Bell Injured In Vietnam

Mr. and Mrs. L.M. Bell received a letter from their son Sp/4 Dale E. Bell Tuesday morning in which he told them of being injured in Vietnam.

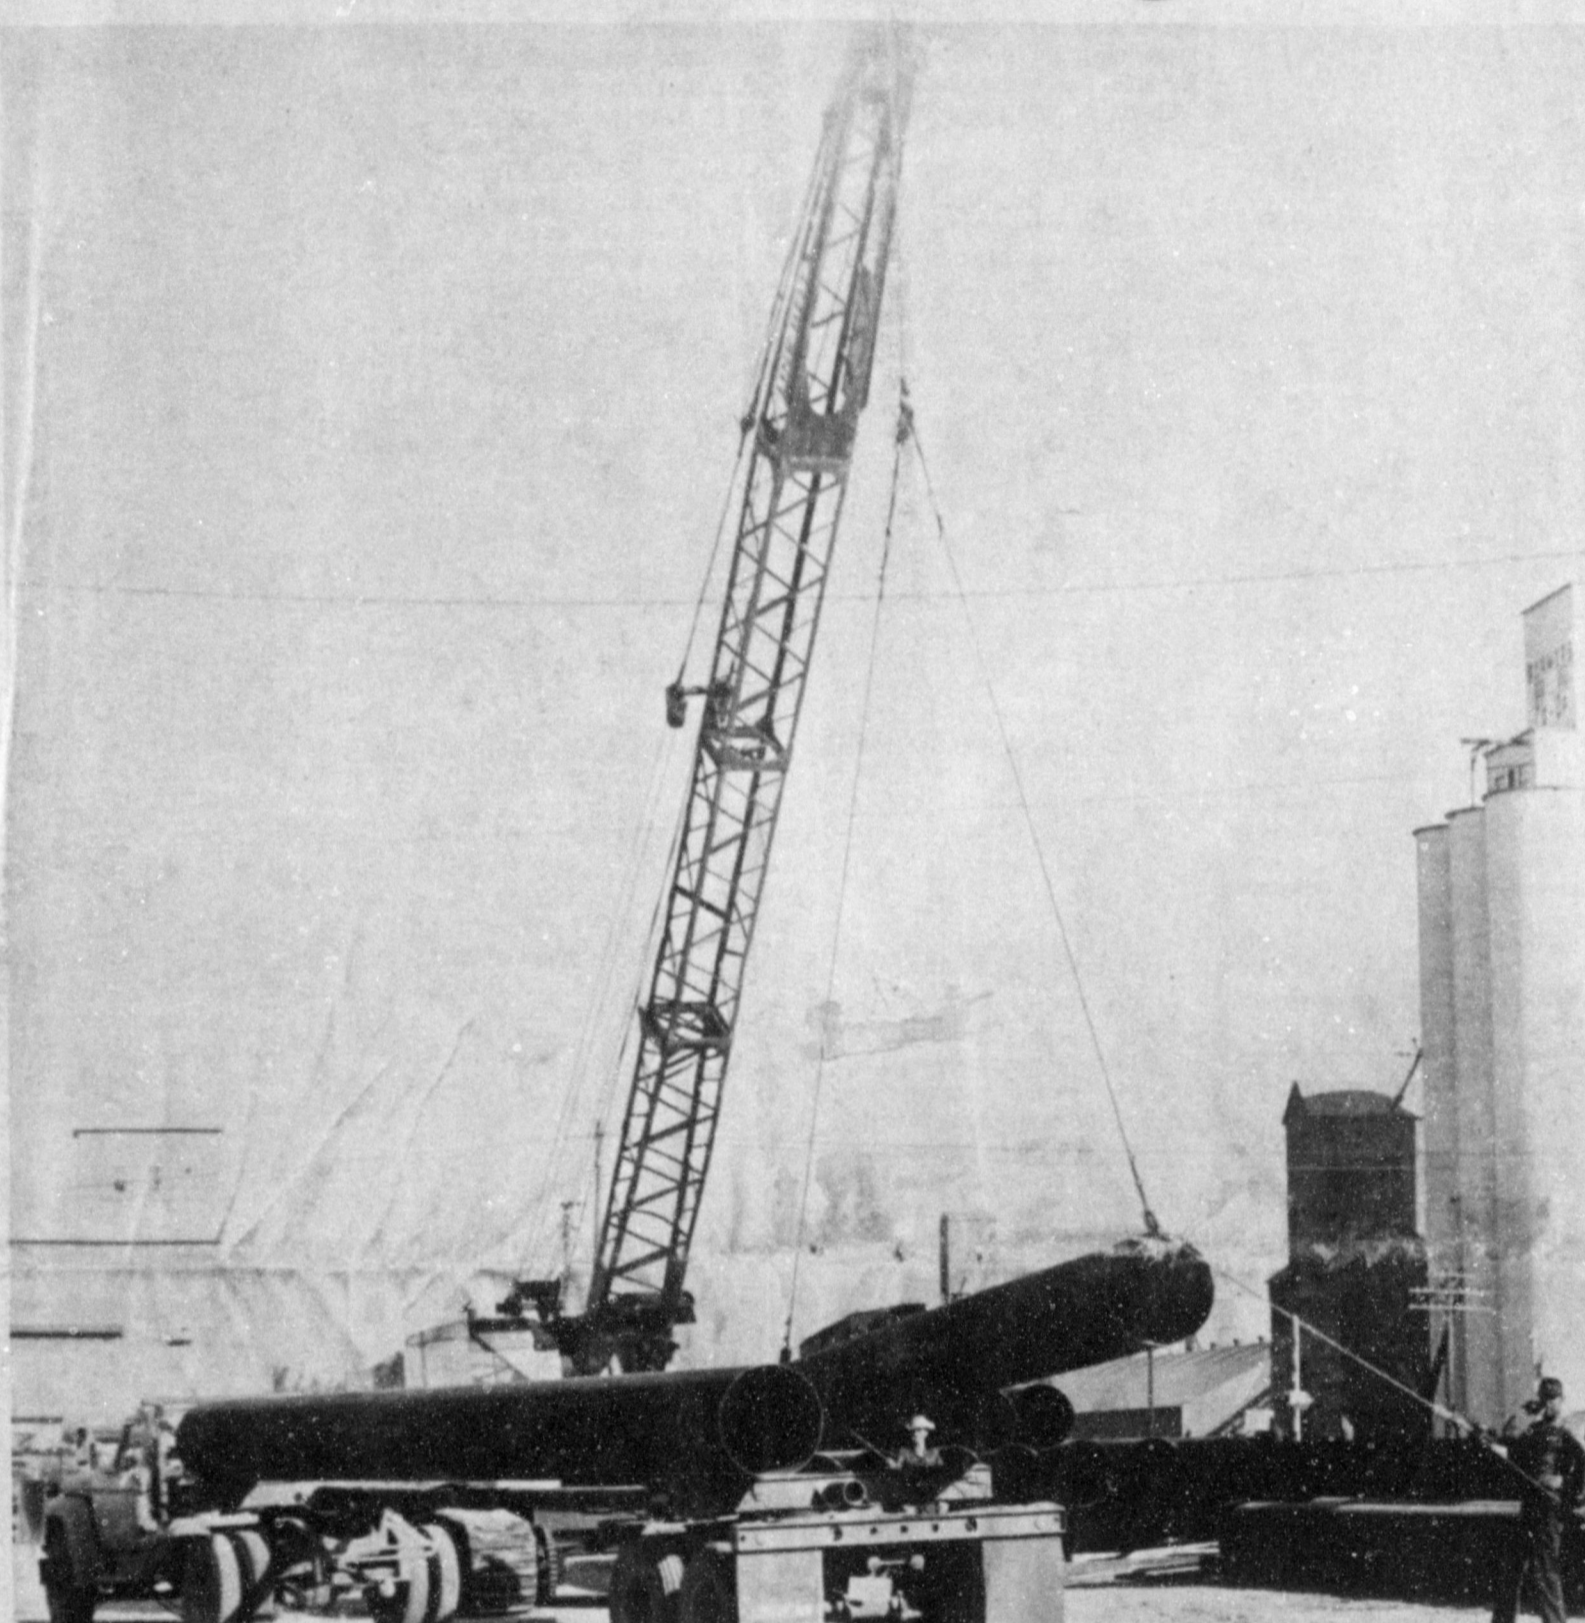

The letter said:

May 4, 1968
Dear Mom and Dad,
I am going to come straight to the point and it is bad news. I got shot in the back by a VC May 1. I came out very lucky just losing some of my intestines and part of the use of my right leg. The doctor said I should regain the use of my leg with full use but I doubt it. I can walk alright so there really isn't much trouble. I'll be going to Japan in about a week and return to the states from there. I'll be put in a hospital until I have fully recovered and then possibly finish my tour of duty at that post. I can't take anything through the mouth and they have giving me IV. The doctor said he might can take the tube out of my stomach tomorrow. I hope so. I want to drink something cold so bad but they won't let me.

I got to go so take care and don't worry. I'll try to write again in Japan. I'll let you know where I am going so you can come see me if you can.

All my love,
Dale

Bell said the letter was the first notification he had received of his son's injury.

PIPE FOR LATERAL BEING UNLOADED ----- R.H. Fulton Company of Lubbock has workmen in Muleshoe unloading car after car of 30-inch pipe which will be used in crossing Bailey County with a pipeline. In 1967, National Pipeline crossed the county with the first pipeline, and the one to be laid across the county will parallel the previous line. Workmen said construction is expected to begin sometime late in June in the area.

Postmaster Warns Obscene Mailers

Postmaster Spencer Beavers says that pornography sent through the United States mail is increasing locally. Beavers said that the mail is not restricted to any one business or individual, but that various business firms, ministers and others are receiving the pornographic mail.

