CHISHOLM BROTHERS SHOW A STEADY GROWTH HERE FOR PAST 15 YEARS

With a Very Modest Beginning in 1923, This Firm Has Spread Out to Occupy Five Buildings, With Groceries, Hardware, Implements, Hatchery and Service Station

In November 1923, a small grocery store was opened on the east side of the square in the building now occupied by Buck's Barber Shop and the Cinderella Beauty Parlor, on one side of the partition, and Dr. McIlroy on the other. It was a modest little store, and we do not mean by that to fit it to the old expression, "a shirt-tail full of groceries," for they carried about everything one would want in the grocery line. But the building was small of capacity, and they had to fit their stock to the size of the building. Soon, with more and more customers being added, they had to obtain more room.

So in 1927, a 50 feet frontage was purchased on the southeast corner of the square, and a building, constructed for the housing of a modern grocery, 50x80 feet was erected, and a real period of expansion began. In March 1938, the grocery department was sold to Smith & Bost, who still operate it. This parent business always went under the name of Chisholm Brothers, although it became known later as one of the chain of Red & White stores, yet home owned.

In the spring of 1929, two other buildings were erected, 50x80 and the Hardware department came into existence, and has been growing and adding stock since, including a full line of John Deere implements and tractors. The hardware department is handled by John Chisholm as owner, assisted by Millard Holloway and Louis Ervin. Included with the shelf hardware and implements, is a full line of radios, electric refrigerators, etc., and a man efficient in repairing is always on hand. Their filling station in the rear, and fronting on Fifth street was opened in 1936, and is at present owned by G. W. Chisholm, of Alpine, and operated by his son, Richard and Ira Hyman. This department is always busy as they strive to render real service to their customers, and is out of the heavy traffic district.

Start Hatchery

This year began the 11th season for the Hatchery department, at present operated by Joe Chisholm, his wife, Bob Spear and Henry Chisholm, the hatchery having been opened in 1928, with one 16,000 egg capacity incubator. The second incubator, a 32,000 egg machine, of the very latest type was installed in 1929, and a few years later, the old 16,000 capacity machine was traded in on another 32,000 capacity machine, giving them a capacity of 64,000 eggs at one time. In 1937 still another deal was made in which the oldest 32,000 machine was traded for one of 48,000 capacity. This is just a rough estimate of the progress that has taken place in their hatchery in a brief ten years, and with their ever increasing business, points to greater things for the future, as every satisfied customer is a walking advertisement.

When people are using figures, naturally they begin speculating or estimating, and this time we began wondering just how many eggs had been run through those incubators, in the past ten years. After a little study and figuring, John Chisholm announced that a conservative estimate would run around 1,500,000 eggs. Of course not all of these hatched. Quizzed about their turkey egg luck in hatching, Joe informed us that when they got good, fertile turkey eggs, they had excellent luck, and no one can have success with infertile eggs of any kind.

We note that they are running hatchery ads in other papers of the area, at Tatum, N. M., and perhaps Plains. This is a fine idea. In that way they can expand their trade area, and it may as well come to Brownfield as let it go to some other seaport. Since the starting of the hatchery, the boys announce they have handled Everlay mash as well as that brand of starter and laying mash, and that the product has always proved entirely satisfactory with their customers.

Rainbow Inn Model Tourist Camp

Sunday afternoon we had occasion to visit the Rainbow Inn, now owned and operated by Uncle Jack Blankenship and son. After visiting cabins not at present occupied, there was no mystery why many people stop there temporarily or permanently, for they are not only modernly equipped, but as neat and clean as a pin.

These cabins are equipped with as good beds and mattresses as you will find in the average home; better than most. There is a good gas range as well as a heater, and the places supplied with hot and cold running water. You may have your choice of a cabin with shower or tub bath.

Aside from dispensing gas, oils and greases, they have a good line of Brunswick tires and tubes, and a neat little stock of groceries. They are preparing to remodel and enlarge their store in the near future and add to their grocery stock.

The writer has been knowing Uncle Jack for 30 years. He was a reader of the Herald at that time and has never been off the list. He, at that time lived in Lynn county, but a few years later bought a small ranch in Yoakum county and moved over there. He moved to Brownfield about two years ago.

Take it from us, you can always depend on Uncle Jack and his son to give you a square deal.

officials and employees by one-half saving $1,000,000.

Cutting the state's annual bill for printing, postage and stationary in half, saving $500,000.

Eliminating the Liquor Control Board, the regulation going to county authorities, saving $1,000,000.

Elimination of the Old Age Assistance Board, throwing administration to county authorities, at a saving of at least $500,000.

Dropping the office of State Tax Commissioner and saving $70,000.

Eliminating 1,000 employees, not now needed, from the list of 25,000 on the state payroll and saving $1,000,000.

84 Deaths and 313 Births in Terry

Our new Justice of Peace, Judge J. W. Oliver and the Herald man dug down and got a few vital statistics from the records of 1938 in Terry county. There may be a slight mistake in the figures, as it was found that he had recorded two or three births from December over in the January record. Possibly Judge Burnett recorded some 1937 births in his January records last year.

There were 313 births in Terry county registered last year compared to only 84 deaths. It is a noticeable fact that a county with a hospital will show a high percentage of deaths as well as births according to population. This has been found true at Lubbock which has several large hospitals, for the reason that several of the deaths are people who live in other counties, as well as mothers who give birth to children, living in another county, but go to a hospital in another county to be confined.

This shows that there were 73 per cent more births than deaths in Terry county last year, which we must say is a well balanced proportion, and at that rate should some day heavily populate the county without immigration.

Biggest Band Concert Of the Year

What is being spoken of as the "biggest band concert of the year" is to be given at the high school auditorium, Tuesday night, Jan. 31. Mr. Cavanaugh, band director, promises a real treat to those lovers of music of Brownfield and surrounding community. Mr. Cavanaugh has not announced the program, but suffice to say it will include some of the best concert marches and overtures played by the best high school and college bands. Among the numbers will likely appear "Princess of India" overture, "The Narrator" overture, "American Patrol" concert march, etc. Music lovers are urged to attend this concert and learn what is really being accomplished in band this year.

Mrs. A. C. Wason and baby of Tokio, were here Monday.

Highway Boys Off to Regional Contest

B. L. McPherson, section foreman of this division of State Highways, informed us this week that he and his team of First Aid boys would leave for Wichita Falls to contest in the regional Highway First Aid, against five other teams. They recently entered the contest at Lubbock and won over 11 teams in this section.

Should they win at Wichita Falls, they will go to Austin to contest in the state meet. Everything has to be according to Hoyle according to Mr. McPherson. They have to handle a wounded person according to rules of doctors and nurses, with minimum pain and maximum comfort to the wounded and get them to a doctor or hospital, after rendering First Aid.

Those who will contest at Wichita Falls are, Ed Stewart, O. D. Huckabee, Earl Anthony, Jr., Jim Krautz, Vernal Brothers and L. M. Rogers.

New License Plates For Terry Arrive

The new 1939 license plates have arrived at the Collector's office and are on display on the outside of the office enclosure for the inspection of the public. These plates can be purchased any time after February 1, but cannot be put on until after March 1, 1939, according to Mrs. Horace Smith, office deputy.

The car plates are gold with purple lettering and numbered from A94-401 to A96-700. The Commercial plates are green with black lettering, and numbered from 182-401 to 182-800. The Farm Car's are maroon with white lettering, and range from 111-651 to 112-000.

Mr. Smith said to be sure to bring your driver's license when applying for plates, as it would save time in looking up numbers of the engine, as well as that of old plates, etc.

