Kitty's Korner

By Kitty Montgomery

Nice things are a daily happening during a youngster's graduation from high school, and they deserve the best, since they have achieved a great deal. Many nice things came Jim's way during the recent graduation festivities, but one of the nicest and most lasting was a letter from his uncle to him. Although it did not concern anyone else, the words apply to all boys and girls who are getting out on their own for the very first time and I know they would both be happy to share with you. Some excerpts follow:

"If I may offer a little unsolicited advice, it would be that you shouldn't be discouraged or perplexed at this stage if you don't know precisely what field of endeavor you want to pursue - what you want to be or what you want to do with your life. Very few young people do know for sure as they are just finishing high school. So unless you already have a very specific goal in mind now, try to take a broad, general curriculum the first couple of years in college to provide a solid foundation from which you could specialize in any one of a number of different directions during your third and fourth years. That way you keep your options open so that when your goals begin to shape themselves, you don't find yourself boxed in for lack of several required subjects you should have taken the first year or two.

"I probably ought to stop there, but I must add just a couple of more things. One, I hope you will continue to apply yourself and really learn. There have always been some people who just drifted through college because they had family they knew would support them indefinitely, and it was just a four-year social lark. But I think those people sooner or later regret the fact they did that, because even though the money may continue to flow in, they finally realize that they are not contributors to our society, and if they were not around, no one would really miss them. Today, there seem to be even more distractions to divert college students from applying themselves, and many of them seem to get diverted whether they have an outside source of income or not. I know those kids are going to regret their actions and soon, when they have to support themselves and maybe a family, and they find in the cold reality of the marketplace that they have nothing to offer - they can't produce. So they wind up with the menial, low-paying idiot jobs or nothing at all.

The companies with good salaries to offer don't care what fraternities you belonged to or how many letters you won except for demonstrated leadership ability, which is important - but they mainly are looking for a good strong academic record in the kinds of courses that are meaningful in their business.

"The last thing I would suggest, since you didn't ask me for any advice in the first place, is to try to find out all you can about the kind or kinds of work you think you're interested in. Find out where the demand is for such people, and consider if those are places where you'd like to live. Does it mean working for someone else or going into business on your own, or a partnership, and how does that compare with your personal desires? Is it indoor work, or outdoors, or both, and how does that fit with your own preferences? In other words, the decisions you make during your college years may determine whether you spend your lifetime doing something you really enjoy, or doing something that's a drudge. And the amount of money you make and the enjoyment you get out of it don't necessarily go hand in hand. A lot of men make good money, but detest their occupation. Many others (Continued on last page)

Two Ozona Men Hurt In Crash Near San Angelo

Two local men were injured in a one-vehicle accident twelve miles west of San Angelo on the Mertzon highway Saturday night, and were taken to Shannon hospital for treatment.

Dockery was released Monday and Clayton was still hospitalized at press time. His condition was good.

DEATH CAR - Mrs. Laura Zolliecoffer of San Angelo was killed instantly Saturday night when she lost control of the old model Ford above as she was entering Ozona on Highway 163, north. The car veered off the right side of the road into loose gravel on the curve coming in to town, causing her to lose control. It skidded across the road, hit a bridge abutment and overturned, coming to rest on its wheels. Photo by Don Ingram

Former Ozonan Reported Missing

Reports were received in Ozona Monday of the disappearance of Sam Fitzhugh, former Ozonan, from his home in Pecos.

Fitzhugh left his home to have his car serviced and was to return and pick up his family for a trip to Midland Sunday morning and never returned to his home. A check with the service station revealed that Fitzhugh purchased gas and was apparently all right when he drove away from the service station. He has not been seen since. Alerts from the Pecos sheriff's office have turned up nothing so far.

The Fitzhughs, Sam, his wife, Jean, and their three children, Pat, Eric and Laurie, lived in Ozona for several years before moving to Pecos about two years ago. He was with the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

DPS State Officials Dedicate New Communications Center Here

Col. Wilson E. Spier, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety at Austin, headed an array of high DPS officials here Friday afternoon to dedicate the recently completed DPS communications facility in Ozona.

