A Trip Through Four States.

Mr. Editor:

Constant, continuous and active professional duties in the district court room for the past three weeks have deterred me from continuing my description of "Pike's Peak" and the ascension of it on the "Cog Road." My last article left us at the summit of this great mountain and I will now advert to a few other things of interest connected with it.

Who has gazed from that sublime eyrie without emotions deep and thrilling? and who has not borne away impressions strange and indefinable, but indelible as well? Here, where infinitude is so vividly portrayed, he who knows not reverence will bow his head!

Aroused at last from awesome contemplation, there are interests of the summit that must not be overlooked. Upon the top of the new Summit Hotel are a steel tower and powerful field glasses through which the gorgeous landscape may be studied in detail. Eighty miles to the north, Denver can be recognized by the telescopic aid; to the south, Pueblo, the Pittsburg of Cripple Creek, Victor, Goldfield, Independence and the dozen lesser towns of the busy Cripple Creek gold-mining district. Manitou peeps out from its nest at the eastern base of the mountain and, beyond, Colorado Springs lies like a vast checker-board on the border of the plain. Colorado Springs is fourteen miles distant, as a bird would fly; yet so near does the glass bring it to the observer that signs on the stores may be read.

The top of the Peak comprises several level acres thickly strewn with big rocks that are principally in tubes or other rectangular shapes. One might easily imagine it to be the scene of some Titanic building project—the materials all assembled but the construction abandoned.

The "Bottomless Pit" and the "Abyss of Desolation" are great, shuddering rents in the mountains into which the sun never finds its way, and where the snows of centuries lie in un conjectured depths.

Few people, comparatively speaking, know the sensation of looking from a mountain top over thousands of miles of the earth's surface. To those who have realized this sensation it affords an indelible recollection—one of the cherished experiences of a lifetime. The Cog Wheel route affords many thousands an opportunity to gain this experience, an opportunity which they would otherwise never enjoy, if only those physical aristocrats who have superior development in limbs and lungs were permitted to mount above the clouds and stand

"close to the sun in lonely lands." The Pike's Peak railroad reduces all men to a level in ability to enjoy this pleasure. Without any physical exertion, without fatigue of any kind, any one able to travel in a railway car can be lifted up to the strange region of clouds and storms, and for a few hours exist in the very heart of "eternal desolation," so to speak.

To the commonplace man this trip is like living a chapter from one of Jules Verne's romances. He meets no antediluvian monsters to be sure, but he visits scenes where these can easily be imagined. Whatever susceptibility to grand impressions, whatever poetic fancies the dullest mind may have, are sure to be aroused and exercised by this experience.

The barometer on the summit of Pike's Peak stands at about seventeen inches, and water boils at 184 degrees Fahrenheit. Is it wonderful that the human body and the human mind in these new conditions manifest new feelings?

The Summit Hotel is a very substantial, commodious and comfortable building, and it furnishes entertainment for the many pilgrims that remain overnight to view the glories of the sunrise. Within the hotel building is a Western Union Telegraph office, the highest telegraph station in the world; also a lunch-room and souvenir store. The "sunrise excursions," which are run weekly in the latter part of the summer, have also become very popular; frequently the entire equipment being required to handle the crowds.

An object of no less interest is the "Lighthouse of the Plains." From the steel observatory surmounting the hotel building, a high-power searchlight is operated. The path of its light may be seen from adjoining states, and when its rays are projected along the highways or into the cities and villages of this region, it is a reminder that "Pike's Peak," the "Sentinel of the Rockies," stands vigil over its own.

In a word, Pike's Peak is unrivalled among American mountains. It has a more prominent place in the story of the exploration and occupation of the Great West than any other name. Before the land west of the Missouri river was mapped, before the territories were bounded and named, Pike's Peak was adopted as the unofficial designation of this section of the country, and thousands of eager pioneers, moving to the mysterious West, chose this mountain as their goal. Other peaks of the Rockies are as high as Pike's Peak, but they rise with other mountains about them, and the views from their tops are not so wide and diversified, neither can they be looked up to from a plain spreading beyond the limit of vision.

In the next article I shall have something more particular to say about this wonderful "Cog Road," its construction and history, and, following that, will be a "Glimpse of Manitou," when I shall not "bore" you and your readers any longer.

Attention Confederate Soldiers.

I have frequently been asked the question, "Where will your next reunion be held?" I could not answer the question satisfactorily until now, I have recently received a request from the citizens of Lovelady, asking that we meet with them. At their request I will call the next reunion of Crockett Camp to be held at Lovelady on Wednesday, June 6th, 1912. So comrades of Crockett Camp will please govern themselves accordingly.

The Daughters of the Confederacy will be invited to meet with us at this time.

Texas Needs Great Men

III. MISTAKES.

THE statesmen of China have fought back civilization for four thousand years and today it is the most benighted nation of the globe. The Mohammedan government ordered the world's greatest library at Alexandria burned and the followers of the prophet are to this day bound in fetters of ignorance. The dark ages were the result of nations fighting back the tide of civilization. Since the beginning of government, some of the leading statesmen of all countries have become badly frightened at the processes of civilization.

MOHARRET'S MISTAKE

The smoke of a factory has been distorted into the visage of a terrible ogre; the whistle of a locomotive has been mistaken for the war whoop of an Indian and the approach of capital has scared many of our amateur statesmen into fighting a duel with civilization. Texas needs leaders who will not become frightened at the torch of knowledge or stampede at the forces of progress. Texas needs great men.

BLOW TO STATE COMMISSION.

Control of All Railroads by Interstate Commission Foreshadowed.

Washington, Oct. 30. — Complete control of all the railroads of the country by the interstate commerce commission and virtual elimination of the state commissions from such control is foreshadowed in an opinion handed down today by the supreme court of the United States. The court held that hereafter all locomotives, cars or other equipment used on any railroad which is a highway of interstate commerce must comply with the Federal safety appliance act.

The court held that compliance with Federal laws is compulsory on all railroads engaged in transportation of persons or freight from one state to another. Elaborating this, however, it is held that the cars or equipment of such roads, even if engaged in such transportation within the confines of a state, must be considered as part and parcel of the road and therefore completely under the jurisdiction of the Federal commission.