Whitley's Fixed Up For Raising Chicks

While out driving around last Friday afternoon, we noted that Mr. and Mrs. Richard Whitley of Gomez had one of the largest brooders we had ever seen, so we called to inspect it. They had just loaded it up with more than 600 chicks they had received from the Chisholm Hatchery.

This brooder was purchased by them and shipped knocked down, and erected by them. It is plenty large for several people to enter and wait the chicks as they feed or drink or drowse.

The Whitley's have two fine milk cows and a pen of as fine White Leghorn hens as one wants to see. He and his father, J. J. Whitley run the store and filling station at Gomez.

High School Applies For More Affiliation

Application has been made for additional credits for the local high school. The new courses in which accrediting is asked will be Laboratory of Industries 2; Vocal Music (Chorus) 1; Physical and Health Education ½ additional. If these are obtained, the high school will have exactly doubled its number of high school credits during the last four years or during the tenure of the present superintendent, the number of credits having risen from 18 to 36.

Roy Wingerd and Lad Brownfield went to Ruidosi, New Mex., Monday to try out the new Ski course that was opened up on last Sunday at that place. The Wingerds have a cabin at Ruidosi and as Roy is fond of the sport of skiing, we predict them to spend some very pleasant week ends there.

Mrs. McWhorter, teacher in the West Point school was in town Wednesday.

A TRIP TO THE GASTON FARM IS A REVELATION TO EVEN AN OLD NESTER

We Are More Convinced Than Ever That the Old Saying That "Farming Will Not Pay Here" is a Myth. The Gaston Farm is a Living Refutation of the Saying.

Last Friday afternoon, the wife and I had the pleasure of spending an hour or so on one of the best and most prosperous farms in Terry county, that of J. Gaston and wife. They have children, but like a lot of us oldsters, the "younguns" have all fled the nest, leaving the residue behind. In other words, just like we started. But Mr. Gaston has a colored man and his wife, that are a great help about the place.

Some time back in writing about a Terry county farmer, W. P. Forbes, who lives just about as far northeast of town as Mr. Gaston lives southwest, (six miles), we stated that Forbes was from Red River county, Texas. So is the Gaston family. Not so long ago, Joe J. Taylor, editor of the Dallas News, better known perhaps as State Press, in mentioning John Nance Garner and the new President of the University of Texas, said that the fact that they were born and reared in Red River county, added a great deal to the prominence of these gentlemen, and while we think State Press said this because he lived several years at Clarksville, nevertheless, Red River county seems to have turned out good statesmen, good educators and excellent farmers. The Gaston family is from Red River county.

Mr. Gaston came to Terry county in 1923, just about dragging along, as he was in poor health, his doctor already having numbered his days. Mr. Gaston is still active—his doctor is dead. He took his good time looking around, and purchased the homestead 320 acres and after being here five months, tells us that he felt like a new man with some pep. He then wrote home, telling the family that they were moving to Terry county. Mr. Gaston stated he had $7,000 layed aside with which he made this purchase. He had 300 acres in Red River county, which he still owns, 25 acres being in pecans. (He gave us a sample sack of them, as well as a couple of good old Terry county pumpkins.) This was his start in accumulating land in Terry county.

Mr. Gaston stated that he had purchased about $72,000 worth of land in Terry county, paying cash for it, making the home place and each additional purchase pay for the next. The best we can figure, he has a total of 2830 acres in Terry county, 160 acres near Ralls, and with the 800 acres in Red River county makes a grand total of 3790 acres. That is close to six sections of land, a great deal of land, we would say, made and paid for in 15 years of farming in Terry county. Now Mr. Gaston sprung a new one on us. He says that lots of times farmers blame the land and weather for their crop failures, but he says "it's more in the man than the land or weather."

In fact, Mr. Gaston says that he has always made a pretty average crop each year. In 1937, it was some better, but not so very great. This year his home place produced nearly 30 bales with a greatly cut acreage, and a ten inch rainfall. Maybe some one will say that Mr. Gaston has been lucky, got the breaks. No, he has had his ups and downs the same as most of us. For instance, back somewhere in the 'teens, he went on a man's note in Red River county to help this man go in the grocery business. About three or four years later he was notified that he would have to pay the bank at Detroit about $17,000 for this man he had accommodated. He did, but it took him several years, and the bank did not ask him to mortgage his place. That broke Mr. Gaston "from sucking eggs" as the old saying goes. He signs no more paper for anyone now.

Now, just a bit about the huge amount of feed stacked around the Gaston farm. To the man from East Texas, or Central Texas, it would be a revelation. First though, let us tell you about 72 bales of cotton he has stored under shed at the farm, waiting for a better market. Some of this cotton will go anywhere from 1 and 1-16 to 1 and 3-16 inch in length, and it is from this cotton, Gaston Special, that he is advertising seed in the classified section of this paper. Of course he has insurance on this cotton, and is not costing him a great sight to carry the insurance under his own warehouse, as it were. After looking at his huge ricks of headed maize, both white and red, his several cribs of corn, and his two huge ricks of soy beans, and bundle cane that covered a quarter acre, we began to estimate the amount. Well, says he, off-hand I'd say I have about 80 tons of headed maize, and some 2000 bushels of corn, but I have not hauled in any of the rent corn. Quizzed further, we mentioned that corn was cheap, and hardly paid to be hauled to town. His answer was that he never hauled any kind of feed to town except inside the hides of animals, and we soon found that he really had the animals to feed.

"Wish you had come out before I sold 18 head of my hogs last week, Jack." But we could not miss the 18 that he had sold. Finally asked him how many hogs he had, and he admitted that he didn't know. Mrs. Gaston remarked that one of the 400 pound sows got out not long ago, and Mr. Gaston reported a stray hog. "Why that's your hog," she told him. Well, we didn't try to count them. There were a number of pens, and they contained swine in all stages from a few days old pigs to sows and a boar that would probably go near 600 pounds on foot. Our estimate is 60 to 75 head of swine.

Mrs. Stricklin asked if they had any chickens, not seeing any out near the barns or feed pens. Yes, answered Mrs. Gaston, but they range back on the other side of the premises. Don't want them to get too familiar with the hogs, as some of them might turn chicken eaters. We later saw this fine lot of hens. Then there was a matter of several will bred jersey cows, and noting a lot of fine horses and mules, we asked Mr. Gaston where his tractor was. "No gotta" said he. It hardly costs me anything to feed these teams, and everytime you move a tractor, it is money out of your pocket. He added however, that some of his renters used tractors.

After driving away from the Gaston home, we remarked to the wife that there was one family that was evidently living at home and boarding at the same place. But just a word about those soy beans before we close this article. We were under the impression that soy beans were adapted mostly to sections of heavy rainfall, like east Texas and Louisiana, for instance. But last year, the driest Terry county has had since 1917, the yield was good on the Gaston farm, as the vines in the ricks plainly showed. This was harvested before the beans were mature, but some were evidently left to mature for seed, as he mentioned some shelled and sacked.

Now, just a bit about the huge amount of feed stacked around the Gaston farm. To the man from East Texas, or Central Texas, it would be a revelation. First though, let us tell you about 72 bales of cotton he has stored under shed at the farm, waiting for a better market. Jim Craven Left Fri. After His Grandson

Jim Craven left last Friday for Santa Anna, Calif., where he will receive his little grandchild, which featured in a wreck last summer that not only seriously injured the child, but killed both parents, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Craven, account of which was in the Herald at that time.

