Clovis Stock Broker Speaks To Rotary

Bob Harrison, vice-president of Quinn and Co., Inc. of Clovis, spoke to Rotary Tuesday at noon in the XIT Steak House, Quinn and Co. is a member of the New York Stock Exchange.

Harrison's topic for the meeting was the Psychology of the Stock Market.

He stated that the basic concern was with the evaluation of the forces within the person that influences his investment decisions and methods attempted to achieve this.

Harrison explained the collective psychology of the market in general.

He explained some of the social desires which include economic security, appreciation and recognition, sense of belonging, the excitement and sense of power.

His talk also included the emotions of investors and the four horsemen of Investors, hope, greed, frustration and fear.

Harrison also delved into some of the games investors play including overcompensation, aggression, repression, rationalization, flight into fantasy, wanderlust and revenge.

Harrison explained that the complexity of the individual of course is compounded many times in the stock market as a whole.

The concept of mass psychology has gained popularity in the U.S. About 1912, G. C. Selden, a Wall Street Trader, showed how it works in relation to speculative stock market cycles.

Prices often begin to rise in a dull market almost unnoticed and for no special reason. Professionals take short positions for a small profit, but prices continue upward. Some traders take the long side while the public remains lethargic. As prices harden and suddenly move higher a few timed shorts cover.

A bullmarket is next suspected by a larger number of traders. Speculators' demand

White, Commissioner of Agriculture and chairman of the Texas Affirmative Action Committee.

TAAC was formed early this year to inspire more involvement from the traditionally under-represented groups in the Democratic Party. New rules were adopted to insure broader representation.

Sen. Lloyd Bentson Warns Of World-Wide Food Shortages

Salt Lake City, Utah -----
 Warning of the danger of world wide food shortages, Senator Lloyd Bentson urged Wednesday that the United States develop a comprehensive national food policy.

Bentson spoke before the Western Governors Conference on Agriculture Wednesday morning.

"Last year's staggering rate of inflation was mainly due to world-wide commodity shortages. Two-thirds of the increase in consumer prices last year was in two basic commodities; foods and fuels," the Senator said.

"In both those areas, government failed in its obligation to plan ahead, to anticipate problems and deal with them before they reached the crisis state."

"What we need is a long term program--and what I am advocating in the Senate now is a responsible, comprehensive national energy policy, based on the realities of supply and demand, of domestic production capabilities and foreign political implications--a policy that provides for conservation of limited resources and a program of research and development of alternate energy sources."

"We need such a policy today just as much as we did when the Arab oil embargo was in full effect."

"And we need similar policies in other areas to prevent our people from being victims of other unnecessary shortages."

"We need, above all, a comprehensive national food policy."

"The absence of such a policy--plus the danger of world wide food shortages--fills me with the same sense of frustration that I felt four years ago when I saw the energy short age developing, undetected and undeterred by government."

"In the face of increased food demands from foreign countries as well as our own growing population, government has fallen short of its obligation to plan ahead, both for the long run and the short run, to help farmers increase production to meet these demands."

For the short run, Bentson advocates priority allocation of petrochemical feedstocks to fertilizer production, noting that fertilizer increases U.S. food and fiber production by 30% per year. He also called for a renewed commitment to agriculture research, pointing out that more than 10% of the Agriculture Department budget was spent on research in 1955 but only 2.5% in 1972.

"Increases in world population and in demand for a better diet for the peoples of the world insure a continuing strong market for our products abroad."

"We need a coherent, consistent national policy to make sure that our domestic needs are met as we expand our foreign markets."

Otherwise, we may find ourselves in the uncomfortable position of going without bread while our European and Japanese trading partners eat cake."

"The time has passed when we can afford to drift along in blissful assurance that America, the land of plenty, will always end up with a surplus."

"The time has passed when we can expect to drift along without a viable policy, without setting some priorities and then meeting them."

"If a national energy policy is imperative--and I believe events have proven that it is--then a national food policy is even more imperative."

"Such a policy would insure responsible planning for a level of food production adequate to meet domestic and export demands."

"It would insure continued research in agricultural production. It would insure maximum use of productive land. It would insure the availability to our farmers of all the essential elements of increased productivity; fertilizer, water supplies and fuel for farm machinery."

"It would insure an efficient transportation system to provide for economical distribution. And it would insure a level of profit that would offer incentives, not penalties, for increased productivity."

"All this is possible and reasonable within the framework of the free enterprise system. We have the manpower, the technology, the know-how, and an abundance of rich agricultural land."

"What we need now is the coordination and leadership that government can provide--in the form of a consistent national food policy," Senator Bentson said.

The following information is from the Bailey County ASC Committee in Muleshoe.