Members of the interstate commerce commission who have been embarrassed on numerous occasions by clashes and authority with state commissions are jubilant at the ruling of the supreme court which was unanimous. Referring to the court's opinion Commissioner Lane declared, "It means eventually that there is to be no dual control of interstate carriers."

Mr. Editor:

Syrup making, cotton picking and potato digging is the order of the day.

Mrs. Abbie Arnold has been quite sick for some time.

Our school is going on now, but the attendance is small, there is so much cotton to pick.

Mrs. I. W. Hancock of Waco visited her mother, Mrs. I. B. Smith, and other relatives and friends, returning home Friday. Also Mrs. W. D. Taylor of Palestine was here on the same errand, returning home Sunday.

We are having prayer meetings at the different homes in this community on Wednesday nights. We feel the Lord is with us and blessing us.

A Friend.

A good many persons doubt the advisability of allowing police officers to go armed. In the practice of their professions of keeping the peace many good men have served as policemen for a quarter of a century in large and small cities without once having occasion to draw a weapon. The itching trigger finger and the handy six gun, coupled with a color of authority in form of a uniform and a badge, have done more harm and cost more lives than any potential crime involved in the action would have amounted to by many fold. Too often an officer who is carrying a gun takes advantage of that fact to show his "authority," and the ends of the law are frequently lost sight of in the temptation to "make a play" that the law presumably protects

Paint Offer

To all property owners in Crockett and vicinity:

Fewer Gallons or No Pay

To prove that Devoe lead and zinc requires least gallons for a job, we make the following offer:

Paint half of your house with any other paint; paint half with Devoe.

The other paint half will take the most gallons; if not, we will make no charge for our paint.

Experiences

M. A. Thomas, painter, Lynchburg, Va., writes: "The first job I did with your paint I estimated 37 gallons; had 12 gallons left. Since then I have used Devoe altogether."

C. P. Hanger, Staunton, painted two new houses, the houses exactly alike; one another pure paint, the other Devoe. Devoe cost a quarter less for paint and labor.

C. B. Edwards (of Edwards & Broughton), Raleigh, N. C., had used 30 gallons Paste Paint for his house. Repainted last time with Devoe; bought 30 gallons and had more than half left.

The mistake was made by the painter who painted it last time with the 30 gallons Paste Paint. He said it would take at least 30 gallons of Devoe. When he saw the paint he said there wasn't enough. Had over half left.

PASTE PAINT, 30 Gallons.
DEVOE Less than 15 Gallons.

D. W. Creech, Pine Level, N. C., bought $40 Devoe of Smithfield Hdw. Co. for his house; returned half and feels good.

That's What "Fewer Gallons" Mean

Thackeray and Colonel Newcome.

Mr. Louis Melville tells a characteristic story of Thackeray's fondness for his greatest hero. "It was outside 'Evan's,'" he writes, "that Lowell, being on a visit to London, met the novelist looking so haggard and worn that he asked if he were ill. 'Come inside, and I'll tell you all about it,' said the latter. 'I have killed the colonel.' At a table in a quiet corner Thackeray took the manuscript from his pocket and read the chapter that records the death of Colonel Newcome. When he came to the end the tears that had been swelling his lids trickled down his face, and the last word was almost an inarticulate sob."—London Chronicle.

Pretty High Hills.

A distinguished astronomer once took the trouble to measure in several paintings the size of the moon and to deduce from it the height of the mountains shown in the same picture. He found that the average height of the hills was about forty-three miles, while one giant peak raised its head more than a hundred miles above sea level. Turner, who was one of the greatest masters of landscape composition and coloring, frequently exaggerates the height of his hills with the intention of conferring upon them a majesty which otherwise they would not possess.

Happiness.

That all who are happy are equally happy is not true. A peasant and a philosopher may be equally satisfied, but not equally happy. Happiness consists in the multiplicity of agreeable consciousness. A peasant has not capacity for having equal happiness with a philosopher.—Johnson.

The bread of life is love; the salt of life is work; the sweetness of life, poesy; the water of life, faith.—Mrs. Jameson.

Ambiguous.

"Did your late employer give you a testimonial?"

"Yes, but it doesn't seem to do me any good."

"What did he say?"

"He said I was one of the best men his firm had ever turned out."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

SOME REAL WEALTHY.

Many With Bank Accounts Reaching Into Thousands Posed as Mendicants.

Chicago, November 3. — More than 5000 families have been cut off the list of those regularly receiving free meat, flour and other necessities from the county.

It was found that many families of independent wealth, hundreds with comfortable incomes and several hundred property owners with ordinary means of support have been enjoying the charity of Cook county.

Fifteen of the county "wards" were shown to have bank accounts and in some cases these accounts were as high as $7,000.

Many families were found on the list where the head of the house drew a salary of $180 per month and 274 were found to be property owners.

"Prize" Sheriff's Account.

Austin, Texas, November 1.—A "prize" sheriff's account, Controller Lane considers it the fattest ever turned to his department, is from the head peace officer of a North Texas county for the May term of district court, and these are some of its features, making up a total of $4,422.25: Cases set, 203, in which the sheriff says 6,036 witnesses were summoned. Of these, 118 cases were charges of violating the local option laws, necessitating 4,550 witnesses. Seventeen such cases were against one man and these produced 1,788 witnesses. One of the local option cases alone called for 136 witnesses, the account provides. During this term of court twenty-one cases were actually tried, which would make the average, considering the total account, $210.60 sheriff's costs in each case. The sheriff, in getting these 6,036 witnesses, etc., traveled 15,266 miles.

The controller remembered a peace officer, some months ago, turned in a term account approximating $4,200 in costs, which he, the controller, trimmed vigorously. He contrasted the account received to-day with that of the Dallas county sheriff for the term of July last, $1,191.81, covering 196 cases set for trial. Incidentally, there are about 4,500 poll tax payments in the county whence comes the large account, while Dallas' poll taxes number about 20,000.

At this writing, the controller is sharpening his blue pencil.

How to be An Editor.

Most any one can be an editor. All the editor has to do is to sit at a desk six days out of a week, four weeks out of a month and twelve months out of a year and "dit" such stuff as this:

"Mrs. Jones of Cactus Creek let a can opener slip last week and cut herself in the pantry." "A mischievous lad of Picketown threw a stone and struck Mr. Pike in the alley last Thursday." "John Doe climbed on the roof of his house last week looking for a leak and fell, striking himself on the back porch." "While Harold Green was escorting Miss Violet Wise from the church social last Saturday night a savage dog attacked them and bit Mr. Green several times on the public square." "Isiah Trimmer of Running Creek was playing with a cat Friday when it scratched him on the veranda." "Mr. Fong while harnessing a broncho last Saturday was kicked just south of his corn patch."

