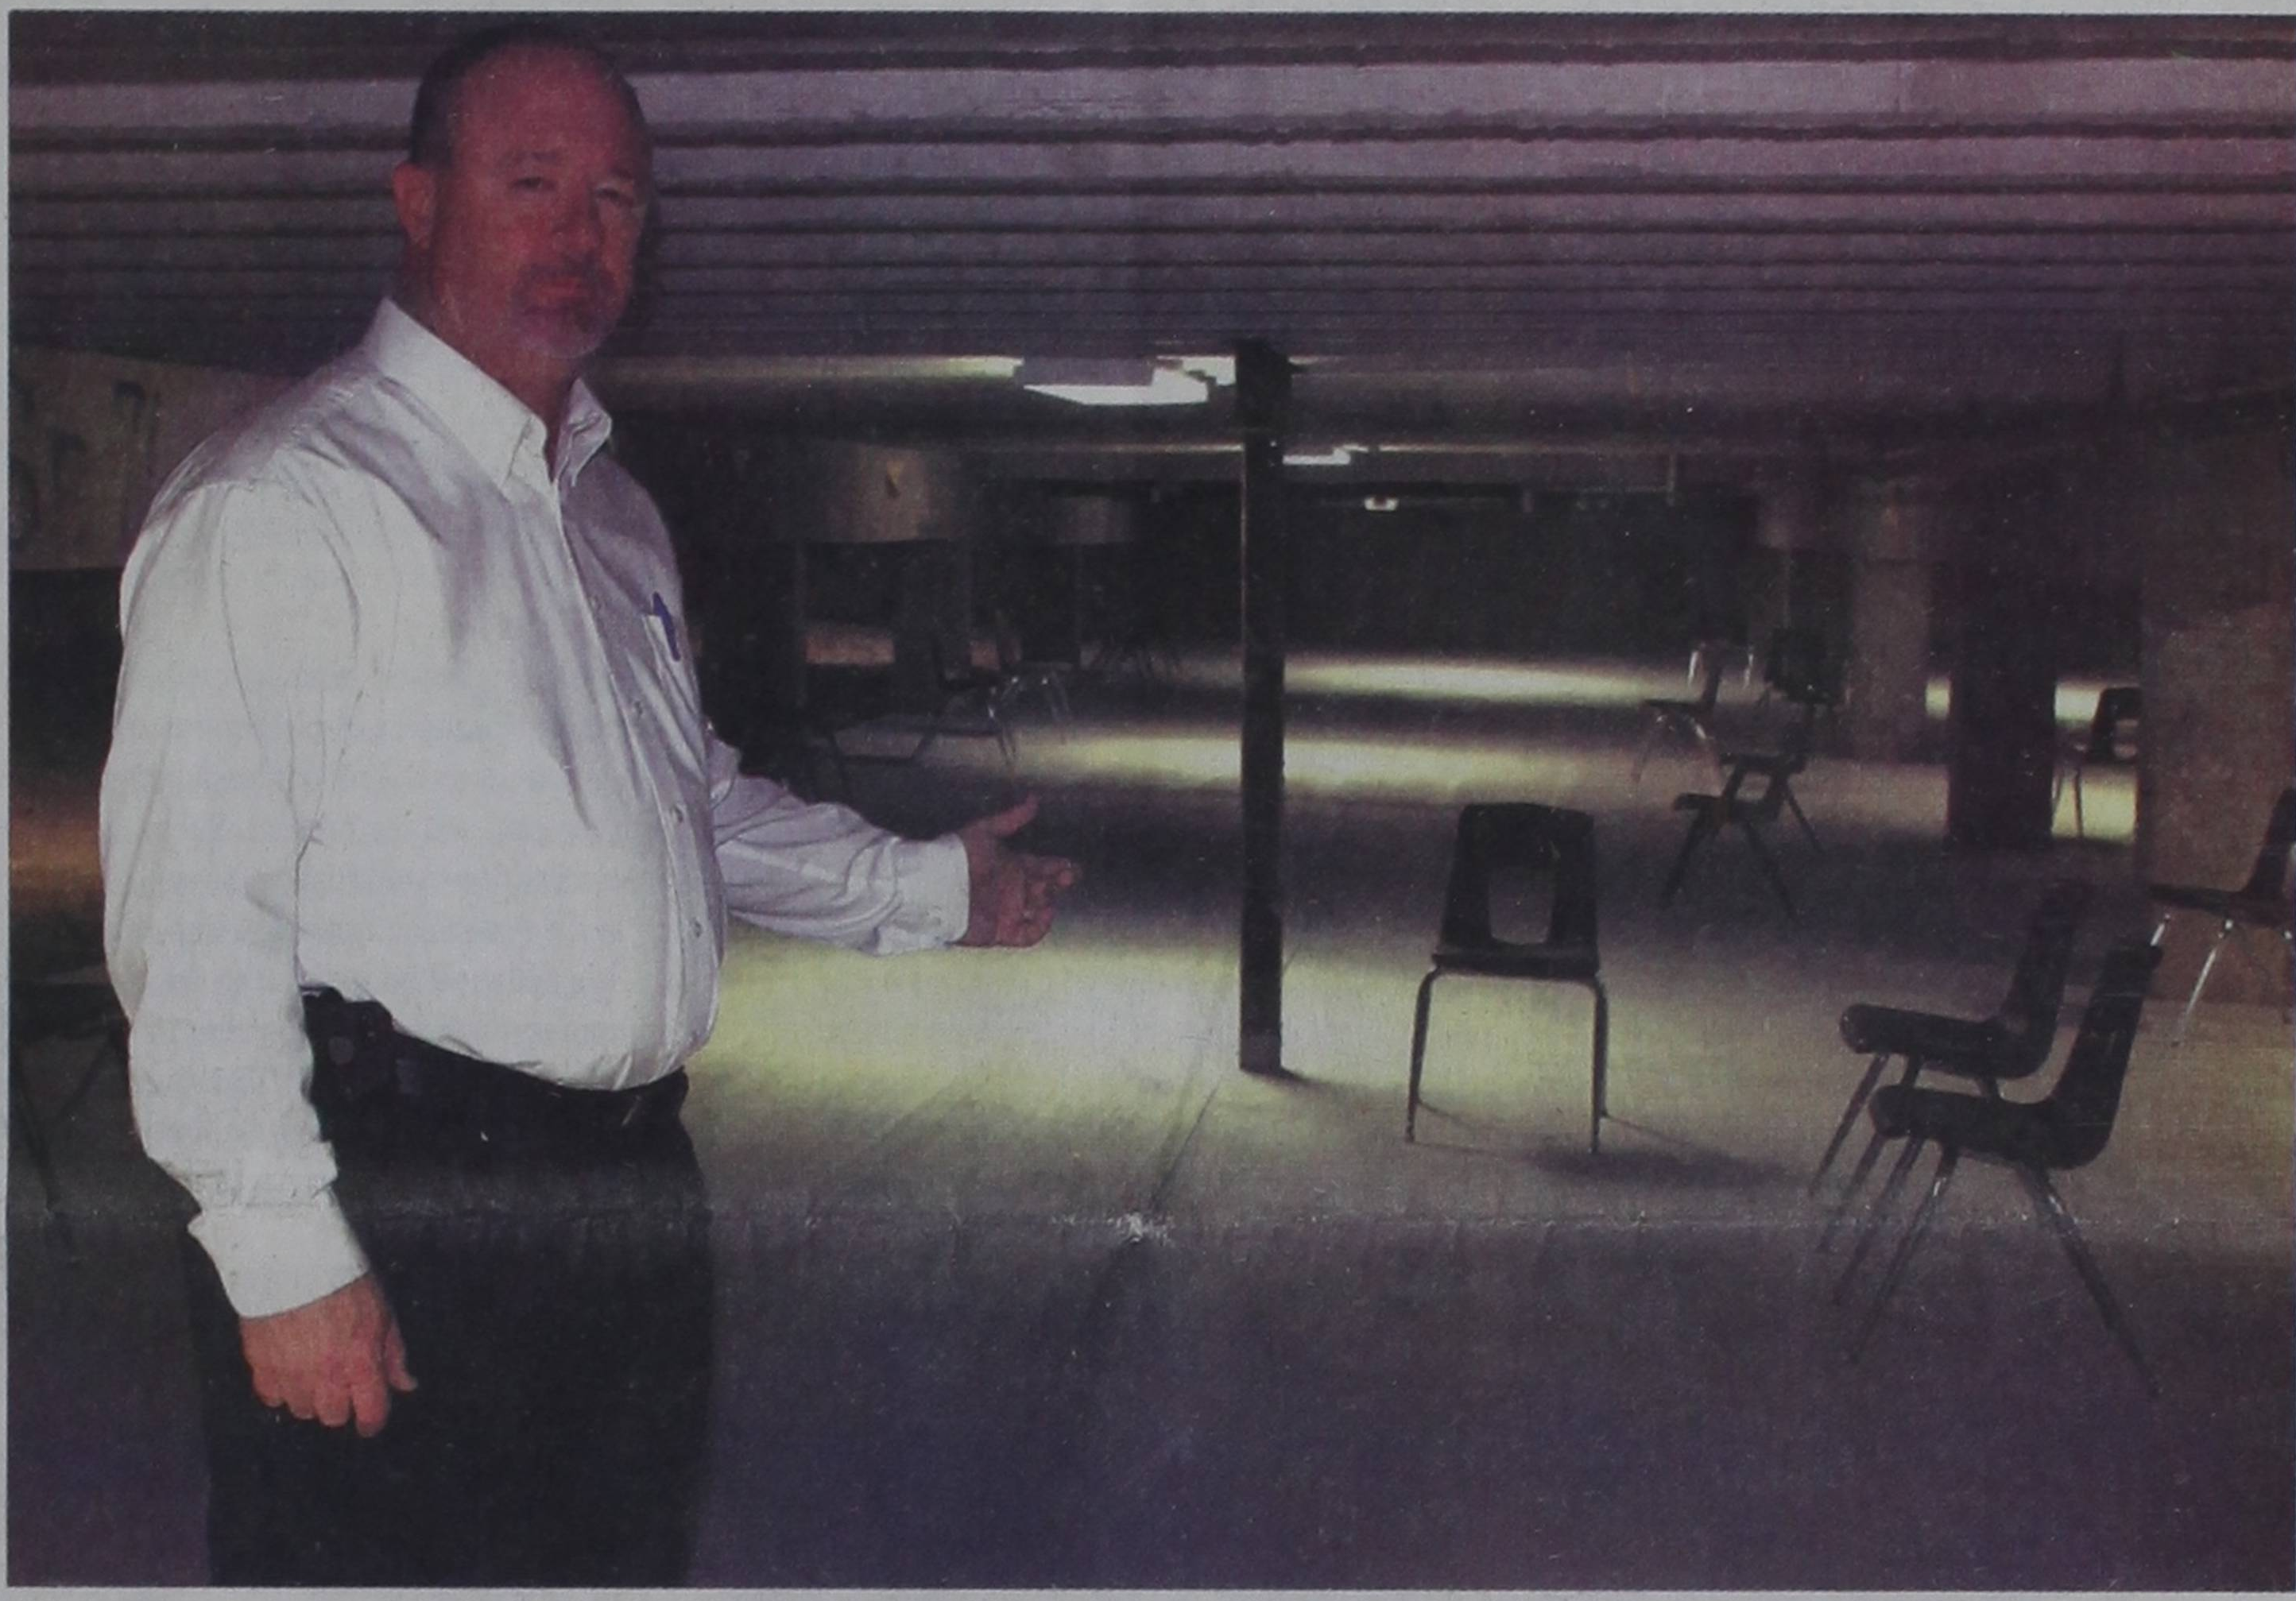

Noel Devin was the associate vice president of resource management for the 12th Man Foundation. According to the Association of Former Students, she was a member of the A&M Class of 2004. Her father Thomas was Aggie Class of 1989, according to the Association.

According to county records, Brown had four prior arrests in Brazos County, all from October 1998 to April 1999. The charges included DWI, DUI, evading arrest and finally, aggravated robbery. In April 1999, Brown was arrested for stealing cigarettes from a Bryan convenience store with a knife. On that robbery charge -- a first degree felony -- Brown was sentenced to 15 years in prison.

Madison County Sheriff Travis Neely says Brown has no prior record in the county where his address is listed.

Clarendon School Superintendent Monty Hysinger shows the new floor and lights in the school's emergency shelter.

Clisd testing improved shelter

Clarendon school kids are practicing taking cover in an improved shelter this week as severe weather season approaches.

The school district has spent several thousand dollars to install a concrete floor and new lights to the area known by many school alumni as the "bomb shelter."

"We feel very fortunate to have this kind of shelter available," Clarendon ISD Superintendent Monty Hysinger said.

The dirt floor of the fortified area under the school cafeteria and library has been paved with 5,400 square feet of concrete at a cost of more than $34,000. Old bare-bulb lights of been replaced with florescent lighting, and new battery operated emergency lights have been installed and come on automatically during a power failure.

School officials also installed a main shut-off on the natural gas line coming into the building; and during an actual emergency, designated personnel will close that valve for added safety.

