The nomination of Shelby M. Collins for Governor of Illinois meets with great favor in that State. It is conceded on all sides that the nomination is one of the strongest that could have been made...

SPAKER KEEL, in our opinion, should be vindicated by a resolution of the Committee, to be adopted by the House, that no faith is to be placed in the statements of the witness Hays, charging him with selling an office for $500. The more we examine the matter the more we are satisfied that Congress should give a quietus to those professional and double-faced perjurers who witness against public men...

TEXAS BONDS IN DEMAND.—It appears that there are capitalists outside of the State elsewhere than on Wall Street, who have faith in Texas, and that whatever bonds the Legislature may authorize the issuance of will find ready purchasers. A prominent St. Louis firm, writing to the News, under date of May 30, 1876, says:

"We noticed an article in the News, of May, 1876, an offer made by Messrs. Foster, Ludlow & Co., providing the Legislature should issue $2,000,000 six per cent. gold bonds. If such a bill be passed and the bonds are to be sold by the State, we would like to make a bid for a portion or all of them."

The Spanish authorities in Cuba are trying to borrow $10,000,000 of English capitalists in order to continue the war to crush out the insurgents. For several years the Spanish have received over $40,000,000 per annum out of the unlucky Cubans, and more than two-thirds of this amount has regularly gone to Madrid to help the Home Government, so that the Spanish financiers in Cuba have had to find the "stewards of war" for themselves where they could. Suppose, however, that the money is borrowed on the security of the revenues, its repayment, principal and interest, will absorb the annual customs. Spain will be at a large expense in keeping garrisons in Cuba and in having the ships patrolled by vessels of war, and will, therefore, be a little worse off every year than if Cuba were allowed to become independent.

There was loud applause in the Presbyterian (General) assembly recently, when Dr. Fries announced that the union between the Northern and Southern Churches was about to be consummated, the overture recently made to the Southern Assembly having been "met in the spirit of a fraternal greeting and a Christian love." The news of the re-establishment of fraternal relations between these two long separated sections of the Presbyterian Church will be applauded by the laity as heartily as by the Brethren's assemblies. The efforts of the Methodists in the same direction, we are sorry to say, have not thus far met with such complete success. There has been a partial interchange of fraternal sentiments, but the union of the Methodist Church North and the Church South is a thing still in the indefinite future.

If the Senate proceeds with the trial of Hays, the probabilities are that the session of Congress will extend to the middle of August. To avoid such a late adjournment, it is suggested by some of the leading Democrats of the House, that the Senate defer the trial until next November. This would enable the representatives to be re-elected and would not interfere with the business of the administration for the effect of the adjournment after the session closed the House could convene in extraordinary session for the impeachment trial as they have done in the past.

THE TRUTH BRAVELY TOLD.

The Galveston News, although unimpeachably Democratic in principle and party affiliation, floods us to-day with a most abominable, sensational and untrue article, in which it attempts to represent the Galveston News as a true, independent, brave and truthful journal should be. It has the honesty and the courage to consider the possibility of the defeat of its own party in the coming Presidential election, and to hope, in that event, for the election of the best candidate of the opposite party. Instead of hoping, more selfish and unchristianlike passions of both parties are in the hands of doing, that their opponents, if successful, may have the means to appropriate the money of the country, for the good of the country, that both parties may nominate their best men, so that all may be proud of the President elected, whether successful or unsuccessful, as to the election of their party choice. Such sentiments as these, if they continue to be the inspiration of the course of the News, will give that journal a high place in the esteem and confidence of good men of all parties, which can never be reached by the clamorous journalistic whippers-in, not of their party, but of the men who happen to be in office, and who claim that their duty is the party law.

Applying the principle which we have cited above, the News says that it cannot but have pleasure in any indication of an increasing probability that the Cincinnati Convention will nominate some man who, if elected President, would be a man of high character and who would give the country an administration free from the taint of present corruption. Gov. Hayes, of Ohio, says the News, is regarded by friends who know him best as such a man, and his name seems to be gaining strength, not as an aspirant, but as eligible compromise. For example, the Milwaukee Sentinel says: "If it shall appear at Cincinnati that either Conkling, or Morton, or either of the busy B's has been nominated, who is so apt to be chosen a compromise candidate as Rutherford B. Hayes, a man without fear and without reproach, against whose character as one who has been found to breathe a lie?" A distinguished citizen and a staunch Democrat of Texas, speaking from an intimate personal acquaintance with Gov. Hayes, has recently expressed the opinion, with reference to his possible nomination, for President, that "he is the best man of the Republicans for the South and for Texas." If we admit, says the News, what many cool observers have concluded, that the chances for success in the next Presidential election are with the Republicans, what could be more stupid by more unpatriotic than for American citizens in any State, North or South, to hope for the nomination by the Republicans of some man who would represent the sectional bigotry.