Yes, it's a wonder they draw salaries for it.—Ex.

USED TO RENT NEWSPAPERS.

The Old London News was Lent Three Hours for Twenty-Five Cents.

A London newspaper, the Daily News, has just unearthed an interesting document which goes back to the days of dear newspapers, when these papers were taken around to houses and hired for so many hours at so much an hour. Tucked away, it says, in the leaves of an old guide book to the Crystal Palace, dated 1854, has been found a little printed leaflet, issued from Westerton's Library and Newspaper Office, 20 St. George's Place, Hyde Park Corner, making the following announcement:

"Can be had from the office by 8 in the morning, to keep, at ten cents per copy; or lent to read for three hours at twenty-five cents, or two hours for eighteen cents per week. It can also be supplied at 5 o'clock in the afternoon at the reduced price of six cents per copy; or posted into the country at $5 a quarter, payable in advance."

In those days the Daily News had been started only eight years, under the original editorship of Charles Dickens, and was still published at ten cents a copy. Its editor at the time was William Weir, and Harriet Martineau, perhaps the first woman in England to undertake regular journalistic work, was one of the writers of its leading articles.

The system of hiring did not disappear quickly; certainly down to the year 1880 there were many households in which the Times was still left on the same terms, and it would be difficult to say when the system finally died out.—Christian Science Monitor.

Women Students Neglecting Work.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 2.—Mrs Helen Marr Kirby, dean of the University of Texas women, is of the opinion that the students of the university, especially the women, are spending too much of their time attending social functions to the detriment of their university work. She has a plan under advisement, which will, if instituted, prohibit the young ladies from attending dances, shows and social functions except on Friday and Saturday nights.

Mrs. Kirby has been sending letters of inquiry to many of the leading institutions of the country to determine their plans of meeting the problem and to her astonishment Texas has more social functions than the majority of the other schools. Of course in the strict denominational schools only one night is set apart every few weeks for social amusement. At Baylor and Southwestern universities the only affairs of a social nature the young ladies have are at their dormitories and these come at stated periods as prescribed by the faculty. At the University of Colorado, in Boulder, the young ladies are permitted to attend these functions only on Friday and Saturday nights and then they must return by midnight.

At Texas there is no limit. They are permitted to go any night and as often as they like, except at the Woman's building, the occupants are prohibited, under the rules of that institution, from attending shows and dances, except on particular occasions, on nights other than Friday and Saturday. Another thing believed is that the social affairs are given too frequently. The University German Club usually has a dance every Saturday night and then all of the other clubs as well, as many of the fraternities give a dance some time during the year.

In the winter term the most of the formal affairs are had. The two social clubs composed of young men, the Ratlers and Arrowhead; the two composed of young women, the Anglers and Rabbit Foot, each give a formal dance during that term, some of the fraternities have a formal dance in the winter, the freshmen reception occurs during that term and the German Club has its regular dances, besides the latter gives a formal dance at Easter, which often occurs in that term. Whether or not the number will be limited has not been announced, but many believe that the young ladies will be restricted from attending at any other than certain prescribed nights of the week.

It Happened in Oklahoma.

D. D. Huffman, an oil company manager of Fremont, Neb., is laid up in a hospital because he had a habit of wearing celluloid collars during working hours.

He found a strange chemical in the office, threw it into a tub of water and it exploded, igniting his collar and burning a ring around his neck.

Having made and spent two good-sized fortunes at the age of 35, W. H. Roeser, a young oil plunger of Tulsa, Okla., says he is ready to start in on a third.

His first fortune was lost in the Cleveland field. The other of more than a million he spent in three years.

John B. Randall of Mangum, Okla., has advertised for "a widow whose husband has been hanged" as a wife, promising her a good home and plenty of money.

He says he insists on the "hanging" provision so she can't always be telling him what a fine fellow her first husband was. She must be comely and a good cook.

Lorimer Probers.

Chicago, November 2.—George W. Myers, a former state representative, the first witness at the Lorimer hearing to-day, testified that he was asked to vote for Lorimer, but refused. He said Lee O'Neil Browne told him that "there are a lot of good state jobs and plenty of the 'ready necessary' behind Lorimer."

The Size of Shooting Stars.

A recent discussion before the British Astronomical Association endeavored to fix the size and path of those meteoric objects which, impinging on the earth's atmosphere, become visibly incandescent as shooting stars. The height at which these objects become incandescent has been computed in various ways and ranges from 70 to 100 miles, and even 150 miles has been noted. Their speed may be from 30 to 40 miles a second. Now it is assumed that a meteorite is a very small body, as, indeed, it must be if it is to be "vaporized," or converted into gas by rushing through the atmosphere, and it becomes difficult to understand how a particle, whose weight has to be measured in grains or in fractions of a grain, could give light enough to be visible 100 miles away, even though it has such a perfectly dark background as the sky. The Rev. M. Davidson comes to the conclusion, therefore, that a shooting star which appears at a distance of above 100 miles high and disappears there must consist of a shoal of very small particles. It may resemble a "little cloud of dust and intermingled gas like a puff of smoke." Such speaks of dust may weigh less than the thousandth part of a grain, and there is little doubt that shoals of such minute particles do sometimes enter our atmosphere.—London Morning Post.

A New Scheme.

It is an old device with which to defraud but is being worked by a brace of crooks in a number of Texas towns. A neatly dressed man with a glib tongue calls upon the lady of the house and represents himself as an expert repairer of sewing machines. She informs him that her machine is in perfect running order, but he persuades her to allow him to examine its mechanism. When he gets through with the inspection there is invariably something wrong with the machine. He departs and in a few days another expert repairer—an accomplice—shows up and he generally gets a job; and the innocent lady does not suspect that she is the victim of a brace of crooks.—San Angelo Standard.

Are You Nervous?

What makes you nervous? It is the weakness of your womanly constitution, which cannot stand the strain of the hard work you do. As a result, you break down, and ruin your entire nervous system. Don't keep this up! Take Cardui, the woman's tonic. Cardui is made from purely vegetable ingredients. It acts gently on the womanly organs, and helps them to do their proper work. It relieves pain and restores health, in a natural manner, by going to the source of the trouble and building up the bodily strength.

