THE DAINTY WARDRODG.

Cherela-a little drawer in my chamber, Gnarded with tender care Where the dainty cluthes are lying That my darling shall never wear; And there, while the hours are waning, Till the house is all at rest I sit, and fancy a baby ... Close to my aching breast. Jewelry, Silver-ware, Plated-ware

My darling's pretty white garments, I wrought them white sitting apart, While his mystic life was throbbing Under my throbbing heart;
And often my happy dreaming
Breaks in a little song.
Like the murmur of birds at brooding.
When the days are warm and long. Fine Pocket and Table Cutlery,

> With robes of the finest muslin,
> And robes of the whitest weel, And reves of the whitest weel,
> I folded them all together,
> With a reas for every pair,
> Smiling, and saying, "Gom fragment,
> Fit for my prince to wear."

Ah! the radiant summer morning, No full of a mether's jey! Thank God, he is fair and perfect, My beautiful new bern boy Let him wear the pretty white garments I wrought while sitting apart, Lav him, so sweet and belpless

There, close to my threbbing heart

I sit since my baby came, laying, "What do the angels call him?" Saving, "What do the aname; For he died without a name; And the house is all at reet, And fancy a baby nestling Close to my sching breast.

> [From the N. Y. Tribune.] A Life Insurance Suit.

An insurance suit is now in pro gress before Judge Barrett, in the upreme Court, between Mrs. Ruth Dean and the Astna Life. In 1866 her late busband, Henry Dean, took out two participating policies tor $5,000 and $10,000, and the premium, which was due September 20, was payable half in cash and half in note. On September 20, 1869, the premium was not paid as the contract provided, and the company contended that, by the condition of the policy which announces a forfeiture in case of a lack of punctnality in payment, the policy was forfeited. On the other hand, the plaintiff came forward with the statement that on or before September 20 an agreement was made between Mr. Morton (the general agent of the company) and her husband that the payment should be leterred until November 5, and that then one quarter of the cash payment should be made, and the other notes at thirty, wixty and ninety woods.

Origin of Names of States.

There is much that is interesting in the study of the origin of the names of the States of the Union, as they are derived from a variety of sources.