The News is true enough to tell us the bare, but necessary truth when it says that "strange as it may seem, it is fear of the South that is now operating more strongly than any other force in favor of the continued ascendancy of the Republican party. The imprudence of a few Southern men has gone far towards confirming a reluctance among the masses of the more powerful section to entrust the government of the country to those and the friends of those 'who tried to break up the government of the Union.'" We say it may well seem strange that fear of the South should now be so potent an influence in the North, for the old Southern or Confederate time is, for all practical purposes, as dead as the Old Testament, and the New South, grayer, adjusting patriotism to the exigencies of the hour, hopes to see his States abolished in order that its States and their citizens may enjoy equality and justice to a common Union. But it is not more absurd for people in the North to entertain the feeling than for men in the South to deny that its existence and its potency afford conclusive reasons for wishing the best man of the Republicans as their Presidential nominee, so that, if the Republican ticket succeeds, we shall have a good President and an honest administration.

THE FUTURE GOVERNMENT has been the bone of Texas ever since the close of the war. First, we had Andy Johnson's ultra radical and revolutionary provisional State Government. Then we had the interregnum of purely military rule, which controlled our constitutional convention, made parts of the State constitution by its own authority, State election and counted in his choice for Governor, nullifying the votes of the people. Then we had the Republican administration of Gov. Davis, which, though honest and patriotic in intention, was marred by prejudice, bigotry, tyranny, and the examples of fools and scoundrels. And now we have the administration of Gov. Coke, which has been worse than all the others combined. It is a combination of deceit, humbug, gery, demagoguery, and the prostitution of party honor, and State interests as personal aggrandizement. The selfish craftiness of this political Diana of the Ephesians will yet meet their merited punishment.

COLORADO, as well as New Mexico, is fighting over the question of admission as a State into the Union. The Denver people are unanimously in favor of the admission of Colorado, but at Denver is the only city of any size in the Territory, the Denver vote will not go very far towards solving the admission question, while the ruralists and the Mexicans have the idea that no part of Colorado had Denver will be helped in any manner by the change, and are unanimously against it.

Mr. BLAINE'S great speech in the House day before yesterday.

Mr. BLAINE'S great speech in the House day before yesterday, in explanation and vindication of his course in refusing to lead back to the gallows his private correspondence, and the threat of the latter to publish it was the most stirring political event ever known in the history of the country. And to the climax of courage, and to complete the perfection of his victory, he actually read to the House the very correspondence he had taken from the hands of strategy, and which he had refused to allow the committee of investigation to read. This removes all mystery, and takes the wind out of the sails of criticism. The importance of this stirring episode is increased by the fact that the last speech was made upon him without notice just after he had, as he thought, vindicated himself against every charge, and just before the meeting of the Republican National Convention. He is the leading candidate for nomination to the Presidency. He has been in every way so far, and it is too late to get up another investigation to overthrow him. He is a masterful man, and it seems to be master of the situation. It seems that this last victory will win him the victory at Cincinnati.

Mr. FAIRBANKS should do one thing for San Antonio immediately, and that is, to see his letter to the Galveston News, so that we can get the mail in the evening time for business men to answer that night and read copy next morning, and also in time for a morning newspaper to avail itself of the evening exchanges and correspondence in the time of the next morning. The way the mails now reach us, our exchanges and correspondence, getting here late at night, cannot be read until the second issue of the Express after their arrival. This is intolerable and outrageous. It is a damage that cannot be estimated except by newspaper men. When the trains run to the Galveston, and the stages reach here by or before night, the cream of the news will be found in the next morning's Express.

GRASSHOPPERS created quite a sensation in Western Texas in the early part of the present year, and much apprehension was felt as to the damage they might do to the young crops in the spring. But of late we have heard nothing of them. We have no more fear of grasshoppers in Western Texas as a permanently periodical evil than we have of yellow fever.

The Houston reporter of the News has a visit to the Machine and Car Manufacturing Shops of the Houston and Texas Central Railway, located in the western suburbs of Houston, to witness the process of practically adopting engines and cars to the new gauge by September, to be adapted on the Central from Houston to Houston, a distance of 100 miles.