The postmaster said this begins when mailing lists are compiled and sold in lots of thousands to companies. Once a person is on a mailing list, Beavers said it is rather difficult to have the name removed due to the fact the lists are sold and resold nationwide.

Beavers expressed definite concern on the amount of pornographic mail being sent to teenagers in the area. Most of the mail is unsolicited he emphasized, and parents should consult with the post office officials when such mail is received.

Congressman Bob Price has introduced a bill in Congress to help control the present influx of pornography through the

Auxiliary To Host Coffee

Sammy Lewis of the Muleshoe Hospital Auxiliary said a Businessman and Farmer Coffee will be held in the dining room of the Muleshoe Nursing Home Friday, May 16 from 9 to 11 a.m.

Mrs. Lewis said the coffee is being held to familiarize local businessmen and farmers with the nursing home complex and what has been accomplished in the complex.

Rene Hutton, auxiliary member, is hostess for the morning coffee.

"We would like to extend an invitation to the businessmen and farmers in the area," said Mrs. Lewis, "and to anyone who would like to attend."

Members of the auxiliary have been meeting with area civic clubs and explaining the nursing home complex. Monday, Janie Hughes and Juarez Smallwood met with the Jaycees; Tuesday, Sallie Ellis and Sammie Lewis met with Rotary and Wednesday, Patsy Poyner and Wilma Embry met with the Lions.

Weather Wary Citizens Watch Sky

Weather wary Muleshoe and area citizens cast dubious glances at boiling skies again the first part of this week.

Towering thunderstorms concentrated on the Needmore community 13 miles southwest of Muleshoe Tuesday afternoon, dropping from a sprinkle at the Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge to more than two inches in Needmore itself.