Designated areas for each grade have been marked in the shelter, and the school is developing protocols for keeping kids accounted for and for keeping parents informed.

The area in question had been used as a tornado shelter in the past, but school officials stopped using it because of dust from the dirt floor. But last summer, a National Weather Service representative toured the school and said the heavy concrete construction under the library and cafeteria would be the safest place to take shelter.

The improved storm shelter will house all students from Pre-K through eighth grade, Hysinger said. High school students would still take shelter in the basement of the high school building.

Practice runs for elementary and junior high students have been done this week.

"Our goal is to get everyone to shelter in four minutes," Hysinger said.

CC to host former NASA engineer for Apollo 13

Clarendon College will be hosting NASA Engineer Jerry Woodfill on Monday, April 14, for the motivational program "Failure is Not An Option."

Woodfill has been employed with NASA in Houston for more than 48 years, and at the onset of the lunar landing program, he managed the spacecraft warning systems and was monitoring spacecraft Eagle's descent when Neil Armstrong landed on the Moon.

On April 13, 1970, Woodfill was monitoring Apollo 13's warning system when the vehicle exploded. His system was the first alert of the life-threatening malfunction depicted in the Tom Hanks-Ron Howard movie "Apollo 13."

For his role in the rescue of Apollo 13, Woodfill shared the Presidential Medal of Freedom as a member of the Apollo 13 Mission Operations Team. Presently, Woodfill is the Technical Managers' Representative for NASA JSC's Software, Robotics and Simulation Division.

