Chamber social to be held March 26

The Clarendon Chamber of Commerce will hold its next Business After Hours social at the Saints' Roost Museum on Thursday, March 26, and members, merchants, and prospective members are invited. The event will be held from 5:30 to 7:00 p.m., and refreshments will be served.

Bring a friend and network with others in our community.

Appraisal district issues reminder

The Donley Appraisal District will be requiring new applications for the 2015 tax year for the exemption of vehicles used to produce income and also used for non-income producing activities.

This exemption is commonly known as the "Multi-Use Exemption" for vehicles. If you own your own business and use your vehicle for both business and personal use, you may qualify for the exemption. Even if you received the exemption in 2014, you must reapply for the 2015 Tax Year.

The deadline for the filing of this application is April 30, 2015. If the application is not received by the deadline, the exemption will not be granted and any previous multi-use exemption will be removed.

Please direct any questions to the Donley Appraisal District at 806-874-2744.

Thornberry taking 2015 art entries

WASHINGTON - US Rep. Mac Thornberry (R-Clarendon) is now accepting entries for the 2015 Congressional Art Competition. The competition is open to all eligible high school students in the 13th Congressional District. The winner will have their art displayed in the United States Capitol for one entire year. The deadline for entries is April 22, 2015. The winner will be announced May 6, 2015.

"Every spring, I look forward to seeing the talent, creativity, and originality displayed by our high school artists," said Thornberry. "Seeing our young people working hard and getting involved always makes me proud."

The winning student will be invited to participate in the exhibition's opening celebration in Washington, DC, this summer.

Guidelines for submissions can be found at <http://thornberry.house.gov/art/>.

Dockery to review city's water system plan

The Clarendon Board of Aldermen put the brakes on an extensive water system improvement plan last Tuesday, March 17, in order to give new City Administrator David Dockery time to review the project.

City officials had been working for several on an improvement plan worth up to $3.9 million with an eye toward applying for funding through the US Department of Agriculture. The plan included replacing the standpipe water storage on the east side of town, improving waterlines throughout the city, and installing water meters that can be read electronically, reducing errors and lost work time.

City engineer Clayton Scales went over the plans during last week's city meeting and detailed the funding opportunities through USDA, which could provide a portion of funding as a grant and finance the balance with a low interest loan. The USDA might also require the city to tap a portion of its reserves for the project.

Dockery commended the board for the work the city has done to identify issues of concern that need addressing and finding a way to pay for those improvements, but he asked the aldermen to give him one month to review the project before proceeding.

Dockery suggested the city might want to pursue the electronic water meters as a way to enhance accuracy and recoup the man hours lost to reading meters (as much as one week a month for some employees) and then tackle the remainder of the project in smaller increments.

"My main concern is depleting the city's reserves and the indebtedness we would incur," Dockery said. "We need a capital improvement plan and then do things more incrementally."

The board agreed with the administrator and took no action on moving the project forward to allow him a month to make a recommendation.

In other business, the city's longstanding Tuesday meetings became a thing of the past when the aldermen approved Ordinance 441. Regular city meetings will now be held on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month at 7 p.m. in City Hall.

City officials also discussed the idea of implementing a citywide clean-up once or twice a year. More information will be presented at a future meeting regarding the expenses and logistics of such an idea.

Breaking the bank

A Memphis man made an unplanned stop in Clarendon March 18 when his vehicle collided with a brick wall behind Herring Bank. The Donley County Sheriff's office says 71-year-old Stephen Joseph Gerkey was eastbound on US 287 when he went off the road at the Gorst Street intersection, struck the curb, became airborne for a short time above the sidewalk, and then crashed into brick wall on the south side of the bank parking lot. Gerkey was cited for failure to control speed.

Registration deadline nearing for Lions 5K

The third annual Chance Mark Jones Roar 'N Run 5K is two weeks away, but there is still time for runners and sponsors to sign up for the event.

The Clarendon Lions Club is hosting the event on Saturday, April 11, to coincide with Child Abuse Prevention Month.

Those interested in running or walking the 5K (about 3.1 miles) are encouraged to sign up before April 1 to take advantage of the early bird discount. Registration costs $25, but those who sign up early save $5. Signing up by April 1 also guarantees participants the official 5K t-shirt.

The year's race will start and end on the Clarendon College campus and will run through the city, around Prospect Park, and past several historic structures, including the Donley County Courthouse, the First United Methodist Church, and the S.W. Lowe House.

The race will begin at 9 a.m. Race registrations are available at the Clarendon Visitor Center at the Mulkey Theatre, at the Enterprise, or online at <http://bit.ly/1C4J1m2>.

Sponsorships are also available, and potential sponsors are asked to sign up by April 1 to ensure their names are on this year's T-shirt.

Proceeds will go towards the many charitable activities of the Clarendon Lions Club, which includes eyeglasses for local school kids, Christmas baskets for local families, hosting the local office of The Bridge - Children's Advocacy Center, and continued park improvements.

Sheriff seeks information on car theft

The Donley County Sheriff's Office is investigating a car theft that occurred Monday morning, March 23, in the 700 block of Gorst Street.

Sheriff Butch Blackburn said a college student living in that area had started her car about 8:40 that morning before leaving for classes. She returned into her home and came back out within just a few minutes and her 2014 blue Nissan sedan was gone.

About a block and half away on Carhart Street, earlier that same morning, the sheriff's office recovered a stolen Chevy pickup out of Lubbock County.

The blue Nissan was recovered late Tuesday in Claude, and Blackburn's office is interested in any information that might help close the case.

Progress

City workers were busy this week cutting out broken curbing at First and Kearney Street in preparation of installing a ramp to improve access to local businesses.

CC to host 4H, FFA contest Saturday

Clarendon will be bustling with people this weekend when the annual Clarendon College Invitational Judging Contest is held Saturday.

The contest doubles the town's population and regularly attracts around 2,000 high school FFA students and 4-H students from around Texas and nearby states and as of Tuesday afternoon more than 1,900 students had pre-registered, which is higher than last year at this point. This number doesn't include the hundreds of parents and coaches who accompany the students to the contest.

According to the 2010 US Census, Clarendon has a population of 2,026.

"We are very happy to host these young men and women," Clarendon Chamber of Commerce President Roger Estlack said. "The annual judging contest is a boost to our local restaurants and other businesses, and it gives many students who otherwise may not ever consider coming to Clarendon Clarendon an opportunity to see what we have here."

"We certainly appreciate all the schools and kids for coming to Clarendon, and we applaud the hard work that the staff of CC puts into making this event happen."

Past contests have had huge impacts on the local economy. Restaurants are typically packed for the event, and this year will hopefully be equally successful.

In fact, the annual judging contest is the single biggest event to attract visitors from out of county for one day. By comparison, the July 4th Saints' Roost Celebration barbecue annually attracts about 1,000 people and the Col. Charles Goodnight Chuckwagon Cookoff records between 1,000 and 1,500 visitors each September. Each of those events, however, has hundreds of local residents in attendance. The greatest number of people at the judging contest will come from outside of Donley County.

In addition to helping local merchants, the event also presents a great opportunity for CC to showcase its campus, faculty, and programs for prospective students. Johnny Treichel, Clarendon College livestock and meats judging coach, said the event is a big recruiting tool for the college.

"This is the only time each year the college has this many potential students on campus," he said. "And we are pleased to have such positive support from the community year after year."

Offensive Speech Is Valuable

By Trevor Burrus, Cato Institute

In the wake of a University of Oklahoma fraternity caught on camera singing an abhorrent song about African Americans, a predictable assortment of critics of free speech have argued that the First Amendment should not protect offensive and racist speech. They are wrong. Offensive speech should not only be protected by the First Amendment, it should be seen as a valuable part of a free society.