Colonel Spier was the principal speaker for the brief afternoon program, attended by lawmen from a wide sector of West Texas and from state offices in Austin. The DPS head stressed the importance of the communications center here as filling a gap in the radio network of the state law enforcement agency.

"This important facility, located on a main highway across the state, is strategically located to be of maximum service to our department and to the people of this area," Col. Spier said. He expressed appreciation to members of the Crockett County Commissioners Court, to Sheriff Billy Mills and his staff and to the people of Ozona in general for their support of the DPS effort to acquire the local facility and in bringing about its successful completion.

"I want to personally and officially express my thanks to all of you for your fine cooperation in establishing this communications unit in the interest of better law enforcement," the speaker said. "We hope that this and other units of its kind will always be a place where the people's needs may be served and where we may be of service to the people."

Colonel Spier told the group of lawmen and visitors that he had just returned from Washington where he attended a conference called by the President and Attorney General John Mitchell. He was one of 18 law enforcement leaders from over the nation called to the conference on enforcement problems.

When asked by the President to comment on needs for better law enforcement, Colonel Spier said "I put in my quarter's worth." Referring to a discussion topic on the question of whether or not federal legislation is needed in the matter of the current wave of police slayings, Colonel Spier said that he argued against such legislation, pointing out that local authorities are better equipped to handle their enforcement problems and with the ready availability of the FBI wherever needed, further federal participation would not be advisable.

Colonel Spier was introduced by Major E. K. Browning of Midland, head of the West Texas division of the DPS. Accompanying Col. Spier was Col. Leo Gossett, assistant director of the state DPS, formerly of Midland. Also from Austin were Chief Glenn McLaughlin, Chief Joe Milner, chief traffic enforcement, Frank Bland, Jimmie Morris, Max Westerman, Jack Doyle, State Building Commission, and Bob Sexton, architect. With Major Browning from the Midland office was Capt. Dean Glazner.

Sheriffs from a number of surrounding counties were present for the event. Included were Sheriffs Ed Damell of Midland, Billy Joe Haney of Menard, Bill Cooksey of Sanderson and Gene Echols of Rankin and Police Chief Gene Pate of Alpine and County Judge Wilkinson of Sanderson.

Housing latest radio equipment, the 40x60 foot building is headquarters for DPS personnel stationed here. Offices are provided for the communications personnel, which includes R. B. Babbitt, supervisor, and R. L. Brown, Tom Hall, Bob Falkner and Bill Price. Also law enforcement agencies housed include the Highway Patrol, Texas Ranger, motor vehicle inspection officer and license and weight officers. DPS personnel housed in the building besides the communications division, are Ranger A. Y. Allee, Jr., patrolmen John Harris, James Cumby and Royce Hightower and Mrs. Shirley Vaughan, clerk.

DEBRA CLAYTON IS RANKIN RODEO QUEEN - Miss Clayton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Clayton of Ozona, was chosen Rodeo Queen at the Rankin Junior Rodeo held the past weekend. Queen contestants were judged according to horsemanship, poise, personality and appearance. Selection of the queen was announced during the final show Saturday night.

Angelo Woman Dies In Wreck North Of Ozona

Ozona recorded its first traffic fatality of the year when Mrs. Laura Zolliecoffer, 61, was killed in a one-vehicle accident around 9 o'clock Saturday night at the north edge of Ozona on Highway 163.

Mrs. Zolliecoffer, a resident of San Angelo, was on her way to Ozona to visit friends when the wreck occurred. She was alone in her car at the time.

Apparently the car ran off the right side of the road on a curve and when she pulled it back on the road she lost control. It careened off the left side of the road, hitting a bridge abutment and overturned. Mrs. Zolliecoffer was pronounced dead at the scene by justice of the peace A. O. Fields.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 p.m. from the 16th Street Church of Christ with burial in Delta Cemetery under the direction of Starks Funeral Home of San Angelo.

