ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The following named candidates are announced subject to the action of the democratic primaries:
FOR DISTRICT AND COUNTY CLERK,
R. C. McPHAILL,
A. T. GAY.

FOR COUNTY JUDGE,
W. C. BECKHAM.

FOR TAX ASSESSOR,
W. M. MATTHEWS,
S. H. JAMES.

FOR SHERIFF,
H. C. WILLIAMS.

FOR COUNTY TREASURER,
J. A. DIXON.

FOR COUNTY ATTORNEY,
B. L. ADAMS.

The attention of the City Council is called to the fact that there are several old wells and prospect shafts inside the corporation which are open and dangerous. If a child should fall into one of them somebody would feel the pang of remorse over unperformed duty.

Ice Cream and Soda Water for your best girl at MARTIN BROS.

V. F. GORRISEN buys cheap and believes in selling cheap.

Mr. Norman, mother of E. B. and J. M. Norman, is quite sick in South Bend and her sons are both at her bedside. She is not expected to live.

Go and see V. F. GORRISEN's new bargain counter goods. He sells cheaper than any house in town.

We understand that Mr. J. M.
McBryer of South Bend, is quite sick and not expected to live.

ue to help the people with low priced groceries.

BIGHAM, CRAIN & CO.

County Attorney B. L. Adams announces this week as a candidate for re-election to the office he now holds. Mr. Adams is a young man of great moral worth and strict honesty of purpose and if elected will perform the duties of the office to the best of his ability. He runs subject to the action of the democratic primaries.

No, you can't beat Morrison,

John Baldwin Captured.

On the 15th inst. at a picnic near Gainesville, little Hattie Welch, a 12 year old girl, was brutally assaulted by John Baldwin, a married man. Baldwin got his victim out in the woods on the pretense of going for water and there committed the assault. He beat her over the head with a rock and filled her mouth full of dirt to stifle her screams and left her insensible.
She was afterwards found by her friends and at last accounts was still living but in a very precarious condition. Baldwin ran off and procured a good horse and made for the southwest.

He came into this country last Monday week and on Tuesday morning took breakfast at Mr. Rose on the Brazos river. He was described to our Sheriff that day and in company with Lawrence McLaren, Sheriff Williams made pursuit. He overtook his man near Breckenridge in Stephens county and riding in front of him brought his hands up on presentation of a good winchester. Baldwin was brought to Graham and lodged in jail. He admitted that he was the man and said he expected to be hung. The only excuse he offered was drunk-ness and said he was so drunk he did not remember what he did to the girl. He wrote his wife from this place bidding her goodbye and asking her to raise their two children.

Baldwin was taken to Weatherford by Sheriff Williams last Saturday where he was met by Sheriff Pat Ware of Cooke county and the two sheriffs conveyed their prisoner on to Gainesville.
Sheriff Williams was the recipient of many high compliments from the daily press on account of the capture and will receive the reward of $300 offered for Baldwin's arrest.
He deserves the commendation of all for his prompt and vigilant action.

The law breakers will doubtless soon learn to give Young county and her little sheriff a wide berth.
They must "take the hint" and stay away from Young or be arrested and stand trial for their crimes.
R. C. McPHAILL,
A. T. GAY.
FOR COUNTY JUDGE,
W. C. BECKHAM.
FOR TAX ASSESSOR,
W. M. MATTHEWS,

Graham Gets the Summer Normal.

Judge Timmons received the following letter last week.
AUSTIN, TEX., Apr. 17, 1894.
Hon. N. J. Timmons, Graham, Texas; Dear Sir: A summer Normal Institute to begin July 3, 1894, and close August 3, 1894 with J. K.
Wester of Jackboro as conductor has been located at Graham.

I am sure that this Institute will have your hearty support and cooperation and that it will bring substantial improvement to the schools of your district.
Most respectfully,
J. M. CARLISLE,
State Sup't. Pub. Inst.
The teachers of the county should be congratulated upon their success in securing this Normal. It will be a great thing for the teachers and its location at Graham will prove to be not only a good advertisement for our school but for the whole town and county.

