MONEY TO LEND.

Representing two Scotch companies and two large old line insurance companies with almost unlimited funds for investment, and also a very large number of private investors, I am now prepared to make ranch and farm loans of any size, or to purchase vendor's lien notes. Securities and titles passed on by this office. Money paid over at once, with no red tape. We are very anxious to obtain a large number of loans for the funds we have to invest.

FIRE DESTROYS FARMER'S BARN.

Two-story Structure on Rock Farm With Contents Total Loss.

Late yesterday evening fire destroyed the big two-story barn on the W. E. Rock irrigated farm eight miles down the Nueces. The barn was filled to the roof with baled cane, milo maise, corn and other farm products and the loss was complete. There was no insurance.

The fire broke out in the upper story but as to how it originated is not known. At the time Claud and Jesse Rock were hauling and stacking baled cane in the barn. The upper floor had been filled and they were working below when smoke above attracted their attention. The fire spread rapidly and in a very short time covered every part of the building. Neighbors hurried to the scene and assisted in preventing the flames from spreading to the dwelling and large stacks of hay which were located only a few rods away. The stacks were covered with heavy wagon sheets and a stream of water played on them. Fortunately no wind was blowing or the results would have been more disastrous.

This farm has been supplying the local trade with an excellent quality of canned tomatoes and cans, the entire year that had not been sold.

Resolutions of Respect.

To W. M. and Wardens of Cotulla Lodge of A. F. & A. M. No. 892, we your committee appointed to draft resolutions in regard to the death of Bro. C. B. Gillispie, report as follows:

Whereas: The grim monster, Death, has again invaded our ranks and removed from our midst our dear brother, C. B. Gillispie, to that bourn from which no traveler has returned. And

Whereas, Masonry has lost one of its brilliant jewels, the church an exemplary Christian gentleman and the country a Patriot; his wife a devoted husband, and children a beloved parent. Therefore,

Resolved, that the sudden removal of such a man from our midst leaves a vacancy and shadow that will be deeply realized by this lodge, the church and community.

Resolved: That we extend to the bereaved wife and children our heartfelt sympathy and express an earnest hope that when the Supreme Architect calls the grand lodge above to order, that our lives will be so ordered that we will meet Bro. Gillispie, and emulate his virtues and receive his memory.

That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the her family; the Cotulla Record publication and that a prayer be set apart for our minutes be set apart for memory.

When School Begins

Alice M. Ashton

So many of our country mothers are bemoaning the fact that their children lack the educational advantages of the district school.

is little, indeed, in the away, small school room to arouse enthusiasm in either pupils or teacher. Usually the new teacher is young and inexperienced, her greatest asset being her desire to make a success of her new work. She finds a box of a school house scorched by the rays of a summer sun, or penetrated by draughts of winter cold. Not infrequently she must build her own fires in the cranky old sheet iron stove, and sweep the dusty school room. To a girl accustomed to modern school buildings and janitors, this condition of affairs is astounding, and has a dampening effect upon her ardor. She finds it difficult, too, to arouse the children to their best endeavor when competition is almost impossible. And when weeks pass without a word or sign of interest or encouragement from the parents, is it any wonder that the little teacher grows listless and drooping and anxious for school to close?

But surely the country mother, with her multitudinous duties, cannot be held responsible for this? I only wish mothers realized more fully their wonderful influence and capability!

Dear sisters, whose hearts are yearning over the welfare of your children, I have been first a country teacher, and then a country woman, and I know whereof I speak. You cannot build an imposing school house, you cannot afford to hire a janitor, but you can make your school as much a success as the average town school.

When the new teacher comes into your midst—or perchance it will be the old one—call upon her at once; do not let work, or pleasure, or diffidence keep you away. Then invite her to your home by a genuine specified invitation—no matter if your home is but simple and poor. Occasionally you will find a girl who will emphasize her supposed superiority over you, but the average country teacher is very human, and not infrequently very lonely and homesick! Once the ice is broken, entertaining the teacher will cease to be a dread, and you will derive genuine pleasure in occasionally inviting her to your home or including her in some of your pleasures. When the school is thoroughly organized, visit it some afternoon and walk home with the children. Watch how the teacher conducts her classes—this knowledge will help you vastly when the children ask you questions regarding their lessons. Examine the children's work and let them see you are interested. Observe the room critically and talk with the teacher about the improvements she is so much desiring. See if the new blackboard she has asked for is not really a necessity after all. Surely a couple of hours spent each month in this way is a small matter compared to the

How can this be? The pupils are no longer mere automatons to this new teacher, but real children whose parents are vitally interested in their welfare. The parents are real friends to whom she may go with her difficulties and her aspirations. School suddenly becomes an important thing to the children because mother or is interested and is liable to come at any time to witness the progress.

And mark you, this costs nothing, but a very little time and interest. It costs nothing to help the little teacher plant trees and shrubs on the unattractive grounds. It costs nothing to make the children believe they have a good school and a good teacher—even though you may not wholly believe in your self—for many minds of this opinion will usually bring it to pass. Teach the children that it is a privilege to help keep the schoolhouse and grounds in order, that the absence of a janitor may not be felt.

You will find this benefits yourself, also. Some of the wheels of your mental mechanism not in frequent use will begin to turn again; you will be interested in new books and methods, in educational journals, and mother's magazines. Many dissatisfactions arising from misunderstandings regarding the school management will be removed, and you will be closer to your children in this added interest.

Conditions will not be ideal, to be sure, but they are seldom that in the town schools, and it is possible to do excellent grade work in the little schools of the country.

MEN BECOME CANNIBALS

Famishing Chinese Believed to Have Killed and Eaten Soldiers Guarding Rice.

SHANGHAI, China, Oct. 8.—Fifty Chinese soldiers who set out with a wagon train of rice from Ning Po to relieve some of the hundreds of thousands of starving persons in the district recently swept by a typhoon, have disappeared, and it is believed they were killed and eaten. A missionary returning from the Ngen river valley reports that famishing men and women have been turned to cannibals by starvation. Floods which followed the typhoon washed away crops and destroyed live stock.

LEAVES MAN HALF SHAVED SENORITAS FIGHT A DUEL

Tosses Razor Out of Window and Hurries Away When Told of $30,000 Inheritance.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Oct. 8.—Only one man had reason to regret that Joseph Naymalis, a Haverhill barber, inherited $30,000. Naymalis was shaving Jerry Waite when a postman brought him a special delivery letter telling of his good fortune.

Naymalis tossed his razor out of the window, threw his barber's coat into a waste basket and left his customer half shaved. He didn't even say "good-bye." The money was left him by an uncle. Naymalis immediately packed his valise and left for Indiana, where he hopes to enter the State University. And Jerry Waite had to go to another shop to have the other side of his face shaved.