Survivors include three sisters and five brothers.

Mrs. Boyd Clayton is in Shannon Hospital in San Angelo receiving medical treatment and undergoing some tests.

HIGH WINDS demolished this windmill on the Joe Couch ranch Thursday night before a brief rain shower. The freak wind snapped the wooden structure off at the base, along with connecting pipes and smashed the whole thing to the ground right next to the foundation where it originally stood.

SOVIET SST LANDS IN PARIS

Just a month after the U.S. Senate voted against an American supersonic transport, the Soviet Union landed its already completed SST in Paris, the TU-144. It made the flight in half the time required by America's fastest commercial airliner, to share honors with the French SST, the Concorde 001, at the Paris Air Show. It is reported the TU-144 meets U.S. standards for noise and that it emitted no smoke.

It has been 17 years since the United States produced a faster commercial plane. That is a long time without any progress. If we were actively working on a faster plane we would still be five years behind the USSR. But we are not even working on it, while Moscow continues forging ahead to make a better one.

What is far more significant, the Soviet Union already has far more nuclear power than the USA, and it continues to outproduce America in nuclear capacity each year. Instead, the Administration proposes to add another 10 million people to our welfare program, a program that is already carrying 10 million too many.

Perhaps we should restudy the decline and fall of the Roman Empire. It fell because one-third of the people were on welfare, taxes discouraged people from working, and the general atmosphere of permissiveness discouraged anyone from joining the army. When the barbarians arrived there was no one to stop them. Rome was sacked and burned, and the great Roman Empire came to an end.

Never before has the defense of the whole free world been on America's shoulders. Never before has there been a power able to destroy us. The Roman Empire fell because of weak defenses and a general feeling of disinterest. It can happen here.

NEW YORK IS ALARMED

Two more policemen were shot and killed in New York City on May 21, following the shooting and critical wounding of two other policemen on May 19. Five New York policemen have been slain this year. The city has plunged into sorrow and not a little fear. Everyone is asking, "Where will it end?"

The tough residents of this great community are not easily disturbed or frightened. Crime is something they have learned to live with, uneasily but without hysteria. This attitude has to be so because in a metropolis of 8-million persons there is normally a great deal of unpleasantness, some merely incident to enormous crowds and traffic, and some brought daily to the city from all parts of the world. But New Yorkers are aroused and alarmed. The city houses 50 percent of all the drug addicts in the country. Such people are the chief cause of crime.

Negroes are just as much concerned as whites. All want something to be done. Stronger gun control laws may not provide the answer. Criminals who shoot to kill will not be more deterred by new laws than by old ones. The answer lies in the office of the Mayor and in the courts. Stronger, quicker enforcement of the old, old law, "Thou shalt not kill," would turn the tide. Offering a very substantial reward for information about the killers and dope peddlers would also help.

SENSING the NEWS

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

Birmingham, Ala. -- No city better represents the industrial heart of the South than this bustling post-Civil War city that grew and flourished because the vital elements in steel-making--iron, limestone and coal--were available nearby in abundance.

Steel production began here at the turn of the century. Today, the iron used in the process no longer comes from Birmingham's Red Mountain. Instead, the iron ore originates in Canada and Venezuela and is transported to Mobile where it is off-loaded onto barges for trans-shipment to the Birmingham mills. The rich deposits of local coal are still used, however. Steel-making here is a huge enterprise. The giant Fairfield Works of the United States Steel Corporation is the largest employer in the State of Alabama. Indeed the huge mills constitute a vital unit in America's steel production.

Our era is referred to as the Atomic Age. It is more accurate to describe it as the Steel Age. Everything a nation does--from producing consumer goods to building nuclear plants, pipelines and tankers--requires steel. Thus steel is the key index in determining a country's industrial strength.

