2 Thornberry says it will take more than signs and marches to stop terrorism.
3 Seliger files bill to improve Texas's public education system.
4 Bob warns of new twists on old scams.
7 And Memphis suffers a double loss in the Bronco Gym.

All this and much more as The Enterprise reports in this week's exciting edition!

Property taxes are due by January 31

The Donley Appraisal District is reminding everyone that property taxes for 2014 are due by Saturday, January 31. Since the due date falls on a Saturday this year, payments submitted by February 2, 2015, will be accepted without penalty or interest.

Payments made after February 2 and before the end of February will incur penalty and interest of 7 percent. The amount increases each month until the tax is paid. Accounts unpaid on July 1 will incur a 20 percent collection penalty in addition to the regular penalty and interest of 18 percent. Texas state law prescribes the penalty and interest amounts.

Delinquent notices will be mailed in May to those who still owe 2014 tax at that time. Partial payments will be accepted.

Taxes are payable to the Donley Appraisal District, PO Box 1220, Clarendon TX 79226. Taxes can also be paid in person at the appraisal office at 304 S. Kearney in Clarendon or by credit card online. To pay online, call the office for instructions at 806-874-2744.

Chamber social to be held Thursday

The Clarendon Chamber of Commerce will hold its next "Business After Hours" on January 22 from 5:30 to 7 p.m. at the Saints' Roost Museum.

Everyone is invited to network with other business professionals and bring a friend. Refreshments will be served.

Howell to address retired teachers

The Donley County Retired School Personnel Association will meet Monday, January 26, 2015, at 6:00 p.m. in the Clarendon Church of Christ Family Life Center.

Dyron Howell will speak to the group on "Snack Pack for Kids." This is the program that provides supplementary food for kids who need it for after school and weekends.

Afterwards, the group will enjoy a pot luck supper. All members are asked to bring their 2014 volunteer hours to turn in to Freddie Jo Moreman. All members are urged to attend.

Parenting workshop to be held Feb. 7

S.T.A.R. (Services-To-At-Risk Youth & Their Families) will present a "Back in Control" parenting workshop on Saturday, February 7, from 8:45 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Texas Panhandle Centers Children's Services Building, 1500 S. Taylor Street, Amarillo.

Janice James, MA, QMHP, will be the instructor. Pre-registration is required by calling 359-2005.

CEUs are available for LPCs & MSWs; General CEUs available, also

There is no charge for the workshop. Seating is limited, and no childcare is provided.

Norrell lone CISD superintendent finalist

Mike Norrell

By Roger Estlack, Clarendon Enterprise
Adrian Superintendent Mike Norrell was named as the lone finalist to lead the Clarendon Consolidated Independent School District during the regular meeting of the local school trustees last Thursday, January 15.

The met behind closed doors for more than an hour before selecting Norrell, who has held the top job in Adrian for four and a half years and was attracted by Clarendon's reputation.

"People are drawn to good schools," he told the ENTERPRISE, "and Clarendon is a good school with a good history and potential." Under Texas law, Clarendon ISD must now wait 21 days before formally hiring Norrell. He and CISD Interim Superintendent John Lemons were scheduled to meet Tuesday to discuss the timeline for the transition.

At this writing it is not certain when Norrell will start in Clarendon. Local officials had previously said they wanted a new superintendent to start by April 1.

Norrell is a Sunray native who received Bachelor's and Master's degrees from Texas Tech University before earning counselor and administrative certifications from Sul Ross State University and Lubbock Christian University respectively.

The incoming superintending began his career in 1985 coaching and teaching social studies in Crosbyton. He then moved to Amherst and later Klondike before spending 13 years at Patton Springs, where he started as a coach, teacher, and counselor before becoming principal. He then the top job in Adrian.

Norrell has two kids, a 23-year-old daughter, who recently graduated from Texas Tech, and a 21-year-old son, who is currently studying at Tech. Norrell's wife is employed by Friona ISD as their federal programs director and migrant coordinator.

While in Adrian, Norrell says he has enjoyed being active in the Lions Club and with church activities, and he is looking forward to getting involved in Clarendon.

"I plan to look, listen, and ask questions," Norrell said. "I want to get to know the administration, staff, board, and students. It will be a change having more than 400 students, coming from a school with 120 students.

"I want to embrace Clarendon and find out what the community is all about," he said.

College making strides, Riza says

By Roger Estlack, Clarendon Enterprise
Clarendon College is back in session this week with late registration continuing through Friday.

Students began their spring classes on Tuesday, but college faculty and staff were back in force last Thursday during All College Day for orientation.

President Robert Riza addressed his employees that day and gave them a positive outlook on a college that he said is headed in the right direction.

"We are changing the culture of this college," Riza said. "That's a positive thing, and we're making strides."

Fully one year into the Riza administration, the president said morale, communications, and employee pay have been improved and that a new survey of employee views will be conducted soon.

Riza discussed the expected implications for community colleges with the 84th Texas Legislature getting underway, where he said transportation, water, and education are expected to be the biggest issues for state lawmakers.

For the first time, all associations representing community colleges and the colleges themselves are all speaking with one voice before the Legislature, and the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board is recommending funding two-year schools with a total of more than $2 billion.

Here at home, Riza said Clarendon continues to prepare for its upcoming reaccreditation visit from the Southern Association of Colleges & Schools as well as working to improve student services and strengthen the cohesion between CC and the communities it serves.

CC also continues to work toward identifying programs for expansion. A new Technical/Industrial Maintenance certification program going before the Board of Amanda Powell from Clarendon moves in to her Clarendon College dorm room Sunday afternoon. Classes for the spring semester started Tuesday, and late registration continues through Friday.

Regents this week is expected to have broad appeal in the college service area, CC online dual credit classes are poised for expansion beyond the service area, and the administration continues fostering partnerships with business and industry.

College faculty have also led the way in redesigning how CC approaches developmental education. The fall was the first semester for a program, which immerses students who would otherwise be placed in developmental classes straight in to regular college classes but with additional tutoring. Riza announced a 77 percent pass rate for college algebra and said redesigning developmental classes for English would be next.

Riza bragged on his employees when discussing the upcoming development of a district-wide master plan, noting that college has the right team in place and that it just needs to prioritize its resources.

"I appreciate the job you are doing," Riza concluded. "It impacts a lot of lives."

City picks 5 admin finalists

By Roger Estlack, Clarendon Enterprise
The City of Clarendon will interview five men for the position of City Administrator during a called meeting this Saturday, January 24, at the Burton Memorial Library.

The Board of Aldermen reviewed the applications of six men and one woman at their regular meeting last Tuesday, January 13, and selected the finalists to be interviewed.

The candidates are G.A. "Buster" Poling, Jr., former city manager of Bovina; Peter D. Kampfer, Alamosa, Colo., county administrator; Jeff Poindexter, a wastewater treatment plant operator in Amarillo; Gary Campbell, self-employed online marketing businessman and Clarendon's representative on the Greenbelt Water Authority board; and David Dockery, public works director in Johnson City.

Dockery was a finalist for Clarendon's administrator position in 2010 but withdrew his name from consideration before he was interviewed. City Hall said this week that it has no record of why Dockery withdrew five years ago.

Kyle Ingham of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission led the board discussion of the applicants Tuesday and pointed out what he saw as strengths and weaknesses of each application without mentioning candidates by name.

Ingham said he was disappointed by the number of candidates interested in the job, but he said two factors were working against the city. Currently five Panhandle cities are looking to fill this position, and the fact that Clarendon's position is a city administrator instead of a city manager also makes it less attractive to applicants.

A city manager is considered a more prominent position, and the difference between that title and a city administrator largely comes down to a manager having the authority to hire and fire whereas an administrator has that authority through the mayor, Ingham said.

Newbury to headline chamber banquet

Dr. Don Newbury will be the headline entertainment when the Clarendon Chamber of Commerce holds its annual Awards Banquet on Thursday, February 12, at the Bairfield Activity Center.

Nominations for the Chamber Awards are due to the Visitor Center inside the Mulkey Theatre by next Wednesday, January 28, at 5 p.m. Forms are available - but not required - for nominations and may be picked up at the Visitor Center from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The awards to be given will be the Saints' Roost Award for a lifetime of service to the community and the Man and Woman of the Year for the man and woman who have made significant contributions to the community during 2014.

Award nominations can be mailed to the Chamber of Commerce at PO Box 986, Clarendon, TX 79226.

Newbury is a retired college president, having led Western Texas College in Snyder for five years and Howard Payne University in Brownwood for nine years. He is now a fulltime speaker and writer with his column, The Idle American, appearing in about 150 Texas newspapers, including the ENTERPRISE.

