The bicycle corps of the 25th United States Infantry recently rode from Fort Missoula, Montana, to St. Louis, url, a distance of 1,900 miles. The commander of the corps has reported to the war department that the trip required thirty-four days of actual travel, at an average rate of 6.3 miles per hour. A large part of the trip was made under trying conditions, over mountains, and on sandy or muddy roads, with an occasional fording of treams; the men living meanwhile on the regulation field and travel ration. "THE THREE TAVERNS" LAST SUNDAY'S SUBJECT.

From the Text; Acts, Chapter XXVIII. Verse 15, as Follows: "They Came to Meet Us as Far as Appli" Forum and the Three Taverns.

EVENTEEN mile south of Rome, Italy, there was a village of unfortunate name, A tavern is a ment. In our time tainment is a provi-One such place you have been enough for that Italian vil-

In vain I search ancient geography for some satisfying account of that village. Two roads came from the sea coast to that place; the one from Actium, and the other one which Paul traveled. There were, no doubt, in that village houses of merchandise and mechanics' shops, and professional offices, but nothing is known of them. All that we know of them. All that we know of the second has its dismal that the second has its dismal that the second has its dismal that the second has its dismaller to the second has its dismaller that village is that it had a profusion of inns—the Three Taverns. Paul did not choose any one of these taverns as the place to meet his friends. He certainly was very abstemious, but they made ly was very abstemious, but they made the selection. He had enlarged about the selection. He had enlarged about of doors about two o'clock in the mornkeeping the body under, though once he prescribed for a young theological student a stimulating cordial for a stomachic disorder; but he told him to take only a small dose—"a little wine for thy stomach's sake."

One of the worst things about these Three Taverns was that they had especial temptation for those who had just come ashore. People who had just tempted by these three hotels which were only a little way up from the beach. Those who are disordered of the sea (for it is a physical disorganizer), instead of waiting for the gradual return of physical equipose, are apt to take artificial means to brace up. the one million sailors now on the sea, how few of them coming ashore will escape the Three Taverns! After surviving hurricanes, cyclones, icebergs, collisions, many of them are wrecked in harbor. I warrant that if a calculation were made of the comparative number of sallors lost at sea, and lost ashore, those drowned by the crimson wave of dissipation would far outnumber those drowned by the salt water. Alas! that the large majority of those who go down to the sea in ships should have twice to pars the Three Taverns, namely, before they go out, and after they come in. That fact was what aroused Father Taylor, the great sailor's preacher, at the Sailors' Bethel, Boston, and at a public meeting at Charlestown, he said, "All the machinery of the drunkard making, soul destroying business is in perfect running order, from the low grog holes on the docks kept open to ruin my poor sailor boys, to the great establishments in Still House square, and when we ask say, 'you can't help it,' and yet there and Chicago. But not until the judgment day, when the sea shall give up its dead and the story of earthly disasters shall be fully told, will it be known how many yachts, steamers, brigatines,men-of-war and ocean greyhounds have been lost through captain and crew, made incompetent by alcoholic de-thronement. Admiral Farragut had proper appreciation of what the fiery cort him to his throne and shout at fficer of the warship said to him, "Admiral, won't you consent to give Jack a glass of grog in the morning? Not enough to make him drunk, out enough to make him fight cheerfully."

(Special Letter.) esque town in New Jersey is Lincoln, in Middlesex county-picturesque not so much in its scenery as in the character of its inhabitants, Women they!" are the masters. They vote at elecand fiddle, and the reason is because the mayor, Silas D. Drake, better known as "Si" Drake, is a ladies' man and believes they can run a town just as well as men. When the project for a town was started last spring the women were consulted about it. Drake, a veteran of the Civil war and a dynamo of energy, did all the hustling. He is a little man, with sandy beard and hair and blue eyes. Everybody in Middlesex knows or has heard of "Si." They know of his admiration for women, and that he has en anxious to give the woman's right