We hope the citizens of the town will appreciate its value and do all in their power to make it pleasant for the teachers who will congregate here.

THE LEADER, in the interest of public education, hereby offers its columns to those who are interested in the Normal for the free advertisement of its advantages to the teachers of the district.

Let us all pull together and see to it that the Summer Normal at Graham is a success in every particular.

We presume our beautiful new school building will be ready for occupancy by that time and the holding of a Normal there will be a fitting opening for the building.

Dr. R. H. Burns has a field glass which presents a peculiar phenomenon. It has been hanging up on the wall for some two or three years and on taking it down the other day the doctor found that the glass had taken photographs of flowers, grass, &c., and presents a perfect galaxy of beauties. The only explanation offered is that an electric stroke got into the glass and caused it to go into the photographing business with this result.

Belknap.

At last, we may say summer with its birds and flowers, is upon us.
Farmers are quite happy over the fine prospects for good crops of wheat, oats, and corn; if the peaches are killed.

It is our sad office to report the death of Charles A. Logan son of Eugene and Anna Logan, on April 15th. Charley was sick only about eight days, and pneumonia the disease that ended his short life: as he was only 15 years old. A dutiful son; an obedient pupil; and a kind playmate, he is sorely missed by all. Charley had a mind much more developed than is usually found in youths of his age; and gave promise of a bright career in the future. In God's providence he is early taken from us and transferred to a higher life; and while our hearts are sad we know that all is for the best.

The school closed here on last Friday with a picnic, and I need hardly say old Belknap fully sustained her "rep" for good dinners. An exposition of school work, and some class work was given on Friday; and at night an entertainment consisting of recitations, and dialogues, was given by the pupils assisted by the young people of the town. Every thing passed off pleasantly, and all seemed satisfied with the day's proceedings.

Graham Democratic Club.
Pursuant to the call, published in last week's LEADER, the democrats of precinct No. one met at the court house last Saturday afternoon.
The house was called to order by Precinct chairman Starrett who stated the object of the meeting and was elected to preside during the organization with B. B. Garrett as secretary. The following resolution was unanimously adopted as the basis of organization:

"Resolved: That we renew our adherence to the democratic platform of 1892 and endorse every effort of the President and democratic congress to carry its provisions into effect."

A club roll was then opened and about fifty names were enrolled as members. (The number has since been swelled to seventy-three.) The club then organized permanently by the election of Col. O. E.
Finlay, President, Prof. R. Lindsay, Vice president and B. B. Garrett, Secretary.

On motion the President and Secretary were instructed to invite Col. S. W. T. Lanham, of Weatherford to address the club and citizens of Young county at an early date as practicable.

The first Saturday in each month was fixed as the time of meeting for the club.

On motion Col. Finlay, B. B.
Garrett and J. W. Gallaher were appointed as a committee on public speakers and campaign work and on motion of Capt. Gant THE LEADER and Radiator were requested to publish proceedings of the club.

Speeches were called for and Capt. Gay responded in a neat and well selected speech of fifteen minutes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

1. How should the teacher dress?
This depends somewhat upon the patrons and customs of the people in his district and the teacher's financial ability. Some teachers are oblivious to the surroundings. They dress too well for the notions of the people and are classed as dudes and fops. In other communities they are called uncouth, and uncultured. Observation teaches me that teachers may occupy either extreme. However the teacher should always be neat in dress.

2. Why do not all pupils having the same mental ability make the same progress in their studies?
AN ANXIOUS FATHER.

This is a question that would require a volume to answer it. If I could induce every school patron in Young county to read and reflect on the reasons I would be very glad to unite my observations.

1. Parents are not prompt in requiring their children to be on time each morning. We have several pupils in our school at present, who never get to school on time to recite their first lessons of the day, and frequently miss the second.
As a result they have lost their standing in their classes.

2. Parents sometime ask the teacher to excuse the pupils from school to do some little errand.
This takes time from the class and puts the pupil behind in the work.

3. Often children claim they are ill and unable to attend school. Indoling parents will allow them to attend socials, games, etc., remaining up late at nights which is more detrimental to the educational interests of the pupil than most anything.