He has addressed more than 250 annual Chamber of Commerce banquets across the United States. Newbury has long believed in the importance of the Chamber of Commerce, calling the organization "the heartbeat of the community."

This year's Chamber event with the Valentine's theme of "Clarendon - Sweetheart of the Panhandle" will begin at 6 p.m. with hors d'oeuvres and a silent auction followed by the banquet, entertainment, and awards at 7 p.m.

Tickets are $20 per person and must be purchased in advance at the Visitor Center.

Businesses are also invited to purchase blocks of tickets by sponsoring tables at the event. Table sponsors will get to decorate their tables to reflect their business and the theme of the banquet with a prize given for the best table decoration.

For more information, contact the Clarendon Visitor Center at 874-2421.

Miller gives pardon to cupcakes

Texas' new Ag Commissioner Sid Miller made headlines last week when, as his first official act in office, he granted amnesty... to cupcakes.

Miller's bold move was, he said, to let Texans know that rules passed in 2004 that prevented cupcakes, cookies, and other snacks from being brought to public schools had been repealed.

"We want families, teachers and schools in Texas to know the Texas Department of Agriculture has abolished all rules and guidelines that would stop a parent from bringing cupcakes, cookies or snacks to school," said Commissioner Miller. "This act is about providing local control to our communities. I am evaluating agency policies and procedures to ensure we are in touch with Texas consumers, while also decreasing state regulation and expanding local control."

It all sounds good, but the fact is that the cupcake rule was already repealed... almost as soon as it was passed.

The Texas Tribune reported two days after Miller's amnesty award: "In August 2004, then-Agriculture Commissioner Susan Combs issued a clarification to a new statewide policy restricting junk food in schools. The 'cupcake clarification' said that cakes and cupcakes could be brought to school for birthdays. In 2005, state lawmakers passed Lauren's Law, which guaranteed that right."

Combs herself was labeled many times by this column as a Health Nazi for her rabid war on junk food to fight the supposed increasing mass of school children across the state.

Miller said the repeal – which, again, happened ten years ago – was "to allow for greater control and decision-making at the local level," but his agency's press release went on to note that "Federal guidelines still regulate food sold during the day at schools that participate in the National School Lunch program."

According to Miller's office, there is a lot of confusion about what is and isn't allowed in schools; and I think they are probably right about that. When my son started school, we were given a list of what was and wasn't allowed for snack time. I'm not sure what they would have done if we had sent him with Cokes and Oreos for everyone, but we usually just opted for applesauce or Cheez-Its.

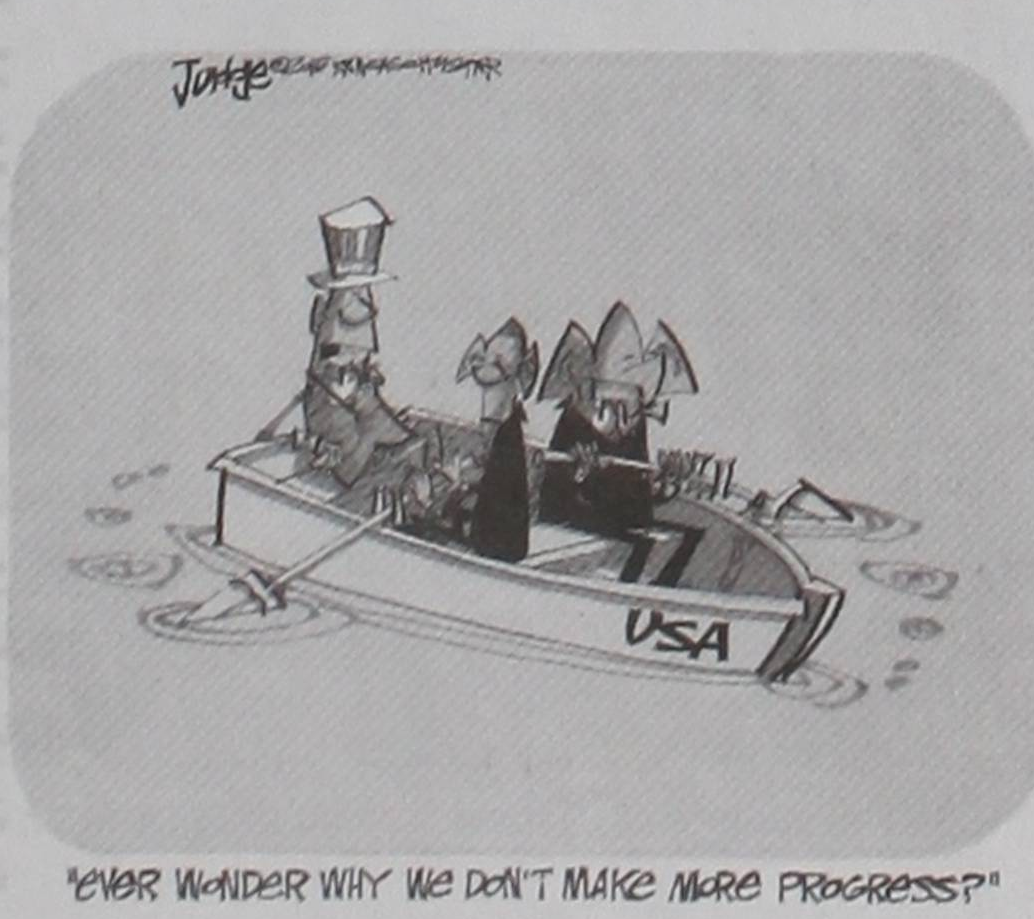

Miller's political theatrics aside, he does bring attention to the larger issue of government involvement in our school lunch program. Rules passed down by the imperial dietitians and busybodies in Washington, DC, have succeeded in making school lunches so "healthy" that no one wants to eat them.

While I admit that our Cub Reporter is a picky eater, when he started school three years ago, he liked some of the school menu. But with new restrictions in place, he takes his lunch every day. Granted the majority of kids are still getting a tray every day; but if you sit and watch during lunchtime, you'll see a lot of kids just picking around the food. And the amount of food that goes straight in the trash has you make you wonder if the "guidelines" are counterproductive.

Why do school districts put up with the meddling of the government in their cafeterias? It comes down to money. Our schools have for a long time now been addicted to the federal teat and will do whatever it takes to get that government money. It would be interesting to see if the cost of compliance is worth the gain or better yet worth the cost of kids still being hungry at the end of the day.

If making sure kids don't go hungry is the goal, then let's spend a little more time making sure kids will eat what we're serving. Surely it is better that a kids eats a homemade cinnamon roll than that he doesn't eat at all.

Personally, I think the government has bigger issues than the nutritional value of school nachos. If they want to pare down some fat, I'd suggest they start with federal agencies, bureaucratic salaries, and programs. Parents, administrators, school board members, and cafeteria managers can handle their own affairs. The politicians need to just mind their own business.

My Uncle Mort's New Year party

From time to time, readers send email or call to pose similar questions: "Is your Uncle Mort real?" My unvarying rhetorical response is: "Do you want him to be?"

I sense their sinking feelings, let down by my failure to provide positive answers. I grudgingly admit that he is a figment of my imagination, but is a conjured composite of some of my actual uncles.

Mort's "escapades" have been chronicled here for more than a decade. I had taken little note of his "age" until a reader called to question how my uncle had managed to remain 92 years old for a half-dozen years? I've been more attentive to "age accuracy" ever since. I kick it up by one year every July Fourth – Independence Day for our country, as well as a reminder that Mort enjoys 365 "independent days" annually....

With a sharp eye constantly out for the quick buck, Mort is usually about as successful as a fisherman with a bare hook. But, like the golfer who keeps swinging – hoping to finally hit that perfect shot – he keeps right on truckin'. An incurable optimist, he's as hopeful as California gold rush pioneers, believing that one day, a scheme, invention or half-baked gadget idea will pan out.

We visited on New Year's Day. I wasn't surprised to learn he was hard at work on a new "can't miss" exercise program. I was taken aback, however, that he had aborted his latest invention project.

Since these are distinctively different initiatives, each will be considered separately....

"They're pushing the Daniel Plan at the church house to lose weight," Mort said. "I don't think many seniors are going to buy into it, since most of us get our exercise serving as pallbearers for our friends who exercise," he laughed.

This set him to thinking about an exercise plan for seniors – one that's "economical and as effective as participants want it to be."

"I'm going to market it for a mere $1.99," he bragged, "and if I hand deliver the bags, I'll clear $1.87 on each sale."...

Figuring the "whole load" was unavoidable, I requested details.

He said for the first week, participants hang five-pound potato bags from each outstretched hand for five minutes daily. The second week calls for hanging 10-pound bags for three minutes, followed by a final week of 25-pound bags for one minute.