In the Atlantic, Boston College law professor Kent Greenfield offered a typical argument against protecting offensive speech: "If the First Amendment has become so bloated, so ham-fisted, that it cannot distinguish between such filth and earnest public debate about race, then it is time we rethink what it means."

Greenfield disagrees with what he considers the main argument for protecting offensive speech: the problem of demarcation and the slippery slope. That is, "we cannot trust the government to make choices about content on our behalf," and thus prohibiting offensive speech will lead "down the slippery slope to tyranny."

That's one argument against giving government the power to censor, but it is not the only one. It is difficult to define offensive speech, true, but this argument seems to imply that if such a line could be drawn then banning offensive speech would be okay.

Even if offensive speech could be easily defined, it should not be prohibited. In an ideal world, offensive speech would roam freely.

Coincidentally, today the Supreme Court is hearing oral arguments in a case about whether the government can prohibit speech on the theory that it "might be offensive to any member of the public." That case concerns an application for a personalized license plate by the Texas Sons of Confederate Veterans. The proposed plate design would have included a Confederate flag. The Texas Department of Motor Vehicles Board voted not to issue the plate.

The Court will first have to decide whether a license plate is government or private speech. In an amicus brief I co-authored in support of the Texas Sons of Confederate Veterans—joined by humorist P.J. O'Rourke, Martin Garbus (one of comedian Lenny Bruce's lawyers), the Comic Book Legal Defense Fund, and prominent First Amendment scholars—we argue that, if a license plate is private speech, then the government should not be allowed to prohibit a design based on the belief that it "might be offensive to any member of the public."

Offensive speech contributes to the marketplace of ideas by expanding its borders. If the marketplace of ideas is the area where "acceptable" ideas are freely exchanged, then outside is the "black" marketplace of ideas. There, people talk about things that are not allowed in the "official" marketplace. That sometimes includes conspiracy theories, racial hater mongering, and other pure lunacy, but it also includes things desperately needing a public airing.

For years, if not centuries, the field of sex research was hindered by taboo and puritanical censorship. Bigotry and prejudice towards homosexuality, divergent sexual desires of any sort, women's sexual health, and sexual dysfunction caused researchers to be relegated to the black marketplace of ideas. In order to get out of the black market, they needed to offend.

By being offensive, comedians, authors, and artists helped bring sex research out of the darkness. By saying forbidden words in jokes and skits, by looking censors in the eyes and saying "cocksucker"—one of the words that famed comic Lenny Bruce was arrested for in 1961 in a San Francisco nightclub—the crass and the boorish opened up avenues of thought and discussion that were previously forbidden. Bruce said, "you break it down by talking about it." Slowly, conversations about sex were freed from puritanical oversight, sex researchers illuminated a crucial part of human existence, and couples had more fun.

Those comics from the 60s who were "edgy" now seem quaint to our modern sensibilities. But there are always new innovators in the world of offensive speech, and no amount of government regulation will stop that.

People define themselves by being offensive. They express themselves through their willingness to stomp on prevailing sensitivities and, yes, even other's feelings. Fostering self-expression and self-development is another important reason we have a strong and uncompromising First Amendment.

Does this apply to those who hate other races, religions, and ethnicities? Yes. They have as much right to define themselves through speech as anyone. And those who abhor the hateful have a right to shun them, expose them, and call them out. Government prohibitions on hate speech drive the hateful underground, where they can proliferate freely and without pushback from those who dare not enter. Sunlight, not government, is the best disinfectant. I, for one, would like racists and bigots to speak freely. I want to know who not to invite to my parties.

Government is not as effective as civil society in properly squelching and shaming hateful speech. If the government defines the parameters of acceptable speech, then many people will break those boundaries just because the government told them not to do it. They will explore the hidden, underground world of hate speech just because it is a forbidden fruit. There they will find whole new ways to offend people because offensive people, like water, will always find a way.

So go forth and offend and be offended. Do it for Lenny Bruce.

Pull up a chair and stop hunkering

Ask any chiropractor, masseur or masseuse, and answers will be similar. Most Americans are tense, on the wrong side of the frazzle equation. They are sheep — "go-alongers," if you will — figuring if the finish line is reached without indebtedness, so be it. To live positively is considered wishful thinking, perhaps attainable only with medication or something stronger.

Generally, we are in a "hunkering" mode, as if our avoidance of "boat-rocking" or "noise-making" is critical to keeping the glow on our "status quo." Maybe the Arrid deodorant ad people were right in the '40s and '50s, asking, "Why be half safe?" In a broader sense, we don't feel even that secure. Nowadays, even 50 percent achievement of what someone called "even keel-dom" seems a stretch.

Maybe we spend too much time in the "downright and locked position." As a late friend commented during a final visit with his doctor, "I'm having no trouble 'hunkering down.' It's the 'hunkering up' that's getting tough." ...

That being said, there's a certain admiration for a smattering of people choosing litigation pursuant to their ongoing "bought and paid for" football season ticket rights. The same rights apply to the Super Bowl XLIX fans denied seats purchased for AT&T Stadium's "Big Game."

The former Texas Aggie faithful who are challenging "King's X" changes they've encountered despite "lifetime" assurances for season ticket rights.

In short — while one might rightly question why fans shell out princely sums to attend athletic events — there's reason to cheer for people with legitimate beefs who simply aren't going to take it sitting down. ...

What could have been the simpler issue was at the Super Bowl. The National Football League admitted error. One would hope there'd be acceptable remedies short of the courthouse.

There are certain events for which there are no "mulligans." Ask photographers whose wedding pictures didn't turn out. Or ask NFL officials why tickets were sold for seats that weren't in place.

Harder to understand is the issue at Texas A&M University, where a few families and foundations wrote checks for lifetime rights to purchase season tickets at the "going rate" — without additional charges imposed annually for the right to do so. Unless "cooler heads" prevail, Texas A&M may catapult to the front of big-time institutions where sports gallop out of control. Again, we've "hunkered down," forgetting intercollegiate sports' initial and fundamental purpose. Further, lines formerly dividing them from professional sports grow exceedingly blurred. ...

Texas A&M — with its newly acquired law school — may need to roll out its biggest cannon in response to class-action lawsuits brought against both the university and its respected 12th Man Foundation.

Plaintiffs filing suits are not small fry. Some are "big fish," including the former executive director of the 12th Man Foundation and two former presidents of the Houston Aggie Club.

Curiously, the foundation has been assigned the task of "re-seating" in the soon-to-open expanded Kyle Field. Foundation leaders, having navigated troubled waters before, had best prepare for a tsunami. ...

It's about "big time." It's about prestige. It's about money. It's about Texas A&M having the largest collegiate sports venue in Texas and in the Southeast Conference. It's also about forcing loyal fans to pony up with over half the renovation costs — about $230 million — through annual "licensures" by season ticket holders.

The new Texas A&M president has an interesting contract. Like several others, it sounds like an NFL contract, calling for an annual salary exceeding $1,000,000, and a "signing bonus" of $800,000.

He's also eligible for four $100,000 "performance bonuses" annually at the discretion of Chancellor John Sharp, who — like several others — opted for academia following government service. ...

The new prexy — and other Aggie leaders — are on the high wire, sans net. No matter which side prevails, the cost will greatly exceed mere dollars.

