TRIP OF PRESIDENT INTERESTS CONGRESS.

Announced Intention to Speak On Preparedness Likely to Cause Much Debate.

Washington, Jan. 23.—President Wilson's determination to talk to the people of the Middle West on national preparedness has had the effect of restoring that issue as the uppermost subject of interest and discussion in congress.

Democratic leaders thoroughly in sympathy with the president's views on preparedness are gratified over the purpose of the chief executive, inasmuch as there has been apparent in congress for some time a tendency to adopt a waiting policy among many members uncertain regarding the views of their constituents on the subject. The president's tour, it is believed, will serve the double purpose of bringing out public opinion and stirring up members of congress.

On the other hand, opponents of preparedness see in the president's trip an opportunity to further their cause by replying to his arguments in the senate and the house.

Uneasiness over the Mexican situation, which stirred congress for more than a week, has greatly abated and probably will not be revived soon unless sensational developments should occur in Mexico.

Administration leaders regard the danger of being forced into difficulties with Carranza averted for the present, and even republicans of the senate have concluded not to force the issue of intervention to a vote at this time. Senator Borah, one of the foremost believers in the necessity of military action in Mexico by the United States, has decided that there is nothing to be done at this time. When the senate foreign relations committee declined to act on intervention resolutions last week, Senator Borah had contemplated a motion to discharge the committee from further consideration of the resolutions, but a canvass of the republicans showed them almost unanimously against such a move.

Democratic leaders in both houses expect Mexican speeches to be made now and then as a matter of course, but they are satisfied that the situation is in their control, for the present at least. Some time during the week, Representative Humphrey of Washington expects to make a speech assailing the administration's Mexican policy. It also is probable that President Wilson's reply to the senate, in which a mass of detail regarding Carranza and Mexico will be included, will serve to arouse interest of congress again. It is probable now that his reply will not be sent to the senate until the president returns from his Western tour.

Interest still is apparent at the capital in the European situation, but no immediate action is looked for.

With regard to legislation in general, both houses continue to travel

Telephone Message from Oil Field, Fourteen Miles East of Crockett, Tells of Lucky Strike. Indications are for a Gusher.

Rothwell Tims, the driller for the Houston County Oil Company, operating in the field 14 miles east of Crockett, on the J. A. Beathard place, telephoned to Crockett Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock that an immense oil strata had been struck and the drill closed down. He said that the machinery would be immediately set and other preparations made for taking care of the oil when released from the casing. The well will be baled, cased and tested. The capacity of the well will not be known until these things are done and it will require several days to do them.

Two weeks ago the drillers penetrated a thirty-five foot strata of oil-bearing sand at a depth of 390 feet. They believed the indications good for a gusher and kept the drill going. A few days ago it was reported that the caprock was struck. Mr. Tims' telephone message Wednesday morning indicates that the looked-for gusher has been found. If the well, after being cased and freed, does not prove to be a gusher, there is no question but what an immense oil strata has been opened. Whether it is a gusher or pumper, all roads are beginning to lead to the Houston county oil field or fields.

Crockett the Center of an Oil-Development Triangle.

Crockett is becoming the center of active oil operations. Fourteen miles east of Crockett, on the J. A. Beathard place, where the Houston County Oil Company is operating, an oil field of unknown quality, quantity and breadth is being developed. From all reports this company has the oil beyond question.

West of Crockett, in the Porter Springs section, the Twin Hills Oil Company is preparing to operate. Organization has been perfected and stock is being sold. The Twin Hills Company has every indication of oil, and confidence in the project is not lacking. Operations in this field are to begin as soon as competent drillers and machinery can

Oil Field Interest Continues.

