OFFICIAL.
LAW OF THE
UNITED STATES,
Passed at the Second Session of the Forty-Second Congress.
[GENERAL NATURE NO. 118.]
AN ACT to revise, consolidate, and amend the statutes relating to the Post-Office Department.
Sec. 267. That the Postmaster General may, after advertising for proposals, enter into contracts for the transportation of the mail between the United States and any foreign country, or between ports of the United States and any foreign port, or between ports of the United States touching at a foreign port, shall be transported by steamship; but the Postmaster General may have such transportation performed by sailing-vessels when the service can be facilitated thereby.
Sec. 268. That for transporting the mail between the United States and any foreign port, or between ports of the United States touching at a foreign port, shall be transported by steamship, any sum not exceeding the rate fixed for any one default shall not exceed one-half the contract price for the trip.
Sec. 269. That every contractor for transporting the mail between the United States and any foreign port, or between ports of the United States touching at a foreign port, shall be bound to transport the mail in accordance with the terms of his contract, and all such assignments or transfers shall be null and void.
Sec. 270. That every contractor for transporting the mail between the United States and any foreign port, or between ports of the United States touching at a foreign port, shall be bound to transport the mail in accordance with the terms of his contract, and all such assignments or transfers shall be null and void.
Sec. 271. That every contractor for transporting the mail between the United States and any foreign port, or between ports of the United States touching at a foreign port, shall be bound to transport the mail in accordance with the terms of his contract, and all such assignments or transfers shall be null and void.
Sec. 272. That every contractor for transporting the mail between the United States and any foreign port, or between ports of the United States touching at a foreign port, shall be bound to transport the mail in accordance with the terms of his contract, and all such assignments or transfers shall be null and void.
Sec. 273. That every contractor for transporting the mail between the United States and any foreign port, or between ports of the United States touching at a foreign port, shall be bound to transport the mail in accordance with the terms of his contract, and all such assignments or transfers shall be null and void.
Sec. 274. That every contractor for transporting the mail between the United States and any foreign port, or between ports of the United States touching at a foreign port, shall be bound to transport the mail in accordance with the terms of his contract, and all such assignments or transfers shall be null and void.
Sec. 275. That every contractor for transporting the mail between the United States and any foreign port, or between ports of the United States touching at a foreign port, shall be bound to transport the mail in accordance with the terms of his contract, and all such assignments or transfers shall be null and void.
Sec. 276. That every contractor for transporting the mail between the United States and any foreign port, or between ports of the United States touching at a foreign port, shall be bound to transport the mail in accordance with the terms of his contract, and all such assignments or transfers shall be null and void.