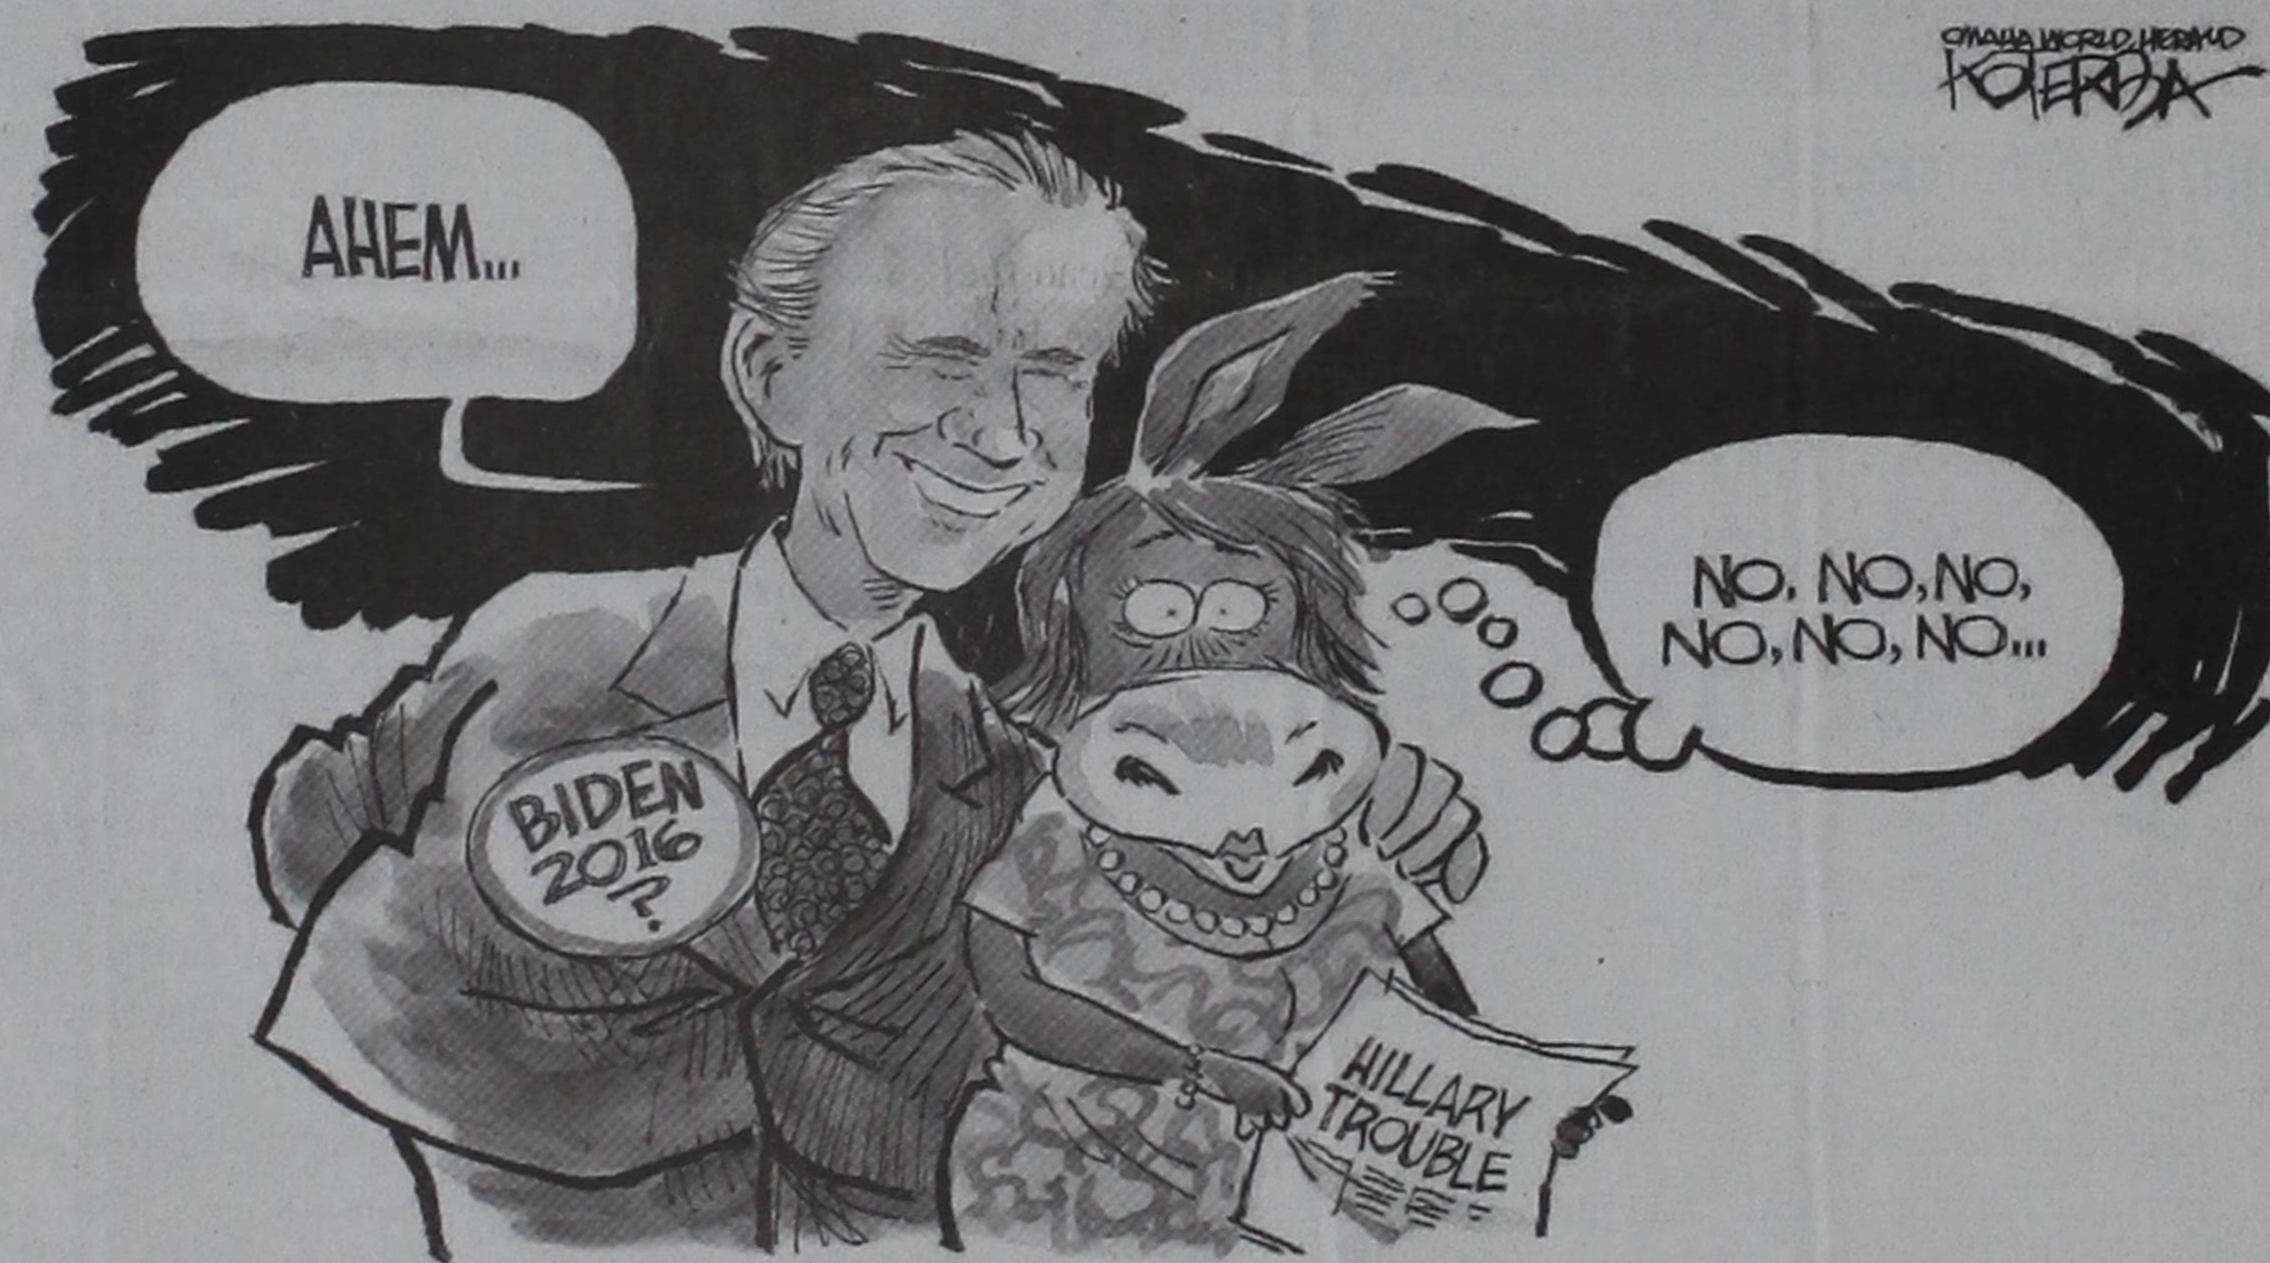

Damage will be inestimable. Critics will point to the university's code of honor: "An Aggie does not lie, cheat or steal or tolerate those who do."

