

Fighting Socialized Medicine In England

In mid-February, the doctors of England went on record in overwhelming opposition to the Labor government's socialized medicine law which is to go into effect July 5. The vote was 25,340 to 4,084. According to an AP dispatch from London, a doctor's strike against the measure is considered almost certain.

The doctors, who certainly have a far broader understanding of the public health problem than the politicians in power are not stubbornly fighting any change in British health practices. They are opposing various provisions of the law which they believe are unjust, and which would lead to the deterioration of medical standards. One of these provisions would forbid the old, established right to buy and sell practices—which would mean that a doctor who wishes to retire could not obtain any payment for a valuable property he had built up through industry and ability. They oppose a second provision which would establish a small basic state paid salary—which doctors believe would be the entering wedge for a full-salaried state medical service. A third provision would bar a doctor from appealing to the courts from dismissal by the state service—which would certainly rob the medical profession of a fundamental right.

This turmoil over state medicine in England is of importance to this country, where proposals are being made towards eventual socialization and political domination of the healing arts. The British doctors realize that when the state steps into anything, it eventually takes over completely. And that would happen here too.

Dr. and Mrs. Gordon E. Richardson returned Saturday from Bay City, Texas where they visited with Dr. Richardson's parents.

Raise Rabbits In Your Own Backyard

Even though last week March 28 through April 5—was National Rabbit Week, every week in the year can be rabbit week by raising domestic rabbits for meat. R. E. Callender, extension wildlife conservation specialist of Texas A&M College, has several pointers on raising domestic rabbits for meat.

Raising rabbits may be of special interest to the youngsters. Rabbits make a good 4-H club project just as beef calves, poultry, or others are used. Also it gives the town boys a chance to get in on the 4-H work where they couldn't otherwise because of lack of space. The town boys can raise rabbits right in their own backyard.

One of the best breeds of rabbits for meat purposes is the New Zealand White. The white skin of this breed are good for dyeing processes, too and usually bring two to three times as much money as other skins.

Rabbit furs are sold under 35 to 40 different names including Arctic Seal, Baltic Black Fox, Coney Beaver, French Mole, and many others.

An important thing about raising rabbits is that it helps save grain. Rabbits furnish a lot of good nutritious all white meat compared to the small amount of grain that is fed. They also eat lots of hay and garden products, and in cases where only a few rabbits are being raised, table scraps will help out.

A good ration is one buck to ten does, and each doe can raise two litters per year, and sometimes three with careful management. Five to seven rabbits per litter is the average.

Tularemia affects only the wild rabbits. Domestic rabbits are free of this disease. If the rabbit farmer starts his business with good, healthy stock and carries on strict sanitary precautions, he should have little trouble from diseases.

Here is a word of advice, especially to the younger rabbit raisers, from Callender. It doesn't do to get too attached to the rabbits and make pets of them.

Farm Cash Income Falls 42 Per Cent

Texas farm cash income fell 42 per cent from January to February, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reported.

Total farm income in February was $131,998,000 as all farm products except fruits and vegetables brought lower receipts than a month earlier.

Milk products, totaling $9,798,000 were the greatest source of farm income in February. Cattle sales were $7,847,000, and fruits and vegetables, $7,738,000.

Manufacturing In Southwest Growing Very Rapidly

Visible proof of the Southwest's sudden industrial expansion, which has resulted in a net gain of more than 100 per cent since 1939, will be seen at the First Annual Southwestern Industrial Exposition to be held in Fort Worth May 30 through June 6.

Conceived by Southwestern manufacturers and sponsored by eleven commercial and industrial associations in the states of Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Texas, this exposition will afford the first comprehensive evidence that the Southwest is the fastest growing industrial area in the nation.

Need for a display of products made by the more than 10,000 manufacturers in the Southwest is recognized by C. W. Wofford, exposition president, who says "The recent war emergency broke the inertia of manufacturing activity concentrated in the North and East, and caused a gravitation of industry toward areas with the greatest potentialities in terms of raw materials, markets, transportation facilities, and climate."

Site of the show will be the $3,000,000 plant of the Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum and Auditorium grounds.

Misses His Herald Over In Japan

Chas. H. Livess, US Army Air force, now on duty at Tukuaka, Hyuska, Japan, wrote us recently that he had received no Herald for several weeks, and that he sure would like to keep up with what is going on here in the US and particularly old Terry.