Editor Courier:

Respecting the new oil company recently organized in Crockett, we beg to say that the company is capitalized at $10,000 and the charter applied for. Those who first interested themselves in the Crockett field are experienced oil men from Houston and Austin. They had invested largely in a field at San Leon, Texas; they were persuaded to come up and overlook the prospects at Crockett and nearby. To say that they were astounded to see such indications at our very doors and never touched is but stating it mildly. They at once suspended activity at San Leon, came to Crockett and investigated. They are frank to proclaim their almost unqualified confidence in the effort to develop the biggest oil field in Texas. And they are men who have had experience and operated in the fields at Thrall, Humble and Sour Lake, and don't hesitate to say from their inspection of this field that Crockett is close to a great volume of oil and that no known field can compare with it. The writer is not an oil expert and cannot from experience interpret the secrets of nature; for years, however, he, like others, has had an abiding faith and belief that this old town is close to an oil supply of incalculable amount and value. We are presenting briefly the reasons actuating us in our plan of action, and desire to say to the public that when men from a distance have such confidence in the resources of our section for creating prosperity among us, we feel that they have a right to hope that their efforts may be met by a spirit of generous cooperation from all who can help. We trust that it will not be overlooked by the public-spirited citizens of this section that such an enterprise as developing a great oil field appeals to every one who feels a pride in his town and county, and ought to command support from every one who recognizes the measure of prosperity to follow such development. We use this method to extend to all the opportunity of helping those who have engaged in this undertaking. We almost know that a vast treasure is somewhere under us and near us.

W. B. Page,
For the Company.

Sonley LeMay for County Attorney.

I desire to announce to the voters of Houston county my candidacy for the office of county attorney.

I was born in Houston county fourteen miles east of Crockett on Hickory Creek, and have lived practically all my life in the community where I was born and at Crockett. For two years I was teacher in the public schools of Houston county, having taught at Porter Springs and Belott.

For the past four years I attended the University of Texas, thereby endeavoring to prepare myself for my chosen profession of law, and I completed the course and obtained license to practice.

Since it was necessary for me to work during the summer to earn part of my expenses while attending school, it has been impossible for me to be in Houston county as much as I wished, and so I desire to assure the people of my home county that it has been necessity and not choice which has caused my absence from home.

I am at present principal of the Jasper High School at Jasper, Texas, but intend to return to Houston county some time in May, and it is my sincere desire to make myself known to the voters and submit to them my qualifications for the office.

Trusting that it will be my pleasure to be with you again in the near future, I am very respectfully,

Sonley LeMay.

RAILROAD CARMEN PASS RESOLUTIONS OF ENDORSEMENT.

I & G. N. Railroad Shopmen Endorse Strickland for the State Senate.

Whereas, Hon. J. J. Strickland has announced as a candidate for state senator, and whereas in private life and in an official capacity he has been the untiring friend of organized labor and been true to every trust imposed upon him by the people, and whereas, we deeply appreciate the fact that he has made it possible for us to work under adequate car sheds, thus protecting us from the weather.

Therefore be it resolved that we express our appreciation for past services and tender to him our unqualified endorsement for the position to which he now aspires.

Be it further resolved that a copy of this be given to the press.

Bad Cold Quickly Broken Up.

Mrs. Martha Wilcox, N. Y., writes: "I first used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy about eight years ago. At that time I had a hard cold and coughed most of the time. It proved to be just what I needed. It broke up the cold in a few days, and the cough entirely disappeared. I have told many of my friends of the good I received through using this medicine, and all who have used it speak of it in the highest terms." Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

The nineteenth annual convention of the American National live stock association, which will be held in El Paso Jan. 25-27, will be, from many points of view, the most important meeting of live stock interests ever held within the confines of the United States.

The engineer in charge of the work of repairing and constructing Erath county roads, says that to date about $12,000 has been expended in projects 1, 2 and 4. About 18 miles of grading has been completed and 23 steel bridges erected. The contract or $140,000 worth of work was recently let by the commissioner's court.

What is considered the most far-reaching and important campaign the Baptists of Texas have ever conducted along any line in the Texas Baptist education forward campaign, which was started in Dallas Saturday to raise $1,000,000 for their schools in Texas. The acquirement of a monster steel plant with a capitalization of $2,500,000 is the latest industrial triumph of Beaumont. The key rate of Oak Cliff was reduced from 22c to 21c for the installation of an additional piece of motor-driven fire apparatus and the adoption of national electrical code.

Martial law was declared in El Paso Thursday by Gen. Joseph J. Pershing, commanding at Fort Bliss. Four companies of the Sixteenth Infantry were ordered to take charge in the downtown district after it was apparent the police were powerless to check the crowds. TEXAS SWINE BREEDERS END INTERESTING SESSION

Warehouse Organization and Co-operative Marketing Were Discussed by Knowing Speakers.