A non-partisan prayer might begin, "Oh, Lord. Show us the right way. Help us to know when to 'hunker' — whether up or down. May we avoid blaming Johnny Manziel — even though his dazzling grid exploits may be the primary impetus for a bigger stadium. Amen."

Cattle health should remain priority

By Tom Haynie, TSCRA Director and Animal Health Committee Chair

As the State of Texas continues dealing with violence and other critical issues along the Texas-Mexico border, the threat of an animal disease and parasite outbreak continues to grow. Cattle are constantly being transported into Texas, and the lack of proper border security creates health inspection challenges along the border region of Texas and Mexico. This is of grave concern to me as a cattle rancher.

The increasing global commerce and relative ease of movement across nations and continents makes it possible to transfer people, products and animals around the world in a matter of hours. Such international movement greatly enhances the possibility of transmitting diseases and parasites, which could devastate the cattle industry and threaten the public health of this country.

I know how serious these issues are and understand how easily an accidental disease outbreak or bio-terrorism attack could devastate our cattle herds across the state and nation.

There are many different animal diseases that are constantly being observed by ranchers, the Texas Animal Health Commission (TAHC) and the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA).

The control of fever ticks along the Texas-Mexico border is a critical animal health issue for the cattle industry. Fever ticks reduce animal productivity by feeding on blood and inducing anemia. They also spread parasites that cause disease in cattle and wildlife.

These pests are of major concern to the U.S. livestock industry because they could cause devastating economic loss. According to a Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service report, the cost of a relatively small fever tick outbreak outside of the quarantine zone in Texas would be $123 million in the first year, including capital costs and ongoing variable, annual costs.

TSCRA strongly supports the efforts of the TAHC and USDA for surveillance, testing of control methods, and treatment of any livestock or wildlife that may serve as a host for cattle fever ticks. We also recognize the importance of cattle production in all quarantine zones. These zones have proven effective for controlling the disease.

Additionally, ranchers must work to prevent trichomoniasis. This is a venereal disease that results in infertility, abortions, delayed calving and reduced calf crops. Unfortunately, trichomoniasis has an increasing prevalence in the cattle herds in Texas and it is a disease that requires prevention rather than cure. There is not an effective treatment for infected bulls, thus leaving slaughter of such bulls as the only viable option. Texas has already implemented regulations to address this devastating disease; however it is crucial for ranchers to take the threat of this disease seriously and make sure it isn't introduced into their cattle herds.

Another animal disease we should watch closely is tuberculosis, which is primarily a respiratory disease caused by bacteria. It affects the lungs and chest lymph nodes, and symptoms include weight loss, chronic cough and death.

While Texas is currently declared free of tuberculosis, testing of imported cattle has not been adequate enough to prevent tuberculosis in all U.S. cattle.

TSCRA supports USDA rules that are based on sound science and provide for adequate testing and surveillance of domestic and imported cattle to help completely eradicate tuberculosis in the U.S. We support the efforts of the TAHC to keep Texas free of this disease.

There are many other critical diseases that cattle ranchers shouldn't take for granted. While ranchers continue working to keep their livestock healthy and free of disease, TSCRA also believes animal disease traceability plays an important role in helping cattle producers prevent animal diseases. Intrastate and interstate disease traceability programs have enabled the cattle industry and state and federal animal health officials to respond rapidly and effectively to animal health emergencies if they should arise. I believe this is key to protecting cattle herds in Texas and across the country.

Lastly, as TSCRA works with legislators during the 84th Texas Legislative Session and at the federal level, we will keep these issues in mind. TSCRA will support federal and state animal health official's reasonable requests for resources needed to protect the cattle industry from devastating animal diseases.

Should any cattle raisers have questions or concerns regarding animal health issues, I urge them to contact TSCRA. We will conscientiously monitor these issues, and I encourage all TSCRA members to do the same for the protection of the entire beef industry.

Tom Haynie, of Navasota, Texas, became a TSCRA Director in 2008 and he currently serves as the chair of the TSCRA Animal Health Committee.

Historic preservation makes a big economic impact

A recent University of Texas and Rutgers University economic impact study revealed some surprising facts about the significant benefits of historic preservation efforts in the Lone Star State.

The study contained seven key conclusions:

Tourists love historic districts and preserved or restored sites. More than 10 percent of Texas travel is heritage related, with $2.26 billion in annual visitor spending related to history-based tourism.

Historic preservation supports tens of thousands of Texas jobs. Heritage tourism supports 54,000 jobs in Texas; historic preservation supports 79,000 jobs (2013 numbers).

Historic building rehabilitation rebuilds communities. Private and public institutions in Texas invest a total of $772 million in historic preservation projects, making a significant economic impact in communities across Texas.

Historic county courthouses make great economic sense. Since 2000, $251 million in grants across 91 counties through the Texas Historic Courthouse Preservation Program has created 9,600 jobs and added $651 million in state gross domestic product. It has also revitalized downtown areas in large and small communities.

Texas Main Street communities make good business sense. Since 1981, participating cities in the Texas Main Street program (www.thc.state.tx.us/mainstreet) have made an average annual contribution of $310 million to state GDP. Cumulative reinvestment in Main Street areas has totaled more than $5.2 billion since 1981. Currently 89 cities participate in the program.

Historic properties attract significant reinvestment. Every dollar from federal and state incentive programs triggers $4-$5 of private sector investment, spurring $1.78 billion in private-sector rehabilitations, and creating 35,000 in-state jobs and more than $2.4 billion in Texas GDP. 700 Texas history museums bring economic vitality to communities. Museum organizations in Texas spend $93 million annually, not including capital expenditures, and each attracts thousands of visitors every year.

Find the full economic impact report at www.thc.state.tx.us/about/reports. The THC leads official state efforts to encourage and incentivize historic preservation projects and heritage tourism. For more information visit www.thc.state.tx.us.

Event season opener at Copper Breaks State Park

QUANAH – Easter weekend will kick off the annual events at Copper Breaks State Park. Over the weekend of April 4 and 5, 2015, the park will host The Great Texas Trash Off, an Easter Egg hunt, Meet the Longhorns, and an Easter Sunrise Service in this mix of long-standing and new events.

Starting on Saturday, April 4, at 10:00 a.m. is the annual Great Texas Trash Off. The Copper Breaks State Park Staff and Volunteers won the state wide "Litter Gitter" award in 1998 and individual staff members won the award in 2013. Volunteers who participate in the Great Texas Trash Off are admitted free for the day. Come join thousands of other Texans in cleaning up our roads and trails.

At 2:00 p.m. we will offer the regular "Meet the Longhorns" program. This is a chance to get up close to seven steers from the official state herd. Several will eat from your hand, and Blanco Besos will give you a big longhorn kiss. You don't have to kiss him, but he will make the offer.