"We're expecting that our students and the community will really benefit from this," CC Dean of Students Tex Buckhaults said.

Mr. Woodfill's autobiographical program emphasizes his NASA experience and highlights his personal accounts of overcoming fear, frustration, and failure. He will demonstrate the ultimate good that comes from perseverance.

Students and community members will have two opportunities to hear Mr. Woodfill speak on April 14. He will first speak at 9 AM and then again at 10:30 AM in the Harned Sisters Auditorium on the Clarendon College campus in Clarendon.

Enterprise receives PPA community service award

The Clarendon Enterprise was presented with the Ken Towery Community Service Award during the 104th annual Panhandle Press Association Convention in Dumas last Saturday, April 5.

The Enterprise was recognized for its coverage of open meetings and open records issues last year involving the City of Clarendon and Hedley ISD.

"We are honored to receive this award," said Enterprise publisher Roger Estlack. "Making sure that government operates in the sunshine is a commitment that every newspaper -- and every citizen -- should take seriously."

The award is named in honor of Pulitzer Prize winning journalist Kenneth Towery, who wanted to honor papers who serve their community.

Also at this year's annual PPA

Better Newspaper Contest, the Enterprise received three first place plaques during the PPA's Better Newspaper Contest in the categories of Best Online Newspaper, Best Advertising Design, and Best News Photography for photos taken by Roger and Ashlee Estlack.

The paper received second place honors for Human Interest Photos by Roger Estlack, Kari Lindsey, and Matthew Martinez; for Feature Writing by Ashlee Estlack, Ashlyn Tubbs, and Roger Estlack; and for the Enterprise's Society Page. The paper also received second place plaques for News Writing and Editorials.

Third place plaques were received by the Enterprise for Sports Photography by Kari Lindsey and Roger Estlack, Front Page Layout, and Special Sections.

The PPA was led this year by Dumas publisher Wanda Brooks. She will continue on the PPA board as Immediate Past President with the following officers: Jeff Blackmon of Shamrock, President; Ashlee Estlack of Clarendon, Vice President; and Roger Estlack of Clarendon, Secretary/Treasurer, along with directors, Tara Huff of Fritch, Tim Howsare of Pampa, Larry Thornton of Muleshoe, Joni Yara of Booker, and Amanda Rogers of Canyon.

Falling for April Fools

Personal experiences racked up across three-quarters of a century—including yips and yaps at lecterns spanning five decades—offer positive proof that many times, utter silence is preferable to spoken words.

I was reminded of this age-old truth the other day when my Uncle Mort called. Upon his mention of a new-found interest in ornithology, the call—received in the morning hours of April 1—likely meant my 101-year-old relative was up to his old tricks—“spoofing it up” on April Fools’ Day.

Interrupting him was as tempting as a clearance sale on banana splits, a promise of bonus airline miles, or biggest-ever senior citizen discounts. Assuming this was his annual BIG JOKE for the holiday, it was little short of miraculous that I remained silent....

the idle american
by don newbury

Maybe I was stunned to hear Uncle Mort pronounce “ornithology” with both clarity and unbridled excitement. What sparked this new-found interest in birds? It couldn’t have involved “tweeting,” since he stated that if God had intended us to “tweet,” we’d all look like “Tweety Bird.”

Perhaps his mind was jarred with the long-ago memory of Mr. Wallace Wimple, the little mush-mouthed guy on Fibber McGee and Molly’s radio show. (Wimple, always the patient listener, worked in mentions of his every-present “bird book.” A standard line on each episode: “That ain’t the way I heard it, Johnny.”) Or maybe Mort was prepping me for the old story of two buzzards, flying lazily aloft on a hot summer day. One of the buzzards said, “Patience, heck, let’s kill sumthin’.” Another possibility involved the two feisty magpies in “Heckle and Jeckle” cartoons seen in olden days at the picture show. Or, maybe Sesame Street’s “Big Bird” was in play.

Okay, I admit it—my mind was largely in neutral when Uncle Mort said his interest centers specifically on crows, and how they’ve developed New England accents. I was hooked, eager for him to fill in several additional blanks....

Pray tell, what was Uncle Mort talking about? Since his prejudices have been stacking up for decades, I figured crows with New England accents would rile him from the git-go.

Mort has little use for Yankees—a name mentioned regularly in his diatribes against the government. He’s long been opposed to southern migration of northerners, and is on record supporting turning ‘em back when they reach the Oklahoma/Texas border.

“Clearly, the feds are a full 180 degrees off target; they’re guarding the wrong river,” he’s opined....

He said his “study” began one winter day when he saw a flock of crows pecking away at road kill. (What with insects, as well as vegetation provided by Mother Earth in short supply, they “made do” with this sustenance.)

Mort claims he was mystified by several crows taken out by speeding trucks, but flew to safety when autos approached. Why, he wondered, were they not “spooked” by the 18-wheelers, but flew quickly away from the four-wheelers?

He returned to the scene several days in a row. “Finally, the mystery was solved,” he bragged....

Balderdash, thought I. There had to be an April Fool’s joke in there somewhere, but if so, it was well-hidden.

“It all came into focus when I realized the crows stationed a ‘look-out’ in the tall oak tree alongside the road,” he said. “The ‘look-out’ provided ample warning when cars approached, and his buddies took flight.”

“Why didn’t he warn them when he saw trucks coming?” I asked....

“That’s a reasonable question, nephew, and logical as well,” he answered. “The same one occurred to me, and I’m glad it did, ‘cause if it hadn’t, I might never have realized crows have a New England accent.” Okay, so I was “bumfuzzled” to the max.

“When four-wheelers approached, the ‘look-out’ crow cut loose with loud ‘caw, caw, caws,’” Mort said. “Too bad the ‘look-out’ couldn’t say ‘truck, truck, truck.’”

It could have been worse, I thought. At least he didn’t ask if I had been second in line for breakfast. “Remember,” he warned, “The early bird gets the worm, but the second mouse gets the cheese.” Again, I felt like a 14-carat bird-brain, falling for one of Uncle Mort’s favorite pastimes—fooling me....

Wealth inequality a danger to USA

Income inequality continues to increase rapidly. It just as rapidly continues to grow as a contentious and increasingly major issue in American political and economic discourse. Correspondingly, there has been a radical and furious pushback from the right, particularly the right-wing tea party extremists.

Additionally, a few conservatives argue that focusing on inequality is unwise because taxing high incomes will cripple economic growth. Some even argue that it’s unfair, that people should be allowed to keep what they earn. And some of the more rancid right wingers argue that it’s un-American—that we’ve always celebrated those who acquire wealth, and that it actually violates our national creed to suggest that some people control too large a share of the wealth.

Actually, they’re right. Imagine that. I agree! Seriously, would a real American actually say this? “The absence of effective State, and, especially, national, restraint upon unfair money-getting has tended to create a small class of enormously wealthy and economically powerful men, whose chief object is to hold and increase their power,” and then follow that statement with a call for “a graduated inheritance tax on big fortunes.... increasing rapidly in amount with the size of the estate.”

Who would make such an outrageous statement? Surprisingly, to most current Republicans, it was Theodore Roosevelt, in his famous 1910 New Nationalism speech. During this time of his life and political career Teddy was a “moderate” Republican, trying to usurp power from the conservatives in the GOP. Hmmm? Can Republicans actually think like this and still be considered a Republican? Not in today’s political climate.