Wildlife Manager Bert E. Blair reported only a light sprinkle at the refuge and Mrs. James Dobbins four miles northwest of the refuge reported 1.01 inches and small hail.

W.R. Damron of the Circleback community said he had approximately .25 on Monday and an additional .75 inches on Tuesday afternoon and again reported only small hail.

A little more than two inches of moisture was reported in the rain gauge at the Needmore Co-op Gin.

George Tompkins of Western 66 at Needmore said there was no appreciable moisture west of

Increase Is Noted In All Area Banks

The two local banks showed an increase of $1,346,911.96 over April of last year in their latest bank call. This is indicative of activity in the area as all area bank deposits are up over the same time last year.

Muleshoe State Bank showed deposits of $7,939,269.45 in April of 1969 as compared with 7,145,568.78 in April of 1968 for an increase of $793,700.67. First National Bank deposits in April, 1969 were $7,482,581.01, compared with $6,929,369.72 in April, 1968, for an increase of $553,211.29.

In Cochran County, the First State of Morton had deposits of $7,361,905.01 in April, 1969 and showed deposits of $7,186,498.97 in April, 1968. This represents an increase of $175,406.04.

In Parmer County, the First State Bank of Bovina showed deposits of $2,409,796.39 in April, 1969 and $2,238,847.53 in April, 1968 for an increase of $170,948.86 during the year.

Frona State Bank at Frona listed deposits of $8,597,369.36 in April, 1969, compared with $7,573,201.06 in April, 1968 for an increase of over a million dollars, $1,024,168.30.

Fine Arts Elects New Officers

Muleshoe Fine Arts Boosters Club elected new officers for 1969-70 this week. E.T. Ford was elected president; A.V. Wood, first vice president; Don Rempe, second vice president; Mrs. Don Cihak, treasurer; Mrs. Roy Winkle, secretary; Mrs. Herbert Griffiths, reporter and Mrs. Francis Harold Gable, member-at-large. During the meeting, it was decided to change the meeting date from the second Monday of each month to the fourth Monday of each month beginning in September, 1969.

Mrs. Griffiths said, "We hope this will make it possible for more parents to participate in the Fine Arts Booster Club."

"Every parent of a junior high or high school student in Art, Band, Choir or Speech should make a note of the date change," said Mrs. Griffiths, "as the students, teachers and boosters need your support."

TB Detection Unit To Be in Muleshoe

The Christmas Seal Mobile Detection Unit of the West Texas Tuberculosis Association will be in Muleshoe on May 22. The unit will be located at Crow Chevrolet, across from Gordon Wilson Appliance from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The x-ray unit is sponsored by the Rotary Club, Lions Club and Jaycees as a community health project.

Many other abnormalities besides TB are detected by this means. On the last trip to Muleshoe a total of 617 x-rays were taken. One cardio-vascular abnormality, a total of six TB suspects and six other chest problems were pinpointed. The $1 fee pays for the film and the developing.

The West Texas Tuberculosis Association bears the cost of having the film read and reported to each one in the survey.

A post card is mailed to those having a normal chest film. The ones who have an abnormal reading are notified by a first-class letter which urges them to contact their private physician or the local health officer for further examination. Everyone is urged to keep the card with the number of their x-ray film and the date taken. These films are stored at the office of the Association, and can be made available to physicians on request. An old film can be valuable for comparison purposes if some trouble develops in later years. Children under 12 years of age are too small to be x-rayed on this type unit, but every adult is urged to take advantage of this opportunity.

AREA I FFA SWEETHEART--Mickey Logan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Logan, Sudan, was crowned Area I FFA Sweetheart at Amarillo last Saturday. She won over the six other contestants. In July, she will compete in state competition at Fort Worth against nine other contestants. Mickey is a senior at Sudan High School.

Mailers...

Presently, adults are protected under the pandering advertisement statute (39 USC 4009). Under this statute, adult patrons decide for themselves what they consider is sexually offensive publications, and legal orders are issued directing the mailer to remove the complaining patron's name from the company's mailing list.

To enforce its provisions, my bill provides a penalty much higher than in similar bills introduced by other Congressmen. A penalty of not less than $1000 nor more than $5000 and imprisonment for not less than one year nor more than five years is provided for the first offense. For each additional offense, the penalty is not less than $3000 nor more than $20,000 and imprisonment for not less than three years nor more than ten years.

My bill would further bar Federal courts from hearing appeals of local jury findings on obscenity cases. Thus, under this provision, if a movie, a theatrical production, or publication were found obscene by a jury under local law, no appeal could be taken to the Federal courts. This provision still retains the right of appeal on questions of law to protect "due process." Moreover, the Congress is clearly within its constitutional powers in so limiting the appellate jurisdiction. Senator Everett Dirksen recently introduced a senate bill containing a similar measure to bar such Federal court appeals.

I am hopeful that committee action can soon be taken on this proposal so that the youth can be protected from the ever-increasing traffic in obscene materials in this country.

Another area covered by Postmaster Beavers is the ever increasing number of stolen checks from mailboxes, especially government checks.

Beavers said that although there had been no particular problem as yet locally, simple precautions would prevent the thefts such as are happening in nearby states.

Beavers said that the check thief will walk perhaps half a block behind the carrier and spot where the carrier leaves the checks. In the afternoon the thief will return to the houses and check to see if the mail has been picked up. If not, he will ring the doorbell and if someone answers he will ask for a person with a fictitious name. If no one answers, he has the check in his pocket and is gone.

Beavers suggests that you pick up your mail as soon as possible when it is delivered and if you need to be out of town to notify the local post office to hold your mail until you return.

He told of one check theft ring in Oklahoma who made in excess of $240,000 in one year before they were caught.