Not many years ago, America's steel industry dominated the world. Today, the steel industry of the United States faces grave problems. It is no exaggeration to say that, in the long-run, the industrial leadership of the United States is threatened. Japan could become the No. 1 steel-making country in the world and, in the process, the No. 1 power in the world.

In order to expand production facilities and to install new processes, American steel-makers need to increase their earnings. But this isn't happening. Earnings of steel companies average 4.8% of stockholders equity, or less than half the rate of return for all manufacturing corporations in the United States.

The prospect for a healthier earnings picture is dimmed by the fact that the current three-year union agreement ends Aug. 1. Grave danger exists that the United Steelworkers of America will call a strike that will cause immense damage to the industry and to the American economy in general.

Wages in the steel industry are among the highest in all U. S. business. Steelworkers' hourly earnings average $4.25 per hour. The wage structure is the reason that the American steel industry faces an almost impossible situation with respect to foreign competition. Employment costs for U. S. steel companies are $3.88 per hour over the costs of Japanese companies. This gap widened from $3.51 in 1965 despite an 85% increase in costs in Japan.

Increased automation isn't the solution for American steel-makers. To offset the hourly employment cost gap versus Japan, man-hours in American companies would have to be reduced two-thirds -- a virtual impossibility.

Under the existing wage structure, Japan sells steel at approximately $40 a ton less than American steel companies can market their products. Prior to 1959, the United States was a consistent net exporter of steel. By 1968, foreign steel companies sold more than 18 million tons in the American market. This means a severe loss of jobs as well as a decline in corporate income.

The need now is for a quantitative limitation on foreign steel imports. The very suggestion of this arouses those who say the United States should engage in free trade. Unfortunately, free trade doesn't exist these days. Japan's industry, for example, is organized in cartels. Japan's government works hand in glove with its steel industry. Steel products are dumped in the United States at prices lower than those set for the Japanese domestic market. Then there's the related fact that there's no free trade in labor in the United States. The steel industry is compelled to negotiate with the steel workers union.

Very soon, Congress must decide whether this nation wants to have a steel industry in future. If we are to have this capacity--and it is essential to the nation's economic well-being and technological growth--then foreign imports must be limited and irresponsible wage demands must be restrained. The combination of cut-rate foreign competition and overzealous union demands is threatening the U. S. Steel industry--the heart of the American industrial system.

Fort Stockton To Reactivate Water Carnival

One of Fort Stockton's annual community-wide events that has been nonexistent since 1966 is being reactivated under the leadership of the recently organized Woman's Committee of the Chamber of Commerce. The Water Carnival will be held at Comanche Springs Swimming Pool July 15, 16, and 17.

Rod Blaydes, a senior student at Texas Tech University, who will receive a bachelor of arts degree in theatre arts in August 1971, will direct this year's Water Carnival in his hometown. He will organize the water show and coordinate the Beta Sigma Phi-directed Miss Fort Stockton Beauty Pageant with the event, using the theme "1971 Space Odyssey."

Blaydes was either a swimmer or an actor in every Water Carnival produced in Fort Stockton during his years in public school there.

How a minus on your paycheck can be a plus in your future.

Sound confusing? It isn't, really. When you join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, an amount you designate will be set aside automatically from each paycheck. That's the "minus."

That amount will then be invested in U.S. Savings Bonds. That's where the "plus" comes in. Because you're automatically saving for your future, with one of the safest investments there are: U.S. Savings Bonds.

And, by deducting a little at a time from each paycheck, you don't feel the pinch financially. Before you know it, you'll have quite a tidy sum tucked away.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds--for E Bonds, 5 1/2% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra 1/2%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Take stock in America. Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

Two dances, one Friday night, July 3, and another Saturday night, July 4, are planned as features of Ozona's wartime July Fourth celebration this year, it was announced this week by Lee Childress, chairman of the dance committee.

29 years ago Miss Johnnie Boyd, former Ozonan now living in San Angelo, is here visiting friends this week.

29 years ago Rozella Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mitchell of Fort Stockton, was a guest this week of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Montgomery.

