GOVERNOR NEFF AND THE PRESIDENCY

Crockett's fellow-townsmen, J. W. Madden, visited Austin last week on business and, referring to his trip, made this statement:

"The thing that struck me rather forcibly along political lines were the wide-spread and very favorable utterances in favor of Governor Neff for president. This idea seemed to pervade the political atmosphere generally, and the belief was stressed that now is the opportune time for the south to bring out a man for president. These friends of the governor point to the expression of Mr. Underwood to the same effect, and they feel that the governor is the logical southerner to receive the nomination of the democrats next year.

"These earnest advocates of Governor Neff, in their forecast of the dominant issues in the next presidential campaign, are of the opinion that one of these issues will be national, viz: the enforcement of the 18th amendment, or in general terms, 'Law enforcement,' and the other international, viz: Peace in Europe and the rehabilitation of the war-cursed nations over there.

"They say that Governor Neff is known to be sound on both of these issues, and has both of them very much 'on his heart,' a thing very essential to success. They also point to the recent visit of the governor to the governors' conference at West Baden, Ind., and the conference with President Coolidge. These friends take special pride in referring to the very prominent part the governor played in those conferences, as well as his recent speech in New York state. And they do not hesitate to declare that the governor is already a national figure and in every sense well equipped as the standard-bearer of the democracy in the next campaign. Down to this time the governor has not indicated how he himself feels about the matter, but these friends say that they are sure he 'knows his mind' and will make some definite statement when he feels that the proper time for a statement from him has arrived. In the meantime his friends are busy in their earnestness to convince the national democracy that Texas has the man who eminently fits the demands of the hour."

REGULATIONS FOR TRAFFIC NEEDED

Some traffic regulations are going to be needed in Crockett at an early day—in fact they are needed now. Some rule or system for parking cars is badly needed. It is not only necessary to drive to the right, but it is necessary to turn to the right when stopping and not cut over to the left hand side of the street. All cars should stop at an angle so that the car can back out, and no car should be permitted to stop at such an angle as will prevent other cars from backing out. No car should be permitted to cut in to the left on rounding a corner, stop within five feet of a corner or within five feet of a fire hydrant. No car should be permitted to stop out of line with other cars or drive to the wrong side of the street to even pick up or let some one out, as to do so interferes with traffic. No car should stop in front of any store except by turning to the right at an angle of 45 degrees, and stopping should be permitted only in the center of the street on Court House square. Rules of this kind are in the interest of public safety and for the good of all, and no right-thinking citizen should desire or attempt to violate any of them. They are usually violated by thoughtless persons when a little forethought would have saved the violator the censure of his or her neighbors. And the city council says that speeding must go, if it is necessary to send the speeders to jail to stop it.

ELECTION FOR ROAD BONDS SUCCESSFUL

The election Saturday in Madison county, on the issuance of bonds for the construction of a highway across the county, carried with a big majority. The vote was 855 for the bonds with 165 against. The bonds are for $300,000 and provide for a high-class road across the county, following the San Antonio road from Clapp's Ferry on the Trinity river to Democrat Crossing on the Navasota river. The road leads from the Navasota river to Bryan and from the Trinity river to Crockett. The bonds provide for half of the cost of bridging the two rivers. Houston county will join Madison county in the construction of a bridge at Clapp's Ferry and will build a road through the Trinity bottom. All that will then be needed is the building of a highway from Crockett east through Belott and Weches to the Neches river, from where a highway leads through Alto and Nacogdoches to San Augustine. This will complete the San Antonio road from Bryan through Madisonville, Crockett, Alto and Nacogdoches to San Augustine. Stretches of the road from Bryan to San Antonio are under construction.

ROAD ELECTION IS ORDERED BY COURT

The official notice for a road bond election in road district No. 4, the Belott, Creath and Weches district, appears in this issue of the Courier. The election will be to determine whether $80,000 in bonds shall be issued for the improvement of the San Antonio road in the Belott, Creath and Weches district. The proposed issue of bonds will be sufficient, it is estimated, with the aid to be received from the national and state highway commissions, to build a high-class road in the district designated, after retiring present bonded indebtedness of the district. The election was ordered on the petition of citizens of the district who are desirous of bettering the road conditions of their community.