The Postmaster said that simple precautions will keep your check from being stolen.

Baileyboro. Very little rain within five miles north of Needmore, between Muleshoe and Needmore, was reported.

Muleshoe did not receive any rain on Tuesday, but Monday night a thunderstorm, accompanied by brilliant lightning displays and rumbling thunder, dumped .32 inch of rain on Muleshoe.

Bids were opened on a truck to be used in the garbage department. Ladd Pontiac was the successful bidder with a bid of $4,734.05. Other bidders were Muleshoe Motor Co., $4,749.50 and Crow Chevrolet, $4,899.

A motion was made and passed to pay Lampe Construction $5,397.30 for work which has been done on the new city hall.

Discussion was held pertaining to a flooding problem at Highway 214 and Main and water being trapped at the 'Y' south of Muleshoe at the city limits. Ralph Douglas commented that obstacles cause the water to back up at that spot and it would be difficult under the present situation to prevent water backing up during a flood.

The city considered taking remedial action and suggestions are under consideration at this time.

The council also established summer water rates to be effective July 1.

"Most of all, we need parents to show enthusiasm for the students and teachers of these groups as we feel they deserve this enthusiasm.

"This is a great group of kids and a fine arts faculty," she concluded.

The 24 parents present heard a report from bandmasters Jim Harvey and Bob Badger on the band and choir trip to Enid for contest several days ago.

"The ratings have been publicized," said the bandmasters, "but we wanted everyone to know how proud we are of the students, they are a great group of kids."

Donnie Carpenter Gets SCS Award

Donnie Carpenter, who farms in southwest Bailey County, was awarded a silver service for being the "Best Comeback Farmer or Rancher in Region I of Texas Soil Conservation service districts".

He was awarded at the Fort Worth Press Region I banquet which was held in Floydada Friday night. Almost a decade ago Fort Worth Press Editor Walter R. Humphrey started the awards program to emphasize soil conservation in Texas. The idea proved to be so popular that conservation-minded

Texans have demanded that it be continued. Humphrey retired this year but continues to handle the conservation contest and was in Floydada to make the presentations.

Mike Hunt, 12-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hunt of Muleshoe, was third place winner in regional in the state-wide conservation essay contest on "How Conservation Helps Texas." Mike was presented a medal for his essay. R.G. Duncan, a 20-year member of soil conservation acted as master of ceremonies at the banquet which was held in an elementary school cafeteria in Floydada. Entertainment was provided by the "Hot Peppers" a Tiajuana Brass type group from Lockney.

Duncan introduced special guests including Soil Conservation Service supervisors, County Agents, Home Demonstration Agents, Soil Conservation Officers, members of the Press, Radio and TV Extension Service personnel.

Humphrey said "It has been a great pleasure to drive out to this country for twenty-four years. As usual the hospitality is wonderful.

"Before us, we see the leaders in soil and conservation who set the patterns for those coming along to see what they have set up.

"I am proud of my association with all of you," he continued, "and want to reassure you that the program will not end with my retirement."

In February, Carpenter was presented a plaque as the Outstanding Conservationist in the Blackwater Valley Soil Conservation District. He was awarded at a banquet held in Muleshoe. His wife, Barbara, had been honored earlier as the Outstanding Homemaker in the district.

The text of Mike Hunt's winning essay on conservation says:

The land of Texas has helped make the state rich. Vast plains and rolling hills provide fertile soil and rich grass lands. Beneath the plains lie some of the world's great storehouses of petroleum. Texas leads the states in value of mineral production. Texas oil wells account for about a third of the nation's oil production. Texas provides two fifths of natural gas for the United States, one half of sulfur for our country. Texas also supplies valuable quantities of many other minerals.

Texas has a yearly farm income of $2,694,400,000. Farmers and gardeners are doing all they can to prevent erosion. They add chemical and natural fertilizers to the soil. A farmer rotates his crops, plows his furrows across a slope to catch the rain water and builds dams to hold back water and soil. They keep land covered with closely growing plants such as wheat, grass, and trees. Cotton is the most valuable crop. Texas has more than five hundred types of soil, in which farmers can grow a great variety of crops.

Irrigation has made the lower Rio Grande Valley one of the country's finest fruit belts.

COMEBACK FARMER OF YEAR FOR REGION I--Walter Humphrey, left, looks on as Comeback Farmer of the Year for Region I Donnie Carpenter, seated, introduces his youngest tractor driver, his 13 year old son Lynn. Carpenter was awarded at the Fort Worth Press banquet held in Floydada last Friday night. He had previously been awarded Conservationist of the Year in a banquet in Muleshoe in February. Carpenter farms southwest of Muleshoe. Although confined to a wheelchair from wounds received in Korea, Carpenter drives a tractor and does most of his own work.

Most of the irrigated farm lands lie in west Texas, in the Rio Grande and Pecos Valley, near Lubbock and along the Coast.

Texas has one hundred seventy six electric power plants and stations. Seventy four of these plants operate on steam. Texas has thirteen deep water ports along the Gulf of Mexico, all man made.

Forests covers about 26,-518,000 acres. Forest conservation is closely related to water and soil conservation. Trees slow the run off of rain and check erosion. Trees planted along the edge of fields check the force of the wind and help prevent soil erosion. More than one hundred twenty kinds of trees grow in Texas. More than a thousand wood using plants operate in Texas.

Much wildlife is found in the eastern forests and on the western plains. Land owners in the regions earn million of dollars a year selling hunting leases to sportsmen. Wild animals play an important part in the balance of nature and furnish with many important products. Animals can also damage trees and crops. The United States Government has set aside certain area of the country as wildlife refuges.