He stated that he was greatly disappointed when he failed to get his paper. Aside from the news from home, he stated he liked the paper very much. We know how Charlie feels about the matter. But one little mistake in a foreign address, knocks the whole delivery business skywarding crooked.

However, his mother had dropped in a week or so before we received his letter, and we hope he is now getting the Herald regularly again.

Shipments Of Livestock Drop

Livestock shipments from Texas stations dropped 42 per cent from January to February, The University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reported.

Shipments of livestock totaled 5,089 carloads in February, or 58 per cent below a year earlier.

All livestock shipments were substantially lower in February from the previous month. Shipments of calves fell 53 per cent; sheep, 46 per cent; cattle, 41 per cent; and hogs 20 per cent.

Compared with February 1947, all livestock shipments were down. Greatest decrease occurred in sheep shipments—72 per cent. Shipments of cattle were 63 per cent under a year earlier.

Farmers are learning to arrange things so chores can be done without unnecessary work. It's sheer waste to take 150 minutes for a job that could be done in 60 or 70 minutes with better planning. Just as it's wasteful to accept only 60 or 70 hours of use from tractor oil when Veedol Tractor Oil stands up for 150 hours in gasoline-burning tractors. 150-Hour Veedol is made by advanced methods and equipment from 100% Pennsylvania, the world's toughest crude.

It's NO. 1 on the "It" Parade

It's much the same way with cars as with people. Some "have it" — some don't.

Some you go for, all out — without quite being able to lay a finger on why. And those — well, they usually become your firmest friends.

What is it that makes so many good folks say this trim honey's "got it"? Good looks? One has to admit it's nice to ride in a car that is unmistakably itself and not just a slightly modified version of something else.

Size, weight? Well, the polls tell us it's a pretty important factor since, if you like an automobile that does things, there just is no substitute for brawn and solid substance.

Power? Naturally. You can't sit long behind this big Fireball straight-eight without falling for it plenty hard.

Handling? Ride? Room? They all have their avid fans among Buick owners. Especially now with a completely new kind of engine mounting ironing out vibration build-up as never before, and in this Convertible model, with automatic top, door-window and front-seat adjustment.

Is it the wonderful new Dynaflo Drive* that's causing so much talk?

In ROADMASTER models that is certainly a big factor. You'll never know how silky smooth a drive can be — what fluent new ease there is to all your going — till you drive the car where liquid replaces both the clutch and first, second and high gears.

But as nearly as we can find out — and we talk to a lot of people — it isn't any one thing that puts Buick at the top of the "it" parade. It's the over-all richness of this honey in all the things you've dreamed of finding wrapped in an automobile.

Ask any friend who drives a Buick — then see your dealer and get a firm order in, with or without a car to trade.

When better automobiles are built, BUICK will build them.

The "Stop-at-Nothing" Vehicle the Whole Country Needed— 4-WHEEL-DRIVE UNIVERSAL 'Jeep'

THE UNIVERSAL 'JEEP' is the kind of vehicle this country has needed for forty years. It is a tough, rugged vehicle that can always be depended on to take men and supplies where they are needed.

With selective 2- and 4-wheel drive, the Universal "Jeep" gives speed on hard roads and ability to get over bad roads or travel cross-country. With all four wheels pulling, you go through mud, sand and snow that stops ordinary vehicles. The "Jeep" will climb a 60-per-cent grade and maneuver its way through dense growth.

For every kind of work—on or off the road, in any weather—the Universal "Jeep" measures up to every need. We invite you to drive the "Jeep" fifty miles and see for yourself.

MEAT AS AN EXCUSE

All signs point toward what will be called a "meat shortage" this spring. The cry for rationing and price controls will rise in the cities. Even on the promise of a shortage bill to authorize controls was introduced. (It has been shelved temporarily.)

This illustrates how relentlessly the idea of government controls seeks every possible opening. The bill was presented on the mere threat of a shortage. It was sponsored by a Republican New Dealer.

A look at the meat facts emphasizes the slender excuse seized upon to seek renewal of this futile and dangerous power. Last year Americans ate more meat than ever before. They consumed 156 pounds per person. That was 30 pounds more than the average amount from 1935 to 1939, when we ate 126 pounds apiece, and 4 1/2 pounds more than the 116-pound low in 1932.