Mr. Craven stated to the Herald that the child had been in a hospital all this time, and was now pronounced sound and well. Mr. and Mrs. Craven will rear the baby, which we understand was only a few months old at the time of the wreck.

Mr. Craven also stated that three other cars had been hit and people killed or injured since that wreck, but the place has been provided with better signaling, and much safer. It seems that not only two busy streets cross there, but a railroad goes down one of them.

W. R. Gandy was in Saturday had us put him on the list for the Herald. Said the wife told him Uncle Jack's paper would cost a dollar, but was the paper she wanted. Thanks, Mrs. Gandy.

At noon, coffee and sandwiches will be served to the crowd, and at around one or two p. m., everyone will be given a free show at the Rialto, where that very interesting picture, "The Tuttle Tugger" will be put on with the latest John Deere machinery, using real Hollywood stars for the parts.

This picture is said to be both entertaining and educational.

A Cook Shack Takes Fire Tuesday Noon

Waste paper which had rolled up against the shack in which was located the barbecue pit of the recent Oyster Bay Cafe, took fire Tuesday about noon, and promised to soon wipe up that building and damage others. The fire department soon responded and put it out with chemicals.

Another small rent house in the rear of the Auburg residence caught fire last Friday and was ruined before the blaze was checked.

Mrs. A. C. Wason and baby of Tokio, were here Monday.

 The Official Paper of Terry County and the City of Brownfield

The Dawson County Journal, published by Joe Alexander, of Lamesa, entered into its ninth year last week. This is a fine paper, and Joe is to be congratulated.

The South Plains are back in the white spot, according to the financial map of Nation's Business, having one of the largest white spots of the southwest. Iowa is entirely in the white, and Tennessee almost. The largest white area is in the old south and the middle west.

The Herald for one hopes the present legislature gives us a Fair Trades Act, which would go a long way toward cutting out competition. There are people in all lines of business that are not satisfied unless they are hurting their competitor, and maybe at the same time are sending themselves into bankruptcy.

Sudan, a hustling little city in the extreme west side of Lamb county is threatening to secede and "jine" Bailey county, on its west, providing Lamb does not dunny up and kinder equalize matters with that town. El Paso, too, has begun to term itself as the Texas orphan, and threatens to join New Mexico. Terry county had better play a fair hand with Tokio.

And speaking of taxes, don't forget your poll tax of all taxes. To borrow from the Snyder Times, "this is not an off year." There is going to be some very important elections this year, not the least of which will be a submission of a constitutional amendment for your approval of a sales or transaction tax, and possibly other amendments. And if you are not a qualified voter, about all you can do if the election goes against you is to ram your hands in your pockets to your elbows and cuss. Pay your poll tax before the month closes.

The press and public alike are congratulating Hon. George Mahon upon his elevation to the very important appropriations committee in the national congress. This is one of the most important berths in the congress of the United States, and so important and so heavy is the duties on this committee, that members of it are not put on any other. We've always said that George Mahon would make his mark in the law-making body of the nation, and we have had no occasion to change that opinion as time passes.

There are a lot of people up in the air about the taxing proposition of Gov. Lee O'Daniel, some of them, his most ardent supporters in the primary election. Now that he has told us where he proposes to get the "mon" to pay the pensions, a great bowl has gone up. The Herald for one does not believe that a transaction tax will be adopted at this time, but rather a sales tax, and will share alike, rich and poor in the payment of pensions. Many people had an idea that O'Daniel would propose to sock the other fellow for more taxes.

The would be newspaper columnists are breaking in on us hot and heavy these days. Not a mail passes but that we are offered something from some great writer, in his own estimation, for anything from 25c to $1.00 per week, and some are offered on exchange basis. That is, you are to give your good advertising space for their dope. Some of it is written in an "Ezra sez" style that would make any linotype operator see red to put into type. Just why so many people think country newspaper editors are such ignorant glibloots that they can't write their own stuff, is beyond us. However,

It might be an easy way to make a living, and we may try it when we retire.

Two highway patrolmen had luncheon by invitation of the Lions club last week. Following a short speech by one of them, the meeting developed into a quiz meeting. After explaining that they were merely giving their own opinions, and not that of the Safety Department, one present asked what they considered a safe speed on highways. The answer was, "it depends on weather conditions, conditions of the car, tires, brakes, etc." Then he explained that the wreck last summer on the Lubbock-Levelland highway that killed several, during a blinding rain storm, developed that neither car was making more than 25 miles an hour, but that was too fast under those conditions. Then the patrolman went on to explain that two cars moving toward each other at 25 miles an hour was the same thing or impact as one car moving at a rate of 50 miles per hour hitting another standing still.

BAND PLAYS THREE CONCERTS

On Thursday of last week the high school band made a trip to the neighboring towns of Seagraves, Seminole and Andrews and played a full concert at each place. The boys and girls received many compliments on their fine work and were invited back again for other concerts.

W. H. Hare was in last week telling us about a potato he grew in Red River several years ago, in the form of a coiled snake and some 27 inches in length. No, Hare had nothing stronger than a coke on his breath.

We are glad to welcome Harold Denton and family back to Brownfield. For the past several months he has been working for the Hudgens Hardware in Levelland. He is now employed by the J. B. Knight Hardware here, a firm he worked for a number of years.

It is quite interesting to hear Clarence Hudgens tell of his and Mrs. Hodgson's attendance at the inaugural of Gov. Lee O'Daniel. Mr. Hudgens stated that one could plainly see that the crowd for once was made up of people in the middle and lower brackets of life, and that big bankers, utility magnates, railroad officials and manufacturers were noticeable by their absence.

Sam Davison was down this week from Meadow and called to tell us that he beat us here by about eight months, making a trip through to Loop in 1908, and back through Gomez, Brownfield and old Meadow to Lubbock.

E. H. Green was in this week and stated that he was afraid he was going to have a hard time getting a place this year, but landed a good one north of Tokio, where he is moving.

Miss Evelyn Walls has gone to Aolene to meet her aunt, Mrs. Henry M. James, of Hudson, New York. It will be remembered that Miss Evelyn spent last summer with Mrs. James in Hudson.

Some 800 steers were received at the stock pens last week, which were transferred to the feeding pens nearby for fattening before being put on the market. Some 3000 head are now being fed here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Collins went to Lubbock, Tuesday to see their son, Bill, it being his birthday. They planned a little surprise. Bill numbers his friends by his acquaintances and there are a legion in Brownfield that wish for him many more birthdays.

ANNUAL WTCC CONVENTION AT ABILENE, MAY 15-16-17

ABILENE, Jan. 24. — Dates for the 21st annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce have been set as May 15, 16 and 17. The convention, largest annual meeting of its kind in the world, will be held in Abilene this year.

The Abilene convention will give opportunity to thousands of members of the regional organization to inspect the WTCC's new general headquarters building and resource and museum exhibit hall here. The headquarters and exhibit, housed in the former Abilene federal building, were formally opened last June. Since that time 10,000 visitors from 22 states have inspected the exhibits.

Mr. Roberts of Roberts Hatchery, Meadow, and Mr. Small, were in last Thursday evening and placed an ad for the Roberts Hatchery. Mr. Small stated he used to work for an uncle in his printing office long years ago, when George Washington hand presses were in use. He stated it was a far step from those days to these, with linotypes, fast presses and folders.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hill and sons, Harold and Dale, went to Lubbock Wednesday, January 18th and had supper with his twin brother, Joe Hill. The occasion was their 60th birthday.