Bond Issue Favored.

Word comes to the Courier from several sources that a bond issue for the San Antonio road in the Weches section is favored by the majority of taxpayers in that section. The Weches people are anxious to see the San Antonio road converted into a first-class highway and want to see it done while both state and national aid can be secured.

Play a Big Success.

The play, "Little Miss Jack," produced by home talent in the high school auditorium on Thursday night of last week, was a big success—made a real hit. The Courier will not attempt to make any personal mention, because the whole cast is deserving of special commendation. The play was well presented throughout and was decidedly better than many road shows that visit towns of Crockett's size. The songs were greatly appreciated and enjoyed, as evidenced by the frequent applause. An orchestra of local talent supplied the music, and this feature of entertainment shared with the singing and acting in frequent encores from the audience.

Parents' Day.

Friday afternoon, November 2, will be parents' day at the school. All parents are invited to visit their children and their teacher after 1:30. At 3:15 the parent-teachers' association will serve tea and sandwiches in the laboratory.

CROCKETT TO MEET JACKSONVILLE

Last Friday Crockett High School went to Nacogdoches and lost by a score of 9 to 0. It was the first time the local team had been scored upon this season. After a long, hard drive the boys had dinner and rested until game time. Several hard-boiled penalties caused the team to let up momentarily in their fighting spirit and the game was lost. After the first quarter was over, the Crockett boys drove Nacogdoches unmercifully, but no scores came forth.

The two rival quarterbacks, Captain King of Crockett and Brewer of Nacogdoches, were the individual stars, followed closely by Nacogdoches' right half and Starling and the Halfyards of Crockett. All the boys say they just didn't fight hard enough last Friday.

Tomorrow (Friday) Jacksonville comes to Crockett and a great game is looked for. Neither team had been scored upon until last week when Marshall defeated Jacksonville 32 to 0. Crockett has some old scores to settle and everyone is asked to come out and assist in keeping the home goal uncrossed.

TOM DAVIS DRAWS 99 YEARS IN PEN

For killing Deputy Sheriff Jesse English, Tom Davis, a young white man of good appearance, drew 99 years in the state penitentiary. The case went to trial Friday morning and the jury brought in its verdict Saturday night at about 9 o'clock. Sitting near Davis during the trial were his wife and small children. Pleading guilty he asked for the leniency of the court and jury. Without counsel, counsel was appointed by the court to represent him. Friday was consumed in getting the jury.

Davis was brought from the penitentiary, where he was already serving a term for murder, to be tried for killing Deputy Sheriff English. While a prisoner at the convict farm near Weldon last summer, Davis made his escape with another convict. English demanded his surrender near Grapeland and was shot and killed by the escaping convict, who carried a shot gun. He was pursued to the Neches river bottom and overtaken.

Lyceum Number.

The first number of the lyceum course—six numbers in all—will be given in the school auditorium on the evening of November 3, at which time the New York Players under the direction of the White & Myers Lyceum Agency will present the "Mollusc," a comedy drama of domestic life. This is a remarkable play, popular the country over, and promises to be a real treat.

This course is sponsored by the School Board and it is hoped that everyone who appreciates high class intertainment will approve of this action to the extent of buying a season ticket.

Season tickets—six numbers, adults, $2.50; children, $1.00. Single admission, Nov. 3—adult, 50c; children, 25c. 1t.

Grapeland Fair.

Grapeland's second fair and carnival came to a close Friday night after a most successful run of three days—the fair running three days, but the carnival the full week. This fair was worth much to the Grapeland community in the matter of stimulating interest in agriculture, livestock and the home. The closing night was celebrated by the young people of Grapeland with a dance in Woodmen's hall, for which an orchestra was engaged from Palestine. The dance was well attended by young people from Crockett, Elkhart and Palestine.

SCOTTISH RITE MASONS BANQUET

As a mark of their esteem, and as an expression of their appreciation of the efforts that he has put forth in their behalf, the Scottish Rite Masons of Crockett gave a banquet in honor of Mr. John LeGory of this city, who has recently been elected by the supreme council of that order to receive the thirty-third and last degree, on Thursday night of last week in the dining room of the Pickwick hotel.

