ment; roll called; quorum present; prayer-by the chaplain; journal of yesterday read and adopted.
* Caldwell moved a suspension of the rules to introduce the following declaration: Be it enacted by the people of Texas in convention assembled, That the assessors and collectors of the several counties of this State are required to collect a tax on the one hundred dollars worth of property assessed for State taxes for the year 1868, to pay fees—salary, compensation of delegates and agents and contingent expenses of this convention, which assembled by virtue of an act of the Congress of the United States, passed March 23d, 1867, entitled an act providing for the more efficient government of the Rebel States, passed March 23, 1867, and to facilitate restoration.

Sec. 1. That the taxes herein levied shall be collected and returned by the first day of December, 1868, and the comptroller shall take all necessary steps, and prescribe rules to insure the prompt and efficient collection of the same.
Sec. 2. That the sum of five thousand dollars is hereby appropriated, or so much thereof as may be necessary, for the purchase of books, printing blanks, purchase of stationery, clerks' hire, and for contingencies that may arise which are necessary to carry into effect this declaration.
Sec. 3. The comptroller is hereby required to keep a separate account of all taxes received under this declaration, and the Assessor and Collectors shall be entitled to commission for collecting the taxes herein levied as follows: At eight per cent on the first thousand dollars; at five per cent on the second thousand dollars; at four per cent on the third, fourth and fifth thousand dollars; at three per cent on the sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth and ten thousand dollars.
Sec. 4. The taxes herein levied shall be collected in the same manner as is now provided for the collection of State taxes by the laws in force.
Sec. 5. That all appropriations drawn from the State Treasury for the use of the Convention shall be reimbursed to the State, out of the taxes herein levied, and this declaration shall be in force from its passage.

the yeas and nays were demanded, and resulted thus:
Yeas—48 Nays—9.
Finally passed by the following vote:
Yeas—49 Nays—9.
Newcomb offered the following resolution:
Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God in His Divine Providence, to take from this citizen, Texas has lost one of her truest sons.

and sudden death, and tender his surviving relations and friends our sincere condolence in their sad affliction.

ple of Dallas county to levy a special tax.
Flanagan, from committee on Internal Improvements, reported a declaration on Supplemental Pacific Railroad bill, granting that Railroad twenty miles each side of the track of all unlocated lands. As stated by the report, this declaration would only effect the Western part of the State, as the East no unlocated lands.
Patten offered the following declaration: Whereas, the following Railroad Companies, were, on the 1st day of March last, indebted to the Special School Fund of the State of Texas, the following amounts:

vention, for a bridge across the Brazos.
Flanagan, senior, called up the Pacific Railroad Supplemental bill.
The question recurred upon the adoption of the declaration, upon which the yeas and nays were demanded and resulted thus:
Yeas—26 Nays—44.

Flanagan, junior, then called up the declaration respecting the Mexican Gulf Railroad company.
Finally passed by the following vote:

So the declaration was adopted.
On motion, the Convention adjourned until 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