Brownfield Loses A Fine Citizen

In the passing of Prof. W. B. Toone, 78, last Friday afternoon late, Brownfield lost one of its best citizens, and a friend to everyone. He had been in the hospital for some two weeks, where physicians found that he had an incurable disease, a growth in his chest that the most skilled surgeon would not undertake to remove. His wife and sons, Tom and wife of Dallas, and Terrell Toone of Balboa, Canal Zone, as well as a sister, Mrs. O. S. Burrows, of Dallas, were here when the end came. He has a brother, R. O. Toone, still living at Franklin, Tenn.

The body was shipped to Terrell, Texas, where deceased long made his home, for burial. Funeral services were held at the local Methodist church last Saturday morning, with Revs. Turrentine of Tahoka, and Ike Breedlove of Levelland, former pastor, and J. W. Hendrix, present pastor in charge. A large crowd was on hand to pay their last respects to the dead educator. For a number of years Prof. Toone had been Superintendent of the Methodist Sunday School, as well as one of its Stewards. He was a leading member of all the progressive moves of his church. Services were also held at the graveside at Terrell.

Mr. Toone was born at Franklin, Tenn., where he was educated in the high schools of Franklin, later attending Vanderbilt University at Nashville, where he finished his education. At the age of 22, he came to Texas, in 1884, and established the Terrell University, which he operated a number of years. He served a number of years as superintendent of schools at Floresville and Lampasas, coming from the later school to Brownfield in 1928. He served the local school as superintendent with distinction for three or four years, and it was during his administration that real progress was made in affiliation.

There is not a boy or girl in Brownfield who attended school during his administration that does not love him, and some have told us that they made more progress under his tutorage in three months than under some teachers in a term. The community has lost a great citizen in his death, and his family a loving husband and a real father.

Ready For Crop Emergency Loans

Applications for emergency crop and feed loans for 1939 are now being received at Brownfield, by L. B. Wright, Field Supervisor of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Section of the Farm Credit Administration. Miss Ima George Warren will be in charge of the local office.

The loans will be made, as in the past, only to farmers whose cash requirements are small and who can not obtain credit from any other source. The money loaned will be limited to the farmer's immediate and actual cash needs for growing his 1939 crops or for the purchase of feed for livestock.

Farmers who can obtain the funds they need from an individual, production credit association, bank, or other concerns are not eligible for crop and feed loans from the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Section of the Farm Credit Administration. The loans will not be made to standard rehabilitation clients whose current needs are provided for by the Farm Security Administration, formerly known as the Resettlement Administration.

As in the past, farmers who obtain emergency crop and feed loans will give as security a first lien on the crop financed, or a first lien on the livestock to be fed if the money borrowed is to be used to produce or purchase feed for livestock.

Where loans are made to tenants, the landlords, or others having an interest in the crops financed or the livestock to be fed, are required to waive their claims in favor of a lien to the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration until the loan is repaid.

Checks in payment of approved loans will be mailed from the Regional Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office at Dallas, Texas.

Two divisions of the General Motors Co., the Pontiac and Oldsmobile, report sale increases of 84 per cent for the first ten days of January this year over the first ten of January 1938. This is a good barometer of business trend.

FIRST EIGHT MILES OF BROWNFIELD ROAD NEAR COMPLETION

Announcement from the County Judge's office this week, revealed the fact that grading on the first eight miles of the Brownfield road had been completed and all the drainage structures finished with the exception of one which it is hoped to have complete within the next few days.

When this work is completed the road will be turned over to the district engineer for topping. It is hoped that this work will be completed by early spring.

County officials will begin the construction of roadbed and drainage structures on the next section of the road immediately upon the completion of this first stretch it is explained. — Lamesa Journal.

MALNUTRITION

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 16.—"The past half-decade has been malnutrition become a matter of concern to public health officials, physicians and teachers in Texas. It is estimated that 50 per cent of the school children in the state are malnourished to some degree. And in view of unemployment and adverse economic conditions among certain groups of the population, malnutrition is being greatly intensified," states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"Strictly speaking, malnutrition is not a disease but rather a condition due to poor or faulty nourishment. The child is usually thin, though he may be fat or flabby. He is often pale, with dark hollows under the eyes, lacks muscular tone, has round shoulders and in the more advanced stages, malnutrition produces a child with a narrow and flat flat chest, protruding abdomen and without spirit or mental vigor.

Specific causes of malnutrition are insufficient or unsuitable diet, wrong food habits, insufficient sleep, chronic fatigue, lack of exercise, disease, physical defects and an element of heredity.

"Malnutrition in itself justifies concern. However, the results of malnutrition present the biggest problem and involve stunted growth, anaemia, nervous irritability and diminished energy. Its most serious consequence, moreover, is increased susceptibility to disease and lack of resistance to it. Too, the relation between malnutrition and tuberculosis is conclusively and pathetically established. In short, malnutrition is an abnormal condition which if it is permitted to continue, in many cases, results in serious illness and pollible death," Dr. Cox further stated.

"Increased malnutrition is facing not only Texas, but the nation at large. A well balanced program of meals is the best weapon against it. Parents must realize the importance of an intelligently applied dietary. Communities can ill afford to underemphasize this vital and elemental factor in their welfare activities.

"It is not too strong a statement to make that malnutrition among our youth, especially among the families of the unemployed and the low economic stratas, represents a powerful enemy against the nation's future welfare. Intelligent action is needed to successfully combat it.

"The State Health Department of Texas is doing its part and will send free of charge nutrition information and sample menus embodying the principles of well-rounded dietary to all who request it. A penny post-card addressed to the department will bring the information by return mail.

Mrs. G. S. Webber was in from the farm Tuesday and brought last weeks and the three days of this week's egg production on their farm, which was 210 dozen. They moved to the farm since Christmas but are marketing things like they were old hands at the game.

After the first shock of W. Lee O'Daniel's taxation scheme to raise pension money has worn off, a great many people in Texas are going to have time to reflect and consider its many ramifications particularly as it affects the individual.

And among the most surprised people in the world will be those who so vociferously supported the flour merchant in his gubernatorial campaign, and who for want of a better descriptive term are called the great common people. Many of them pay no taxes at present in any direct form because times have been hard with them and they have accumulated no taxable assets.

On almost any other form of taxation you could mention these people would bear little if any of the burden of paying any pensions. Under the transaction tax suggested by O'Daniel they will pay relatively as much as or more than the millionaire. They will be taxed for the clothes they wear, the food they eat, the house they rent, the gas, water and telephone bills they pay, the cotton sacks they buy, the garden hose and garden hoes they purchase, the screw-worm remedy with which they treat their cattle, the chewing tobacco they use, the snuff they dip, the coal oil they burn—in fact, on practically everything they use. Some who shouted loudest for O'Daniel in his campaign, in the expectation that he would soak the rich to pay for pensions, will find that they themselves are among the soaked if the O'Daniel plan is adopted.

Mind you, this isn't criticizing the plan itself; it has its merits—not the least of which is that it makes the people conscious of the fact that you can't wave a wand in thin air and produce millions of dollars like magic. Somebody has to foot the bill.

But if they expected the pension burden to be placed on the shoulders of the big-rich, they'll be disappointed. They'll find it as much on their own shoulders as not.

The people demanded pensions for the aged. They demanded that taxes be levied to pay for them. An overwhelming majority voted for O'Daniel believing he would keep his promise to see that the pensions were paid. He said he would tell where and how to get the money.

Very well. He has. He has done all he said he would do. The fact that his plan would soak the people on almost everything they buy to keep body and soul together puts the proposition squarely up to the people who have to decide whether it is good or bad, whether they want to tax themselves to provide pensions which they themselves declared the old people should have.