"If folks don't feel like this is quite enough exercise, they can toss a potato into each bag the third week," he laughed, emphasizing they have to furnish their own potatoes....

As to his aborted "invention," he claimed to be well along on a meticulous formula that, once perfected, would cause bodily sweat to accumulate on our feet.

Deodorant companies, he theorizes,

the idle american
by don newbury

will seize the opportunity to aim their products specifically at the feet, where Mort thinks sweat may accumulate in puddles.

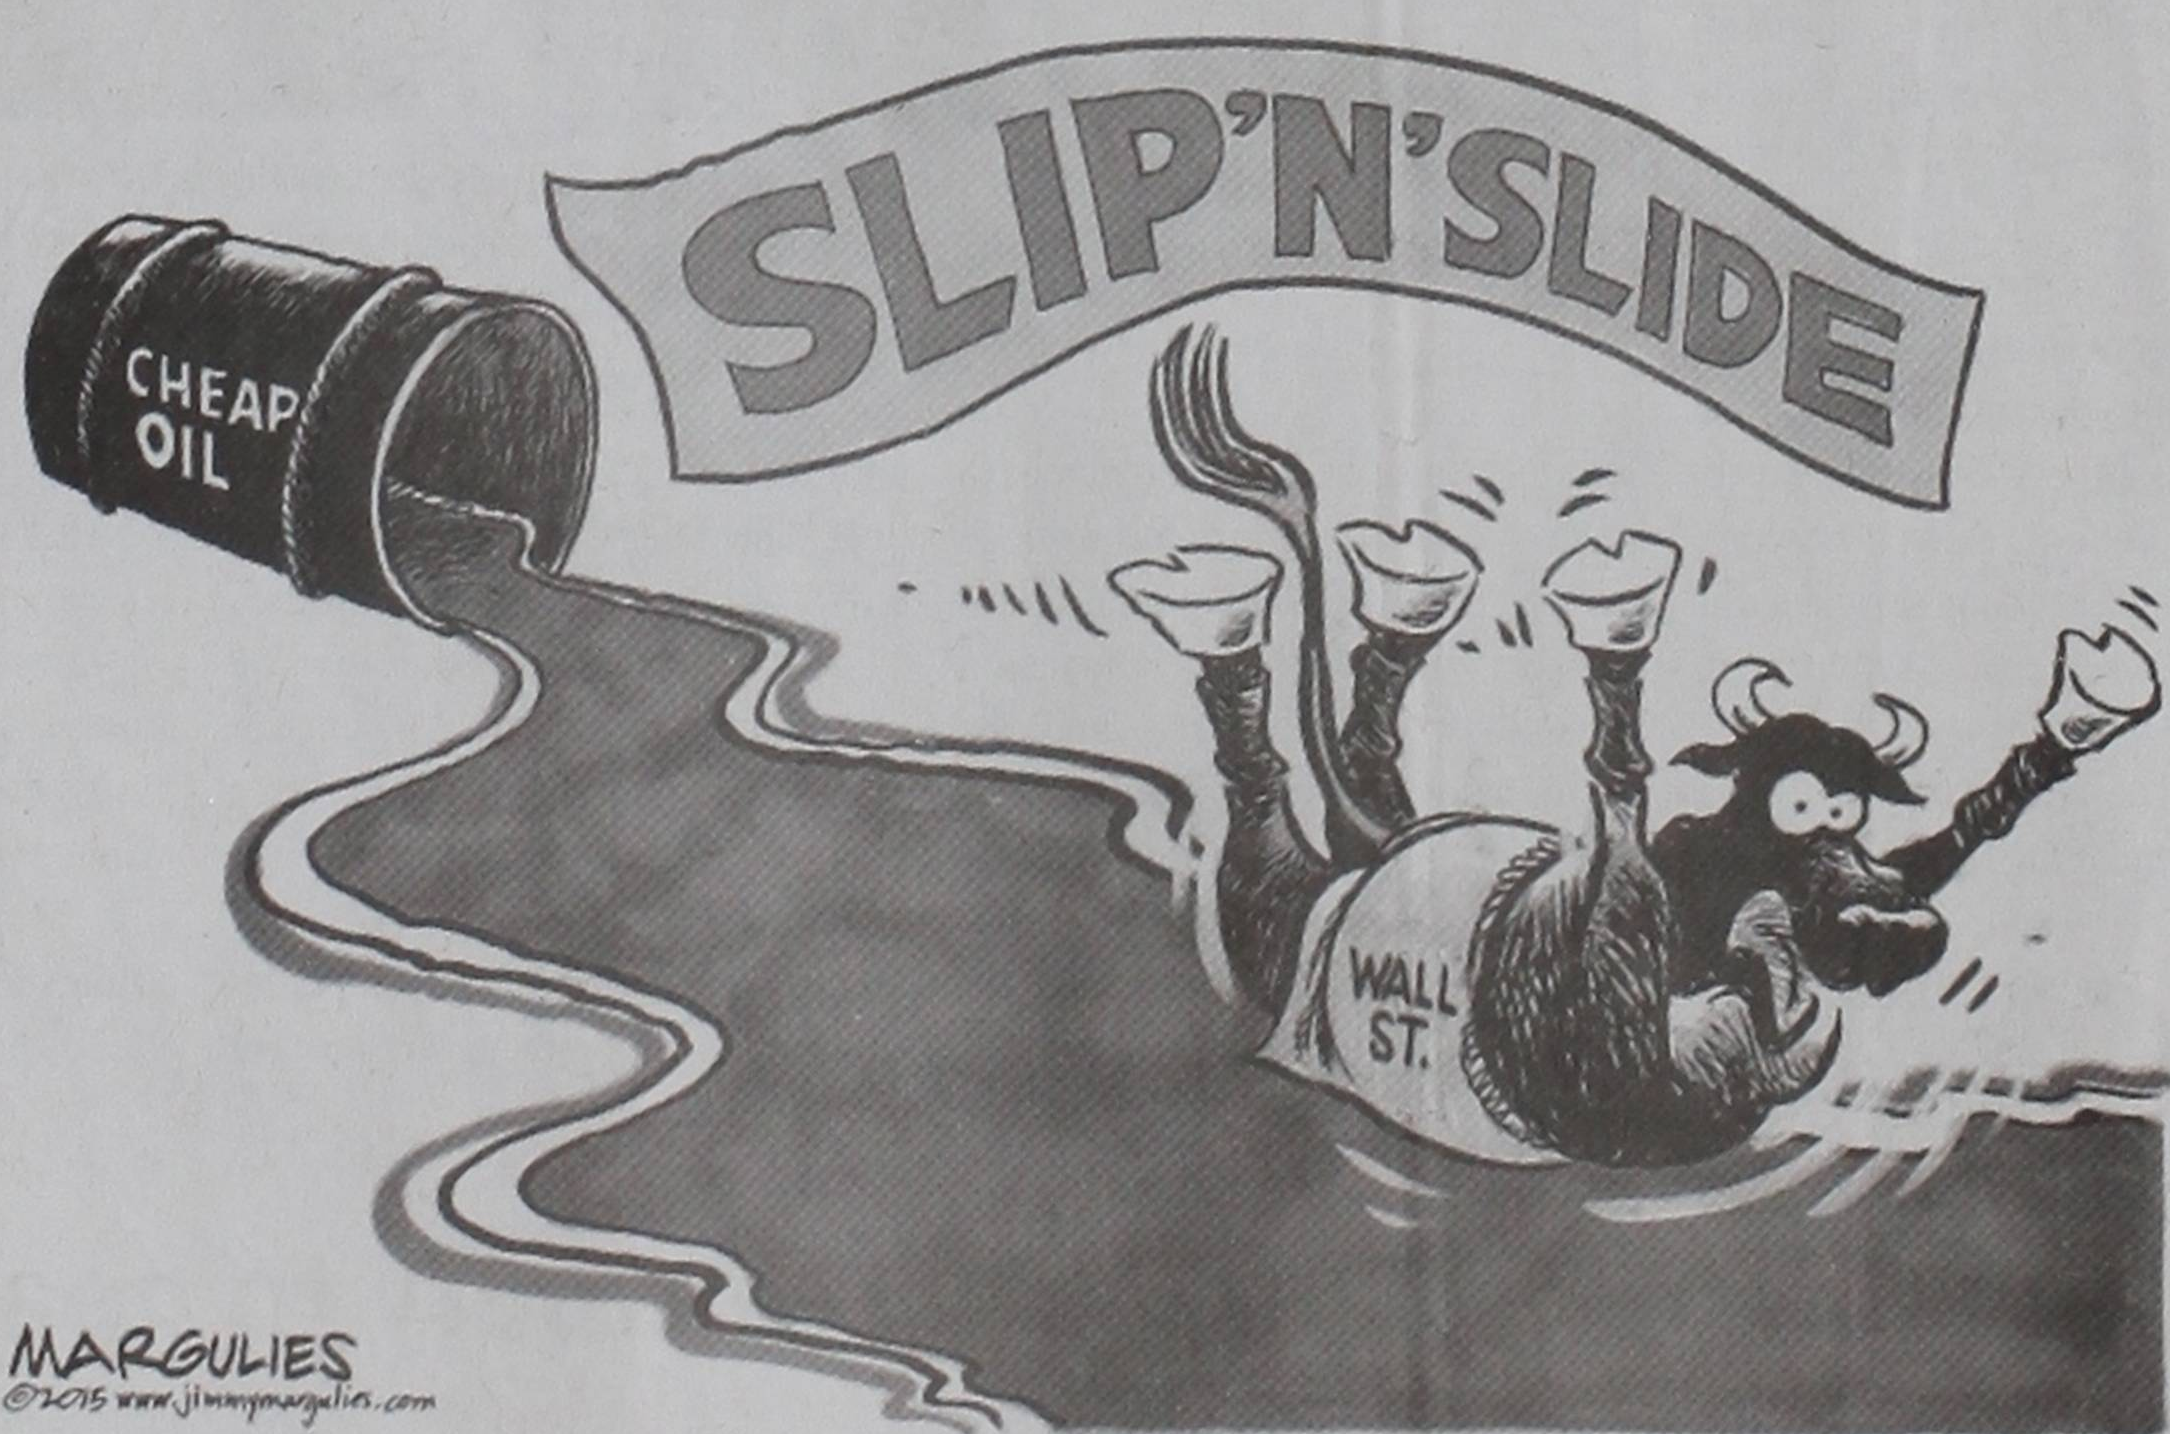

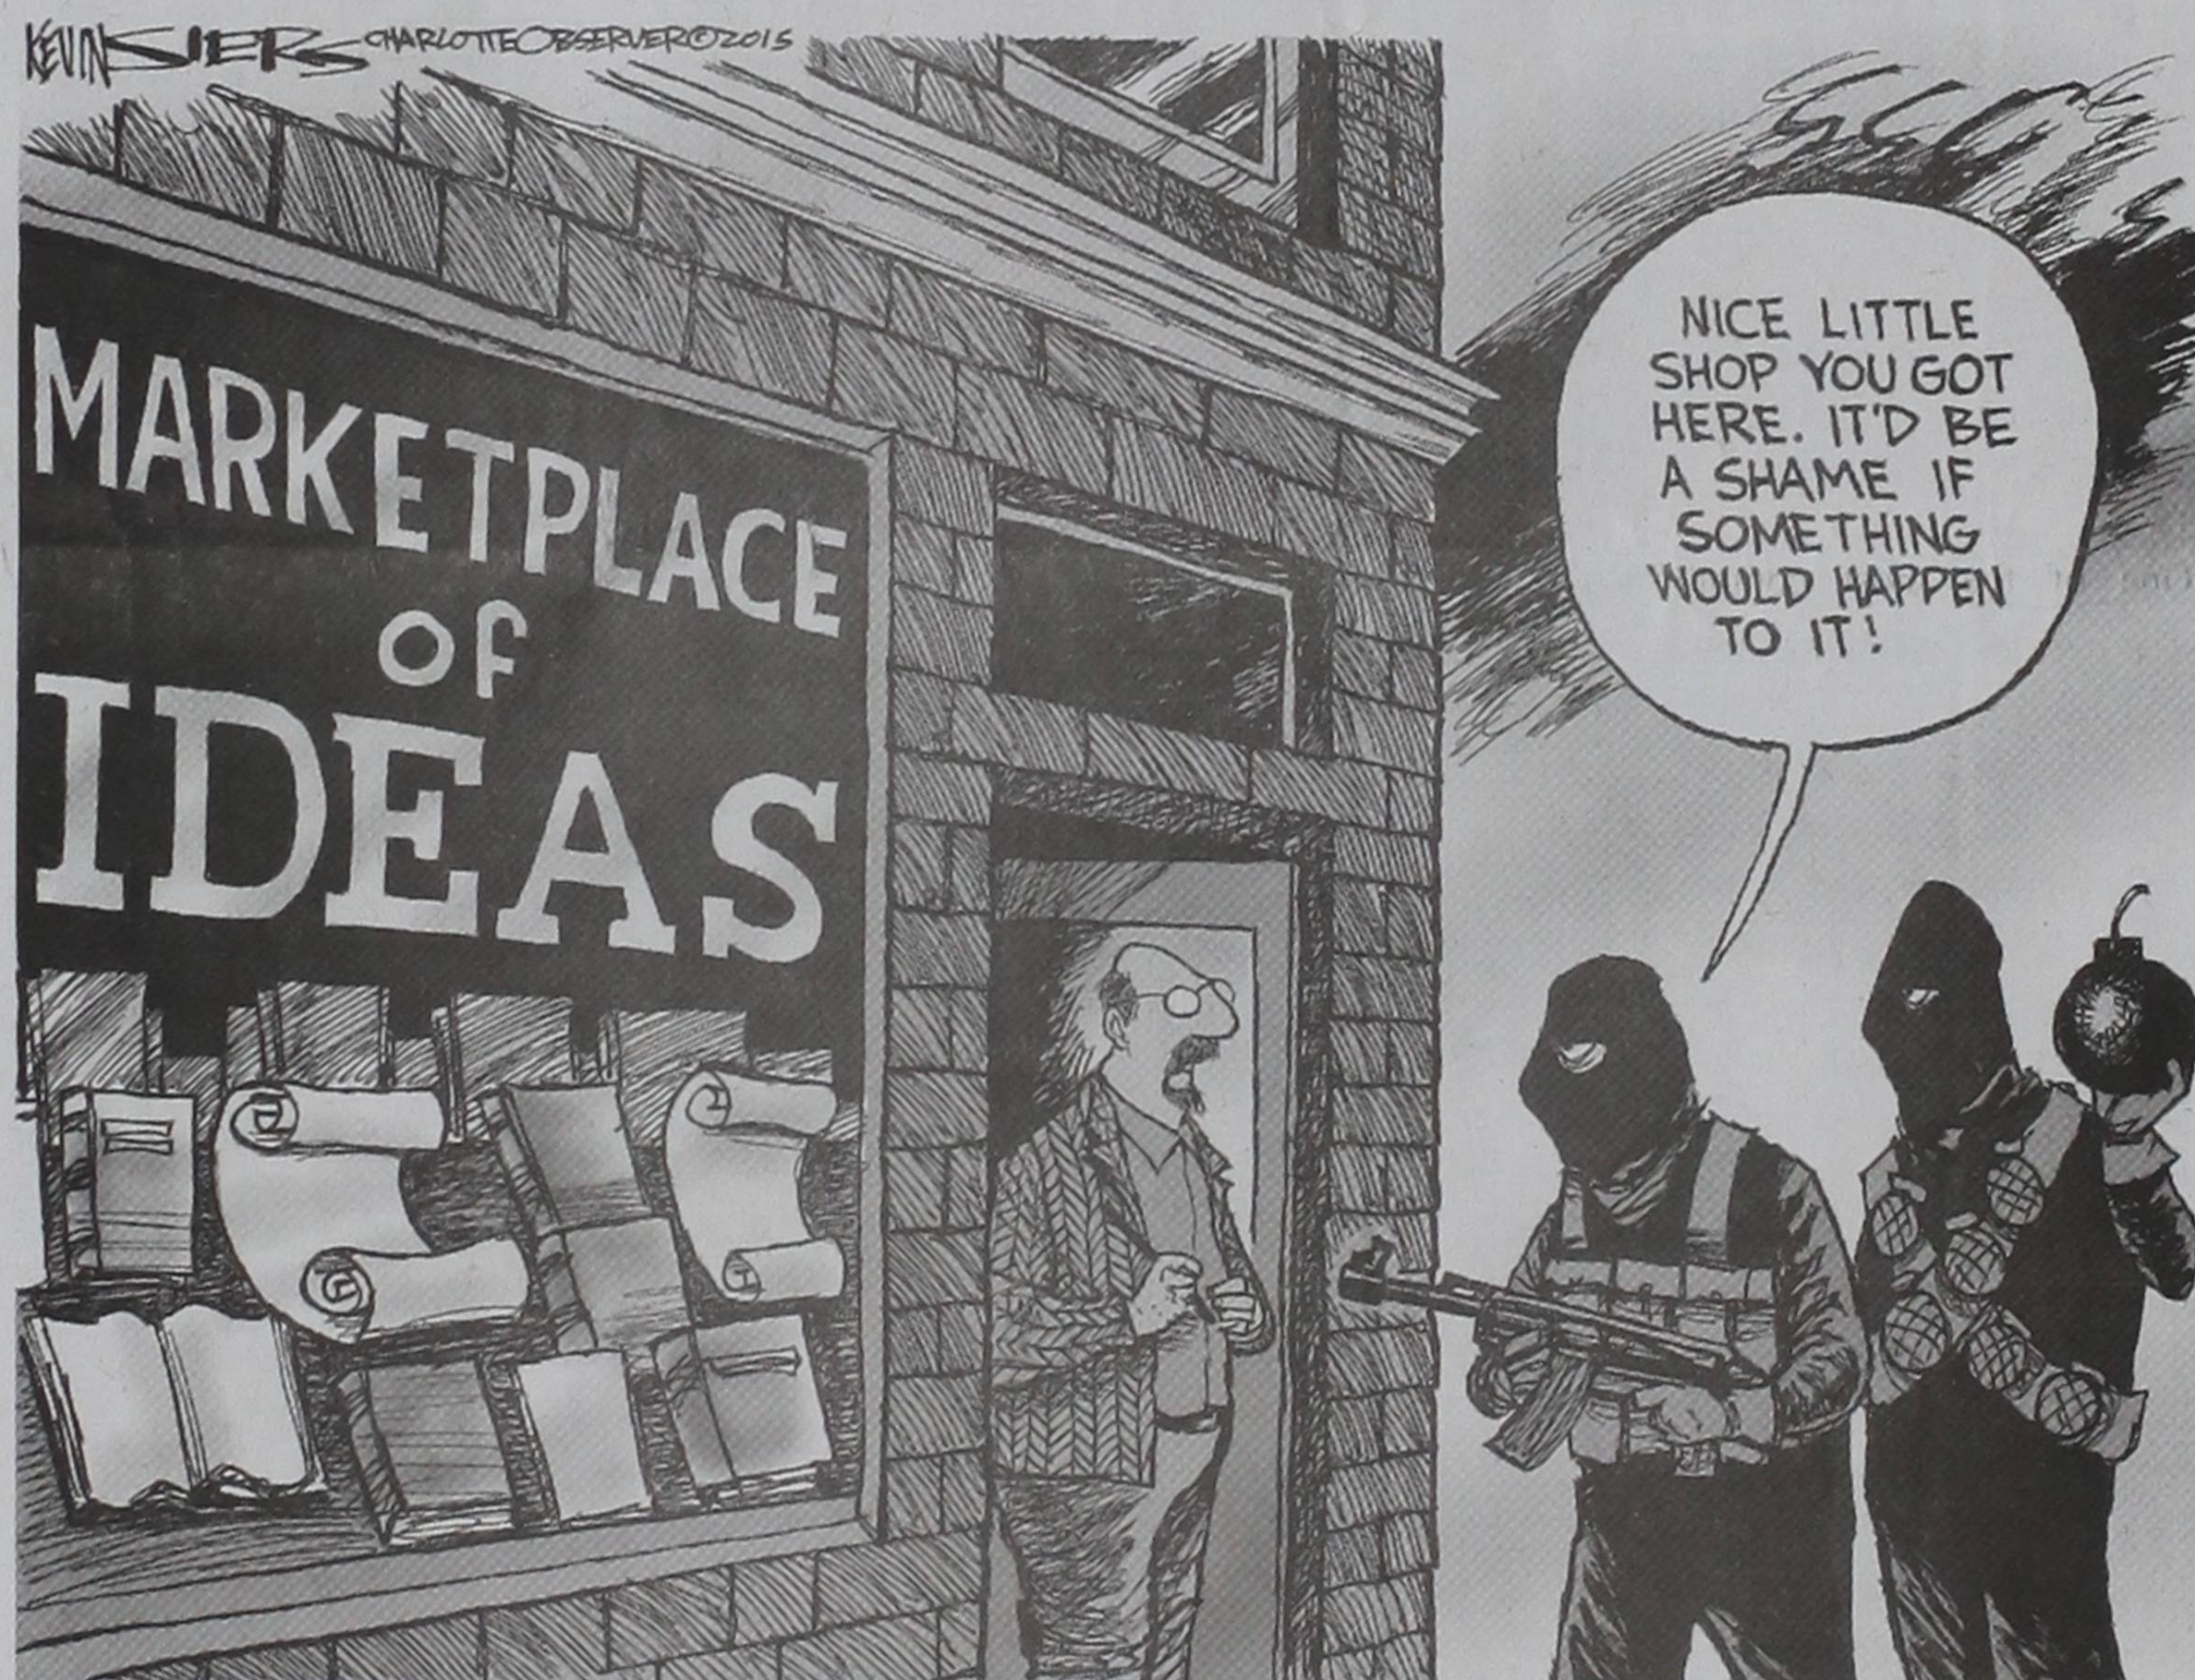

He admitted, though, that a "for-real" invention announced recently for drivers' GPS units may thwart his plans. The new device sends electrical tingles in the proper foot – left or right – depending on which direction drivers are turning. "That sounds like an electrocution waiting to happen," Mort said. "And I'm afraid I'd face lawsuits from here to kingdom come. Sure as shooting, those GPS electric signals hitting sweat puddles in shoes might cause shocks that go way beyond tingles," he opined....

Before our visit ended, he asked, "Got milkweed?" He expressed delight that monarch butterflies are expected to migrate in larger numbers this spring, mostly because folks have planted milkweed to attract them. I told him that so far, zinnias have given them pause in our backyard.

He left, mumbling about the feasibility of crossing monarchs with lightning bugs. "There'd be the chance for 24/7 popularity," he maintained, beautiful creatures flying in sunlight by day and bodily lit at night. Mort said that such hybrids might have a clever name, such as "butter-bugs." He projected the possibility of a contest to name the new creatures.