The second annual children's Easter Egg Hunt will start at 3:00 p.m. Sponsored by South Plains Electric, the hunt will have two categories, ages 0-4 and 5-9. Participants much register before the hunt.

On Sunday morning, April 5, at 6:30 a.m. John Spangler of Trinity Baptist Church will lead the annual Easter Sunrise Service held at the park headquarters. The Easter Sunrise Service is free and everyone is invited.

For more information on the Great Texas Trash Off, Meet the Longhorns, the egg hunt, the Easter Sunrise Service, or other Copper Breaks programs or facilities, contact the park daily during business hours at (940)839-4331.

Copper Breaks State Park is located 13 miles south of Quanah and eight miles north of Crowell on State Highway 6.

Hedley Senior Citizens holds painting party

The Hedley Senior Citizens have nearly finished Phase One of their new building. One of their new building. It is going to be a beautiful building and right now we are doing it with only donations. If you send a donation please put on the check "Building Fund" so we will get it to the right account. We thank you in advance.

Please come down and see what we have started. We only need about $85,000 to finish the whole thing.

Jeri Hanna hosted a Painting Party at the Hedley Senior Citizens last Saturday. Amber Bullard came down from Amarillo to teach the painting class. We had about 20 participants and it was a load of fun. Amber furnished all supplies and we used acrylic paints. We are planning on another one in a couple of months. We hope more people will come and we will keep you posted.

The Hedley Methodist Church would like to invite anyone to their services on Sunday Morning at 9:00 am. Rusty Early from Miami is our Pastor and they would like to share Jesus with you.

Spring cleaning at the Mulkey

Saturday, me and my cousins went to the Mulkey and cleaned up the street in front of it, and we cleaned off the sidewalk. We went all the way down to the highway. I had to rake up leaves and gunk, then Russell and my dad and my cousins picked it up.

Russell found a mummy bat that was on a twig.

I think we did a really good job, and we also cleaned up all the trash.

We also went to the Mulkey on Friday and sorted all the letters on shelves, and on the front of it we had to put the letters up on the marquee.

We did all this because the Block Party is coming up soon. I really like the Block Party because of the things to do and last year we got to watch movies in the Mulkey.

I hope some of you will be at the Block Party this year on May 23.

Honored guest speaks at Howarwick

What a blessing Howardwick Baptist Church received Sunday as we honored First Responders and featured Sgt. Houston Gass of the Pampa Police Department as speaker.

You may remember, on Jan. 6, 2015, Sgt. Gass responded to a domestic violence call in Pampa and was shot in the face with a shotgun blast. He denies being a hero and states the real heroes were the people that placed hands on him that day and were guided by Jesus Christ. He credits Jesus with his survival. What an inspiration this young man is! His prayer through all this has been to allow him to live and teach his three young children to follow the path of Jesus.

He faces more surgeries but is working part-time for the department; a living, breathing miracle. God Bless you Sgt. Gass, your wife Jessica and your family and thank you for visiting our church.

Signs of spring are beginning to burst forth in our yard with apricots blooming, an old sand cherry as pretty as I have ever seen, forsythia bushes showing their yellow faces and daffodils blooming along the fence.

We received about half-inch of rain this week and things are beginning to turn green. I'm not sure how Ole Jim feels as he looks over the yard and the work facing him but Buffy the Wonder Dog loves it. Unless the wind is blowing through those big Yorkie ears Buffy is outside, after all she must protect her property.

CC Rodeo Team members place high at Odessa

The Clarendon College Rodeo Team competed at Odessa this past weekend with several members placing high in their events.

Colton Jackson won 4th in the first round in the Saddle Bronc Riding, and tied for 5th place in the second round with a score of 71. That was good enough to win him 3rd in the Average.

Wyatt Casper tied for 5th in the second round of the Saddle Bronc Riding.

Casper also won 6th in the first round of the Team roping, while Tyler Hobert and Kyle Hash won 7th in the first round of team roping. Both teams failed to get a time in the short round.

The CC Rodeo Team will be traveling to Snyder this weekend for competition.

Les Beaux Art Club has successful year

The Les Beaux Art Club has had a very busy year filled with some hard work thrown in and under the guidance of our President, Jan Campbell, we have moved forward to a good year.

Our Art Festival was a huge success, a lot of work, but what better way to bring art appreciation to Clarendon. Our goal is to get our young people interested in the arts. Each year we try to make the next year better.

The support we have from the community is tremendous, the EDC, Chamber of Commerce and of course our Clarendon supporters. We feel we have progressed to the point that we can give back to our community. To name a few of our giving back projects, we supported the arts at the Jr. High and High School level and we give a scholarship each year to a graduating senior. We donated $500 to the Arts Department at Clarendon College and also have given scholarships to returning sophomores of $300 for two years. We just last month donated $1000 to the Mulkey Theater and we hope to donate to other needed areas. We don't want this to sound as if we are bragging, but we thought because of your support, you needed to know some of our projects.

We feel so fortunate to be part of such a community and we hope all of you will continue to support our efforts.

Host a foreign exchange student

American Cultural Exchange Services (ACES) a small dedicated non-profit educational exchange organization designed by the U.S. Department of State to administer the high school exchange program is asking all Americans to open their homes to a foreign high school student.

Our foreign high school students are waiting to be hosted by American Families for the 2015-2016 school year or even a semester. Students are from all over Japan, Korea, Asia, South America, and Europe. They all come with their own complete medical coverage and own personal spending monies for all personal needs. All is required is a bed to sleep weather they have their own bedroom or share a bedroom, a place to eat and a place to do homework, the students all are academically sound and friendly and are willing to become a member of your family. They enjoy competitive tennis, volleyball, basketball, soccer, and other sports.

These students also have other talents such as dancing. These students will help with everyday chores as a member of your family. And above all you as his/her family will gain a lifetime of experiences that will be positive ones you will never forget.

For the great opportunity of a lifetime please call me, for you Local Area Coordinator Kevin at 1-806-335-5857 now for your brochures on our students or call the ACES National Office at 1-800-611-2237 or check us out at www.explorettheworld.org.

The Clarendon Lions Club held their regular Tuesday noon meeting March 24, 2015, with Boss Lion Larry Capranica in charge.

We had 17 members present and no guests this week.

Lion Jim Shelton reported that Lion Mike Norrell will be starting as our school superintendent next week and said a reception was held for him at the school on Monday.

Lion Ashlee Estlack updated the club on the Roar 'N Run 5K and passed out sponsor information. The early deadline to register and be guaranteed a T-shirt is Wednesday, April 1. Registration forms are available at the Clarendon Visitor Center or The Clarendon Enterprise.

Lion Robert Taylor presented our program this week and led a thought-provoking discussion on the physics of light and dark.

There being no further business, we were adjourned.

Broncos begin Tennis season

By Sandy Anderberg

Several Broncos competed in the first tennis tournament of the year in the Panhandle Open.

The doubles team of Chance Lockhart and Junior Ceniceron won their first match of the year, defeating Gruver 8-2. However, they lost their second match to Nazareth 4-8. According to Coach Brandt Lockhart four of the games the doubles' team lost was only by one point.

Zack LaRoe and Nick Shadle teamed up to win their first match over a Quanah team at 8-4. They were defeated in their second match by a very good Hedley team. Freshmen doubles team Phillip Monds and Damarjae Cortez lost their first match and in the second match, lost to Quanah 4-8.

"Overall, we played well in our first tournament," Lockhart said. "We still need to improve on all phases of the game."

They will travel to Spearman on March 26.

Golfers endure cold, windy day

By Sandy Anderberg

March 17 the Broncos traveled to Childress to participate in the Childress Invitational Golf Meet with the team finishing eighth.

Zack Watson turned in an 87 that was good enough for 13th place out of 80 golfers and Raylyn Shelton shot a 95.

