City Takes Stand On Bottles, Cans

Members of the Muleshoe City Council agreed to join the State of Texas in a law suit which was filed by U.S. Steel, questioning the constitutionality of the current one cent city sales tax. It was agreed the $70 required to join the law suit would be a worthy investment in clarifying points of law in the city sales tax presently charged. With no action taken during the meeting, it was agreed to allow City Manager Dave Marr check into the possibility of a 'key' operation for gas service for the present 35 city-owned vehicles. Marr explained that to get two pumps set up, with 40 keys, the initial cost would be about $2,500, but this was expected to be relieved in closer check of gas usage of city vehicles. In other activity, the entire city council unanimously reiterated their previous stand in complete support of Muleshoe City Police Chief Johnny Richards and his officers. The strong statement of support was issued after council members came out of executive session. An executive session had been declared necessary after Aaron Lee, Monty Gafford and two other young people appeared before the city council protesting being 'harrassed' on the Muleshoe State Bank parking lot. After agreeing that they knew the parking lot was private property, the young people said they resented the police harrassing them and requiring them to pick up smashed beer bottles and cans from the parking lot. The complaint was made following an incident on the parking lot Saturday night, during which time Lee told the council he was

Cotton And Corn Loss Reported To Be Heavy

Last week's rain, wind and sand also brought another problem to a wide area north of Lazbuddie. Some fields were left shredded by a major hail storm which centered its fury apparently on the J.W. Gammon and Roy Miller farms some six miles north of Lazbuddie. A drive through the area shows abundant green fields, with big healthy crops, then suddenly right into the damaged area, corn, cotton and soybeans are devastated. Mrs. Gammon said they have heavy damage to some 200 acres of corn, with some seed companies saying they will be able to get a little ensilage from the crop and others saying that by applying liquid nutrients some corn may be salvaged. She said her husband is currently watering the crop in an effort to salvage what will be possible from the heavily damaged crop. Across the road south of the Gammon farm is the Roy Miller home farm. Corn has been stripped of outer leaves, and in many instances, the stalks have fallen. Cotton is stripped down to a stalk, with occasional blooms providing the only

Search Doesn't Turn Up Missing $10,000 Bond Money

According to Bailey County Sheriff Dee Clements Monday afternoon, the $10,000 from the vault at the Bailey County Law Enforcement Center is still missing.

He returned to his home Sunday to recuperate from double surgery in Lubbock and said the mystery has not been solved.

Sheriff Clements said that all Sheriff's office employees except Special Deputy Tommy Black have been given a polygraph (lie detector) examination in Lubbock. The sheriff said all employees who have been given the test, including former Chief Deputy Bud Street, have been determined to be completely cleared as far West Camp family night is scheduled at the West Camp Community Center at 8 p.m. this Saturday, August 11. Host couples for the monthly game night include Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh Mason and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Hukill. as knowing anything about the missing money. Sheriff Clements said Black went to Lubbock but did not take the polygraph examination. He explained that at the time he was hospitalized on April 10, 1978, there was only one key to the vault at the law center and that key was continually in his possession. After he was hospitalized, he said that he gave the key to then Deputy Bud Street, but after he was released from the hospital, he had another key made. This second key is kept in his possession, with the chief deputy, who is currently Bob Henderson, having the other key.

According to the sheriff, no one but himself or members of his own staff have any access to the vault. No other law enforcement agency, or the dispatchers, janitorial staff, or general citizenry have access to the vault where the sheriff's office evidence and impounded items are stored. The sheriff also said that as soon as he was aware the money was found to be missing on June 28, he went before the Bailey County Commissioners Court to inform them the money was missing. However, he said he did not ask for the county to reimburse the missing bond money explaining that any funds accepted by an elected official or his representative, becomes the full responsibility of the elected official.

and borrowed $6,000 to reimburse the missing cash, but the bank issued a new cashier's check for $4,000 as the missing cashier's check has not been cashed. He said he had to put up a bond agreeing to replace the other $4,000 in the event the cashier's check is ever cashed. Although the sheriff is not allowed to drive, or ride in a car for approximately the next six weeks, due to surgery on his neck to relieve nerve pressure from ruptured discs in his spine, he said he is continuing the investigation into the loss of the money which he had to reimburse.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Mark Grimsley of Hereford, formerly of Muleshoe. Mr. and Mrs. Carol Bradshaw of Ropesville are the parents of the bridegroom.