What about 1943? Estimates indicate that farmers will produce enough meat to give each American 146 pounds. That is only 19 pounds more than last year. It is 20 to 30 pounds more than pre-war. So, whatever shortage arises will be only relative to demand.

Nevertheless, since government power never overlooks an opening into which it can reach, the demand to fasten price controls on the people will come again. But "controls" will not produce more meat, nor lessen the supply of money—Farm Journal.

Voters' Weak Voices

If you are a member of the Democratic or the Republican party you have a weak, diluted voice in the naming of a president of the United States. If you are an independent voter you say about the presidency is practically nil. This is an amazing fact, but nevertheless true. The threatened bolt of southern states from the Democratic party and the proposed action of Virginia to remove names of presidential candidates from the ballot has pointed up the intricate and complicated process by which we name our presidents and how little voters actually have to say about it.

It goes back to the constitutional provision setting up our electoral system providing for appointment of presidential electors in such manner as state legislatures may direct, but holding such electors under no constitutional compulsion to vote for any particular candidate.

For many years, however, under our election system these presidential electors are held morally bound to vote for the party winner in their state. So long has this been custom, there are some who maintain that the courts would hold that it has been legalized by practice.

In only 18 states, however, is there any provision to give the voter a chance to make himself heard in a primary election of delegates to the national nominating conventions. Only 10 of them have a ballot which allows the voter to indicate his preference among presidential candidates and only nine make provision for pledging delegates. In the other 30 states local or state party conventions choose delegates to national conventions and the only chance the average voter has to express a preference for delegates is in the small precinct unit. After that the whole thing is in the hands of the party bosses in county, district or state conventions.

In the 10 states providing for a presidential primary—Georgia, Florida, Illinois, Maryland, Nebraska, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Wisconsin—the vote is woefully small in comparison to total vote and only in Florida, Ohio, Oregon and Wisconsin are delegates pledged to a particular candidate. In only five states are convention-elected delegates pledged to a candidate—California, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey and South Dakota.

South Lost Influence

Southern states objecting to Mr. Truman's civil rights program complain they lost their influence within the Democratic party when the two-thirds rule for nomination was abolished in 1936.

But under this year's distribution of 1,234 delegates in the national Democratic convention even the two-thirds rule would not give the South a veto either on the nomination or the platform. It requires 618 votes for a simple majority. Under the two-thirds rule it would require 824 votes and 411 votes would block action, but the 11 states in the Solid South have only 294 votes.

These same states have 127 electoral votes out of 531 in the electoral college. With the exception of 1916, for 50 years the traditional pattern of presidential elections has been that when the Democrats have won, the Democratic majority has been sufficient without the South and when the Republicans won, defeat of the South would have made no difference.

Rep. Clarence F. Lea of California has had a resolution before congress for many years to give the people a direct vote for president and vice-president. Rep. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and Rep. Ed Gossett of Texas have similar resolutions pending. Under these resolutions each state would retain the same number of electoral votes it now has but would divide them among the candidates in the same proportions as the popular votes are divided.

For instance if a candidate got 51 per cent of the New York state vote he would get 51 per cent of the state's 47 electoral votes, not 100 per cent as at present. This would minimize the influence of minority groups in some northern states which sometimes hold the balance of power in those states. Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts also is sponsoring a constitutional amendment to abolish the electoral college and provide direct election of the president.

Electoral Practice

In the 1944 election President Roosevelt received 54 per cent of the popular vote and 81 per cent of the electoral college while Governor Dewey, who got 46 per cent of the popular vote, received only 19 per cent of the electoral college. Under our present practice selection of electors is a formality but if Virginia or other states permit independent judgment of electors their qualifications become as important as any other candidate.

The Low Down From Hickory Grove

You know, in this fair and young land it is kinda upsetting and not up to tradition or Hoyle to see our people being given anything but the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, by our leading gents in Govt. I got in mind how some of 'em are veering from the welfare of the people to the welfare of themselves—how they build up problems, then hurry in with their answer on how to fix it.

It is in agriculture, and foreign affairs, and reclamation, and social fumididades, day after day. And all these cooked up problems make jobs for thousands and thousands of votes are not to be sneezed at. Take an item like flood control—it was not the whole truth—it was the "front" concealing electric power. Now they come out for steam plants at the foot of the dams—after the dams are in. If Congress keeps on being a sissy and dishes up the diner, we will be in no different boat, from the way it is over there on the Volga.