29 years ago The county property tax rate for 1942 was set by the Commissioners Court here this week. The rate shows a raise of one cent on the $100 Valuation over that of last year.

29 years ago Dr. George L. Nestra was named county health officer by the Commissioners Court Monday, to replace Dr. H. B. Tandy, who is serving in the Army Medical Corps.

29 years ago Mrs. Floyd Henderson, chairman, has called an important meeting of the cemetery association for Monday.

With a view to its ultimate reconstruction as a county library, ladies club house and community center after the war and when building materials become available, the Commissioners Court this week made plans for cleaning up and salvaging available material from the ruins of the burned Ozona Methodist Church.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

From Kitty's Kitchen

Here is an elegant dessert for summer parties. Easy too.

Lime Cheese Cake

1 (9 oz.) pound cake
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup water
2 eggs, separated
1/2 cup milk
1/2 teas. salt
1/2 cup sugar
2 (8 oz.) ctns. cottage cheese, sieved
1 (6 oz.) can limeade concentrate, thawed and undiluted
1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped green vegetable coloring

Whipped cream for garnish
Fresh strawberries
Cut cake, lengthwise, into 4 equal slices. Lay slices flat and cut each, from top to bottom, into eight strips. Stand strips on flat ends, around the inside of an 8-inch spring form mold — by keeping the strips together, the edge will be scalloped on top. Soften gelatin in water in small sauce pan and melt over very low heat. Remove and keep in warm place. Combine lightly beaten egg yolks, milk, salt and sugar in top of double boiler; place over hot water and cook, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened. Remove from hot water and blend in melted gelatin. Stir in cheese and limeade concentrate, blending well. Fold in whipped cream. Whip egg whites until stiff but not dry and fold into mixture. Blend in a few drops of green coloring if desired. Pour into mold, taking care not to upset strips of cake. Chill at least 2 hours before serving. Garnish with whipped cream and strawberries. Place puffs of whipped cream on top and center each puff with a fresh strawberry. Circle the bottom of the cake with a whipped cream garnish and top with sliced fresh berries. Yields 10 servings or more. --0--

Tips For Gardeners

From The Ozona Garden Club By Mrs. Bailey Post

With June comes some of the gifts from your early garden planning and labor. An armful of flowers, fresh vegetables from your garden, and maybe a little fruit that the freeze and hail didn't get. Off of a small plum tree we harvested our first plum from a total of four that survived. Tomatoes should be loaded with their fruit soon, and I hear onions are being pulled, dried and hung for later use.

You should hurry with those late plantings of gladiolus, cannas, caladium, tuberose and dahlias.

Deep watering and proper mowing are the keys to a healthy, lush lawn after grass is established.

When determining how often to water your lawn, consider the type of soil, local rainfall and the kind of grass on your lawn. If grass wilts during the hottest part of the day, it needs watering. In heavy soils or sloping lawns a deep 4 to 6 inches penetration is needed to prevent water loss due to run off. This may require 6 to 8 hours of continuous sprinkling during dry periods. If you sprinkle your grass daily, there is danger of causing a shallow root system which suffers during periods of scant rainfall. Leaf texture of the lawn grass determines how close the grass may be cut. Even though fine-textured grasses such as Bermuda and Zoysias are mowed closely, there will be enough leaf blades left to manufacture food. These should be cut 1/2 to 1 inch in height.

St Augustine and centipede grasses suffer if a majority of the leaf surface is removed by close mowing. They are best cut at 1 to 1 1/2 inches high. A sudden and extreme reduction in height of grasses upsets the natural balance between leaf and root growth, weakening the lawn as well as giving it an unsightly scalped appearance. If your grass becomes too tall while you are on vacation, reduce height gradually over a period of several mowings. You should leave as much grass as you cut away. If a 1/2 inch height is desired, mow when the grass reaches one inch in height. Grass growing in the shade needs more leaf growth and should be cut with the mower set higher than the setting for grass growing in the sun.