THE NEW GAUGE. The new gauge on the Central between the points indicated is to be four feet eight and a half inches, the average railroad gauge all over the United States, and the same with the International and Great North and Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio Railways. The work preparatory to the change has already begun on section 1, that nearest Houston, by driving spikes into every alternate tie, the spikes resembling a black line a few inches inside the rail on the east side of the track. The present gauge from Houston down is five feet six inches, the remainder of the line from Houston to Denison, as is well known, having been already conforming to the average gauge.

ADAPTING THE ENGINES. Preparatory to the change which occurs before September, a majority of the engines of the Central their total number being sixty-seven, are being remodeled to suit the new track. The process, which can be seen any day at the shops of the Central, including, of course, the shortening of the axles, and the general "closing in" of the machinery of the locomotive. The cost of adapting an engine to the new order of things is about $300.

CHANGING THE TRACKS. At the car works of the Central, a short distance westward of those already mentioned, may be seen the process of changing the tracks of cars to fit the four foot eight and a half inch gauge. By a new and improved piece of machinery the axle is shortened and again adjusted to the wheels. The work was begun about two weeks ago, and already some forty-five cars have been adapted to the gauge already existing between Houston and Denison. The remodeled trucks for four-cars are every evening shipped to Houston, and many trucks are received from the same place to undergo "closing in" at the shops. The adaptation of the new gauge is about $22 per car, and a majority of all the cars belonging to the H. and T. C. R. Co., some 450 in number, will have to be changed.

HOW IT IS TO BE EFFECTED. The entire length of the gauge from Houston to Houston will be changed within 24 hours of the commencement of the undertaking, which will be simultaneously conducted by a large number of men and experts distributed along the entire line. It will be done on a Sunday, and with such little interruption to business as not to interfere with the trains, which will run on their regular schedule time.

WHEN EXPECTED. The H. & T. C., the G., H. & S. A., I. & G. N., Morgan's transfer road, the Sims Bayou to Houston, and the G., H. & M. Railway will all have the same gauge—the last mentioned road being also in a state of preparation for change of gauge.

NO BREAK OR BULK ANY MORE. When the work is completed on the Central and Galveston, Houston and Henderson Roads, the necessary for breaking bulk at Houston will have passed away, and cars laden on the wharves at Galveston and directed beside the ships of the sea, can go through to Chicago, St. Louis, San Francisco, or any railroad point in the New West, without trouble or interruption.

PROBABLE RESULT. It is the opinion of prominent railroad men that a uniformity of gauge such as is about to be established from Galveston, the natural port of the New West, and the natural starting point for rail transportation to our great interior, connecting that respect more securely with the New West, will have before a great while the result of bringing both the Central and International and Great Northern to center in Galveston, their natural starting point, anyhow. And it is asserted by gentlemen entirely competent to judge, that the only thing lacking to bring these two roads to the rising city of the Gulf, is free warpage within her limits. This obtained there is thought to be little doubt but that each would run trucks down to the Island City and their establish their headquarters. The stock in both companies is now chiefly owned and controlled by Northern men, who are under no obligations to any one place more than any other in Texas, whose desire is to clear as large a per cent, as possible of investments, and who will most assuredly extend their line to whatever point it suits them and their views.

"DUNTING" THE SHEP CHANDEL. Of course, should the railroads extend their lines past Houston to Galveston and then obtain free warpage, it is asserted by men here who know the ship channel on which Houstonians, under the auspices of Mr. Charles Morgan, so religiously and enthusiastically "bank" will be "busted" higher than a kite and the wind taken out of its sails.

The question of the admission of New Mexico to the list of States, says the Globe Democrat, is still exciting much feeling, both in Washington, where the measure is being discussed, and in New Mexico, the inhabitants of which are to be affected by the change. The general feeling in regard to the matter there is indifference among the Mexicans and opposition among the English people. The last Legislature contained but six members who could speak English, which gives an unfortunate forbidding of the efficiency of the future Representatives and Senators.

Miscellaneous. WHAT IS QUEEN'S DELIGHT?

It is a plant that grows in the South and is the only actual blood purifier ever discovered, by which all diseases that centre in the blood can be eradicated at once and forever. It is made for all Scrofulous, Syphilitic, Cutaneous and Rheumatic affections, and is the only true remedy for this class of diseases. Alone, it is a powerful stimulant, but when combined with Hood's Serravallo's Yellow Bile and other roots and herbs, it becomes a blood purifier unsurpassable and unexcelled. Such is the combination of the QUEEN'S DELIGHT, SERRAVALLO'S AND QUEEN'S DELIGHT.

Its value cannot be too strongly impressed upon the attention of those who have been exposed to a fatal of impure character. The afflicted are assured that this is not one of the worthless nostrums of the day, but is prepared upon scientific principles, by a physician of thirty years' experience, such as every one knows.