Cotton producers have until May 1 to transfer allotments. This is also the last date to release or request reapportioned cotton acreage. There has been some acres released and can be reapportioned.

There has been a procedure change in the disaster provision of leased or reapportioned cotton acreage. Farmers may be eligible for disaster payment on leased or reapportioned acreage provided the county committee determines that the farmer is not leasing cotton acreage solely for prevented planting payment. The county committee determination will be based on a number of guidelines.

The sign up for the 1974 cotton, Feed Grain and Wheat Programs will be at the same time farmers certify their crop acreages. Farmers must accurately measure and certify crops prior to harvest or July 15. Small grain crops, (wheat, barley, oats, rye or triticale) to be eligible for history credit or payment purposes must be certified prior to harvest or prior to plowing the land in the event the wheat is abandoned. The ASC committee is taking certifications of small grain crops at the present time.

Some of the reasons for signing up in the 1974 programs are disaster payments; history protection of allotments; eligi-

Cotton Producers Have Until May 1 To Transfer Allotments

State Rep. Bill Clayton, (D-Springlake) today called on the Federal Energy Office to adopt new priorities for lubricating oil for agricultural usage. In his appeal to the FEO, Clayton warned of a critical situation facing the consuming public if sufficient lubricants are not made available.

Clayton urged the Energy Office to enact new guidelines proposed on March 29, which would give lubricating oil a 100% top allocation priority when used in agricultural pursuits, Clayton pointed out that under the present guidelines set out January 15, lub oil receives only a general priority classification which forced many oil producers and distributors to sell oil needed for agriculture to non-agricultural users.

Illustrating the emergency situation faced by the farmer, Clayton pointed out that not only is general farm equipment, such as tractors, trucks and combines, working overtime this year to produce the bumper crop of food Americans will require, but essentials like irrigation pumps for the irrigated farmlands all across Texas are needing large amounts of lubricants because of the extremely dry year Texas is undergoing.

Without the requisite lubricants, Clayton warned, not only will machinery be stopped in the fields, but water will not even reach the crops.

Clayton said that he is also urging the Texas Railroad Commission and his fellow legislators to join with him in the effort to get the priority established.

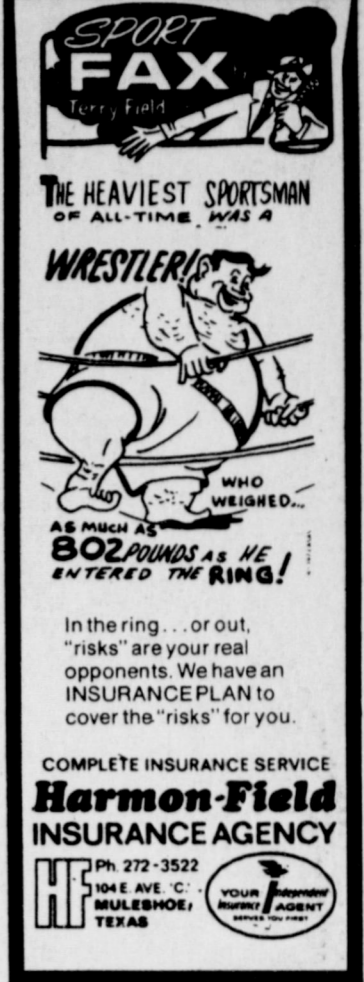

Measurement service will be offered by the ASC Committee as in the past at the rate of $15.00 per farm plus 10 cents per acres. Several producers have indicated an interest in this service for various reasons, certification purposes, payment of custom services, yield per acre information and other reasons. Remember, even though payments may not be made, you are still required to correctly certify the crop acreage within a reasonable tolerance in order that the committee can maintain correct yields, history credit, etc.

All annual nonconserving crops are particularly important for 1974 since they may be planted to protect cotton, feed grain, and wheat allotments. The will also be a consideration in determining eligibility for feed grain and wheat disaster payments in some instances.

Any annual crop intended for harvest and produced for market or feed is a nonconserving crop. Common nonconserving crops for this area are wheat, barley, grain sorghum, corn, cotton, soybeans, sugarbeets, and vegetables. Corn or grain sorghum for ensilage is a non-conserving crop. Annual grasses are not a nonconserving crop unless peas or beans are produced for seed, grain or processed for food.

Eight County 4-H's To Compete In Contest

Eight 4-H's from Bailey County will compete in the District 2 Elimination Contest in Lubbock Saturday, April 27, according to County Extension Agent Spencer Tankley.

Four different contests will be staged at the same time, Tankley says. They include horse judging, which will be at the Texas Tech Rodeo Arena, West Fourth Street, dairy cattle judging and livestock judging, to be held on the Texas Tech campus, and rifle contest, to be staged at American Legion Post 575, 66th Street and the Brownfield Highway.