More than half of the United States is grazing land. Americans have mistreated their grazing lands by over grazing. Texas winters are usually so mild that cattle can graze out doors all year. Beef cattle are MIKE HUNT ESSAY WINNER--Mike Hunt is shown seriously considering what Walter Humphrey, left, is saying as he is presented a medal for being third place winner in regionals in the Fort Worth Press Soil Conservation Essay Contest. Mike is the 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hunt, Muleshoe.

Texas' second largest source of agriculture. Texas also raises more sheep and produces the most wool.

The most popular resort center in Texas are on the Gulf Coast. In northeast Texas, rolling timberlands provide many recreational areas. Texas began developing its state park system during the 1920's and now has fifth eight state parks.

People are the most important resource of any nation. Care for health and the fight against disease are important parts of the human conservation. The home, church and school serve as the most important organization to promote human conservation.

I feel Texans realize the importance of the wise use of the air, water, soil, plants, and minerals.

Migrant Students Study Vietnam Story

Have you ever wondered what the background is of the Vietnam Story? If you were a student in the 8th grade, is it not possible it would be of vital importance to you? In defining the teacher, she quoted from Dickson and Creighton, "The teacher of tomorrow must be a sophisticated organizer, administrator, and stimulator of learning for the complicated and demanding job of teaching. The first priority of the total teaching profession should be to see that opportunities for learning experiences are made available so that he meets the necessary requirements not just to continue as the teacher of today and yesterday, but to become the teacher of the future."

failure of the American ground forces on the mainland is the beginning of the end of American power and influence everywhere else.
The main conclusion we draw from all this is that the negotiators in Paris will be dealing with the realities when they make their first important subject of negotiation how, when and on what terms the American ground forces are to be withdrawn. Only if and when there is agreement on that will the way be open to the general question of peace with eastern Asia and in the Pacific.

Listening Eyes In A Soundless World

It is true that all of the great movements or accomplishments in the world today are the result of an idea conceived by one man. Inevitably he must have help, of course, but the first stirrings of life are the result of an idea by one individual. This was true of Rotary in the person of Paul Harris, its Founder. This is also true of the Amarillo Regional Hearing and Speech Foundation in the person of Rotarian Lowell Munday.

It is also true, that usually this idea is conceived through a personal experience or need. In the case of Rotary, it was loneliness experienced by Paul Harris in a large city; he wanted and needed friends in his life. In the case of the Amarillo Regional Hearing and Speech Foundation, it was Lowell Munday's grandson, who suffers from a severe impairment of his hearing ability.

Munday, with the dedicated help of his wife and other members of his family, started the ball to rolling by establishment of the Munday Family Foundation, which eventually was the beginning of the Amarillo Regional Hearing and Speech Foundation. Since that time, some six years ago, a number of people and organizations have stepped forward to lend a helping hand. Among these is the Rotary Club of Amarillo.

The primary function of the Amarillo Regional Hearing and Speech Foundation is the sponsorship of the Children's Hearing and Speech Center at 3108 S. Fillmore in Amarillo. This is one of five such facilities in the state of Texas. Here is where the pre-school age children are taught to communicate with other people in as near normal a fashion as possible. Thus it is, that by the time many of them are school age, they are able to go into regular classes for some courses, with special training needed only in a portion of the curriculum. By special legislation, the state participates in this pre-school training through the public school system. There are 42 hearing and speech handicapped children now receiving regular training at 3108 Fillmore. As the public becomes aware of this facility, the demand will increase. This is true because according to national averages, we are serving only a small portion of the children with hearing defects that live in our community. In addition to the Hearing and Speech Center, the Foundation is also helping to support an audiological testing laboratory at West Texas State University. This testing laboratory is recognized and approved by the State Health Department and is being used regularly by the Otolologists and MD's in this area. By having this laboratory right here, we are able to correctly evaluate the hearing loss of adults as well as children, and thus prescribe the proper aid to supplement whatever residual hearing ability they still retain.

In order for Rotary to grow as it has, and to reach out over the world, it has taken dedicated support from within and without. By the same token, Lowell Munday could dream and start the ball in motion, but it will take the help, both financially and physically, of a lot of people in order for the program to render all, or even a major part of, the service needed.

Also helping tremendously in the pre-school age program has been the Junior League of Women of Amarillo and the Micro Midget Club of Amarillo. In addition to helping financially, the Junior League women serve as volunteer assistants in the teaching of the children at the Center.

Perhaps one of the greatest blessings of living in the United States is that we have men like Lowell Munday who will dare to dream, but right along with it we have people and many organizations, that can and do open their eyes and their hearts to help see this dream come true.

COOKING FOR ONE

Those who live and eat alone may be tempted to live on snacks and hit-or-miss meals. To solve the dilemma and keep an eye on the food budget. Here are a few suggestions to help you.

A freezer of freezer compartment can help solve problems. Buy hamburger unfrozen and divide it into individual portions to freeze for future use. A pound will furnish one person with a small meat loaf that can reappear cold or as a hot sandwich with gravy. Canned consommé is handy for extending beef gravy if you run short.

Another portion, mixed with crumbs soaked in soya sauce and catsup, or a similar meat condiment, can be made into small balls, rolled in flour and frozen ready to fry later.

Meat sauce for spaghetti can be made in advance, or it can be combined with the cooked spaghetti and allowed to improve its flavor by standing overnight in the refrigerator. Or freeze it!

Individual steaks and chops also can be stored in the freezer.

For fruits and vegetables, special shears and knives can be bought for cutting frozen vegetable packages into individual servings. Most prepared foods are available in small cans, jars or small packages, too.

Frozen foods also come in individual packs--pies, tarts and casseroles. Scalloped or au gratin potatoes and similar mixes can be prepared in quantity, then divided into smaller portions and frozen. Small cereal packages keep better than large ones that have to be opened and closed repeatedly. However, food in larger boxes or packages may cost less an ounce than their smaller counterparts.