The Cattle Plague in Illinois.
A letter to The Chicago Republican, dated at Sadoris, Illinois, August 5, says:
"Since the 1st of June last from 6,000 to 10,000 Texas cattle were brought to this country and scattered all over it.
The result is, all of our native cattle are diseased.
Sadoris and Toono townships have already lost over 600 head of cattle, and it now seems we are only in the midst of it. I see from the agricultural report that as early as 1853, Ralls County, Mo., suffered from this same cattle disease. The trade was continued until 1858, when horses and sheep, also the Texas cattle died. A short description of this fearful disease may be of some use to your many readers. I have seen them from the first to the last stage, and have been a close observer of all the symptoms. They are not all taken alike. Still the general symptoms are the same. A lankness is one of the first in some. They droop the head and ears, and as they get worse invariably you will see the head hanging down, a slow, dragging step, showing great weakness of the whole body. The flank draws in, so much so that in thirty hours the beast will look as though it had been starved for weeks. In milk cows one of the first indications is a sudden failure of milk. I had a fine cow that was giving three gallons twice a day. She was milked at night, and gave the usual amount, seemed well, took water and feed the same; the next morning she failed one third; at night she only gave one gallon, and by the next morning was dry. I have been particular in the above description, hoping it may be of some use to others. In most cases the bowels are constipated, but in one I saw it was the reverse, and the cow scoured badly. The water resembled bloody urine; in all the cases I have seen it is of this character. They have a high fever from the first, and suffer the loss of flesh faster than any disease I have seen. The type of the disease is alike, and the same symptoms, and the fatal result as at the first, still continues. So far no cure has been found. There is a wildness in some cases amounting to madness that renders the beast dangerous. There is one thing remarkable, while they have an acute inflammatory fever, with loss of strength and flesh, the most I have seen will eat for the two first days. On the third day the appetite fails entirely, and they die the third or the fourth day.
Some have not lived so long." No diseased cattle to be taken into New Jersey.
Newark, August 12—Gov. Ward has written to Gen. N. Norris Halsted, President of the New Jersey Agricultural Society, calling his attention to the presence of diseased cattle in the State, and asking him to take action under the law giving certain powers to the Society in such emergencies, and suggesting cooperation with township authorities to secure to the people of the State the full benefit of our Sanitary laws. In pursuance of the above, notice has been published that from and after this date all cattle from Illinois, Missouri, and Texas, and all diseased cattle from any other State, are positively forbidden to be brought into this State until this order is revoked.

Cattle Troubles in Missouri.
A cattle war is threatened on the borders of Missouri. A law in Missouri authorizes inspectors of cattle from Texas or the Indian country to turn back on the road whence they come all diseased and unsound cattle, or by virtue of a writ issued by the Sheriff have them killed on the spot. Under the operation of this law many thousands of cattle have accumulated on the borders of Missouri, and the drovers are threatening to force their way through the State, and people of the borders threaten, if the attempt is made, to shoot down the cattle, writ or no writ. The danger of a serious collision between the Government and the drovers is apparent.

IMPARTIAL SUFFRAGE.

This is the great bug-bear of the Democratic party. They can bring no reason or argument to bear against it—in fact, there is nothing that can be opposed to it but prejudice; but with some people prejudice is stronger than reason.

At the formation of this Government and for some time after, all of the original thirteen colonies had colored voters except South Carolina; and the question of colored suffrage never would have arisen had it not been for slavery. Now that slavery is abolished, what argument can be brought against it? Some may say the colored people are not qualified to exercise the elective franchise. Who is to be the judge? In South Carolina the black population is the largest—shall they decide whether the whites of that State shall vote or not? If we believe in a republican form of government—that the majority must rule—and they decide, why not?

It may be urged that the greater portion of the colored people are ignorant. Granted. Is this a reason for not permitting them to vote? Very well; if it is a good reason, why not apply it to whites?

Let any standard of qualification for suffrage be set up, and then let all vote who come up to it. Is this injustice? Does this necessarily make "negro supremacy"? One from reading the Conservative papers would naturally think it did. Very well; if it does, why, lower the standard a little so that all whites can reach it!

Who are they that are so bitterly opposed to impartial suffrage? It is in the South, that very class that have once shown that they themselves were not qualified to exercise this right, and, according to all the laws of nations, have forfeited it; and in the North, it is that class who feel that they have inherited something that they never could have acquired themselves, and were afraid of losing if too many had a chance to compete with them for it.

We can see no reason why intelligent, unprejudiced men can object to impartial suffrage. And if it is simply prejudice that prevents our endorsing it, is it not our duty to overcome that prejudice? We think all our serious difficulties can be amicably settled upon this platform, and believe they will be.

Louisiana has acknowledged it, the New Orleans Times accepts it, and the whole Democratic party of Louisiana are working harder to get the negro votes than ever the Abolitionists did to get their freedom.