from a United States post-office when delivering, or the postage paid thereon justly falling to do so, or for conveying such letters or any letters intended to be conveyed in any ship or vessel of such foreign country over or across the United States, or any portion thereof, the party offending shall, on conviction, forfeit and pay not exceeding one thousand dollars for each offense.
Sec. 278. That any person who shall knowingly or negligently detain, or destroy any mail matter, deposited in any letter-box, pillar-box or other receptacle established by authority of the Postmaster General for the safe deposit of matter for the mail or for delivery, or who shall willfully aid or assist in detaining such mail-matter, shall, on conviction thereof, for every such offense, forfeit and pay not more than five hundred dollars, or be imprisoned not more than three years, at the discretion of the court.
Sec. 279. That any person employed in any department of the postal service who shall secretly, embezzle, or destroy any letter, packet, bag, or mail of letters intrusted to him, or which shall come into his possession, and which was intended to be conveyed by mail, or carried or delivered by any mail carrier, mail-messenger, route-agent, letter-carrier, or other person employed in any department of the postal service, or who shall, in any department established by authority of the Postmaster General, on which shall contain any note, bond, draft, check, warrant, revenue receipt, postage stamp, stamped envelope, postal card, money-order, certificate of stock, or other pecuniary obligation or security of the government, or of any officer or fiscal agent thereof, of any description whatever, or any bank-note, bank post-bill, bill of exchange, or note of assignment of stock in the funds; or any letter of attorney for receiving annuities or dividends, selling stock in the funds, or collecting the interest thereof; or any letter of credit, note, bond, warrant, draft, bill, promissory note, covenant, contract, or agreement, whatsoever, for or relating to the payment of money, or the delivery of any article of value, or the performance of any act, matter, or thing; or any receipt, release, acquittance, or discharge of or from any debt, covenant, or demand, or any part thereof; or any copy of any other record, or of any other article of value, or writing representing the same; any such person who shall steal or take any of the things aforesaid, or any letter, packet, bag, or mail of letters which shall have come into his possession, either in the regular course of his official duties, or in any other manner whatever, and provide the same shall not have been delivered to the party to whom it is directed, or any post-office, or on conviction thereof, for every such offense, be imprisoned at hard labor not less than one nor more than five years.
Sec. 280. That the fact that any letter, packet, bag, or mail of letters shall have been deposited in any post-office established by authority of the Postmaster General, or in any other authorized depository for mail matter, or in charge of any postmaster, assistant, clerk, carrier, agent, or messenger employed in any department of the postal service, shall be taken and held to be evidence that the same was "intended to be conveyed by mail" within the meaning of this statute.
Sec. 281. That any person who shall steal the mail, or post or take from or out of any mail, or post office, or other authorized depository for mail-matter, any letter or packet; or any person who shall take the mail, or any letter or packet therefrom, or from any post-office, branch post-office, or other authorized depository for mail-matter, with or without the consent of the person having custody thereof, and open, embezzle or destroy, any such mail, letter, or packet, or any letter, note, bond, draft, check, warrant, revenue receipt, postage stamp, stamped envelope, money-order, certificate of stock, or other pecuniary obligation or security of the government, or of any officer or fiscal agent thereof, of any description whatever, or any bank-note, bank post-bill, bill of exchange, or note of assignment of stock in the funds; or any letter of attorney for receiving annuities or dividends, selling stock in the funds, or collecting the interest thereof; or any letter of credit, note, bond, warrant, draft, bill, promissory note, covenant, contract, or agreement, whatsoever for or relating to the payment of money, or the delivery of any article of value, or the performance of any act, matter, or thing; or any receipt, release, acquittance, or discharge of or from any debt, covenant, or demand, or any part thereof; or any copy of any other record, or of any other article of value, or writing representing the same any person who shall, by fraud or deception, obtain from any person having custody thereof, any such mail, letter or packet, containing any such article of value aforesaid, every such person, not being employed in any department of the postal service, shall, on conviction thereof, for every such offense, be imprisoned at hard labor not less than one nor more than five years.
Sec. 282. That any person who shall be necessary after the fact to the offense of stealing or taking any letter, postal card, or other matter, or any such article of value, or any other offense against the postal laws, shall, on conviction thereof, forfeit and pay not exceeding one thousand dollars, and be imprisoned not exceeding five years, and such success after the fact may be tried, convicted, and punished in the district in which his offense was committed, though the principal offense may have been committed in another district; and such trial, conviction, and punishment may be before that of the principal offender, when such principal offender has fled from justice or cannot be arrested to be put on trial.
