THE MAINE ELECTION.

The news by mail confirms the first news in regard to the election in Maine, showing that the Republican party has been successful, but have lost some of its previous majority. We clip the following explanatory despatch from the New York Tribune:

HOW THE RESULT WAS BROUGHT ABOUT—THE ISSUE NOT ON NATIONAL POLITICS. August 10, Maine, September 9.—The annual election for Governor, members of the Legislature, and county officers, took place in this State to-day. The contest was marked by considerable excitement, and a heavier vote was polled than was generally expected. The Democrats, as will be seen by the result, made a most desperate effort to carry the State, leaving no stone unturned, and urging every appliance to achieve success. Local issues, with other questions of a political character, caused the Democrats to rally and make such gains as they have in certain localities. The prohibitory and constabulary laws enacted last winter by the Legislature caused a division in the Republican ranks, and the liquor question was seized as an issue by the Democrats and their ally, the "P. L. L." organization, who ran candidates for the Legislature pledged for the repeal of those enactments. The Democrats practically waived all discussion of national issues, and pressed the Republicans in all localities on the somewhat aggravating points presented by the extreme legislation of last winter on the liquor question. The result is, therefore, in no degree an expression of popular change in Maine touching the measures of the National Administration or the merits of Andrew Johnson. The issues were purely local; and the result has no significance beyond the fact that a large section of the Republican party do not believe in a radical prohibitory law.

Governor Chamberlain is undoubtedly elected by a majority of from 10,000 to 12,000, showing a falling off in his majority of last year of less than one-half. We have received returns from 103 towns, which foot up: Chamberlain, 21,680; Pillsbury, 16,170; against last year's vote in the same places which stood: Chamberlain, 27,197; Pillsbury, 19,909, showing a loss of 5,507. These returns embrace about one-third of the vote of the State.

York county is conceded to have been carried by the Democrats, which gives them three Senators, while Knox, Lincoln, and Aroostook counties tremble in the balance. These counties send four Senators in all, and if they are lost it will give the Democrats a representation of 7 out of 31 in the Senate. The House, like the Senate, will also stand largely Republican, although the Democrats claim a majority in that branch. The Republicans have lost largely in every place of importance. They are, however, not disheartened, but are ready to pick their flints and try again.

One of our despatches read: "The Democrats have gained representatives which will give them much power in the Legislature." The telegraphic news in Eastern papers of the same date reads:

"The Democrats will gain representatives in some towns, but not enough to give them much power in the Legislature."

A MODEL WOMAN.—REV. H. L. Weyland, in a paper discussing the question of extending the employment of women, says:

I know one lady (I use the singular number not unadvisedly), and she was not compelled by her circumstances, who makes housekeeping an art, who studies chemistry and physiology, that she may adapt her table to the comfort and health of her family; who is the mistress of her servants, not their unpaid dependent; who knows when the work of the house is done, and, if it is not done, is able to show the servants the reason of their failure. And, with all this, she is not a drudge, with a soul confined to pots and pans, but a sensible, pleasing and truly religious woman, who while enhancing the happiness of her family and doubling the income of her husband, alike by reducing his expenses and freeing his mind from vexing cares, yet is also reading the best books, is serving God, and dispensing charity to men. One such woman I know; pray, how many do you know?

A very marked illustration of the power of imagination was given at Portland, Me., the other day, when several express and truckmen were overcome and sickened by a supposed stench from a box containing a neatly carved Indian for some tobaccoist's sign, but which they imagined to be a coffin containing a corpse.

REVOLT AGAINST PARIS.

From the N. Y. World.