Truth be known, in the early 20th century, many prominent, conservative Americans cautioned about the dangers of massive wealth concentration, and urged that U.S. tax policy be used to curb the growth of excessive riches. In yet another example, in 1919, the great thinker and economist Irving Fisher—whose theory of “debt deflation,” remains essential to understanding our current economic troubles, dedicated his presidential address to the American Economic Association—largely cautioning against the effects of an “undemocratic distribution of wealth.” He also spoke sympathetically to proposals created to limit inherited wealth through the heavy taxation of estates.

The concept of regulating the concentration of wealth, especially inherited wealth, wasn’t just idle talk. In his landmark book, “Capital in the Twenty-First Century,” the economist Thomas Piketty points out that America—instituted an income tax in 1913 and an inheritance tax in 1916—led the way in the increase of progressive taxation, that it was “far out in front” of Europe. Mr. Piketty even goes so far as to say that “confiscatory taxation of excessive incomes” (that is, in Texan speak, taxation whose goal was to reduce income and wealth inequalities, rather than to raise money for the government) was an “American invention.”

Surprisingly, this “American invention” had deep historical roots in the Jeffersonian vision of an egalitarian society of small farmers. In 1910, when Teddy Roosevelt gave his speech, many intelligent Americans realized not just that extreme inequality was making nonsense of that vision, but that America was in danger of turning into a society dominated by hereditary wealth—that the New World was seriously at risk of turning into Old Europe. They became energized and forceful when arguing that public policy should seek to limit inequality for both political and economic reasons, that great wealth concentrated in the hands of a few presented a clear and present danger to democracy.

So, how did these viewpoints not only get driven out of the mainstream, but come to be completely rejected? Remember how inequality and taxes on the highest incomes were treated in the 2012 presidential election? Republicans claimed that President Obama was unsympathetic to the rich. “If one’s priority is to punish highly successful people, then vote for the Democrats,” exclaimed Mitt Romney. Democrats heatedly (and untruthfully) denied the charge. Yet, Mr. Romney was, in effect, accusing President Obama of thinking like Teddy Roosevelt. How in the world did that kind of thinking become an unforgivable political sin?

We sometimes hear the claim that concentrated wealth is no longer an important issue, because the big winners in today’s economy are self-made folks who owe their position at the top of the ladder to hard work, not inheritance. Yet that view is long out of date. New work by economists Emmanuel Saez and Gabriel Zucman discovered that the share of wealth held at the very top—the richest 0.1 percent of the population—has doubled since the 1980s, and is now as high as it was when Theodore Roosevelt and Irving Fisher issued their warnings.