Once settle this negro question upon the platform, and believe it will be settled.

we can form new parties if necessary to meet new issues. It does seem that the basis of impartial suffrage ought to be accepted by those who have done their utmost to destroy this Government because the majority of voters did not vote to suit them—and this class are the only ones that object to it.

Letter from Judge Upton.

RATON COUNTY, Aug. 22nd, 1868.

Editors San Antonio Express:

As you kindly published my former letter with regard to the death of my son, please publish the following, in answer to a letter signed "Brazos," which appears in the Galveston News:

I can only say in reply, that the article in question is false from beginning to end. To a honest, reasonable man, it bears its falsity upon its face. If the evidence was thus complete of Mr Upton's guilt, why was he murdered? He had given bonds for his appearance to answer the charge; he had fulfilled all the requirements of the law. No, sir, the charge was trumped up against him in order to disarm him, murder and plunder him. He who signs himself "Brazos," professes to know much of this matter, too much indeed to be lightly trusted as to testimony, he is swift and willing, he probably knows that the testimony of murderers, or their accessories would not be taken in a court of justice, however ready rebels may be to believe or pretend belief in the same.

As to the safety of Union men in Brazos county, let the massacre at Millican answer. "Brazos" may rest assured that an investigation will take place at a proper time, when the evidence can be given without the fear of assassination, which has already been threatened. A people lost to all humanity, like these whom "Brazos" represents, sympathizes with and apologises for, will stickle at no means to cover up their iniquity, however atrocious.

Pardon me gentlemen for troubling you and your readers in this personal matter. I again pronounce the letter signed "Brazos," in the Galveston News, false, and stand ready to prove what I assert, as I before said, when the evidence can be safely given, murderers and their ANKOR'S will probably then occupy the criminal dock and not the witness stand.

Respectfully, yours,

E. P. UPTON.

Speech of Hon. John H. Lippard, of Freestone County.

Delivered on the 6th day of July, 1868, before the Constitutional Convention of Texas.

The report of the committee on Lawlessness and Crime being under consideration, Mr. Lippard said:

Mr. President—I do not wish to weary the convention by making a speech, but gentlemen have taken occasion to say that they want to see the facts alleged in the report of the committee ratified and confirmed.

This, sir, is a strange position for gentlemen to assume in regard to a matter where these or similar facts are patent to every body in the State of Texas. Why, sir, every member on this floor is personally cognizant of facts involving lawlessness and violence as atrocious as anything contained in the report now before the house.

I do not wish to stir up bad blood, but look at that! [Mr. Lippard here exhibited the bloody belt of Captain Culver, the Bureau Agent, who was murdered at Springfield, Limestone county.] There is a belt stained by loyal blood, and the perpetrators of the deed are stalking at large throughout the land. No man was more true and loyal to his government than the owner of this belt, and it was while performing his duty as an officer of the government, that he was ruthlessly shot and murdered, and for no other offence than that he had the courage to do his duty and enforce the law.

The owner of this belt was chief of the Freedmen's Bureau in my county, and it was while urging the claims of the Freedmen to be paid for their labor, that he was shot down by Stewart, a man who, after availing himself of their labors, refused to pay them the amount stipulated for their services, and now this officer lies mouldering in his grave, his death unavenged.

Now, sir, if rebels are grown so defiant in their rebellion, is it not time to take vigorous measures to put down this spirit of hostility, and to teach them that there is a limit to the forbearance of a magnanimous government. If we are to have a renewal of the scenes of the days so recently passed, let us have a quick, a short and a decisive war.

"Surprise weddings" are the latest fashion in Ohio. They take place at night, and are attended by a large number of guests, and are celebrated with a grand display of fireworks.

"Peaceable" Nullification.

In 1860 the rebels notified the people of the North, that if a Black Republican were elected President the Southern States would peacefully secede from the Union, unless the Government undertook to coerce them, in which case they would defend their rights of sovereignty. There were Democrats at the North. In those days, we thought "peaceable secession" possible, and believed that the Union could be dissolved and two hostile republics established—one based upon slavery and the other upon freedom—without bloodshed. Indeed, it was a favorite plan of the Copperheads to dissolve the Union, in the hope of reorganizing it with New England left out altogether or consolidated into one or two States. Old Buchanan dreamed the dream of peaceable secession to the last, and it was not until the flag was fired upon at Fort Sumter that the impossibility of making it a reality was generally admitted.