4. Many times parents will not buy books. I have known people to refuse which would cause pupils to lose two or three months time during the session. This is poor economy for the parent and injurious to the pupils. Many other reasons might be given.

WHAT TO TEACH.
Education should develop every power—mental, moral and spiritual. No haphazard, bungling, soulstupifying, brain-deadening method should circumscribe the curriculum of our common schools.
Nothing is too good for a child.

He should have the best of everything. The mental, moral and spiritual food should be of the purest and best type.

"What to teach," has agitated the minds of educators since man emerged from the shades of barbarism. As the environments changed, men changed. The superstitions and beliefs of the primitive man gave way to the mysticism and darkness of the dark ages. The dark ages evolved the bigotry, intolerance and agnosticism of the 18th century; then came the calcium light of the 19th century with its boasted freedom and progress. But still the old question that was debated by Aristotle, Plato and Socrates;
commented by Rousseau, Pestalozzi and Froebel; elaborated by Comenius and Locke; retouched and renewed by the combined genius of this age of progress and investigation, still confronts the educator of today, and seems as far from solution as in the days of its youth.

What to teach: The Spartans educated the muscles, producing warriors; the Athenians exercised the imagination, producing poets, orators and statesmen; the Germans, imbued with the mysticism of the ancient Alchemists, develop dreamers, the most impossible types, psychologists that seek to lay bare the inmost secrets of the human mind; the American, schooled by the uses of adversity and the voices of the wilderness has revolutionized the industries of the world by his wonderful discoveries and inventions.

The three r's, "readin', 'ritin' and 'rithmetic," no longer, even in the most benighted portion of our land, compose the entire curriculum. The ancient catenism, with its thunders against the world, the flesh and the devil, is no longer the terror and dread of the Sunday School pupil, with its anathemas of destruction and wrath, but is replaced by the most attractive literature of the day. The cumbersome business methods of the past have been swept aside by the onward rush of time and labor saving devices so that safety, system and order prevail everywhere.

In this practical age the tendency is towards utility rather than culture. The business education has come into prominence, and the query, "will this aid me in making money?" is almost invariably asked concerning any system of education or course of study. The commer-

A Little Girl's Escape.

HOW SHE WAS RESCUED FROM A LIFE OF TORTURE.

Almost Beyond the Hopes of Recovery. A Loving Father's Gratitude.

(From the Kansas City, Mo., Journal.)

Perhaps no disease with which a young person can be afflicted is so terrible and blighting in its nature as a nervous disorder, which gradually saps the strength of its victim and haunts him or her day and night.

This was the melancholy prospect which confronted Mr. L. L. Harbor's young daughter, Edgewood, Kansas, and the gratitude of her parents when she was brought about may be imagined.

Learning of the case, for it is one which has created a great deal of interest throughout the country, a Journal reporter sought Mr. Harbor to get the full particulars in the belief that much good could be done other sufferers by the publication of the facts of the case.

The reporter found Mr. Harbor in his shop busily engaged on a piece of work. He at once narrated briefly the particulars of the case, which had been effected in the case of his daughter.

The facts are set forth in the following affidavit which Mr. Harbor voluntarily and cheerfully made:

L. L. Harbor being duly sworn, on oath deposes and says:

During the spring of the current year, 1903, my daughter Bertie, aged 13 years, became afflicted with a nervous disease which grew upon her to such an extent that it seriously interfered with her studies, and aroused the greatest fears that it would develop into St. Vitus' dance.

My daughter, who had been a very healthy child, gradually became so nervous that she would drop her knife and fork while eating, and would at times be seized with nervous twitches which excited the alarm of myself and wife.

It is needless to say that I was both surprised and delighted with the wonderful change brought about by the first box of the pills. She is now a healthy girl, and all the symptoms of her disease have disappeared.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. So strongly was I impressed with the facts set forth in the testimonial that I wrote to ascertain the authenticity of the case.

Receiving a reply which completely satisfied me, I sent for a box of the pills.

From the very first dose a marked improvement in my daughter's condition was noticed. She had become thin and excessively pale, and I took pains to suffer from nervous diseases, and her weight had decreased to an alarming extent.