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Grace Fortner, of Man, W. Va., took Cardui. This is what she says about it: "I was so weak and nervous, I could not bear to have anyone near me. I had fainting spells, and I lost flesh every day. The first dose of Cardui helped me. Now, I am entirely cured of the fainting spells, and I cannot say enough for Cardui, for I know it saved my life." It is the best tonic for women.

Do you suffer from any of the pains peculiar to women? Take Cardui. It will help you. Ask your druggist.

Teachers Who Work and Parents Who Shirk.

No nobler profession exists than that of the teacher. Poorly-paid as most of them are and hampered by lack of due appreciation and criticism on every side, most of them labor faithfully and without complaint to perform their work, that they succeed as well as they do is little short of amazing when we consider the over-crowded condition of the public schools and the constantly increasing burdens which are each year shifted to the shoulders of the teachers.

Of course there are poor teachers just as there are poor lawyers, unskilled doctors and incompetent editors—misfits are found in every profession, and the sooner these are gotten rid of the better, but, taken as a whole, no more zealous, loyal and efficient body of workers can be found than the teachers.

Perhaps to their efficiency is due the fact that there is an ever growing tendency to shift on to the teachers duties which rightfully belong to parents themselves. Gradually the number of subjects in which instruction is given has been increased until the child in the public schools is now expected to learn not only those things which are laid down in the text books, but to receive at least a fair practical education in manual training, domestic science and home management. We go even further than that; the health of the children and the moral training is left largely in the hands of the teachers.

There is now an inclination on the part of some people to require teachers to impart to children truths which should come to their ears only from the lips of parents or, perhaps, in exceptional cases, from the family physician. If the mother is too busy to instill in the minds of her daughters the proper ideas of modesty and purity; if the father can not find time to impart to his sons knowledge which is requisite to the upbuilding of good character and sound physical growth, what is to be expected of the teacher with fifty or sixty children who are under her charge but a few hours of the day?—Holland's Magazine.

Arguments in Criminal Cases.

The trial of a man charged with the awful crime of killing his wife came to a close in Dallas Saturday night. I read nearly all the evidence, and all of the addresses delivered by the principal attorneys for the prosecution and defense. After reading the splendid addresses of the able attorneys I asked myself the question, what kind of a verdict would I favor if I were on the jury? I admit that I could not answer it. The evidence adduced at the trial convinced me that the man was guilty, but the speeches delivered by the attorneys filled me with doubt. And this raises a question in my mind whether it would not serve the interests of justice better to cut out argument in criminal cases and let the jury take up its verdict from the evidence, unclouded by the oratory of skillful attorneys. One of the attorneys for the defense began his very eloquent address with a prayer to the Almighty to so work upon the jurors' minds that they would see the innocence of his client; another attorney for the defense recited with dramatic effect the touching poem, "Mother of Mine," at the conclusion of which the hearers, including the jurors, were in tears, and one woman's sympathies had been so worked upon that she shouted. Following a scene like this conviction is improbable, no matter how damaging the evidence.—Honey Grove Signal.

Another Use for Corn Meal.

To a wise-minded Denison girl belongs the honor for having made a recent discovery that may prove invaluable. As the result of a fire caused by an overflow of gasoline from a stove burner, she discovered that corn meal was an instant fire extinguisher. As the flames from the burning liquid fast endangered the home, she was inspired by a thought that corn meal would serve as an extinguisher, and dashing several handfuls of this wonderful gift of Nature on the angry flames the fire department were not needed—the meal did the work. In consideration of this great use it will behoove scientists to abandon their efforts to confirm the statement that corn meal is conducive to pellagra and without further discredit recommend the growth of its concomitant—corn. Great is the human mind!—Leonard Graph.c.

A Household Medicine

That stops coughs quickly and cures colds is Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Mrs. Anna Pelzer, 2526 Jefferson St. So. Omaha, Neb., says: "I can recommend Foley's Honey and Tar Compound as a sure cure for coughs and colds. It cured my daughter of a bad cold and my neighbor, Mrs. Benson, cured herself and her whole family with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Everyone in our neighborhood speaks highly of it." I. W. Sweet.

There always comes a time in every boy's life when he wishes to leave home, to go out in the broad, open world, where he can be a man of his own and leave the old folks far behind to silently grieve and pray for their wandering boy. It is wrong for you to leave them thus, but you may not realize it until it is too late. Some day you will get a message that the dear old mother, whose heart you so carelessly broke, has passed to where no more sorrow and suffering can be, her last words and blessings being for the child away from home. That will be the darkest hour of your life.—Ex.

There is little danger from a cold or from an attack of the grip except when followed by pneumonia, and this never happens when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. This remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds and grip and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. For sale by all dealers.

The horse is beautiful in himself and admirable to watch in action or to employ in certain forms of pleasure and sport, and he makes an appeal to man to a degree only surpassed by the dog. Come what may in the way of fascinating, cheap, safe transportation by machinery, terrestrial or aerial, some persons, not few in number either, will go on using horses.—Christian Science Monitor.

For coughing, dryness and tickling in the throat, hoarseness and all coughs and colds, take Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Contains no opiates. I. W. Sweet.

BRYAN'S LETTER TO PRESIDENT TAFT.

Asks Why Criminal Prosecutions Are Not Brought Against Trust Officials.

Lincoln, Neb., November 2.—Criminal prosecution of the trusts instead of the equity suits that have been started is the demand of W. J. Bryan in a letter to President Taft, made public today.

Mr. Bryan in his letter says in part:

"Mr. President—Why do you begin a suit in equity instead of a criminal prosecution against the officials of the steel trust? In your attorney general's petition the defendants are charged with the violation of a criminal law. Why do you hesitate to ask for conviction and imprisonment? Is it because the anti trust law is now worthless as a criminal statute since the supreme court has by judicial legislation put the word 'unreasonable' in it? Or is it because you are afraid to punish big criminals as severely as you do little criminals?"

—W. J. Bryan.