Seguin, Tex.—At the meeting of the Texas Swine Breeders' Association Wednesday an address was made by State Warehouse Manager F. C. Weinert, who spoke of the importance of warehouse organization and co-operative marketing.

George P. Lillard of Seguin spoke on the subject "Obligations of Buyer and Seller of Pure-Bred Hogs."

Fred W. Davis, commissioner of agriculture, made an informal talk on "Texas Feeding Itself." He said thousands of tons of cabbage were being wasted in South Texas, while Austin alone paid out $7,500 for kraut last year.

Colonel F. B. Holland of Dallas made an interesting talk to the several score of children in the audience.

O. C. Payne of Dallas talked on the "Essentials Necessary to Happy, Livable Farm Life." He stressed the importance of nice houses, church facilities, good schools and good roads as the necessities.

G. Queensbury of Plainview spoke of the necessity of "Sanitation in the Hog Lot."

Dr. Frank R. Jones of Washington, D. C., made an extensive talk on "Hog Cholera," declaring the disease is caused by germs, and that serum treatment will save most of them.

"How to Ship Hogs" was the subject of an able paper by T. P. Pressly of Kingsbury.

The program was closed by a hog judging demonstration by John C. Burns, professor of animal industry, A. and M. College. He used a pen of hogs furnished by local breeders.

The following were appointed a committee on resolutions: A. E. Flowers, O. C. Payne, George P. Lillard, L. B. Burk, E. W. Houston.

The committee reported as follows: "The present annual midwinter session of the Texas Swine Breeders' Association is one of the best in its history. The program has been most excellent, the cordial hospitality of the people of Seguin has been supremely satisfying, and the local attendance more than ordinarily to be appreciated; therefore be it

"Resolved, That this association thanks the good people of Seguin and Guadalupe county, the press of the state and the Seguin Chamber of Commerce for their efforts in our behalf.

"The object of the Swine Breeders' Association is to promote the raising of more and better hogs on Texas farms. To achieve this end the farmer must have a satisfactory market for his surplus stock. He must get a fair share of the price the consumer pays for packing house products, and prices must be reasonably stable. For four months hogs have sold on the Fort Worth market for an average of less than 7c, while the average cost of the consumer of breakfast bacon has been 30c to 40c per pound. The price of hogs sometimes declines as much as 75c in a day. With such market conditions, manifestly unsatisfactory to producer and consumer, hog raising can not prosper, and the entire state suffers; therefore be it

"Resolved by the Texas Swine Breeders' Association, That a committee of five be appointed to meet with the committee of the American National Live Stock Association at El Paso, January 24, and with the Texas Cattle Raisers' Association at Houston, March 20, to discuss ways and means of devising an effective system of equitably and economically marketing live stock."

These were adopted and a committee appointed as follows: Hon. F. W. Davis, chairman; F. C. Weinert, W. C. McKamey, O. C. Payne and L. B. Burke.

Misleading.

Rev. George R. Lunn, the new Socialist mayor of Schenectady, was congratulated on his election.

"The people have confidence in the honesty of my party's policy," he said. "Our opponents tried to put our principles in a false light, but the people couldn't be fooled. They knew that the opposition's animadversions on our principles were as misleading as the bachelor's description of his sister's new baby."

"Asked to describe this new arrival, the bachelor replied: "Um! Very small features, clean-shaven, red-faced and a very hard drinker."

Quite Different.

"What is meant by the odor of sanctity, father?"

"I don't exactly know, my son, but you may be sure it isn't anything like the odors that float over to Riverside drive from the glue factories in Jersey."

MAKES ICE IN HOT WATER

Boston Scientist Also Has Succeeded in Boiling an Egg in Freezing Temperature.

Dr. P. W. Bridgman of Boston, in creating new substances by pressure in the Harvard chemical laboratory, has crystallized water at nearly the boiling point. Only the limitations of his apparatus have prevented him from making ice at a temperature of thousands of degrees above zero, where the hardest metals melt. This hot ice is the permanent form of water under very high pressure, such as exists in the interior of the earth.

