THE ORIENTAL SQUABBLE. The Times' Berlin dispatch declares that the action of Roumania and Servia in relation to their contemplated declaration of independence will doubtless be governed by Russia, who seems willing to recognize Montenegro upon the condition that he abandon the idea of waging war against Servia and Montenegro.

REASONS OF THE DELAY. The Times, in its second edition, publishes a special dispatch dated Berlin, June 2nd, stating: "It appears that the Powers have suspended action on the Berlin memorandum for a few days, in order to allow the new Turkish government to give unmistakable indications of their policy and of their powers of maintaining themselves."

The proposition proposing the removal of the Indians to the Indian Territory was up and the bill, finally passed by 20 to 8. It authorizes the President to appoint a commission of five persons to visit the Sioux Indians as soon as possible with the view of negotiating a treaty or agreement for the cession to the U. S. of the country known as the Black Hills, and in the interests of peace. It appropriates $50,000 for the expenses.

Mr. Bayard introduced a bill to extend the time during which the settlement between the U. S. and Great Britain may be made under the act of July 27th, 1875. It proposes to extend for one year the time during which under the act of Feb. 27th, 1875, settlements may be made of accounts against the U. S. and Great Britain. The bill also provides that if no balances are found, the railroad companies shall be paid until the accounts are adjusted by the Executive Department in accordance with the existing law.

The disabilities of Frederick S. Kennedy and William R. Jones, of Texas, were removed.

The Indian Appropriation bill was resumed. Many amendments were referred to the committee by Seelye, of Mass., forbidding rations to white men living with Indian women. The treasurer of the bureau was reached. The balance of the day was spent in settling the Indian affairs that the section was not in the interest of economy, and therefore not admissible. No conclusion was reached. Adjourned.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM A WATERY GRAVE. SLAYED BY A COMRADE'S HEROISM.

The following is the correct account of the falling and drowning of one of our friends, Messrs. Peck, Sterrett, Corrier, Lory and others, who left here last Saturday and returned last night. During their trip one of their number, Mr. Sam Lory, came very near being drowned. It seems that the party had set their nets in Daugherty's lake, Kaufman county, and Messrs. Sterrett, Matt Peck and Lory got into a skiff to drive the fish toward the nets. This is done by making as much ripples as possible, splashing cars and frightening the fish in the direction desired. The party in the boat commenced operations and began to rock the boat. Tipping it too far on one side it filled and sank. Mr. Lory could not swim, and the water was fifteen or twenty feet deep. Mr. Sterrett, who is a good swimmer, immediately made for Lory to assist him, and Lory exhibited wonderful presence of mind in not attempting to cling to Mr. Sterrett, which it too often the case with persons who are unable to sustain themselves in the water, but just placed his hand on Mr. Sterrett's shoulder to keep him afloat. By this means he was saved from drowning and the incident afforded a topic of conversation around the camp fire. The party secured a number of buffalo-fish, but none of them had an antelope's head to their knowledge. All returned last night in good spirits, having evidently enjoyed the trip, barring the accident.

MIKE EGAN.—An Irishman fresh from the "old sod," standing on the platform of the Michigan Central railroad at Batey Creek, when the train came in, looked up and saw the word "Michigan" painted on the cars: "Michigan," says he, "I can't read that word." He looked at the sign again and saw the word "Michigan" painted on the cars: "Michigan," says he, "I can't read that word." He looked at the sign again and saw the word "Michigan" painted on the cars: "Michigan," says he, "I can't read that word."

THE RAILROAD.

The kernel of the Peirce railroad matter seems to us to be about this:—Mr. Peirce needs the subsidy of $300,000 from Beane county to build the road with. The party against him in San Antonio want to see the subsidy with contingent favors that when Mr. Peirce builds to San Antonio, he will have been compelled to forfeit the $300,000. This was the opinion openly expressed yesterday by several of our best informed and most influential citizens. The people of San Antonio will recollect with what earnestness, and for what length of time, the Express has fallen and winter, urged the voting of $500,000 bonds direct to Mr. Peirce. Had that been the railroad would now have been running into San Antonio. Let the people hereafter remember that the Express generally knows what it is talking about, that it is working for the interest of the city and Western Texas, and is in the interests of a fair, and then they will learn to have more confidence in our utterances than in those of interested men. We only say now, wait and watch.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE. MEXICAN NOTES. ESCOBEDO AND FALCON, THE RIO GRANDE GENERAL.