The banquet was a success in every respect, being attended by forty members of the order. A bountiful repast had been prepared by the committee in charge, and many beautiful tributes were paid to Mr. LeGory by his brethren.

Hon. J. W. Young presided as toastmaster in a pleasing manner. Toasts of the evening were rendered by Messrs. G. Q. King, a life-long associate of the honored; Geo. W. Crook and W. P. Bishop.

At the conclusion of the banquet, Mr. J. G. Beasley, in behalf of the Scottish Rite Masons of Houston County, presented to Mr. LeGory a beautiful bouquet of flowers and a gold emblem of the degree which he will receive, Mr. LeGory receiving them with a beautiful tribute to Masonry and to the assembled brethren.

The occasion was one which will long be remembered by the members of that order.

PROCEEDINGS IN DISTRICT COURT

Three cases had been disposed of on the criminal docket of the Houston county district court on Wednesday of this week. These cases were:

Tom Davis, murder; case went to trial Friday and jury secured from special venire of 130 men. Defendant not having employed counsel, the court appointed Attorneys C. M. Ellis and John Spence to represent the defendant. State and defendant announced ready and defendant entered plea of guilty and asked for leniency. Jury rendered verdict of guilty, assessing punishment at 99 years in the penitentiary.

Boyd Pyle, unlawfully selling intoxicating liquor; case went to trial Monday and defendant pleaded not guilty. The jury, failing to agree, was discharged on Tuesday.

Will Love, murder; case taken up Tuesday, plea of not guilty and verdict of jury not guilty.

Library and Auditorium.

Crockett may have a public library and auditorium if plans of the Crockett Shakespeare Club and other interested citizens work out. The plan has not yet taken definite form, but a committee from the Lions' Club is working with members of the Shakespeare Club and something definite may be expected in the near future.

Preaching at Oakland.

SAYS STEEL PRICES ACT AS BAROMETER

Bond Investments in Few Old Companies Good, Babson Says.

Wellesley Hills, Mass., Oct. 27.—"The steel industry gives us both a barometer and a thermometer of business," according to Roger W. Babson, whose associates have just completed a survey of this great industry.

"Steel prices," says Mr. Babson in a statement issued today, "tend to follow general business—to act as a thermometer in measuring, roughly, prosperity or depression. During the early months of this year business was active and the price of steel billets advanced 30 per cent from January to April. It was evident by then that the improvement had been overdone and business took to caution and conservatism—a condition still prevalent.

"Iron and steel prices very naturally followed. For the past six months production has dropped and prices have been steadily declining. Despite the readjustment to date, I do not feel that steel prices or production have reached the low point. It should be borne in mind that during the war period our producing capacity was greatly stimulated. The actual output of steel in 1913 was about 31,000,000 tons, with a producing capacity of probably 35,000,000.

Industry This Year.

"So far this year the steel industry has operated on a basis of more than 40,000,000 tons annually, a rate materially over the actual output of recent years. As a matter of fact the abnormal stimulation in steel output started in August, 1921. In 1922 total output jumped 75 per cent over the previous year, while production during the first nine months of this year stands over 60 per cent above the same period of last year. However, the main point is, if this country were called upon, we could produce steel at between 56,000,000 and 58,000,000 tons annually. Even today at the current rate of 40,000,000 tons, we are producing more steel than we can consume and export. Nor should we lose sight of the fact that our European neighbors expanded their steel producing capacity to cope with abnormal war needs.

"The underlying situation is well defined by unfilled tonnage—the barometer—which from the low in February, 1922, of 4,141,000 tons, climbed with little interruption to 7,403,000 tons in March of this year. Today, six months later, unfilled tonnage has dropped to approximately 5,000,000. General business as reflected in the Babsonchart has dropped to 10 per cent below normal. My main thought is that although no radical departure from the present price level is indicated, a survey of actual conditions shows that the weight is certainly on the bear side, as it is in most lines today.

Competitive Period Beginning.