There are boys and grown young men in almost every town, and Henderson is no exception, that loaf the streets from the first day of January to the thirty-first day of December who never make an effort to earn a five cent piece, who should be self-supporting instead of living off the sweat of their father's brow. To look at some of them as they stand about the street corners with their emaculate white collars and shirts, patent leather shoes with heels two or more inches in height and a Stetson hat cocked on one side of the head, a stranger would infer that they were either millionaires or sons of such, when at the same time they have not got a nickle in their pockets to buy the tobacco to make the cigarette they are sucking and have to bum the match to light it. Go to work at something boys and show to your fathers, mothers and especially strangers who visit our town that you can be at least self-sustaining.—Rusk County News.

Children who have worms are pale, cross, fretful and sickly most of the time. To rid the little body of these parasites White's Cream Vermifuge is an approved remedy. When the worms have been driven out, the child grows strong, healthy and robust. Price 25c per bottle. Sold by Murchison-Beasley Drug Co.

District Clerk Gets $8.

Austin, Texas, November 1.—The district court clerk is entitled to $8 fee in each felony case tried. Andres Coy, Jr., clerk of the Bexar county district court, was advised to-day in a letter from Assistant Attorney General W. C. Woodward, provision being made by article 1086 of the code of criminal procedure.

Clerk Coy inquired as to a case where two defendants were indicted jointly, but severance afterward was made and each defendant was tried separately. He is entitled to $8 fee for each trial.

THE ENEMY OF CHILDHOOD.

The greatest enemy of childhood is the tape worm and similar parasites. They are the direct cause of the loss of thousands of children who were so weakened by the pernicious action of these pests that they became easy victims of disease. The best protection against worms is to give the children an occasional dose of WHITE'S CREAM VERMIFUGE. It not only removes worms, but acts as a general tonic in the stomach and bowels. Price 25c per Bottle. Sold by Murchison-Beasley Drug Co.

WILL HOLD COTTON.

Financiers Propose to Buy Up 2,000,000 Bales.

New Orleans, Oct. 30.—What is regarded by the gentlemen from Texas who are in attendance on the conference of governors now being held in New Orleans as one of the most important plans presented during today's meeting was that of a group of New York financiers, representing European money in this matter, who propose to buy and hold 2,000,000 bales of the South's cotton.

The plan of the New Yorkers and Europeans was presented to the governors at an executive meeting held this afternoon after the regular conference had adjourned for the day. The precise details of the plan neither Governor Colquitt, Commissioner of Agriculture Kone nor Hon. Clarence Ousley of the Fort Worth Record, and who is responsible for the calling of the present conference, would explain. Beyond saying that such a plan had been submitted at the executive conference the gentlemen would not speak, nor would they say whether or not it commends itself to the favor of the gentlemen who were present at the meeting. They, however, indicated that if a practical system can be developed the money necessary to carry it on will not be lacking to withdraw from the market that which the spinning world regards as a surplus in the present crop.

Benefits From Local Fairs.

The main purpose of local and state fairs is educational, and the amount of benefit which they afford to a section can hardly be over-estimated. The isolated farmer is brought into touch with the work of his competitors, and improvement in varieties and methods of culture is the result. In order that the exhibits shall be of great benefit it is necessary that they shall be classified and arranged systematically; the surest means of arriving at the comparative merits of two specimens is to place them side by side. A haphazard scattering of similar displays throughout an exhibition adds to difficulties of the judge's task and robs the competitive object lesson of much of its force. Although occasionally the management is lax in this respect, as a rule great care is exercised to bring out the real object of the institution. Horticultural fairs and exhibits have been a potent factor in the development of the business of scientific fruit raising in California and elsewhere.—Southwestern Farmer.

Money in Raising Turkeys.

Cuero, Texas, November 1.—Last year Dewitt county farmers realized a quarter of a million dollars from sales of turkeys. The crop this year promises to excel that of last year, as the local packing houses report heavy receipts during the past few days and the receipts will be very heavy from now until Thanksgiving. One local packing house has now turned its entire attention to packing turkeys for the Northern markets.

J. E. Parker, 2021 No. 10th St., Ft. Smith, Ark., says that he had taken many kinds of kidney medicine, but did not get better until he took Foley Kidney Pills. ALMOST UNKNOWN; SELDOM INVOKED.

Mayors and Recorders of Incorporated Places May Hold Examining Trials.

Mayors and recorders of incorporated cities and towns may hold examining trials in felony cases, Assistant Attorney General W. C. Woodward advised to-day, under the code of criminal procedure. This is a power not generally known and seldom invoked, such hearings generally being held by justices of the peace. The authority was noted by Mr. Woodward in response to a request for a ruling from Mayor D. T. Price of Yoakum. Mayor Price referred only to crimes committed within the corporate limits, however, but Mr. Woodward is of the opinion that the mayor or recorder may examine anywhere within the county, as the statute provides they shall act as magistrates in such trials, not in their city official capacity.

In such cases the mayor or recorder will not receive compensation from the state, as the statute provides that fees for examining trials shall be paid only to justices, county judges, sheriffs, constables and district and county attorneys.

Mule Case Settled.

The county court has been engaged for nearly a week in the case of L. R. Bounds vs. Willie Williams for the title and possession of a mule valued at $150, the cost running up to $750, five times the value of the mule. It was claimed that plaintiff Bounds gave his niece, Mrs. Freeman, a mule colt, with the understanding that if she sold it or otherwise disposed

She sold the mule to defendant Williams after it was grown and Bounds sued for it, Williams claiming he had paid full value for it and had no notice of the conditions attached to the gift. A Mail Carrier's Load

Seems heavier when he has a weak back and kidney trouble. Fred Duehren, mail carrier at Atchison, Kas., says: "I have been bothered with kidney and bladder trouble and had a severe pain across my back. Whenever I carried a heavy load of mail, my kidney trouble increased. Some time ago I started taking Foley Kidney Pills and since taking them I have gotten entirely rid of all my kidney trouble and am as sound now as ever." I. W. Sweet.

The Texas farmers, for example, buy approximately 100 car loads of pork per week, while hogs can be raised as cheap on Texas farms as in any state in the Union. In fact, all the necessities and most all the luxuries of life can be raised in Texas and by so doing we will solve many perplexing problems relating to the high cost of living.—Ex.

WOULD BUY A SEAPORT.

Arizona Wants for a Big Slice of the Republic of Mexico.

"There is some rather quiet but peculiar talk going on in Arizona just now," said a man just up from Western Mexico by way of the unfledged state. "Now that statehood is assured Arizona wants to have a seaport. To that end a lot of people are discussing under their breaths the possibility of another Gadsden Purchase.