Fooling the people—and the creeping in of foreign ideas—is something to put in our pipe and smoke on. By November we will maybe get alerted—and hep.

Behind the Scenes in American Business

Apparently the "New Look" has been sold. Buyers "wait and see" hesitation cut apparel makers' spring and summer sales considerably by the industry is looking forward to greatly increased fall buying of the new styles.

Optimistic for the fall season, New York's apparel trade will begin showing autumn coats, suits, dresses and sportswear the week of May 17, a week earlier than last year and four or five weeks earlier than prewar openings.

Most manufacturers believe that those who did not buy New Look fashions heavily for this spring will be in a mood to order the new styles heavily this fall.

One top-flight fashion leader pointed out that in the eyes of the nation's women, the New Look is no longer a novelty but necessity.

G I Question And Answer Department

Q. After I have repaid the amount I borrowed under the G-I Bill, is my loan guaranty privilege restored to its original amount?

A. No. You may use the full amount of your loan rights only once.

Q. Do the guaranty or insurance provisions of the G-I Bill limit the total amount that I can borrow?

A. No. The size of the loan depends on what the lender is willing to lend. The limitation is on the amount of the V A guaranty, and not on the size of the loan.

Q. I was refused an application for a loan by one lender and now would like to know what I should do to get a guaranteed loan on a business venture?

A. The VA regional office in your area might be able to put you in touch with a lender who makes G-I loans.

Q. May a veteran obtain a guaranteed loan to buy or establish a business if he is employed?

A. Yes; if he plans to conduct the new business himself, either on a full-time or part-time basis.

Santa Fe Dopes Out Readable Time Table

The old time table of railroads that was like a crossword puzzle to most folks, has recently been supplemented, so far as the Santa Fe is concerned with a time table that the lay folks can readily figure out. One of the new time tables was sent to the Herald, and gives schedules of all the transcontinental lines.

In the old time tables, you will remember that all north and east schedules had you read up, while the south and west lines had you to read down the column. This was confusing to most people. Now they all read downward.

However, we here on the branch line from Lubbock to Seagraves, are not bothered with schedules. It is sometimes on time—mostly late, and last week during the terrific sandstorm, it got no further than Meadow. Had to back back to Lubbock and wait for the "snow plows" to remove the sand.

Just the same, this little branch line we take as a matter of course, is a big asset to us, and to prove it, Hobbs, N. M., and Seminole, Texas are leaving no stones unturned to get an extension of this branch line.

GOVERNOR BIDS "GOD-SPEED" TO SAFETY TOUR OF TEXAS MOTOR TRANSPORTATION ASSOCIATION

Pointing out that if all Texans observed "Courtesy and Safety" on the highways, Governor Beauford H. Jester tells Erwin Zunker, "Driver of the Month," that the accident frequency could be slashed in half. The picture was taken in Austin as the Texas Motor Transportation Association started a statewide safety tour to visit 65 cities. The safety exhibit consists of a truck-trailer combination containing equipment on which drivers will be given free tests in each city visited. Public demonstrations will be held, and the message of safety carried to many thousands of Texans in a practical way. The Department of Public Safety is cooperating with the transportation association on the safety tour.

Hackney Back From Alabama Reunion

Burton G. Hackney, local attorney, has returned from Alabama where he carried his parents, who live in Hopkins county to a family reunion in that state. His dad's brothers and sisters range in age from 68 to 77, and Burton stated that they certainly had one high heeled time together.

Some distance from Talladega, where his dad's folks held their reunion, they had another for his mother's folks, and again a good time and a lot of fat chewing took place, Burton stated.

Burton stated that he certainly enjoyed his drive with his par-

Families that live by a plan will be more likely to maintain a smooth family living than those which do things in a hit-or-miss fashion.

ents through Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama. They talked of a tour to Chattanooga and Look-out mountains, but that would have required quite some additional time.

Telephone Pole Politicians

The old saying in Texas is that politicians begin to come out when the dogwood blooms. In East Texas, where there is plenty of dogwood, local politics this year seem to be warming up ahead of schedule. The dogwood isn't out yet, but the candidates are. Soon the local and state campaigns begin to pop, and then we'll see, once more the usual crop of telephone pole candidates.