After a careful and thorough trial of the pills, she not only began to gain weight, but also began to gain flesh.

It is needless to say that I was both surprised and delighted with the wonderful change brought about by the first box of the pills.

She is now a healthy girl, and all the symptoms of her disease have disappeared.

HE BROUGHT HIM IN.

The Judge Told Martin to Bring Him In, Head or Tail, and He Came.

Old Judge Allison was a famous character in Kentucky in the early days following the war, and as time passed his popularity seemed to increase.

He had been a man of substance in slavery days, and, among other property, owned a black man named Martin, a very excellent fellow.

Martin was a blacksmith, and was allowed by his master to do work for any whomever he had time enough to devote to it.

After the war Martin refused to leave the judge, and while devoting more of his labor to the paying public he was at all times subject to the call of his former master.

There was a contest for the office of county judge, and Allison became a candidate. He was not a trained lawyer, and had no legal experience of any kind.

He was the soundest sense, and his great popularity overbalanced all criticisms. He was elected.

One night some hogs were stolen from a field right across the road from Martin's blacksmith shop, and Martin was arrested and charged with the crime.

He was very frightened. Hog stealing in Kentucky is one of the unpardonable crimes, and he was convicted of it in a heavy sentence at the harvest labor.

Martin stood trembling before Judge Allison and declared that he had not stolen the hogs.

"Don't lie, Martin," said the magistrate sternly.

"For God's sake, Judge Allison," pleaded Martin, "I am a poor, frightened negro's admixture of all the titles of honor, both before and since the war."

"For God's sake, I never stole 'em. I 'low I don't do it. I see you got a good trade. I buy my pork."

"It don't seem reasonable, Martin. But somebody must have stolen them. His name is on the list."

"Well, I know who it was, judge. You do?"

"Yesss."

"It was dat triflin' nigger on Colonel Bascom's place."

"Yesss. It was Pete Willis."

"Cause the man stole dem hogs took a wrench from my shop to get the gate off with. And Pete, he brought back my wrench, and he brought me a pair of shoes."

"He did, did he?"

"Yesss. Martin, you go and get Pete Willis. Git that nigger and bring him in here."

"You bring him, dead or alive—do you hear?"

"Yesss."

And Martin vanished without the sound of a ball and or the hint of a guard.

Early next day Judge Allison was listening to a case of common assault when he heard a rather unusual sound about the court.

He saw Martin standing in the doorway, at hand with a puzzled expression on his face and a crowd of excited people behind him.

"Here's dat nigger, Marse Judge," he said, with a tone which indicated he was resuming a subject dropped but a moment before.

"Dat nigger?" demanded the judge, soberly.

"Dat Pete Willis."

"Oh! Oh, yes. Well, bring him in."

"Why, he's dead, Marse Judge. I can't bring him in."

THE OCEAN MAN.

In the Museum of Natural History at Dublin is the skeleton of a man, a native of the south of Ireland, who was called the ocean man.

His body became ossified during his lifetime. He lived in that condition for years.

Previous to the change he had been a healthy young fellow of superior strength and agility.

One night he slept out in a field after a debauch, and some time later he felt the first symptoms of the strange transformation.

The doctors could do nothing to relieve his pain, and he died. His joints stiffened.

When he died he was in a state of extreme agony. He could not stand, but he moved in the least.

His body was buried in a coffin, and he was buried in a coffin.

THEY TUMBLE UPWARD.

Deep Sea Fish Face a Danger Unknown to Other Living Things.

It is only reasonable to suppose that the ability to sustain an enormous amount of pressure is a quality common to animals after generations of gradual migrations from shallow water.

Monthly these forms that are gradually killed on for some depth of the ocean are usually killed and distorted by the enormous and rapid diminution of pressure in their journey to the surface, and it is extremely probable that shallow water forms would be similarly killed and crushed out of shape were they suddenly plunged into very deep water.

The fish that live at these enormous depths are, in consequence of the enormous pressure, liable to a curious form of accident. If, in chasing their prey or for any other reason, they rise to the surface, they are gradually killed on for some depth of the ocean are usually killed and distorted by the enormous and rapid diminution of pressure in their journey to the surface, and it is extremely probable that shallow water forms would be similarly killed and crushed out of shape were they suddenly plunged into very deep water.