"When that purchase, which added over forty-five thousand square miles to the areas of what are now Arizona and New Mexico, was made from Mexico, it was violently opposed, as the ten million dollar outlay was considered a waste of money. Yet people in Arizona point out that half a billion dollars has since been taken out of that ground. They are crazy down there about becoming a Pacific Coast state, and they figure out that if this government could acquire a strip less than two hundred miles wide it would serve the purpose.

"Men who are familiar with conditions in Mexico argue that it would not be difficult to persuade the government to sell a piece of Sonora for a good cash consideration. That is a part of Mexico that has always given the Mexican government a great deal of trouble, and some people figure that it is of little value to Mexico and would be of great value to the United States, particularly to Arizona, which foresees vast possibilities opening up with the completion of the Panama Canal with cheap freight rates from the Atlantic coast and a rapidly developing empire. But people in Arizona are so scared at their own idea of a territorial acquisition that so far they are only whispering about it."—New York Sun.

Almost Present.

Terrible as it is to be slain in battle, there is one thing the soldier fears worse, declares a veteran. That is to miss the honor of taking part in a great battle and to die ingloriously at home when his country needs him. An artilleryman from Michigan brought this out during the civil war.

The man had only just gone to the front and had seen no real fighting. One day while on the march he fell and was run over by the gun carriage. He was so badly crushed that, sorely against his will, he had to be furloughed and sent home.

While he lay in bed under the doctor's care the battle of Gettysburg was fought. The man feared he would die, and keenly regretted that, since he must go, it could not have been on that glorious field. He called upon the doctor to hear his last request.

"Doctor, if I go, promise me this. My stone shall bear these words: 'Killed at Gettysburg in front of battle.'"

"But you weren't," objected the physician.

"I know. But it wasn't my fault. If you can't say that, then say, 'Killed at Gettysburg—during a temporary absence at Brookfield, Mich.'"—Youth's Companion.

The man who produces something is worth more to the community than a dozen men who manipulate and extract only a profit from the handling of the product. It is the farmer who is the mainstay of the country. It may take a little time, but the farmer will eventually be master of us all. When he learns to control what he produces he will solve the cost of living problem.—Beaumont Enterprise.

Lee's Idea of a Gentleman.

Lee hated parade, display and ceremony, hated above all things being made an object of public gaze and adulation. His idea of high position was high responsibility; a superior was simply one who had larger duties, and the mark of a gentleman was a keen sense of the feelings and susceptibilities of others.

No one has ever expressed this attitude more delicately than he himself in a memorandum found among his papers after his death. "The forbearing use of power does not only form a touchstone, but the manner in which an individual enjoys certain advantages over others is a test of a true gentleman.

"The power which the strong have over the weak, the magistrate over the citizen, the employer over the employed, the educated over the unlettered, the experienced over the confiding, even the clever over the silly—the forbearing or inoffensive use of all this power or authority, or a total abstinence from it when the case admits it, will show the gentleman in a plain light.

"The gentleman does not needlessly and unnecessarily remind an offender of a wrong he may have committed against him. He can not only forgive, he can forget; and he strives for that nobleness of self and mildness of character which impart sufficient strength to let the past be but the past. A true man of honor feels humbled himself when he can not help humbling others."—Atlantic Monthly.

Froud of New Jail.

San Antonio, Texas, November 2.—Every man, woman and child entering the new county jail, except the already very clean, will be required to take a bath and wear sterilized clothing until his or her own habiliments have been fumigated and rendered germless. The county officials propose to keep vermin out of the new jail.

Dr. D. Berrey, county health officer, is drawing up a set of rules to govern the new jail from a hygienic standpoint. These are to be adopted by the commissioners' court and will be enforced on all.

A band of deaf and dumb musicians would seem to be an impossibility. But that is not the case, for in the New York Institution for the Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb—the first military school for the deaf in the world—there is a band of twenty-nine musicians who have a repertoire of one hundred and eighty-five selections which they play with great accuracy and sweetness. The vibrations of music seem to vitalize the hearing nerves so that some boys regarded as totally deaf become what is usually termed "very hard of hearing."—Youth's Companion.

What He Took.

Some children were talking of their school studies. Some "took" reading, spelling and definition, others drawing and music.

"And what do you take, sonnie?" was asked of the silent youngling of the group.

"Readin', writin', an' spankin'." was the unexpected answer.

Jack Johnson Is Dead Broke.

Jack Johnson is in Europe now and the report reaches us that he is dead broke. A year ago Jack had $150,000, but he's a fair spender himself, and then he has a white wife who is an adept at ordering wine, big dinners, hats and other things. Jack went to France not long since to train for a fight with an Englishman, but England has a little more self-respect than Uncle Sam and refused to allow a prize fight between a negro and a white man to be pulled off on her soil. Jack expected to replenish his exchequer to the extent of many thousand dollars, but the fight is off, and Jack's dead broke. The dispatches say he recently grew very angry with his white wife in a French cafe and slapped her.

This naturally grates upon a white man's nerves a little, yet we are only sorry he did not slap his spouse every day while he was in this country, as this would have meant the converting of Jack's carcass into a lead mine. According to reports, Jack spent several months in Honey Grove some twelve or fifteen years ago. At one time he served as motive power for the Signal's press, a place now filled by a gasoline engine, which does the work better and does not smell so loud. Anyway, we ain't a bit sorry that Jack's dead broke on foreign soil, and while cotton pickers are badly needed in this section, we trust nobody will pay Jack's fare across the big briny.—Honey Grove Signal.

Was Not His Wife.

"A man left alone in Baltimore this summer with a negro cook called her into the dining room and said, 'Confound you, Maria, I want my meals cooked better hereafter or out the door you go; I don't propose to pay you $30 a month to send in everything I eat burned to a crisp.' 'Look here,' retorted Maria, 'don't you talk that way to me, you just 'member who I is; I don't like your tone of voice, and I ain't no trash for you to holler at; you mustn't take me for yo' wife.'"

In damp, chilly weather there is always a large demand for Ballard's Snow Liniment because many people who know by experience its great relieving power in rheumatic aches and pains, prepare to apply it at the first twinge. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Murchison-Beasley Drug Co.

SAVING MONEY.