All these contests will be climaxed with award ceremonies in the Coronado Room, Texas Tech University Center, at 1:30 p.m.

Both senior and junior level competition in the events will give youth from 20 counties of the South Plains a chance to test their skills. The two top teams and or individuals in the district contest will represent the district at the State 4-H Roundup in College Station in June.

The April 27 event is the first round of district competition for District 2 4-H's. The second round of the annual eliminations contests will be held May 4.

The 4-H program in Texas is sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

A few of the cautions Harrison explained were don't invest before you can take care of all normal living expenses; understand the results if you incur a loss instead of profit; investigate the market conditions and appraise the company whose shares look attractive.

Rep. Clayton Asks For Agriculture Priority

State Rep. Bill Clayton, (D-Springlake) today called on the Federal Energy Office to adopt new priorities for lubricating oil for agricultural usage. In his appeal to the FEO, Clayton warned of a critical situation facing the consuming public if sufficient lubricants are not made available.

Clayton urged the Energy Office to enact new guidelines proposed on March 29, which would give lubricating oil a 100% top allocation priority when used in agricultural pursuits, Clayton pointed out that under the present guidelines set out January 15, lub oil receives only a general priority classification which forced many oil producers and distributors to sell oil needed for agriculture to non-agricultural users.

Illustrating the emergency situation faced by the farmer, Clayton pointed out that not only is general farm equipment, such as tractors, trucks and combines, working overtime this year to produce the bumper crop of food Americans will require, but essentials like irrigation pumps for the irrigated farmlands all across Texas are needing large amounts of lubricants because of the extremely dry year Texas is undergoing.

Without the requisite lubricants, Clayton warned, not only will machinery be stopped in the fields, but water will not even reach the crops.

Clayton said that he is also urging the Texas Railroad Commission and his fellow legislators to join with him in the effort to get the priority established.

If you can't get PIONEER Brand 8311

here are some excellent alternative hybrids for High Plains farmers.

Pioneer Brand 8311, the "Golden Bronze Yield Leader," has been our most popular hybrid this year -- so popular, in fact, that it may be in short supply in some areas. One reason is that the demand has been so great downstate where 8311's disease tolerance is so important. Fortunately, there are several other Pioneer Brand hybrids that are proven top performers on the High Plains. If you can't get 8311, ask your dealer about these.

PIONEER Brand 8417
 This versatile yellow endosperm sorghum is a champion yielder in the medium-late maturity class, for irrigated or non-irrigated land. It has large open heads, uniform head height, strong stalks for easy threshing, good tolerance to smut and anthracnose.

PIONEER Brand 820
 This top-notch full-season hybrid, is a consistently high yielder. Excellent drought resistance and standability plus good roots and stalks make it a good choice for irrigated or non-irrigated farming on the plains.

PIONEER Brand 828
 One of the highest yielding sorghums you can plant, this full-season hybrid responds well to good management on good land with plenty of water. Plains growers like it because it holds its quality and threshes well even after an early freeze. It produces sturdy stalks with semi-compact heads of dark red grain.

PIONEER Brand 846
 Famous for its versatility and adaptability, this medium maturity hybrid yields along with the full-season varieties. Resistant to smut, rust and MDM, its outstanding hybrid vigor and excellent drought resistance help it turn in consistently high yields even under stress.

Market Report

COLLEGE STATION --- Outdoor "cooks" have a chance to stock freezers with beef now, according to one observer.

"Beef supplies are larger at this time than a year ago, and markets likely will offer more 'specials,'" Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, predicted.

Best beef values will be round steaks and roasts, ground beef, calf and beef liver, arm and blade pot roasts and steaks--while many markets will offer chuck cuts at special prices, Mrs. Clyatt said.

"Pork values include end-cut loin roasts and pork chops, shoulder roasts and steaks and picnics.

"Fryers chicken supplies are about five per cent higher than this time last year, and turkeys are in abundant supply. Both are economically priced."

At dairy sections, attractive prices will appear on cream cheese, yogurt, lowfat milk and cottage cheese, the specialist said.

"Buy cheese in large pieces-- then slice and shred it at home," she added.

Fresh fruit and vegetables in good supply at the most economical prices include apples, oranges, grapefruit, pineapples, strawberries and bananas.

Also, collards, mustard, turnips and greens, beets, celery, cabbage, dry yellow onions, carrots, rutabagas, radishes and green onions.

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS:

The first "key" word on federally inspected products tells consumers if there's more meat--or more "something else"--in package.

If the word "Beef" is first on the label, usually there is more meat in the product than if another word, such as "vegetables," is first.

