The rapid increase in these parts of that class of human beings fermed tramps, calls for a strict enforcement of the vagrant law. The tramp is an elimination from ordinary industrial life, a fungus, an exe rescence, seeking his bread and whisky wherever it can be obtained without hard labor. A writer in the Mercantile Journa remarks that if he is simply a fungus, a parasitic, and, perhaps, poisonous excres-cence, he ought to be destroyed, but if he s a legitimate product of our society organization, it is our cuty to care for him, and by proper surveillace, utilize the wealth of much and more or less trained

The fandamental principles of morality, whose spirit in the basis of justice in man's dealings with his fellow-man, lend as to recoil from energing into practice the former view, but the requirements of humanity—self protection, protection of ociety, life and property-demand that

A gentleman informs us that while on his war to San Antonio, and near Houston, the other day, he passed a perfect hords of tramps bound hitherward. These nomads had heard of the railroad and other public works progressing here, and were on their way to find occupation. When they secure a situation, they will not keep it, for their vicious propensities and dissipated habits soon throw them out of employment, and to beggars, as is were, at the mercy of the world. The fact that they make no effort to reform their ways, entitles them to nothing, better than the cold treatment they generally need with. Now and then, young n en of noble characteristics fall in with tramps, and roam he country, but upon opportunity to better their condition take advantage of the direcumstances. Hence there are seldom to be found, within the ranks of tramps, men who would make good citizens and whose presence in or about a city is

- EVER TOOK PLACE.

[From the Lexington (Ky.) Banner] The very largest congregation that ever assembled in any church in Lexington came together on Monday, January 1, at the Main Street Christian Church, to witness the marriage of Dr. Joseph G. Chinn and Mrs. Catherine Lawson, the former of this city, and the latter of Fayette County. The respective ages of the high contracting parties made it one of the most extraordipary marriages that was ever solemnized. The groom was of the ripe but modiest age of eighty years, and looked as vigorous as most men of sixty. The lady will be ninety years of age on the 1st day of May next. 'Dr. Chinu was a soldier of the war of 1812. He enlisted when about thirteen years of age, but owing to an accident, by which he was severely wounded in the foot, he did not go out until the next year, but served with credit until the close of the war. This is his third marriage, but in all probability he may survive it many years. Mrs. Lawson was born in Virginia, but was brought by her parents to Kentucky in early life. When but sixteen she was addressed by Mr. David Lawson, and be: came engaged to him, but with rare good sense refused to marry him until he had secured sufficient for their mutual support. He left im-mediately for the South, where he ber to have heard of.

The Liverpool Diworce Court has pow before it a sensational case in high life, that of Roberts ys. Roberts and Trengrove. This was the petition of the husband, who is a country gentleman and Justice of the Peace, for a dissolution of his marriage on the ground of the adultery of his wife, Emina Roberts, with the co respondent, who was formerly a Captain Williams of the 9th Lancers. Both the respondent and co-respondent filed answers denying the adultery, and Mrs. Roberts asked for a dissolution of per muniage, alleging that her husband had been unfaithful to her, and that he had also been guilty of cruelty. It appeared that the par tles to the suit were married at St John's Charch, Treval, Cornwail, in 1863. At that time the petitioner was a widower, and the respondent was stated to have been a woman of fascinating manners and good appearance, and a lady of good position. There were two children is smed of the marriage, aged respectively ten and twelve years. The correspondent was originally Capt. Williams, of the 9th Lancers, but he had since changed his name, and he was a son of a friend and neighor of the petitioner. On one oc casion the respondent was out of temper, and besides being very fas-cinating she could be just the re-verse, and threw a bundle of papers at her husband. She came home late at night, and when the petition er spoke to her about it she said she would never room with him again. In the morning, however, there was an apparent reconciliation, and the petitioner went out to perform some magisterial duties. It would be proved that during the absence of the petitioner from home his wife was frequently visited by Capt. Williams, and they were to. gether in London.

Mrs. Emma Roberts denied on oath that there had been criminal intimaay between her and the co. respondent. She also alleged that band was guilty of violence to her. Capt. Trengrove was at the house during the petioner's absence, but there was not the slightest impropriety between them. In cross examina tion the witness admitted that, after the separation, she and Capt. Trengrove lived under the same roof. They then went out together occasionally, and their bills were made out together. There was a common purse thus far, that she had no money, and Trengrove paid her bills un til she received money, and then she paid him back. She could not say in whose name the bills were made out. She did not go to relatives in London, as they were always at the same thing-urging her to return to A her husband.