Former Missionaries Share Privations and Hardships.

Jamestown, N. D., Oct. 8.—Sharing privations and hardships with her husband, Mrs. K. W. Shepp was found in a box car in the Northern Pacific Railroad yards here.

She and her husband were traveling from South Dakota to Idaho, and had intended going the entire distance in the car in which they had loaded their few belongings. Cold weather, however, made the trip hard, and they were suffering greatly because of their scant protection from the elements.

Both are more than 60 years old. They were former missionaries.

THE BEST COFFEE EVER MADE to sell for 35c pound. "EL MERITO" Coffee.

With Stilettoes, Senoritas Battle to the Finish for Love of a Bull Fighter; Loser Limp to Hospital.

MEXICO CITY, Mex., Oct. 8.—In the city hospital under guard lies La Carolina Arellano, the victim of a duel with stilettoes fought on a lonely road near here, and in a cell in jail is Maria Gonzales, her adversary. Their duel was the outgrowth of a romance in theatrical and bull fight circles, each of the fair senoritas having striven to win the affections of Carlos Garcia, a gold-spangled knight of the cape.

In desperation when she thought she was losing the love of the bull fighter, Maria proposed the duel, to which La Carolina assented. In the early morning hours they journeyed to the "Calzada de Tlalpam," the scene of a recent mysterious murder. Here they fought until Carolina fell to the ground, slashed in a dozen places, and weak from the loss of blood. The victorious Maria, according to the police, proceeded to relieve the defeated rival of mantilla and other portions of her clothing which looked good. The police learned of the duel when La Carolina, blood-stained and scantily clad limped into the city. It is believed she will recover.

"Billy Seldom Writes" From the Mormon Land.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 30
—Through the kindness of a dear friend I was presented with a ticket via Salt Lake City to attend the National Irrigation Congress, thence home via San Diego, Cal., Phoenix, Ariz., and El Paso, Texas. At these places I am expected to gather such information that pertains to irrigation. Inasmuch as I cannot enumerate my friend for his kindness I will tell your readers something of the trip across the continent. My first stop was at Weatherford, Texas, where I met a norther which made me regret that I had worn my summer clothes. North of town I spent one night with my mother, paying my filial affections to her and receiving her blessings before starting across the divide.

Leaving Ft. Worth over the Denver is one continuous climb all the way and the crops are fine. The Northern part of the Panhandle and through New Mexico they have the best and practically the only crops in the last ten years. Beyond the Panhandle to the North I saw what I thought was a big black cloud, but was told it was the Rocky mountains. It was here that I began to see things. At one place I could look into the cab window and turn my head and see passengers in the observation car. The road bed made what appeared to me a short letter S.

At Pueblo trains from other points came and we were made into three sections. That evening we passed through the Royal Gorge in the Grand canyon of the Arkansas, where the granite walls rise 2,600 feet almost perpendicular. The imagination staggers when it undertakes to contemplate the mighty forces that made the crevices in that rock. Pen nor the painter's brush has ever described the grandeur and sublimity of the scene. The river rushes and tumbles over rock, roaring like a train that has its roadbed hewn out of rock. At one point Canyon City takes its city water out and carries it along the rock walls through a big wooden pipe which in some places is swung to the walls by bolts. At other places a bed has been blasted out for the pipe to rest in. The gorge at one place is only 10 feet wide and to build a bridge for railroad it was necessary to swing it under beams like rafters of a house.

From this point on continues a scene of rock and mountain with not as much land as there is in Black's ranch along the route until you pass through Castle gate guarding the entrance to Price River, Utah, on either side stands two boulders, one reaching 500 feet and the other 450 in height.

It is said that here Brigham Young viewed the promised land.

Late yesterday evening we entered Salt Valley, where the first white man irrigated the desert. When Brigham Young came here they were offered $1,000 for the first bushels of wheat or ear of corn. The money was raised by a doubting cowman who said he was raised here and had never seen anything grow here. I think he has some relatives living in the Nueces Valley.

The city is decorated beautifully and banners of WELCOME are plenty.

BILLY SELDOM.

FREE SCHOLARSHIP IN THE SCHOOL OF YOUR CHOICE

The Tyler Commercial College of Tyler, Texas, is positively the only business college in the state which teaches a through course of practical, modern bookkeeping and business training. Other schools teach theoretical bookkeeping; some of them call it actual business, but it is not. The commercial room of the Tyler Commercial College is a community of business houses of various kinds, Banks, Wholesale, Commission, Real Estate, Retail, Insurance, etc. Each student is engaged in real, active business, learning to do by doing. Every entry made by the students during his entire course is originated by an actual sale or purchase; it may be grain, it may be groceries, dry goods, real estate or stock in corporation but the transaction is really performed, and every paper required in the transaction, whether check, note, draft, receipt, mortgage deed or what not, is filled out by the student; contracts of partnership are drawn up and agreed upon between the parties forming the partnership; articles of incorporation are drawn up. Through these practical methods the student learns business as well as bookkeeping; they learn how to meet another face to face and transact business in a business way, instead of copying theoretical transactions from a text book, as is done in every other commercial school in the state. It takes more teaching force and better teachers to teach our systems and methods; our teachers are not only teachers of Bookkeeping, but they must be well informed on business customs. When a student learns to do a thing by actually doing it he learns it thoroughly, and with our practical, face to face business methods we are able to give both bookkeeping and business training in less time than he could possibly get the theory, or so-called practical bookkeeping alone in other schools.

We will give a free scholarship in the school of your choice to any one finding another school in this state teaching both bookkeeping and business thru practical business transactions as we do. Similar practical methods are used in teaching Shorthand, Typewriting and Telegraphy. We believe in learning to do in the school room that which you must do when going into the business world, and it is this policy that has made the Tyler Commercial College of Tyler, Texas, the largest school of its kind in America.

Write for catalogue, telling how we teach Telegraphy, the Bryne Practical Bookkeeping-Business Training, and the famous Bryne Simplified Shorthand.

Resolutions of Respect.

As the Grim Reaper, Death, has passed this way and taken from our midst our beloved sister, Ida Mae Lacy, therefore be it resolved:

That the order of the Eastern Star has lost one of our faithful members, whose loss will be greatly felt.

Resolved: that we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family, commending to them the sustaining power of a loving God. May they look away from material things unto the glorious awakening where the union will be complete.

Resolved: that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Record, and be published in the Record, and spread upon the minutes of the Order of the Eastern Star.