The organization has 250,000 members in 10,500 Chapters organized in 24 countries of the free world. The organization is not connected with any school or college. It is non-political and non-sectarian. The keynote of Beta Sigma Phi is friendship. Chapters of five different degrees meet the growing needs of various age groups. Members are active in small Chapter groups and each Chapter adapts the plans for social, civic, and service and cultural activities to fit the interest of its own members.

Internationally the Chapters have created three special funds: The International Loan Fund, through which members help one another; the International Endowment Fund, through which vast sums have been donated to cancer research, cystic fibrosis, homes for underprivileged children, and many other causes; and the Exemplar Fund, which helps to support Literacy Village in India.

Outstanding projects and activities of the local chapters include the annual Bingo Carnival in November, helping with parties for the special education classes at Richland Hills, and giving to needy families at Christmas. This year the chapters voted to donate the money earned by their money clown at the bingo carnival to support the hospital.

HELP THOSE YOU LOVE TOMORROW BY GIVING TO THE HOSPITAL TODAY

For the past number of months, we have been working diligently to find a workable plan for keeping our hospital. The present facility, though not completely antiquated, does not meet the government requirements which it must meet in order to continue to operate. The Citizen's Committee was elected by citizens of this community in February to look into every avenue, past and present, which the hospital board has traveled in an effort to keep our hospital and nursing home facilities in Muleshoe.

The Citizen's Committee called an emergency public meeting on April 16, 1974, where the current hospital situation was discussed in detail. A Plan of Action was initiated.

FIRST, to raise money.

SECOND, to acquire at least two more doctors.

THIRD, make an investigation into a physical change in our current hospital that would satisfy state and federal government inspectors.

FOURTH, appoint a temporary board to replace the present non-profit hospital board.

To date, the fund raising campaign has totaled more than $300,000.00 in pledges of which figures include over $60,000 in cash.

An all out effort is now being made to acquire more doctors.

The Citizen's Committee is meeting April 25, 1974 with a government inspector to determine what we must do to comply with regulations.

A group of five from the Citizen's Committee is at present engaged with the task of appointing a temporary non-profit board.

As you can well see much has been done by the people of our community to insure us adequate hospital facilities. Response has been good to the fund raising campaign, but we know that there are many who have not yet contributed.

Now is the time to shoulder the responsibility of insuring Muleshoe a hospital.

WILL YOU GIVE YOUR FAIR SHARE?

BARRY AND YOUNG EQUIPMENT ANNOUNCES

Partial Delivery Of Hesston 1 Man Hay Systems To PROTEIN PROCESSORS OF MULESHOE

Hesston Hydro-Static Model 6600 Windrower

Another first for Hesston! In the 6600, there are no conventional mechanical drive lines and numerous parts to wear out and replace. Instead, you've got simple, reliable hydraulic power going for you. This, of course, simplifies servicing in addition to eliminating the problems of maintenance on mechanical drive trains.

Windrow more hay with each pass over the field! Yes, from the ground up, the 6600 has more good news going for the really big hay producer than he's heard in a good long time. One of the obvious reasons why is that this is the first year Hesston has put four wheels on the ground. Because of this, the operator now sits directly behind the center of the header instead of off to one side. The result is a better view of both ends of the header. So the operator is able to make each pass over the field a little more productive. And over the long day's haul, this can make quite a difference.

Easy does it! The cockpit of the new 6600 is big on room and big on comfort. When you add this comfort to a long wheel base, wide wheel tread, walking beam rear axle and big flotation tires, you get an extremely smooth ride even in the roughest field. And not only does the 6600 ride well, it steers from the setting you find most relaxing, too. That's right. The Hydro-Trim[®] steering wheel now tilts to your liking.

All the controls of the 6600 are right at your fingertips or, in the case of the header lift, right at the tip of your toe. So with or without the handsome optional cab, you feel almost as fresh at the end of the day as you did starting out.

You can't beat the System

HESSTON StakHand[®] Automatic Hay Handling System

A one-man way to build compressed Hesston HayStaks

Haying becomes an easy one-man operation with the HESSTON StakHand System. Just straddle the windrow with your tractor and pull the HESSTON StakHand along behind you. Everything is controlled from the tractor seat. The pickup gathers the hay, the deflector shield spreads it into an even, interlocking pattern, the patented vertical press packs it into a compressed stack with about half the density of baled hay, and the HESSTON StakHand unloads the stack...all at the flick of a finger. One man becomes a whole haying crew!