The altar was decorated with a brass arch candelabra entwined in greenery flanked by a pair of spiral candelabra. Matching bouquets of peach gladiolas and white mums accented with yellow daisies in brass stands, completed the altar arrangements. The church pews were decorated with white bows. The focal point of the church foyer was a family bible which belonged to great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J.A. Wimberly, pioneers of Muleshoe.

David Thetford of Lubbock, cousin of the groom, sang "Wedding Song", "More" and "Wedding Prayer".

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal white gown of silk organza and lace over taffeta. The fitted bodice was characterized with a high neckline. The A-line skirt swept into a chapel length train. The dress and train were highlighted with organza ruffles defined with rows of lace. To complete her ensemble, she wore a fingertip veil trimmed with scallops of Venetian lace. Clusters of lace were scattered over the veil. The silk illusion veil and blusher were gathered to a lace covered capulet. The bride carried a full cascade of peach miniature carnations and white daisies accented with fresh greenery.

The mother of the bride wore a sea foam knit gown with white accessories. A daisy corsage with sea foam accents completed her attire.

The groom's mother wore a white chiffon dress decorated with peach rosebuds. Accenting the dress was a cape draped from the shoulder. Her gown was complimented with a corsage of peach colored daisies.

A reception followed at the church. Susan Day of Turpin, Okla., Sheila McNeese of Littlefield, Joan Grimsley of Canyon and Karen Cook of Hereford served the guests. Karen Cook registered guests in the bride's book.

The bride's three tiered wedding cake was decorated with apricot roses. The unity candelabra and the bridal bouquet centered the table. Silver appointments were used on the table.

A German chocolate cake was served on the groom's table. The bridal attendants' bouquets were used as the centerpiece. A silver coffee service was used to serve coffee.

For her traveling ensemble, the bride chose a pink knit dress with white accessories. Following a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., the couple will make their home in Ropesville.

Library News

By Anne Camp

Do-it-yourselfers can master new skills with books we have on display this month, and Americans have become enthusiastic Do-it-yourselfers.

As inflation takes a bigger bite out of the monthly budget more and more men and women will need assistance in making home improvements from fixing a dripping faucet to major remodeling projects...The libraries store of guides, manuals, and how-to books can help them develop the necessary skills, identify problem areas early and accomplish their tasks economically and safely. As you enter the library look to the right to find a number of books to help you.

We are very proud to have a number of crafts made by residents of the Muleshoe Nursing Home in the display case for this month. Joy Stancell, director furnished these items, and we hope everyone will come by and see their very fine work.

For people with limited vision, we are proud of our collection of large print books. Jerria Beasley has been busy compiling a list of all the titles and authors of our large print books, and color-coding their cards in the card catalog. This will make it much easier to locate them on the shelves.

Parks and Wildlife Department biologists found an 10-percent increase in state breeding population of mourning doves this year, however, even with the increase, the number of breeding doves will be below a 13 year mean. During spring, 1979, some 585,000 white winged doves were censused in the Rio Grande Valley counties of Cameron, Hidalgo, Starr and Willacy. This is a 30 percent increase and is the third highest number of breeding doves recorded during the past 10 years.

City council members said the littering and vandalism on private parking in the city will not be condoned by the city of Muleshoe, and said they supported the efforts of the police in deterring such activity.

The city manager said they had a letter from the agency who inspected the landfill and the letter approved the landfill, stating, "it is operated in general compliance with the law."

A request for adult swimming at the city pool was referred to pool operator Bob Graves, as the city manager explained the city already has a provision for a two hour private swimming party from 7-9 p.m. at $20.