The plan would make painfully apparent a fact every thinking person has known all along—that the consumer pays the taxes in the end. — Abilene News.

I'm in favor of adding a course in shoe-fitting to our college curriculum. You would think fitting a pair of shoes would be a fairly simple matter: there are the shoes, all sizes and shapes, and there is your foot in all its socked glory, looming up like the Matterhorn or El Capitan. But, the last three pairs of shoes this commentator has purchased, two pairs fitted dreadfully.

the world championship rodeo at the stock show. Miss Sawyer is the granddaughter of M. B. Sawyer, retired rancher of Brownfield, Texas. She has participated in rodeos at Lovington, N. M., Midland, Texas, and Stamford, Texas. The eight girls will be honored at several social functions during the stock show in Fort Worth.

Miss Ona Fay Tittle who is attending Simmons College, Abilene spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Tittle. George Willis, who was operated on the 16th, at the local hospital, is said to be doing nicely.

Miss Elizabeth Upton, who for the past four and a half years was the very efficient bookkeeper in the County Agent's office, resigned some two weeks ago and accepted a position as stenographer in the Brownfield State Bank.

Other highlights: Taxco with its artists' colony; tea in the summer palace of the ill-fated Empress Carlotta; lunch at the Pyramids; Puebla, "city of the angels;" Cholula, with its 365 churches; Hotel Garcia Crespo, most beautiful spa in America; the monastery that was concealed for 65 years; Monterey and San Luis Potosi. Non-Lions are welcome to go on the Lions' special train. And if wanting to go was sufficient, I know one strong prospect.

Answering the mail: No, surely Governor O'Daniel won't appoint to the State Highway Commission a politician who—no longer ago than last August—was repudiated by the people to the tune of a majority of 130,000 for his opponent.

Yes, if Tom Connally votes for the confirmation of Allred, the genial Senator will be obligingly handing over a nice stout club tagged "Allredism" for an opponent to make use of two years from now.

That really was a wonderful crowd at the Plain Democrats Jackson Day dinner—as many as at the other two dinners combined, according to the figures in the press and Jerry Sadler, new member of the State Railroad Commission, delivered an able, straight-from-the-shoulder speech that would have pleased plain-speaking "Old Hickory" himself. Chairman Lon A. Smith of the Railroad Commission referred to Sadler as "this young political athlete" a phrase that summed up the general impression made on the minds of the 1,500 Democrats present.

Thought for the day: "I'm glad the sky is painted blue; And the earth is painted green; And such a lot o' nice fresh air And such a lot of nice fresh air A Fort Worth lumber dealer's sign explains: "My friend runs a large sawmill." Odd name: The Toadstool Inn, on Dallas-Fort Worth highway. Unusual claim by Liberty Hotel, Cleburne: "Best water in seven states." Then there was the letterhead of the pre-boom frame hotel in Olney: "All modern inconveniences; hot and cold water, hot in summer, cold in winter; rates after I look 'em over."

WHIPPING POST LAW FOR DRUNKEN DRIVERS SOUGHT IN MONTANA

HELENA, Mont. January, 10. — Lashes with a cat-o-nine-tails would be made the unishment for persons convicted of drunken driving under a bill proposed Monday by State Senator Robert Pauline.

First offenders would be given five lashes, second offenders ten and third offenders fifteen.

Whipping posts would be installed in county jails. The sheriff would administer the punishment.

Senator Pauline said he thought the lashings would be so effective that scarcely anyone would lay himself open to a second or third trip to the posts.

CHEMURGY—ITS ORIGIN AND HOW TO PRONOUNCE IT

Back in 1934 Dr. William J. Hale, research chemist of Dow Chemical Company, Midland, Mich., coined the word "Chemurgy" when he published his book, The Farm Chemurgic. The scientist envisioned a new kind of farm which is engaged in raising raw materials to serve chemical in-

The first syllable of "chemurgic" is pronounced exactly as the first syllable of "chemistry." The "urgic" comes from the Greek "ergon" or energy—thus the implication of chemistry at work for agriculture.

WOMEN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The W. M. S. of the Methodist church met at three o'clock, Monday at the church. Eleven members were present. Mrs. J. C. Carpenter, the president, lead in the study of the Book of Judges.

At the business session plans were discussed in regard to the Federated Missionary Society which meets with this church next Monday, the 13th, at 2:30 o'clock p. m.

Mrs. Wiley of Lubbock, a returned missionary from India, will be the chief speaker. She is a very forceful and entertaining speaker. All who attend will be greatly profited thereby. The public is invited to hear this address.

BAPTIST CHURCH NEWS

242 in the Bible study Sunday morning in our church and 505 in the First Baptist church at Lamesa. This is given to show our people that they should be in the study period Sunday morning and that we compare very unfavorably with people who are getting things done in a better way. Use your presence and influence to improve our attendance. The same poor attendance average at our Sunday evening services because you are not being present. Much good is being accomplished but it must be improved and will be with your cooperation.

30 women present at the W. M. U. general meeting Monday, which shows improvement in attendance. There was a very small local attendance on the part of the men of the church at the association meeting here Monday night to consider Brotherhood organization in the churches. The attendance from the churches of the association was approximately 125 men with all the addresses being from the laymen except an inspirational message from pastor E. F. Cole of Lamesa and Rev. A. C. Huff, district missionary from Plainview. The spirit of this meeting was fine and all of our men should have been present as we reminded them to do so last week in this column.

The men of the church have too long been content to allow the pastors and the women to promote the affairs of the Kingdom instead of helping them to do it. May this meeting start a move to improve the cooperation of the men by the organization of Brotherhoods in all of our churches as there is a great work for the men to do that will never be done without them.

The W. M. U. is to be commended for their promotion of missionary endeavor and they can make great improvement by enlisting the large number of women who never study missionary work and are ignorant of what their own churches are doing in the support of more than four hundred missionaries in foreign lands alone, not to mention those employed in our own borders.

Your presence next Sunday at all the services will be appreciated whether you belong to our church or not.

Members of West Ward Parent-Teacher Association are recognizing the fact that, "Play is not a luxury, but a necessity." It is the serious business of a child's life, for young children it is life itself. Also, the child plays not because he is young, but he is young because he plays.

New play ground equipment is being purchased by the association that will add beauty to the grounds and also, will help the children in responding to an instinct that is vital to a child's full development.

The many friends of Miss Vivian Eubanks, former Brownfield girl, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Eubanks, and a sister of Mrs. J. E. Taylor, will not be surprised perhaps to learn that she became a bride on December 31, at Trinity Cathedral, Phoenix, Arizona.

METHODIST CHURCH

John W. Hendrix, Pastor
CHURCH SCHOOL invites you to share with her the privileges offered in this organization. No part of the church is receiving more study and concern than this. It opens its session at 9:45 a. m.

THE CHURCH offers two periods of public worship—11 a. m. and 7:15 p. m. These services start on time and consume one hour each. The choir is being organized to furnish select music and real soon new song books will be installed. This congregation has the average talent in music. At each of these services the pastor will deliver a sermon.

11 a. m., the subject is, "NOW THIS FREEDOM." Why through these several hundred years has the more progressive wing of the race sought freedom? Why have men without number, on occasions of critical moment, sacrificed home and safety and life for freedom? What were we supposed to do with our freedom? These and other questions will be discussed.