This was a better "winder-upper" than the ending of our first 2014 visit. I asked what he planned to give up for New Year's. His answer? "Resolutions."...

Signs, hashtags won't stop terror

This article originally appeared in The Washington Post.

Last spring, first lady Michelle Obama held a sign that said "#Bring-Back-Our-Girls," a response to the kidnapping of 276 schoolgirls in Nigeria by an al Qaeda cousin called Boko Haram.

The girls are still missing. In December, members of the Pakistani Taliban murdered 132 schoolchildren and 10 staff members in Peshawar.

This month in Paris, gunmen attacked a newspaper that had published cartoons parodying religious figures, including Muhammad; 12 people were killed. The people of Paris responded with a rally where they held up signs.

Signs and Twitter hashtags don't stop terrorists. Strong, effective intelligence-gathering, law enforcement, and military action must be used or barbaric attacks will continue.

There are real questions today about whether the fight against violent Islamist extremists is being won or lost. It is clear that they continue to adapt their tactics and have no restrictions on what they are willing to do and whom they are willing to kill.

The question before nations worldwide is whether we will show the agility and determination to counter them. Rep. Mac Thornberry (R-Clarendon) is chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

Money flipping scam hits social networks

Hi, gang! Some of our neighboring counties are being hit with the old collecting money for their local Fire Department or Law Enforcement scam. Just a reminder the Clarendon, Hedley, or Howardwick Fire Departments would never use phone solicitors who claim they are either taking donations for local firefighters, or selling products or ads on behalf of the Fire Department.