The female fashionable world is preparing to revolt against Paris. Heretofore the delusion has obtained widely that the Empress herself was the source, the very fountain head of fashion inspiration. To her was attributed the revival of hoop-skirt, and forthwith the hoop-skirt, modernized into crinoline, spread itself throughout Christendom, while the chignon has gradually traveled from the back of the neck to the top of the eyebrows, in supposed obedience to the will of Eugenie. And so with tin bonnets, growing small by degrees and beautifully less, and the furbelows and flounces, and all the multitudinous millinery of woman's wear. But lately it has come to light that it is not the Empress, nor the court, nor even the "modistes" of Paris who "set" the fashions for the whole female world; but the forettes and leaders of the demi-monde lay down the laws which guide the fashions in Paris itself, as well as in London, New York, and all the cities that follow Paris fashions. This shocking discovery has stimulated the wives and mothers, and some of the daughters of England, to propose in London, the formation of a "Ladies' Reform League," not only to organize a revolt against Paris, but to suggest matters for a general emancipation from the present thralldom of milliners and hair-dressers. It is declared that fashion, though fascinating, is really slavery in a most frightful form, compelling its devotees to make themselves generally ridiculous, to submit to much bodily discomfort and even torture, and to launch into extravagant expenditures, wasting untold sums of money upon materials which are useless or unsalable, long before they are worn out. So it is a cry for a reform, and a general enlistment for a fight against the fashion, and a rebellion against fashion's inexorable decrees.

In Alabama registration has been completed, and the result is as follows: Whites, 72,747; blacks, 88,248. Before the war the whole number of votes was about 75,000. It appears, therefore, that the number of whites disfranchised in Alabama, as in some other States, is too small to have any appreciable effect upon the result of an election. In Louisiana, Georgia, Alabama and South Carolina, the registration shows a majority of colored voters, and of those States Georgia is the only one in which the whites would have had a majority if all had been registered. The persistent opposition to reconstruction kept up by a few obstinately thick witted fire-eaters in that State, has just succeeded in throwing it into the control of the negroes if they choose to vote together. So rebellion gnaws its flit.

The Empress of Austria formerly "cut" Eugenie; but times have changed, and the meeting of those royal ladies a few days since is thus described: "On the train stopping, the Empress Elizabeth hastened to meet the French Empress as she descended from the carriage, and bending forward kissed her affectionately on one cheek and then on the other. The meeting of the two Emperors was equally cordial. They shook hands heartily. The Empress presented her ladies to the French guest, and, a moment or two after, the Empress Eugenie, in a most graceful manner, went forward some steps to converse with the Countess Bellegarde.

SCENES AT ANTIETAM.

Our telegraphic dispatches give an account of the inauguration of the National Cemetery at Antietam, at which A. Johnson officiated, and the Republican Governor of Pennsylvania, formerly Gen. Geary, of the Union army, was slighted. This slight to Gov. Geary was rebuked by a popular outburst of indignation on the part of the people. Andy Johnson's presence at a graveyard turns the occasion into disgrace. The old reprobate had better keep out of sight of the American people, who have a big disgust for domestic traitors and swigging-round-the-circle demagogues.

VERMONT ELECTION.

Our eastern exchanges give reports of the Vermont election going Republican by 18,000 or 20,000 majority; only four democrats being elected to the Legislature. Vermont is next to Tennessee so far in Radicalism.

WELCOME TO SHERIDAN.

Gen. Sheridan was first ordered to report to Washington, but Johnson feared to let the bold rider in the vicinity of the White House; he dreaded the outgushing enthusiasm of the people who would welcome Sheridan and curse the miscreant who dared to bring him into disrepute, so Sheridan was ordered to go directly to his post on the plains. Along the route the people were enthusiastic in their welcome, and when he arrived in St. Louis there was a tremendous waking up of the old spirit of the war, and an outburst of enthusiastic welcome to the brave soldier, which also means a terrific rebuke to the traitor in the White House.

On the night of Gen. Sheridan's arrival in St. Louis, an immense torch-light procession moved through the city to his hotel and gave him a welcome he might well feel proud of. Over ten thousand persons took part in the procession, and thirty thousand joined in the plaudits. All nationalities participated and all the civil societies were in the process on; the colored men turned out several thousand strong.

