Settlements.

A few years since, England, France and Spain judged this Nation to be expiring in the throes of civil war, and therefore easy game.

Their policy became unfriendly, and even hostile, though in differing degrees.

The French Emperor uttered profound aphorisms about the supremacy of the Latin race in the southern parts of America, and his duty to bolster up that supremacy. Spain and England were invited to join him in recognizing the Confederate government.

Spain was willing, but England was suspicious of Napoleon, and naturally reluctant, after her mortifying Crimean experience, to again take the part of the second fiddle.

She was also fearful of an explosion of her own home democracy, if she thus openly took part against the Great Republic, of which she was the ungracious step-mother.

France went on alone, and established the costly and ill-omened empire of Maximilian.

Spain chose a cheaper and safer course,—she quietly opened her great arsenals at Havana to rebel blockade-runners and corsairs.

England, with supreme and shortsighted selfishness, taking advantage of our extremity, covered the seas with her privateers, and swept out of existence two-thirds of that friendly commerce which she viewed as the rival of her own.

We submitted per force, but have forgotten nothing. Nations have long memories, as well as long arms. Now for the credit side of the ledger.

To France we have given blow for blow. In return for the Emperor's proposed recognition of the Confederacy, we have destroyed the Maximilian government, and tumbled the Latin empire out of Mexico, neck and crop.

That little account is about balanced.

England's turn will come, so soon as she is involved in war with any foreign power. Then a hundred Alabamas will wreak on British ships the lesson we were taught, and the "neutrality" that covered with its shield the pirate's flag, will return to plague the inventor. The Senate meant this when they threw the treaty of Johnson under the table.

The hour for settlement with Spain has struck. We have but to follow the precedent she gave; extend to Cuban insurgents belligerent rights, and give them the same facilities to obtain supplies, recruits and arms, that the Spanish power extended to the contraband vessels of our revolted States.

The Lexington is just, and should stand till superseded by a higher law than Nations are yet willing to observe.

We see no prospect of a Republican State Convention, and think it quite probable that none will be held.

What think you, brethren of the Republican press?—(Austin Republican.)

We have repeatedly expressed, in these columns, our wish for a Convention to form a State ticket for the coming election.

If the Republican party still exists in Texas,—and we have a faint suspicion that it does,—it has a right to choose its standard-bearers; and the most honest and satisfactory mode of making that choice is

No committee chosen merely to carry on the routine of party organization, is competent to say to the loyal people of Texas, who shall fill the Executive chair, or the high offices of State administration. The people have delegated this power to no half dozen persons. They, and they alone, must say who shall be their leaders.

If the popular will is thwarted or suppressed by shrewd management, more than one Richmond may, and probably will, appear in the field, and political defeat ensue.

We present no objection, personally, to the ticket the Austin Republican has published in its columns; but we claim that a Convention is the proper place, and the only place, to stamp a name with the authority of acceptance. Like the mint it turns mere bullion into current coin.

If this is not done, the upward and harmful jealousies now existing between Western and Middle Texas, will be intensified and embittered, to the lasting evil of both.

The position taken by THE EXPRESS, is perfectly outspoken and frank. It will not play the guerilla, nor act a factional part.

It may have its preferences as to men, but those preferences it is willing to subordinate to the general voice of the loyal party, in Convention assembled.

Let us have a Convention, put our best men in the front, and move on to victory with unbroken lines.

A NEW TEAM.—It appears from a highly important dispatch from Jefferson, Texas, to New Orleans, that "the north-eastern part of Texas has declared for A. J. Hamilton and B. W. Gray for Governor and Lieutenant-Governor. The Jefferson Democrat, a Conservative paper, holds the ticket. Their claims have the support of the leading citizens of all parties." Colonel Jack and Old Gray may make a strong team for North-eastern Texas; but it won't answer for Jack's backers in the Central district. Gray was a favorite color with the Confederates, and must no longer be tolerated. Dr. Boulds Baker is the chosen standard-bearer for Lieutenant-Governor.—[Galveston Civilian.]

Judge Gray, Dr. Boulds Baker, James Armstrong of Jasper, M. L. Armstrong of Lamar, A. P. McCormick of Brazoria, and others whose names we do not recall, have been mentioned for the position of Lieutenant-Governor.