Also this week, let's look at an old scam. It's been around for years, but money flipping is getting a new lease on life, thanks to the Internet and social media. The concept is as simple as it is bold. A crook simply claims he knows a trick that will double or triple your money in just a few minutes, if you'll just send it to him. Sometimes, they say their technique involves a little-known quirk in the way the money wiring system works. But, of course, this is really a technique for getting victims to send money electronically, which is then untraceable.

In other variations, they claim the twist works with prepaid debit cards. You're supposed to buy one and send an email or phone message to the perpetrator with the card number and PIN. And then you sit back to wait for a huge return – usually claimed to be $1,000 for each $100 “invested,” which supposedly will happen in minutes in the form of an increased card balance. But it's a long wait. In fact, a never-ending one.

Hundreds of money flipping websites have recently sprung up, usually adorned with mouthwatering photos of piles of cash and scores of bogus testimonials from people who are supposed to have made a fortune. They're either promoted on social networking sites, notably Instagram, or they use part of the name of the social network in their own website name.

“Many scammers use aliases or

whittlin'
by bob watson

profile names that seem normal (e.g., Lucy Adams, Martez Brands, and Christa Henderson),” the National Consumers League (NCL) reports, “while other scammers’ usernames explicitly allude to their intent on flipping money (e.g., MillionDollar-Jeff and Quick Money).” They often also claim they just happened to have stumbled across this moneymaking trick and wanted to share it.

Sometimes, they might suggest they'll take a small commission for passing on the “secret” but, as we know, they take it all!