The rebels now talk about a "peaceable nullification of the laws," and a "peaceable trampling into the dust" of the governments, constitutions and laws of the people of eight States of the Union, just as they talked about peaceable secession in 1860. Seymour favors a peaceable nullification of the laws of Congress, when he knows that such a thing is as impossible as peaceable secession was in 1860, and that an attempt on his part as the Executive of the country to nullify the acts of Congress or to revolutionize the composition of that body by Executive proclamation, would end in his impeachment and deposition, even at the sacrifice of more money and more lives than were sacrificed in the rebellion of 1861-5. Has he counted the cost of such an attempt to destroy the Union? Has he no dread of the avenging wrath of the people? Buchanan ended his days in contempt because he did not lift a hand to avert the storm; but the President who should propose to give active assistance to rebels to decide who shall and who shall not vote a hold office, who shall and who shall not constitute Congress or the State governments, what laws shall and what laws shall not be enforced or nullified, will merit and will receive a sharp and more sudden punishment. Seymour's declaration that he means to effect his treasonable purposes "peaceably," need deceive nobody. In 1860, the rebel cry was for "peaceable secession"; in 1868, it is for "peaceable" nullification. We know, by bitter experience, what peaceable secession meant. We have not yet forgotten the lives lost, the debts contracted, in the war it rendered necessary. So the peace of nullification is the peace of war, bloody, protracted, and likely to be protracted this time until every rebel has been put where it will be impossible for him ever again to plot against his country. [Chicago Tribune.]

We all recollect the little spelling-book story of the farmer's ox being gored by the lawyer's bull, and the manner in which the legal gentleman endeavored to distort the logical deduction in the case. The rebels of the South are playing the role of the dishonest lawyer in their treatment of the colored men. So long as a few of the more ignorant, intimidated by the prospect of starvation or immediate personal injury, can be found to vote the Democratic ticket, they are honest good fellows, and are so pronounced by the rebel journals of the South. The New York Tribune says:

"Deeply interested in this stride towards union and harmony between the two races at the South, the Tribune respectfully asks the Mason Telegraph the following questions:

"Are not the heels of Conservative niggers considerably shorter than those of Radical niggers? Isn't there more comeliness in the conformation of their skin bones? Isn't their color—with the mercury at 100 and rising—decidedly pleasanter?"

Finally, when you shall have elected Seymour and Blair by the votes of John Dupree and other Conservative niggers, do you intend to distribute all niggers, or only Radical niggers? Sa—ay!

Just So.—The Tyler National Index says:

"We are frequently written to, and often asked, what is our convention doing? How are the delegates at Austin progressing with the constitution? Gentlemen, we are very sorry to say, there is very little being done.

Another argument in favor of division: Servants will not work when so far from their masters. It was so in the time of slavery. The most distant fields from the house are generally badly cultivated. We will have to get our convention and Legislature a little nearer home if we wish our business done well and quickly. The people will have to watch them. The delegates from the extreme portions of the State will not work and they will not let the other members do anything. However, they will be at home soon, and will tell us what they haven't done.

Amos Garner, a freedman who lives five or six miles above this place, was taken from his house on Wednesday morning last, two hours before day, by a party of unknown men, and brutally murdered. We learn that the prisoner's inquest failed to elicit anything more than the above facts. We hope the perpetrators of this foul deed may be speedily brought to punishment. [Belton Journal, August 15.]

"The Democratic party of the present day is Democratic in name, and nothing else. The old Jefferson and Jackson principles have been abandoned. The man who did not escape the ropes by three hours, is the author of all to which the Democratic party of present day subscribes. It has not one scintilla of true Democracy to animate its case."—[F. P. Blair.]