These are the fellows, most of the candidates for state office, who send someone around to plaster telephone poles, pine trees, and barn doors with a picture of what (they hope) appears to be a fine, upstanding citizen, a man who wants your vote to put him in office. You can see the pictures everywhere, but you seldom see the man. He wants you to vote for him on the strength of what his picture has to offer, but he's too busy elsewhere to visit you in person or through your hometown paper, to tell you what he stands for.

This may be good politics, but it certainly isn't good logic. From a standpoint of good sense, it seems to us that a simple statement of policy and platform by a politician, printed in the newspapers, would better serve any candidate than his picture on a thousand telephone poles. As voters, we all need to know more about a prospective office-holder than his face can tell us; perhaps not much more, but enough to be able to say to ourselves—"There's a man with sensible, practical ideas, with a background worth something in public office."

Another type of campaign material that has been used in Texas in past years is just about as worthless, and that is the campaign newspaper. These are newspapers in name only, and a discredit to the name, at that. The press in this country has built itself a fine reputation for integrity, for presentation of all the news, and for fair treatment of both sides of any controversial issue. The campaign newspapers seek to trade on that reputation, and are published in the belief that the people will assume that everything that finds its way into a newspaper must be the truth. Not bound by the laws of libel and the responsibilities for fairness that govern bona fide newspapers, the campaign sheet can and will print any kind of irresponsible untruth and half-truth, to further the cause of the candidate who is paying the bill for publication. As molders of public opinion, these sheets are worth little, for the people have learned by experience that the truth isn't in them, and

Former Minister Here Dies At Dalhart

Rev. Charley Bryant, about 50, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bryant, of Brownfield, died suddenly of apoplexy at Dalhart early last week. He was pastor of the Baptist church there and resided here for a while several years ago.

He was buried at Abilene, where his wife and children are moving to make their home.

He is survived by his father and step-mother, a wife and two children; six brothers, Claude, Perry, Louis, Aubry, Jesse, all well known men here and Raymond, former resident here, now of East Texas. Three sisters, two residing in Amarillo and Mrs. Banks of Brownfield.

Miss Bennie Wartes spent the week end in Lubbock with friends.

never will be. About all that can be learned from a campaign newspaper is that the candidate has spent a great deal of someone's money, bought a large amount of scarce newsprint from black market sources, and engaged a high-powered publicity staff to blanket the state with news (so-called) about his candidacy.

Political advertising CAN be adult, sensible material, published in legitimate newspapers throughout the state. We believe that kind of campaign can be successful. It certainly speaks better for the intelligence of our voters and our candidates than some of the other methods. — Exchange.

STREAMLINER

The simplicity of this streamlined cotton formal by Emma Domb dramatizes the radiant freshness and natural charm of the ideal American girl. The National Cotton Council says the gown is fashioned from Hope Skillman's striped cotton chambrette with the bottom fullness of the skirt achieved by yards of crisp marquisette.

Chain Postal Cards Prohibited By Law.

In recent weeks there has been received at the Jayton post office a great many postal cards offered for mailing, which in general read as follows:

"In three days make 6 copies of this card leaving off the first name and adding yours to the bottom. Mail to friends. Send the top name 1 tea towel. Please do not fail to do this. You will receive 36 towels when your name gets to the top. It's fun to see who they come from. Pin your name on the towel you send."

The great number of cards being mailed indicate that this type of chain enterprise has again reached epidemic proportions and district postmasters have been instructed by the post office authorities to withdraw such cards from the mails and dispose of them according to Postals Laws and Regulations.

Mrs. M. L. Copeland, Mrs. L. M. Wingerd and daughter, Marion visited Morgan Copeland at the University of Texas over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Mon Telford had as week end guests Mrs. A. J. Garner, sr., of Causey, N. M., Mrs. A. J. Garner, jr., of Santa Fe and Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Day of Lamesa.

Chain postal cards involving prayers which contain a threat of bad luck to those breaking the chain are nonmailable under the section 599 Postal Laws and Regulations. These cards will be disposed of in accordance with the provisions of the above mentioned Regulations.

As has been published several times in the past it is unlawful to participate in these schemes and it is urgently requested of the public to cooperate in this matter — Jayton Chronicle.

Foundation was laid this week for a nice residence for Supt. S. P. Cowan of the Brownfield schools, on East Tate, just east of the Glen Webber residence. We failed to learn the size of the residence, but the foundation indicates quite a large building.