These scammers subsequently block access from victims who try to contact them to find out what has happened. It's amazing that people would actually fall for this scam, but they do. As NCL says: “Anyone who claims to be able to turn small amounts of money into a large amount in minutes is trying to scam you.” It seems most of the victims are quite young – in their late teens or 20s – and so may not have heard of money flipping schemes before. Plus, they use social media a great deal.

NCL spokesman John Breyault is quoted by the SavvyMoney consumer finance site as observing: “On Facebook and Instagram, it's so easy to fake a legitimate-looking profile. With young, heavy social media users, that establishes a lot of trust.” As a general rule, you should always be wary about any request to buy a prepaid debit card and pass on the details to someone you don't know. It carries exactly the same risk as wiring money – you simply don't know where it's going to or who has it. You can usually also confirm that it's a scam by doing a Google search on the name of the person who claims to be offering you the money flipping deal. And if you suspect either that you're a victim of this scam or if you come across a site promising one, you can report it to the NCL at Fraud.org. The bottom line is there's no such thing as real money flipping like this, so, if you hear about a scheme, just give it the cold shoulder.

Discovery Center plans Parents' Nights Out

AMARILLO – The Don Harrington Discovery Center (DHDC) hosts monthly Parents Night Out events during the school year for children ages 4-11, from 5:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

The last Parents Night Out took place in November 2014 and introduced its participants to the science of being a detective. Children did cool experiments, explored the interactive exhibits, and enjoyed dinner provided by a kid-friendly restaurant. All while their parents enjoy a date night! Parents Night Out events are packed full of fun so it's no wonder that there are many ‘regulars’ that come back for each one.

The following are the Parents Night Out dates and themes for each:

• January 23 – Science in the Dark: Ever wonder what makes an animal's eyes glow at night or how glow sticks work? Our junior scientists will explore the science of how things glow! Dinner provided by Sonic.

• February 13 – Survival: Learn how to survive in nature! Children will be taught how to find north by the stars, use a map, build a tent and more! Dinner provided by an area restaurant TBD.

• March 13 – Storm Chasers: The young adventurers will learn about severe storms and what it takes to be a storm chaser! Dinner provided by an area restaurant TBD.

• April 17 – Plundering Pirates: The little scallywags will leave the landlubbers behind and explore the world of pirates! Dinner provided by Sonic.

• May 22 – Super Hero School: Children will unlock the secrets behind super heroes' powers and experiment with weather, superhuman strength, stretchy material, and much more. Dinner provided by an area restaurant TBD.

• September 11 – DHDC Olympics: The DHDC is creating an obstacle course just for you. Kids should come prepared to show off their strength and skill as we teach them how to keep their bodies active and strong! Dinner provided by an area restaurant TBD.

Ward has announced natural hormone treatment availability

Carole Ward, FNPC announced that her practice is now offering the BioTe Medical Method of natural hormone replacement to patients in this region. Ward, who has been practicing in the area for 19 years, said that Bio-Te's method of hormone replacement is a safe and effective way for both men and women to balance hormones.

Ms. Ward said the selection of BioTe is the result of personal research that she has done into the field of hormone replacement. She added, “I felt that it was important to research this area thoroughly before making a decision.”

BioTe Medical's method of hormone pellet therapy is natural, safe and convenient. Only 2 or 3 office visits per year are required.

The BioTe Method, developed by Dr. Gary Donovitz from Arlington, Texas, utilizes tiny hormone pellets that are inserted into an area just below the hip on the patient's back side. The procedure takes only a few minutes to perform and involves minimal pain and healing. With just 2 or 3 in office treatments per year, you can get your hormones balanced naturally. Hormone pellet therapy is plant based and natural.

Ward also cited the long-term benefits of hormone pellet therapy. According to Ward, FNPC, “Of course, energy and libido are improved and patients love the way they feel when their hormones are balanced.” There are a number of long-term benefits as well. Studies have shown that bio-identical hormone replacement therapy is protective to the prostate, the heart, and brain.

For more information on BioTe and Carole Ward, FNPC call 806-259-1058.

the lion's tale by roger estlack

The Clarendon Lions Club held its regular Tuesday noon meeting January 20, 2015, with Boss Lion Capranica in charge.

We had 15 members and one guest this week – Paul Hernandez, guest of Lion Bobbie Thornberry.

Lion Tex Buckhaults updated the club on college activities, and Lion Chuck Robertson talked about what's happening at the public school. Robertson said the school board has named Lion Mike Norrell of Adrian as the lone finalist to be the superintendent of Clarendon ISD.

Lion Roger Estlack reported that the Chamber of Commerce will have its January “Business After Hours” this Thursday at the Saints' Roost Museum at 5:30, and he also said the Chamber's annual Awards Banquet will be held Thursday, February 12, at the Bairfield Activity Center. Nominations are still being taken for those awards.

Last week's Lion's Tale failed to announce that we have welcomed Lion Darrell Lefew back to the club as a returning member. Welcome, Lion Lefew!

There being no further business, we were adjourned.

New Weight Loss Medication Approved

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) recently approved lirlaglutide (Saxenda) to help treat chronic obesity. This medication belongs to the class of glucagon-peptide receptor agonists. They help by decreasing a person's appetite. This is the same active ingredient found in certain diabetes medications like Victoza, but it is a smaller dose and should only be taken for weight loss. Saxenda is an injectable medication that is approved for men and women who are classified medically as obese according to their body mass index calculation. Overweight individuals who have a chronic disease may take the weight loss medication as well.

The results from three clinical trials showed that sixty-two percent of the people who took lirlaglutide lost five percent body fat compared to thirty four percent in the study group that did not take it. The medication should be discontinued after sixteen weeks if there was less than four percent body fat of weight loss. Common side effects reported include nausea, vomiting, low blood sugar, and a feeling of not being hungry.

Bronco JV defeats Ascension Academy

The Bronco junior varsity finished the week with two big wins. The first win came on the road against Ascension Academy with a 52-29 final score.

The Broncos finished the first period of play with a fairly big lead, but found their offense in the second quarter to open up a 14-point lead going into the break. Ascension could never find a way to stop the Broncos and they were able to have a huge scoring fourth quarter to seal their win.

"Our boys are off to a good start to the second half of the season," coach Alton Gaines said. "They are 3-0 to start the New Year off right before district play begins on Friday. Our JV is down to seven boys with a lot of heart and fight. It doesn't matter who has to step up; they are ready to go and do whatever is asked of them for the team. That is what happened on Tuesday night. Our guys were up to the task and wore down Ascension. I am proud of the way the guys played the game; five on the floor as one."

On Friday, the Broncos handled Memphis defeating them, 49-39. Once again the Broncos stayed solid on both ends of the court and kept their composure to get the win.

Clarendon jumped on the Cyclones early to hold a 15-point lead after the first seven minutes. But they allowed Memphis to get back into the game somewhat in the second quarter, but still maintained a good lead to finish the game.

"Outstanding job by the JV boys," Gaines said. "Having two starters out, they found a way to do what they do and that's to play team ball, because it took all we had and then some. I'm just so proud of these guys. They just know how to step up when their backs are to the wall. It was our first district win; good job Broncos."

Keandre Cortez had an outstanding game with 19 points, and Clay Koetting joined him with double figures putting in 10 points. Steven Johnson and Marshal Johnson each put in seven, and Payton Havens did a good job and added six.

The Broncos will travel to Wellington Friday, January 23, and then to Quanah on Tuesday, January 27, and play at 5:00 p.m.

Lady Bronco JV takes out Wheeler by two

The Lady Bronco junior varsity slipped by Wheeler in a close game on the road last Tuesday night. The Lady Broncos gained the upper hand in the final quarter and won, 41-39.

Wheeler led in the opening period, but the Lady Broncos came storming back in the second quarter to take a three-point lead into the break. The game went back and forth in its entirety, with Wheeler tying the score at 28 all going into the last seven minutes. Clarendon stayed solid and were determined to get the win. Sterling King led with seven points and Briley Chadwick put in six. Shaelyn Owitti and Zaryia Smith added four each, and Damara Brown and Berkeley Alexander helped with two apiece.

On Friday, the Lady Broncos took on Memphis at home and breezed to a 46-26 win. They jumped on the Lady Cyclones early and established a rhythm offensively.

Defensively, the Lady Broncos were strong holding their opponent to only 11 points at the break. They shot 50 percent from the bonus line. Chadwick led the ladies with 16, and King added seven. Amelia Weatherston, Owitti, Alexander, MaRae Hall put in four, Brown helped with three, and Smith, and Sarah Williams added two each.

"The girls have played well," coach Kasey Bell said. "They are staying determined and aggressive."

The Lady Broncos will travel to Wellington January 23 and Quanah January 27 and play at 4:00 p.m.