A Dollar a Week Put into the Bank is a Good Investment.

"It is mighty hard," said an unfortunate workman some time ago to the writer, "to save up a thousand dollars by laying aside a dollar or two a week and then to take it out of the savings bank and lose it to a get rich quick swindler, as I have just done." The poor fellow could work and save, but he had not had even a kindergarten education in finance, else his story would have been different. He had never given a thought to interest and so was absolutely ignorant of growth through compound interest and, of course, had never heard of that wonderful process of accumulation known as "progressive compound interest."

One dollar deposited in a savings bank that pays 4 per cent will amount to $2.19 in twenty years. This is simple compound interest. Now, if you deposit $1 every year for twenty years, or $20 in all, the sum to your credit will have grown to $30.97.

Any wage earner can put by $1 a week. That money deposited in a savings bank for twenty years will have increased to $1,612. A deposit of $5 a week will have grown to $8,000, and this at 4 per cent will be $320 a year. There is no secret, no mystery, about this. It is as clear as the cloudless sun, and the method is just as clean and honest."—Christian Herald.

CAN'T READ THEIR LIPS.

When Actors Do Not Face the Audience it Bothers the Deaf.

"Time and time again we're asked to have our actors face the audience squarely when speaking lines that are of great importance," a theatrical manager said recently. "The explanation for the request is generally the same—that deaf people in the audience who depend on lip reading rather than hearing lose the run of the play if some important lines are spoken by a person whose lips can't be read. An actor or actress who's stuck on posing in profile is always the despair of the deaf people in the audience, as they say it's almost impossible to read lips in profile.

"Out ticket agent hears another side of the same question. People tell him when buying tickets that some one in the party is stone deaf and must read the lips of the actors in order to follow the play. Then they ask him on which side of the theater these particular seats should be located to make this lip reading the most satisfactory. Often the stage setting decides which way the actors must face, and if a deaf person gets on the wrong side of the house the play is practically lost."—New York Sun.

Too Late.

Mr. B. drove up in a hansom and entered the jeweler's shop accompanied by his valet, who carried an oblong box of steel. Mr. B. asked for a private interview, and on being shown into the office he opened the box, exposing a splendid array of diamond and pearl necklaces, earrings, tiaras and rings.

"Mrs. B.," he said, "is now abroad. Before she returns I want you to extract these stones and replace them with good imitations, selling the real jewels and giving me the money. This, of course, is to be a confidential transaction. Mrs. B. is to know nothing of it."

"My dear sir," said the jeweler, "I should be glad to do as you ask, but it is impossible. Two years ago Mrs. B. called here on the same errand that now brings you, and this errand in her case was successful. The paste jewels that you offer me are worth little more than the hire of the hansom awaiting you outside."—London Tit-Bits.

Mr. S. E. Marshall died at the home of Mr. Thos. Self in this city on last Saturday afternoon. Mr. Marshall was the father of Mrs. Self and was 73 years of age. He and his wife came to Crockett during the latter part of September to visit their daughter and son-in-law, and it was during the Houston county fair that he became ill. His case was considered serious from the beginning and outside relatives were summoned to his bedside, but his condition soon showed improvement and it was thought the worst had passed. A relapse, however, followed shortly and the end came Saturday afternoon. He died of dysintery. The remains were prepared for shipment and conveyed to the train Sunday morning to be forwarded to Whitewright for interment. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall's home was at Whitewright. They had visited Crockett often and made many friends among our people and many hearts are made sad by the death. The funeral services were from the residence of Mr. Self Sunday morning.

THE PEOPLE AGAIN DUPED.

The Circus Takes Advantage of a Bad Law to Skin the People.

Hagenbeck & Wallace's circus has come and gone and with it much of the money of the people. This fact would not be so bad if the people had got their money's worth. The Courier realizes that the people of Houston county are hard working and stand in need at this season of the year of just such recreation and pleasure as a good and wholesome circus furnishes. But when they pay their hard-earned money to see a circus, and this they did not see in Crockett on last Monday. It is true that they saw a good show of well-trained animals, a good menagerie, some good trapeze and acrobatic feats and the like. But the main circus features were missing. Out in a side tent were about fifty fine ring horses that were seen only in the parade. They were not brought into the circus rings. They were not brought in because the show people saved $210 in state and county taxes by not bringing them in.

The state and county tax on a show that is not a circus is $15. On a circus the state and county tax is $225. In order to evade the payment of $210 in taxes the show people omitted from their program all circus features and gave a trained animal and acrobatic exhibition. They paid only $15 state and county tax. Thus the people were duped. The people paid to see a circus, but did not see it. The Courier does not lay all the blame on the circus people. The show management claimed that the circus tax was prohibitive and that the course they pursued was the only one open to them. The Courier blames the legislature for the bad law. The law prescribes that all circuses shall pay the high tax and that all other exhibitions shall pay a much lower tax. It ought to have been evident to the legislature that the law would be taken advantage of. It seems to the Courier that the legislature should have passed a law prescribing that all tented exhibitions, travelling from place to place and charging certain prices of admission, should pay an equal burden of taxation whether it be a trained animal show, a wild west exhibition, a menagerie and acrobatic exhibition, or what not. The law could be worded so as to take them all in and the tax fixed according to the price of admission. This is not the first time the people of Crockett have been duped in this way. The last two circuses here before this one did the same thing. The circuses have been doing this thing all over Texas for six years or more and the law is yet uncorrected. The people have no remedy except in the legislature and the legislature when it meets is too busy playing politics to think of the people.

Hagenbeck & Wallace's show, with its circus feature, including bareback riding, chariot riding, etc., is one of the big shows of this country and can cut out half of its show and then give a fairly good exhibition.

BLOCK GOES UP IN SMOKE.

Disastrous Fire Visits Crockett on Last Wednesday Night.