The non-resident owners of the buildings on the corner of Front and Center streets sent a man down to see about remodeling the front soon after the sidewalk was put in but nothing further has been done. The steps protrude several feet on the sidewalk and are dangerous obstructions, especially at night. It seems that action of the council will be necessary before a move will be made.

Letter to B. Wildenthal Cotulla, Texas.

Dear Sir: A few years ago, a New York daily got up a great agitation for dollar gas, and got it. The state passed the law, and the people liked it, of course, till the bills came in. The bills were bigger, not less; the law didn't say what the gas should be.

The price of a gallon of honest paint is $2.25; but there's "paint" all the way from 35 cents to $2.25. A popular price is $1.25. There are scores of paint at that price. Like dollar gas.

If $2.25 is the price of a gallon of honest paint, you may be sure there are scores of "paint" at all prices from that down, with paint enough in them to pass for paint. And what are you going to do about it?

It takes from $2 to $4 a gallon to pay the painter for doing his work. It is worth while to pay $2 to $4 a gallon for brushing on paint half white wash?

No; the expense of that extra and useless labor makes counterfeited paint cost more than true. The remedy is Devco. There are eight honest paints; Devco is the strongest one of the eight.

Yours truly
F. W. Devco & Co.

WHY NOT GET A GUARANTEE?

Every Article of Merit that is Sold These Days is Guaranteed—No Guarantee Often Means Poor Quality

There is very little excuse for any person to claim that he has been "stung" on a purchase. Fifty years ago the buyer had to look out, put today it is unusual to find a merchant who will not return the money for any article that has proved unsatisfactory. An excellent example of this kind of fair dealing is shown by the clear-cut guarantee that Gaddis' Pharmacy gives on Dodson's Liver Tonic.

These people tell us that any person who pays 50c. for a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic and most pleasant liver tonic, harmless, but a sure reliever of constipation and a perfect substitute for calomel, can get his money back just as quick as they can get it out of the money drawer.

Dodson's Liver Tonic has practically taken the place of calomel. It is absolutely harmless, sure in its action and causes no restriction of habit or diet. No wonder the drug people are glad to guarantee it, while other remedies that imitate the claims of Dodson's Liver Tonic are not guaranteed at all.

THE BERMUDA FARM IS PRIDE OF LA SALLE COUNTY.

The Record man goes sight-seeing and finds the farm unrivaled in beauty of arrangement by any truck farm in famed California. The editor of The Record has heard so much lately about the developments being made on the Bermuda Farm that he made a personal inspection of it one day this week.

The Bermuda Farm lies about four miles southeast of Cotulla on the Nueces River. It derives its name from the beautiful and far-famed Bermuda Onion. Mr. D. A. Walker is the owner and operator and is in charge of the crop now being put in.

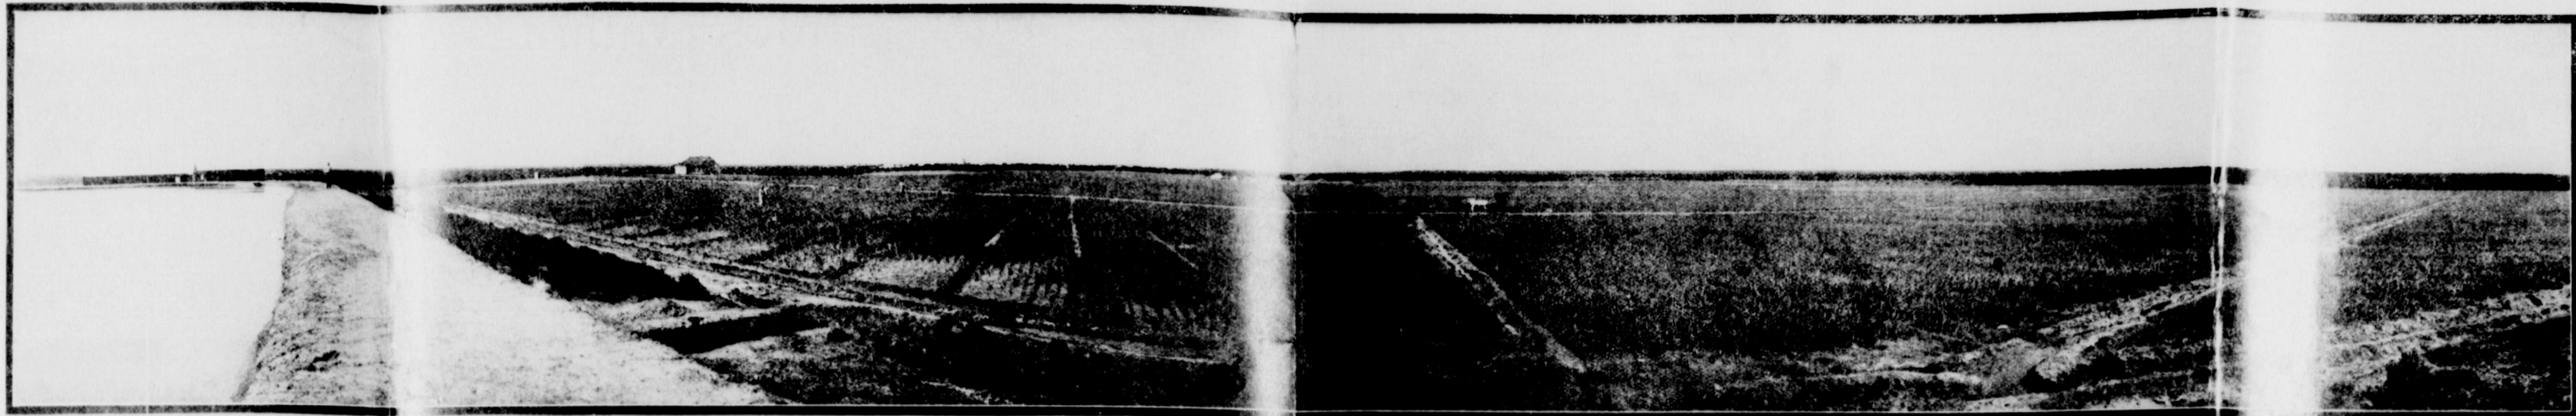

There are few, if any, farms in this section more attractive than the Bermuda Farm. It reminds one of the well-developed irrigated farms of Southern California. The land lies so perfect and the preparation of the soil by the superintendent, Mr. J. L. Hill, is beyond criticism.

There is now planted and growing fifteen acres of seed bed of Bermuda Onions, from which sets will be grown sufficient to transplant 150 acres of Bermuda Onions, which will be ready for transplanting some time in November. Mr. Walker, in co-operation with his superintendent, has adopted the border and bed style for the growing of onions, and the lay of the borders and beds is such that water can be carried from the big reservoir in a very short time for the irrigation of the crop. Around the reservoir and along the ditches and flumes there will be set out Magnolia Fig trees. There is over 80 acres of this farm in a high state of cultivation.