Milk is the original "convenience food." Just pour and drink or use with other foods.

It Was Fun

We, at the Journal Office, thought it would be in order to have a Mother's Day page, a tribute of Everybody's Mother.....so we began thinking of mothers.....mothers of several children.....or several generations of mothers.....pretty mothers.....sweet mothers.....new mothers.....or combinations of all these.

Appointments were made and in the process of getting the pictures made such delightful things happen, strengthening our feeling that there is a valid reason for celebrating Mother's Day.....also bringing a desire to share it with our readers... so, "Why Fight It?"

To pose a sparkly-eyed double for Kathy Lennon in an Easter-chick purple dress, made by a loving mother after a full time job in an office, and her beautiful sister and know of the religious training, the handknitted sweaters, the the carefully tailored dresses.....makes one wish all girls had such a mother.

To snap children and their mother, trying many times to get a picture that shows the beauty of the young mother, and finally choosing between this one or that... finding one which almost does justice to the mother and having her say, "But I'd rather have one that is good of the children".... "Isn't that why folk think MOTHERS are SPECIAL?"

When a six year old shows you the laboriously wrapped gift he has ready and waiting for Mother's Day, which he has purchased alone and "written down the numbers (the price, if you don't understand six-year-old-talk) and then consulted with his mother before purchasing the 'surprise'.... or when a four-year-old-girl, almost five, explains that she has "used up all the Ezy Bake" but that she helps her mother, and when even without words one can feel the mutual love and trust between children and their young mother.....it is a joy to have this assignment part of the job.

To have selected a mother and her children because absolutely everyone in the community speaks of her as "so sweet", and to try for a picture which will depict the beauty of the girls and the bounciness of the gentleman-to-be.....and in deciding which picture to use, to have one of the daughters say, "Well, I think we ought to let Mother decide-after all, she is the one being honored".....which would make one think the sweetness spilled over.... days like these make the job a pleasure.

We at Earth are counting our blessings this morning following a night of turmoil. Tornadoes are such tricky and destructive demons. We watched one go thru a part of our little town and take buildings down and some were damaged. When we think of what it could have been like, we are thankful. No one was hurt. One lady was so scared she collapsed, but she is fine today and resting in the Amherst Hospital. We are so thankful for people who are concerned. We had patrolmen, ambulances, Doctors, Nurses, and just plain people to help in case they were needed.

Espionage Necessarily Risky Business

BY PAUL HARVEY

There's nothing new about espionage. Since a harlot hid behind the curtains in Jericho, men of all nations have sought to keep a clandestine eye on potential enemies.

Today, with orbiting satellites and sophisticated electronic devices, surveillance of neighbors is possible from a considerable distance.

How much is enough distance?

Once upon a time it was believed that freedom of the seas ended within three miles of any nation's shoreline. With improved weapons, that territorial limit was extended to 12 miles out.

Recently, North Koreans seized one of our surveillance ships and shot down one of our "spy planes" more than 50 miles from their shores.

Americans are proud, instinctively indignant when a pipe-speak fourth-rate power sticks a thumb in our eye.

But if we intend to continue to engage in espionage, we are going to have to learn to accept the risks involved in such missions--as the crews of those ships and planes do themselves accept that risk.

We have all allowed ourselves to become emotionally wrought up over the indignity of un-won dead-end wars such as those in Korea and Vietnam. Thus unwarmed, we are ill-prepared to keep a "Pueblo incident" in proper perspective.

For that reason the men sitting in judgment on Comdr. Lloyd Bucher and his crew have already decided that their own careers are finished as a result of this experience. No matter which way they judge, the judges are finished. As a result, at least two of them have indicated they expect to retire in June.

Military traditionalists are immovable in their insistence that Bucher and his crew should have "gone down with the ship."

On the other hand, our more recent tendency toward leniency and compassion toward wrongdoing, per se, has diluted some of the old traditions--perhaps destroyed them.

Now we are inclined to temper what should be done with what is practical.

Now we are inclined to reject many of the old absolutes in the interests of political expediency.

Also, with a position of cataclysmic, potentially terminal power comes an awesome obligation to act with restraint. As State Secretary William Rogers put it, "The weak can be rash; the powerful must be restrained."

President Nixon has prescribed armed escort for future surveillance missions. He says the safety of our 56,000 men stationed in South Korea would be jeopardized without the intelligence these missions can provide.

Our President's restrained response suggests that from our involvements in Korea and Vietnam we may have learned a good lesson the hard way: that East and West are still twin. We are altogether as unwelcome over there as they would be over here.

Hopefully, disengagement from these and avoidance of future occupation obligations will negate the necessity for coastal snooping.

Then we can protect our merchant fleet with our entire arsenal, but rely on satellites for observation of potential enemies.

Editorial

The FEDS, Yet

Guest Editorial

A protest group of federal employees--the "Federal Employees for a Democratic Society"--has organized in Washington to join student radicals on the road to revolutionizing America.

Its first target is to be the antimissile program of the Nixon administration. However, this seems to be merely the first in a long series of operations to do for the federal government what the Students for a Democratic Society have done for higher education.

One of the purposes set forth in the articles of incorporation is "to secure consultative, participatory processes of planning and policy-making in the executive branch involving all levels of federal employees and all relevant segments of the national public."

At the risk of seeming irrelevant, we would like to point out that the Constitution and various other documents make ample provision for "consultative, participatory processes of planning and policy-making" in the executive--and, for that matter, in the legislative--branch.

The consultative process is called voting and the participatory process is called taxpaying. This combination is engaged in by a large number of people who are included in those relevant segments of the general public known as voters and taxpayers.

In last November's consultative process it was made fairly clear that many of those involved in the participatory process feel that entirely too much tax money is being spent on payrolls for federal employees. Concerned and socially conscious as they may be, the latter have become exceedingly expensive to support in their current numbers.