At about 2:30 o'clock on Wednesday night of last week, or, to be more correct, on Thursday morning, the night watchman, Mr. C. W. Ellis, sounded the alarm of fire by discharging his revolver and yelling "fire." Mike Younas, owning and conducting a store on Main street, a block west of the public square, was among the first to discover the fire, and he says that it started in front of and across the street from his store. He says that when he ran to his front door he saw the blaze eating out the partition between the corner restaurant and the pool room adjoining. It was not long until both houses were in flames and the flames spreading to adjoining property. The wind was from the northeast and blowing a pretty stiff norther. The fire spread from the negro restaurant on the corner to the residence of "Aunt" Amy Fluker, south of the restaurant, and from there to a stack of lumber. West from the corner restaurant the flames licked up the pool room, three wooden buildings owned by George Johnson, the negro tinner, one of which was occupied by him and the other two as a barbershop and a restaurant. From these buildings it consumed the two houses of Dink Anna Johnson, colored, one of which was run as a restaurant and the other as a grocery store. From here it spread to the lumber yard office, across the street to the shop of Parsley-Paine Machine and Manufacturing Co., the residence of Dink Anna Johnson and to a house south of the machine shop occupied by negroes. While the flames were spreading south and west, the heat on the north side was terrific, from which the blacksmith shop of R. A. High and the Cunyus barn and building were consumed. The Cunyus building was occupied as a storage room and livery barn downstairs and as a negro hall upstairs. The buildings were all old wooden frames and an easy prey to the flames, which spread rapidly. The fire company arrived soon after the alarm was given and set to work to save adjoining property. Streams of water were thrown onto Mike Younas' house until it was out of danger, then attention was turned to Carlton's bottling works, south of the fire, where the flames were checked with but little damage. From here the company worked around to the south of the fire and devoted its time to saving the house of Lewis Davis. At this line the flames were successfully checked and subdued.

The losses are estimated as follows: M. Bromberg, three houses, loss $3000, insurance $1000; Henry Gray, restaurant, loss $150, no insurance; N. F. Walker, pool room, loss $800, insurance $500; William Scott, barber shop, loss $300, no insurance; George Johnson, tin-shop and three houses, loss heavy, no insurance; Dink Anna Johnson, two houses, total loss; H. F. Moore, lumber yard building, loss $1500, no insurance; lumber yard stock, loss heavy, $2500 insurance; Parsley-Paine Machine and Mfg. Co., loss $1600, insurance $1000; M. Bromberg, house, loss unknown; Mike Younas, damage by fire and water, $150, covered by insurance; A. M. Carlton, fire and water damage, covered by insurance; R. A. High, blacksmith shop, loss between $600 and $1000, no insurance; two other blacksmith shops, total loss; Cunyus building, loss $800, insurance $600; Edmiston Bros., warehouse, loss $1500, covered by insurance; negro lodge room upstairs, total loss; Dink Anna Johnson, boarding house, loss $2000, no insurance.

The origin of the fire is generally believed to have been accidental.

Let Us Help the Unfortunate.

Mr. Editor:

It has occurred to me that the people of Crockett, both white and colored, should come to the aid of those who were so unfortunate as to lose practically all that they had, including their homes, in the recent burning of the southwestern part of the town.

In fact I had expected that some effort would have been made before now to raise contributions for their benefit. This misfortune has fallen upon a class of our citizenship who are in poor shape to bear it. True, the most of them are negroes, but that does not at all allay the degree of the loss.

I have talked with nearly, if not all of these people, and, without exception, the fire has left them in sore distress, only one of them having saved a thing except what they managed to get on their bodies for wearing apparel. In many cases so hard pressed were they that they just barely had time to escape with their lives, so late in the night and so unexpected was the fire.

It seems to me that it is entirely fitting and proper for the City Council to take the lead in this matter and start the aid by a liberal contribution out of the city treasury, and then appoint a committee from its own members to see our people and receive contributions and look after the disbursement of the same. This, I think, is important, for the reason that the fund should be distributed according to the loss and the neediness of the recipients of the favor. I sincerely hope the Council, and if not, then some generous and benevolently inclined citizen will take hold of the matter and raise a fund for these unfortunate people.

According to my way of thinking, this is a very important and worthy undertaking, and should not be delayed. Many of the victims of this fire are left without a thing in the world save the clothes on their backs, all of them losing not only their household goods, but their homes as well. In their number are the old-time "slaves," a rapidly disappearing class of the colored race and among the most deserving element of that people. They also include the "old black mammy," an object that appeals strongly to every Southern heart, and now, in their old days, when overtaken by calamity and stripped of nearly everything they possessed, it is certainly becoming both white and colored to come to their aid and help them to "tide over" a period of great distress as far as it may be in their power to do so. I am sure this will appeal favorably to the press of the town and trust that something worthy of the needs of the occasion will be done without delay.

Getting Married.

Higgins News: Getting married in Kansas is strenuous business. A couple in that state appeared before the judge to be married, and the groom got so frightened he fainted in the bride's arms. keeping house, who hasn't nerve enough to face the altar with his sweetheart on his arm deserves no consideration at the hands of lovers of humanity. Of course, getting married is rather a trying ordeal for even a brave and pugnacious man. It makes the gamest of men wobble at the knees and turn pallid under the gills. But it has to be done, and no man who claims to be a sane and substantial citizen should be craven enough to sidestep his duty to society and himself. It is like having a roaring tooth pulled—the victim does not deny that the offending molar ought to come out, but he simply can't help being shy of the dentist's office. As for the Kansan neargroom, he made an awful mess of his matrimonial adventure. To swoon at the chancel rail is carrying timidity too far. No woman has any patience with a coward, particularly a coward who is afraid of woman. That poor Kansas dub will never regain the respect of the girl who almost threw herself away on him, and he will go through life forlorn and broken-hearted. Better for him had he mauled his dulcinea with his fist and dragged her to a Justice of the Peace by her scalplock. At least she would have been bound to admit that he was no molly-coddle, even if his method were too brusque.—Dallas News.

Yankee as an "Easy Mark."

An indignant native New Yorker tells his troubles to the New York Sun in the following quaint letter:

Sir: It appears to me that the lot of the native New Yorker is not enviable. He builds great schools, costing millions to maintain, and foreigners occupy them. He builds great libraries; foreign publishers supply them. He builds subways; foreign capital operates them. The foreigner occupies the streets and sidewalks and shoves the native into the street. If the native resents being shoved off the sidewalk he is either shot or knifed. If he does not pay the Black Hand Society the price it demands, his children are kidnapped or his house is dynamited.

In view of these facts, what, may I ask, are the advantages gained by us for spending our millions to educate and pamper the foreigner, who only laughs at us for our generosity?

And then when he acquires a fortune he goes back to his native land, lives like a lord, and tells his neighbors what an easy mark the Yankee is.