Twenty-two other liquids also have been crystallized at high temperature under the doctor's laboratory use of the immense forces of geology. He has produced black phosphorus and 30 other new substances by pressure and also boiled an egg at freezing temperature by squeezing it with a pressure of 180,000 pounds to the square inch.

The Courier editor is recovering from an attack of la grippe or the grip. It makes no difference which way you spell it, it is bad enough. Editor Weimar's description is good as far as it goes, but does not go far enough. It does not take into account the earaches, etc., which create a new demand for a staple product—cotton—absorbent cotton. But who wants to have the earache just to boost the cotton market? Not this editor, any more. After fighting it out in his office for a week, he was laid up in bed for a week or more, but is glad to say that he is now able to be at his office again, although by no means fully recovered.

Judge Seldon A. McMeans, formerly of Palestine, but now a member of the court of civil appeals at Galveston, will have an opponent for re-election as associate justice in the person of Hon. George W. Graves of Houston, who has announced his candidacy through the state press. Mr. Graves was born in the old school town of Salado, Bell county, in 1872, the same town in which Governor Ferguson was born; graduated from the Southwestern University at Georgetown; was principal of the Belton public schools for three years; entered the law practice at Waco in 1897; moved to Houston in 1903; is a son-in-law of Judge W. L. Davidson of the court of criminal appeals. Mr. Graves has taken the position that the office of associate justice, being a judicial one, is non-political and therefore the proprieties would be violated by the announcement of any political platform or a statement of views upon any political questions or pending issues.

George S. Bruce, immigration and industrial agent for the International & Great Northern Railway, with headquarters in Houston, was in Crockett Tuesday to attend the mass meeting at the court house in the interest of the organization of a marketing association. Mr. Bruce, representing the industrial department of the railroad company, brought a message to the peanut growers of Houston county. Realizing the immense possibilities of the peanut, he investigated the question of marketing and found a concern in Houston, the Fidelity Cotton Oil Company, ready to take all the peanuts that may be grown. This company has already bought this year something like 500,000 bushels and expects to greatly increase this figure next year. Other cotton oil companies are putting in machinery and will be in the market for peanuts next fall. Mr. Bruce says the railroad company wants to co-operate with the farmers in finding a market for all farm products, and that all letters of inquiry addressed to the railroad's industrial department at Houston will receive prompt attention and reply.

Eight Japanese fishermen recently drifted across the Pacific ocean, landing on one of the islands off the British Columbian shore after 24 days of great hardship. The incident affords a concrete illustration of how some of the American aborigines may have arrived. There have been instances within the memory of man of Chinese junks drifting across the Pacific and landing on the Pacific coast. Much of the ancient civilization of Peru and Mexico bears evidence of Oriental origin, and among the legends of Peru are accounts of white men reaching Peruvian shores from afar. Speculations—as to the origin of the American Indian has not been of as much interest as speculation regarding the origin of those highly civilized peoples whom the Spanish conquistadores found in the Americas. Time and again attention has been called to the remarkable physical similarity between certain types of Mexicans and the Japanese. Since the incident of the Japanese fishermen, speculation would seem superfluous.

No better indication of the vast resources of American agriculture is to be had than the figures recently published by the agricultural department upon farm animals. In spite of the fact that 450,000 horses and 125,000 mules were shipped to Europe last year, the number on the farms on January 1 was only 29,000 less than a year ago, while mules show an increase of 89,000. There was an increase of 726,000 in milk cows, an increase of 2,386,000 in other cattle, an increase of 3,429,000 in hogs, and a decrease of 96,000 in sheep. Since the beginning of the war the demand for American packinghouse products has gone up by leaps and bounds, and the slaughter of meat animals has kept pace with the demands. In spite of this, the increases in all of the principal meat animals is very noticeable. There can be only one answer, providing the accuracy of the report is unquestioned, the showing indicates that the American farmer is devoting more of his attention to the breeding of livestock.

FREE SEED DISTRIBUTION.

In a discussion of the long-existing practice of congressmen of distributing seeds free to their constituents the Houston Post takes this view:

"The Department of Agriculture might take the money that the seeds cost and do much for agriculture, with the co-operation of experimental stations and extension bureaus, and it has frequently advised the abolishment of the present system of distribution. But representatives cling to it because of the political advantages which they think accrue to them. And they will continue to cling to it for that reason.