The FEDS recently discussed such problems as "dissent and policy" and "how to react to work-related moral conflicts." It would be hoped by many that those FEDS who dissent vigorously to the policies of their taxpayer-employers would resolve their work-related moral conflicts by quitting, thereby relieving both their consciences and the overburdened taxpayer at the same time.

STATE CAPITAL
Highlights
AND Sidelights
by Vern Sanford
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN, Tex.--When will the special session be? That's the big question around the state capital.

Legislative leaders defied Gov. Preston Smith by deciding to pass a one-year budget bill instead of the customary two-year plan. Reason given was to delay new taxation.

House Speaker Gus Mutscher announced the decision after two weeks of maneuvering and unsuccessful efforts to sell Governor Smith on the idea. Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, who had instigated the single-year budget tactic, of course concurred.

Smith has stated about as plainly as he can that he considers the Legislature obliged to pass a biennial budget and balancing revenue measures this week.

His implied threat of vetoing a one-year bill, however, went unheeded.

Many legislators, who have strong misgivings about the course charted by their leaders, are convinced Smith will call them back into session this summer to finish the budget-tax job, if they don't get the job done now.

The conflict could be long and bitter.

Barnes and Mutscher want Smith to wait until after the 1970 elections to call a special session on appropriations and taxation for 1971.

House-Senate conferees on the budget went to work this week to trim earlier 1970 spending recommendations by some $69 million in order that teachers can get a pay raise without a tax bill.

Mutscher is convinced this can be done while preserving a "sound, progressive" budget for the first year of the biennium.

"Needless to say," observed House appropriations Committee Chairman Rep. W.S. Healy of Paducah, "a lot of people are not going to get what they had hoped for."

BLITZ IS ON
With less than three weeks left in the regular legislative session, tempers are warming and floor action is steadily increasing.