Upon the procession arriving at the hotel Governor Smith welcomed General Sheridan in the following speech:— General:—In consequence of the absence of the Governor, the pleasant duty devolves upon me of extending to you a cordial welcome in behalf of the Executive Department of our State. The bravery and intrepidity manifested by you in the command of our armies, combined with your support and earnest efforts to give practical effect to the logical results of the war, have secured to you the lasting gratitude of every patriot of our country, and to none have your firmness and efficiency as an officer of government more significance, nor by any are they more fully appreciated, than by the loyal people of Missouri. Again, General, in their behalf I extend to you a cordial welcome, and am happy to inform you that General Schurz will welcome you and express more explicitly my sentiments of what is due to a brave soldier and lover of his country.

General Carl Schurz then came forward and delivered an eloquent and telling speech, from which we take the following extracts:

"Sir, you have achieved a triumph not inferior to your exploits as a soldier; you have not only shown to the enemies of the country the invincibility of your arms, but the very men who hate you, you have forced to respect and esteem you, in spite of themselves. Even now voices are coming up from the South—voices of men who abhor the authority you exercised—voices which say: We detest the laws which placed him over us, but Sheridan is a man. Dark as the horizon may appear, the day is not far when the struggles we are now passing through will be behind us in the records of history, the day when the whole American nation, North and South, willingly recognizing the beneficent results of this great revolution, will again be united hand and heart, when the Republic will throw her broad shield over the civil and political rights of all her citizens, whatever their birthplace, creed or complexion, and when the people of these States, the people in the broadest sense of the word, will again go on, growing and prospering in the loyal exercise of local self-government. Yes, it will come in spite of the rebels, who have lost their fight, but did not lose their rancor; in spite of the insidious intrigues which seek to delay it, it will come. Then, General, you will gather your proudest laurels of triumph. The people of Louisiana and Texas will say, Blessed be the day which gives us the secure reign of hearty loyalty and impartial justice, and blessed be Sheridan, who so bravely broke the road. And the people of all the States will joyfully repeat what they already say. As the gleam of Sheridan's steel showed us the road to victory, so the gleam of Sheridan's mind showed us the road to peace. As the champion of peace, through justice, as the representative of popular thought, General Sheridan, we welcome you!

And now General look at the thousands assembled here to do you honor. There is scarcely a civilized country on both hemispheres which is not represented here. You see the American, white or black, proud that his country calls you his son. You see the Irishman, proud that your ancestors called the green land their home. You see the German, the Frenchman, the Scandinavian, the Englishman, the Hungarian, the Pole, the Bohemian, the Italian, the Spaniard, proud of being united with you in common citizenship and their enthusiastic zeal for a great common cause, proud of having fought, and ever ready to fight again with you.

Every civilized language bids, you welcome here, and unites in the solemn promise never, never to forsake the cause with which your name is so gloriously identified. "Nay, the very whistle of the steam engine, the great representative of progressive science and modern civilization, joins its shrill notes with this grand chorus of human voices. The great heart of loyal Missouri leaps to you in this triumphant shout: Welcome, welcome, Sheridan! [Long continued cheering.]

Gen. Sheridan advanced amid tremendous cheering, and said:

"I presume you all know that I never make speeches. I regret exceedingly that I am not able to make you one to-night, but this kind welcome has been unexpected by me entirely. I can only return my sincere thanks for your enthusiastic and kind welcome.

Scenes at Antietam—Gov. Geary Slighted—The People Sustain Geary and Rebuke Johnson

