Mr. "Buncombe" makes this supposition: "There are fifty teachers in Young county. Suppose they all attend the institute one Friday in each month for six months at $2.50 a day; you have the sum of $750 each year taken from the school fund, which would buy books and graduate every orphan in the county." Let us analyze this sta ement. In the first place the average school term in Young county is about four months; so Le is short of the facts two meetings. In the next place the law requires only three meetings of two days each in a year, and one of these days is a Saturday. The teacher cannot maticians; and by adding two month draw pay for Friday unless he at- containing stxty-seven days, which are tends both days. He is required called the first and second intercalary to give one day of his own time for inserted between November and De every school day he puts in. In other words, works two days for one day's wages. According to "Buncombe's" supposition they give $750 to the county. A word about the orphan: It takes nine years to day of December completed, or the firs go through the free school course__ from 8 to 17. At $100 a year for books, board and clothing, it would require $900 to graduate one pupil in the free school alone. If the number of teachers in the county is fifty and they all attend the three Fridays required by law and re- lows: ceive pay at his figures, the amount would be $375-just half what he makes it but they contribute a like amount from their own private time. The trouble is that teachers cannot be induced to attend the institutes. The average attendance at each neeting is not more than ten, yet with this handful we hope to excite an enthusiasm which shall sweep est possible plane of efficiency. Look at these figures: There are about twenty-two teachers in attendance at the Normal now in progress at Graham; they each pay $10 from the first of January by Solar Julian months, end on the thirteenth day of October in the second preceding month tuition, $110 a month-$330 | year; so the first day of January was

Many of our citizens are of the opinion that the bridge should be placed at the Rock Hole, as it can be made more substantial at this point than at any other crossing on the creek. It is hoped the commissioners' court will investigate this matter thoroughly and place the bridge, once for all, where it will be secure from the ravages of high water and not be a source of expense and inconvenience to the people every time there is a rise in the creek.