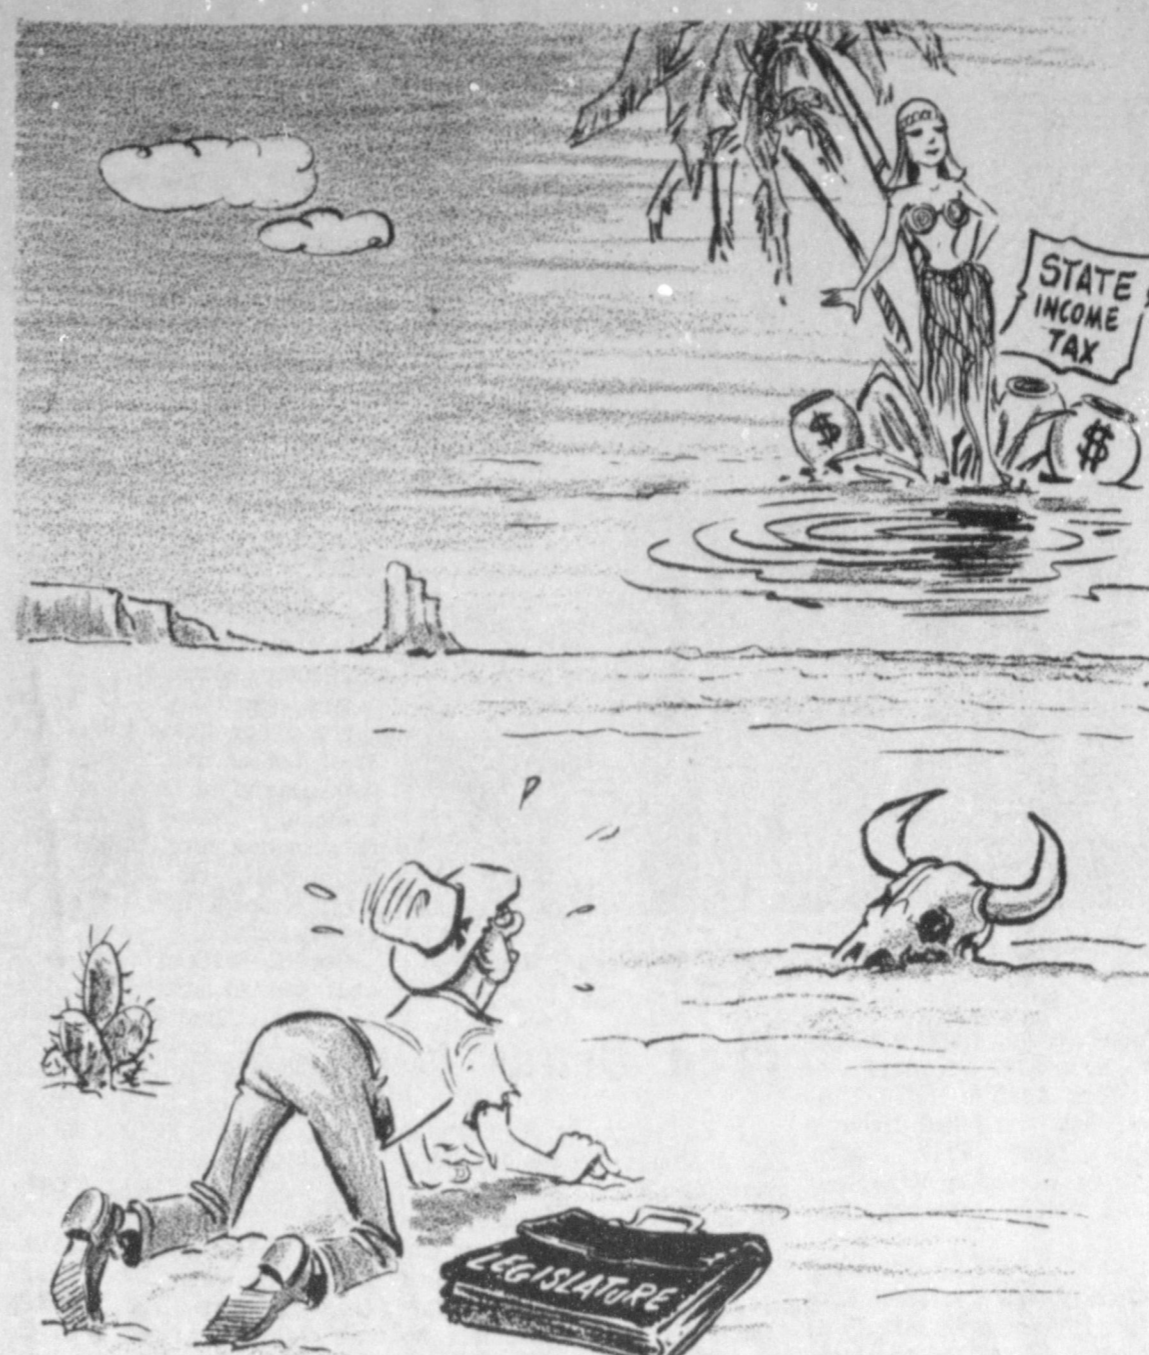

Governor Smith's desk rapidly is being covered with bills, and he is signing them at the rate of two dozen or more a day.

Among measures sent to Smith last week were a bilingual education act, permitting instruction in a language other than English on a local option basis; an obscenity control measure; and an act creating a new Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Standards and Education.

House voted to license and regulate bail bondsmen, to set up a professional teachers qualifications commission, add 25 cents to auto inspection fees and add exhaust systems to items checked annually.

Also to open juvenile court proceedings to the press when a minor previously charged with a felony; replace the disturbing-the-peace law invalidated by the US Supreme Court; recodify Texas education laws and provide a five-year prison term for selling narcotics to minors.

Senate approved state aid to cities and counties for cleaning and maintaining public beaches, new regulation of standards for the dental profession, a constitutional amendment to provide for a uniform method of assessing rural lands based on this yield, new qualifications for health and accident insurance agents, 22 additional district courts, and stiff punishment for false reports to police.

State Affairs Committee approved bills authorizing new medical schools in Houston, Lubbock and Austin, new nursing schools at El Paso and San Antonio, a University of Texas at Dallas and a dental school at a site to be determined by the UT board of regents.

EDUCATION GROUP FORMED
Texas Council for Higher Education in its first meeting threw its weight behind legislation to expand higher education, including state aid to private colleges and universities.

Blue ribbon 160-member group endorsed additional colleges "where warranted" and contracting for services of independent institutions. Although members differed over tuition increases, they passed a resolution calling on the legislature to determine an "equitable division of financial support between the state and those individuals directly benefitting from higher education."

Former Congressman Lloyd Bentzen Jr. of Houston heads the council.

COURTS SPEAK
Merchants have a right to believe that a person presenting a credit card is the lawful owner. So held the Texas

Supreme Court in a case involving a Lubbock man's disclaimer of a $1,335 bill to Sears Roebuck as the result of stolen card.

Brady radio station had the right to refuse an advertisement for the movie "The Graduate," says the Third Court of Civil Appeals.

Same court ordered a trial on suit to keep Railroad Commission from enforcing 1962 shipping rates for steel pipe and wrought iron.

Overturning lower courts, the State Supreme Court ordered a new trial in a Potter County suit charging a doctor with medical negligence.

High court said residential deed restrictions do not prohibit duplexes in an area.

Supreme Court will hear arguments June 4 on whether sales by an El Paso firm to two men in Mexico were exempt from state sales taxes in international wholesale transactions.

DRAFT CALL DOWN AGAIN
June draft call for Texas is 1,366, down from 1,453 in May, Col. Morris S. Schwartz, State Selective Service director, has announced.

Figure is the state's share of 25,900-man national quota. A total of 8,202 will be forwarded for armed forces pre-induction physical and mental examinations next month in preparation for future calls, Schwartz said. Total for May was 8,234. June call-up is the lowest since January when 1,363 were on slate.

APPOINTMENTS
Governor Smith withdrew nomination of Dr. Emerson

Emory of Dallas to State Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation because Emory is committed to accept a state salaried job as a physician.

Martin Holter, formerly of Lockhart, has been appointed director of accounting for the Liquor Control Board, succeeding Kenneth W. Cook who was promoted to assistant administrator of LCB.

Smith reappointed Robert Leon of Austin to the board of trustees of the Teacher Retirement System. Members also selected Nat Williams of Lubbock and Willard Houser of Austin to the same board.

Wildlife Department Now Hiring GMO's

AUSTIN -- Exciting, outdoor jobs are getting fewer and fewer, but there are some left for men who want more out of life than four walls and fluorescent lighting.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is now accepting applications for game management officers, a job which offers the lucky fellows who are selected a career in conservation in the great outdoors.

As GMO's these men are charged with the enforcement of the game laws. But that's just part of their job. They spend a good bit of their time in educating young and old alike on the reason for the game laws and conservation.

The myriad of duties of the GMO requires good training, and they get it. The one semester Game Management Officer Training School at Texas A&M University is considered one of the best in the nation.

Because the Department wants the best men available for the job, requirements are tough before the applicant is even considered for the job. He must be between 21 and 40 years old and in good physical condition. He must have a high school education and be able to fare well on a competitive written examination.

Those selected will be at least 5'8" in their stocking feet, and their weight will be proportional to their height. They will have at least 20/40 uncorrected vision correctable to 20/20 vision.

Applicants must be of good moral character and habits which bear scrutiny.

Those interested in a career as a GMO should fill out an application for employment at the nearest Parks and Wildlife office or write to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas 78701, for an application blank.