"The rest of the team did pretty good as well in the tough conditions," coach Gary Jack said. "Our team finished in 8th place overall."

The members of the team Watson, Shelton, Riley Shadle, Blaine Ellis, and Jacob Hewett. There were also three medalists playing. They were Zach Caison, Clayton White, and Eastin Goodpasture.

"This was our first golf meet due to a couple of cancellations caused by the weather," Jack said. "This week, we will take a team to the Perryton Invitational on Saturday, March 28."

LaRoe pitches win over Shamrock

By Sandy Anderberg

Hurler Zack LaRoe threw 15 strikeouts that catapulted the Broncos 9-3 over the Irish Friday night, March 20. Along with the 15 strikeouts, LaRoe allowed two earned runs, two hits, and four walks over five innings.

Clarendon scored four runs in the fifth inning. They added a run on Charles Mason's sacrifice fly, and on RBI singles by Ray Jaramillo and Josh Cobb, who went 3-4, drove in one and scored two runs.

The Broncos posted a good scoring third inning, scoring three runs. Bryce Hatley doubled, scoring Cobb to start the inning and then LaRoe hit a two-run home run to add to their total.

"Zack pitched really well," coach Brad Elam said. "Every out we recorded while he pitched was a strikeout. He also hit a long homerun. Offensively, I was a little disappointed we didn't hit the ball harder."

Earlier in the week, the Broncos played Randall JV and fell 3-14.

Kade Hunsaker was on the mound for the Broncos, and he held Randall scoreless for over two innings, allowing no earned runs, walking one and striking out one. Deeper in the game, LaRoe took over the duties on the mound, but struggled to get anything done. He allowed eight runs in the two innings and walked six hitters. The Broncos scored a run when Hatley slammed a single scoring Jaramillo. After that score by the Broncos, Randall took over the scoreboard and racked up several runs. Before the final inning, Hunsaker was able to mark a run with an RBI single.

"Minus two innings, I thought we played really well," Elam said. "Playing good teams allows you to see things you need to work on. Our defense played well. We had a couple of breakdowns at crucial time, and we walked too many in the second game."

Lady Bronco win over Booker

By Sandy Anderberg

After dealing with two losses to Childress, the Lady Broncos stormed back to take a 22-12 win over Booker in the District contest. The ladies are currently 5-2 overall and 2-0 in district.

"This was a very long game over three hours long, but it ended up good," head coach Gary Jack said. "We started off fast with a 10-0 lead after two innings, but didn't score again until the fifth. By then it was a close game."