A one-man way to move stacks

Each HESSTON StakHand model has a matching StakMover that lets you handle HESSTON HayStaks without ever leaving the tractor seat. You may have unloaded your stacks in the field, to keep the HESSTON StakHand moving at top capacity. The StakMover lets you pick them up any time later and move them into a processing area, stack yard, feeding area, or anywhere you choose. In most cases, you can road a stack about as fast as it is safe to drive a tractor. In normal conditions, loading and unloading can take as little as 60 seconds each for the larger StakMovers, even less for the StakMover 10.

HARVEST AHEAD...The equipment from Barry and Young Equipment Company is ready to move to Protein Processors of Muleshoe. The equipment will be used for harvesting feed for livestock.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Bill Boykin
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN, Tex. - A General Provisions article of the proposed new state constitution - including a controversial right-to-work section - finally has received committee approval.

The long-delayed section will go to the Constitutional Convention for consideration when delegates return to work next month.

Heatedly opposed by organized labor, the right-to-work provision would place in the constituition the present statutory ban on compulsory union membership as a requisite to holding a job.

Another controversial section of the article would allow the legislature to authorize state debt to finance a "superport" and housing for the elderly.

The committee threw out another earlier decision to allow a separate statewide vote on whether pari-mutuel gambling should be prohibited by thenew constitution.

Still another change in the General Provisions article would allow homeowners to refinance their property to obtain funds without losing their protection against foreclosure.

A prohibition against branch banking would be continued, and regulation of bank holding companies would be left up to the legislature.

During more than three months of deliberations, the committee heard 231 witnesses in 22 public sessions on 96 proposals covering 31 subjects.

Convention President Price Daniel Jr. expects all work of the body to be wrapped up by the second week of June.

DRILLING INCREASES - Oil and gas well completions are increasing this year, according to the Texas Railroad Commission.

A total of 1,395 oil wells have been drilled since January 1, compared with 1,191 during the same period in 1973.

Gas well completions rose from 678 to 799.

Nine oil and 28 gas discoveries were reported by the commission during April 1-15 which brought the total for 1974 to 79 and 102, respectively. The figures for 1973 were 56 and 109 oil and gas discoveries.

MORE SPEEDERS - An increasing number of Texas drivers are violating the 55 miles-per-hour speed limit. Col. Wilson E. Speir, Texas Department of Public Safety director, reports.

Speeding arrests by the Highway Patrol during March were 109 per cent greater than in March 1973, Speir said.

In March 1974, 58,760 speeding cases were filed, compared to 28,111 a year ago. Passenger car drivers received 43,264 of the tickets and truck drivers 14,849. Speir appealed to all motorists to obey the speed law. He said the number of traffic deaths has begun to rise again after a decline.

Insurance companies are raising doubts premiums will drop with the lowered speed. They point to increases in hospital and repair costs.

EXCHANGE PROPOSED - Agriculture Commissioner John

C. White discussed with Iran and Saudi Arabia ambassadors a proposal for direct exchange of agricultural commodities for fuel and fertilizers.

Under the plan, Texas and U.S. farm products would be bartered through a coordinating agency for an assured supply of petrochemicals for agriculture. Also offered is technological assistance to the two countries in developing their own agricultural resources.

COURTS SPEAK - A Kerrville school teacher who lost his job for refusing to shave his beard should be reinstated, the State Supreme Court held. But the case may go on and on in further appeals.

The Court of Criminal Appeals upheld a prison sentence given a Dallas mother for whipping her small children for taking money from her purse.

A federal district court at Tyler refused to order reopening of Waller County voter registration to benefit students of Prairie View A & M University.

A pre-trial conference was held April 24 in gubernatorial candidate Frances "Sissy" Farenthold's campaign finance lawsuit against Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

AG OPINIONS - Names of persons complaining of air pollution emissions and their statements to the Texas Air Control Board are public records, Atty. Gen. John L. Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

A county judge whose term has less than a year to run can be a candidate for the state senate.

Texas Water Quality Board is authorized to reimburse employees for travel expenses incurred in disseminating information on pollution and its control, to contract with federal agencies for funds to conduct sewage plant training and to subcontract with other agencies for actual performance of the training.

A retail store using electronic equipment for cashing checks of customers is not illegally engaged in banking.

A county can contract with a city for rural fire protection even if the county is co-terminous with a rural fire protection district.

An order by a county health department instructing a cafeteria to cease operations due to health violations is public information.

APPOINTMENTS - Governor Briscoe named 24 members to the advisory council on early childhood education. The council will help formulate standards for accreditation and teacher certification at the pre-kindergarten and kindergarten levels.

Gordon R. Wynne Jr. of Wills Point was named treasurer of the Democratic national party conference or mini-convention December 6-8.

Robert R. Shelton of Kingsville was sworn in to a six-year term on the Texas Public Welfare L. Hjernevik, former deputy director of the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity has been named new State Welfare Department deputy commissioner for management.