The young man must have seen his death in the light of the log, and as it was drawing him more swiftly toward his death, I heard him exclaim: "God! God! Christ! We shall be killed here, and we are going to die! Kiss me, kiss me!"

"What are you doing there?" I cried. He turned and looked at me. Both arms embraced the figure with a deathly tightness.

"No, no, you shall not take her! Go back! Go back! How wildly he looked at me. Then kissing the cold water he said: "Christine, Christine, I could stand no more of this. I realized the peril of the figure. I rushed for the log, intending to recover the figure and return with it to the surface, but in my haste my foot slipped and pushed the log with its levers into the stream.

THIRTY-SEVEN YEARS AGO.

Niagara was burned off Port Washington, Wis., and one of the few survivors was a 2-year-old baby, who drifted ashore tied to a piece of board.

Around his neck was a little cross with the name Franc Millette engraved on it. Advertisements were inserted in various papers, and other efforts made to find the relatives of the child, but in vain, and he was adopted and reared at Manitowish under the name of Frank Willis.

Not only a good body wrote up the report of the remarkable escape from the burning vessel for the papers, and it attained considerable notoriety. Willis has since received several letters from his relatives. They all tell him that he was born in Winoski, Vt., thirty-nine years ago, and that his name is Franc Millette; that his father, mother and three elder brothers were lost on the Niagara, and that he has several relatives living in various parts of the country, some of them at no great distance from his home in Wisconsin.

The Best Way. For removing the small paint from rooms the simplest remedy of all is to be found in opening the doors and windows to let in a constant supply of fresh air until the paint has hardened. It is, however, time to get an object, the same result may be obtained by burning a few handfuls of juniper berries on a charcoal fire in the middle of the room in precisely the same way and with the same precautions as in disinfecting with burning sulphur. The windows and doors must be stopped as closely as possible, and if the room be opened after forty-four hours the disagreeable smell of paint will have gone and nothing that has been left in the room will suffer injury from the fumes. The Oldest Piece of Wrought Iron in existence is believed to be a roughly fashioned sickle blade found by Beloni in Karnak, near Thebes. It was imbedded in the mortar under the base of a sphinx, and on that sphinx is known as the 'sickle of the sphinx.' It is now in the British Museum, and is believed to be nearly 4,000 years old.

More Remedies for Peanuts. An article recently published in a German medical journal by Dr. P. Furbering, is calculated to largely increase the demand for peanuts. He maintains that this nut is an extremely useful and nutritious article of food, being especially rich in albumin, of which it contains 47 per cent, together with 19 per cent of fat and non-nitrogenous extractive matter. He recommends the use of roasted peanuts in the form of soup or mush. Of recent years, especially in the poorer houses, and the like, moreover, they are used as a substitute for coffee for the corpulent, for diabetes and for the subjects of kidney disease, and the last mentioned of whom foods rich in animal albumin are to be avoided.

Another Bouncing Club.

THE LEADER has it upon good authority that the populists of South Bend organized a club last Saturday with P. B. Keeter, chairman, and Tutt Garnett, secretary, and two privates in the ranks—four members in all.

They have been claiming South Bend as a stronghold of populism, but this showing does not seem to bear out the claim.

HON. HEBER STONE of Brenham has decided to run for governor also. This makes about seven candidates for the democratic nomination.

EX-GOV. THOS. J. JARVIS of North Carolina has been appointed to the U. S. senate to succeed Senator Zeb. Vance who died two weeks ago. Senator Jarvis served as Minister to Brazil during Mr. Cleveland's first term.

COL. S. W. T. LANHAM is making an aggressive campaign for governor. He will canvass the state closely, and we hope to see him at Graham some time this spring.

W. W. Davis, president of the First National Bank of Weatherford, died at his home in that city on the 20th inst.

EX-GOV. J. W. THROCKMORTON died last Saturday at 8:30 A. M., at his home in McKinney, Texas. The whole state will mourn his loss as he was one of the most influential and most prominent men in the state and well beloved by all.