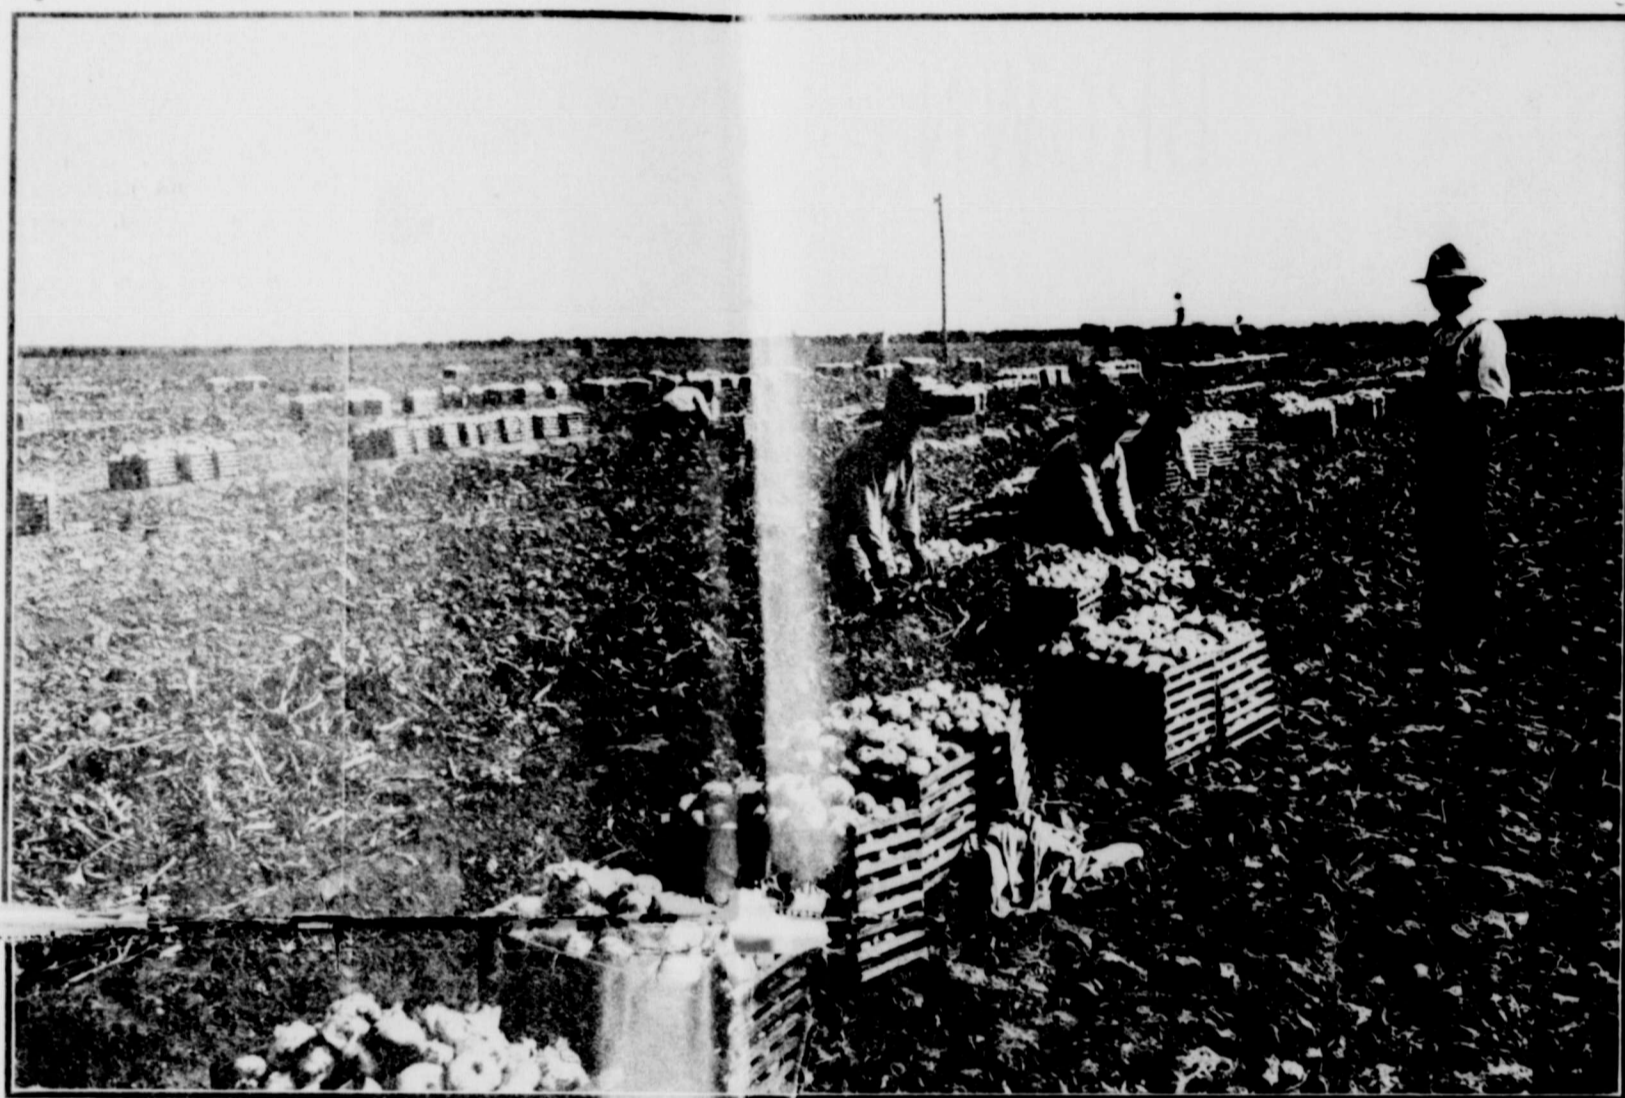

The improvements consist of a large pumping plant at the river, from which water is pumped into the large reservoir, which has a capacity of 5,000,000 gallons, where the water is stored for irrigation purposes. This reservoir has an average depth of about 15 feet, and has four outlets from which 25 inches of water can be taken out at one time. There has been erected across the Nueces River a dam, built of concrete and masonry work, 200 feet wide, 18 feet high, and 12 feet thick, located at the pumping plant, which backs the water at an 18 foot depth for practically five miles up the river, which impounds millions of cubic feet of water. This dam is constructed so that a four-mile team can be driven across same.