Sprigs of grass that have bare roots and shoots can be used to patch bare spots in your lawn or build a new lawn. Be sure that each sprig has at least two and preferably 4, leaf joints from which new roots can develop. You will be successful in sprigging grasses any time between spring and late summer if you keep them watered. Dig rows 2 to 3 inches deep, a foot apart. Place sprigs in the row 3 to 6 inches apart. Cover with soil but do not cover entire sprig, let the growing tip with leaves protrude above soil level. Pack soil, water well and keep watered if there is no rainfall.

ALONG THE TRAIL

Novices tend to follow the path, especially when it is straight and narrow. But even with experienced riders there can be unexpected turns, and it's possible to get lost.

In life there are very few straight paths. It is extremely easy to come upon an unexpected turn, and to encounter doubt, confusion, even despair.

Horseback riding is not compulsory. But you do have a life—and you have to live it. The way is up to you. If we get lost, we can give up, but with the help of the Church, you will find a trustworthy guide which will renew your faith and clear the way to the path of eternal fulfillment.

OPEN LETTER TO THE CITIZENS OF CROCKETT CO.

Have you been to Cedar Hills Cemetery lately--your cemetery--if you have what have you observed? Surely you have noticed our beautiful new gates. This is only a beginning. The iron gates and ornamental work are being constructed. Needless to say, this is not being done for nothing.

Will you help? I'm sure all of you are more than willing to do your part. Roughly estimating, we need at least 30 hose and sprinklers. There are those who have left their loved ones behind for us to care for. If the cemetery association will furnish the needed hose and sprinklers, can we depend on you to see that your family plot is adequately equipped?

I'm sure some of you are saying, "Well, the hose and sprinklers I take to the cemetery always disappear." I am sure this is true. I do not know what happens to your hose. Perhaps they do disappear completely, but more than likely they are across the alley or down several lots furnishing water for a neighbor or a friend. We would like to eliminate this situation and perhaps with your held we can.

Assuming that you will do this I will make one other plea. During your rides through the cemetery, if you see something that needs done, please do it. Changing water that needs changing, or putting up a wreath that has blown over. Who knows perhaps someone will do this for you some day. We hope in the near future to have an adequate water supply all over the cemetery. If we all work together we can truly have a place of beauty to be proud of.

Thank you, Billie Jean Baggett, President, Cemetery Association.

WASHINGTON NEWS LETTER

By Congressman O. C. Fisher

A $1-billion-a-year emergency employment and manpower bill sailed through the House last week -- authorized to create 150,000 new federally-financed jobs for the unemployed. It's a WPA type program, and is expected to become bigger each year. It may be vetoed, and probably should be.

The Paris air show, just concluded, this year featured 180 different planes, of all sizes and shapes. The Japs, for example, had four new offerings, mostly of the smaller utility design. U. S. showed a variety of new and improved models, with the giant C-5 transport leading the pack. But despite all these attractions, it was the Russian and the Anglo-French SST models which grabbed the spotlight as hundreds of thousands pushed against the rope lines that surrounded the two sky giants, parked a few yards apart.

The Soviet prototype -- the TU-144 -- which makes 1,560 mph, has 120 seats, while the Concorde is a bit slower but capable of exceeding 1200 mph.

At their Toulouse factory, the French have four more Concorde on the production line, making a total of 10 in the works. This plane has flown more than 450 hours and appears quite promising, although it will probably be two or three years before the Concorde is used on regular trans-oceanic flights. Now that the U. S. has thrown in the sponge on SSTs, the Anglo-French and the Soviets foresee a lush world market for their supersonic aircraft in the years ahead.

The Russians are obviously sensitive about U. S. plans. I spent two days at the show last week, and while there a colleague of mine, Al Pirnie of New York, and I were admitted aboard the TU-144. We found the inside rather conventional, with much electronic and experimental equipment in evidence. The Russians, including the plane's chief pilot, told us it would be perhaps two years before the plane will fly commercially. They asked us many questions, the first of which was: "How did you vote on the SST?"