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Just west of the main stand and within the cemetery enclosure, is a limestone rock, some six feet long by two or three feet high, known far and wide throughout Washington county as Lee's rock, from the fact of it is said, that Gen. Lee stood there during the fiercest of the fight at Antietam, directing the operations of the Confederate army. During the day parties of curiosity hunters were busily engaged in chipping pieces off the rock as relics. McClellan's position during the fight was pointed out near a red farm house in a position little less commanding than that occupied by Lee. The following illustrates the forms of the ceremonies: The loud call for Governor Geary of Pennsylvania at the conclusion of the address of ex-Governor Bradford showed many Pennsylvanians were present, and that there was an under current of ill feeling on account of some slight to their Governor in his name not appearing in the programme; the outcry for Gov. Geary for the time being overpowered, the calls for the President prevented a word of the reading of the poem being heard; the brass band essayed to perform pieces with as little effect; and finally, after a hurried consultation on the stand Gov. Geary was induced to present himself and ask that the programme should be gone through without interruption. When he subsequently spoke, after the proceedings were ended, he showed considerable feeling against the President and the members of the Cabinet, who left the stand while Gov. Geary was speaking, in order to proceed to Keekersville to take the train, and this proceeding was taken by some friends of the Governor as an intended slight to Gov. Geary, who opened his speech thus:

"Fellow-citizens: After all you have heard to-day I had supposed you would want nothing more; the programme opened and concluded with prayer; those who have waited must come in the last hour, but my friends we still have a place in the hearts of the people. (Applause.) When you come to Pennsylvania, we let everybody speak, we want to hear; thanks to Almighty God for his preservation and care of the country; we have no gag; (Applause) we have no programme for this purpose. (Renewed applause.)

AD TO THE SURFING.—Mr. Merritt informs us that with the aid of Mr. Duets he collected $300, and sent a draft for that amount to Lavaca on Wednesday evening. One hundred dollars more had been subscribed, which would be paid in on Thursday. This liberality on the part of our citizens and the labors of Messrs. Merritt and Duets, will be gratefully remembered by the suffering people of Lavaca. We have not heard what amount was subscribed for the Galveston sick, but suppose it was several hundred dollars.

STABBING OF A POLICEMAN.—On Wednesday night about midnight, policeman Van Ness Wells, while on his way home came across a Mexican lying on the ground on Flores street, not far from the arsenal grounds, he accosted the Mexican and asked him what he was doing there, to which the man replied it was none of his business; Wells took hold of the man to take him to the police station, when he cut with a knife and cut Wells in the abdomen. Wells was at last reports in a dying condition.

LUSUS NATURAE.—A young chicken having four legs has been on exhibition at one of our city bar-rooms. The extra legs are altogether ornamental and very much in the way. The chicken is lively, and apparently in a healthy condition.

The immense popularity of these Organs, and their superior musical powers, is fast bringing them before the public, as the instrument so long desired in American homes. And although the cost price is but a trifle over the Melodian, yet the musical advantages, beauty of tone and quickness of touch and action are so far superior, that they are fast superseding the Melodian; and the sell is now almost exclusively for the American Organs.
It is adapted to any music from the quickest and most lively, to the heavy tone of the Church Organ. And almost universally they are preferred to the Piano, by persons who have them, yet costing less than half, and only taking a small amount of room.

And if the defendant in any such suit be in actual custody on mesne process therein, it shall be the duty of the marshal, by virtue of the writ of habeas corpus cum causa, to take the body of the defendant into his custody, to be dealt with in the said cause according to the rules of law and the order of the circuit court, or of any judge thereof in vacation. All attachments made and all bail and other securities given upon such suit or prosecution shall be deemed and taken to be void, as if the same suit or prosecution had proceeded to final judgment and execution in the State court; and if, upon removal of any such suit or prosecution, it shall be made appear to the said circuit court that no copy of the record and proceedings therein in the State court can be obtained, it shall be lawful for said circuit court to allow and require the plaintiff to proceed de novo, and to file a declaration of his cause of action, and the parties may thereupon proceed as in actions originally brought in said circuit court; and on failure of so proceeding, judgment of nolle prosequi may be rendered against the plaintiff, with costs for the defendant. Provided, That an act entitled "An act further to provide for the collection of duties on imports," passed March second, eighteen hundred and thirty-three, shall not be so construed as to apply to cases arising under an act entitled "An Act to provide Internal Revenue to support the Government, to pay interest on the public debt, and for other purposes," passed June thirtieth, eighteen hundred and sixty-four, or any act in addition thereto or in amendment thereof, nor to any case in which the validity or interpretation of said act or acts shall be in issue. Provided further, That if any officer appointed and authorized by virtue of this act to provide Internal Revenue, or any person acting under or by authority of any such officer, shall receive any injury to his person or property, or on account of any act by him done, under any law of the United States, for the collection of taxes, he shall be entitled to maintain suit for damages therefor in the circuit court of the United States in the district wherein the party doing the injury may reside or shall be found. And be it further enacted, That the fifth section of an act passed June thirtieth, eighteen hundred and sixty-four, entitled "An Act to provide Internal Revenue to support the Government, to pay interest on the public debt, and for other purposes," is hereby repealed; Provided, That any case which may have been removed from the courts of any State under said fifth section to the courts of the United States shall be remanded to the State court from which it was so removed, with all the records relating to such case, unless the justice of the circuit court of the United States in which such suit or prosecution is pending shall be of opinion that said case would be removable from the court of the State to the circuit court under and by virtue of the sixth section of this act. And in all cases which may have been removed from any court of any State under and by virtue of said fifth section of said act of June thirtieth, eighteen hundred and sixty-four, all attachments made, and all bail or other security given upon such suit or prosecution, shall be and continue in full force and effect until final judgment and execution, whether such suit shall be prosecuted to final judgment in the circuit court of the United States, or remanded to the State court from which it was removed.