From Miller Bend.
General health of community very good. Farmers busy and have fine prospects for good crops.

We have a fine school in the bend this year conducted by Miss Grace Holmes. She is an excellent teacher and is well liked by all of the patrons.
The Pops had a rousing meeting in the Bend Saturday night. Chairman J. Spence McCann presided and A. T. Bass acted as secretary. Prof. Buren Holmes opened the ball by telling how he was converted to populism by seeing the bridge men pulling on a rope—well there is not much difference between rope pulling and wire pulling anyway.

He was followed by A. R. McDonald who told us how the times have served the human family from the discovery of America down to the present. Mr. said he could not endorse some parts of the populist platform, which goes to show that he is not lost beyond redemption. It takes a strong stomach to stand all of it. G. W. Ellis then closed the debate with a short populist speech. There were several good democrats present who gave them a respectful hearing but no reply was made. With regards to the LEADER we remain.

The Spirit of Populism.

The readers of the LEADER were informed about two weeks ago from our Elmsville correspondent that a certain populist orator told the people of the Clear Fork valley that if they, (the populists), could not succeed by the ballot they would buy the bullet. The writer has taken some pains to authenticate this report and he finds that it is, in substance, entirely true. The language was used by a man who enjoys the protection of our laws and who knows enough about the American government to appreciate it if he had. In his heart, the first principle of patriotic appreciation.

We enjoy the best system of government under the sun and the whole world know it; yet our populist friends find faults with it, which if well founded, would make a monarchist or an anarchist out of every student of government.

Instances of such character occur almost daily. The fact is that our government has suffered very greatly under misrule in the past and the intention of its founders has been thwarted by designing men in many particulars, but still the vital principles of government are the same and there is no reason why any thinking, reasoning man should become discouraged at the signs of the times and fly to populism for relief.

Populism challenges southern democrats to endorse Cleveland and his administration and it loudly appeals to those who disagree with the president to come and join them. There is no sense or judgment in the argument. Are you a democrat? Were you a democrat before Cleveland was elected? If so, can you say that one man has driven you out of the party and caused you to accept ideas which are diametrically opposed to democracy? Do you not stultify yourself and do violence to your own spirit of independence when you make such an admission?

"A man is judged by the company he keeps" and a political party is judged to a great measure by its accepted leaders. Now let us apply this test to populism for what it is worth, (and in the statements which follow we challenge contradiction). 1st. Mr. Weaver, republican, defeated by fear for governor—turned populist. 2nd. Mr. Nugent, good man, fine judge, run for place on court of appeals, defeated—turned populist. 3rd. Mr. Kearby, defeated for democratic nomination for prosecuting attorney—left the party and has been populist or anything else ever since. 4th. Cyclone Davis, often a candidate and always defeated, left the democratic party. 5th. Harry Tracy was a banker but "busted" and has denounced banks and made his living by abusing "the powers that be" ever since. Come on down the scale and we find the most influential populist of the county an ex-republican, drawing a pension, never wounded or disabled but doing duty as a missionary trying to teach southern people how to vote—such are the populist leaders.

Now shall we accept these men as our political leaders, follow them with the ballot or the "bullet," or shall we try to maintain the institutions which have made America what she is to-day—"the land of the free and the home of the brave?" Shall we reverse the order and make it the land of the serf and the home of the slave? In closing this series of articles we wish to say that we realize that there are many good true men in the populist party—men who honestly think they are right and who would not for an instant remain in this party if they could see the dangerous tendency of the populist spirit. They are men who are honestly seeking reform; men who have the courage of their convictions and who seek to do the right; men who do not imagine for an instant that they are sowing the seeds of discontent and planting the germs of anarchy in the free soil of America; men who are in every way entitled to respect and consideration, but men who are misled! If any such have read these articles we beg them to stop and consider the matter fairly and impartially. The democratic idea of government is the "tree of liberty" to the American people. It has guarded and sheltered the constitution against all enemies and although its branches may be warped and twisted by the winds of discord, yet every true lover of liberty should sing.

Woodman spare this tree;
Touch not a single bough;
In youth it sheltered me;
And I'll protect it now."