West Crockett Tippett Field Gains Confirmer

The Tippett, West field gained its third Hueco gas producer and a location north-northeast extension to that pay and into Crockett County with reclassification of Western States Producing Co. Midland, (formerly Southwestern Natural Gas Inc.), No. 1-X State Pecos Riverbed, previously completed Hueco oil and lower Wolfcamp oil in the Tippett, West field and lower Clearfork gas producer in the Tippett multipay field, 12 miles southwest of McCamey.

It was finalized for a calculated absolute open flow of 1.95 million cubic feet of dry gas per day through perforations at 4,808-916 feet. Original completion from that zone was Feb. 2, 1969, to pump 72 barrels of 40.8 gravity oil, plus 5 barrels of water, through the above perforations which had been acidized with 1,000 gallons and fractured with 40,000 gallons and 60,000 pounds of sand.

Drilled to 5,625 feet and plugged back to 5,603 feet, it was finalized Jan. 15, 1969 from the lower Wolfcamp for 267 barrels of 41 gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio of 1,610-1, through an 18-64-inch choke and perforations at 5,554-578 feet; and Feb. 6, 1969, from the lower Clearfork for a calculated, absolute open flow of 6.1 million cubic feet of gas daily, with gas-liquid ratio of 155,250-1, through perforations at 4,138-4,400 feet.

Location is 666.7 feet east of the southwest corner of 38-31-H&TC, thence 152 feet southwest to location in the Pecos Riverbed. The other two Hueco gas wells are in Pecos County.

WASHINGTON AND SMALL BUSINESS AS HEARD BY HEARD

Want Utopia!
We've all heard from time to time about how Sweden was becoming the workers "Paradise"—how Socialism finally was put into practice, how no one was out of work, how everyone was taken care of.
"Paradise"? Better to say "Pair o' dice"—that came up snake eyes!
Income taxes at the world's highest rates take 43 to 65 per cent of income. And a comment from one civil servant summed up what is called the "festering wound" in the country: "We simply cannot afford to live in Paradise any longer. The idea is nice, but the reality is too costly."
The reality is also very grim, with 150 strikes in the past 15 months. Professional people are leaving at an increasing rate—doctors, dentists, scientists. Large firms are moving out of the country. In 1968, 30 per cent of all firms had showed no profit at all and in the same year, 528 firms hiring 22,700 people went out of business—due to high capital taxes to finance the "Paradise."
Direct and indirect taxes take 43.6 per cent of Swedish gross national product, compared to 27.3 per cent in this country.
A murderous, 38-day strike by 47,000 civil servants, seeking a 23 per cent wage boost, was stopped only by the Swedish Government passing a law making it illegal. And if you wonder who the "civil servants" are, consider the Swedish Government's National Federation of Independent Business ment controls 43 per cent of iron ore mining, 95 per cent of the rails, 45 per cent of gas and electricity, 20 per cent of the forests. When these "civil servants" strike, the country is crippled.

The radical leftist group in power also seeks complete wage leveling. The goal is nothing less than having all workers get the identical amount of pay—no matter what they do.
And the professionals and sub-professionals aren't buying it, not for a moment. A turrett-lathe operator, receiving the same pay as a floor-sweeper, stated it quite bluntly: "Equality is nonsense."
A spokesman for the striking Central Organization of Civil Servants expanded a bit on this: "They're leveling us down, while they are leveling blue collars upward. Result is, none of us can afford the cost of the welfare benefits."
Well, let's take this lesson to heart. It has often been said that no country can spend itself into prosperity, that no country can possibly do everything for everyone. We have in front of our eyes the spectacle of one that is trying, and is running full tilt into total economic and social chaos as a result. Let's hope we profit by Sweden's example.
And remember, Sweden was neutral in two world wars, and thus not only did not incur war debts, but in addition profited by selling to both sides.