Of those given above, our own preference is strongly and decidedly in favor of Mr. McCormick.

But in order to harmonize these different claims, and to unite the loyal men on one ticket, a Convention is needed. The party is in danger of flying into fragments without it.

FLAKE'S BULLETIN, in a recent obituary notice of the Rev. Mr. Gillette, states that he lived in Baltimore, that he was dismissed from Austin, and that his dismissal arose from his refusal to pray for the Confederate President.

The notice is a model of accurate biography, with the slight exceptions that the Reverend gentleman lived in Brooklyn, not Baltimore; that he was not dismissed, but resigned; and that the difficulty arose, not from refusing to pray for Jeff. Davis (for Mr. Gillette held that no man needed praying for more than he), but because he would not use the words "which had been forced upon us," in a prayer composed by Bishop Gregg, referring to the war.

THE AUSTIN REPUBLICAN wants the new converts to the Republican party that they must play the part of the poor man at the country frolic, and have nothing to say. That paper says "that the Union men of Texas—we mean those who have always been Union—are to arrange all the details of Reconstruction," and that "they are the victors, and they will not be dictated to in regard to their own business;" that A. J. Hamilton "can afford to be defeated for Governor," intimating that reconstruction will be delayed until Radicals are given all the power, and saying that conservatives "may prepare for trouble, or abandon all hope of seeing a Democratic government in Texas." To which the Houston Union, which is put down as one of the liberal Republican papers, adds: "That is the way to talk, and it expresses the unanimous sentiment of every true Republican in the State."—Gal. Civilian.

The San Antonio Herald, (formerly democratic) meekly swallows this heavy dose of Castor oil, administered to it by the Republican.

It will not oppose the election of that paper's ticket, unless the democrats nominate better men, and "they would be hard to find."

It rather enjoys "playing the part of the poor man at the frolic," or perhaps, as Brigham Young once said of matrimony, he has not had sufficient experience in the matter to give an

SHOWING HIS KARS.—Our contemporary complains because we published, without note or comment, a news item relative to a public lawsuit of great importance and involving a vast amount. It would seem that he regards any allusion to the "late unpleasantness" as a resort to "personalities."

Doth the galled jade wince?

ANCHOR HIM OUT.—Our supporter of the Austin Republican ticket in this city, reveals in his editorial of yesterday, a "drefful" squinting towards repudiation. This is not a case of backsliding, but rather of infantile weakness in the new faith. Like Elder Knapps convert, one dip into the healing water of Republicanism, is not sufficient to cleanse him of his ancient errors. He must be anchored out in the deep waters of loyalty for a while.

Formal Announcement of A. J. Hamilton.

WASHINGTON, D. D., March 18, 1869.

To F. Flake, Galveston:

The Press of Texas may announce me as a candidate for Governor.

A. J. HAMILTON.

Molasses to catch flies.

Without casting the shade of a shadow of doubt upon the loyalty of H. J. Hamilton, or believing for a moment that he would be a party to any agreement which would place in power those who would seek to perpetuate the principles of the late rebellion, we earnestly desire to know who is to be the second horse in the team. If the gray mare is to be the more powerful horse—that is if Mr. Hamilton is to be translated to the Senate in order that another man may be the Governor, then we want to know who that man will be before we enter into the arrangement. To command the support of loyal men, Mr. Hamilton must have for a companion a man whose loyalty is unquestioned, and who is too strong to be manipulated and turned about.—[Flake's Bulletin.]

From the Anti-Slavery Standard.

Wendell Phillips endorses the President.

We have felt and said that the course of General Grant was open to grave criticism. But we have always judged him by his actions, always allowing that he meant all he said, and would do all he promised.

We propose the same rule in time to come. We shall take his words for earnestly meant, and we shall wait for action before we criticize him in his new office.

Thus far we have only thanks to give him. For three things in his inaugural we desire to give him credit. With full heart, and most earnestly, we thank him for his frank, prompt and hearty endorsement of the constitutional amendment. The words in which he refers to it show that his heart is in the right place, and that he cordially accepts the lesson of the war. If emancipation made Lincoln the slave's President, the precious and statesmanlike words made Grant the negro's President.