7:15 p. m., the subject will be, "A GOSPEL FIT FOR A KING." It is the intention and the endeavor of the church to furnish in this evening service a big, cordial, profitable service to the community. It matters not who you are, where you live, of whatever mind or kind, you are part of this service. You may ask that your favorite song be sung at this service. It may be you might like it. No one sabbath—who can tell!

YOUNG PEOPLE and LEAGUES will meet, one at 6 and the other at 6:30 in the evening. The Hi-League first and Young People next. Don't overlook these opportunities. They are for you.

METHODIST INTELLIGENCE PERIOD

For the past ten years the Methodist church has maintained an intensive intelligence period. It studies every segment of its advancement. It seeks to discover where its army of gospel workers have made gains and where lost ground. It tries hard to understand the reason for both—defeat and gain. This period is February of each year. Beginning on the first Sunday, 6:30 p. m., an adult class will meet to study. A big class is expected.

Mrs. Rance King and son, Robert J., came in last week for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Arthur Sawyer. Mrs. King's home is in Fort Worth.

THAT HUDDLE IN SPAIN!

The press news is none too encouraging in regard to the outcome of the war in Spain. It seems to be true that our own country, England, and France are in deep sympathy with the Loyalist group in that war. A close analysis will reveal the reason. The general situation in that country is much as it has been in Mexico, both being posited on the same governmental idea. Through these centuries a few have come to own the choice part of the nation, to oppress and destroy the middle class citizen, and to enslave the lower class toward which thousands have been drifting. It has been bad enough in Mexico, the results have been sufficiently tragic to invite the attention of all thinking men; but what must be the situation in a land where such has been tending century after century for now nearly 2000 years.

In 1933 the loyalist group, the group which wanted a democratic form of government, threw off the yoke of the monarchy in "bloodless revolution," and at the time that seemed too good to be true—certainly was too good to last. The residue of this monarchical sentiment found a leader, summoned to its aid an element in Spain and found certain other sympathetic nations around about, and with these revolted. Heretofore in history, a revolt to a republican form of government has been the regular order of growth among nations, and most assuredly should be the case at present time.

It seems that most nations in sympathy with the loyalists, backing their opinion by the turns in past history, believed they would win. When before has such a venture utterly failed? Some may say it is not over. But in modern warfare it is different. Such a defeat as this, with such wounds and casualties, followed up by cruel and drastic punishment, will end their hope till they grow another generation.

But it means another thing: The growth of civilization is suffering a crucial period of arrested development. If the race is to be privileged to grow and develop this whole monarchical regime which so sorely cramps their style, destroys every dream of popular hope, must of necessity have its ending.

At this moment we may not see how it can ever be, and the source of its power may be as obscure as we think; but if humanity in Spain is to have a tomorrow worth the living, the Loyalist group must fight it all over to final and triumphant success. As Americans we are naturally on the side of the Loyalists.

—By J. W. Hendrix.

CEN-TEX HARMONY CLUB

The Cen-Tex Harmony club met in the home of Mrs. W. H. Dallas, Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Mrs. Bruce and her saxette band gave three numbers along with discussion about Taylor and Damrosch by Mrs. Bell. Piano selection "The Washington Post March" was given by Miss Huff. Mrs. McGowan sang "Till the Sands of the Desert Grow Cold" followed by a quartette composed of Mesdames Telford, Smith, Nicholson, and Wingerd. These ladies sang "Steal Away," and "Crossing the Bar" accompanied by Mrs. Webb.

Refreshments were served to active members and visitors, Mesdames Fitzgerald, Bruce and Stevens.

Conoco Advertising Largest in History

PONCA CITY, Okla. — Newspaper advertising will again be the backbone of Continental Oil Company's 1938 advertising program, the largest in the company's history, it was recently announced by A. J. Rabe, advertising manager.

"While we feel that we have a well-rounded program for the year," said Rabe, "assigning a fair appropriation to every important advertising medium, by far the largest share of our 1938 budget will be spent for newspaper space."

Continental's current newspaper advertising presents the new form of "Zig-zag" reading. In this proposed reform for relieving eye-strain, the type of each second line of copy is arranged with the words in reverse order—so that the eye can read from left to right on the first line and from right to left on the second line—avoiding the strain of long eye sweeps between lines. The "zig-zag" advertising is not intended as a reform, but is presented merely as an interesting game or contest for readers.

Mrs. T. W. Bruton returned Sunday from Detroit and Santa Anna, Texas. She went down soon after the holidays to take her sister, Mrs. Leon Morgan home, who had spent the holidays here, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Gaston, and sister, Mrs. Bruton.

And I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, write, Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labours; and their works do follow them. . . . Rev. 14-13.

On January 14, 1939, God, in His great wisdom, saw fit to call from the walks of men Brother Robert E. Welch, Chairman of the board of deacons, Meadow Baptist church.

Brother Welch was a man among men. A loving father, a faithful companion, a devoted christian and church worker. His motto was: 'Live day by day in such a way that others may see Jesus in you.' This he did in a wonderful way. He practiced his religion in his home, in his business and in his church and social life. It can truly be said of him as Paul said of himself, "For me to live is Christ, but to die is gain." He was never too absorbed in the affairs of this world to take time out that he might help some unsaved person to learn of Christ the Saviour in the forgiveness of sin. This he often did even in his place of business. It can truly be said of him, "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord. He shall rest from his labours and his works do follow him." Yes, he has passed to the great beyond but in this church, his home, and his community, his work shall ever live on. Many a life has been made better and richer for having known him. His was a life of inspiration to all who knew him.

During the late World War, he served his country some twelve months in a fashion very commendable. He served his town as mayor, his school as director and secretary for a number of years. His council and advice were sought by the community at large and his church particularly. He had served the Cicerro-Smith Lumber Company in a very efficient and agreeable manner for the past eighteen or twenty years.

In the going of Brother Welch, Meadow loses a sympathetic leader, the Baptist church a devoted servant and counsellor, the home a loving and faithful companion and father, but our loss is Heaven's gain.

To his dear wife and devoted daughter may I say, Forget the sorrow of this life and look with sweet anticipation to that brighter and happier day beyond this veil of tears when you shall be with him and the precious little babes where there will be no more sad farewells and partings.

May the loving Father above comfort your hearts and make you to rejoice as never before in his wonderful service here.

His pastor,
Jesse B. Leverett

Meadow

Our community and town has been quite unfortunate this year thus far in having so many deaths. Yet it is a debt we all must pay sooner or later.

Last Thursday morning Mrs. Lanan Bisets' father, Mr. Pool passed away after only a few days illness. His body was taken to the undertakers at Brownfield and later to Dallas for burial. Mrs. Bisets had two sisters, one from Afton, Texas, and another from Dallas here, who had come to be at the bedside of Mr. Pool, a few days prior to this. Mr. and Mrs. Bisets, and son, Frank, her sister from Afton, her husband and two sons, together with the sister from Dallas all left Thursday afternoon to attend their father's funeral in Dallas.

McCombs, of east of Meadow had an operation for appendicitis and died a short time afterwards. Funeral was held at the Meadow Baptist church, Wednesday.

Mr. J. A. Liles, who has been ill for more than a year passed away Saturday night at his home. Funeral services were held at the Methodist church, Sunday afternoon at 2:30, by the pastor, N. S. Daniel. Our hearts go out in sympathy to the bereaved ones. May they all be comforted at such trying times as my prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Settles visited his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Doc Settles of Union.

Mrs. Robert Welch was in Lubbock Thursday on business.

Mr. Vanoy Turnbough had as his guest over the week end his schoolmate of Tech, Mr. Reynolds. Miss Marcella Burleson of Tech spent the week end with home folks.