"On the financial side we find further evidence of this slowing up, in the amount of recent refinancing which has been undertaken by some of the newer companies," continued Mr. Babson. "During periods of record-breaking business, new financing, it is true, may be required by the old, conservative manufacturers for justifiable expansion as well as the new ones. It is a characteristic sign of the beginning of a sharp competitive period, however, when many new offerings of funded debt with specially attractive promises appear in connection with corporate names that are new to investment lists. The absence of any new financing on the part of older concerns at such periods always is noticeable. It is the time when the more experienced management is conserving resources, limiting new business to established capacity and reducing indebtedness rather than taking on more overhead. Signs of this stage of business have not been lacking in the iron and steel industry this year. The wisdom of the restraint shown by the largest factors at the peak of demand early in the year now is apparent. Already certain of their more aggressive new competitors are falling by the wayside.

"A few of the seasoned con-

SIMPLIFICATION OF FOOTBALL RULES

Waxahachie, Texas, Oct. 22.—Simplification of football rules, to eliminate the possible temptation toward "illegal playing," is advocated by A. J. Robinson, new athletic director at Trinity University here. Robinson is also the football coach of the school, and his eleven has got away to a fine start in the race for the gridiron championship of the T. I. A. A.

"Football now has so many opportunities for violating the rules that three officials can't catch all the illegal plays, and this fact tempts players to play 'dirty' football, and consequently injures the game to no slight degree," Mr. Robinson said.

"For instance one desirable change would be to require that men eligible for a forward pass to be distinguished in some way so that officials could easily identify them," continued the Trinity coach. "On shift plays it is now difficult to tell just who is on the end of the line of scrimmage at the time of play. I believe in cutting out the rule that either man on the end of the line is eligible for a pass and provide that any two players are eligible to receive a forward pass; that is, if these two players are distinguished so that officials may recognize them."

Coach Robinson is a new man at Trinity University. He came here this year from Union University, Jackson, Tenn., where he was athletic director for a number of years. He was graduated from the University of Texas, and coached a number of Texas high school teams before going to the Tennessee university.

The Trinity coach thinks that cutting out the inside kick this year is a desirable change because it is so difficult for officials to see every time who was on-side. However, he can see no reason for the new rule which permits anyone to signal for a fair catch. It gives the defense an unfair advantage, he says, and may lead to confusion.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 25.—Lieutenant Governor M. E. Trapp was declared acting governor of Oklahoma in a decision of the State supreme court late today, making permanent a writ of prohibition against J. C. Walton and District Judge Tom G. Chambers Sr. which restrains them from interfering with the lieutenant governor's assumption of the office.

The decision sustains a resolution adopted by the State senate suspending Governor Walton during his impeachment trial, and nullifies an injunction obtained by the governor in Judge Chambers' court, which would have prevented the lieutenant governor from becoming acting governor.

The court announced its decision orally after a brief conference following an afternoon of argument. The decision, it was explained, made the writ effective against J. C. Walton as an individual and not as governor. Judge Chambers was enjoined in his official capacity as judge. The vote of the court was 5 to 4.

BAD CHECK MAN GOT IN WORK

Several local merchants are nursing some bad checks as the result of a visit here last week of a man who evidently is a trained crook. The fellow was immaculately dressed, and claimed to be long to one of the fraternal orders, and was, according to his claims, locating man for a big chain store concern which was seeking a location here. He maneuvered to get acquainted with some of the business people, and through letters and other means, and by making small purchases, managed to pass a number of checks that have been declared worthless. In the meantime he disappeared. An investigation is said to show that he is wanted in a number of Texas towns for similar operations.—Palestine Herald.

WHO OWNS THE UNITED STATES?

Who owns the property of the United States? asks the Montgomery Advertiser.

This is a favorite question, to which he gives an erroneous answer that is asked by the lecturer, who wants to bring about "our revolution." His answer in his attempts to array class against class is that 2,000,000 persons own most of it. An economist of national fame said a few days ago that 2,000,000 people owned a quarter to half of it. Perhaps this is so, but in this case, as in the claim of the revolutionist, who thinks the division is unfair, it must be admitted on its face that the division is unfair.

But the National City Bank of New York says in its latest bulletin: "The distribution of wealth is quite a different matter from the distribution of income." To the average man this sounds technical and vague, when as a matter of fact it is not. The wealth of the country must be largely measured by its income received from its people. Being a free country the people are entitled to do what they please with that income, spend it all or a part and invest the rest and so become part owners of the country.