"Seeds that might, properly distributed, improve the agricultural products of the country can not be bought from lowest bidders. Such seeds command the highest prices and intelligent farmers obtain them according to their adaptability to the soil and climatic conditions which confront them.

"There never was a ranker fake than the free seed system, and it is astonishing that the farmers themselves do not command their representatives to put an end to it, under penalty of dismissal from the congress."

One of the worst features of the seeds that are sent from Washington to Texas is that they are often unsuited to this Southern climate and the results that come from them are usually unsatisfactory.—Austin American.

Strickland for State Senator.

Just as we close our forms for this issue we are authorized to announce the candidacy of County Attorney J. J. Strickland of Anderson county for state senator for the 13th senatorial district composed of the counties of Cherokee, Anderson, Houston, Angelina and Trinity. Limits of space and time both forbid an extended review in this issue of Judge Strickland's platform and we promise our readers a full review of it next week. His candidacy will be, we know, regarded with interest by very many of our readers not alone because he is so well and favorably known by many of them, but also because of some of the strong points in his platform. And the voters will view with unusual favor this candidacy because of the well known fidelity of Jeff Strickland in the legislature for four years during the Campbell administration and because of his zeal and impartial attitude in the office of the county attorney of Anderson county. Among the things prominent in his platform are that he favors the opening and operating of the iron furnace at Rusk, the selling or extending of the State railroad and his advocacy of prohibition.—Troupe Banner.

Hon. J. J. Strickland of Anderson county, whose announcement appears in the columns of the Star, is asking at the hands of the voters of this senatorial district to be sent to the Texas senate. We are indeed glad to make this announcement, because it has been our pleasure for many years to know Jeff, as he was so familiarly called by his intimate friends, and knowing him as we do, we are in a position to appreciate his real merit. He was reared on a farm and was enterprising, industrious and whatever his hands found to do he did it with all his might, and success has crowned his every effort. He made his own way through college, studied law in the State University, and was elected to the legislature while yet a student in the University, so great was the confidence of the people of Anderson county in his worth and merit.

The Star folks have had intimate knowledge of his record of four years in the legislature and he had much to do with placing many of our good laws on the statute books. He is now county attorney of Anderson county, and is making one of the best that county ever had. To be plain spoken, Mr. Strickland is every inch a man, and the people of Trinity county will make no mistake in helping to send him to the senate as their representative. Personally he is quite sociable and one of the best young men we ever knew. The Star predicts for him a great future and hopes to have the privilege of calling upon him at Austin while he is senator from this district.—Trinity County Star.

MEN- LOADED LIKE DRAYS.

Huge Burdens That Are Carried by Porters in Constantinople.

More varied as a spectacle than the veiled women of the Galata bridge are the hamals, or coolies. Most of these carriers are Kurds, fierce people of the eastern mountains, who have fallen to the low estate of selling their strength to city dwellers. I know the feats of transportation achieved by Chinese servants, by Japanese go-riekies, by hill women of the Himalayas, by dusky coolies of India and the straits, but to the Kurdish hamal must be accorded the palm as a burden bearer.

Yonder man carries on his back a bedstead and mattress, fastened on top of a great basket. The next man carries twenty watermelons as one load. Here is another with twenty-four square feet of plate glass mirror in a frame, and following him one who carries a roll top desk, and on top of that an office chair. There must have been a furniture sale somewhere, for the next fellow bears a sofa and two parlor chairs.

Now comes a hamal groaning under the weight of two kegs of white lead or paint—a heavier load than his mate's more showy burden of thirty-eight five gallon oil cans. And here comes one with thirty-three wooden boxes on his back.

Not all the hamals are young and strong. Here comes an old Albanian, whose load of figs bends him to the ground. As if to point the contrast, two boys with huge hampers on their backs come prancing and playing pranks. Is not this next coolie carrying the heaviest load of all? On his back is a full sized packing case, and lashed to it are six other large wooden boxes. That is no white man's burden. A not uncommon load for hamals, I am told, is 300 pounds. Is there any other city in the world where men work so hard to earn 5 or 10 cents?—Youth's Companion.

Dumas' Onion Soup.