J. A. LILES PASSES

In the passing of J. A. Liles, east of Meadow, we feel that our community has lost a thrifty and industrious citizen.

J. A. Liles was born November 15, 1887 in Milam county, Texas. He moved to Wilbarger county in 1906. There he met and married Miss Beulah Johnson, July 19, 1908. To this union were born five children. Three girls and two boys.

In 1922 he moved to Lynn county and two years later to the place east of Meadow.

He is survived by his wife and five children, Mrs. C. L. Collins, Brownfield; Mrs. Carl Pendagrass, Meadow; Mr. Jack Liles, Meadow; Mrs. Richard Neil, Meadow and Robert. His mother of Vernon, Texas, four brothers and one sister, L. H. Liles, Lubbock; M. V. Liles, Vernon; D. W. Liles, Slaton, Joe Liles, Vernon and Mrs. J. W. Cummings, Muskogee, Okla.

Mr. Liles has been in ill health for more than a year and has borne his malady patiently, when the end came about ten o'clock, Saturday night.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon by Pastor N. S. Daniel.

typewritten bill in which it is attempted to revamp the Old Age pensions system. He abandoned entirely his campaign program of $30 for everybody over 65, later amended at the Beaumont convention to $15 for everybody, and offered in its stead a different scheme. Briefly, it would deduct whatever income the pension applicant might have from $30, and pay the applicant the difference between his present income, if any, and $30. O'Daniel thinks the State would pay half this amount, and the Federal government half. Pensions experts here, as well as many legislators who have heard the representatives of the Federal Social Security administration outline the Federal policy on numerous occasions, declare the scheme does not meet the Federal requirements and would not qualify the State for Federal pension aid now received. O'Daniel's scheme contemplates a minimum income of $30 a month to all, made up from private income and governmental grant combined. The Federal government has repeatedly pointed out it does not sanction any scheme which puts all beneficiaries on an equal footing, regardless of standard of living, individual need and similar variable factors.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Aldrige also visited in the W. C. Aldrige home, Sunday.

Rev. A. L. Hicks will preach for us next Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night.

Mrs. Pool is still improving although she has not been able to attend church and Sunday school yet. We surely do miss Mrs. Pool. She is one of our outstanding workers in both church and Sunday school.

We have had several new members join our Sunday school classes lately.

We had a nice crowd at singing Sunday evening, although the weather was bad.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Chambliss and Louis visited Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Gunter, Monday.

Miss Marguerite Jones of Lubbock spent Sunday night at the ranch with her sister, Miss Mildred Jones.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

By Julian Capers, Jr.

AUSTIN — Staggering under the impact of the most revolutionary taxation proposal ever seriously submitted to Texas lawmakers, the Legislature this week end prepared to plunge next week into consideration of Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel's transaction tax scheme, and its accompanying pension bill.

O'Daniel's carefully guarded "secrets" for solving the pension question, revealed for the first time in his message on Wednesday, the day following his spectacular inaugural pageant, turned out to be nothing more or less than an adoption of the crackpot program of good old Doc Townsend, the California druggist who is rated the No. 1 man among the economic jittersbugs that pension agitation has brought forth in the United States.

Sky Is the Limit

Briefly, O'Daniel would submit a constitutional amendment to the people, calling for imposition of a tax of 1.6 per cent on every business transaction consummated in Texas, except the payment of wages, salaries and professional fees, the payment of street car or bus fares of 10 cents or less, the first sale by a producer of agricultural products and the street sale of newspapers. The Governor estimated it will raise $45,000,000 annually. The scheme has never been attempted by any American governmental unit, and all estimates of what it would raise, therefore, are pure guesses. John T. Smith, Austin Tax expert, thinks it would raise $120,000,000 a year, while Senator Joe Hill guessed $90,000,000. The obvious effect of the tax would be strangle business in Texas, actually imposing a sales tax ranging up to 10 per cent, when the multiple features of the impost are considered. It naturally would place the Texas manufacturer, jobber and distributor under a terrific handicap in competition with similar business outside the state, which would not have to pay the tax on goods shipped into Texas. It would, for instance, possibly add as much as five sales taxes of 1.6 per cent each, onto the cost of a loaf of bread, three to the cost of a sack of flour, three or four to a suit of overalls, two or more to farm implements, one or more to a bottle of milk. It would impose the hardest burden of all upon the retailer, who makes the final sale of any commodity to the consumer, because the retailer must add to his price and collect from the consumer all of the accumulated sales taxes that have gone before—and absorb all of the wrath of the customer which is concentrated upon him as the last tax collector.

Takes Lead Off Rich

O'Daniel's scheme proposes to abolish the Confederate pension fund, transferring the Confederate beneficiaries to the old age assistance roll; it would abolish all State ad valorem taxes amounting to $20,000,000 a year, replacing the Constitutional revenues for schools from other sources, and transferring the ad valorem burden to the backs of the poor through the pyramided sales tax scheme.

Coupled with the tax scheme, the Governor offered a 56-page bill in which it is attempted to revamp the Old Age pensions system. He abandoned entirely his campaign program of $30 for everybody over 65, later amended at the Beaumont convention to $15 for everybody, and offered in its stead a different scheme. Briefly, it would deduct whatever income the pension applicant might have from $30, and pay the applicant the difference between his present income, if any, and $30. O'Daniel thinks the State would pay half this amount, and the Federal government half. Pensions experts here, as well as many legislators who have heard the representatives of the Federal Social Security administration outline the Federal policy on numerous occasions, declare the scheme does not meet the Federal requirements and would not qualify the State for Federal pension aid now received. O'Daniel's scheme contemplates a minimum income of $30 a month to all, made up from private income and governmental grant combined. The Federal government has repeatedly pointed out it does not sanction any scheme which puts all beneficiaries on an equal footing, regardless of standard of living, individual need and similar variable factors.

New Pension Program

Under O'Daniel's scheme, a person who had saved sufficiently to accumulate an income of $15 a month, for instance, would receive only $15 aid, although he might previously have enjoyed a large income and high living standard, and be burdened with a costly illness. At the same time, a negro field hand, who had saved nothing and who had never earned $25 a month, would receive a full $30 grant, regardless of circumstances.

Reaction of the legislators to the O'Daniel plan was slow—since the pension bill was so long and complicated it required several days of concentrated study even to grasp its essential elements. The constitutional amendment, which the people are supposed to understand and pass upon at the ballot box, is seven typewritten pages of highly technical legal verbiage. Many solons praised O'Daniel's courage in presenting a definite program, but there were few legislators who were ready to approve it.

Who Wrote It?

Speculation as to who is the actual author of the twin legislative monstrosities filled the capital corridors and hotel lobbies. Most observers attributed it to a lobbyist who is employed by a group of natural resource and public utility concerns, and whose mission in life has been for years to work up evidence against any and all tax proposals. Those who thought this lobbyist wrote the bill, based on their knowledge that O'Daniel held many conferences with him, ventured the opinion that the legislation was a deliberate effort to accomplish one of two purposes:

1. To arouse such a public resentment against this terrific burden of taxation that the legislator would wrangle throughout the session, and pass no tax bills at all.

2. Failing in this, to make a simple sales tax of 2 or 3 per cent look so mild, in comparison with the dizzy transaction tax program, that the Legislature would either adopt a sales tax, or adopt a resolution submitting the sales tax question to the people.

The sales taxers were ready, with bills and resolutions already introduced in house and Senate, to jump either way. Meanwhile, a wave of protest from businessmen—one of the two rocks upon which O'Daniel stood during his unprecedentedly successful campaign for governor—poured into Austin upon the legislators.