Sec. 283. That any person who shall buy, receive, or conceal, or aid in buying, receiving, or concealing any note, bond, draft, check, warrant, revenue receipt, postage stamp, stamped envelope, postal card, money-order, certificate of stock, or other pecuniary obligation or security of the government, or of any officer or fiscal agent thereof, of any description whatever; or bank-note, bank post-bill, bill of exchange, or note of assignment of stock in the funds; or any letter of attorney for receiving annuities, or dividends, selling stock in the funds, or collecting the interest thereof; or any letter of credit, note, bond, warrant, draft, bill, promissory note, covenant, contract, or agreement, whatsoever, for or relating to the payment of money or the delivery of any article of value, or the performance of any act, matter, or thing; or any receipt, release, acquittance, or discharge of or from any debt, covenant, or demand, or any part thereof; or any copy of any other record, or of any other article of value, or writing representing the same, shall, on conviction thereof, for every such offense, be imprisoned at hard labor not less than one nor more than five years.
Sec. 284. That any person who shall be necessary after the fact to the offense of stealing or taking any letter, postal card, or other matter, or any such article of value, or any other offense against the postal laws, shall, on conviction thereof, forfeit and pay not exceeding one thousand dollars, and be imprisoned not exceeding five years, and such success after the fact may be tried, convicted, and punished in the district in which his offense was committed, though the principal offense may have been committed in another district; and such trial, conviction, and punishment may be before that of the principal offender, when such principal offender has fled from justice or cannot be arrested to be put on trial.
Sec. 285. That any person who shall buy, receive, or conceal, or aid in buying, receiving, or concealing any note, bond, draft, check, warrant, revenue receipt, postage stamp, stamped envelope, postal card, money-order, certificate of stock, or other pecuniary obligation or security of the government, or of any officer or fiscal agent thereof, of any description whatever; or bank-note, bank post-bill, bill of exchange, or note of assignment of stock in the funds; or any letter of attorney for receiving annuities, or dividends, selling stock in the funds, or collecting the interest thereof; or any letter of credit, note, bond, warrant, draft, bill, promissory note, covenant, contract, or agreement, whatsoever, for or relating to the payment of money or the delivery of any article of value, or the performance of any act, matter, or thing; or any receipt, release, acquittance, or discharge of or from any debt, covenant, or demand, or any part thereof; or any copy of any other record, or of any other article of value, or writing representing the same, shall, on conviction thereof, for every such offense, be imprisoned at hard labor not less than one nor more than five years.
Sec. 286. That any person who shall be necessary after the fact to the offense of stealing or taking any letter, postal card, or other matter, or any such article of value, or any other offense against the postal laws, shall, on conviction thereof, forfeit and pay not exceeding one thousand dollars, and be imprisoned not exceeding five years, and such success after the fact may be tried, convicted, and punished in the district in which his offense was committed, though the principal offense may have been committed in another district; and such trial, conviction, and punishment may be before that of the principal offender, when such principal offender has fled from justice or cannot be arrested to be put on trial.
Sec. 287. That any person who shall buy, receive, or conceal, or aid in buying, receiving, or concealing any note, bond, draft, check, warrant, revenue receipt, postage stamp, stamped envelope, postal card, money-order, certificate of stock, or other pecuniary obligation or security of the government, or of any officer or fiscal agent thereof, of any description whatever; or bank-note, bank post-bill, bill of exchange, or note of assignment of stock in the funds; or any letter of attorney for receiving annuities, or dividends, selling stock in the funds, or collecting the interest thereof; or any letter of credit, note, bond, warrant, draft, bill, promissory note, covenant, contract, or agreement, whatsoever, for or relating to the payment of money or the delivery of any article of value, or the performance of any act, matter, or thing; or any receipt, release, acquittance, or discharge of or from any debt, covenant, or demand, or any part thereof; or any copy of any other record, or of any other article of value, or writing representing the same, shall, on conviction thereof, for every such offense, be imprisoned at hard labor not less than one nor more than five years.
Sec. 288. That any person who shall be necessary after the fact to the offense of stealing or taking any letter, postal card, or other matter, or any such article of value, or any other offense against the postal laws, shall, on conviction thereof, forfeit and pay not exceeding one thousand dollars, and be imprisoned not exceeding five years, and such success after the fact may be tried, convicted, and punished in the district in which his offense was committed, though the principal offense may have been committed in another district; and such trial, conviction, and punishment may be before that of the principal offender, when such principal offender has fled from justice or cannot be arrested to be put on trial.