Bob McLannery has been hunting turkeys for two weeks but if he has as much as a tail feather to show for his trouble no one here has seen it.

In conversation with the gentleman who was, in a late LEADER, spoken of as using some pretty strong language in a populist speech here; he informs your correspondent that his language was incorrectly quoted, and that the connection and application of what was alleged to have been said was entirely at fault. He states he was not referring to the populist party, but to all the South and West who were opposed to the financial policy of the present administration. Your correspondent was not at the meeting and only wrote what was a current rumor.

There has been some rumors flying around over here to the effect that some of our citizens who were "pop's" have sold out, to the business men of our village, and are now democrats for the favors extended by said merchants. It is needless to say that there's no truth in the report, and only vicious tongues deal in such affairs.

The adoption of a new rule by the lower house of congress puts that body in a position to expect needed legislation for which the country has been clamoring for a long time. It would have been well had this rule been adopted by the Democratic congress months ago. It makes no difference that the precedent was set by Tom Reed, the rule is a good one under the circumstances, and with it the Republicans can be negotiated with their own wisdom.—Mail.

Mr. Thos. Eggers, 109 Florida St., San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching Consumption, tried without result everything else, then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in Coughs and Colds. Free trial bottles at The R. G. Graham Drug Co. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

In these times of lightning changes it will not do to take every man at his word in regard to his politics. When you hear a loud-mouthed politician boasting that he is a Democrat, listen to him patiently as long as you can and then wait until you see how he votes before making up your mind as to what political party he properly belongs to. It is sometimes the case that a man don't know what he is himself, or else he has no regard for the truth.—Mail.

Because of free wool and free sugar in the Wilson tariff bill, Senator Peffer says he and other Populists cannot vote for it. Their adverse votes will possibly defeat the bill in the senate. The country will then be doomed to at least two year more of the McKinley tariff, and with a probable Republican congress to be elected this fall, relief from that burden is indefinitely postponed. The farmers can open their eyes and see how devoted to their interests are the Populists, who strain at the free-wool goat and swallow the McKinley-tariff camel.—Gazette.

In 1877 corn sold in Texas at 10c per bushel standing in the field, and the crop that year was no larger or better than from all indications it will be this year. If the surplus Texas corn in 1877 had been fed to hogs during that year, the farmer would have realized three times as much for it as he did; and what was true then may be true in 1894.—Mail.

WILL make the present season as follows: The first four work days of each week on Button Branch, south of the old TWT ranch, and Fridays and Saturdays at my stable in Graham, and will serve mares at $8.00 to insure in foal, and $10.00 when left to pasture and breed. Mares left at Graham Saturdays will be taken to the pasture.

Care will be taken to prevent accidents, but will not be responsible should any occur.

Description and Pedigree.
BRILLIANT Jr. is a beautiful black, 16 1/2 hands high, was sired by imported Brilliant; dam, Lucy; she was sired by David, a pure Percheron horse.

H. S. RICHLEBERGER, Graham, Texas, April 11, 1894.

THE ARABIAN HORSE,

CRAIG NOMAD.

WILL make the present season at my farm, 1 1/2 miles east of Graham on Jackboro road, and will serve mares at $8.00 to insure a living foal; $6.00 by the season.

Care will be taken to prevent accidents but no responsibility should any occur.

Description and Pedigree.
CRAIG NOMAD is a red sorrel Stallion, 15 1/2 hands high, foaled April 7, 1888; bred by Dr. W. E. Dalley, of Paris, Texas, sired by Nomad; dam Shirrip Dalley, a beautiful blood bay, noted for her saddle gait; she by Black Hawk. Nomad was bay stallion 15 1/2 hands high, foaled May 31, 1871; bred by R. E. Coleman, Harrisburg, Ky., sired by Almot, son of Alexander's Abdullah, dam Mary Coleman, by Gray's Manabro Chief, second dam by Poronto, son of St. Laurence; third dam by Kookuk; fourth dam by Stambone, imported Arabian.

Those wishing to breed will do well to call and see Craig Nomad before going elsewhere. He has no equal under the saddle, moves all the gait and is very fast in all.