Sec. 69. And be it further enacted, That whenever a writ of error shall be issued for the revision of any judgment or decree in any criminal proceeding where it is drawn in question the construction of any statute of the United States, in a court of any State, as is provided in the twenty-fifth section of an act entitled "An Act to establish the judicial courts of the United States," passed September twenty-fourth, seventeen hundred and eighty-nine, the defendant, if charged with an offence punishable by the laws of such State, shall not be released from custody until a final judgment upon such writ, or until a sum, as ordered and approved by the State court, shall be given, and if the offence is not so punishable, until a final judgment upon the writ of error. Writs of error in criminal cases shall have precedence upon the docket of the Supreme Court of all cases to which the government of the United States is not a party, excepting only such cases as the court, at their discretion, may decide to be of public importance.

Sec. 70. And be it further enacted, That the act shall take effect, where not otherwise provided, on the first day of August, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, and all provisions of any former act inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed. Provided, however, That all the provisions of said acts shall be in force for collecting all taxes, duties and licenses properly assessed or liable to be assessed, or accruing under the provisions of acts, the right to which has already accrued or which may hereafter accrue under said acts, and for maintaining and continuing liens, fines, penalties, and forfeitures incurred under and by virtue thereof, and for carrying on and completing all proceedings which have been already commenced, or that may be commenced, to enforce such fines, penalties, and forfeitures, or criminal proceedings under said acts, and for the punishment of crimes of which any party shall be or has been found guilty: And provided further, That whenever the law shall be imposed by any existing law shall cease in consequence of any limitation therein contained before the respective provisions of this act shall take effect; and where any act is hereby repealed, no duty imposed thereby shall be held to cease, in consequence of such repeal, until the respective corresponding provisions of this act shall take effect; And provided further, That all manufacturers and producers of any articles which are to be manufactured or produced, on the day when this act takes effect, and the commission of internal revenue, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, is authorized to make all necessary regulations and prescribe all necessary forms and proceeding for the collection of such taxes and the enforcement of such fines and penalties for the execution of the provisions of this act.

Sec. 71. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the commissioner of Internal Revenue to have this act, and the acts to which it is amendatory, published in at least one German newspaper in each of the States of the Union where such paper may be published.