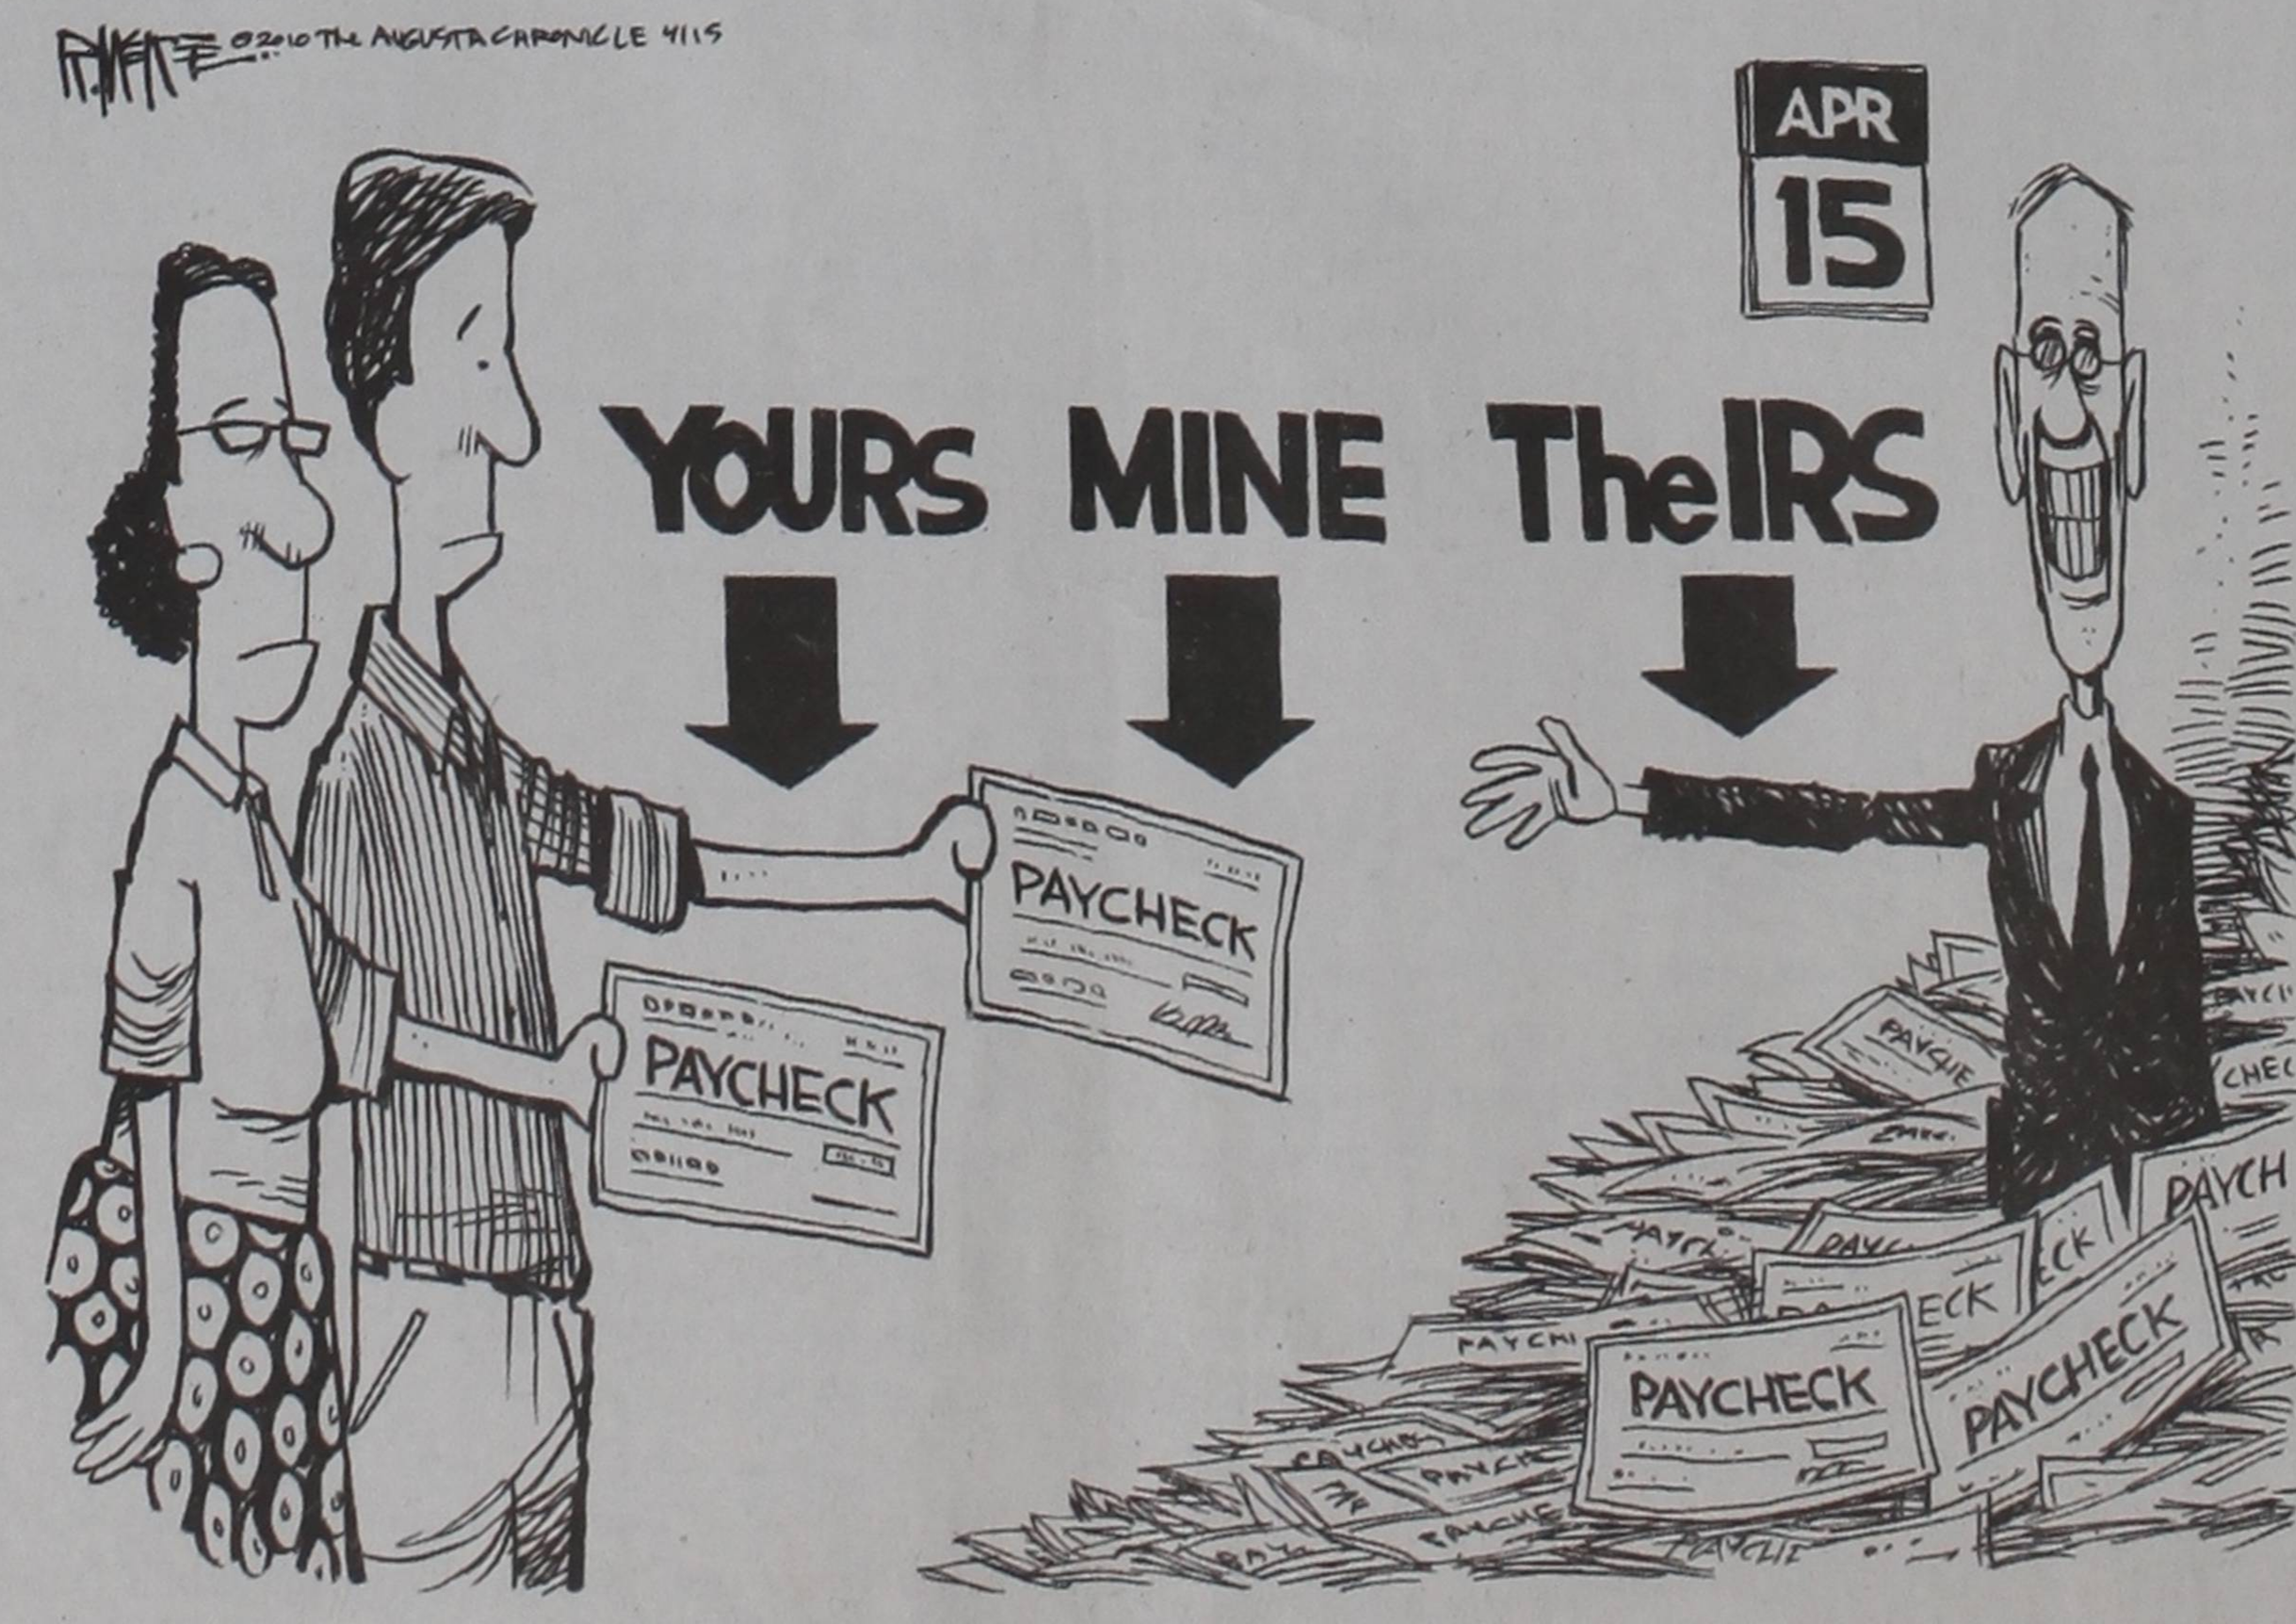

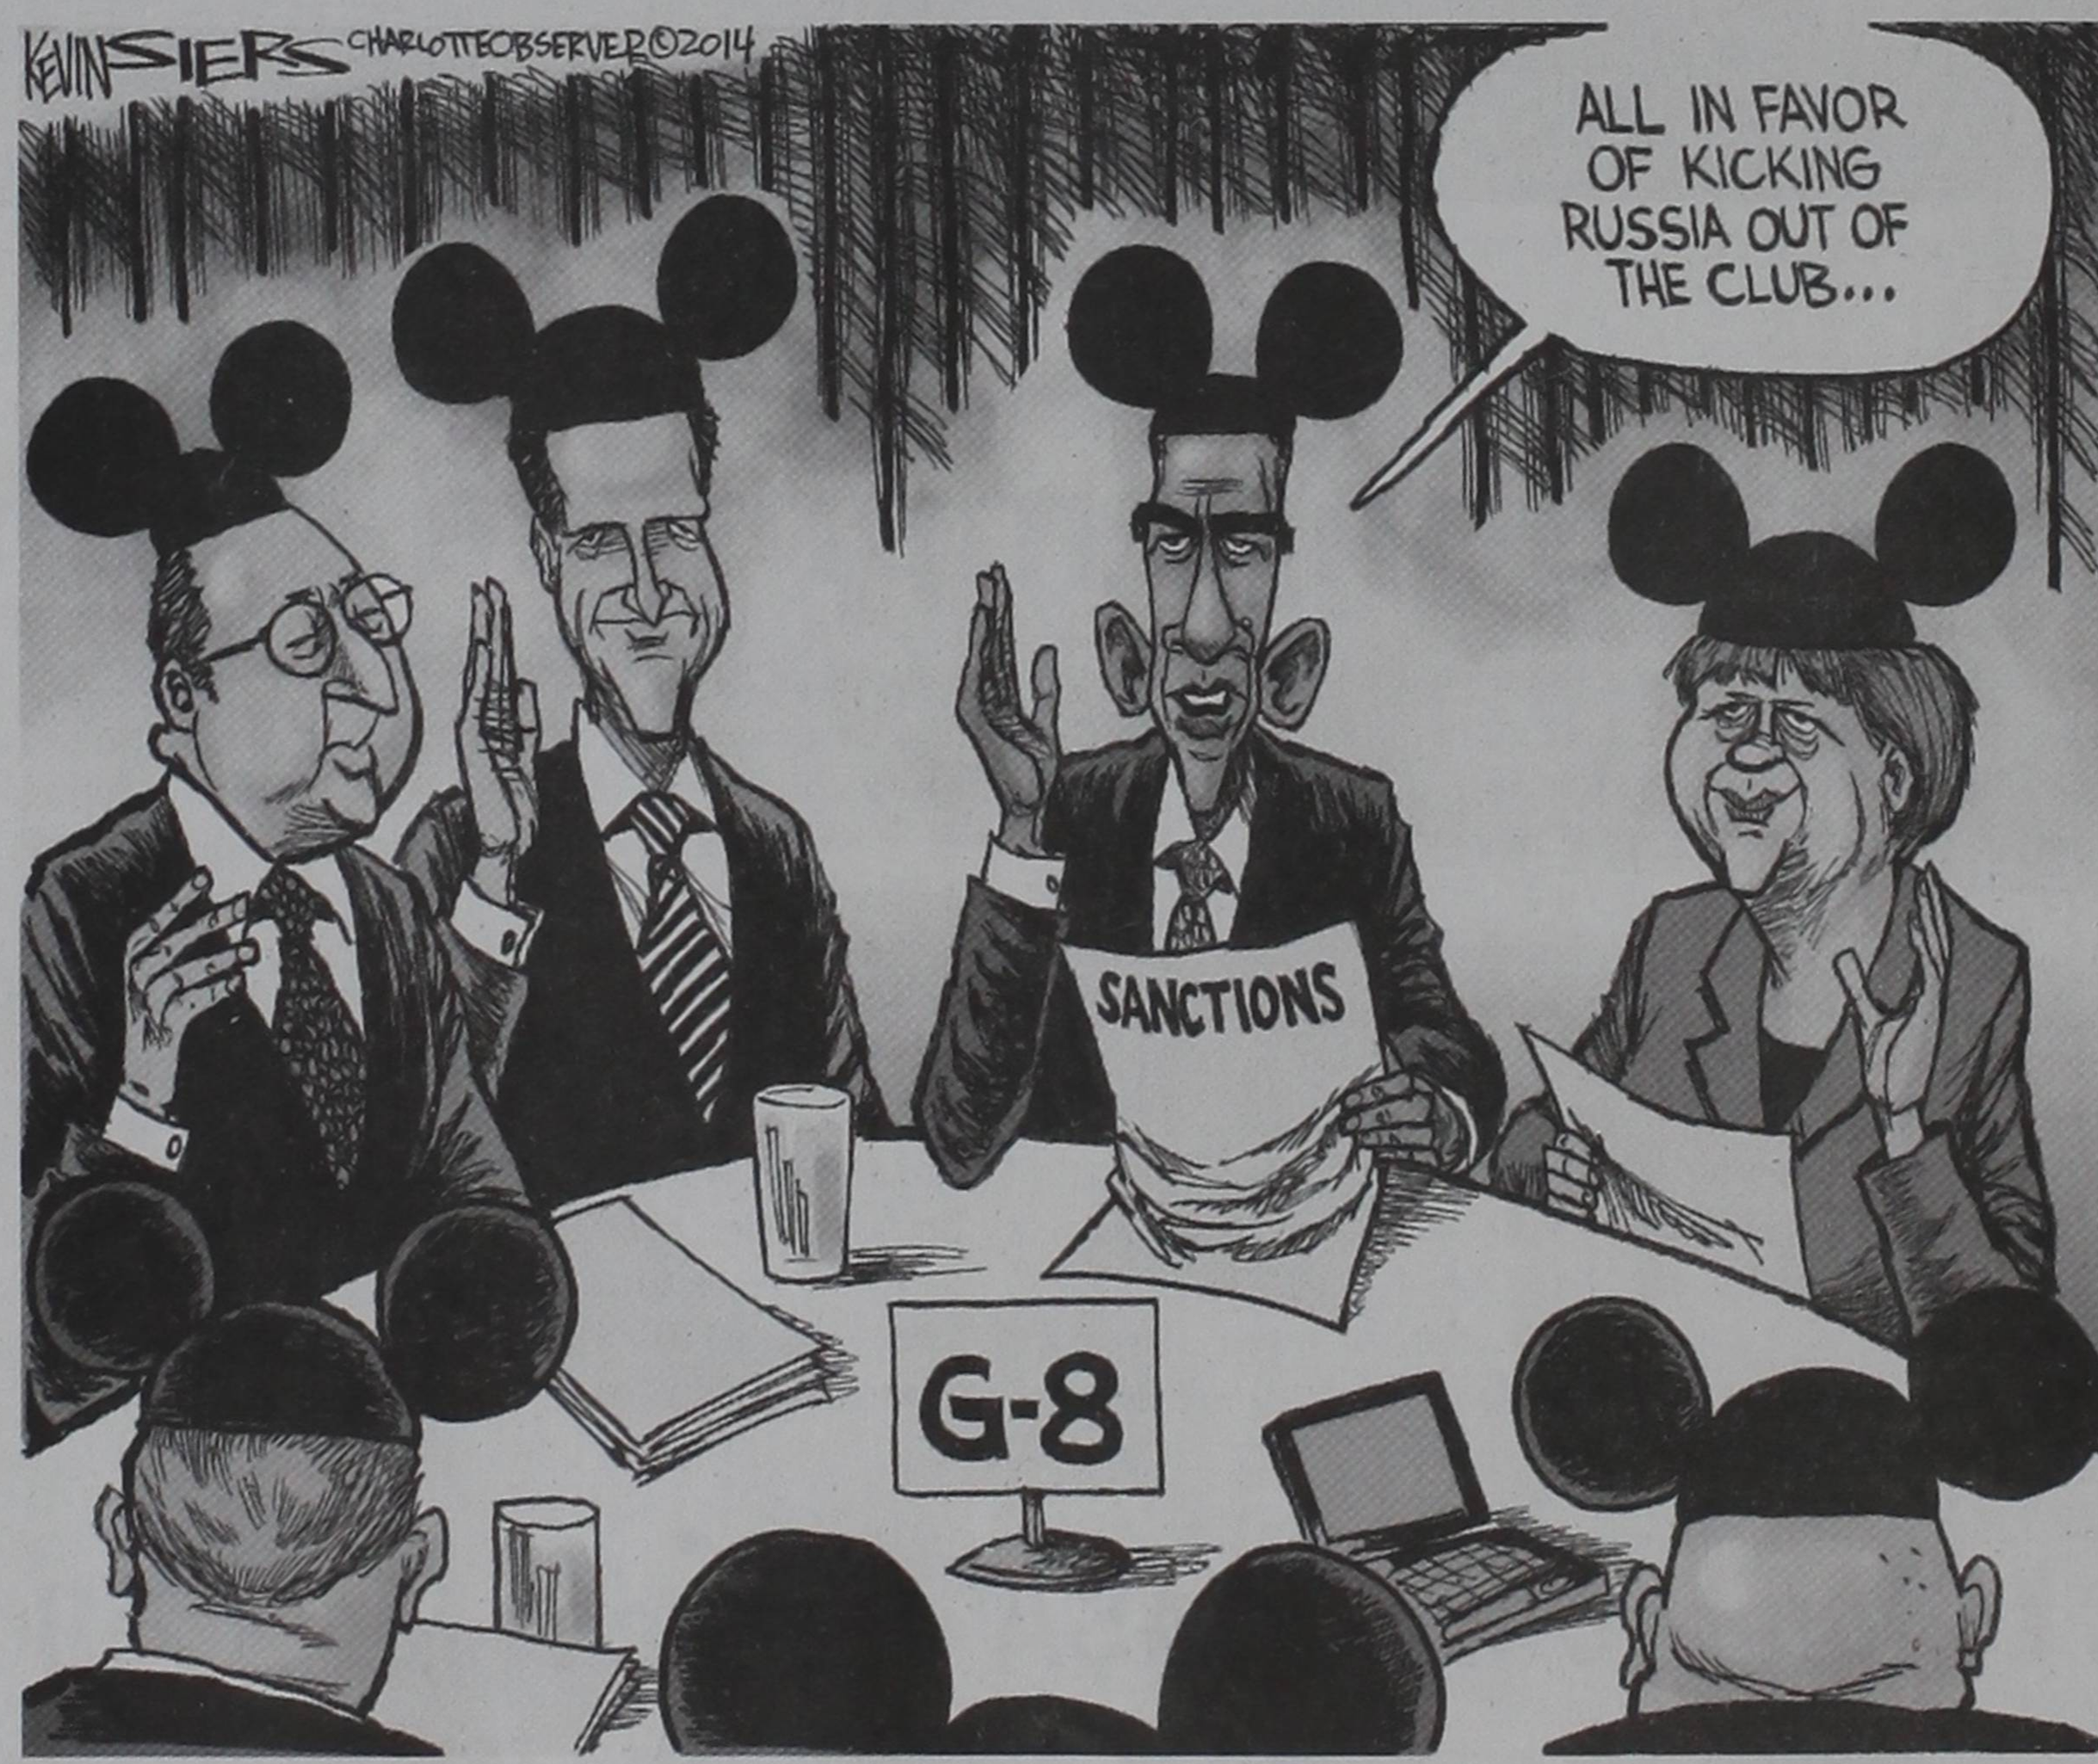

We don’t know how much of that wealth is actually inherited. Even so, it’s interesting to look at the Forbes list of the wealthiest Americans. According to a recent publication, about a third of the top 50 inherited their large fortunes. Another third are 65 or older, so they will probably be leaving large fortunes to their heirs.

One of the fastest growing groups of people acquiring great wealth is now the U.S. Congress. We may not yet be a society with a hereditary aristocracy of wealth, but, if nothing changes, we’ll evolve into that kind of society over the next decade or two.

The demonization of anyone who talks about the dangers of concentrated wealth is founded on a misunderstanding of both the past and the present. Such discourse isn’t un-American; it’s very much in the American tradition. Importantly, it’s not at all immaterial to the contemporary world. The question is: who will be this generation’s Theodore Roosevelt? Who has the moral courage to address and correct a very serious threat to America?

CC actors to perform this weekend

The Clarendon College Theatre Department will present their Spring Theatre production "The 1959 Pink Thunderbird" April 12, 13, and 15.

This production is made up of two one-act play pieces written by James McLure and adapted by CC Theatre Director Leslie Schnauer.