Sec. 289. That any person who shall buy, receive, or conceal, or aid in buying, receiving, or concealing any note, bond, draft, check, warrant, revenue receipt, postage stamp, stamped envelope, postal card, money-order, certificate of stock, or other pecuniary obligation or security of the government, or of any officer or fiscal agent thereof, of any description whatever; or bank-note, bank post-bill, bill of exchange, or note of assignment of stock in the funds; or any letter of attorney for receiving annuities, or dividends, selling stock in the funds, or collecting the interest thereof; or any letter of credit, note, bond, warrant, draft, bill, promissory note, covenant, contract, or agreement, whatsoever, for or relating to the payment of money or the delivery of any article of value, or the performance of any act, matter, or thing; or any receipt, release, acquittance, or discharge of or from any debt, covenant, or demand, or any part thereof; or any copy of any other record, or of any other article of value, or writing representing the same, shall, on conviction thereof, for every such offense, be imprisoned at hard labor not less than one nor more than five years.
Sec. 290. That any person who shall be necessary after the fact to the offense of stealing or taking any letter, postal card, or other matter, or any such article of value, or any other offense against the postal laws, shall, on conviction thereof, forfeit and pay not exceeding one thousand dollars, and be imprisoned not exceeding five years, and such success after the fact may be tried, convicted, and punished in the district in which his offense was committed, though the principal offense may have been committed in another district; and such trial, conviction, and punishment may be before that of the principal offender, when such principal offender has fled from justice or cannot be arrested to be put on trial.
Sec. 291. That any person who shall buy, receive, or conceal, or aid in buying, receiving, or concealing any note, bond, draft, check, warrant, revenue receipt, postage stamp, stamped envelope, postal card, money-order, certificate of stock, or other pecuniary obligation or security of the government, or of any officer or fiscal agent thereof, of any description whatever; or bank-note, bank post-bill, bill of exchange, or note of assignment of stock in the funds; or any letter of attorney for receiving annuities, or dividends, selling stock in the funds, or collecting the interest thereof; or any letter of credit, note, bond, warrant, draft, bill, promissory note, covenant, contract, or agreement, whatsoever, for or relating to the payment of money or the delivery of any article of value, or the performance of any act, matter, or thing; or any receipt, release, acquittance, or discharge of or from any debt, covenant, or demand, or any part thereof; or any copy of any other record, or of any other article of value, or writing representing the same, shall, on conviction thereof, for every such offense, be imprisoned at hard labor not less than one nor more than five years.
Sec. 292. That any person who shall be necessary after the fact to the offense of stealing or taking any letter, postal card, or other matter, or any such article of value, or any other offense against the postal laws, shall, on conviction thereof, forfeit and pay not exceeding one thousand dollars, and be imprisoned not exceeding five years, and such success after the fact may be tried, convicted, and punished in the district in which his offense was committed, though the principal offense may have been committed in another district; and such trial, conviction, and punishment may be before that of the principal offender, when such principal offender has fled from justice or cannot be arrested to be put on trial.
Sec. 293. That any person who shall buy, receive, or conceal, or aid in buying, receiving, or concealing any note, bond, draft, check, warrant, revenue receipt, postage stamp, stamped envelope, postal card, money-order, certificate of stock, or other pecuniary obligation or security of the government, or of any officer or fiscal agent thereof, of any description whatever; or bank-note, bank post-bill, bill of exchange, or note of assignment of stock in the funds; or any letter of attorney for receiving annuities, or dividends, selling stock in the funds, or collecting the interest thereof; or any letter of credit, note, bond, warrant, draft, bill, promissory note, covenant, contract, or agreement, whatsoever, for or relating to the payment of money or the delivery of any article of value, or the performance of any act, matter, or thing; or any receipt, release, acquittance, or discharge of or from any debt, covenant, or demand, or any part thereof; or any copy of any other record, or of any other article of value, or writing representing the same, shall, on conviction thereof, for every such offense, be imprisoned at hard labor not less than one nor more than five years.
Sec. 294. That any person who shall be necessary after the fact to the offense of stealing or taking any letter, postal card, or other matter, or any such article of value, or any other offense against the postal laws, shall, on conviction thereof, forfeit and pay not exceeding one thousand dollars, and be imprisoned not exceeding five years, and such success after the fact may be tried, convicted, and punished in the district in which his offense was committed, though the principal offense may have been committed in another district; and such trial, conviction, and punishment may be before that of the principal offender, when such principal offender has fled from justice or cannot be arrested to be put on trial.