Another thing we saw on this model farm, that all progressive truck farmers need, was a spacious onion or packing shed, 40x60x10 feet, so built as to give ample ventilation for the storing of onions and other truck crops during the harvesting season. More than 12,000 crates of Bermuda onions were harvested and shipped from this farm this season.

There are now growing on this farm 15 acres of solid onion sets, the finest that can be seen in this section. Cotulla is fortunate in having a man like Mr. Walker, and a few more developers like him would soon make this the most important truck growing section in the State. He not only knows how to improve in the most substantial way, but is actually doing it. Nothing is done at haphazard, but every improvement is done substantially and as good as skilled labor can do it. Mr. Walker is the largest individual grower and shipper of onions in Texas. His crop for the past season consisted of 150 carloads of approximately 75,000 bushel-crates of Bermuda Onions. He has already planted this season 1,110 pounds of Bermuda Onion seed on his various farms, covering 40 acres of land, which will grow sufficient onion sets to transplant 400 acres of Bermuda Onions.

APPOINTED BY GOVERNOR TO REPRESENT TEXAS.

D. A. Walker will Attend National Irrigation Congress at Salt Lake City.

D. A. Walker has received a commission from Governor Colquhoun to represent the State of Texas at the National Irrigation Congress, which meets at Salt Lake City, Utah, September 30th to October 4th. Mr. Walker is one of the largest developers in this part of the State. He is the owner of the Bermuda Farm on the Nueces, just below Cotulla—one of the best improved farms in the valley—besides other valuable properties in this section. The past season he shipped 150 carloads, or approximately, 75,000 crates of Bermuda onions. Mr. Walker is well versed in matters of irrigation, and will make our great Commonwealth an able representative at the National Congress.—Cotulla Record, August 17, 1912.

HARVESTING ONIONS.

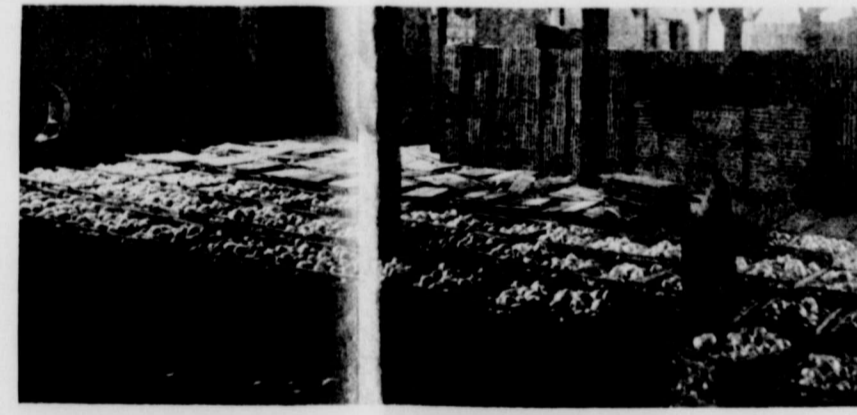

MAKES NEW ONION RECORD.

D. A. Walker Gathers 909 Crates From a Single Acre—Sends Big Ones to Chicago.

D. A. Walker, telephone magnate and onion grower and who also might be classed as some of the new blood in Texas, has made a record in onions. Not only has he raised some of the largest onions in Southwest Texas, but he has also broken the record for quantity as far as the productivity of a single acre is concerned.

From one of his many acres in onions he gathered 909, fifty-six pound crates, and had the ditches not been counted in on that acre Mr. Walker is confident, if it had been a solid acre of land, it would have produced approximately 1,200 crates of the vegetable. Mr. Walker's record for big onions is fifty-four onions filling a 56-pound crate.

To remove all doubts concerning the productiveness of the lands on Mr. Walker's farm, he had surveyors lay out the acre from which the 909 crates were gathered and then had four reputable men witness the packing of the crates.—San Antonio Daily Express.

SHIPPING SHED AT COTULLA, TEXAS, ON THE L. & G. N. RAILROAD.

The Nile of America

The Bermuda Onion industry in Southwest Texas has far outstripped that of any other country, the Bermuda Islands not excepted, and to substantiate this claim the facts may be produced.

The Bermuda Islands will produce about 200,000 crates of Bermuda Onions this season, while Southwest Texas will produce about 1,500,000 bushel-crates, or about 4,000 cars.

The crop for last season was marketed through The Southern Texas Truck Growers' Association, with headquarters at San Antonio, Texas, and the report covering the returns have not yet been compiled, but it is estimated that last season's crop brought returns to the growers of more than $2,000,000.00.

The Bermuda Onion is making the district around Cotulla, on the Nueces River, in La Salle County, Texas, where the industry is carried on extensively, the most prosperous community in the United States, as this section is recognized as the centre of the Bermuda Onion district.

DESCRIPTION OF 900 ACRES OF LAND AT COTULLA, TEXAS, FOR SALE OR WILL JOIN WITH PART IN DEVELOPING SAME.

This land lies in La Salle County, Texas, fronting on the Nueces River, about 4 1/2 miles southeast of Cotulla and extending back to the public road. This tract has nearly one mile frontage on the Nueces River. The land slopes back into a broad level valley covered with white brush and mesquite timber and the land on which this white brush grows is the best land we have and will grow in abundance any crop planted.

The entire tract is subject to irrigation from the river and is suitable for the growing of the Bermuda Onions, as well as grapes, peaches, plums, mulberries, figs, oranges, lemons, cabbage, corn, cotton, alfalfa, and all other varieties of fruit and truck. The tract is the best located and one of the finest irrigation propositions on the river.

Cotulla, the county seat of La Salle County, has a population of about 2,500, of which about 1,000 are Mexicans, among whom cheap labor can be obtained. Cotulla is situated on the L. & G. N. railroad, a through trunk line running from the north to Mexico, which also has a branch road running from Cotulla southeast along the river for about 1 1/2 miles, the terminus of which is within three miles of the tract of land described above, and arrangements are now being made for the extension of this branch road to intersect with this tract of land, so the railroad facilities for shipping the crops grown on this land will be at the point of production.

This land is fenced and cross-fenced, and 250 acres are cleared, ready for the plow. This would make a splendid colonization proposition. This tract of lands adjoins the Bermuda Farm.

Correspondence solicited regarding this tract of land or the Bermuda Farm.

"Hope makes us strong," the poet sings,
And since it's so, we see
How optimistical a thing
An onion ought to be.

John Barley and Budweiser got a considerably jolt down at Alice, progressive Alice—close to Ben Bolt.

The Democratic campaign managers say that the only thing that will defeat Wilson in November will be overconfidence of the people. Many elections have been lost by over confidence.