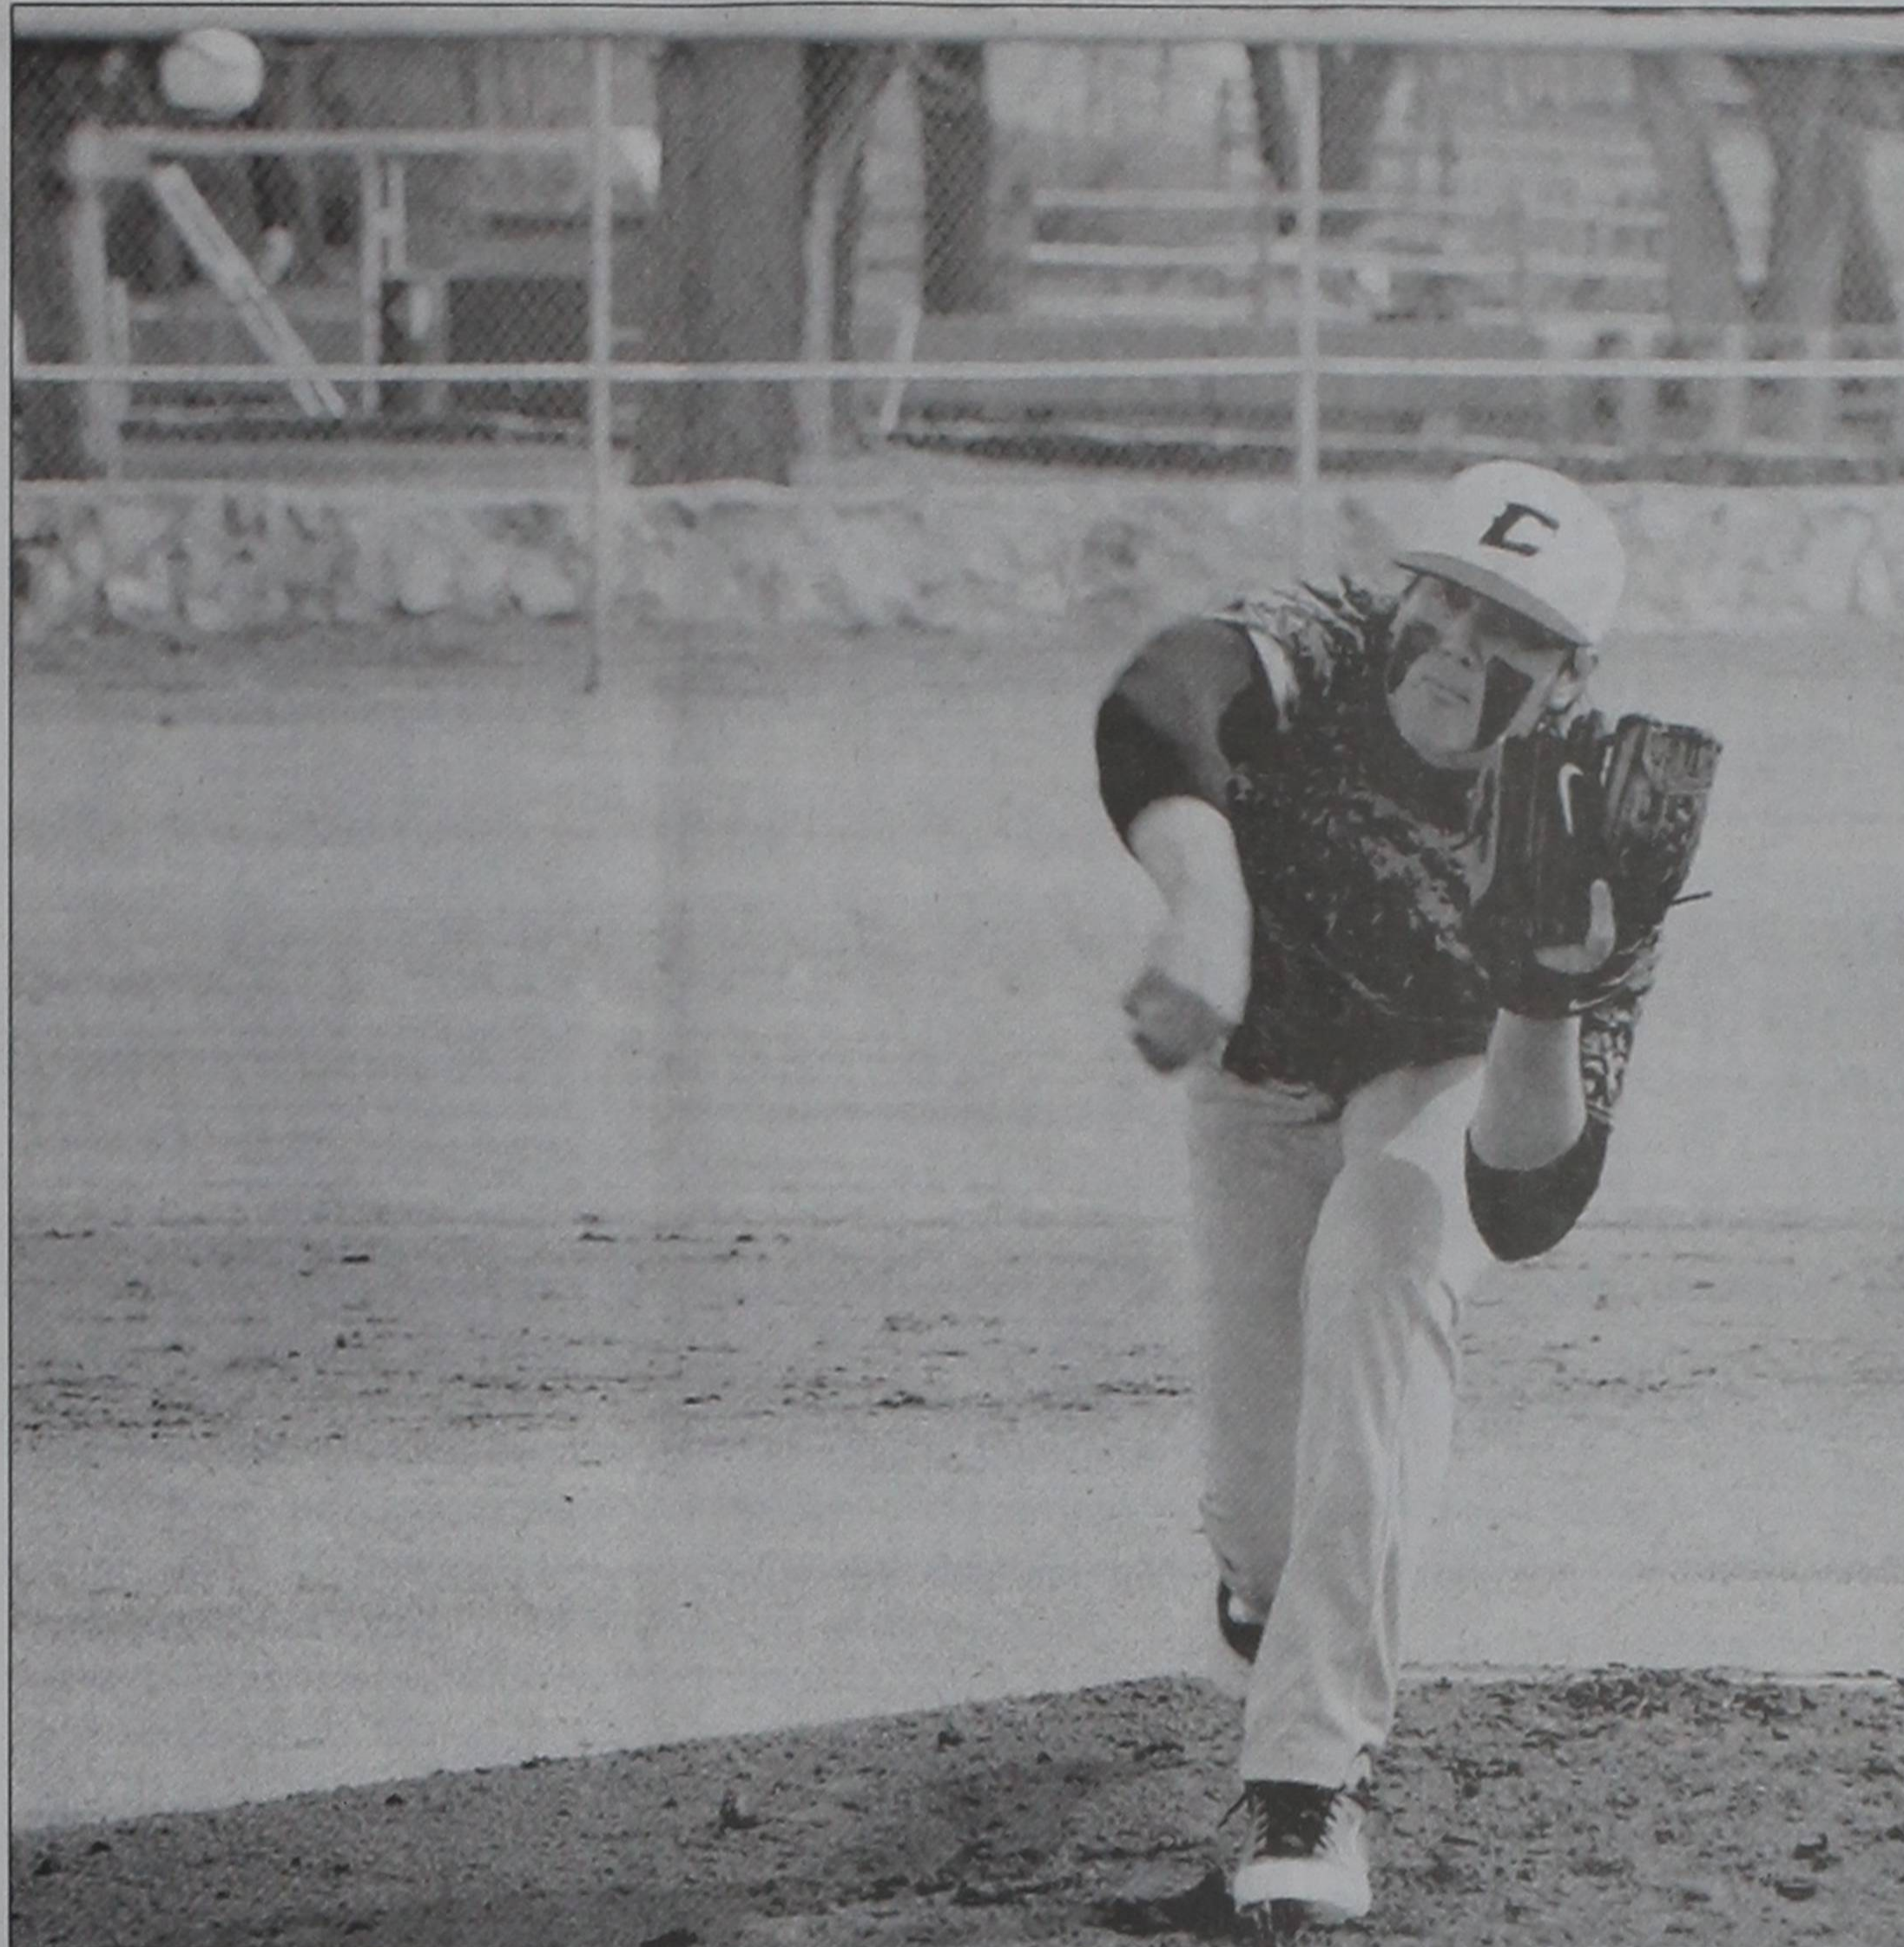

The Lady Broncos were able to secure their win late in the game and finish it off. According to Jack, several players played well.

Briley Chadwick, Sterling King, and Taylor DeGrate pitched, and Allyson Hogan was behind the plate.

"We were a little inconsistent pitching, but held on," Jack said. "Brooke (Martin), Skyler (White), Taylor (Gaines), Briley, Sterling, Allyson, Karlee (Adams), and Lilly Carr all hit pretty well for us."

The ladies will play Gruver here on Tuesday, March 24 at 4:00 pm and play at Claude on Friday, March 27 also at 4:00 p.m.

Senior, Zack LaRoe pitched 15 strikeouts during last Friday's game against Shamrock.

Medication safety tips for children and adults
 Prescription and over-the-counter medications can save lives and help people of all ages manage certain conditions. When used correctly and under the guidance of a physician, medications are largely safe. It's when medicines are used off-label, shared or taken in error that reactions and injury can occur. Pharmacists work diligently to help prevent medication errors. However, the general public can also do their part. The American Society of Health-System Pharmacists and the National Association of Boards of Pharmacy offer these medication safety tips.