Onion soup is often liked by people who disdain the savory herb in any other form. There is no doubt of the wholesomeness of the onion, and those who have never tried the soup are recommended to use this celebrated recipe of the elder Dumas: Take, for three pints of soup, four Bermuda onions or eight common white ones, mince and fry to a golden brown in two tablespoonfuls of butter. Pour in two quarts of water, season with pepper and salt and boil until the onions are quite soft. Beat the yolks of three eggs, mix with the soup and pour mixture over finger slices of toasted bread. Milk may be used instead of water in this soup.

Flamingoes' Tongues.

The beastly Vitellius, as Gibbon calls him, spent at least six millions of money on his table in as many months. He invented, or his cook invented for him, a dish which he designated "the shield of Minerva." One of its principal ingredients was flamingoes' tongues, of which both Pliny and Martial speak in encomiastic terms. Dampier says that the flamingoes have "large tongues, and near the root is a piece of fat which is accounted a great dainty." When Captain Owen was surveying the east coast of Africa his sailors shot down hundreds of these beautiful birds in order, with an extravagance worthy of Vitellius, to make a dish of the tongues alone.

He Did Remember.

"Don't complain when the children around you make a little noise," said the man with the kind heart. "Remember you were once a little boy."

"I'm not forgetting it," replied the man with a perpetual frown. "I was one of those little boys who are always compelled to sit around dressed up and watch the other boys have a good time."—Washington Star.

Getting it Back.

Parker—I wonder why Smartleigh married that little dressmaker?

Harker—For his money, I believe.

Parker—For her money, you mean.

Harker—No; I mean what I said. You see, she made all his first wife's clothes.—Indianapolis Star.

Increased Capital Stock.

At a meeting of the directors of the Houston County Oil and Gas Company Saturday night, the capital stock of the company was increased to $10,000. This is the company bringing in the well on the J. A. Beathard place, 14 miles east of Crockett. There are no new developments in this field. The plans of the company are to bring the well "in" next week, when the well will be tested for its durability and value. Until that is done the scope and value of the new oil field are unknown.

To Speak in Houston County.

To Bore for Oil at Pennington.

L. B. Starling of Pennington was among Friday's callers at this office. Mr. Starling told us that leases had been secured by interested parties at Pennington and that a company would be organized and capitalized to drill an oil well near his town. Active operations are being held up until the output of the well on the Beathard place is developed when it is expected that drilling at or near Pennington will begin. Mr. Starling is of the opinion that a well at or near Pennington will be drilled eventually regardless of other developments in the Houston county oil fields, the prospects are so promising.

Want to Come Here, But Can't.

J. G. Webb of Porter Springs was among callers at this office Saturday morning. Mr. Webb has a farm at Alabama crossing, on the Trinity river, and also operates a ferry at the crossing. He says Crockett is losing business on account of the poor roads in the Trinity valley. He is of the belief that if Crockett and Houston county would assist in the improvement of the Centerville road at the Alabama crossing, a great deal of Leon county business that is now going to Madisonville could be turned this way. He says the people across the river prefer trading here, but can't get here because of the impassable condition of the river bottom.

City Purchases Fire Truck.

The city of Crockett has purchased from the Texarkana Wheel & Body Works a fire truck for the use of the fire company. The truck carries a thousand feet of fire hose and costs the city $1000. Besides the hose, the truck carries two chemical drums. Since the purchase of the truck, the fire company is having installed at its own expense a fire alarm system. This improvement in fire-fighting gives the people a 3-cent reduction in their fire insurance rates. The people are entitled to a further reduction of 15 cents, but this cannot be secured, it is claimed, until proper reports can be obtained from some local insurance companies.

Mitchell Roberts Dead.

Mitchell Roberts, a young man about thirty years of age, died at the home of his brother-in-law, Mr. John I. Moore, in this city last Wednesday evening. He was a son of J. T. Roberts, a former resident of Crockett, but now living at Weldon. Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon, conducted by Rev. E. A. Leediker of the Christian church, and burial occurred in Glenwood cemetery. Death was caused by an acute form of diabetes.

Mitchell Roberts was at one time an employe of the Courier office and was an honest, hard-working boy. He was formerly married, but his wife died several years ago, since which time he had spent the most of his time away, returning only recently when his health failed him.