Eighth grade Colts defeat Wheeler

The eighth grade Colts racked up another win this time on the road finishing 53-12 over Wheeler last Monday night.

The Colts jumped on the Mustangs early in the game and led by 12 points at the end of the first quarter. Great defense set the pace in the following quarter as the Colts help their opponent scoreless. They continued to ride that momentum into the second half of play and were able to coast to the huge win.

Bear Smith and Preston Elam worked hard to finish in double figures with 14 and 13 points respectively. Isaac Dunham got busy inside and put in seven points, while Chris Bruce added five. Noab Elam also had five, which included a solid bucket from the three-point line, and Caton Grahn and Ryan Ward put in three each. Dalton Benson finished the scoring with two.

"The eighth grade boys started off slow, but were able to turn it on in the third quarter," coach Brad Elam said. "The offense and defense was much better after half time, and Ryan Ward had a good game on both sides of the ball. Bear Smith had a good offensive game."

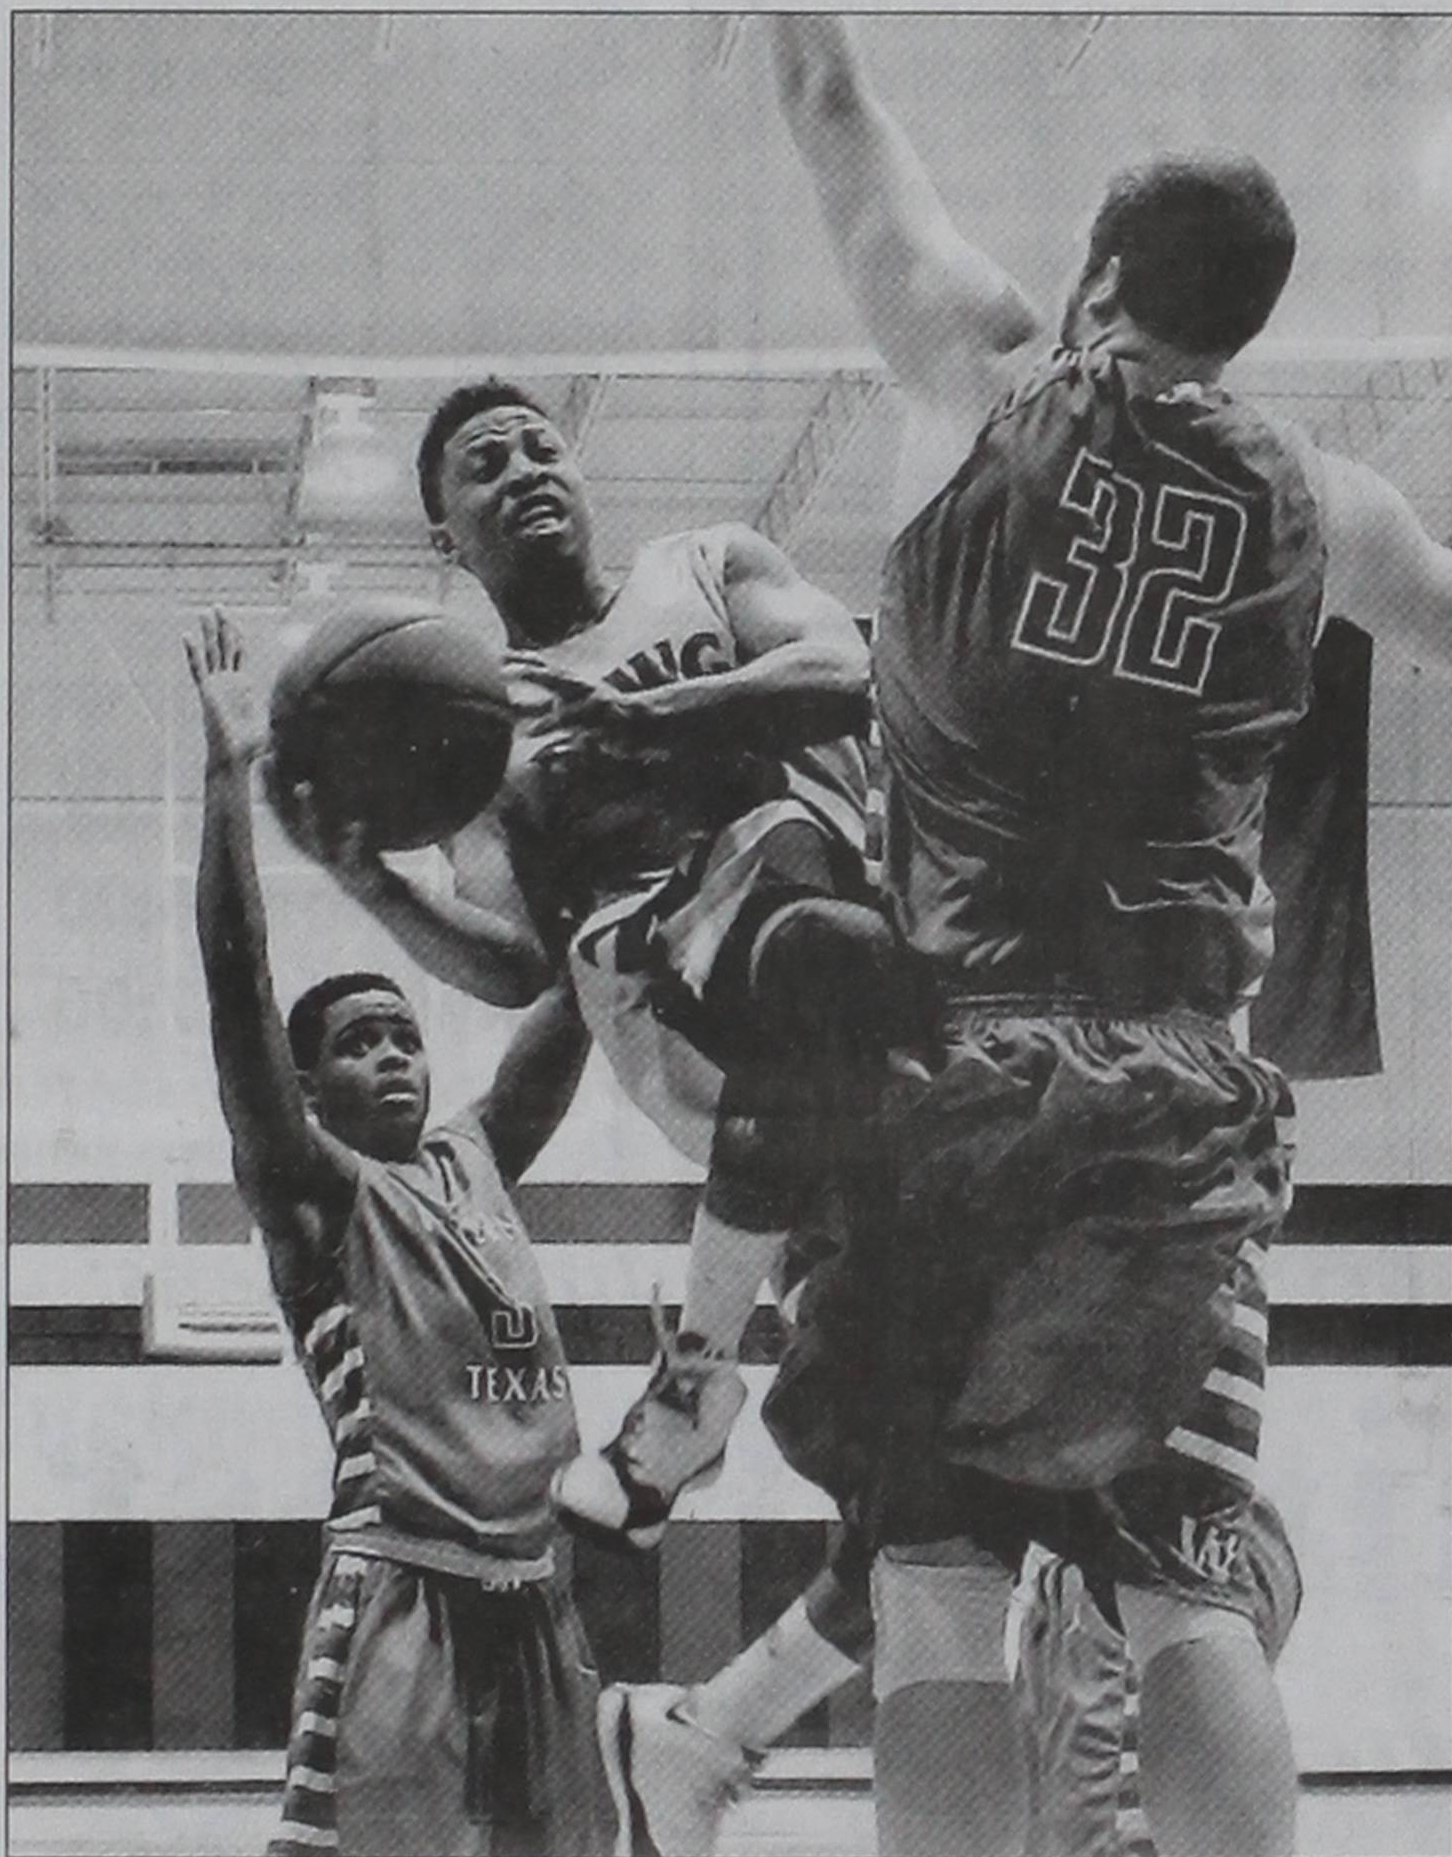

The seventh grade worked hard to get something going in the game, but were unsuccessful and fell 21-51.