- When a new medication is prescribed, ask the doctor to explain more about it, including its intended purpose and any common side effects to be expected.
- Make sure your doctor knows about all the medications you are taking, including non-prescription products, herbal remedies, dietary supplements, and vitamins. Some medications do not mix with seemingly innocent ingredients.
- Question anything that you do not understand. Check the prescription for dosing information. For refills, make sure the refill information conforms to the original prescription strength.
- Fill all prescriptions at the same pharmacy and develop a rapport with the pharmacist so that potential drug interactions will be flagged. Pharmacists are well versed in medications and may be able to inform you as to the safety or risk involved in taking an over-the-counter product at the same time that you are on a prescription.
- Use the right dosing tools. A spoon from the kitchen is not accurate for measuring out a teaspoon of medication.
- If you take multiple medications, use a pillbox to keep pills organized.
- Routinely discard expired or unneeded medications. Medicine take-back programs for disposal are a good way to remove medicines from the home.
- Consult with a doctor before beginning or ending medication.

Supplemental budget would cost $433 million

By Aman Batheja, The Texas Tribune

House budget writers intend to add $433 million to the current two-year budget with a supplemental bill laid out Thursday, though a plan to repurpose millions in leftover funds from various health care programs drew sharp questions from Democrats.

Since the Texas Legislature meets every two years, lawmakers usually have to pass a supplemental budget bill to pay for unexpected costs and IOUs for the current budget. The Legislature is now crafting the 2016-17 budget, and the supplemental budget bill would augment the 2014-15 budget lawmakers approved two years ago.

At Thursday's House Appropriations Committee hearing, Chairman John Otto, R-Dayton, and members of the Legislative Budget Board explained details of House Bill 2 for the first time. The supplemental budget bill includes $254.7 million in general revenue, the portion of the budget lawmakers have the most control over, and $177 million in federal funds. Otto is the bill's author.

Budget board officials explained that the bill will cover more than $1 billion in state needs, with much of the costs covered by transferring leftover money from other parts of the budget.

For instance, the bill adds $768 million into TRS-Care, the health insurance program for retired teachers that faces insolvency, largely by taking advantage of savings in public school funding "due to higher than anticipated property value growth and lower-than-anticipated student enrollment," explained Marva Scallion with the budget board. The board analyzes fiscal issues for the Legislature.

HB 2 also includes $20.6 million for the Texas Facilities Commission to address part of a long list of pressing maintenance issues in state buildings. The money will include $10.9 million for the Texas School for the Deaf, where some buildings don't have working fire alarms and others have had rodent infestations.

Several members of the House Appropriations Committee expressed concerns about how House Bill 2 plans to cover a $338.4 million shortfall in Medicaid, largely by transferring $278.2 million from other health and human services programs, including money originally allocated for mental health and women's health services.

"It's one thing if the needs are met, that's fine," said Rep. Sylvester Turner, D-Houston. "But I know there are still needs in mental health."

State Rep. Helen Giddings, D-DeSoto, said she was especially troubled that there were funds unspent in the Children's Health Insurance Program.

"It's extremely hard for me to go back to district 109 and try to justify why children have health problems that are not being met," Giddings said.

Officials with the Legislative Budget Board told the committee that the leftover funds are due to programs that couldn't spend all of their funding in time. In some cases, it's because the state received more federal funding than expected.

In other cases, the timing of certain programs made it impossible for certain agencies to spend all the money they were budgeted in the current two-year budget cycle, which ends in August.

Lawmakers asked the budget board to provide more specifics about the leftover funds in the different health programs. Otto said committee members would have all of the information they need before the bill is voted out of the committee.

Rep. Greg Bonnen, R-Angleton, warned lawmakers to be careful that their concerns don't create a "perverse incentive" where agency officials will fear facing criticism if they do not spend every dollar they're appropriated.

"While we definitely want the services to be provided and the needs to be met, that needs to be done efficiently and wisely," Bonnen said.

This year's supplemental bill is starting out far smaller than the one approved in 2013. That bill cost $875 million when the House approved it, but it grew more than six times larger in the Senate to $5.4 billion.

Senators added several items to it, including $2 billion for the state water plan, as part of a broader budget deal.

CANCER

THE EMPEROR OF ALL MALADIES

A FILM BY BARAK GOODMAN

Premiering March 30th, 31st and April 1st at 8:00 p.m. on Panhandle PBS

This three part, six hour documentary is a "biography" of cancer, covering its first documented appearances thousands of years ago through the epic battles in the 20th century to cure, control and conquer the disease. It hopes to reshape the way the public sees cancer, stripping away some of the fear and misunderstanding that has long surrounded it.

Get Texas history on the go

History lovers seeking Texas history and heritage adventures have a new way to find destinations that evoke the Lone Star State's diverse cultures—the new Texas Time Travel Tours app, available for free download from Google Play and Apple's App Store.

The app features thematic tours based on key timeframes, cultures, and personalities from Texas history. It launches with the African Americans in Texas tour, the first in the series of mobile tours produced by the Texas Historical Commission (THC) and included in the app.

The African American heritage tour offers video and audio highlighting significant stories about black history from across the state. These stories guide users to meaningful historic sites and help reveal the roles of African American Texans in the civil rights movement, culture, and everyday life.

New tours will soon be available, and all tour info is also available online without an app download. For more information, visit www.texastimetravel.com or search for Texas Time Travel Tours in the Google or Apple app stores.

The THC also offers a number of free printed and PDF travel guides, all available at <http://texastimetravel.com/get-guides>.

NOTICE OF COMPLIANCE TARIFF FILING

Southwestern Electric Power Company (SWEPCO or the Company) filed with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (Commission) on March 16, 2015, its Petition requesting approval of its proposed Military Base Surcharge Tariff.

Section 36.354(a) of the Public Utility Regulatory Act (PURA), at Texas Utilities Code § 36.354, provides that each electric utility in an area where implementation of full customer choice has been delayed by the Commission in accordance with PURA Section 39.103 shall discount charges for electric service provided to a military base. Section 36.354(b) of PURA establishes the discount to be provided to military installations as a 20 percent reduction of the base commercial rate that the electric utility would otherwise charge to the installation.

Section 36.354(c) of PURA provides that the electric utility may assess a surcharge to all its Texas retail customers to recover the difference in revenue between the revenues from the discounted rate for military bases and the base commercial rate. Tariff Sheet No. IV-16 provides the Military Base Adjustment Factor per billing kWh as reflected below:

MONTHLY FACTOR

Major Rate Classes	$/kWh
Residential	$0.0000638
Commercial & Sm. Industrial	$0.0000448
Industrial/Large Lighting and Power	$0.0000168
Municipal	$0.0000524
Outdoor Lighting	$0.0000971

SWEPCO has requested that the tariff become effective with the first billing cycle of May 2015. The Petition has been assigned Tariff Control No. 44505. Persons who wish to intervene in or comment upon this proceeding should notify the Commission. A request to intervene or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, P.O. Box 13326, Austin, Texas 78711-3326. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Commission at (512) 936-7120 or (888) 782-8477. Emergency personnel look over the wreck of a single-vehicle accident east of Clarendon Sunday afternoon. ENTERPRISE PHOTO

Pampa family transported to Northwest

Three members of a Pampa family were transported to an Amarillo hospital with non-serious injuries following a one-vehicle accident east of Clarendon Sunday afternoon. Department of Public Safety Trooper Chad Simpson said 26-year-old Rainey Anderson was northwest bound on US 287 in a white Chevy Tahoe when she noticed a large piece of debris laying in the outside lane. She overcorrected to the left to avoid the debris and then overcorrected to the right, sliding sideways into the north ditch. Anderson's vehicle rolled one time and came to rest on its wheels. Anderson and her two children, ages 4 and 7, were not seriously injured but were transported to Northwest Texas Hospital for treatment by the Associated Ambulance Authority. Also responding were the Donley County Sheriff's Office, Texas Department of Transportation, and Clarendon Fire Department.