ABSENTEE VOTING BEGINS - Absentee voting for the May 4 primary elections began April 15 and will continue through Tuesday, April 30.

Those who expect to be absent from their county of residence only on election day may vote by personal appearance at the county clerk's office.

Those who will be absent during the time for personal appearances and on election day can make application to county clerks for obtaining an absentee ballot by mail to an address out of country. Mail ballots also are available to the sick and disabled or those unable to vote election day due to religious belief.

SAVING POSSIBLE - A proposed new multi-peril policy for commercial establishments can save up to 30 per cent on insurance premiums, according to the Texas Insurance Advisory Association.

The proposal is subject to approval by the State Board of Insurance. Most states have such plans in effect, allowing commercial property owners to deal with a single company instead of half a dozen or more.

SHORT SNORTS

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby came out in opposition to public financing of an offshore terminal to serve deepwater oil super tankers.

Attorney General Hill filed a multi-million-dollar damage action against manufacturers of materials used in reinforced concrete construction, claiming Sherman anti-trust act violations.

Recent storms have created problems for Upper Coast rice growers and vegetable farmers in Central Texas, according to Agriculture Commissioner White.

An additional $1.2 million in federal funds has been provided for the state air control program.

Impounded federal funds totalling nearly $1.8 million were released to the Texas Commission on Alcoholism.

Common Cause complains that many lobbyists and their employers aren't complying with requirements to report their expenditures.

The Board of Directors of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., meeting in Lubbock April 18, elected five cotton producers and one well-known cotton-oriented businessman to its Executive Committee.

In addition the Board adopted a resolution opposing what was described as "inequitable" regulations handed down from Washington by the U.S. Department of Agriculture concerning disaster payments under the current farm program, and another calling for public hearings on farm machinery safety requirements proposed by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA).

PCG represents the interests of cotton producers in a 25 county area surrounding Lubbock, seeking to better the producer's lot through production and utilization research by representing them in legislative matters, promoting area cotton for use in the world textile industry, and providing a variety of other services.

The 25 counties are divided into six districts with comparable production volumes, and a member of the Board is elected from each of the six districts to serve on the Executive Committee along with the organization's officers and past presidents.

W.L. "Preach" Edelman, cotton grower from Friona, was elected to represent Farmer, Deaf Smith, Castro Swisher and Briscoe counties.

Gary Ivey, Crosbyton producer was named to the Executive Committee to represent Crosby, Dickens and Lubbock Counties.

Joe D. Unfred, cotton producer and businessman of New Home, was selected from Lynn, Yoakum, Terry and Garza Counties, and Marion Bowers, a Gaines County producer from Seminole, was elected to serve his county plus Dawson, Borden, Martin, Howard and Midland Counties.

The PCG Board contends in its resolution opposing recently issued disaster payment regulations that USDA is attempting to subvert the intent of Congress when the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973 was passed by:

(1) limiting the amount of some producer allotments eligible for disaster payments although allotments were acquired by lease or purchase in good faith, some of them acquired prior to the issuance of those instructions,

(2) reducing the acreage in permanently acquired allotments if the producer increases his established yield for payment purposes on those allotments by more than ten percent, and

(3) setting up a yield calculation formula, for determining

One of the major bills before the House of Representatives this week as the Congress returns from its Easter Recess is this year's authorization for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

An important aspect of this bill is the ear-marking of $2 million for more research on short-term violent weather phenomena, such as the tornadoes which pose a significant threat in Northwest Texas. This is part of $35 million in the bill for overall weather and climate monitoring and research. The bill also provides $190,000 for research into air turbulence in connection with aviation safety. This type of research, in conjunction with the data from satellites which have looked at Earth's weather patterns and even its crop production and water quality for a number of years, may one day help us to better predict and possibly even influence our future weather conditions. It might compliment weather modification efforts affecting rainfall as well as direction and strength of violent wind storms.

This kind of research needs to be accelerated. Just before the Easter Recess, 17 members, including myself, introduced legislation which would authorize $10 million for NASA specifically to conduct increased research on short-term violent weather phenomena such as tornadoes. Hopefully, this years NASA authorization bill can be expanded to include more of this kind of research.

THE MAJOR ITEM in the $3.25 billion NASA bill is $820 million for the Space Shuttle Program. The Space Shuttle will be winged spacecraft that will take off vertically like a rocket and return for an airplane-like landing. The craft will be used over and over again to shuttle men and equipment between space and Earth. It will substantially reduce the cost of man's activities in near space and will enable more space research to take place. Our space program has already resulted in numerous "spin-off" benefits for each of us in our daily lives. Increased research at lower cost will mean even more benefits.