We hail with similar feeling his assertion that his policy looks to the "citizenship" of the Indian. Let him cover the Indian with this shield, and give him, for the present at least, a Department in the Cabinet which shall watch his rights, and President Grant will have met these two great problems of race with a brave and wise, as well as just, statesmanship.

The third pledge of his inaugural we hail, is that which promises a vigorous and rigorous execution of law. We trust that here his words mean literally all they say, and only wish they had been more decisive and unequivocal. Our complaint of Grant hitherto has been that he held power without using it; that he has sat and seen Union men murdered unavenged. Some of his friends excused him on the ground that President Johnson crippled the General. At last the Ku-Klux have left the White House. Those midnight cowards need only half a dozen summary executions in as many States to disappear forever. If we were in the Senate we would confirm no man for any office from any Southern State, Kentucky included, (not even Holt,) till life was as safe there as in Vermont. Shoot and hang first; nominate and confirm afterward.

We say amen, most heartily, to all the inaugural contains about public credit and payment in gold. But there is a debt just as sacred as the bonds, the debt we owe to the Southern loyalist, black and white. This debt is their immediate and perfect protection. If either debt is entitled to precedence this comes first in obligation and importance. This is to be paid in blood long before the other is paid in coin. The bondholder only gains by waiting. For these other creditors every hour indescribable gain. The Government's faith with the bondholder has never been broken. Towards this other creditor the Government has been perjured and faithless for four bitter years. We beseech Grant to send men South whose very names shall mean vengeance, deep, terrible and most effective vengeance. Put aside sham Governors and paltering officials, and give us the "peace" which is sure to follow the drawn sword in the hands of a prompt, honest man.

The bondholder paid will give us credit to borrow in case of another rebellion. This debt promptly paid will render another impossible. It will flood the South with capital and brains, the two enemies against which she rebelled, and which her madness and Johnson's have been striving to get along without.

Congress cannot reconstruct the South—law can. Safety for money and men will. Such a man as Butler in New Orleans is worth now more than a mule-load of laws. Hang twenty assassins in every Southern capitol six hours after they are arrested, and you will empty half the bank vaults of Christendom into the South; you will light up all its forges and crowd its exchanges with business men. This is the way, Soldier of the Wilderness, to "hammer" the rebellion to pieces—Make your vengeance so swift, sure and terrible that the mere name of a "Union man" may be as ample protection even on the Del Norte as that of a "Roman citizen" was to St. Paul at Jerusalem.

The Cabinet gives no indication to the President's plan. It rather shows that he has none, for it means nothing. Massachusetts furnishes all the first rate brains it contains.

Thomas Campbell made a selection from the English poets on the plan of excluding every piece any other previous compiler had taken. Of course they, the first comers, had taken the best, and accordingly all Campbell's pieces are second-rate. Grant's Cabinet follows this copy. He excludes every one that anybody ever thought of. Of course he takes the leavings.

But this only means that the people are, as hitherto, to do the work.

Press the constitutional amendment. Press the Executive for a strong arm of resolute law throughout the South. If the South loves blood, let her sup full of it; only let it be the blood of assassins. Sheath no sword until honest Union men, black and white, native and foreign, alone and in companies, on lonely prairies and in city streets, sit, each under his own vine and fig tree—the Stars and Stripes—with none to molest or make them afraid.

WENDELL PHILLIPS.

YESTERDAY we received a visit from J. W. Gregory, the veritable castor bean man, of Texas. He says there are now some 2000 acres of castor beans planted in Texas, and has agreed to buy all the crop raised at five cents per pound. He presented us some of the beans, but we did not taste them. They look healthy, and we have no doubt the culture will be highly profitable. Castor oil is the most common of drugs, and thousands of gallons are sold every year. The bean is necessary for its manufacture, and we are glad this new article of commerce is about to be introduced in this State. Mr. Gregory has the energy to push it successfully forward.—Galveston Dispatch.