The adult comedy selections both take place in a small Texas town in the 1970s. The first play presented will be "Laundry & Bourbon," where we listen in on some colorful Texas gals gossiping and discussing the changes in their lives. The second hilarious play will be "Lone Star," a play that finds their husbands trying to recapture their glory days. Both plays shine light on the many levels of friendship.

Another feature of this production will be "The Great Car Show Off" on Sunday, April 13. If you have a great car, pick-up, hot rod or junker you are invited to show it off and receive free tickets to the show for you and your family. An area will be blocked off in the Fine Arts parking lot for the cars.

Call and make reservations for you and your automobile by calling Leslie Schnauer at 806-874-4836. Please register your automobile by Thursday, April 10.

Performances will be Saturday, April 12, at 7 p.m.; Sunday, April 13, at 2 p.m.; and Tuesday, April 15, at 7 p.m. in the Harned Sisters Fine Arts Center.

Easter Sunday is hopping closer

We have friends and family around Dallas and Houston, in the states of Louisiana, Alabama, and other places in the south and all are complaining of too much rain. Don't you hate that?

The Amarillo paper was bragging of their half-inch rain fall this weekend. At my house we had a few drops. I have faith we will have more rain, when we are this dry it usually is broken with a storm or storms. This is leading to a reminder of a storm watch class to be presented by the National Weather Service April 10 at 7 p.m. at Howardwick City Hall and is open to the public. If you have had the class before, come on out, bring a friend and learn the newest techniques, we can never be too safe.

Easter is less than two weeks away and that leads to remembering Easters past. My sister and I always had a new dress for Easter and I am sure it wasn't always easy for my Mother because she made those pretty frocks on the treadle machine. They had lace, ruffles, buttons and bows all made by hand.

'wick picks
by Peggy Cockerham
Howardwick • 874-2886

Our machines today apply the lace, with an attachment make and apply the ruffle and with the click of a switch measure the size of a button and sew the buttonhole. Some machines have a knife that cuts the correct size hole for your button. All those things were performed by hand when Mother sewed for me and that is the way I learned to sew. My first machine had a few specialty stitches including zig-zag stitch and it was the one that made most Easter dresses for my three girls. My girls were products of the 1960-70 era and ruffles and bows were no longer in style, it was mini-skirts and no-frills polyester which was good for this working mom.