Early this month, ground was broken to begin construction of the 3 mile runway for landing the Space Shuttle at the NASA facility in Florida. As a former member of the House Committee on Science and Astronautics, it is encouraging to see each milestone in the development of our space program. The Shuttle's first horizontal flight will take place in 1977 and its first manned orbital flight is planned for 1979.

The NASA bill also contains $109.6 million for the Apollo a producer's eligibility for disaster payment, inequitably different from the formula used to calculate yields for other purposes under the program.

With regard to OSHA proposals, which would require that protective devices for power transmission, electrical and other farm machinery components be installed on all farm equipment, the Board resolved:

"That the safety measures proposed by OSHA be thoroughly reviewed in public hearings to determine both the desirability and practicality of such measures and that those measures determined to be practical and desirable in such hearings be required only on new machinery manufactured subsequent to final adoption of the regulations."

Also discussed at the meeting were the newly adopted Texas Cotton Association rules which call for a $5 per bale penalty on cotton not pressed at the gin to the 24inch width necessary for the Universal Density bale, but no official position was taken pending further study by the PCG Executive Committee.

CONGRESSMAN Bob Price 18th Congressional District

So you Test Project in which a July, 1975, launch is expected to accomplish a rendezvous and docking with the Soviets and a series of experiments in space augmenting a number of those conducted during the Skylab Program.

SOLAR RESEARCH would also be conducted with $1.8 million in the NASA bill with reinstatement of a program to develop a Solar Satellite Power Station. Such a satellite would receive energy from the sun in space, where the sun's rays are more intense, and convert that energy to a form which could be transmitted for use on Earth. This conversion is a complex problem but solar research today might well lead to a new energy source for tomorrow.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhill Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm may have his logic twisted up this week, but that's his worry. Dear editor:

As I understand it, the reason postage rates have gone up some more is that the government is trying to get the postal service on a paying basis.

While I have never been convinced the post office ought to show a profit--I thought it was a public service enterprise, like farming--the government of course may be right and I was just thinking.

If the post office ought to pay its way, then why shouldn't other government enterprises? Take the court system. It certainly doesn't turn a profit, its cost are going up, there's a log-jam of backed-up cases, all sorts of delays, and justice is being delivered slower than the mail. So it's possible if it were put under the supervision of private supervisors like the post office and some cold business principles adopted, the courts might start paying their way too.

For example, take the wide variation in court fines. I read only last night that, due to the fact the copper in a penny is worth more than the penny itself some people are melting them down for sale as copper scrap, so the government has now established a court fine of $10,000 for melting down one.

On the other hand, the fine for a big corporation's illegally donating $100,000 to a political campaign is $1,000. What sort of rate structure is that. Any hard fisted business man knows you can't run a business or a court system like that and show a profit.

If the courts can get $10,000 for catching somebody melting down a penny, they ought to get $1,000,000 from a corporation for contributing $100,000 to a campaign. Think how many millions and millions of dollars such a rate structure would have brought in from the last election alone and how far that would have gone toward reducing the court system's deficit.

I tell you, if we want to make money out of it, we ought to put the court system in the hands of business experts, but I'd suggest we not use the same experts who are managing the postal system. They can't seem to get the hand of it.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

The sixth grade sang a medley of folk tunes and the Chorals did a variety of minstrel tunes. The choir performed the same program for Mary DeShazo Elementary School, April 18, and a public presentation Thursday night.

By Shari Harlin & Shelly McGlaun On April 10, at 6:12 A.M. Michael Andrew Richardson was born at Littlefield Hospital and Clinic, Littlefield, Texas. The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Michael Richardson. Mr. Richardson is a 7th grade math teacher at the Jr. High. The weight of Michael Andrew was eight pounds and he was 21 inches long. His hair is dark brown. He was the Richardson's first child. He, the journalism staff at Muleshoe Junior High, would like to congratulate the Richardson family.

By Rhonda King Last week, the sixth and seventh graders were pre-registering for their next year's classes. Each student is required to take seven courses, two of which are electives. The reason for preregistration is so students will know in advance what subjects they have and so it will be easier to register in the fall. It is also easier for schedules to be made and the teachers get an idea of how many students they will have in each class.

John Tower United States Senate

There has been considerable publicity generated in recent weeks over problems encountered by some of our veterans, especially in the area of education benefits.

I have received considerable mail from Texas veterans, and our staff has spent many hours looking into these individual problems. It is easy to understand that the veteran living on a pension, or trying to go to school, or seeking training for a job is suffering as prices continue to rise. As the cost of living goes up, many older veterans are having a hard time making ends meet and some of the younger veterans are having to drop out of school.