ARLINGTON.—At Arlington, one mile across the Potomac, in view of the city of Washington, nature and the former owners have done much. A noble Virginia mansion, embraced in ancestral trees, keeps guard over the endless ranks and files of headboards, which, for thirty acres, tell of an army of fifteen thousand men slumbering beneath. On a moonlight night the visitor is irresistibly reminded of Zedlitz's beautiful poem, where the dead Napoleon, in his gray surcoat and little cocked hat, reviews the shadowy host, Die hingen alien schwebend, whom the Nile mud and the ice of Russia have released for an hour of ghostly homage to their dead leader, on the Elysian fields. Happier our soldiers, whom only the summons of Liberty can be supposed to awaken, if needed in future dangers of the Republic!—[Extract from a letter in the New York Nation of March 4 on "National Cemeteries."]

UNDER Isabella the island of Cuba was made to yield an annual revenue of thirty-three millions of dollars; in the year 1867 the amount extorted actually reached sixty millions. All this money flowed into the royal treasury at Madrid, while the Cuban officials were badly paid, the roads neglected, and education left to take care of itself. No wonder the Cubans desire to sever so unprofitable a connection.

A pickpocket in New Orleans stole a portmanteau containing a few dollars from a lady's pocket, and by some accident dropped in its place a valuable diamond ring. The lady pocketed the insult without a dol-

THE select committee of the Wisconsin Legislature is unanimous in favor of the repeal of the law of that State which makes imprisonment for life the highest penalty for murder. The majority report of the committee declares that murder in the first degree should be punished with death.

In San Francisco, Cal., recently, a woman who had a long-standing grudge against a sister-in-law, affected good will, invited the sister-in-law to her house, had her nurse the baby, and then let her know that the baby had the small-pox.

A lady of our acquaintance, who had a long experience as house-keeper, and knows something of the insolence of servants, declares that she always finds, contradictory though it may seem, those servants that don't "answer" suit her best.

CIRCUS.—Noyes great Circus is coming to San Antonio, and will perform four days. Noyes Circus will be well remembered by all who attended its performances in 1865 and 1866.

TELEGRAMS.—As we predicted, we had no telegrams yesterday. The wires were down somewhere between Houston and New Orleans.

BACK FROM NEW YORK.—Several of our principal merchants have returned from New York, where they made large purchases of goods for our market.

OUR LOCAL.—The Herald Local is in a quandary as to who our local may be. He suggests a new name every morning. Did he ever hear of the man who became wealthy by minding his own business?

SUCH PRICES.—Hartman, Eggar & Co. are selling out the large and well-selected stock of Lovenstein & Co., at prices that astonish the purchaser.

No NEWS.—The old city of San Antonio is now the most peaceable of the cities of Texas. No more murders, no attempts to kill, no assaults, with which to fill a local column.

Our negro population behave as well as can be expected from them. They are quiet, laborious, and make money enough to purchase, from time to time, little tracts of land and build homesteads.

HORACE WATERS.

Testimonials.
The Waters' Pianos are known as among the very best.—N. Y. Evangelist.
We can speak of the merits of the Waters' Pianos from personal knowledge as being of the very best quality.—Christian Intelligencer.
The Waters' Pianos are built of the best and most thoroughly seasoned material.—Advocate and Journal.
Our friends will find at Mr. Waters' store the very best assortment of Pianos, Melodeons and Organs to be found in the United States.—Graham's Magazine.
MUSICAL DOXUS.—Since Mr. Waters gave up publishing sheet music, he has devoted his whole capital and attention to the manufacture and sale of Pianos and Melodeons. He has just issued a catalogue of his new instruments, giving a new scale of prices, which shows a marked reduction from former rates, and his Pianos have recently been awarded the First Premium at several Fairs. Many people of the present day, who are actuated, if not confused, with the flaming advertisements of rival piano houses, probably overlook the modest manufacturer like Mr. Waters; but we happen to know that his instruments earned him a good reputation long before Expositions and "honors" connected therewith, were even thought of; indeed, we have one of Mr. Waters' Pianos-fortes now in our residence (where it has stood for years), of which any manufacturer in the world might well be proud. We have always been delighted with it as a sweet-toned and powerful instrument, and there is no doubt of its durability; more than this, so one of the best amateur players in the city, as well as several celebrated pianists, have performed on the same piano, and all pronounce it a superior and first class instrument. Stronger endorsement we could not give.—Home Journal. (feb19'93dtf)