Another request, from J.K. Adams, requesting that the city abandon to him a drainage easement 100 feet wide at the south city limits, was tabled. Since that is the tentative location of the senior citizen housing project, it was decided to wait until paper work was prepared for the project.

Wheat Thrive With Nitrogen

This past season's bumper crop of wheat may have depleted plant nutrient levels to the point where proper fertilization for the 1979-80 season deserves special attention, according to Bailey County Extension Agent Spencer Tanksley.

"Greater yields of high quality forage and grain are a major concern of producers looking forward to the next crop," says Tanksley. He said, in order to get those yields, producers will need an accurate inventory of their soil's nutrient levels in order to apply the right kinds and amounts of fertilizers.

A soil nitrogen analysis following a 60 bushel-per-acre wheat yield indicated the nitrogen level had dropped from 124 pounds per acre to 13 pounds per acre.

"Soil tests from the Extension Soil Testing Laboratory at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center near Lubbock provide a guide for making decisions on what, when and how much is needed," Tanksley adds.

"Nitrogen is the element likely to be in shortest supply. The soil's nitrate nitrogen content, which is determined by soil test, provides an excellent criteria for evaluating the nitrogen need," he explains. The rate of application should be based on nitrogen present in the soil, grazing practices, and on yield potential which is determined by water availability and cultural practices.

Tanksley says, "On hardlands, all or part of the nitrogen can be applied before planting. On sandy soils where leaching may cause nitrogen loss, part of the

Bentsen Plan To Call Wheat Set Aside

Washington, D.C. -- The Senate on Monday approved a resolution backed by Senator Lloyd Bentsen calling on the Secretary of Agriculture to establish a five percent wheat set-aside for the 1980 crop.

Bentsen cosponsored the resolution, which was approved unanimously by the Senate.

"There is concern within the agriculture community that the Secretary of Agriculture this year intends to do away with the wheat set-aside," Bentsen said.

"Such an action would be a serious mistake, causing instability in the wheat market and damaging both the consumer and wheat producer."

"I am pleased that the Senate has given unanimous approval to this resolution urging the Secretary to set a minimum wheat set-aside of five percent for the coming crop year and I would hope that the Secretary will follow our lead," Bentsen said.

"This modest set-aside will insure continued participation in the wheat program and keep production at moderate levels. It will also provide our nation with sufficient domestic reserves and allow us to meet world demand," Senator Bentsen said.

nitrogen should be applied preplant with one or more applications made later in the season."

"Insufficient phosphorus may or may not be a limiting factor and here again, the soil test can serve well," he explains. "Phosphorus, second only to nitrogen in importance, is a major contributor to the vigorous early growth that supplies first-quality forage for the beef industry."

Demonstrations recently conducted near Kress, indicated that wheat yields were increased from eight to 19 bushels per acre from phosphorus application, depending upon phosphorus rate and tillage practices.

"Phosphate, where needed, should be applied in the seedbed before planting because it does not move into the soil with water," he advised.

County Agent Tanksley points out that careful collection of soil samples and information about each operation is essential for a meaningful soil test report. Within a few days after the sample is received, a report is returned showing the actual soil test values with suggestions for using the fertilizer.

Information on sample collection, information sheets, fees, and mailing instructions are available from the county extension agent's office, concluded Tanksley.

ERA To Provide For Assistance

The U.S. Department of Energy's Economic Regulatory Administration (ERA) will provide information and assistance to operators of retail gasoline station operators concerning its recent changes of the pricing and allocation regulations.

Wayne Tucker, manager of enforcement for ERA's Southwest Division in Dallas, said station operators needing assistance may call 214/767-7754.

The Southwest Division includes Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Louisiana.

"We will do everything we can to distribute the regulation changes to retail operators," Tucker said. "However, the dealer still has the ultimate responsibility of making certain the regulations are correctly applied and that gasoline prices are at or below the maximum legal selling price. "These new regulations will be vigorously enforced, and additional personnel are being recruited to assist in our investigations to protect the consumer from illegal retail gasoline pricing or selling practices," Tucker added.