EAGLE PASS, May 23. During past revolutions, within the life time of General Escobedo and Falcon, they have conspicuously appeared as men of arms, sometimes uniting their combined skill in behalf of a common cause, but at present strong and uncompromising opponents. As your readers are aware, the former is the occupant of Matamoros as a federalist; whilst the latter annoys the government to the best of his ability in that extensive country between Piedras Negras and the capital of Coahuila. Of their relative merits as military men, a few facts comparative of the same, may be long-lived.

During the Jaimes and Diaz war these parties bifurcated the government, and made several successful campaigns in three or four of the frontier States. These two military men simultaneously, fought bravely, upheld the flag of their country, and were signally instrumental in retarding the revolutionists, who probably in this sentiment would have been successful, were it not for the superior generalship displayed. It was during the trial times of the past that General Falcon was acknowledged the better man of the two. His advice was universally received, and in a manner he was the means of Escobedo's promotion. Falcon, as the disinterested, is an excellent type of an honest conscientious Mexican. He is at present in Piedras Negras, ready for a march to the interior. Hopeful of success, he is awaiting what little estate he has, to prosecute his plans and encourage a cause he imagines right.

In the early part of this revolution, he was deputed to the City of Mexico, and evidently desirous of staying his present post, he was appointed collector of certain revenues for three States. The post was dispatched with the committee, and on his way to Falcon's hacienda was intercepted, his papers misdirected by the revolutionists, and in the meantime Falcon had pronounced against the government.

The people on either side of the river are incredulous of all they hear concerning the progress of the war. Many dispatches have been sent for political effect, and others from purely oppositional motives. The operator stationed at Edinburg was discharged for a too strong sympathy with the Diaz party.

It has been raining daily for the last week, the grass promises a fine harvest and the stock are doing excellently.

Captain Kellogg relieved Captain Hartwell of the command of Fort Duncan yesterday.

Dr. Megie is erecting a considerable house, which he proposes to advertise as a home for the sick.

Prior to the late rains the sheep from the coast and southern counties were driven up the river as they were ill-used by the severe drought. They will be taken home again as the land has been sufficiently irrigated.

Mr. W. Schuchardt, the American Consul across the river, is steadily at his post despite the revolution. He is engaged in horticultural pursuits during his leisure moments. He informs us that the great fields a few miles west of Piedras Negras are plowed, as arms have appeared the plow.

Captain Cook, the present sheriff, with his able assistant, Townsend, are giving universal satisfaction; but their work is not arduous as the community is tranquil, and a single culprit is incarcerated in the county jail.

The newly elected local Justices are Judges Dell and Stone.

The revolutionists, as they appear on the streets of Piedras Negras are not in uniform, but resemble the average Peon. To see them "too" goes in their efforts to drill, impress one that Mexican tactics instigate soldiers to "present arms" in unison, and not simultaneously.

ABOUT OUR STATE FINANCES. Disolution of Partnership.

The following facts more than justify every fear heretofore uttered in relation to Gov. Coke's management of the State finances. In its notice of the report of Hon. M. Koppert from the Finance Committee, that paper says that the final result is a deficiency which can not be constitutionally met without an increase of taxation, and in a condition of the State credit which makes it expedient, in the opinion of the committee, to appropriate the assets of the trust known as the permanent school fund by investing them in State bonds at par to the amount of about $800,000. If the latter measure is passed, the school fund, having no option in the matter, must surrender its United States securities and become the purchaser of State securities, which is a source of some of his friends may have to do to the advantage of the exchange. It will be concluded, to be sure, with a somewhat larger sum of interest. But will either the interest or the principal be as secure as before? There is the danger. The temptation will be strong to put off, if not repudiate altogether, dues to a creditor that can neither speak nor act for itself, but is wholly in the keeping of the debtor. But perhaps a plan which contemplates the appropriation of this fund to bond and untended liabilities of the State, is the best which the committee have devised. The whole budget of measures recommended by the committee, are all the result of an ingenious contrivance, not only borrowing from Peter to pay Paul, but by borrowing from one pocket of Paul to replenish another pocket of Paul—that is to say, from the pocket fund for the general fund pocket of the State. But the proposition of the committee to levy an additional tax of fifteen cents certainly evinces moral courage as well as discernment. It is the straightforward and manly way of meeting the emergency; and it is a policy that would have much better adorned the administration of Gov. Coke at the beginning than at the close."