A writer on economic subjects says:

"Workingmen in the United States sent back to friends in foreign countries $400,000,000. They might have chosen to buy and own $400,000,000 worth of property here. But they chose not to. That they own $400,000,000 less of property in the United States is not due to any illegality or unfairness, but to their own free choice.

"Foreign workmen in this country have been choosing the same course for many years. That they own $3,300,000,000 or $3,500,000,000 less property in the United States than they might own, if they so desired, goes almost without saying. But the fault, if fault there is, is their own.

"Figures from the treasury department show that 5,000,000 people in the United States admit they receive more than $2000 income a year. Of these probably 2,500 own automobiles. As property these automobiles depreciate rapidly and pass out of use in a few years. A billion a year is thus spent and eventually passes out of hand. These purchasers of machines might use the billion to acquire a billion of permanent property in the United States—bonds, farm lands, or homes—but they choose not to do so, and this is a free country. A man can do what he wants with his money. That they own two billions or three billions less than they might have acquired in the last two or three years is not due, therefore, to any business inequality or unfairness, but to their own free American choice independently expressed and exercised.

"These instances and similar instances that might be cited all come to this: That it is not the property a man owns, but the income that he receives which tells the story of justice or injustice in the world of business; that in millions of cases in this country it rests with the man himself whether he shall become part owner of the United States, or shall scatter abroad his spare income as fast as it comes to him. And the majority of men are spenders especially in America. The economists of all highly civilized nations agree that most men spend all they get, and if they got more they would spend more."

One popular writer visions a possible civilization where everybody gets $10,000 a year. He asks, "if this were so, how many of them would he saving, buying and owning their share of the United States?" This writer would guess about three and ten. This he regards as a liberal estimate. He doubts that any statistician or any sociologist would go so far in his estimate.

Within limits the people of the United States are free to do with our own as we will, whether with our own votes at the polls, or with our incomes in our pockets. And where our incomes are large enough to leave us some choice, most of us choose to live as high as possible and let the ownership of the United States be acquired by others. We have, therefore, ourselves to blame if in the end the majority of us own the smaller part of the country and the minority own the rest. Our socialists as well as our revolutionists put the blame upon society "or government, or the wild business practices of pioneer days." Perhaps some of the blame belongs where it is thus put, but the chief blame, if there is blame, rests with our separate selves.

Some 4,000,000 or 5,000,000 of us could change and modify the inequalities of ownership year by year, if we wished to do so, simply by saving some part of our income and buying up some of the real property of this country.

IT'S A PUZZLING PROBLEM.

What to do with the parked automobile. That is the question, and a tremendously big problem in the larger cities.

Cities were not built with reference to the automobile. This now altogether modern convenience intruded itself after cities were built, after streets were laid out without regard and wholly unproviding for the automobile. City governments are contending that nobody has a right to occupy public streets to the exclusion of the public. And yet, with thousands and thousands using cars, what is to be done with them? They have to be parked somewhere.

In many cities efforts to solve the question have been made by widening the streets, by building for overhead traffic in congested districts, by the use of tunnels, etc. But that does not solve the parking trouble. Cars have to be stopped and parked somewhere. Many modern buildings undertake to help the tenants by building basement spaces for cars. Others have installed elevators and the cars are parked on the roof. But that does not take care of the shopper, and the thousands of others who have business in the city.

The ever increasing number of motor vehicles makes it necessary that steps be taken to take care of them. Pedestrians must be safeguarded, as well as drivers of autos, and uninterrupted flow of traffic must be sustained. To do this, with avoidance of congestion, and at the same time allow convenient use of the auto is a problem that is puzzling all great cities, and is beginning to worry even the small towns.—Herald Palestine.

Character is the Basis of Credit.

Of all forms of credit there is none founded on more purely ethical standards than what is commonly called "retail credit." It might never have so impressed you, but do you know that when you purchase merchandise on credit you are actually borrowing money from the merchant whose only security is your promise to pay—the merchant's belief in your integrity? Tell us, Mr. Customer, do you think your banker would lend you as much money as your merchant lends you—without security? Then tell us, Mr. Charge Customer, do you not think your verbal promise to pay your merchant is even more solemn than your signed note to your banker? Think it over and then send in your check for that past due account. Show your merchant that your word is as good as your bond.