Gwyneth Doss And Harold Line Exchange Vows Sunday

Miss Gwyneth Doss, daughter of T. S. Doss of Brownfield, became the bride of Harold Ivan Line, son of Mrs. I. V. Line of O'Donnell, Sunday morning, April 4, at 9:00 A. M. The wedding took place in the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. J. E. King, of Plainview.

Rev. Bill Ware of Wayland College performed the single ring ceremony before an arch of roses. The bride wore a pink suit, fashioned with a fitted jacket and gored skirt. She wore a black hat with pink rose buds and carried pink gloves. Her corsage was of gardenias. For something old and borrowed, she carried a compact belonging to her sister, Mrs. King; something blue, the traditional blue garter; and for good luck, a penny in her shoe.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held. A three tiered wedding cake topped with miniature bride and groom centered the table which was laid with a lace cloth. The cake was surrounded with pink candles and azalea.

For going away the bride chose a blue suit with black and white accessories.

Mrs. Line attended school at Brownfield and graduated in 1945. She was employed by the Southwestern Telephone Co. for the past two and one-half years.

Mr. Line is a graduate of O'Donnell high school and attended McMurry College in Abilene before entering service.

After a short wedding trip to Fort Worth, the couple will be at home in Abilene where Mr. Line has resumed his studies at McMurry.

Only members of the family attended the wedding.

There are 14 lines in a sonnet.

The bride wore a suit of blue gabardine with black accessories. She carried a Bible, a gift of her parents, topped with pink carnations and sweet peas. For something old, a handkerchief was carried and for good luck the bride wore an Indian head penny in her shoe.

The couple were attended by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Browder.

After a wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Lubbock.

SHORT STORY Wonderful Woman By RUTH K. KENT

ANN STANTON watched her husband's newspaper for signs of annoyance after she told him. Yes, he was lowering it slowly... his handsome face frowning. "What did you do that for?" Ann buttered her toast. "Why not? I always took Elsie Olson to lunch when she was your secretary." Harry gulped his coffee. "But Elsie was... well..." Ann leaned back in her chair. Yes, Elsie was 38 and wore cotton stockings. Tess Barclay, the new secretary, was 20 and Harry could tuck her in his pocket. Ann remembered when Elsie Olson resigned and the boss hired Tess for Harry. "Sunny little girl taking Elsie's place," he'd announced. "No bigger than a minute."

"What was that?" "I didn't hear anything." They crossed a couple of rooms that must have been enormous, judging by the time it took to traverse them, before the caretaker halted again, this time of his own accord. "This is the music room," he said. "The painting's on the far wall." The man with the gun gave a grunt of satisfaction. With the piano as a bearing, it was easy to locate the Van Gogh. He let the light play

"Where is it?" demanded the gunman. on it, making audible noises of satisfaction. "You can help me—" he began, but the sentence was never finished. High and clear, came the tinkling notes of a piano. It was as though an invisible hand had brushed over the keys, or lightly ran up a scale. The sound was repeated, but this time the notes were slow and uncertain, as if the unseen player tried to pick out an almost forgotten tune. The circle of light on the painting wavered violently, then jerked wildly down to the piano. By its light the two men saw that the stool was untenant, but as each note sounded a key was depressed by invisible fingers. The old man was touching the gunman, and he felt him go rigid in terror. The next second the room was in darkness as the lamp fell or was hurled to the floor. The kitchen door had slammed behind the intruder before the caretaker recovered the lamp. Approaching the piano, he fumbled under the open top, and when he withdrew his arm the music ceased abruptly. "You little rascal, you," chuckled the old man fondly, to the tumbler in his hand. "It's a good thing for Mister John he told me I could use his planner. But it's no place for a kit ten to play in."

Before Republicans cheer too loudly about that Wallace congressional victory in New York they had better figure out what it means. It means, among other things, that the voters are so fed up with the old parties that they wouldn't turn out to vote for them. They let the Wallace crowd win by default. The same thing, in varying degrees, is happening in other parts of the country. When the Republicans applaud such a condition, it reveals their appalling stupidity. — The International Teamster.