All of us agree that more must be done for the veteran, but the issues are complex and solutions are not easy to come by. As in other areas of government, the Congress must consider fiscal realities along with how to set up an equitable system which is free of abuse.

The chief concern of the hour is whether young veterans, or those who served in Vietnam, are receiving the same educational benefits granted veterans of World War Two. The answer to this is most complicated. Millions of young veterans are getting everything their fathers got, and perhaps a little extra. However, the poor veteran and the married veteran are not as well off and many simply cannot afford to go to school.

Another problem facing the veteran seeking education is the wide variation in costs in different areas of the country. Some state schools are easily affordable, while others are prohibitively expensive. Today's veteran cannot afford the more expensive schools which were open to veterans of World War Two. However, many who are not veterans likewise cannot afford these schools. College enrollment across the country has shifted toward public institutions just because of rising prices.

Many veterans today want tuition, books and fees, in addition to an allowance, provided under their GI benefits. However, these items would cost as much as $1 billion more annually. Personally, I'm not convinced that the federal budget can afford such a price tag. One course we might pursue is an educational loan program for veterans, coupled with a raise in the monthly benefits. Other solutions are now being considered, and I will certainly give every solution a fair hearing before taking a final position.

In February of this year, the House of Representatives passed a bill, H.R. 12628, which would increase the rates of vocational rehabilitation, educational assistance and special training allowances. Under the proposed increases in educational assistance a single veteran attending school full-time would have an increase from the present $220 a month to $250 a month. The bill also would extend the eight-year limit during which benefits must be used to 10 years.

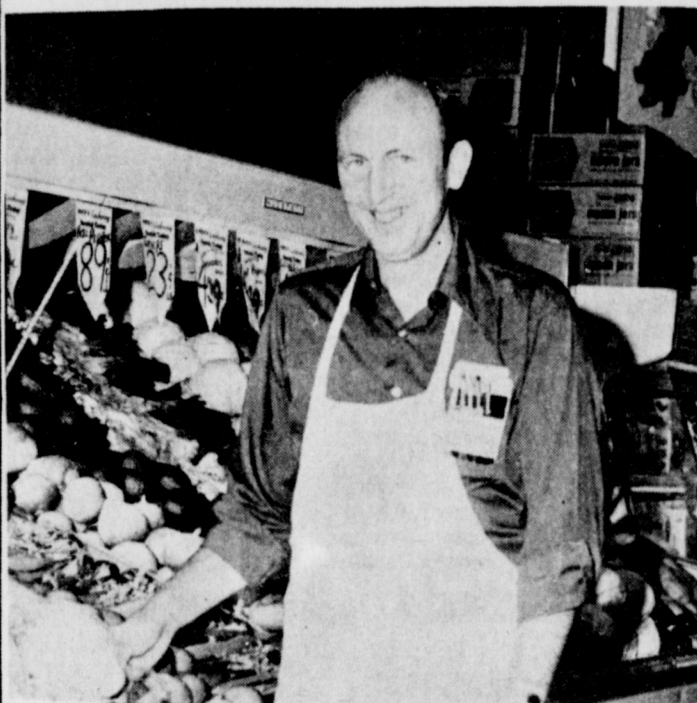

The Senate Veterans Affairs Committee held public hearings on this House bill, and a number of similar Senate Proposals just two weeks ago. Field hearings on these bills will be held toward the end of this month. Since the Senate is aware that a number of veterans will lose their benefits on May 31, every attempt will be made to move this legislation as fast as possible. I feel at this time that the Senate is likely to pass a bill similar to the House version.

Other bills pending which would be of interest to veterans and their families include one to increase World War One pensions, and another to increase rates of disability compensation and dependency and indemnity compensation, and provide for an automatic adjustment when an increase in the cost of living occurs.

A number of bills affecting veterans have already been passed during this Congress. They include the National Cemetery Act of 1973, a Veterans Health Care Expansion Act improving and expanding medical and nursing home care to veterans and providing care for dependents and survivors, and liberalization of disability and death pensions for veterans and survivors.

Before concluding this report, I would like to emphasize that I have not been happy with the effort to find jobs for Vietnam veterans. Unemployment among this group is above the national average. I am most hopeful that this matter will be carefully studied and that a more aggressive effort will be made to assist these veterans.

I intend to continue to closely monitor the activities of the Veterans Affairs Committee on these proposals which I have discussed. One of the most unfortunate aspects of the Vietnam situation is that these veterans in many cases have felt that they returned to a nation which did not care about their sufferings, respect their endeavors, or appreciate the sacrifices made. We cannot let this type of thinking influence our efforts in the Congress to provide all our veterans all the benefits they are entitled to.