Where towns grow and prosper there is always a reason. That reason nine times out of ten, is co-operation. When the people work together and pull together and are wide awake, there is bound to be results.

Devine precinct in Medina county voted a bond issue for building their part of the San Antonio-Laredo highway. Frio county will vote on an $80,000 bond issue for good roads soon. The road building spirit is in the land.

San Antonio is making great preparations for the Harvest Jubilee which will attract thousands from all over Southwest Texas. The harvest has been beautiful this year. The management is arranging for many attractive features.

Did you know that the successful fellow is the man who makes sure before he goes ahead, and then sticks to what he starts? Sometimes it is tiresome pounding on the same proposition but the road to success is not always strewn with roses.

Had it occurred to you that election day is less than a month off? Down in this part of the country there is very little excitement over the presidential campaign, nine-tenths of the people take it for granted Wilson will be the next president, and the other tenth confident of victory for the Bull Moose.

Since the sweeping political change in San Antonio the old city is getting out of the "kinks" and discarding her "manana" ways. New life seems to have taken hold of things and under control of the progressives will be a different city in another two years. The women are playing part in making the city new and beautiful. They can always be counted on for this and in many ways they are taking the lead.

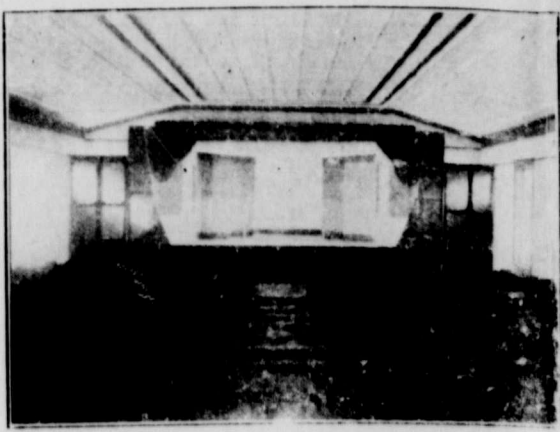

A few months ago the pastures in the prairie portions of the country were overidden with jack-rabbits. There were thousands of them and it is said they devoured more grass than the cattle that stocked the pasture. It had begun to be a serious problem to the ranchmen but it seems that nature has taken care of the situation. Jack rabbits can't stand wet weather and the continued rains through April, May and June of this year killed them nearly all out. It is said that very few jack rabbits are to be found on the prairie now.

INTERIOR HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM.

Everybody is praising over newly constructed sidewalks on Front and Center streets. We need more, and we will be glad to see the day come when the walk on the South block of Front street is ordered lowered.

Texas expects to produce close to five million bales of cotton this season, leading all states of the Union, yet only 5 per cent of her area is planted in cotton. We produce a fraction over one-fifth, or to be exact, 21 per cent of the world's supply.

Galveston leads the world in cotton exportation. Figures recently issued by the Department of Commerce and Labor shows the Texas port sent out more cotton than both Savannah and New Orleans, her nearest competitors, and more than 26 other ports combined.

The local trade is now supplied with home packed tomatoes, put up by W. E. Rock & Sons at their irrigated farm down the Nueces. The product is said to excel the brands shipped in flavor and the grocery houses are now having requests from their patrons for "Rock Tomatoes."

The demand for hogs this year is very great on account of the immense feed crop that was raised all over this section. Farmers and stockmen are rounding up all they can find to fatten and are paying high prices. On the Ft. Worth market last week hogs sold for 9 cents per pound.

The Record would be glad to give space for contributions from citizens relative to the town's needs and suggestions as to how to induce active co-operation among all the people. Next week we will start a column "Voice of the People," and we want you to make public your views about town development.

The ladies civic league of Cotulla just organized will start a systematic clean up of the town soon. Pearsall has a ladies civic club and that town is contesting for the cleanest town in the state. We trust the women will be given proper recognition, and if such is accorded them the town will undergo some needed changes.

When "court week" rolls 'round now the scenes are quite different to what they were in days of yore when the gun man and cattle rustler reigned. In those days court week brought numerous witnesses and lawyers to town. Sometimes the defendants showed up and sometimes they didn't. Red liquor flowed freely and trouble between factions frequently occurred. The advance of the 'man with the hoe' has changed things and court week nowadays is a very tame affair. We doubt if there is a more law-abiding county in Texas than La Salle.

The action of the ladies in organizing a civic league will mean a great deal to the town, for the women of Cotulla never do things by halves. Had this movement been made long ago we dare say there would be more trees and beautiful yards than there is today, and the town would be cleaner. However the eleventh hour is better than the twelfth, and we predict the fruits of their labors will be very much in evidence in a short time.

At Sandy Devil Island

By Chas. Warren

The room was very still. In one corner where the president sat working at a table, a ship's binnacle light suspended over his head threw a glare on the heaps of papers in front of him. There was no other light in the room except the brilliant orange flame of the great fire of Southern pine logs.
Leland was seated astride a bench, scrupulously cleaning a gun and peering through the barrel at the fire, as if this, and not the law, was his real occupation in life. A gun rack was on the wall behind him, a stack of neatly cased fishing rods leaning up against it. A huge rough-hewn stone fireplace spread nearly the whole width of the room and along its face a splendid tarpon glittered. Over the door streamed a yacht's pennant and a private signal. Lounging chairs, small tables, and skins were everywhere about the room, as if tossed carelessly into it. Archie Morgan, "the Major," was untangling a mess of fishing lines. Tronde, the Great Actor, was stretched out magnificently on a long, low, canvas-bottomed chair, while at his side accessible to the least possible effort, stood a small table bearing several siphons, a bottle of Scotch whiskey, a glass jar of cigars, and a large oyster-shell heaped up with ashes and butts.
For ten minutes no remark had disturbed the silence except a rumbling ejaculation from the actor: "You don't know what solid comfort this is, Brighton, after six days of that cranky, wobbly yacht of Leland's."
The statement had received no answer, for Brighton, the owner of this hunting-box on Sandy Devil Island, was out of the room at the time. The other members of the Waifs' Club too lazy to ind...

