At a girl is not pretty she can easily make up for it.

Some preachers forget that sheep do not stand on their hind legs to eat.

There is no use being absurdly practical if you really want to enjoy life.

Many people would be more truthful but for their uncontrollable desire to talk.

There would be more harmony in families if brothers did not know each other so well.

People who treat themselves with due respect are seldom worried by imperfections from others.

No business that seeks to accumulate money without creating something of value can be called legitimate.

A vast amount of curiosity comes from the vanity of desiring to know something that somebody else does not.

Women are apt to consider themselves neglected when they do not feel that they are putting some man to inconvenience.

Leisure will always be employed by persons who know how to employ their time; those who do not.

It is human nature to forget to look back and see what became of the person who gave you a friendly boost over the fence when the bull was coming.

A real truth made her debut in New York a few days ago at the Spiritual Temple. Her name is Mrs. Ada Gage, and though it is declared that she has never had any education and that she speaks only English, she asks with much feeling a solo in the Geneva dialect while under the control of a medium, she sang a large crowd in the same way and also played on the piano, selecting the music at the suggestion of the medium.

G. F. Adams of Derry, N. H., being twelve persons present last Thanksgiving who were the following: To one another: Great-grandfather, great-grandmother, two grandfathers, two grandmothers, five daughters, five granddaughters, two great-grandchildren, two brothers, three aunts, one uncle, one great-uncle, one niece, two great-aunts, three husbands, two fathers, three mothers, and three grandsons, one grandnephew, two sisters-in-law and two brothers-in-law.

A remarkable election by candle light, was held by John Raymond, a farmer of Derry, N. H.

Conn. The bet was that the user should drink fifty dipspers of hard cider a day for ten consecutive days. His order was supplied the dipper and got the largest to be found. Withrop got along fairly well for the first three days. After that he showed evidence of being a large-sized fellow, which constantly accumulated in size and strength. Later on his friends had to keep him at home by force to keep him from being a large-sized fellow, which constantly accumulated in size and strength. Later on his friends had to keep him at home by force to keep him from being a large-sized fellow, which constantly accumulated in size and strength.

City farming is likely to become quite a feature, a New York paper says.

The fact that at the recent meeting fair a woman who had several men who have farms similar to hers took prize amounting to $25, is looked upon with great interest in the city.

When the vacant lot was suggested several years ago, it was said to be a visionary scheme, and the receipt of poor city people without previous farming experience could not cultivate land with any profit to themselves.

The man who died of the extreme heat that came later.

Boston has a prodigy in the shape of an 11-year-old colored girl who is a verbal preacher.

She is a child of no or no education, but speaks with all the style, intonation, delivery and gesture of a polished and experienced pulpit preacher.

Her speech is fluent and easy and her voice musical. This little girl was born in Wrentham, D. C., in September, 1885. Her father was a preacher. She began preaching when she was about 7 years old. She has come north to help raise funds to build an industrial school for colored girls in Charleston.

Down on the lower end of New York city lives a man who makes a fair subsistence by speculating in funerals.

A funeral is about to take place. He goes to the undertaker, with whom he is in close touch, and offers to pay cash for the same.

As most of the funerals in the poorer sections of the city are paid for by installments, the undertaker is glad to accept the proposition, and gives a liberal discount.

The undertaker gets cash, the speculator makes a profit on his investment and the family of the dead are put to no inconvenience.

Cherubim in Columbus, Ohio, do not propose to have themselves overworked attending funerals on Sunday.

They have served notice that only in case of necessity will they lend themselves to the pomp and circumstances of funerals on the first day of the week.

Some of them have said to interviewers: "We are the surface of the ground at Jerusalem. Phoenicians pottery and brown stones with inscriptions, showing that they were furnished by Hiram, King of Tyre, but the Bible says they were. The great names of Bible history, that many suppose are names of imaginary beings, are found cut into

STORMING THE HEIGHTS OF LEAGUED OPPRESSION.

From the Text, "Who Art Thou, O Great Mountain, Before Zerubbabel? Thou Shalt Become a Plain."—Zech. 4, Chapter 4, Verse 7.

Zerubbabel who owned that name, in which three times the letter "b" occurs, disposing most people to stammer in the pronunciation.

Zerubbabel was the splendid man called to rebuild the destroyed Temple of Jerusalem.

He was quarried, and the towel had been laid on the corner-stone, and all went well, when the Cushaeites were called to help in the work.

They were a bad lot of people, and Zerubbabel declined their help, and then the trouble began.

APT. JAMES R. MULLETT, of New York, claims the whole world as his home.

His equipment is familiar with the polar seas and the burning sun of the tropics.

Many years ago the Captain who of an adventurous spirit, ran away from his Australian home and went to sea.

Beginning as a cabin boy he occupied various positions until he found himself the captain and partner of a smart schooner.

Even in this position he discovered that he received more knocks than half-pence, and being an original character, he resolved to find some way to make a living in which he would have no opposition.

His sea life had given him a close acquaintance with all the strange creatures which nautical novelists love to describe and tell about, and he resolved to go into the business of bringing them over to the United States.

That was twenty years ago, and ever since he has been following his chosen profession, he has made his name known in the United States and abroad.

COLLECTING FADS.

The horrible custom of getting rid of the dead is a relic of barbarism.

Books, like friends, should be well chosen. The hardest habit to break is that of asking favor.

He who reforms himself does much to reform the public.

Most men like to have women treat them like dogs. When a woman meets a dog she puts him on the head and says "Nice doggie!"

The Atlanta Sun says: "In every town there are broad shouldered stalwart men leading lives and complaining that they can get nothing to do."

The bill looking to the abolition of capital punishment in the territory should be pushed into a statute.