Mr. M. G. Anderson followed upon the same terms.

Mr. E. Navarro announced himself as a candidate for the office of Hide and Cattle Inspector in like manner.

The Committee reported the following names who were elected:

H. Degener, C. Elmendorf, A. F. Wulf, S. G. Newton, A. J. Lockwood, W. H. Houston, J. W. Van Slyck, R. W. Peay, Eugenio Navarro, J. M. Chavez, F. Martinez, Wm. Reed, Solomon White, and Henry Mills.

Mr. A. J. Lockwood was then upon motion duly elected Chairman of the County Executive Committee.

The candidates for District Attorney being next in order, a motion to apply the two-thirds rule being defeated.

Mr. G. Liek received the nomination for the office of County Treasurer, and Mr. Eugenio Navarro for the office of Hide and Cattle Inspector.

Upon motion the Convention decided to make no nomination for the office of County Surveyor, leaving the selection to the County Executive Committee; whereupon the Convention adjourned sine die.

BUREAU OF IMMIGRATION, OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT, Houston, Tex. Aug. 27th, '72.

Sir! A large tide of immigration being expected for our State next Fall, it is undoubtedly the interest of every county to disseminate a true account of itself, give a short description, such as appeared in the Texas Almanac of 1867 and 1871, and thereby assist the immigrant to choose his future home.

Very Respectfully, GUSTAVE LOEFFLER, Superintendent of Immigration.

There is so much lying in the campaign on both sides, said a political contemporary, that we find ourselves at a loss to determine which side we will lie on.

An admirer of Alexander Stephens thinks if the "Straights" should nominate him for the Presidency his letter of acceptance would be forty-one miles long.

The Cleveland Greeleyites have refused to pay the expenses of the one hundred guns fired over the North Carolina election, and evince a desire to go into bankruptcy.

The inhabitants of New Mexico must either be better educated than those of other parts of the country, or else think they have no need of "book learning," as at a recent election the vote for establishing free schools stood 37 for and 3,076 against.

In answer to a subscriber who complains that it "mixes religion and politics," the Christian Science makes answer: "We should like to know what that kind of religion is good for that is not 'mixed' with politics, as well as with business, social relations, and all the affairs of life! And we should like particularly to inquire whether politics is suffering just now from too great an infusion of religion?"

Notes from Washington.

Campaign Intelligence—The Canvas in Maine—The New England and North western States—The President in Washington—Cabinet Meeting—His Views on Current Topics.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 16th, 1872. THE LATEST CAMPAIGN INTELLIGENCE.

In a round among the Departments this morning I visited the Republican Committee rooms and was shown some of the latest letters and reports from State committees and speakers now out in the different States doing duty in their country's cause.

In Maine the contest is sharp, but the Republicans are not only confident of a victory in the State elections, but of giving Grant and Wilson the electoral vote in November.

The Greely Liberal Republican Democratic Committee in Portland have been lately disappointed in some of their speakers, engaged at a heavy cost.

The North Carolina victory has, it is reported, sent many who were wavering in Connecticut, over to the Republican ranks.

Of Pennsylvania I think I can speak with confidence. The threatened split of the Republican party on the State election has been avoided, and they are united on the nominees.

Very Respectfully, GUSTAVE LOEFFLER, Superintendent of Immigration.

An ex-convict, just out of the Baton Rouge penitentiary, says the inmates of that institution are a clever set of fellows. "In that whole crowd," to use his own words, "There is not a single d—d Black Republican. Even the niggers in there are for Greeley!" They all believe in the one-term principle, and the gospel of "reform," according to Warmoth.—N. O. National Republican.

understood, and the statements fail to produce the effects intended.

THE PRESIDENT IN WASHINGTON. The president arrived in Washington two days ago, and held Cabinet meeting today. So smoothly are the affairs of State running, that there was actually nothing of importance demanding the attention of his Cabinet.

Mr. Douglass did not complain because he was not invited by him to dinner, he did not see why Senator Sumner should exhibit so much anxiety, if not indignation, upon the subject.

The President remarked that no public business is neglected by his absence from Washington, as he attends to it at Long Branch.

The conversation turning on the remark of Senator Sumner that Mr. Greeley is a better friend to the black man than President Grant, the President replied that he never pretended to be, as he had repeatedly said, an original abolitionist, but he favored emancipation as a war measure, and when this was thought of the ballot should be conferred to make the gift complete, to place those who had been liberated in the full possession of the rights of freemen.

In the course of the conversation he said that while a President should be in accord with the leading principles of the party electing him, it was essential that he should enforce laws which may be enacted, and administer the government not in the interests of a party, but in those of the entire country.