My granddaughter and her family of three boys and one girl live near me and in looking through my old patterns found a 1936 McCall pattern for our little almost-two baby girl. This pattern has a scalloped yoke, four large pleats, puffed sleeves, a large scalloped collar, buttons and snaps. Oh, did I say it is too large and we have to fit this squirmy baby. What were we thinking? I have faith we will have a beautiful retro, genuine, Easter dress for our baby girl with my computerized sewing machine and she will know she is loved.

We have so many sick people in Howardwick. Most are suffering from bronchial ailments including pneumonia with hospitalization for some. Please keep these folks in your prayers, and God bless you all.

Drugs in the News

New Device May Help Stop Ringing in the Ears

The National Institutes of Health (NIH) is planning to start a clinical trial to evaluate the effects of a device that may help reduce ringing of the ears, a condition that is medically known as tinnitus. A device known as the "Serenity System" is a device that will send signals in the nervous system to change the signals in the brain that may reduce or stop tinnitus completely. The US National Institute on Deafness and Other Communication Disorders (NIDCD) is funding this study that will be conducted in four centers across the United States.

There are many medications that may cause or worsen ringing in the ears. Nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drugs (NSAIDs) such as aspirin, naproxen (Aleve), and ibuprofen (Motrin, Advil) are popular over-the-counter (OTC) medications that may aggravate tinnitus. Antidepressants such as venlafaxine (Effexor), amitriptyline (Elavil), or fluoxetine (Prozac) may be associated with ear ringing. There are currently no cures for tinnitus. A hearing aid or a masking device are options that may help some people who suffer from this condition.

St. Mary's Church BBQ sets record

St. Mary's Catholic Church held its 18th annual St. Mary's Day Barbecue Dinner in Sunday and set a new record for the fundraiser.

The event, held at the Donley County Activity Center, hit an all-time high by serving 468 plates of barbecue and all the trimmings. This topped last year's dinner by more than 100 plates.

Men, women, and children of the parish hauled tables and equipment and cooked for two days to prepare and serve the meal. The beef and ribs were prepared in true Clarendon tradition, by slow cooking in metal boxes over mesquite wood. The barbecue sauce recipe has been used for community events since the 50s when the Lions and Jaycees cooked for the 4th of July celebration. The meal was completed with all fresh made red beans, cole slaw, potato salad, homemade bread, and desserts.

True country music was provided by Ed Montana and Dianne Dettin with 13-year-old Ethan Wilkinson stepping in to help out. The event included a silent auction and country store, but more importantly it has become a tradition for many families to spend a Sunday afternoon in April enjoying good food and fellowship.

Next year's barbecue will be held April 12, 2015.

Broncos slam Follett, West Texas High

By Sandy Anderberg

The Bronco baseball team faced off against Follett last week and came from behind to pull out an important win according to head coach Brad Elam.

"It was a very exciting game as both teams played well," Elam said. "Follett jumped out to the early 1-0 lead, but we were able to tie it in the second when a Chance Lockhart groundout scored Zack LaRoe from third."

Follett went on to score two in the third inning to take a 3-1 lead. The Broncos posted one run in the fifth when Brandon Miller singled home Israel Osburn with two outs. But the Broncos were not finished and slammed in three runs in the sixth.

"With two outs, Charles Mason singled home Keandre Cortez and Lockhart and Osburn would later score to make it 5-3," Elam said. "Caleb Cobb, who came on in relief in the sixth closed the door with two strikeouts to end the game. I was pleased with our offensive approach. We knew the Follett pitcher was good, so we did a good job of adjusting. Our pitching was superb."

Senior Chance McAnear started the game and pitched five strong innings giving up only three hits and striking out nine. Cobb struck out three hitters in the two closing innings.

On Friday, the Broncos traveled to Stinnett to take on the WT Comanches and defeated them 13-7.

According to Elam, the Broncos did not begin the way they wanted to.

"We started off really slow and got behind early," Elam said. "But we were able to claw away at the lead before we took the lead for good in the fourth. We spotted them three runs in the first and another three in the second to go down 3-6."

The Broncos regrouped well and took control of the game adding three in the second inning at their bat, two in the third, and four in the fourth and sixth innings to put the game away.

"McAnear came on in relief and pitched another good game," Elam said.

Offensively, McAnear scored one run, drove two in and got on base five times. Bryce Hatley had two hits, scored one run, and drove in one and Cobb had an RBI double and scored a run. Jojo Cartwright had three hits including a double and LaRoe had a double, an RBI, and scored two runs. Lockhart had two hits, one of which was a double, scored one run and had an RBI. Mason and Nick Shadle each drove in a run and Miller had an RBI single and scored.

The Broncos will play at Claude Tuesday, April 15, at 4:00 p.m. and host Gruver on Saturday, April 19, at 1:00 p.m.

Lady Broncos' sixth inning proved crucial in double-header

By Sandy Anderberg

The Lady Broncos did everything they could in three district games last week, but could only rack up one win out of the three games. According to head coach Gary Jack, it was a crazy week of softball with a lot of close games. The Lady Broncos hosted Follett in a double header on Tuesday and dropped the first one, but won the second. The ladies lost the first game 1-6.

"It was a tough tight game until the sixth inning," Jack said. "It was 2-1 going into the sixth and a couple of errors and a couple of Follett hits busted it open."

The Lady Broncos played hard and faced one of the best pitchers in any classification.

"Our infield played really well with Sterling King recording seven put-outs alone," Jack said. "Haley Ferguson and Skyler White hit the ball pretty good. Brooke pitched well but we just couldn't score with them late."

The second half of the double-header went the Lady Broncos' way and they won 8-7. Briley Chadwick got the nod on the mound and according to Jack did a good job pitching.

"Our defense once again played well, and it saw us hitting the ball a lot better," Jack said. "We scored more taking a 6-5 lead into the sixth inning. Follett scored twice in the sixth to take the lead at 7-6."

But the Lady Broncos were not finished and stormed back in their turn at bat and tied the score at seven all with one inning to play.

"We held them, getting three quick outs," Jack said. "Savannah Topper had a hit in the seventh to start the inning off and then she stole second base. When Briley hit one to the pitcher and they made an error trying to get her out, Savannah was able to score the winning run. It was a great win for us." Jack credited Ferguson, Camra Smith, White, and Topper hit the ball really well.

The Lady Broncos traveled to West Texas High Friday night and dropped a heart breaker at 6-8.

"We only had four errors, but there were costly ones," Jack said. "We had a 6-4 lead going into the bottom of the fifth and an error cost us two runs there so they tied it up going into the bottom of the sixth. We failed to score and they came in and scored two more runs with an error helping to take an 8-6 lead into the seventh. We were unable to score and lost a tough district game."

White, Audra Thomas, Topper, Taylor DeGrate, and Chadwick hit the ball well according to Jack. The ladies are currently 5-3 in district and 10-4 overall.

"We have four district games remaining and are very much in the playoff hunt," Jack said.

Montana Hysinger competed for the varsity Broncos and placed fourteenth in the shot put at 36'5" and twelfth in the discus with a throw of 96'5".

The JV Broncos made a good showing as well in the tough meet. Riley Shadle was fourth in the 110-meter hurdles with a time of 18.72 and jumped to an eleventh place finish in the triple jump with a leap of 32'8 1/2". Marshal Johnson placed sixth in the shot put with a distance of 35'5" and third in the discus with a throw of 99'5". Jacob Bishop was sixteenth in the shot with a distance of 31' 1/4".