Significantly, Ex-Governor Jim Ferguson, who berated O'Daniel fiercely during the primary campaign last summer, and who has advocated a sales tax for years, enthusiastically approved O'Daniel's message.

Turning a New Leaf

Resting from Christmas festivities and thinking forward to the New Year is on this week's calendar. Why not think systematically and purposefully, seeing ahead to what the New Year may bring for the next Christmas? Shall we take thought for the morrow, set up definite objectives and develop plans for their realization, or shall we go into the New Year blindly, taking what comes?

No one is so far from realizing his ambitions and wishes as he who does not know what he wants or the end at which he aims. Life has a purpose; work has a result. The purpose of life is more than a day to day existence, and work which does not bring some distant goal nearer partakes of the futility which kills hope and undermines ambition.

How often have you heard the expression "He's a hard worker but doesn't get ahead," or "a hard worker but a poor manager." Barring the accidents of misfortune which, like the rain, fall on the just and the unjust alike, it is equivalent to saying that the hard worker who doesn't get ahead is working without method; that he is using his back more than his head; that he is on his way but doesn't know where he is going.

A considerable school of economists and sociologists has sprung up in high places, who are busy with figuring out "living standards," "minimum wages," and formulae for achieving their ideals. The trouble is that the goals and ideals are theirs, and not those of the people they are sincerely trying to help. Nobody is so well qualified to decide what my family and I want from life as we ourselves; and certainly nobody else can do as much as we to bring our hopes and ambitions to fruition.

What outsiders can do, however, is to supply information which we may lack, and which we must use as the carpenter uses his tools in building a house.

Farm families who sit down together and talk over their wants and needs for the future have taken the first essential step toward their attainment. An inventory of the resources and facilities with which they have to work is the second essential. How best to use those resources and facilities so that each day will build toward the ultimate goal is the essence of good farm and home management. Here is where all the resourcefulness, all the factual information bearing on the many operations, all the ingenuity in devising means and methods, come into play.

Whether we start from the farm side or the home side, both exist and are operated for the family welfare, and are merely different parts of the family enterprise. The farm family which does not plan ahead, does not visualize its goal and systematically work toward them, spends itself for the farm instead of making the farm work for the family.

Work for work's sake has only one merit; it prevents the idleness which atrophies the physical and mental powers. The adage is true that "the workman makes the workman," and a workless world would soon destroy the race. Work without method is futile, beyond the time it uses.

But there is a spiritual uplift, a mental satisfaction, and greater material rewards in the work which helps to build a life. It is man's privilege, and also his responsibility, to so use his physical and mental powers that he and his may be happier in worthwhile ways.

Unemployment Compensation Enters Third Year

AUSTIN, Jan. 14. — With the launching of the third year of unemployment compensation in Texas, Orville S. Carpenter, chairman-director of the Commission, recounted some of the high spots of the year just past.

Most important of the tasks of the Unemployment Commission is that of job-finding for the unemployed. Figures for 1938 show that 372,000 persons have been placed in suitable jobs by the Texas State Employment Service, a division of the commission.

According to a statement by Frank Persons, director of the United States Employment Service, Texas leads all other states in job placements as well as in rapidity with which unemployment compensation claims are handled.

During 1938, 316,000 persons filed first claims for benefits, while more than 1,700,000 continuing claims were filed. Two out of three claims were approved. Chairman Carpenter reported that more than a million benefit checks were mailed to eligible unemployed averaging $9.95 each. Total amount of benefits was $9,400,000. Under the law, an eligible jobless worker may receive benefits for as many as sixteen weeks during the year with a maximum of $15 a week and a minimum of about $5.

Employers of Texas built a jobless fund, by contributions for the years 1936, 1937, and 1938, which with interest accruals, is more than 32 million dollars. Eighteen million came in during 1938 alone. Mr. Carpenter and members of the commission regard this substantial figure as necessary for protection against drainage in the event of severe economic conditions. A depression would double or triple unemployment and cut down contributions at the same time.

The cost of administering the law during 1938 amounted to $97 per covered worker. All costs of the jobless insurance program in Texas are financed by the Federal government, not by the State.

I GET THE INSIDE FROM A BANKER OR TWO

While in Ft. Worth last week, I talked a few moments with one of Texas' biggest bankers. And on occasions I drop into the offices at our own bank. Their position, their problem in their own community or business spheres are identical.

And summing up, here is something of the impression I gained from the Ft. Worth banker's conversation: "People think of me as sitting on top of the world on a pile of money—my money. They don't stop to think that it's their own money that I am responsible for protecting. It doesn't seem to enter their heads that I am just a paid hand, that I lie awake nights worrying about my responsibility of caring for that pile of money which can be claimed by its owners, the bank's depositors, at any time."

"A bank that did not loan money to business and industries that maintain a local community, would not be patronized by the people, and it wouldn't deserve their patronage. This means that if a community fails, bank has to carry a great share of the load. People don't like bankers because they have to consider the more pessimistic side of the business picture, knowing that the public will blame the bank instead of itself for community failures which result from the many causes beyond the banker's control.

"It makes me laugh when I am pictured as sitting on a pile of money. A more accurate picture would show me with a wrinkled brow trying to figure out how to make loans that will be safe from losses due to undue business optimism and all the pitfalls of business risk. People don't like bankers, and you can't blame them, for too often they have to turn down the financial requests of their best friends."

Yes, I gained a different impression of the banking business after talking to this man who is a power in the financial world. I didn't envy him his job. He gets little thanks for doing it well and he runs the constant risk of abuse and criticism for community failures beyond his control. — Littlefield News.

HEART DISEASE BIG FACTOR IN TEXAS DEATHS

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 14.—"The steadily increasing rise in deaths attributable to heart disease represents a major health problem. That certain childhood infections such as scarlet fever, diphtheria, rheumatic fever, and even measles frequently are responsible for undermining the heart and thus causing it to weaken in later life is generally recognized," states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"The well directed efforts by physicians and health officers to reduce the number of these serious afflictions of youth through the application of preventive methods, early diagnosis, quarantine, and proper care during illness and through convalescence, all should have a marked influence eventually in reducing heart disease from those causes. Syphilis, which also is one of the main, if not the greatest heart-crippler, is being waged against energetically," Dr. Cox further states.

"However, in spite of the public health problems associated with heart disease, and the successful attacks being made against them, many of the premature deaths caused by ailments of this vital organ could be eliminated if the factor of intelligent personal cooperation were more generally applied.

"One's life habits sometimes influence the heart. For example, if stimulants are excessively used and susceptibility to their influence is more than average, the effect over a long period of time can result in heart impairment. Again, over exercise or any other undue strain on the adult heart can affect it seriously. Moreover, too much fondness for food by those of middle-age or beyond who already are overweight certainly is no boon to the heart, and with other causes may be a contributory factor in embarrassing its action.

"Or to express it positively, the reasonable application of the rules of hygienic living aid in keeping the bodily mechanism, including the heart in good condition. And if to a sensible routine of living be added an annual physical check-up by a physician (a procedure that frequently makes possible the early detection of weakness, if existing, and the application of cure or care) many premature cases of fatal heart disease could be avoided. Therefore, to keep the whole body functioning healthfully, including the heart, is an objective in which every adult should be most interested.

On February 1, following the Presidential Birthday celebrations for crippled children, Boothe said the Foundation would announce a state-wide Jinky contest to raise the money necessary to erect buildings and install equipment on a 40-acre location already