time before drawing out, "I've seen worse. Might be some up Lone Pine Creek way. Ain't the other fellows coming?"
"No; they are too fond of their sleep to start off at this hour."
The president stepped down into the boat, looking curiously at the decoys which covered the bottom. Jake handed down the guns, after examining them with a somewhat languid interest. Then with great deliberation he crawled down the piles, fell off into the cockpit, lit his pipe, crossed his leg over the tiller and slowly shook out the sail.
"I told 'em up yonder," he said, pointing to the hunting box, "I'd take yer north over Rice Beach way, but I'd reckon ez the birds'll be up that this morning; so we'll beat down over toward the Crik. We'll knock down more'n a dozen thar."
The president nodded and looked satisfied at the tone of confidence. The man evidently knew what he was about.
The pale yellow spread around the rim of the boat, and a deep purple splashed with golden shafts, illuminated it. The water began to sparkle and grow bluer and bluer. The wind sent the waves tumbling and foaming higher along the sand. The white sail grew smaller and smaller, as the boat zigzagged across the channel between Sandy Devil Island and the coast of the mainland, and finally dropped out of sight behind a tree-covered point.
At 8 o'clock that morning the major drifted downstairs and with absolute recklessness of time slowly ate his breakfast. An hour later Leland and Brighton appeared on the scene, and Tronde strolled carelessly into the room just as the ship's chronometer on the wall was striking four bells.
During the morning the major and Leland, taking the steam launch belonging to the yacht, "the Condor," drifted in to save off the end of the island and pretended to fish energetically. The actor said he "pussed he'd fish in a tall glass and catch as much," and at once ordered his chair and a table to be brought out upon the piazza in the sun and a siphon to be placed within easy reach.
After lunch, as the afternoon passed away, the wind began to freshen and veered from the east. The sea outside and even the channel between the mainland and the island lost its gleam and grew dark and sullen, spotted with myriad whitecaps.
"The president'll get well shaken up coming across this afternoon in a sailboat," said the major. "See the Condor pitch," he pointed to the yacht which was lying off the island.
"We'll have a nice rough trip, all right," he said tonight. Leland remarked that the Condor's bow gave a particularly vicious plunge.
The actor groaned. "What amazing idiotic imbeciles are they that go down to the sea in boats," he murmured.
At about half-past five o'clock the island had become thick and black and the sun had entirely disappeared.
Brighton was pacing up and down the piazza with his watch in his hand, looking across the channel to the north. He felt a little puzzled to know why no sail appeared, coming from the direction of Rice Beach.
"However, they are probably having so good sport they don't notice the weather or the time," he said to himself, and went in to join the other men.
An hour and a half had grown almost totally dark. Brighton scanned the waters with a field glass as best he could. The major joined him.
"Where the devil is the president?" he asked.
Brighton shook his head. "If he doesn't get back pretty soon," he replied, "I think we'd better take the launch and look him up."
The major whistled as he noted the height of the waves.
At seven o'clock the president had appeared. All four men were by this time extremely nervous. Brighton raked his brains for possible reasons for the president's delay in returning. Most unpleasant explanations kept forcing themselves upon him.
At eight o'clock he could stand the uncertainty no longer.
"Report," he said to Leland. "I think the 'major' and I will drop over to the mainland in the launch and see if anything has happened."
At this the actor became energized for the first time that day. "I'm going, too," he insisted. "As a sportsman I am to see what a president hunt is like."
The others did not laugh, but walked down the pier in anxious silence. The three men rather overloaded the little craft in the heavy sea, but they steamed steadily across the channel toward the spot where the seat of power of Boltown were faintly piercing the thick blackness of the night.
In fifteen minutes they ran in alongside the rickety, solitary pier of a little town. Standing up in the bow, Brighton gave a sudden exclamation.
"Thank God, there's Murfee's boat, tied up there now. The president must have put in here."
They scrambled on shore and walked up into a little store at the head of the pier.
They found a slouchy group of men sitting around on the counter, who seemed to be neatly disinclined to answer questions about Murfee, as if suspicious of the questioner's motive. But at last Brighton was able to elicit the following:
"Yes, Jake, he came back from ducking 'bout noon today."
"Noon!"
"Yes, Yes, 'bout that time."
"Wasn't there anyone with him?"
"Nope, no one. Nobody but Jake."
"What direction had he come from?"
No one had noticed and he had not said. He had simply tied his boat to the pier and come up to his bunk.
Greatly worried at this information, the three men hurried out into the street, and to the hut where they learned Murfee had his headquarters. An old darker woman there said that Jake had come back in the boat looking rather "miserable."
"Yes, honey, most skoreed." He had

Discovering a Woman Suspected Surveiled for Carelessness

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 8.—Mrs. Charles Ginter has not only lived for two years with a twelve inch napkin imbedded in her side, but she is well enough to sue for $10,000 damages. She has brought suit against Dr. Charles L. III, a famous surgeon, charging that after performing an operation upon her he failed to remove the surgical dressings. Mrs. Ginter recently saw a bit of linen protruding from the end of the old incision. She was hurried to the hospital where the napkin was removed.

Mistress— "Really, cook, what have you been doing? Seven o'clock—and the rabbit not put on yet!"
Cook— "Can't 'elp it, ma'am; I never knew anything took so long to pluck in my life."—Sketch.

People who live in clean houses shouldn't throw mud.

A man seldom generates any steam with the money he burns.

A wise man listens when his wife talks—at least, he listens for the last word.

No ducks or birds with him. He had packed up a few of his belongings in a bundle and saddled his mule and ridden off inland, saying he might not be back for a few days, but that seemed a right smart bluff."

At this the three men became very grave indeed. Evidently something had happened, but what? They were afraid to guess. They hastened back to the launch after providing themselves from the store with armfuls of pine loaves. No one of them dared to put into words what he feared.

"Set her course to Rice Beach, and hit her up at top speed," was Brighton's order to the engineer.

The sea bubbled in over the bow and soaked their clothes; the cold wind and drove in horizontal blasts, but they sat with their eyes fixed on the coast line to the north.

After a while they headed for the shore.

SOME TESTIMONIALS.
San Antonio, Texas, Feb. 27, 1911.
Last summer my wife had a general breaking down, she was very weak, had a bad cough and her appetite was very poor. I sent her to Fredericksburg to take a rest and she consulted a physician, who told her that she had but a couple of months to live, as she had rapid consumption. She came back to San Antonio, and I took her to a local sanitarium, where she stayed for two months without improving, but on the contrary, was getting worse. She then consulted Dr. White of the French Laboratory of this city, under whose treatment she soon began to improve. Her cough has ceased, her appetite returned and she is today enjoying good health.
EMIL SCHMIDT, 418 S. Alamo St.

I want to say to every man and woman that suffers with consumption, that I was so sick that four leading physicians of Austin, Texas, said to me: "You cannot be cured. There is not a remedy on earth that can cure you." The doctors of San Antonio told me the same thing. I was very disappointed to think I had to die and leave my children. I was directed by a friend to go and see Dr. White, at the French Laboratory. When he examined me, he told me that I had several large cavities in my lungs and that he didn't know whether he could cure me or not. He gave me a home treating outfit, and you may be assured, I carried out every direction. And today I am a well woman, cooking for ten men, and cleaning twenty rooms. I shall always be grateful to the French Laboratory.
MRS. J. H. STRICKLAND, Gunter Hotel, San Antonio, Tex.