3-Minute Fiction Harry was 30, and after seven years of marriage maybe he was getting a little tired... maybe of her. Ann had seen the little new girl one day when she stopped in the office to see Harry. It was a few days later when she announced at breakfast, "I'm taking Miss Barclay to lunch today." ANN walked into the Mayfair ahead of time. She sat studying the wall paper. Yes... things were working out right. That young lady would have to answer some questions. Nice subtle questions, of course. Tess came right on time. Ann held out her hand. "Sit down, Tess," she smiled. "Everyone calls you that, don't they?" Tess sat primly. "Yes, Mrs. Stanton." "It was good of you to come," Ann said. "I'm sure you had something more interesting to do." Tess picked up a fork and turned it over and over. "I... was supposed to do something else," she said. "But... I'm glad you asked me. I've... been wondering how I could talk to you." Ann's senses pricked up. "You did? Was there something special you wanted to say?" Tess twisted her napkin. "I... don't know how to begin. Mrs. Stanton, I... I want to talk about Mr. Stanton. But... maybe you won't understand."

Rev. J. Hoyt Boles of Denton spoke at the Presbyterian Church Sunday. He was a guest of Rev. and Mrs. J. Preston Murphy.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Browder, Phola Jean, Kenneth Threet and Margaret Goza were in Lamesa Sunday.

4-H Girls Keep Up With New Look

What is the average 4-H Club girl in a small town or on a farm doing to acquire the "new look" in clothes? She is making her own clothes according to latest fashion trends, and seeing to it that every outfit is becoming to her type and expressive of her personality. She is acquiring the knowledge and skill necessary to make suitable costumes for work, school and social occasions through taking part in the National 4-H Dress Revue. Participation in that program affords the 4-H girl the opportunity to model her "best" dress in her local county revue. If she wins a medal of honor, she may enter the State Dress Revue, the winner of which will receive an educational trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago next November, provided by Simplicity Pattern Co. Each state winner taking part in the National 4-H Dress Revue Presentation at the Congress will receive a $25.00 U. S. Savings Bond and appropriate ribbon. There Seems To Be Two Ted Whites

Last week the Herald stated that Ted White's wife and daughter had left for Honduras to join their husband and father. Then we added to what the society editor had written and made an error. That Ted is not the son of Mrs. Eldora A. White, but Mrs. White is a granddaughter of Mrs. W. H. Dallas. Mrs. Eldora White does have a son by the name of Ted, but he is not married, and is attending Tech college. We learn that the other Ted White never did live in Brownfield. But his wife and daughter have been staying with Mrs. Dallas until Mr. White secured a home in Honduras. From this on the Old He will leave things just as the society editor writes it, without adding our two-bits worth. SING SONG SUNDAY AT NAZARENE CHURCH That happy gospel singer, G. M. Thomason, was in again this week to ask us for more publicity, and we are always glad to hand it out free of charge when it's for a good cause—singing. We have always understood that the man that sings is not a dangerous fellow. He is a good neighbor and a close friend, come what may. And any time devoted to singing is time out of something that may be questionable. But the singing will start at 2:30 P. M. Sunday at the Nazarene church on west Tate. Of course you are invited.

SHORT STORY

Thief In the Night

By N. G. ADLINGTON

THE old caretaker was not surprised when confronted by the man with the gun. He had been expecting something of the sort ever since the publicity in the paper.

He was swiftly but thoroughly searched. "Where is it?" demanded the gunman. "In the table drawer," said the old caretaker. "I never carry it with me. I'm afraid of it."

The old man dared to relax. "Thanks," he said. "I was getting kinda tired holding 'em up. Do you mind if I sit down?"

"Yes," he said, with a sigh. "I told Mister John it was foolishness, putting all that stuff in the paper, no good would come of it."

"How right you were," grinned the man with the gun. "According to this spread, he's closed the joint up while he and his wife spend the summer on the coast. Must be nice to have dough."

The old man shrugged. "That's the story the paper got."

"What do you mean," asked the gunman sharply. "Aren't you alone here?"

"Sure I'm alone," said the caretaker hastily. "I meant there was more to 'em closing the house up than the paper was told. Mister John's wife didn't like it here."

"Most dames could stand living in a shack like this."

"They've only been married three months. She liked it here at first, she said it got on her nerves. Claims the place was spooky. It's a pretty old place, you know."

"Enough of this spook talk," the gunman said roughly. "Here's what I'm interested in." He scored a few lines on the paper with his thumb nail, then tossed the paper to the old man.