Mr. DUGALD MCALPIN, a noted citizen of Grimes county, died last Tuesday at the age of 92. We knew him in Alabama thirty years ago. He was a Scotchman of gigantic frame, great force of character, of indomitable will, a strong sense of justice, and possessed a courage, both physical and moral, that knew nothing of fear. We have often been at his home in Wallace's Prairie, Grimes county, near Corsney, where he had a magnificent body of land of 15,000 acres, of the very best soil. He was letting it out to tenants on the easiest possible terms on long leases, when we last saw him. At the time of his death there were in cultivation upon his estate in Grimes county between seven and eight thousand acres of land, and one of the losses, Mr. Wm. Hays, had two hundred persons in his employ, or dependent upon him for support. The deceased was a thorough-going, large-hearted, unadorned, old man, and depended all upon his own energy, systematic and rigid in his business relations, but generous and kind to his relatives and those who needed aid. He wrapped up one, but aided money, and closed a long and useful life with an unclouded name. His nearest kin are three nephews; but there are many descendants of his deceased brothers in Texas and elsewhere. He lost over a hundred slaves in Alabama by emancipation, but never showed the least regret at the event. He went on improving and extending his operations, forming little communities of both black and white upon his estates. He erected, at his own expense, four buildings, two of which were used both as churches and school houses, and two for schools alone, where the races had separate accommodations.

Referring to the above, the undersigned beg leave to inform the public and their friends that they have formed a partnership under the firm name and style of SCHEIDTMAN & WULF, to carry on the business as heretofore, and shall endeavor to deserve and retain their patronage in future as well as heretofore.

L. SCHEIDTMAN, A. P. WULF, San Antonio, May 22nd, 1876. d&wtf

SUNDAY MORNING, June 4th, 1876.

Junius Smith, of North Carolina, is mentioned as a probable nominee for the Vice Presidency of the Republican ticket.

REASON MAYOR has sent us the speech of Senator Jones of Nevada in "Resumption and the Double Standard, or the Impossibility of Resuming Specie Payments in the United States without Resuming the Double Standard of Gold and Silver."

RAILROAD DAMAGES.—At the recent session of the Federal Court at Tyler, the most exciting case was that of Hough vs. the Texas and Pacific railroad, in which Hough sued the railroad for $50,000 damages for the death of his son, alleging negligence on the part of the Company.

IMPROVEMENT QUESTION DECIDED.—At 10 o'clock on the night of May 29th, after a twelve hours' session, the Senate finally reached a vote on the question of jurisdiction over the impoundment of Belknap, and has decided that it has jurisdiction by a vote of 37 to 20.

THE local editor, we believe of the Austin State Gazette was arrested on a charge of libel on the complaint of Dr. P. R. Smith, who was passing through on his way to the Centennial, and to his old home in Philadelphia. The Gazette, we believe, said some very hard things of Dr. Smith, and on the trial, the editor was bound over to answer before the District Court.

FROM SAN ANTONIO TO SAVANNAH. A few days since the Express had something to say in regard to the soliciting of the railroad line having San Antonio for its Western terminus and Savannah for its Eastern one.

CONCERNING this latter link we had written at our last writing. Now we notice that the New Orleans Times considers that the adverse decision of Justice Bradley on the claims of Mr. Charles Morgan to the New Orleans, Mobile and Texas railroad will have the effect of hastening the completion of the link between Houston and Savannah, which is only one hundred and seventy miles, and that the road will be finished under the auspices of Mr. Morgan.

THE New Orleans Times seems to think that Mr. Morgan is hostile to Galveston, and in favor of Houston. We do not think so. We believe that Mr. Morgan, in view of the vast trade now being rapidly developed in Texas, and in view of the fact that his steamship and the New Orleans railroad will meet at Houston, has determined to avail himself of both the steamship line and the railroad line for carrying this trade to New Orleans.

LETTER FROM BOERNE. BOERNE, TEXAS, June 2nd, 1876. Dear Express: The two prominent subjects of conversation here last night were the rains, "For the rain it cometh every day," and the measles. This letter cheerful visitor having proved a Boernea to the medical fraternity in San Antonio, is now creating quite a panic in this place.

THE Galveston News does not comprehend the logic of the New Orleans Times. It says that if Mr. Morgan was not solutions in behalf of the proposed Texas connection when he thought he was owner of a large part of the franchise of the road, it will not be easily understood why he should be no longer to push it to completion now that the contract has been made.