CHAP. CC.—An Act to continue in force and to amend "An Act to establish a Bureau for the Relief of Freedmen and Refugees," and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the act to establish a bureau for the relief of freedmen and refugees, approved March third, eighteen hundred and sixty-five, shall continue in force for the term of two years from and after the passage of this act.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the supervision and care of said bureau shall extend to all loyal refugees and freedmen, so far as the same shall be necessary to enable them as speedily as practicable to become self-supporting citizens of the United States, and to aid them in making the freedom conferred by proclamation of the commander in chief, by emancipation under the laws of States, and by constitutional amendment, available to them and beneficial to the republic.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That the President shall, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, appoint two assistant commissioners, in addition to those authorized by the act to which this is an amendment, who shall give like bonds and receive the same annual salaries provided in said act, and each assistant commissioner of the bureau shall have charge of one district containing such refugees or freedmen, to be assigned him by the commissioner with the approval of the President. And the commissioner shall, under the direction of the President, and so far as the same shall be in his judgment, necessary for the efficient and economical administration of the affairs of the bureau, appoint such agents, clerks, and assistants as may be necessary for the proper conduct of the bureau. Military officers or enlisted men may be detailed for service and assigned to duty under this act; and the President may, in his judgment, safe and judicious as to do, detail from the army all the officers and agents of this bureau; but no officer so assigned shall have increase of pay or allowances. Each agent or clerk, not heretofore authorized by law, not being a military officer, shall have an annual salary of not less than five hundred dollars, nor more than twelve hundred dollars, according to the service required of him. And it shall be the duty of the commissioner, when it can be done consistently with public interest, to appoint, as assistant commissioners, agents, and clerks, such men as have proved their loyalty by faithful service in the armies of the Union during the rebellion. And all persons appointed to service under this act and to which this is an amendment shall be so far deemed in the military service of the United States as to be under the military jurisdiction, and entitled to the military protection of the government while in discharge of the duties of their office.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That officers of the veteran reserve corps or of the volunteer service, now on duty in the Freedmen's Bureau as assistant commissioners, agents, medical officers, or in other capacities, whose regiments or corps have been or may hereafter be mustered out of service, may be retained upon such duty as officers of said bureau, with the same compensation as is now provided by law for their respective grades; and the Secretary of War shall have power to fill vacancies until other officers can be detailed in their places without detriment to the public service.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That the second section of the act to which this is an amendment shall be deemed to authorize the Secretary of War to issue such medical stores or other supplies and transportation, and afford such medical or other aid as here may be needed for the purpose named in said section: Provided, That no person shall be deemed "destitute," "suffering," or "dependent upon the government for support," within the meaning of this act, who is able to find employment, and could, by proper industry or exertion, avoid such destitution, suffering, or dependence.

[OFFICIAL.] THE STATUTES AT LARGE AND TREATY OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, PASSED BY THE 39TH CONGRESS.

Treaty for the final Settlement of the Claims of the Hudson's Bay and Puget's Sound Agricultural Companies between the United States of America and Her Britannic Majesty; concluded July 1, 1864; ratified by the United States, March 2, 1864; ratifications exchanged March 8, 1864; proclaimed by the President of the United States, March 5, 1864.

WHEREAS a treaty between the United States of America and Her Britannic Majesty, for the final settlement of the claims of the Hudson's Bay and Puget's Sound Agricultural Companies, was concluded and signed at Washington, by their respective plenipotentiaries, on the first day of July, 1863, which treaty is, word for word, as follows: The United States of America and Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, being desirous to provide for the final settlement of the claims of the Hudson's Bay and Puget's Sound Agricultural Companies specified in articles III and IV of the treaty concluded between the United States of America and Great Britain, on the 15th of June, 1846, have resolved to conclude a treaty for this purpose, and have named as their Plenipotentiaries, that is to say, the President of the United States of America, William H. Seward, Secretary of State; and Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, the Right Honorable Richard Bickerton Pennell, Lord Lyons, a peer of her United Kingdom, a knight grand cross of her most honorable order of the Bath, and her Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the United States of America; who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon and concluded the following articles:

ART. I. Whereas by the 2d and 4th articles of the treaty concluded at Washington on the 15th day of June, 1846, between the United States of America and Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, it was stipulated and agreed that in the future appropriation of the territory south of the 49th parallel of north latitude, as provided in the first article of the said treaty, the possessory rights of the Hudson's Bay Company, and of all British subjects who may be already in the occupation of land or other property lawfully acquired within the said territory, should be respected, and that the farms, lands, and other property of every description, belonging to the Puget's Sound Agricultural Company, on the north side of the Columbia River, should be confirmed to the said company but that in case the situation of those farms and lands should be considered by the United States to be of public and political importance, and the United States government should signify a desire to obtain possession of the whole or of any part thereof, the property so required should be transferred to the said government at a proper valuation, to be agreed upon between the parties:

And whereas it is desirable that all questions between the United States authorities on the one hand, and the Hudson's Bay and Puget's Sound Agricultural Companies on the other, with respect to the possessory rights and claims of those companies, and of any other British subjects in Oregon and Washington Territory, should be settled by the transfer of those rights and claims to the government of the United States for an adequate money consideration: It is hereby agreed that the United States of America and Her Britannic Majesty shall, within twelve months after the exchange of the ratifications of the present treaty, appoint each a commissioner for the purpose of examining and deciding upon all claims arising out of the provisions of the above-quoted articles of the treaty of June 15, 1846.

ART. II. The commissioners mentioned in the preceding article shall, at the earliest convenient period after they shall have been respectively named, meet at the city of Washington, in the District of Columbia, and shall before proceeding to any business, make and subscribe a solemn declaration that they will impartially and carefully examine and decide, to the best of their judgment, and according to justice and equity, without fear, favor, or affection to their own country, all the matters referred to them for their decision, and such declaration shall be entered on the record of their proceedings.

The commissioners shall then proceed to name an arbitrator or umpire to decide upon any case or cases on which they may differ in opinion; and if they cannot agree in the selection, the said arbitrator or umpire shall be appointed by the King of Italy, whom the two high contracting parties shall invite to make such appointment, and whose selection shall be conclusive on both parties. The person to be chosen shall, before proceeding to act, make and subscribe a solemn declaration, in a form similar to that which shall already have been made and subscribed by the commissioners, which declaration shall also be entered on the record of the proceedings. In the event of the death, absence, or incapacity of such person, or of his omitting or declining to proceed to act as such arbitrator or umpire, another person shall be named, in the manner aforesaid, to act in his place or stead, and shall make and subscribe such declaration as aforesaid.

The United States of America and Her Britannic Majesty engage to consider the decision of the two commissioners, jointly, or of the arbitrator or umpire, as the case may be, as final and conclusive on the matters to be referred to their decision, and forthwith to give full effect to the same.

ART. III. The commissioners and the arbitrator or umpire shall keep accurate records and correct minutes or notes of all their proceedings, with the dates thereof, and shall appoint and employ such clerk or clerks or other persons as they shall find necessary to assist them in the transaction of the business which may come before them.

The salaries of the commissioners and of the clerk or clerks shall be paid by their respective governments. The salary of the arbitrator or umpire and the contingent expenses shall be defrayed in equal moieties by the two governments.

ART. IV. All sums of money which may be awarded by the commissioner, or by the arbitrator or umpire, on account of any claim shall be paid by the government to the other in two equal annual installments, whereof the first shall be paid within twelve months after the date of the award, and the second within twenty-four months after the date of the award, without interest, and without any deduction whatever.

ART. V. The present treaty shall be ratified, and the mutual exchange of ratifications shall take place in Washington, in twelve months from the date hereof, or earlier, if possible.

In faith whereof, we, the respective plenipotentiaries, have signed this treaty, and have hereunto affixed our seals.

Done in duplicate, at Washington, the first day of July, anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three.

And whereas the said treaty has been duly ratified on both parts, and the respective ratifications of the same were exchanged at Washington, on the second instant, by William H. Seward, Secretary of State of the United States, and the Right Honorable Lord Lyons, her Britannic Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary, on the part of their respective governments:

Now, therefore, be it known that Y. Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States of America, have caused the said treaty to be made public; to the end that the same and every clause, and part thereof, may be observed and fulfilled with good faith by the United States and the citizens thereof.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington, this [L. S.] nineteenth day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, and of the Independence of the United States the eighty-eighth.