SLOWLY the caretaker read the notice on the society page blurted under the roof of the house. "I was going to die you up there," said the gunman, with another glance at the dark passage.

Second thought I'll let you show where it is. Let's go."

They were half way through the passage, the caretaker gripped him by the arm.

Ann braced herself. "I'll try to understand."

The big blue eyes looked into Ann's... begged, "Is... does Mr. Stanton have good health?"

WELL! So now Ann knew. And this innocent-looking youngster had figured all the angles. Even to Harry's health. No doubt Harry seemed pretty old to her and she wanted to be sure he wouldn't turn senile the minute she caught him. Ann's voice was cold. "He's perfectly healthy."

"I... I thought maybe he was sick. That would excuse him. I mean... Mr. Stanton's a nice man but... Tex looked almost frightened. "He's so impatient. I simply can't work for him any more. I make... mistakes, and he... really Mrs. Stanton he makes me work at noon to fix them. Oh dear, I hope you aren't hurt."

"Hurt?" All the buds on the wall paper seemed to burst into bloom for Ann. She could almost smell their fragrance. Impulsively she put her hand over the small one drumming nervously on the table.

"Of course I'm not hurt, my dear. You mustn't be either. Harry's been accustomed to Miss Olson... she was there years and years and was sort of a machine. Don't quit, Tess. Ann frowned herself begging. "You can take it. And you'll have a good position. I'll walk back to the office with you when we finish."

Harry was puzzling over some invoices when Ann and Tess came into the office, arm in arm. "Here's your secretary to do that," Ann smiled.

She slipped out and smiled at the girls in the outer office, but was almost ashamed to face them. Ann knew they would say, "That Mrs. Stanton is such a wonderful woman. Not the least bit jealous of Mr. Stanton's secretaries."

The Woman Listener

By Sally Welles

A STORY CHARACTER is leading a double life these days in connection with the CBS "Guiding Light" program. "Charlotte Brandon" (Betty Lou Gerson in real life) is acting out a play-within-a-play. It is the story of Charlotte's rapid rise to radio fame after the airing of her initial broadcast.

When Elspeth Eric of the CBS show, "Big Sister," decided to become an actress, she had two points to prove. One, that she was a capable actress, and two, that the stage and New York were not what her parents thought. Both questions have since been answered to everyone's complete satisfaction.

The Walking Man broke all "Truth or Consequences" contest records for money for worthy causes! The "Mrs. Hush" contest was responsible for a March Of Dimes contribution of $54,155, while "Miss Hush" brought $647,136 for the March Of Dimes. However, "The Walking Man" out-stepped them both, with donations of over $1,500,000! This amount will be turned over to the American Heart Association by Ralph Edwards, emcee of the NBC "Truth or Consequences" show.

Larry Haines, heard in the role of Carl Ward on the CBS "Young Dr. Malone" program, likes to aid and abet his good luck. His favorite song is "I'm Lookin' Over A Four-Leaf Clover," and he also faithfully carries with him a good-luck penny dating from his lean years.

Pretty Anne Sargent, known to daytime radio listeners as Deborah Nelson on the NBC "Right To Happiness" show, is taking modern dancing lessons. Says Anne cheerfully, "When you can get spring in your step, you're pretty sure to have it in your voice."

First Annual Poll of "Radio Mirror Magazine" indicates that ABC's "Breakfast In Hollywood" program is the favorite audience participation show of their readers. According to the magazine's editors, this award is the result of the largest of all the radio listener polls now being conducted.

Don MacLaughlin, Dr. Jim Brent in NBC's "Road Of Life" program, has found his slight mid-western accent to be a blessing in disguise. It is recognized by those who know to be the accent the average American speaks with - therefore enabling him to play Mr. Average American on the air.

Dr. Turners To Move Back To Terry. Dr. and Mrs. John R. Turner were visitors in the city this week, and paid the Herald a short call to get their paper transferred from San Benito, Texas to Brownfield, La., where the doctor will operate his farm this year. For the past year he has been County Health Officer at San Benito. Both are looking well. In fact, the doctor appears in best health in years. Their farm, formerly the Forbes place six miles east of town is rented out this year, but they will move on it next year and once again become Terryites in truth as well as spirit.

They remarked that there was something about this section, even with its sandstorms that attracted people to come and live here.