Cold shooting hindered the Colts in the first half of play. They used the break to regroup and offensively things began to brighten for the team as they scored sixteen points the last 12 minutes compared to only five in the first half of play.

"The seventh grade boys also started off slow," Elam said. "But they played a really good second half. Offense and defense was much better after half time, and Jamal Butler had a good game on offense."

Jamal Butler finished big once again with 14 points. Clay Ward had three, and Brandon Santos and Trent Smith each helped with two.

Both Colt teams will be at home on Monday, January 26.

Score two

Clarendon College sophomore Marcus Ellison of Corpus Christi goes up to score for the Bulldogs at home Monday night during CC's 66-58 win over Western Texas College. Last week, the men lost to Frank Phillips College in Borger, 64-84. The Bulldogs will play in the Dawg House again this Thursday, January 22, at 8 p.m. against New Mexico Military Institute and then be on the road next Monday to play New Mexico Junior College in Hobbs.

Victory

Clarendon College freshman Denika Brown of El Paso tries to get around Western Texas College's defense during the Lady Bulldogs' 70-59 victory at home Monday night. Last week, the women lost to Frank Phillips College in Borger, 62-73. The Lady Bulldogs will be on the road for their next two games, facing Southwest Texas Junior College in Uvalde on Thursday, January 22, and playing New Mexico Junior College in Hobbs on Monday.

Broncos beat Memphis in double OT

By Sandy Anderberg

They stayed focused and played solid for four quarters of regulation and two overtime periods to get their first District win over Memphis at home. After a 56-56 tie in regulation and a 64-64 score after one overtime, the Broncos pulled ahead in the next extra four minutes to get the 72-69 win.

Neither team hit many shots in the first quarter and the Broncos trailed by one. But, they were able to regroup in the second quarter to take an eight-point lead into the break. They were able to hold that lead through the third quarter, but succumbed to a momentum swing in the final quarter in regulation. The teams went back and forth in the overtime periods before the Broncos prevailed to get the win.

"We shot 77% from the line, which was key in winning the game," head coach Brandt Lockhart said. "We did a good job of moving the basketball. We just need to get better at the little things."

The Broncos hit 10 threes in the game with Cedrick McCampbell hitting two in the overtime periods. Bryce Grahn finished with four three-pointers for 25 points and Chance Lockhart hit three big shots for 15 points. Charles Mason hit several big shots for 14 and McCampbell put in 12 points. Junior Cenicerros put in four, Colt Wood added two, and Riley Shadle had one.

Grahn and McCampbell were top rebounders with six each and Grahn had six steals. Mason finished with seven assists and four steals, while Cenicerros had four assists.

The Broncos took on Ascension Academy on Tuesday night and totally dominated them 87-37. It was never a contest for the Broncos as they exploded in the first half after holding a commanding lead early on. McCampbell had 20 and Cenicerros and Lockhart each had 17. Grahn finished in double figures as well with 12. Mason put in nine, Wood had six, Chesson Sims added five and Shadle had two.

The Broncos will travel to Wellington Friday, January 23, and then to Quanah on Tuesday, January 27. They will play at 8:00 p.m.

Memphis falls to Lady Broncos

By Sandy Anderberg

The Lady Broncos played hard against a good Memphis team and grabbed another district win at 63-42. The ladies are 2-1 in District play.

The Lady Broncos jumped out to take advantage of the early momentum, but allowed the Lady Cyclones gain a little ground before the break. Both teams hit a slow-scoring third quarter, but the Lady Broncos turned up the heat in the final period to get the solid win.

"It was a great game for the girls," head coach Kalen Grahn said. "We have been battling injuries and sickness the past month, so it was sure great to have them all together."

Allyson Grahn blasted the Cyclones in the first quarter when she hit four three-pointers to help the Lady Broncos set the tempo for the game. Grahn went on to rack up 20 points to lead the team on the scoreboard and Carlee Johnson and Taylor DeGrate added 11 points each. The team made 18 out of 26 from the bonus line as well.

"We shot the ball very well in the first half, and in the second half we did not shoot that well outside," Grahn said. "We changed our attack and went inside to draw fouls and work our inside game. The girls did well."

Skylar White went four for four from the bonus and racked up eight points, and Taylor Gaines put in five. Hannah Hommel and Sarah Williams each put in four points.

The ladies took on Wheeler on the road Tuesday night and, despite fighting hard, fell 43-61.

The Lady Broncos stayed right with the Lady Mustangs through the first half of play, but they fell off their game in the final half of play. Wheeler was able to gain a little momentum in the final periods to get the win.

Johnson had 16 and DeGrate put in 11. Grahn and White each put in six and Hommel and Jensen Hatley each had two.

The Lady Broncos will travel to Wellington Friday, January 23, and travel to Quanah on Tuesday, January 27. Game time for both games is at 6:30 p.m.

Lady Colts combine to win over Wheeler

The Lady Colt seventh and eighth grade teams combined last Monday night to defeat the Wheeler Lady Mustangs on the road at 16-11.

The Lady Colts fought through the newness of working together and executed their offense to get the win. They focused on teamwork and determination to earn the win over their opponent.

"The girls played a good game," coach Sandi Johnson said. "It is difficult to combine teams for one game when they are not used to playing with each other. But they were able to get it together and come out with a win."

Mattee Johnson finished the game with eight points, and Madi Gay added four. Sandra Smith and Raynee Newsome each helped with two. The Lady Colts will be on the road again on Monday, January 26, in Shamrock.

THC seeks to honor heritage champions

Do you know someone dedicated to the preservation of Texas history? A group of history-loving Texans that work with students, seniors, or the community to advance understanding of the Lone Star State's heritage? What about a museum staffer who makes Texas history live and breathe for new generations?

Nominate these special people, organizations, or museums for a Texas Historical Commission (THC) award recognizing worthy accomplishments and exemplary leadership in the preservation of Texas' heritage.

The THC is accepting nominations for the Governor's Award for Historic Preservation and the John L. Nau, III Award of Excellence in Museums. Nominations must be received no later than Friday, February 27, 2015.

The THC's most prestigious award, the Governor's Award for Historic Preservation, honors a wide variety of projects and volunteer efforts benefiting historic preservation. The John L. Nau, III Award recognizes an individual in the museum field for significant achievement.

Also featured is an overview of the Texas Historic Courthouse Preservation Program, which has restored 63 courthouses across the state to their former glory since 1999.

The 1890 Donley County Courthouse was fully restored in 2003 at a cost of $4.2 million and funded primarily by the THC and supported with local tax dollars and donations.

Anyone may submit a nomination in accordance with the guidelines for each award as listed on the THC website at www.thc.state.tx.us/awards.

Visit www.thc.state.tx.us/thcnp for more information about efforts to preserve Texas' historic courthouses.

Capitol exhibit highlights historic courthouses

January brings the start of a new legislative session in Austin, and a dynamic Texas Historical Commission exhibit highlighting the importance of Texas' historic county courthouses will greet legislators, their staffs, stakeholder groups, and other visitors to the State Capitol.

The display will debut January 27 in the Capitol's ground floor rotunda through January 31. From February 1-7 it will be in the North Gallery of the Capitol, and from February 8-14 it will be in the South

Gallery. The exhibit presents an overview of the value and benefits historic Texas courthouses provide to their host communities, from preservation of stories and unique architecture to offering a cost-effective and sustainable way to repurpose a building that is the cornerstone of the community.

Benefits include increased heritage tourism, improved property values for the courthouse square, and continuing community pride.

Also featured is an overview of the Texas Historic Courthouse Preservation Program, which has restored 63 courthouses across the state to their former glory since 1999.

The 1890 Donley County Courthouse was fully restored in 2003 at a cost of $4.2 million and funded primarily by the THC and supported with local tax dollars and donations.