Dr. G. W. White, City. I want to thank you for the treatment that you furnished for my trouble, which is consumption. And I have this to say, to whom it may concern, that on the 27th of November, 1909, I had a hemorrhage and loss of blood was about one and half gallons in about forty-eight hours. On the third day I could not raise my hand to my head from the pillow. I tried doctors and trained nurses for two weeks. The doctor finally told me that I could not get well, that I had palloping consumption and had only a short time to live. So I sent for one of the French Laboratory Inhalers, the third day I got out of bed, and the sixth day I went to my work, and in nineteen days I gained eleven pounds, making me six pounds heavier than I had been in ten years. I am still improving, and will be glad to tell anyone of your cure, that is suffering with lung trouble, for I believe that it will save them all. Yours truly,
JNO. McANNALLY, Corpus Christi, Tex.

I have been working out of this city, for the I. & G. N. railroad for years, had as had a case of Catarrh as any man could have and live. Was treated for two years by some of the best specialists of the city, paying out large sums of money and getting no relief. About the first of September, 1909, I called at the French Laboratory, and bought one of their inhalers, and paid them for the complete outfit, and I wish to say it was the best money I ever let go. Today I am a well man, will say to anyone that it will cure any case of Catarrh, Asthma or Hay Fever, if the patient will use as per directions. If I could not get another, $100.00 could not buy the outfit I have.
J. A. CAVANAUGH, I. & G. N. R. R., San Antonio, Texas.

To Whom It May Concern: I came to San Antonio last July with consumption, was having one or two hemorrhages a day. After being in the city a week I heard of the French Laboratory treatment. I went to see Dr. White and bought an outfit from him for home treatment. I began the treatment on the 9th day of July. After taking three treatments I had no more hemorrhages, and began to improve at once. I am a well woman today. I am doing my homework and cooking.
MRS. ELLA FORD, Pecos City, Texas.

TO ALL WHO SUFFER WITH TUBERCULOSIS OR CATARRH.
San Antonio, Texas, August 19, 1911.
For four years I suffered with tuberculosis of lungs and catarrh of stomach and bowels, and during this time consulted numerous physicians and took several different treatments, but my condition gradually grew worse, and I finally became a weak man, with frequent hemorrhages and splitting of blood that I became confined to bed and had been in this condition for four months when I learned of the French Laboratory treatment. I ordered one of their Home Treating outfits immediately and commenced treating myself according to directions received with outfit, and get results from the very beginning and I stopped splitting blood, with three days had had no more and now it has done for me. J. R. BLOODWORTH, Box 92, San Antonio, Texas.
Five hundred others have willingly testified to the good results obtained from our treatment.

In Memory of Little Lum Ramsey.

In memory of little Lum Ramsey who died on 25th Sept. 1912. God in his all wise and loving providence, has called home to heaven, the only child of Mrs. Sadie Ramsey. Little Lum who our heavenly father sent to bless the lonely mother for the two years five months and twenty days of his little life stay here on earth.

For the few short days was an inspiration of God's own goodness. Little darling Lum in his illness and even when death angels had gathered around his pillow his little hand pointed up to God, and in his purity said "how pretty mamma."

What a sweet solace to cheer the home now so sad and lonely. no more will we hear the sweet baby voice in childish prattle and the patter of baby feet to meet us with his sweet winsome smiles of welcome. We feel that this little flower lent from heaven to earth dear sorrowing hearts, to know your precious babe is today transplanted in the garden of God's own, there to await the coming of mother and all who loved him.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. J. H. Gallman. The answer to roll call. "One of God's commands to study his word." Full arrangements will be perfected soon for the Halloween Social.

Misses Jessie Copp and Ida Earnest were added to the roll call. During the social hour the Union was pleased to welcome Miss Gilmer back to their ranks, after an absence of three months. Ice cream and cake was passed which served as a crowning fete to this pleasant meeting. Miss Childs with her mother proved inimitable hostess. The setting sun warned the guest the lateness of the hour.

THE BAPTIST SUNBEAM MISSION BAND.

Saturday afternoon twenty-five or more children assembled at the home of Rev. Rowland for the purpose of organizing a "Mission Band." Mrs. Rowland took the initiative, and eagerly the little ones entered into the work planned for them.

MRS. YOWELL HOSTESS

The Children's Missionary Society was entertained at the home of Mrs. Yowell on last Saturday afternoon at three thirty o'clock, with about fifteen members present. Scripture sentences on "Truth" were given in answer to roll call. Mrs. Chevalier conducted the Devotional period, after which Lillian Neal took charge of the program, she being leader for the afternoon. Quite an interesting study on "The Hindu Children" was taken up and much was learned concerning the lives of these poor benighted little ones.

Ethel Poole and Eva Campbell read papers on "Children of India," Lillian Neal a selection entitled "Children of India as seen by a new Missionary." Jessie Widener and Gladys Ercanbrack selections on "Hindu Boys." After singing "Bring Them In" and our Benediction Nizpah all entered into the Social hour which made much enjoyment. Mrs. Yowell served home baked cake with lemonade.

MRS. W. E. ROCK JR. OF ROCKWOOD, HOSTESS.

[crowded out last week.]

Last Friday the twenty-seventh one little home-maker might have been seen brightening up her all ready lovely home to receive the Ladies of the Baptist Aid and Missionary society. We were accorded a cordial welcome when we arrived promptly at four, and the bright cheerful rooms presented a cheerful vista. Here and there were placed tall vases of flowers and beyond we could get a glimpse of snowy damask, cut-glass with decorations of ferns and the "Sweet Red Rose." We hope we will be pardoned if we say this gave us an idea there were other pleasures to anticipate.

The meeting was opened in the usual manner by Scripture reading, song and prayer. This being the first meeting since the Association, There were a number of subjects of interests to discuss during the business period.

The Bible lesson, latter part of second Kings was then taught by Miss Ora Rock. In this lesson Mrs. C. H. Rock distinguished herself in being the only one who could name the nineteen Kings of the Ten Tribes of Israel. The school lessons for the last quarter were then received. All this work left us little time for social intercourse. But we can corroborate the men's statement, that women do like to talk, in fact we believe we have at least one linguist who would rival even Mrs. Taft herself.

We were ushered into the dining room, where we enjoyed a well served salad-course. Approaching twilight warned us that this pleasure must come to an end. So we reluctantly bade our hostess good-bye hoping to sometime have this pleasure repeated.—A.
